Fine Pledges Economy In State Government

—Harrisburg—

John S. Fine assumed the governorship of Pennsylvania Tuesday with a demand for spartan living and a pledge of "the most rigid economies in government" for all purposes except defense and human needs.

There nevertheless will be new taxes or addition to existing taxes.

There is no escape under present conditions, Governor Fine said.

Mr. Fine took the oath of office at 12:06 p. m. on a flag-draped stand that actually shook in cold blasts of wind that hit it from the north.

A crowd of some 7,000 men and women, small in comparison with expectations, stood with coat collars turned up and hats pulled tightly on for the ceremony that lasted almost two hours.

With the new governor on the dias were Mrs. Fine and their two sons, John, 10, and Donald, 7. Flanking them were Senator-elect James H. Duff, whose term as governor ended when Fine was sworn in; Mrs. Duff, Senator Edward Martin, Superior Court Judge Blair F. Gunther of Pittsburgh, and other state officials and intimate friends.

Governor Fine declared:

"We will, and must, endure endless restrictions so that we and others may remain free. We face a temporary end to luxuries, a curtailment of necessities to a minimum."

He asked for support from both parties.

"Our position today and the position of those who join with us is precarious, but far from despairing," the governor said. "We are at war and our nation is in the beginning of a war economy. More and more restrictive measures, harnessing industry and individual alike, are inevitable."

Governor Fine said that much of the energy of his administration will be devoted to the establishment of a strong civil defense system. He said the Civil Defense Commission, which he announced a sound beginning, and that Pennsylvania is better prepared now than most of the other states.

Fine pledged to continue to improve the school system of Pennsylvania. He counted it a necessity to meet increased costs of education because "we cannot afford to do otherwise."

Previously Lloyd H. Wood of Montgomery County, had been sworn in as lieutenant governor in the Senate.

Former Governor Duff will take the oath as junior U. S. Senator in Washington today.

Way Opened For Men to Enlist

—Washington—

President Truman opened a way Monday for men 18 through 25 to volunteer for a 21-month hitch in the army.

Regular enlistments are for longer periods, and until issuance of the presidential order changing the draft regulations, men eligible for the draft were not able to volunteer for the shorter term of army service.

Other developments: Officers at the Pentagon said the army will have a strength equal to 24 combat divisions by summer.

Senators were told the armed forces soon will resume the World War II practice of accepting for limited service some men who are unable to pass the physical and mental tests required for combat duty.

The defense department disclosed it is preparing to ask Congress to provide "hazard pay" for soldiers and Marines serving in Korea.

Vandenberg Visits Front

—An Allied Outpost in Korea—

General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, U. S. Air Force chief of staff, piloted a helicopter down through the jagged hills ringing this central Korean frontline Tuesday.

With him were Lieutenant General George E. Stratemeyer, commander of Far East Air Forces and Major General Truman H. Landon, chief of the Air Force training program.

On their inspection tour Vandenberg in particular wanted to see at first hand the damage inflicted by fighters and bombers giving close support to UN front-line troops.

Dr. Stewart Addresses Parent-Teachers

Dr. Paul R. Stewart, president of Waynesburg College, gave an interesting address Monday night at the Waynesburg Parent-Teacher Association meeting. His subject was "Four Sets of Teachers: Home, Playmates, School and Community." About fifty members were present. In the absence of the president, John E. Baily, the vice president, A. J. Marion, presided.

Colonel Faddis Addresses On-the-Farm Trainees

Colonel Charles I. Faddis, veteran of both World Wars, and former Congressman, speaking at the third annual commencement for Veterans-on-the-Farm Training program in Center Township High School, Wednesday night, declared "The Communist threat of world domination must be met by all the free peoples of the world. By force of world events the sword of leadership has been thrust into our hands. We must assume that leadership."

Forty trainees were granted their certificates. Discussing "The Present International Situation," Colonel Faddis, who was introduced by Attorney J. Wood Williamson, said:

"We had it in our undisputed and unchallengeable power to so direct the settlement of World War II that justice would have been dealt to all nations in such manner as to insure peace to the world for many years to come.

"Unfortunately, however," he continued, "the very seat of government of this nation had, under the cloak of so-called liberalism, been infiltrated by those working in the interest of Soviet Russia, to such an extent that they were able to bring about a repudiation of our promises while the war was still in progress. In the most perfidious chapter of our national history we sold out Poland, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, China, Korea and Yugoslavia, and in return received absolutely nothing from Russia—not even broken promises. In addition we furnished Russia, an unknown, but tremendous, amount of material, none of which we were allowed any check whatsoever upon, and very little of which was ever put to any active military use. Then, against the advice of the best military leaders, the Russians were allowed to overtake American troops and occupy Berlin. Of the resultant consequences and the necessary air lift we are all aware."

Continuing, Colonel Faddis said: "Certainly our diplomatic blunders have been too perfect to be the result of bad guessing. The State Department has had altogether too much freedom in its dealings since 1940. "New we have the Korean affair. All we can do is eventually evacuate our forces with nothing to show for the valor and death of our soldiers except heavy losses to the enemy to whom loss of life means nothing at all. "European nations are floundering in socialism and communitism. And we must reckon upon the weakness of democracy as well as upon its strength. "All bickering, political jockeying, waste, extravagance and inefficiency in Washington must come to a speedy end. All selfishness, hoarding and profiteering should be curbed with an iron hand, and racketeering leaders of organized labor should not be allowed to lead their following into disastrous strikes for their own aggrandizement. "We must face this crisis as we have all those in the past. We must face it with all the courage, vision and faith in ourselves, without any thought but that of victory, and with a firm determination to preserve this nation and its free institutions at whatever cost."

Jets Hop 989 Miles In Only 110 Minutes

—Quonset Point, R. I.—

Two jet fighters set a new speed record between Jacksonville, Fla., and the Naval Air Station here.

The planes are F9F carrier-based Grumman "Panther Cats," the newest type navy fighter now being used in Korea, an air station spokesman said. They were piloted by Lt. Dixie Mays of Fallsdale, Miss., and Lt. Percy L. Liles of Goldsboro, N. C.

They flew the 989 miles in 1 hour and 50 minutes, averaging 536 miles an hour. The previous record, made by the same type of plane, was 2 hours and 20 minutes. The two made no attempt to set a speed record but had the assistance of a strong tail wind, officers said.

'Must Stand Together for Freedom', Eisenhower Says

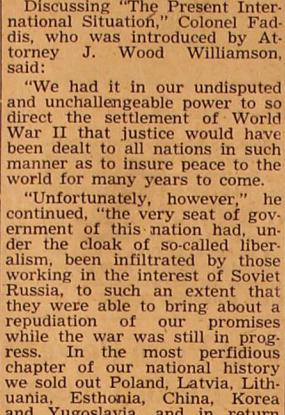

Western European Defense Commander General Dwight D. Eisenhower declared Tuesday that "the only way the free world can defend itself successfully is for the free world to stand together."

Winding up his initial talks with British officials on a program to defend the Western continent against Communist aggression, the American military leader said at a news conference.

"I do not believe any one country, no matter how strong, can afford to pull off and go by itself."

The statement by Eisenhower was viewed as an indirect answer to the recent plea by former President Herbert Hoover and others that the United States quit Europe and concentrate its attention to building up Western Hemisphere defenses.

In reply to a question on whether he thought the absence of the Irish Republic would weaken the defense of the At-

W. D. Cotterrel Dies; Banker and Civic Leader

William D. Cotterrel, 79 years, widely known banker and civic leader, died Sunday morning, January 14, 1951, at 9 o'clock, in his home in Drexel Hill, Philadelphia. Mr. Cotterrel had been ill for some time.

He was a son of the late John and Mary H. Cotterrel and was born at Jefferson, Greene County, November 25, 1871. He graduated from Waynesburg College in 1896. He read law in office of R. F. Downey and was admitted to practice in Greene County and to the Appellate Court of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Cotterrel became interested in banking business and in 1897 organized the Peoples National Bank in Waynesburg and served as cashier until 1901, when with R. F. Downey of Waynesburg, John W. Donnan and M. C. Treat of Washington, the Union Deposit and Trust Company was organized and he served as cashier until he was elected president when Mr. Downey retired.

Mr. Cotterrel was actively identified with civic interests in order to advance the community and add to its welfare. For a number of years he served as president of the board of trustees of Pennsylvania Training School at Morgantown.

In 1928, Mr. Cotterrel moved to Northside, Pittsburgh, having been elected president of the Dollar Savings and Trust Company there and on merger of that bank with Peoples Pittsburgh Trust Company, he became a vice president of that institution. In 1935, Mr. Cotterrel resigned his position with the bank and moved to Drexel Hill, Philadelphia. He at once became identified with the political affairs of Delaware County and took an active part in many of the civic affairs of his community. He was a member of the Board of Trustees and treasurer of the Glen Mills Schools and also member of the Board of Sellers Memorial Library.

Surviving are his wife, Nancy Scott Cotterrel of Drexel Hill; and a brother, Joseph Cotterrel of Los Angeles, California. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon in the Weaver Funeral Home in Waynesburg, conducted by Dr. David R. Bluhm and Dr. Paul R. Stewart. Interment in Green Mount Cemetery.

Winters Aren't Quite So Hard

If you have been telling your grandchildren that it was colder when you were a boy, the chances are you were right, according to a report of the Smithsonian Institution on the heat of the sun.

Observations made at the Smithsonian's astrophysical observatory station on the summit of Mount Montezuma in Chile indicate that the sun's heat has increased one-fourth of one per cent during the past 20 years.

While the increase is slight, the Smithsonian's scientists say that, considered with other evidence of climatic changes in various localities over the earth, it indicates average temperatures have increased somewhat over the past century, with an accelerated increase in the recent past.

Republican Receives Honorable Mention
The Waynesburg Republican was one of two weekly newspapers in Pennsylvania to receive honorable mention in a nation-wide "Get-Out-the-Vote" contest, conducted by the American Press Association. The Meyersdale Republican was the other weekly honorably mentioned.
We are gratified to know that our efforts in the recent gubernatorial race were recognized and with, we hope, pardonable pride will take a modicum of credit for Waynesburg going Republican for the first time in a number of years.

Medical Society Discusses 'Common Cold'

The Greene County Medical Society discussed, "The Common Cold and Its Treatment," at the meeting Friday night in Greene County Memorial Hospital.

Dr. D. R. Jacobs, president, read a paper which he had written on the subject and which was published recently in "Postgraduate Medicine."

Dr. Jacobs said: "Controlled studies of products now appearing on the market reveal that many of them make claims regarding treatment of the common cold which are not justified by valid evidence. The common cold cannot be cured by extravagant and irresponsible claims in behalf of antihistamines. No substance or combination of substances currently available can be relied on to prevent or cure the common cold."

"The most sane and effective measure against colds and one which has stood the rigid tests of time is rest in bed, particularly if fever is present."

Dr. C. Leonard O'Connell in discussing a case of influenza similar to the type which caused a national epidemic in 1918-19, stated that many early symptoms are like those of the common cold. He also recommended rest in bed.

New Flanking Drive by Reds Is Expected

—Tokyo—

Red vanguards began probing U. S. Eighth army positions in South Korea's vital corridor and a United Nation's military spokesman in the central area indicated a new enemy flanking drive was expected.

Superiorly blasted three major Communist transport centers as they paced Allied air strikes at enemy troops, arteries and supply bases all the way up to Manchuria's Yalu river border.

The incessant aerial punches were coordinated with tank-led U. N. ground patrol thrusts designed to keep huge Red invasion forces off balance.

But a Wednesday night communique from the Eighth army's field headquarters disclosed that advance units of some 90,000 Chinese Red troops, massed below Seoul, started jabbing toward U. N. lines during the day.

The bulletin told of "minor" patrol actions by "small enemy groups" in the west sector where American troops Tuesday had hurled the Chinese out of Suwon, 17 air miles south of Seoul, the Communist-held capital.

No enemy action was reported Wednesday from the central or east sectors.

Thieves Cart Off 600-Pound Safe

Thieves broke through a window in the front door of the Headlee Lumber Company at Dilliner and carried off a 600-pound safe which contained $15 Saturday night or Sunday morning. The Ritz Amoco Service Station, located on Route 88 near the Maple town-Greensboro crossroads, was entered about the same time and approximately $40 worth of merchandise was stolen. Police believe both burglaries were committed by the same party.

Waynesburg College Given Bequest from Dr. Whittles

A bequest approximating $8,700 to Waynesburg College is included in the will of the late Dr. Thomas D. Whittles, noted Presbyterian minister and author who graduated in the class of 1896. He resided in Carlton, Minn.

The bequest is 244 shares of stock of the Westinghouse Electric Corporation and the will directs that income from the bequest be used for the education of pre-ministerial students who plan to enter the ministry of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A.

In announcing the bequest President Paul R. Stewart of the college said: "This gift is particularly acceptable now because of the increasing number of young men at the college who are entering the ministry, especially under auspices of the Presbyterian Church."

"This increase is partly due to the achievement of the Student Service Project on our campus and also because of the great need for chaplains and other ministers in the coming emergency."

"Dr. Whittles was one of the great friends of the college. Previously he had given to the college one of its finest mineral collections. He established the T. D. Whittles Room in the gymnasium which has been designated as a quarters for the Whittles and other collections. When the new library and museum building is completed the room will be used as a physical education classroom."

Dr. Stewart said that Dr. Whittles and his wife, the late Neontta Iarns Whittles, of Waynesburg, also established a room in the new women's dormitory.

Dr. Stewart recalled that Dr. Whittles was a member of one of the outstanding classes graduated from the college.

"The class of 1896," said Dr. Stewart, "holds the distinction of having the largest number of its members enter the ministry of (Continued on Page Eight)

The navy has announced that it will order 47,000 enlisted reservists to active duty during April, May and June. The revised three-month quota is 32,000 more than the navy said last month would be added.

Germany, Key To World Peace, Journalist Says

John C. Metcalfe, Washington correspondent, declared that Germany is the key to world peace, in a lecture at Waynesburg college Monday night, under the auspices of the college lecture bureau.

"We cannot let Russia get control of Germany," he warned, "because if it does it will turn its industrial power against us. It is the industrial heart of Europe and there is nothing like it in the Far East."

Mr. Metcalfe also cautioned that Germany cannot be allowed to become a strong nationalistic because "they will strike third time in an effort for world domination." He said there is still deep hatred in Germany and the people are grimly determined to "come back." He said France, Russia and even Norway fear German rearmament.

Earlier Mr. Metcalfe discussed the world situation in an appearance before the Waynesburg Rotary club. He said "we are faced with the most atheistic force ever loosed on earth. Every religion on earth is threatened, as is our very civilization."

The lecturer said America is paying dearly for a number of "colossal blunders," among them failure to invade Europe through the Balkans, diplomatic agreements allowing Russia to control the Balkans, the arbitrary division of Korea at the 38th parallel, and diplomatic failures in China.

Equitable Asks to Take Over Subsidiary

—Washington—

The Equitable Gas Company, Pittsburgh, has asked the Power Commission authority to acquire the natural gas facilities of its subsidiary Pittsburgh and West Virginia Gas Company.

The two Pittsburgh concerns joined in requesting the authorization. The gas facilities are interconnected and integrated, and operated as a part of the Equitable Gas system.

While Pittsburgh's operations are confined to West Virginia, those of Equitable are limited to Pennsylvania. The two companies are served, chiefly in the Pittsburgh area.

No Gasoline Ration Seen

—Washington—

Government spokesmen said Monday there is no immediate need to ration gasoline although high octane gasoline in coast areas will be limited soon.

The forecast was made by Bruce K. Brown, deputy petroleum administrator, who said that demands for petroleum products this year will be one-third greater than in 1945—the peak year of World War II.

Brown said the reduction in the quality of motor gasoline in coast areas "will not affect engine performance on most automobiles and will work no real hardship on anyone."

W. Va. Youths Die As Car Goes Over Bank

Robert Cumberland, 22 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Cumberland of Wadestown, W. Va., and Jack McMasters, 24 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brice McMasters, also of Wadestown, were killed early Sunday morning when their auto plunged over a 15-foot embankment near Burton on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks along U. S. Route 250, a quarter of a mile from Burton. The youths were pinned in the wreckage which burst into flames apparently from a short circuit in wiring. McMasters worked in a restaurant operated by his mother. Both were World War II veterans, Cumberland serving in the Navy and McMasters in the Army. Cumberland has a brother, Harold in Martinsburg, Va., and a sister, Alice at home.

'The Tenmile Country and Its Pioneer Families'

JONATHAN HOGE, Esq.

Another Hoge Family was identified with the Tenmile Country, but as far as can be discovered, was not related to the Quaker family of the same name. Jonathan Hoge, Esq., was a brother of David Hoge, founder of Washington, Pennsylvania. This family came from Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, where David Hoge was sheriff from 1768 to 1770. It is not certain that Jonathan Hoge came to the Tenmile, but on March 10, 1786, he had warranted to him a tract of land on Robinson's Run under the title of "Rich Bottom." He died intestate about 1801-02, and his land described as being in Cumberland Township, was divided among his heirs. (Deed Book 2, pp. 32.) He is mentioned in Crumrine's History of Washington County, in connection with his son-in-law David Redick, prominent in civil history of that County. (pp. 479.) Jonathan Hoge was a member of the Committee of Observation for Cumberland County. (Penna. Arch. Series V., Vol. 6, pp. 4.)

She later secured a patent to land next to Stephen Harris and one arm removed from that of William Hoge. In 1821, when five of his children were yet minors, guardians were appointed for them. (O. C. Docket 1, pp. 167.) A complete list of children of Anthony and Mary Doty is found in the Orphans Court settlement of his estate.

THE ANTHONY SMITH FAMILY

According to Bates, this family came from New Jersey in 1793, and belonged to the Friends Society. The Smith Bible owned by S. M. He settled near Jefferson, Greene County, and later bought land from Captain James Hook in the vicinity of the present Children's Home. Anthony Smith died here in 1809-10 and his will was probated January 29, 1810. (Will Book 1, pp. 83.) His wife was Lydia Willis according to Mrs. Harvey Pratt, and she was born January 16, 1726. Nitrogen From Air Grows Crops

Giant Ohio Nitrogen Chemical Plant Produces Fertilizer Nitrogen

South Point, O.—Ohio air now grows sugar in Cuba, oranges in Florida, watermelons in Georgia, cotton in Alabama, tobacco in Kentucky, wheat in Indiana, corn in Iowa, apples in Michigan, potatoes in Maine and grain in Canada. In fact, the nitrogen from Ohio air is used as fertilizer to grow almost every kind of crop in the eastern half of the U.S.

One of the largest nitrogen plants in the country is located on the Ohio River at South Point, Ohio. Through chemical magic, this giant plant, owned and operated by the Solvay Process Division, Allied Chemical & Dye Corporation, extracts nitrogen from the air and combines it with other elements to make Barrett Nitrogen Solutions, used in the manufacture of complete fertilizers; Barrett Urea Fertilizer Products; and other forms of Barrett Nitrogen so useful to agriculture and industry. The rated production capacity of this industrial giant is over 500 tons of actual nitrogen daily—enough fertilizer nitrogen to grow one-half million bushels of corn!

The South Point plant, which has helped to make America independent of foreign sources of nitrogen, is strategically located to effectively serve expanding nitrogen fertilizer needs in the Midwest and surrounding territory.

WILLIAM PEW FAMILY

The application for a pension, made September 20, 1825, by William Pew of Greene County, Pennsylvania, states that he enlisted as a private in the Fall of 1776, for period of one year in Captain Smock's Company of Colonel Samuel Foreman's Regiment of New Jersey. He was in the Battle of Germantown, after which he was taken prisoner by the British and held for nine months. He was then exchanged and returned to New Jersey, where he continued in the service until the Fall of 1778, when he was discharged at Morristown. His wife made application after her husband's death and added the information that William Pew had served after 1778, in a number of skirmishes under Captain Jonathan Pears and performed coast guard duty. William Pew stated that he had thirty acres of land in Greene County, Pennsylvania, having moved there before 1792. (Pension Application National Archives W. 2847 Continental N. J.)

With the application of his widow for pension after the death of her husband went a very complete Bible record of the family of William Pew. William Pew was born April 28, 1755, and died at James Wood's house in Greene County, March 11, 1841. He married December 21, 1780, in New Jersey, Alice Pears, who was born August 17, 1755. She died after 1844, when she was living in James Wood's house in Waynesburg. William Pew left a will, probated in Greene County on March 15, 1841. (Will Book 1, pp. 137.)

NATHANIEL TEMPLE

Another prominent Quaker, but of the Muddy Creek Group of this denomination, was Nathaniel Temple, who was born in Ewing, New Jersey, in 1747, and died in Greene County in 1842. Pennsylvania Home Unfulfilled Wish Of John Paul Jones

—Harrisburg—

Henry W. Shoemaker, President of the Pennsylvania Folklore Society, State Museum, Harrisburg, said the current search by antiquarians for the original of the Houdon Bust of Admiral John Paul Jones which the Revolutionary Naval hero presented to Pennsylvania patriot, Robert Morris, renews interest in this extraordinary naval warrior who desired to spend his last days in Pennsylvania.

Shoemaker tells the following account of John Paul Jones' life: Born on the Scottish coast, the son of Lord Selkirk's gardener, he started as a cabin boy, but through sheer genius rose to the highest fame being called by General Horace Porter, the "peasant boy who burst the bonds of caste."

Gradually rising to the rank of First mate on a privateer which cruised the Spanish West Indies, he was wrecked off Cape Hatteras and clinging to a chicken crate, was washed ashore. Sitting disconsolately on the crate, he was approached by Willy Jones, a wealthy Virginia planter, who was impressed by the boy's superior looks and manner, even in that bedraggled condition, invited him to his home, made him his secretary, and later adopted him, the lad adding the name Jones to that of Paul and known thereafter as John Paul Jones.

His benefactor had died when the Revolutionary War broke out and Jones enlisted under the name of Paul Jones. Advancement was difficult without family or political influence, but he finally secured the command of the ship "America" but as an ally of France he was put, through Benjamin Franklin's influence, in command of the "Bon Homme Richard," named in honor of Franklin and his character, "Poor Richard."

Off Flamborough Head he encountered the British flagship Serapis, when the harvest moon rose on the night of September 23, 1779, when was fought the memorable moonlight battle, in which Jones was completely victorious. The Serapis, a larger vessel, sought to ram the Bon Homme, to prevent this, Jones in person tied the hawser of his ship to the bow sprit of the Serapis, around his own mizzen mast and the fight began at 7:00 P. M. The British force attempted to board Jones' vessel, but the Admiral armed with a pike, forced them back and they retreated telling their Admiral there were huge reserves on board the Bon Homme Richard.

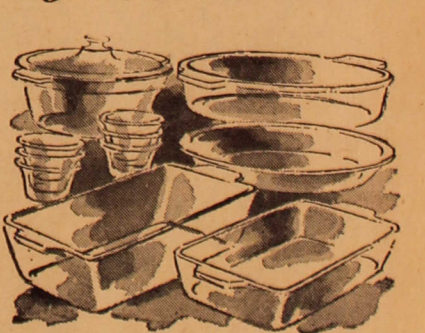

The shooting continued and the entire cabin space of the Serapis was shot away and flames issued from the hold, causing Jones to cut loose from the Serapis, which in a sinking condition, surrendered to Jones at 11:00 P. M. under the light of the golden moon. The cannons on the three British ships numbered 76 and on the three Franco-American vessels, 390 but every shot directed by Admiral Jones hit the mark. On another French ship was the Admiral Pierre Landis, who outranked Jones and desiring the little Scotchman, especially felt that he should have been in command, and it is said that after the surrender of the "Serapis," he fired shots to disable and sink the "Bon Homme Richard" so she could not make port.

Later, in Paris, where Jones became the hero of the hour, he met the beautiful, dark Lady Marcia Leventhal, wife of Sir Otto Sutro Leventhal, said to be in France to compile records of French commerce, but in reality a secret British Agent. There suddenly kindled a spark of congeniality and affection between this tall, slender, lovely lady and the victorious sea-fighter, who personally won one of the most decisive battles in naval history, and he saw her every day, giving her his medals and decorations and other valuable gifts and mementos.

When Horace Porter, son of Governor of Pennsylvania David Rittenhouse Porter, was American Ambassador at Paris, he started a search for Jones' body, eventually finding it in and identifying it by his U. S. Naval measurements and autopsy. Brought to America on a battleship, the remains were interred in a marble vault under the dome of the chapel at Annapolis, in an impressive ceremony, the presiding officer being President Theodore Roosevelt.

Thus the remains of a great man who desired to become a Pennsylvania citizen were attended and brought back to American soil by one of Pennsylvania's leading sons, Horace Porter, chief of staff of General U. S. Grant, in the Civil War, and for nine years American Ambassador to France to the lasting glory of Pennsylvania folklore and history.

Dairy Barn Needs Planned Wiring

Here Are Hints on Speeding Up Farm Chores

Designed, Wired and Equipped for Top Dairy Operations

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

Dairy farming is one of agriculture's hardest, as well as one of its most profitable operations. Its many and varied chores can not be rushed without upsetting the desired objective—the production of high quality milk. To help speed up the performance of these chores, and at the same time put them on a less time and labor consuming basis represents a big challenge. Much, however, has been done to assist dairymen—and more will be accomplished later—through the use of electrical equipment and properly designed buildings.

The above sketch will provide some idea of the progress being made. For here we see a dairy barn which is adequately wired, equipped, lighted and planned for top efficiency. Also shown is information on the number of electrical circuits needed, size of wire and a key to the symbols appearing on the floor plans. Provisions have been made for milking electrically, thereby reducing by half the amount of time usually spent in hand milking. An electric barn cleaner does in a few minutes what used to take an hour or more. Also illustrated is a ventilation system to remove excess moisture from the stanchion part of the barn.

The building is equipped with a pressure system to provide water for various purposes, including individual drinking cups and the milk house. Convenience outlets are found in several places for the use of clippers, immersion heaters and heat lamps, etc. The milk house is equipped with an electric milk cooler, hot water heater, sterilizer and space heater.

A feature of the barn, shown, is a feed processing room, with connecting overhead bins, feed grinder and mixer for automatic handling of grain. The silo is attached so that ensilage can be unloaded mechanically into carts in a section of the feed room. Also there is a hay curing system located in the mow, with the fan powered by a 5 horsepower motor.

Lighting outlets are shown located every 12 feet along the center line of the litter alley and every 20 feet on a center line in the feed alley. If more light is desired, it is recommended that a second line of lights be located in the litter alley, with outlets placed over the hind quarters of each row of cows. In order to protect the service panel from frost and moisture, it is shown located on an inside wall.

At The OPERA HOUSE

FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE

"For Heaven's Sake" is heavenly entertainment. The Opera House's new attraction proves to be wonderful, irresistible fun on film. Clifton Webb's starring performance is one of the strong comedy portrayals of recent seasons, and on his list one that matches his memorable work in the Mr. Belvedere films and "Cheaper by the Dozen." Aided by a number of other top stars, a fresh story idea and hilarious dialogue, he turns "For Heaven's Sake" into truly extraordinary fare.

Webb has varied opportunities in "For Heaven's Sake," and he makes the most of each. An angel dispatched from his heavenly source, along with fellow-angel Edmund Gwenn, to right things on earth between a Broadway producer (Robert Cummings) and his actress wife (Joan Bennett), Webb gets to enact a Broadway-type "angel" as well. And, to do this, he fills the role of a oilman rancher from Texas, a role he takes for a Gary Cooper ride, reportedly with Cooper's dazed blessing. In all facets of a remarkable comic interpretation, Clifton Webb is tremendous.

But his talent is not the only spark in the film by a long shot. Gwenn, the beloved and lovable star of "Mister 880" and "Miracle on 34th Street" comes up with another equally careful characterization in the new film. And Miss Bennett, never lovelier, and Robert Cummings are splendid as the talented folk whose marriage is righted with the arrival of a child. The twist in the latter is that she is Gigi Perreau, located in heaven and "waiting to be born." Another rich role, of a woman playwright, falls Joan Blondell's way. "For Heaven's Sake" is richer for its two Joans. Also cast are Jack La Rue, Harry Von Zell, and Tommy Rettig.

The basic treasure of "For Heaven's Sake" remains its original, intricate and unflinching comic fantasy premise.

The State Police Say:

There is an old saying that every road has a turning. That saying has dangerous implications for the automobile driver on a strange road who fails to observe and comply with warning signs erected for his protection. The surest way we know of to invite disaster is to travel at a high rate of speed on roads with which you are not familiar. Take it easy—you can have fun in '51.

H. H. Bissett Heads Officials Of Townships

H. H. Bissett of Freepport Township, was elected president of the Greene County Association of Township Officials, Friday at the annual meeting in the courthouse. He succeeds Ralph McClelland of Gray Township.

J. H. Hiller of Franklin Township was named first vice president; R. E. Whipkey of Springhill Township, second vice president; and Warren H. Roberts of Greene Township, re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Bissett was named delegate to the State convention, with Ross Husk of Greene Township, and Ray Fox of Perry Township, as alternates.

One hundred and thirteen were in attendance representing all townships.

By-laws of the organization, which now includes all township officials, were adopted.

Resolutions adopted included a recommendation that motor code violation fines be paid to the treasury of the political subdivision in which the same occurred.

Another resolution was adopted against any legislation taking away any further "duties, rights or prerogatives of township officials."

The association went on record against annexation of parts of townships to adjacent cities or boroughs without a majority vote of the whole township requesting same.

In regard to a recent report of the State Highway Planning Commission on the association recommendation:

1. That the Commission carefully consider the rural road system and request a fair allocation of motor funds.
2. That one cent of the gasoline tax be specifically allocated to local governments on the basis of one third each on population, mileage and area.
3. That the Commission consider a "stand-by" allocation for the maintenance of low traffic roads.
4. That specific allocations be made for bridges in townships.
5. That if State roads are returned to townships, a permanent allocation of State funds be made to townships with a special allocation for bridges.
6. That the policy of enacting omnibus road bills by the legislature be eliminated.

The by-laws were presented by Samuel Thomas of Center Township, and the resolutions were presented by James D. Cole of Cumberland Township.

W. A. Thompson, state secretary, discussed allocation of state funds to townships, the State Highway Planning Commission's program, and improvement of property assessment systems.

ALL THEY ASKED WAS AN EVEN BREAK

It took strong hearts as well as strong muscles to build a new country. But there were men and women with courage enough to risk everything—even their lives—for an ideal. All they asked was an even break.

America was built on the principle of an even break. The strength and riches of this country came from the vision and effort and personal initiative of its people.

But the American ideal of an even break is destroyed when government goes into business in direct competition with its own citizens. For government in business demands special privileges that are denied people in business.

Take government power systems, for example. They pay no Federal taxes. They get money from the U. S. Treasury at little or no interest—and their losses are made up from the pockets of all taxpayers. You pay—through your payroll deductions.

But America's business-managed electric light and power companies are self-supporting. Like all of American business, they pay their full share of taxes, and fair interest on money they borrow. And they've built for America the most and the best electric service in the world.

There are new frontiers in electric living still to be opened. Remember this: business men can do the job better than bureaucrats. All they ask is an even break.

Fifty-Year History of Greene County Sports

By GEORGE N. THOMAS

THE IRA E. (BUDGE) TUSTIN STORY

(Part I)

In the Spring of 1950, a group of old timers gathered in Homer Spragg's store at Spraggs for a session of reminiscences. When they eventually got around to baseball, one of them stroke his gray hair and said:

"Talk about any pitchers you want, but give me Budge Tustin. He was the greatest. I'll bet he won more games than any other county pitcher in history."

Then the group started to discuss other positions. No one—not even the "Old Man of the Mountain" himself—knows how many games Tustin won since he put on padded diamond spangles for the first time in 1905 to play shortstop for Kughntown, which was the rage of the western end of the county in that era and for a 13-year-old youngster to be allowed on the same diamond as that group of ball hawks was a privilege in itself. But the sharp-eyed youth worked hard and made the grade.

Perhaps his know-how came from the three other Tustins on this early Kughntown nine. Jake, an outfielder; Halsey, the shortstop; and Joe a huge first baseman, helped give the club power.

Charley, Bill, Cephus and William Henry Cole, outfielder, pitcher, second baseman and infielder respectively; Layten Phillips, catcher; Tommy and John Henderson, outfielder and infielder, and Denny Melghen, infielder, made up the rest of that grand old ball club that powered its way around base paths throughout the section for years.

That outfit acted as a springboard for the young recruit and it started him off on a career of 35 years of "real pitchin'." Through the years he played ball with nearly every team in the county. He took the slab for Rogersville, Brave, Mt. Morris, Waynesburg, Mather, Ten Mile and others. Old Budge free-lanced to the extent that he often pitched for three or four teams in a week.

For a quarter of century, Tustin dominated pitching on every sandlot in the county. For years it seemed that when he stepped on the mound, the other team was already beaten. When he was called upon to hurl more often for one team, the opponents in that circuit would cry, "Taint fair!" Certainly few players in county history have ever been in such demand as was Budge Tustin in his prime which lasted three decades.

Tustin's strong arm threw a mixture of curves, straight balls and drops. With perfect control, he often fanned 18 or better per contest. On two occasions, he struck out 21 men.

He closed his store at Oak Forest one summer day in 1910, to pitch for the community team against Waynesburg. The "city slickers" had fellows like Boaz Cowan, Jimmie Ganlear, Bill Patterson and Snag Patterson in the lineup but that didn't scare Budge. He coolly whiffed 21 batters, but lost because of poor support. A little later, he had better luck while pitching for Rogersville against Marianna. He struck out 21 men in 11 innings and won the contest.

During the decade that followed, Tustin began developing into a workhorse and attracting more than average attention. Occasionally, he returned to his "alma mater," Kughntown, to hurl them to win after win. He was especially effective when the dogpatch nine faced the Rugged Fairmont Black Sox usually in Waynesburg Park. Budge never failed to beat them. Hoping the law of averages would smile at him sometime, the Negro strong boys kept coming back for many years, but reliable Budge was not to be outdone.

By the time the Waynesburg Church League was organized in 1914, Tustin was hitting his peak, but he wound up on the comparatively weak Christian team. It was weak only because the Methodists and Presbyterians were stronger. As a matter of fact, the calibre of the ball played in the league for three seasons has been described by authorities of that period as good enough for triple-A clubs today. As it turned out, this church team was the only losing team he was ever a member of in his lifetime.

Budge was in some "awful" battles in that league while opposing many paid players hired by the season by all churches. He was lucky enough, however, to have Clyde (Pete) Call catching his pegs across the plate. Call took the farm boy under his wing and helped Tustin put some finesse to his form.

By October, 1915, when the Pittsburgh Pirates came to Waynesburg for an exhibition with the league's all-star aggregation, Tustin had established himself as a real ace. His youthfulness kept him from starting the big game played before a jammed park, but when Art (No-hit) Ewart was off to a shaky start in the first inning, Tustin calmly stepped on the rubber and held the mighty Pirates to one run and three hits in six innings.

Offers began pouring in for his signature to a contract. Major league clubs maneuvered for several years to sign him up. But Budge Tustin loved the Greene County hills. He also was attached to his post office job as mail clerk and he would not go anywhere. The major league's loss was the county's gain, and Budge padded his record which was to make him an all-time great.

Tustin never let himself get stale. If he wasn't pitching often enough in real competition, he'd "throw catch" with anyone willing to put on a glove, but that usually happened before teams could organize in the spring. Joe Hooker Phillips was in Waynesburg the spring of 1922. He watched with awe as Waynesburg College Coach Frank Wolf put his diamond charges through the paces and eventually through a successful schedule.

Could all this talent possibly be on one college team at the same time? He had an idea. Soon as school closed, Phillips made the boys a proposition and they agreed. So he signed up Harry McHenry, Bill Reid, Red Irwin, Arthur Main and Joe Varasco. To them he added Tustin, Frank Havanas, Andy Fisher, Bill Helmick, Billy Keefe, Snuffy Spencer, Wally Rhine and Clem Beveridge.

This crew burned up the scorecards that summer, winning 38 and tying two in 45 contests. Tustin led the hurlers with a 14-2 record. Thereafter, Hooker never forgot the ability of the husky mailman-farmer.

The following year, Hooker was coaching a Mather club. He often scooped up the cream of the county diamond crop and pitted them against strong invading teams. Hooker agreed to meet the strong Homestead Grays at Mather one week end but wasn't sure his ace, Bill Helmick, had had enough rest.

An SOS went out for Budge and he agreed to toss. The Grays didn't ask much guarantee but they generally bet heavily against the host club and often took large sums of money out of communities that were over optimistic about their home clubs.

"Old Posey," a character if there ever was one, was manager of the Grays. He pushed the hot end of his fat cigar into Hooker's face and said he had $50 ready to talk for his Grays. Nervously, Hooker glanced over his shoulder to watch Budge throw in a couple of tosses.

Watching Tustin's curves breaking and his hooks snapping, Hooker turned to Posey with a grin and said the Mather crowd would bet.

Inning after inning, Posey bit harder and harder into his cigar. After the fifth frame, he had to reach for a new one—his Grays had not even scratched Tustin for a hit.

Four runs behind going into the ninth inning, the Grays still had not hit safely and Posey was cursing under his third expensive cigar. The first Gray struck out and the second bounced out. Second baseman Harris lifted a weak fly over short and it fell for a fluke hit, and Posey leaped for joy.

That was all his Grays got and they lost to Budge, 4-0, with Tustin and Helmick supplying scoring doubles and Tustin striking out 11 of the sluggers.

This was the first of several meetings Tustin was to have with the Grays. He was to remember them well. And they were to remember him well, too.

Waynesburg College Star Killed in Automobile Crash

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon for George C. (Chuck) Karmarkovich, 22 years, former Waynesburg College all-state basketball star, who died in Johnstown Memorial Hospital, Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, from injuries as the result of an automobile accident early Thursday morning.

The accident took place five miles west of Ligonier on the Johnstown Clippers, a professional basketball team on which the youth was playing, were returning from Wheeling, W. Va., where they had played the night before.

The automobile was driven by Nate Hickey of Johnstown, the coach. The car skidded, crashed into the guard rail, and was thrown back onto the highway into the path of an automobile operated by Lee Couzzen of Homestead. Four other players were injured but not critically.

The star athlete was a son of Michael and Mildred Karmarkovich and was born at Conemaugh, March 17, 1927. He attended Franklin Borough High School and Waynesburg College. He had intended entering college again in February to finish his course.

Karmarkovich, playing for Waynesburg College from 1947 to 1950, broke almost every scoring record in the college's basketball history. He was selected on the All Pennsylvania Collegiate basketball team for two successive years, and in 1949, was given honorable mention on the Chuck Taylor All-American team.

He was high scorer in the Tri-State District in 1947-48 with a total of 369 points and set a new record for Waynesburg College with 40 points for a single game against Alderson-Broadbent in 1948-49 season.

Other Waynesburg College basketball records which he held were most points in one season (478) and most points in a four year period.

CHUCK KARMARKOVICH

Hitting the High Spots

By JACK HAMMERS

The tragic death of Chuck Karmarkovich shocked the athlete who had cherished the athelete as a local boy. Chuck, in his playing days at Waynesburg College secured a place in the hearts of local fans that will remain as long as the game of basketball is played. His mortal remains may be gone, but the spirit of Chuck Karmarkovich will return to give his team mates on the hill a lift each time they take to the court.

Dick Rice, Waynesburg High athletic star, has joined the Navy and expects to leave for active duty Thursday. His absence will be missed by Coach Bonfield's mat team this winter. Dick, who was unable to finish out his high school career due to a shoulder injury suffered early in the football season, joins his brother in the service.

It is really a pleasure to watch Tony Gizoni strut his stuff on the mat. The "mighty mite," as some call him, is as cool and confident as a champ should be. He reminds us of a cat playing with a mouse. When he gets tired he just rolls 'em over—and that's all brother.

Ezzard Charles may still be heavyweight champ of the world but to us he still has to prove it. His fight with Lee Oma Friday proved nothing to fight fans. He was credited with a TKO yet never had Oma off his feet, although he hit him with everything in sight but the ringposts. To us he's a "heavyweight" champ with a flyweight punch.

The 73-65 score racked up by the Jackets over W. & J. last week was still on the scoreboard when the lights were turned on for the wrestling match Saturday night. When fans noticed it, was greeted with another outburst of yells similar to those which rocked the foundation of the gym the night of the game.

Little Prexie Matmen Top Red Raiders, 33-12

Washington High School's Little Prexies scored two falls and seven decisions to stop the Red Raiders of Waynesburg High 33-12. The Raiders were able to notch only two decisions and a fall.

Ronnie Kurtz (103) and Jim Barclay (185) picked up decisions for Waynesburg, while Ed Blank (95) got the fall. Washington pins were picked up by Petronka (120) and Wagner (154).

The defeat was the first of the year for the Raiders who now show a record of 2 wins and 1 loss, and enabled Wash Hi to stay unbeaten for the season.

Summary: 88—Temple (Wash.) decided Herod, 4-2. 95—Black (Wbg.) pinned Interval, 1:59 1st period. 103—Wilson (Wash.) decided Gonda, 8-1.

Rockets Take Lead In WPIAL Section 20

Coach Butch Blyer's Jefferson Rocket cagers took the lead in WPIAL Section 20 Friday night when they blasted Carmichael off the top of the loop by a 54-31 margin. It also tied the Jeffs with the Creemen for Greene County Conference honors at 1-1.

The first period was slow as the Rockets posted a 6-4 lead. Then in the second quarter the winners started to hit the cords behind Mike Stefanic, Ray Protzman and Eddie Picpic to score 20 points and lead at the half 26-10.

Jim Moore paced the Mikes with 12 points but got little support from his mates except Paul Krutko who hit for eight.

Waynesburg Yellow Jackets Snap Wash-Jeff Win Streak, 73-65

Jacket Matmen Extend Streak

Coach John R. Conklin and his Yellow Jacket matmen extended their win streak Saturday night as they added Indiana State Teachers College to their long list of victims' 28-0. It marked the second time this year the Jackets have whitewashed their opponents.

Gizoni and Lewis were the only Jackets able to score falls but outside of Reihner's close 2-1 decision over Policicchio, the Jackets had things their own way.

Summary: 123—Murdock (W) decided Blance, 6-2. 130—Gizoni (W) pinned Levine, 0:55 2nd period. 137—Lewis (W) pinned Grispenio 0:43 3rd period. 147—Reihner (W) decided Policicchio, 2-1. 157—Schneider (W) decided Krupper 5-2. 167—Rogers (W) decided Branish 4-0. 177—J. Red Raiders Drop Section 4 Tilt

Coach John Adamson and his Red Raiders of Waynesburg High are still looking for their first Section 4 win of the year. The Raiders went down to defeat for the second time in as many starts Friday night at Burgettstown, 45-37.

Waynesburg got off to a 13-5 lead in the first quarter but Union came back to cut the lead to 17-16 at the half. After the intermission Union turned on the steam to pull away from the Raiders to cop their second straight league contest.

Jim Moore had 11 points to lead the Raiders and high scoring honors for the night. Eddie Gilson and Fred Pappas each had 10 points for Burgettstown.

Jefferson Rockets Again Stop Uhlans Matmen

A GIRL AT LAST

—Boynnton, Okla.— Francis Elizabeth Kirby, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Kirby, is the first girl born in her family in 122 years.

An underdog Waynesburg College basketball team that wasn't given too much of a chance to stop a highly favored Wash Jeff crew, upset the apple cart and handed the Presidents their first defeat of the year here last Wednesday night, 73-65.

In stopping the Prexies, the Jackets were in complete control of the game from the time they tied the score at 2-2 early in the first quarter, to the final whistle. The Presidents rallied briefly in the third stanza but failed to close the gap and from there on the Jackets breezed in.

Andy Mestrovic led the scoring for the Jackets with 27 points. His failure to hit for a single field goal in the final quarter was one of the deciding factors in the Jackets favor. Richards kept the Jaymen in the game when Andy cooled off by racking 18 points.

It would be impossible to pick a single Jacket standout. Five Jackets hit for double figures in the scoring, but even those who scored only a few points were in the game all the way.

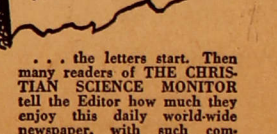

Coach Roger Jorgensen had his boys "up" for this game and they didn't let him down. Even in the dying moments of the game, with a slight lead, the Jackets continued to score instead of freezing the ball as most teams do.

The game was slowed down somewhat by the constant whistle tooting of the officials. The men in the striped shirts called 72 fouls good for 80 shots at the bucket. Half of these fouls could be classed as accidents more than fouls.

W. LIBERTY FALLS AGAIN

With Bill Beckman scoring 20 points and the first five playing less than half the game, the Yellow Jackets once more slapped down West Liberty, 73-60 Saturday night. Coach Jorgensen's boys could have run a bigger score but Roger elected to give his reserves some experience and as a result the Jackets settled for a 13 point win.

Center High To Stage Comedy

The students of Center Township High School will present a three-act farce-comedy, "The Cannibal Queen," at the school auditorium at Rogersville, Thursday night, January 25. The plot centers around the problems of Bruce Clyde, the enterprising young newspaper editor and his sweetheart, Brenda Day, a reporter but who imagines herself a "truly great dramatic actress." Clyde, who is hunting a story to please Julia Boyd, the ever complaining owner of the paper, stumbles upon the fact that Professor Kent, an eccentric ex-explorer, is planning to bring a cannibal queen into the country. Seizing this opportunity for a story, he prints a front-page spread about the arrival of the queen, but he is quite dismayed when he finds that Allen Kent, the nephew of the professor and who is supposed to have discovered the queen tells him that the whole thing is a hoax and that she never existed. Threatened with the loss of his job, Clyde now must resort to extreme measures. A solution to all problems is finally found in the unwinding of the farce. The cast and further details will be announced next week by the director of the play, Miss Nancy E. Hutman.
