Truman Names Board To Fight Red Treason

—Washington—
President Truman has set up a big name board to find ways of guarding the nation against Communist treason, espionage and sabotage while safeguarding "our historic liberties."

Among other things, the board will have power to sift Senator McCarthy's Communists-in-government charges. Though Mr. Truman emphasized its scope is far broader than the activities of the Federal Government, he defined the board's task as finding "the wisest balance that can be struck between security and freedom."

The President named Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz to head the group which he called "a commission on internal security and individual rights." He said eight other "distinguished citizens" will be chosen on "a non-partisan basis."

While the Chief Executive in a 1,200 word statement announcing his action never made reference to the charges by Senator McCarthy, Republican, Wisconsin, which set off a heated controversy in Congress and over the nation, the move has at least the effect of a response to the McCarthy drive.

For instance Mr. Truman specified that in its investigation the new board may go as far as it wishes into individual case files in the Government's loyalty and security program.

McCarthy has demanded that secret Government files be examined.

He has charged there was a "whitewash" of his charges of Red infiltration into the Administration and especially into the State Department.

Throng Sees Duff Take Senate Oath

—Washington—
With more than 100 supporters from Pennsylvania looking on, James H. Duff took the oath of office as junior Senator from that State Thursday and moved into the spotlight as a power to be reckoned with in the national councils of the Republican Party.

Duff's admirers came to town in a special train from Harrisburg and in two special cars from Philadelphia. Led by Governor John S. Fine and Republican State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor, the Pennsylvanians jammed the galleries of the Senate chamber shortly before noon.

Wearing a business suit, Duff was escorted down the aisle to the well of the Senate by his colleague, Edward Martin, the senior Senator from the State.

After the oath had been administered by Vice President Alben W. Barkley, Martin started to ask unanimous consent to waive the rules to permit the Pennsylvanians in the gallery to rise so that the Senators could see the outpouring in honor of the new Senator.

Before Barkley could put the request to the Senate, the spectators rose, but respected the rule against a demonstration. Barkley remarked that "Pennsylvanians never need unanimous consent to rise no matter where they are."

The oldest members of the Senate could not recall a similar tribute to an incoming Senator on the occasion of his taking the oath.

Through the courtesy of Senator Irving M. Ives (R., N. Y.), Duff had the unusual privilege of getting his name on a bill his first day in the Senate. Ives had withheld the introduction of a Fair Employment Practices Commission bill modeled after New York State's anti-discrimination law, because Duff wished to be a co-sponsor with Ives and 10 other Senators, including Martin.

Colleges Get Draft Break For Students

—Washington—
The Defense Department has knocked out a draft rule which had caused many college students to quit school in mid-term.

The new order gives the student who gets a draft notice the right to volunteer for the armed service of his choice. As is the practice now, he won't be called to duty until the end of the school year he has started.

Under the old plan, the student getting a draft call automatically was destined for the Army.

As a result the defense department said, numbers of them dropped out of school to volunteer and get their choice.

The new order permits them to wait until near the end of the college year before signifying their choice. Specifically, the services will accept enlistments in the two months prior to the final month of the term. Then the enlistees will not be called until the term is over.

The rule effective immediately, Officials said, for example, that if a college student got a draft notice tomorrow he will have automatic deferment until March or April, and then can enlist in the service of his choice.

Meanwhile, education leaders meeting here spoke out for letting college students complete their courses before taking their military training under the administration's proposed new universal service.

J. STANTON KECK

J. Stanton Keck, College Athletic Director, Dies

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in Greensburg for J. Stanton Keck, 53 years, Waynesburg College athletic director and head football coach, who died Saturday afternoon, January 20, 1951, in West Penn Hospital, Pittsburgh. Death was due to a cerebral hemorrhage. He had been a patient in Greene County Memorial Hospital and had been transferred to West Penn for further treatment.

Mr. Keck had been selected as tackle on Walter Camp's All-American football team in 1920. His playing days at Princeton were under the coaching of the late William Roper and recently Charles Caldwell, Princeton coach, referred to him as the greatest tackle ever developed by the college. He was a charter member of the National Association of Football Hall of Fame.

Mr. Keck graduated from Greensburg High School and entered Princeton, graduating in 1922. His coaching career was started there in 1924 on the line. In 1931, Mr. Keck retired from coaching to act as an official in the Eastern Intercollegiate Football Association and also to farm in Vermont. However, in 1937, he returned to coaching at Norwich University in Northfield, Vermont, and in 1941 became athletic director and head football coach.

During World War II he served as a major conditioning Air Force Pre-Flight cadets.

Mr. Keck came to Waynesburg College in 1947, and developed winning teams, 1949 being his best year.

He possessed a genial personality and had endeared himself to the students and to the townspeople alike.

Dr. Paul R. Stewart, president of the college, paid tribute to Mr. Keck's services at a student assembly Monday.

He said Mr. Keck will be remembered for his generosity and "for the kind words and smile he had for everyone."

"Mr. Keck's principal concern was not to trouble the other fellow," Dr. Stewart said. "Many are the people who were shielded from complicated issues by Stan Keck. His thoughtfulness for others was particularly strong in respect to his health. He became ill weeks before he entered the hospital but he did not allow this to interfere with his duties. His bits of encouragement and reassurance were still there. His sudden death was a great awakening for all of us to these facts."

Dr. Stewart urged students and all others to be cognizant of the "quiet, thoughtful men like Stan Keck."

Surviving are his mother, residing at Greensburg; a son, James, a cadet in the U. S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, and five sisters: Mrs. John S. VanKirk, West Newton; Mrs. Albert M. Schell, Alliquippa; Mrs. George L. Comfort, Pleasantville, N. Y.; Miss Mary Alice Keck, Greensburg and Miss Dorothy C. Keck of Pittsburgh.

Auto Deaths Top Korean Toll Figures Show

Automobile drivers in the first 11 months of 1950 killed civilians at a faster rate than American soldiers died in action on Korean fronts during the first six months of the war.

Considering 7000 Americans reported missing in action in Korea included in the war toll as fatalities, an analysis by the Association of Casualty & Surety Companies, released in New York, proved that reckless and careless operation of automobiles was far deadlier than war.

A comparative study shows that about 6500 more civilians were killed in traffic accidents than the combined total of 13,200 Americans dead and missing on Korean battlefronts.

Julian H. Harvey, manager of the association's accident prevention department, also found that 25 persons were injured in highway traffic collisions to every member of the U. S. forces who fell wounded in action.

Harvey estimates the total of automobile accident injuries at 625,000 during the last half of 1950. Early this month, the Defense Department reported more than 25,000 troops had been wounded in action since the war started late in June 1950.

State Defense Split in 2 Sections

Governor John S. Fine Friday revamped Pennsylvania's Military and Civil Defense set-up, splitting it into two sections—one for military defense and one for civil defense.

At the same time, he abolished the old military and civil defense commission for Pennsylvania, of which Major General Richard K. Mellon, Pittsburgh banker, had been the head.

Mellon was appointed chairman of the new Pennsylvania Military Advisory Committee. Dr. Theodore Distler, president of Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, was named head of the State Civil Defense Commission. The Governor also appointed N. L. Wymard of Pittsburgh, who was secretary to former Governor James H. Duff, as administrative assistant to Dr. Distler at $12,000 a year.

Dr. Distler will assume his new duties in March, when he will begin a year's leave of absence from Franklin and Marshall. Until then, Mellon will head the entire set-up.

"Governor Fine and many of us close to the problem of civil defense feel that the military should serve in an advisory capacity," Mellon said. "This decision was reached inasmuch as the Federal Government has decided that civil defense should be administered on the civil level. Civil defense in Pennsylvania has passed the planning stage and now requires a major expansion under civilian control."

JOHN HANKS FAMILY

First mention of John Hanks (or Hank) is on October 15, 1806, when he served with Lacy Hibbs as executor in the estate of Jacob Hibbs. From the will of John Hank probated November 20, 1823, and recorded in Greene County Will Book 1, pp. 243, it is evident that he was married twice, his second wife being Judith (Smith) Burge, daughter of Anthony and Lydia (Willis) Smith and widow of Jacob Burge. She also had been mother of a family prior to her marriage with John Hank. The various connections suggest that the family came from New Jersey and were at one time members of the Friends Society. The estate of John Hank was divided among the heirs named below:

1. Rebecca Hank, who appears to have been married (1) to Jesse Bowell, son of Basil and Margaret (Bowen) Bowell of Fayette County. Her husband at the time of her father's death was Cherry. She was probably the mother of the two grand children named by John Hank.

1. John Bowell.
2. Catherine Bowell, wife of _____ Barnes.
3. Hannah Bowell, wife of Warren Luse, not named but of record.
2. John Hank.
3. Daniel Hank.
4. Lydia Burge, named a step child by John Hank. She was born August 23, 1770, a date found in the John Morris Bible. She married Richard Morris, born in New Jersey December 25, 1774, died July 10, 1821, in Belmont County, Ohio. He was a son of Richard and Mary (Throckmorton) Morris of Middletown, New Jersey.

Children

1. Elihu Morris, born May 29, 1797, married (2) Mary Hartley.
2. Jacob Morris, born October 22, 1799.
3. Job Smith Morris, born August 29, 1802, married Harriet Jones.
4. William Morris, born April 16, 1805, married Rebecca Thomas.
5. Joseph Morris, born May 31, 1808, died August 25, 1832.
6. Lydia Morris, born August 9, 1810, died November 17, 1893, married Thomas Ball.
5. Joseph Burge, stepchild of John Hank named in will.
6. Anthony Burge, stepchild of John Hank named in will.
7. Jacob Burge, born 1783, as shown by John Morris Bible, named in will of John Hank.
8. Marian Burge, named in will of John Hank, had married _____ Negus.

THE CARTER FAMILY

Perhaps this family should be taken up in an article on the north branch of Tenmile, as it settled first on a branch of North Tenmile to which it gave the name of Carter's Fork. But so many of the descendants removed to the south branch of Tenmile, where many still live, it may justly be included with the Tenmile Country. The family goes back to John Chenoweth, Gentleman, born at St. Martins in Menage, Cornwall, Wales, about 1682. He married about 1705, Mary Calvert, erroneously said to have been a daughter of Charles Calvert, 3rd Lord Baltimore. They came to America about the time of her father's death in 1715, and settled on Gunpowder River, near Joppa, Maryland, on an estate of the Calverts called "Gunpowder Manor," later to be known as "Chenoweth Manor." Here John Chenoweth became an early iron master. His will is on file in Frederick County, Virginia, and was made April 11, 1746, filed May 6, 1746, as he died there while on a visit with some of his children. His children included John Chenoweth, Jr., born 1706, whose wife was Mary Smith; Mary Chenoweth, who married a man named Watson; Richard Chenoweth, born 1710, whose wife was Keziah; Hannah Chenoweth, born 1713, who married James Carter, of whom later; Arthur Chenoweth, whose wife was Sapphira; William Chenoweth, whose wife was Anne; Thomas Chenoweth, whose wife was Mary Prickett; and Ruth Chenoweth, born 1722, who married John Pettit.

James Carter and wife Hannah Chenoweth, removed to Frederick County, Virginia, where they bought land described as being on the road from Winchester to Bellhaven. Here James Carter died about November 18, 1758, the date his will was made at Winchester, in which he names his wife Hannah, a married daughter Jane, probably the wife of John McMahan, who got 50 acres of property mentioned above, and who acted as guardian for the other Carter children, who were yet minors. Besides Jane, the other children named were Ann, Ruth, Hannah, James, William and John, each of whom got bequests. James, the eldest son, was to get the home property when he became of age. (Frederick County Will Book 2, pp. 328.) The will was filed on December 6, 1758.

When James Carter, Jr., became of age, he and his brother, William Carter, removed to the north branch of Tenmile, where both of them are found serving in Captain Abner Howell's Militia Company in the Third Battalion, Washington County, Pennsylvania Militia from Anwell Township. James Carter also received payment for being on the Sandusky Expedition. (Penna. Arch. Series VI Vol. 2, pp. 119 and 400.) Before leaving Frederick County, Virginia, James Carter had married Ann Bowen in 1771. She was a daughter of Henry and Anna (Moon) Bowen, and sister to Isaac Heaton's wife and Rees Hill's mother, Priscilla (Bowen) Hill. She was a native of Apple Pie Ridge, Frederick County, Virginia. William Carter, brother of James, had married Eleanor

Family of James Carter

James Carter, son of James and Hannah (Chenoweth) Carter, was born on October 14, 1750. He received a warrant for a tract of land in Anwell Township, Washington County, called "Potato Patch" on January 28, 1785. This was at the site of the familiarly known "Hart's Mills" of a later date. He died here August 15, 1817, and is buried in the cemetery at Amity. His will was made August 9, 1817, and filed at Washington, September 20, 1817. (Will Book 3, pp. 169.) His wife, Anna (Bowen) Carter, was born in Virginia, February 1, 1752, and died on March 18, 1828. She is buried with her husband at Amity and both graves are marked, but of late years have become illegible.

She also left a will. (Will Book 4, pp. 234.) Numerous transactions in Winchester indicate she received considerable wealth from her father's and brother's estates in Frederick County, Virginia. Her heirs shared also after her death.

She was a daughter of William and Hannah (Kelsey) McFarland, who were married by Rev. Thaddeus Dodd on October 20, 1799, and Rebecca was baptized by this same minister on January 1, 1783. HOW Water Works

If all the WATER required by the average family for ONE DAY had to be delivered to the door in bottles, the same as milk is delivered, about 800 quart bottles of water would be needed every morning!

Did you know? CEMENT can harden under WATER! —because it sets and becomes hard by a chemical reaction, not by drying out.

Fifty-Year History of Greene County Sports

By GEORGE N. THOMAS

THE IRA E. (BUDGET) TUSTIN STORY

(Part 2)

The summer of 1923 was a busy one for Budge Tustin, as he pitched for a half dozen good ball clubs. But that was not new to him. Budge never really belonged to any one club. He was the property of Greene County baseball.

So it was in that summer and next that the Shrontz Club of Washington county spread out the welcome mat for Tustin.

Just as he was doing for the Mt. Morris Independents, the right hander sizzled tosses past bewildered batters. Those who couldn't see 'em waited for walks. That was a mistake, for Tustin set a record when he hurled 27 walkless innings.

Hans Wagner sat with his Pittsburgh Yellow Cab Company team and perspired as Budge set down his starters in succession during an exhibition at Washington. After the game, Wagner spent hours trying to convince Tustin to go to Pittsburgh.

"No," said Budge. Washington was paying him as much to pitch for them, and, too, he could keep his post office job.

Clarksburg, of the Middle Atlantic League, made overtures to Tustin in 1924. He was taken on with the stipulation that he could continue his mail deliveries and report only for specific games.

Once a week throughout the season, Budge went directly from mailbag to mound, generally won his game, collected his $50 and drove back to his farm.

Two months before the season ended, Tustin received a telegram saying, "Report immediately to Toronto of International League. Bill Taylor recommended you." Taylor was a fellow hurling partner who had a terrific arm himself.

Budge was confused. No salary was mentioned and he couldn't be sure they would top his $200-$300 he made on his mail route and with the Middle Atlantic part-time job. No one was around to advise him and when nobody urged him to jump at the opportunity, Budge decided he couldn't leave the county. When Taylor came home in the fall, he gave "the dickins" to Tustin, but it was too late.

Some time thereafter, Hooker Phillips said he'd like to bring his Fairmont Pros to Waynesburg for an exhibition tilt. Fairmont officials said the conditions were "all the gate receipts or nothing doing."

A crowd jammed College Field to see the county stars battle the pros. In a huddle before the game, the Waynesburg team learned of the Fairmont deal. Tustin walked on the mound and looked hard as nails. And he might just as well have thrown nails at them all afternoon. The professionals couldn't hit him and Waynesburg trimmed them.

Tustin in 1925 refused to pitch for Clarksburg under former conditions. When Johnny McGuire, manager of the Uniontown club, heard Budge was on the loose, he dashed to Waynesburg to see him. It did him no good. Budge turned down his attractive offer to stay nearer home.

On a bright April day the telephone rang. Budge put down a milk bucket to answer it. It was Ed Smith of Rogersville, calling to ask if Budge would help his team in the opening game that Sunday against Brownsville at Golden Oaks Park.

"But I haven't held a ball yet," said Budge, "and I hear that team is a powerhouse."

Smith offered to relieve him if necessary. Budge warmed up and started the game. After two innings, he looked at Smith, but Ed didn't feel "ready." After four it was the same, and again after six and eight. In the ninth the game was tied 1-1.

"How do you feel now?" asked Smith.

"Better by the inning," replied Tustin. He stayed on the hill until Rogersville finally won out 2-1 in the fifteenth frame. His strong arm had been "broken in" for the year.

A couple of years later, the Fairview Independent Club reorganized. It was the Fairview club in name only because eight of the players were from Waynesburg. It was this nine that gave Art Rattigan his start in baseball, and Tustin was one of his instructors.

By 1929, the Waynesburg City League was in its third season. Equitable and Carnegie Gas Companies locked horns in the playoffs, which produced a memorable series for the town and Budge Tustin. Tustin and Shader Crouse was the battery for Equitable, and Bill (Buck) Taylor and Cobb for Carnegie.

One of the largest crowds ever to watch a league game filed in to the park for the third important game. The hurlers, both favorite sons of the county, meant business from the first throw. Tension grew inning by inning and when the umpire eventually was forced to call time because of darkness, neither team had scored. The series remained tied at one each.

A few nights later, the same batteries faced each other and battled furiously with each hurler being effective enough to hold the opposition to one run. Equitable, however, finally pushed across the series winning marker for a 2-1 triumph, and Tustin had earned his first win over Taylor, a man Budge had always respected for his masterful pitching.

Tustin pitched for Equitable for many years. When Equitable played the Jefferson Lumber Company team, he gave Jefferson three hits and struck out 13 in seven innings.

From 1929 to 1932, Tustin continued to play for many county nines, but saw principal service with Mather in the Tri-County League. With his 6-1 record, he personally kept Mather in third place behind Clyde, the champions, in 1930, and when his arm was "right" Mather was rated higher.

"Old Man of the Mountain"

In 1932, after 25 seasons, the "iron man" was still going strong. He once again crossed Dividing Ridge Hill to hurl for Amity and won 10 games, five of them by shutouts.

The following year, at 42, the "old man of the mountain" who still had more drive than many youngsters, answered a call to pitch for North Side of the Pittsburgh City League.

North Side's manager, decided to pitch Tustin in the very first game. Budge started in the rain and waited for the game to be called. "But it wasn't. While he won the contest, his throwing arm was never "right" after that game.

Later that year, the Grant Town, (W. Va.) Pirates sent for him to pitch in the Marion County League.

Grant Town breezed through the first half and into the final week of the second. Before the clinching game, Budge's manager asked him to "give the other side a chance today or there'll be no series if we win this half, too." Tustin complied and the teams went into a playoff.

In the best-of-five series, "Old Man" Tustin won three for Grant Town. While he was home delivering mail, his mates dropped the other two. Stowed away in a closet in the Tustin household is a baseball autographed by members of the Grant Town team in appreciation of Tustin's accomplishments. He not only copped the series for them, but won 18 out of 19 games pitched.

Three no-hit, no-run games dot the long career of Budge Tustin. His first came in 1921 when his Nebo Ridge team trimmed Dallas, W. Va., 5-0. Nebo had never lost a game. The team didn't stay together too long, but it was never beaten. In the no-hit game, Budge and Frank Bryan, present county commissioner, slugged out homers and Budge didn't give up a walk.

Later (even Tustin doesn't remember the exact date, his second perfect game came when he took to the rubber for Ten Mile against Marianna. He struck out 10 in winning this one.

The third no-hit, no-run tussle was staged when the Waynesburg Old-Timers took on the Washington-McKeesport league game at Washington. In Waynesburg's lineup were Joe Hooker Phillips (who incidentally hit two-for-two), George (Horky) Black (who had a hit and two runs), Harry McHenry, Jim Meighen, Pete Young, Frank Jamison, Harold (Doc) White and Corb Gardard.

Probably the most rugged game to lose came about 1914. Tustin hurled several games for Fairview that year. Waynesburg Independents went to Fairview and announced that "Bugs" Braithwood would toe the rubber for them. Tustin pitched a one-hitter and lost, 1-0, to "Bugs" who, believe it or not, hurled a no-hitter.

One of Budge's greatest thrills was the game in 1935 in which he and his 17-year-old son, Fred, made up the battery for Cumberland in the Maryland Inter-State League.

Yellow Jackets' Win Streak Stopped By W. Va. Mounties

Always a nemesis to Budget Tustin was the Homestead Grays. True, he had beaten them in a one-hitter at Mather in 1923, but he was frequently called upon to hurl against them.

Avella issued an SOS once when some money-bags scheuled the Grays. When told Bill Amos of Washington was to catch, Budge agreed to pitch. The first batter hit a drive toward the mound and Budge made a stab at it with his right hand. He stopped it all right, but ripped his hand.

Determined, Tustin taped it up and continued. In the ninth, the game was tied at 1-1, but the Grays, seeing they couldn't get distance, began bunting, and won. Gibson, the Grays' famed catcher, once hit a Tustin pitch over the local center field into Ten Mile Creek.

About a dozen years ago, Budge had one last look at the Grays. He pitched three innings and struck out six of them, before retiring to the next all-star pitcher.

Last summer, graying Old Budge and bulging Young Budge squared off when Waynesburg and Washington met in an exhibition game under the lights in Waynesburg. They struck out each other, but despite his age, Old Budge, throwing a sort of slider, bested his son in a close duel.

And so, the "old man of the mountain" still lives on his farm and delivers mail—the things for which he gave up a major league career. But he is very much contented and Greene County is very happy to claim him.

Budget Tustin will probably never be too old to don a glove and throw a baseball. He may be inspired by unfading memories of the five useless innings he hurled against the Pirates, the one-hitter against the Grays, his three no-hitters or perhaps the 27 consecutive walkless innings pitching for Shrontz of Washington.

When Greene County's baseball greats receive their final ratings, Ira E. (Budget) Tustin will lead the list.

—Pittsburgh—

General Manager Branch Rickey said the infielder, who served as a Pirate coach last summer, declined the job so that he could keep a position with a cheese company in Pittsburgh.

UNION MAT TEAM REMAINS UNBEATEN

The Burgettstown Union High School wrestling team ran its unbeaten string to four straight dual matches by defeating East Liverpool's matmen 18-14, last week.

Raider Cagers Score Wins

Coach John Adamson and his Waynesburg High cagers scored two wins during the past week. The Raiders defeated East Washington in a close 45-43 tilt Tuesday night in an exhibition game. On Friday night the Raiders finally got their first Section 4 win by dumping the Trinity Hillers, 46-33.

In the East Wash game the Raiders got off to a fast start but had to stave off a rally to chalk up the win. McKenna with 16 points and Smith with 13 led the attack. Dinsmore with 10 markers was high man for the Ghosts.

The Raiders, after dropping two straight league tilts, finally got win number one at the expense of Trinity. Pete Smith had 15 points to pace the Adamson crew, and also nailed down scoring honors for the game.

Bill George Drafted By Chicago Bears

Bill George, ex-Waynesburg High and Wake Forest College grid and wrestling performer, was the second draft choice of the Chicago Bears. George was a tackle on the Deacons' squad.

The Great Teacher

Lesson for January 28, 1951

WE HEAR a lot about a "better world." God pity the poor out who thinks the world as it is, is all right! And may God stab awake those who are afraid to try to make this world better. If you want to see a group of people who are not afraid and are really working at this, go to your nearest Sunday school. There you will find teachers of religion. They may be doing a good job or a poor one; but anyhow they are trying. And when one of these teachers succeeds, even a little, in what they are all trying to do, the world has already been made a little better.

Greatest of Teachers

Every Sunday school teacher, or any other sort, for that matter, should study the methods of Jesus to see what good teaching can be. He is and will always be THE Teacher.

His object was not to teach science or history. The only technique he taught was the most important of all—the technique of fine living. His object was to teach "what we are to believe concerning God, and what duties God requires of man."

In short, his subjects were Faith and Life, not separately but welded into one.

Down Where We Live

His method was always simple. He did not use long words, he did not "put his hay on such a high shelf that only intellectual giraffes could reach it," as Billy Sunday expressed it. Common people heard him gladly, because he taught in the kind of language they used, he spoke of things that were familiar to them.

So the good teacher today never teaches over the heads of the class. This means he has to have a good imagination, has to make believe to himself that he is one of the class instead of the teacher. He has to remember how the world looked to him when he was a boy, he has to stay young in heart.

Jesus could surely have taught more profoundly than he did. Indeed, he said at the end of his days, "I have many things to say but ye cannot bear them now." However true a thing might be, he would not say it if his hearers were not ready for it.

Truth in Pictures
Then Jesus taught in pictures; we call them parables. The best-loved and remembered parts of his teaching are the stories he told. Every one of them was simple; they were about the kinds of people his listeners knew or had often heard of.

The good teacher will always use illustrations. But the best ones will come right out of the experience of the pupils. Jesus never quoted from a book his hearers had not read. He never used illustrations that only a Ph. D. could understand. Furthermore, he never tried to teach two things at once.

A teacher, looking over a Sunday school lesson, may find it full of suggestive ideas; but it is generally better to pick out one truth and illustrate it in several ways, as Jesus did when speaking of the Kingdom of God than it is to try to bring out everything that could be brought out, and so confusing the class.

Making Them Think
Now some teachers, trying to be simple, succeed only in being dull. The good teacher must keep the class awake, otherwise no one can learn anything. There is a good motto which might be borrowed by all Sunday school teachers: "Nothing that is not interesting, not everything that is interesting; nothing merely because it is interesting."

Jesus gained attention and interest in various ways. One was the "cryptic" nature of his teaching; that is, it was often puzzling. There was often something that sent listeners away thinking: Now what did he mean by that?

Confucius once remarked: "I give my pupil one corner of an idea. If he cannot get the other three corners for himself, I do not want him for my pupil." So Jesus often gave out one corner of a truth and let his hearers (and ourselves!) wrestle out the other three.

Trappers Receive $240 For December

Greene County residents who trapped and hunted predators during the month of December, received $240.00 for their efforts from the Game Fund according to reports from the Divisional Headquarters for the ten southwestern counties located at Ligonia, Westmoreland County. Two weasels, 52 gray fox, and 6 great horned owls were reported by the successful hunters and trappers of the county. This amount is part of the $9,147 paid out to claimants for the month of December, in the entire state. Since June 1, 1950, a total amount of $30,571 has been paid out of the Fund for claims on 2,162 weasels, 5,921 gray foxes, 15 goshawks, and 936 great horned owls. $617.00 of this amount has been returned to successful trappers and hunters of Greene County in this period.

Information regarding bounty claims can be secured from any District Game Protector, Alderman, Justice of the Peace or Magistrate. Game Commission officials point out that the fur crop of Pennsylvania annually amounts to nearly a million dollars, a highly prized natural resource.
