'Big Mo' Joins Navy In Shelling East Korean Port

—Tokyo—
The battleship Missouri and other warships Wednesday opened a new bombardment along Korea's east coast.

In western Korea, Allied forces within nine miles of Seoul came to grips with counter-attacking Chinese Reds on the seventh day of the United Nations ground offensive.

The new sea blow on the east coast began hitting Kosong, a rail and highway center 45 miles north of the Thirty-eighth Parallel, dividing North and South Korea. It was the same type of devastating attack which for 24 hours Tuesday pounded Kansong, 20 miles south of Kosong. Kansong is 25 miles north of the Parallel. That assault "completely neutralized" Kansong, on the same rail line and highway, the Navy announced.

The Missouri, a cruiser and nine destroyers of the U. S. Seventh Fleet shelled Kansong far into the night Tuesday, then moved north and opened the Kosong bombardment at dawn.

Red resistance stiffened as the Allied limited offensive in the west gained from one-half to three miles along the slushy 50-mile line.

A 45-man American patrol, surrounded by a Chinese battalion on the central front, was rescued after 15 hours of tough and steady fighting.

Action Brought Against Drive-In

Edgar Johnston and Frances Stone Johnston of Cumberland Township, have filed an equity action against Durward Goe of Cokesburg, and Louis Stuler of Carmichaels, who operate the Sky-Vue drive-in theatre on Route 88 near Carmichaels.

The plaintiffs, who live on an adjoining farm, aver in the bill of complaint that when the theater was opened in 1948 that reddog and earth was heaped up near the headwaters of a brook which crosses this farm and that the resulting acidity of the stream has made it unfit for the use by cattle and other livestock.

It is also averred that sewage from toilets at the theater has also gone into the stream and that inasmuch as the theater is operated from 7:30 p. m., to 2:30 a. m., that the traffic in and out is an annoyance and causes hardships on them and requires them to spend their summer evenings indoors.

The plaintiffs seek an injunction restraining operation of the theater after 11:30 p. m., and from opening of the theater until the stream condition is cleared and the toilets are reconstructed in accordance with regulations of the state department of forests and streams and bureau of public health.

Spending Cut Urged by Duff

—Washington—
Unless non-defense spending is kept to a minimum, Senator Duff, Republican, Pennsylvania, said Friday, the nation will be destroyed by inflation.

"With the vast expenditures necessary for national defense, it is imperative that all other Government expenditures be at a minimum," he said in a statement.

"Outside national defense, money should only be spent for matters of extreme necessity and then only to the extent of extreme necessity. Otherwise the country will be destroyed or ruined by inflation."

It was Duff's first formal statement since he became senator a week ago.

Ministerial Association Denies 'Racket' Protest

A statement issued by the Greene County Ministerial Association Monday said no official protest has been made by the group concerning vice conditions in this county to District Attorney W. Bertram Waychoff.

The statement arose from the inclusion of the county in the campaign being waged against organized rackets and vice by the United Commission for Social Action in the Monongahela Valley. Seven hundred ministers are reported waging a fight against corruption.

Greene and Washington county officials have protested the inclusion of both as being in the areas where rackets are operating.

The statement which was addressed to the district attorney reads:

1. To the extent of our knowledge, no official protest has been made by any Greene County ministerial group to the office of the District Attorney concerning vice conditions in our county.

2. We are in sympathy with any movement toward civic righteousness anywhere.

3. We are aware of the need for alertness on the part of the law enforcement officers of the county and offer our full support to this end.

He will be in charge of the group which contacts industrial and utility firms, stores and other enterprises and donors of large individual contributions. Members of his committee will be announced soon.

Greene County's quota for this year's drive is $11,218.

In connection with the forthcoming fund drive Dr. G. C. Edson, campaign director pointed out that in a recent communication from the National Headquarters it was stated that:

"The New Year of 1951 is already stained with the red blood of Americans fighting in Korea; all our mobilization is now taking place and no one knows when or if total war will spread until it becomes an international horror of agony and suffering.

"Even those who hope for the best are preparing for the worst because of the dire conditions another war would bring. The Red Cross appeal this year is being made to everyone in the community that the fund drive may be a real success."

"In the past two years," Dr. Edson added, "Greene County failed to reach its assigned quota but then there was not another world war just around the corner, but this year we must not fail. One and all must aid either their services or their contributions because America and the privileges which are dear to all of us are being attacked by a ruthless foe."

The six young men and three women, who were seriously injured Saturday night in a head-on crash of two automobiles, are reported slightly improved.

The accident occurred about 8:57 o'clock on Route 88, near the Millsboro bridge. The victims were from Crucible, Mather and Chartiers Hill.

State Police said the cars were driven by Stanley Nasiatka, 25, of Mather, going south on Route 88, and by Nick Maddich, 20, of Crucible, going north.

The condition of Ralph Santucci of Chartiers Hill, the most seriously injured, is reported unchanged at Brownsville General Hospital. He suffered a severe concussion, fractured skull and facial lacerations.

The condition of Stanley Nasiatka, of Mather, driver of one of the cars, was reported improved at Greene County Memorial Hospital. He has a skull fracture and fracture of the left leg.

The other driver, Nick Maddich, of Crucible, was less seriously hurt and is in Brownsville Hospital.

Leonard Olachsky of Crucible, suffered deep lacerations of the forehead and fractures of the first and second fingers of the right hand.

Frank Filipovich of Crucible, lacerations and fracture of arm.

Maddich has lacerations of the left side of his face and chin, and is in the Brownsville Hospital. The three women were in his car.

Two State Police from Waynesburg happened to be patrolling almost at the scene and reported that Nasiatka went around a curve at excessive speed.

It was necessary to use crowbars to release occupants of both cars who were pinned underneath.

Teamster Burned To Death in Home

James Parkinson, 42 years, a teamster and farmhand, was burned to death, Thursday night about 10:30, when fire of undetermined origin destroyed the small frame cottage in which he lived in the Pickinsville community above Blairtown.

James Parkinson was a son of Harvey Parkinson of Ruff Creek, and the late Lucy Montgomery Parkinson.

Surviving are his father and the following brothers and sisters: Belle, wife of Grover Kiger, Waynesburg; Faye, Rices Landing; May, wife of Peter Mitchell, Wellsburg, W. Va.; Alice, wife of Ralph Knight, near Rogersville; Louis and Alfred Parkinson, both of Waynesburg.

—Detroit—

"What was the charge against the prisoner?" the auditors asked.

"Selling eggs without a license," Evans replied.

College Adjusts Courses to Military Effort

Waynesburg College is preparing to adjust its guidance and educational program to the present national emergency, particularly to the convenience of its men who are to serve in various phases of the military effort.

Plans for these preparations were announced this week by President Paul R. Stewart shortly after he and Rev. Harry E. Gardner of the college, returned from Harrisburg, where they participated in a meeting of the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities.

The Harrisburg conference was an emergency session so that the various liberal arts colleges of the Commonwealth could present a correlated program. The discussion at the meeting included talks by educational leaders from the State and from the various colleges and universities.

Among those representing the State were Mrs. Charlotte Coffroth, Assistant Director of Secondary Education Evaluation, Mrs. Coffroth is a graduate of Waynesburg College and former Greene County resident.

In his statement on the college policy, Dr. Stewart said:

"Waynesburg College will cooperate with the colleges of Pennsylvania and will, as we have always done, adjust ourselves to the needs of the students who are being taken into the defense effort. For the remainder of the year various plans will be discussed by the faculty, including the most effective methods of acceleration.

"As civilians we must streamline our program to be as efficient as possible for the young people who will have their educational plans interrupted. This of course, will entail some revision or reallocation of the staff. The whole tempo of the State conference," Dr. Stewart said, "pointed toward a greater awareness on the part of the administration, the Selective Service, and the military that the colleges are the great reservoirs of future medical, dental, electronic, psychological, linguistic and business thought. The conservation of our students over a long war must be emphasized," different speakers pointed out.

"For instance," Dr. Stewart added, "a communication was received during the conference to the effect that students who are enrolled in a summer term or other form of accelerated program are to be for that period immune from the draft."

Price Controls Explained By Questions and Answers

—Washington—
Here is a "question and answer" explanation of the new price and wage controls.

Q. What prices and wages are controlled?

A. Prices on virtually all goods and services are halted at the levels they reached by midnight last Thursday, with the exception of some farm commodities and such items as rent, insurance, utility rates, doctors' fees and reading matter. Wages are also pegged at the Thursday midnight level.

Q. How long will these controls last?

A. Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston told Congress that the controls are intended to halt inflation while other means—such as stiffer taxes and consumer credit curbs—are found to "cure" the causes of spiraling prices. He "hopes" they will be only temporary.

Q. Will rationing be the next? A. Defense mobilizers say there is plenty of consumer goods on hand and they see no need for rationing in the near future.

Q. Will there be any rollback of prices?

A. The way is left open under the order for "adjustments" in prices, but Price Chief Michael V. DiSalle said the widely rumored rollback to January 2 was discarded because it would have delayed the order three weeks.

Attends Atomic Research Course

Lieutenant Colonel Albert J. Blair, who is in charge of the Medical Department at Camp Atterbury, Indiana, spent the week end with his family here. He was enroute to camp from Washington, D. C., where he had taken a course in medical aspects of atomic energy in the Army Medical Research School in Walter Reed Hospital.

Following is an article by Ivan H. (Cy) Peterman of the Philadelphia Inquirer, who was with the 28th Pennsylvania Division in World War II, and is now covering the Division's activities at Camp Atterbury. The Republican reprinted his series of articles on "Pennsylvania's Own" at that time and will publish his current articles:

Here, fit and ready amid the snows of one of our permanent training bases, is the Pennsylvania 28th Infantry Division, one of Uncle Sam's "hole cards." It represents a well prepared ground outfit capable of fighting anywhere, if needed. In three more months it will be all set.

This is the third alert in one lifetime for the "Bloody Bucket" outfit. Ready and battle-equipped, it was among the first National Guard divisions into the First World War, where it won from General Pershing the name of "Iron Division."

During the Second World War it was in Normandy for the breakthrough, with a bloody baptism near Mortain, followed by the ordeals of the Hurtgen and Ardennes. No Guard division saw more or fiercer combat.

Today, with over six months' intensive training, the 1951 Key-stoners look trim and ready. They have a remarkable record of efficiency and high morale. There have been few shifts in officer personnel, so that those who drilled them back home in the armories are leading them today. Major General Daniel B. Strickler, former Lieutenant-Governor and one who has been with the division through both world wars, is in command. If anyone can tell the men what war is like Dan Strickler qualifies.

At the moment, some of Washington's big brass is inspecting. There are reviews and that sort of thing. The job isn't quite complete, but if anything happened quickly, the 28th could jump in. It seems better prepared for the test than in 1944 among Gathemo's hedgerows.

Not long ago General Strickler reported an astonishing morale among his troops. Hardly any AWOLs. Good health. Practically no VD. Sick calls under three or four per cent. Everyone 'rarin' to go.

Since then colds have discomfited the men, but things are improved now. They all got home for Christmas; five days with half the division and officers taking their leaves for New Year's, so everyone has one big holiday at home. Discipline is excellent. The men feel they're "being taken care of."

The 28th has a lot of combat-experienced men around. Guys, who went through the Hurtzen, (Continued on Page Eight)

THE QUAKER FAMILY OF CRAWFORD

When Commissioner John Steel met with the settlers on the Monongahela in 1785, among those he met at Redstone were James and Josiah Crawford, whose names are listed in his report. There can be little doubt that these men had been here for some time prior to that date. Certainly this Josiah (or Josiah) Crawford was the same man who made an improvement on upper Muddy Creek in the year 1766, which improvement he later sold to William McCleary, and which was located in the vicinity of Jacob Cline's Fort. (Washington County Deed Book 1-A-195.) In his "History of Washington County" Crumrine, who knew and lived among many of the descendants of these two men reported that they opened ferries over the Monongahela as early as 1770, but he erroneously included Oliver Crawford as a brother of these two men. Oliver Crawford did open a ferry on Muddy Creek about this time as will be shown, but he was not a brother of James and Josiah Crawford.

The ancestor of this Quaker family of Crawfords was James Crawford, probably of that part of Baltimore County, Maryland, which later went to form Harford County. He lived on a tract of land known as "Double Purchase Plantation," when he made his will which was filed in Baltimore County in 1755. There are a number of references to James Crawford in the Black Books of Maryland, and one mentioning his son James distinctly shows that they were members of the Society of Friends. The will of James Crawford shows he left a wife, Sarah. (Baltimore County Will Book 2, pp. 100-101.) Mr. Ellis B. Hawkins of New Wilmington, Pennsylvania, has supplied an abstract of this will, and traced a number of the descendants.

Children of James and Sarah Crawford

1. James Crawford, Jr., born in Maryland, died near Chillicothe, Ohio, one of the ferrymen.
2. Josiah Crawford, born in Maryland, died in Luzerne Township, Fayette County, Pennsylvania, about 1822. Also operated a ferry on the Monongahela.
3. Mordcaai Crawford, settled in Fayette County.
4. Elias Crawford, was in Greene County. Name found in the Muddy Creek Ledger.
5. John Crawford.
6. Jennet Crawford.
7. Ruth Crawford.
8. Sarah Crawford.
9. Hannah Crawford.
10. Rebecca Crawford.

Family of James Crawford, Jr.

James Crawford, Jr., was born in Maryland, probably the James Crawford, Quaker, who contributed to the sufferers of the Boston Fire, while living in Baltimore County, September 6, 1760. He is definitely the James Crawford who settled on the Monongahela before 1768, and named by Commissioner Steel. He is the James Crawford who opened a ferry on the Fayette County side of the river, opposite the mouth of Fish Pot Run, near the present LaBelle Coal Works. He then bought land on the Washington County side of the river for a landing for his ferry. On January 1, 1781, he is shown to have moved his membership from Deer Creek Monthly Meeting to Hopewell Monthly Meeting in Frederick County, Virginia, and later his family is shown to be members of Westlands Monthly Meeting in Washington County, Pennsylvania. His wife is not given in the removal from Deer Creek to Hopewell, but the certificate names most of his children. Mr. Hawkins says he died near Chillicothe, Ohio. At his death his son, John Crawford, inherited the Fayette County land, along with the ferry property, while his son, Joseph, inherited the salt works in Washington County.

Children of James Crawford

1. James Crawford.
2. William Crawford, born in Maryland, December 1765, died in Fayette County, Pennsylvania, October 27, 1860. His wife was Margaret Wilson, born in Maryland in December 1775, died April 4, 1839. They were buried first in the Crawford Cemetery opposite Millsboro, but at a later date the remains were moved to the cemetery at Millsboro, where markers were erected. Named in certificate to Hopewell Monthly Meeting.
3. Children of William and Margaret (Wilson) Crawford
  1. Benjamin Crawford, married Mariah Anderson.
  2. Margaret Crawford, born December 20, 1803, died October 21, 1859, never married.

3. Hannah Crawford, born April 5, 1805, died October 1, 1887, married Ephriam Crawford, son of Joseph and Hannah (Hufford) Crawford. He was born April 13, 1803, and died September 9, 1893. Both are buried in the old Redstone Cemetery.
4. Ann Crawford, married Zephaniah Crawford, son of Joseph and Hannah (Hufford) Crawford.

Family of Josiah Crawford

He met with the commissioners at Fort Redstone in 1768 in an endeavor to convince them that the settlers were wanted by the Indians and considered them friends. With his brother, James Crawford, he accumulated much land on the Monongahela River between Brownsville and LaBelle, and was in 1770, owner of a ferry near Brownsville. Probably gave his name to Crawford's Riffles, a shallow place in the Monongahela River about where the Brownsville Dam now is located. Hopewell Monthly Meeting reports that Josiah Crawford and wife, Cassandra, with eight of their ten children, were joined to that Society on November 5, 1781. ## Count Tricziulny Forgotten Canal Planner of Pennsylvania

—Harrisburg—

Henry W. Shoemaker, President of the Pennsylvania Folklore Society, State Museum, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, today said Karl Casper Stegner Tricziulny, a Polish count, is the forgotten planner of Pennsylvania canals which were to criss-cross the Commonwealth and bring water transportation to every door. He also promoted the Lakes to the Seas waterway first advocated by Peter Aberlard Karthaus, a system of slack water dams for Chesapeake Bay to Emporium and a large canal through Elk Creek to Erie, whereby full sized sailing vessels could be towed by tugs, making Erie, as he called it, "The American Antwerp." Shoemaker said:

"But time was running out on Tricziulny, a versatile transportation genius, as railroad building 'ditched' his Lake Erie-Chesapeake project and all but ended his brilliantly conceived system of Canals. His blue print of it all, preserved in Dr. Eddy's Public Records Division at Harrisburg, shows the gigantic scheme to make waterways further commerce and internal improvement. "Born on his ancestral estates in Poland in 1767, the Count came to America in 1793 to avoid persecution at the hands of Russian Cossacks.

"Count Tricziulny arrived in a period of national expansion, the new world was being developed and industrialized. Governor Wolf named a Canal Commission to push forward the construction of inland waterways, and Count Tricziulny was appointed chief engineer. He pushed forward the projects well and held the post as long as he lived, even though railroads, first devised in Pennsylvania by his friendly German rival, Frederick List, were to finally replace water by steam as the great propelling power in Pennsylvania.

"His long life of usefulness and as a great Pennsylvania ended in 1851 and he was laid to rest under the giant softly sighing, white pines in Bellefonte Cemetery. His old friend, War Governor Andrew G. Curtin, when he died in 1894, was laid beside him. In 1926 the Pennsylvania Geographic Board, at the suggestion of Governor Gifford Pinchot, named the lofty peak which over looks his grave, Mount Tricziulny, eternally honoring this noted figure in folklore and history and calling attention to his brilliant and colorful career."

the Railroads RESPECT ...

the Labor Unions seek to REPUDIATE this agreement!

What is the TRUTH?

At various states in the present dispute with the brotherhoods of railroad operating employees ... the railroads agreed to arbitrate. The union leaders refused. ... the railroads accepted the recommendations of President Truman's Emergency Board. The union leaders refused. ... the railroads accepted the White House proposal of August 19, 1950. The union leaders refused. Finally an Agreement was signed at the White House on December 21, 1950. Now the union leaders seek to repudiate the Agreement. The railroads stand ready to put the terms of this Agreement into effect immediately, with back pay at the rates and date indicated. The Agreement is given in full below:

MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT

Washington, D. C. December 21, 1950

1. Establish 40 hour week for yardmen with increase of 23 cents effective October 1, 1950, and additional 2 cents effective January 1, 1951.

Effective with the first pay roll period after 30 days from the date of execution of the formal agreement, yardmen required by the carrier to work on the 7th day to be paid overtime rates except engineers who shall receive straight time rates for the 7th day. This does not create guarantees where they do not now exist. On and after October 1, 1951, three months' notice to be given of desire to go on 40 hour week. Provide for consideration of availability of manpower and 4 cents per hour if and when the 40 hour week actually becomes effective.
3. Settle rules for 40 hour week and 6 day week.
4. Grant yard conductors and brakemen other rules such as daily earnings minimum, car retarder operators and footboard yardmasters as recommended by Emergency Board No. 81.
5. Settle following rules:
  - Initial Terminal Delay (Conductors and Trainmen)
  - Interdivisional Runs
  - Pooling Caboose (Conductors and Trainmen)
  - Reporting for Duty
  - More than One Class of Service
  - Switching Limits
  - Air Hose (Conductors and Trainmen)
  - Western Differential and Double Header and Tonage Limitation (Conductors and Trainmen, all Territories)
6. Road men to receive 5 cents per hour increase effective October 1, 1950 and additional 5 cents per hour increase effective January 1, 1951.
7. Quarterly adjustment of wages on basis of cost of living index (1 point to equal 1¢ per hour. First adjustment April 1, 1951. Base to be 176).

8. Agreement embodying principles applicable to yardmasters to be entered into for benefit of yardmasters.

9. Effective October 1, 1950, the basic hours of dining car stewards shall be reduced from 225 to 205 hours per month; no penalty overtime to accrue until 240 hours have been worked, the hours between 205 and 240 to be paid for at the pro rata rate.

Effective February 1, 1951, overtime at time and one-half shall accrue after 220 hours have been worked. The basic monthly salary to be paid for the 205-hour month shall be the same as that now paid for the 225-hour month. Except that four dollars and ten cents ($4.10) shall be added to the present monthly rate effective January 1, 1951.

10. In consideration of above, this agreement to be effective until October 1, 1953, and thereafter until changed or modified under provisions of Railway Labor Act. Moratorium on proposals for changes in wages or rules until October 1, 1953, as follows:

No proposals for changes in rates of pay, rules or working conditions will be initiated or progressed by the employees against any carrier or by any carrier against its employees, parties hereto, within a period of three years from October 1, 1950, except such proposals for changes in rules or working conditions which may have been initiated prior to June 1, 1950. Provided, however, that if as the result of government wage stabilization policy, workers generally have been permitted to receive so-called annual improvement increases, the parties may meet with Doctor Steelman on or after July 1, 1952, to discuss whether or not further wage adjustments for employees covered by this agreement are justified, in addition to increases received under the cost of living formula. At the request of either party for such a meeting Doctor Steelman shall fix the time and place for such meeting. Doctor Steelman and the parties may secure information from the wage stabilization authorities or other government agencies. If the parties are unable to agree at such conferences whether or not further wage adjustments are justified they shall ask the President of the United States to appoint a referee who shall sit with them and consider all pertinent information, and decide promptly whether further wage increases are justified and, if so, what such increases should be, and the effective date thereof. The carrier representatives shall have one vote, the employee representatives shall have one vote and the referee shall have one vote.

11. If the parties cannot agree on details of agreement or rules they shall be submitted to John R. Steelman for final decision.

The usual protections for arbitrators, miscellaneous rates, special allowances, and existing money differentials above existing standard daily rates will be included in the formal agreement.

** The foregoing will not debar management and committees on individual railroads from mutually agreeing upon changes in rates, rules and working conditions of employees covered by this agreement.

Cleanliness Pays Off in Extra Profit for Successful Dairyman

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

Cleanliness is one of the "good management musts" of the successful dairy farmer. Often it represents the difference between red and black ink in his account book. And, many times, it tips the scales in the farmer's favor.

PLENTY OF HOT WATER—in milk house pays dividends to farmer.

When the question of premium quality hangs in the balance.

For the use of clean milking utensils, plus proper cooling and the application of routine sanitary measures in the barn and milk house, results in low bacteria count—a condition on which creameries and customers pay off.

There is nothing like plenty of hot water to help keep milk cans and other utensils spotlessly clean. To have it available in the milk house is a convenience that saves many hours of time, and eliminates waste effort in carrying hot water from the farm kitchen.

There are two kinds of electric water heaters used by dairymen—pressure and the non-pressure or "pour-in"

D. Smith of Waynesburg and Glancy Smith of Elwood City, were Saturday guests in the V. L. Fordyce home.

Carelton Conway and family of Orrville, Ohio, were week end guests of Mr. Conway's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Conway.

The pressure type is identical with that used in the residence. It is used in connection with a pressure water system and provides a supply sufficient for all purposes at the turn of a faucet. The non-pressure heater holds approximately 10 gallons of water and does not need either water pressure or piping systems. In operation, hot water is forced out the bottom faucet when cold water is poured in at the top.

The smallest heater which a farmer should consider is one that provides one fourth more water than is required for any single hour of dairy operations.

Some water heater installations combine washing troughs and tanks. Others include attachments for sterilizing utensils after they have been washed.

In general, an electric water heater supplies from 3 to 4 gallons of hot water per kilowatt-hour, depending upon the temperature of the water supplied at the source and that drawn off.

Boy, 3, Trapped By Frosty Pipe

—Alton, Ill.—

It was a hot summer day and three-year-old Mark Bury saw a frosty white pipe leading from the Shearburn Ice Cream Company plant into an ice cream truck. He thought it was ice cream. So he stood on tiptoes to touch his tongue to it.

Instead of ice cream it was a frosted ammonia pipe. Fifteen minutes later neighbors, armed with hot packs, thawed the pipe enough to free him from the tongue trap and treat him for minor burns.

Descendants of the ancient cedars of Lebanon are planted in Arlington National Cemetery.

Cancer Society Health Exhibit

A new and completely different idea in health exhibits is now being shown in Greene County by the local unit of the American Cancer Society. The display is in the form of a three panelled board and illustrates the seven danger signals of cancer. Some parts are controlled by a small electric motor and the unit is constructed in such a way as to be convenient for both counter and window display.

Literature concerning cancer is a component part of the exhibit and may be taken free of charge. Through the efforts of Mrs. John Rock, a Cancer Society volunteer worker, the display will be shown all over Greene County. To date, it has appeared in store windows of Weaver's at Sycamore; Hopkins' at Nineveh; and Stagers and Kimmel at Graysville, with the schedule calling for it to be seen next at Wind Ridge in Braddock Brothers Store.

The value of the exhibit can be seen in the fact that it has been awarded a certificate of merit prize by the American Public Health Association. The display is expected to be shown in the county for a period of three to four months.

Jury Favors Miss Kellems

—New Haven, Conn.—

A Federal jury decided last week that Vivien Kellems had not acted "willfully" in refusing to withhold income taxes from her employes' pay envelopes. It returned a verdict entitling her to recovery of most of the $7,819 seized by the Government as penalties for defying the law.

Miss Kellems, long an opponent of the withholding tax, was ecstatic at the verdict. "It's wonderful," she told newsmen and attorneys. "I'm delighted."

Government attorneys, obviously surprised, said they probably would appeal. As a first step, said Fred Neuland, special assistant to the attorney general who defended the Government, a motion to set aside the verdict already had been prepared.

Fifty-Year History of Greene County Sports

By GEORGE N. THOMAS

WAYNESBURG BASEBALL INDEPENDENTS 1922-24

Joe Hooker Phillips, in the waning years of his career in the early 1920's, managed one of the best independent ball clubs Waynesburg and Greene County had ever seen.

As the twenties rolled around, Bill Lockard's American Steel Company nine was finishing three fairly good seasons, but the community was ready for more classic ball playing. It had been five years since Clyde Call's powerful club had broken up and almost two decades since John Koebert's sensational Independents had burned up the baseballs.

In the spring of 1922, Waynesburg's "grand old man of baseball," Joe Phillips, started a three-year conquest of district sandlot baseball as a manager. Each June of 1922, 1923 and 1924, he would scoop up the cream of the diamond crop from College Heights and meld it with district standouts.

Under Phillips' wing was a group of "real" ball players. They were "real" players because they not only played their position superbly and batted the apple well, but they could move about and fill in any place when needed. Hooker had only two regular outfielders, Bill Reid and Red Irwin. The other garden post was filled in by one of his five strong pitchers, Bill (Chip) Helmick, Ira (Budget) Tustin, Billy Keefe, "Snuffy" Spencer and Wally Rhine. When a game was in the bag, infielders Arthur Main and Harry McHenry would step to the slab and often were just as effective.

Once in a while, when the team was riding high and could afford to monkey around a bit, the boys would get together and tell Hooker they all had some arms and ask him to pitch. To show them the "old man" wasn't all washed up in baseball, Hooker pitched and won two complete games and started several others. And he didn't lose a game.

Along with Main and McHenry in the infield were Stanley Granger, Joe Verasco, Andy Fisher and Clem Beveridge. Frank Havanas was catcher. Fisher, who was imported from Star City, W. Va., when he could have played for a number of top-notch clubs, was one of the best first sackers ever seen on county sandlots.

The county's favorite diamond sons had a great season in 1922, then tapered off a bit the following year and wound up in a merger the year after that. With interest gone, Hooker Phillips went back into pro ball at Fairmont.

The team was hot in '22. It couldn't be stopped. That is, it almost couldn't be stopped. It won 38 games and tied two in 45 contests. In late summer the Waynesburg businessmen got them together for an elaborate banquet.

On July 4, 1922, Buffington's Fayette County champions, took on the locals with Chip Helmick hurling. Waynesburg trounced them, 17-4, scoring 14 runs in the sixth inning.

In August, a United States Marine baseball team stopped here for a game. The Marines had not been beaten in six years their publicity notices said. A youngster named Phillips from Greensboro, who had just joined the local team, started the game and did all right for three innings, but reliable Budget Tustin came in to finish the contest and give Waynesburg a 7-2 win, snapping the Marines' long winning streak.

The opposition was mighty happy when the '22 season ended, but falling leaves were not welcomed by Hooker's boys. As a club they had hit .327. Bill Helmick was quite outstanding. Not only did he win 11 out of 13 games he pitched, but hit .436 to lead the team and slugged out seven homers. Before he had put away his uniform, his signature was on a Boston Red Sox contract.

Harry McHenry batted .388 for the season for second high. Budget Tustin won 14 and lost two games, Snuffy Spencer had a 3-0 record and Hooker a 2-0 mark for slab duty.

E. H. Sackville of Washington, who made so many trips to Waynesburg with talent-loaded baseball teams that he became known here affectionately as "Ernie," spent as much as $5,000 in one season to beat the locals. This three-year series will be taken up later.

Eager to renew the old rivalry between the communities the Washington Independents approved an 11-game series submitted by Manager Phillips. The Washingtonians copped the first battle by a close 5-4 score, but Waynesburg bounced back, behind Budget Tustin, to win 6-1. Then Tustin and Chip Helmick took turns in handcuuffing Washington in two more contests. Washington often got desperate. Although the splitball had been outlawed by the big leagues, Washington's manager insisted on letting his ringer toss it against Waynesburg in a game here.

1922 WAYNESBURG INDEPENDENTS

Hooker, a veteran of 20 years of minor league ball at the time, stood on his heels and cried, "No!" At the same time he waved his team to the bench and waved in the umpire who was from the Pittsburgh Association. The umpire ruled against Washington.

An 18-year-old sandlot star, "Snuffy" Spencer, did most of Washington's hurling. After Tustin and Helmick thoroughly laced the youngster in the third and fourth games, the Washington manager turned to Hooker and said: "My team's finished. They've held together several weeks only to get back at Waynesburg. Can we cancel the seven games left?"

Hooker had no choice, but agree. When Waynesburg's players stepped off the W & W railroad at the local depot, they had an extra player. Hooker convinced Snuffy Spencer he belonged to a winning club. After all, Snuffy had held Waynesburg hitless and scoreless for six innings and no other pitcher the locals faced until then was able to do that.

Waynesburg played a one-sided series with Mather in 1922. Eight times Mather tried to break the locals' spell and eight times they failed. Once Mather imported a Jeannette pitcher named Toothman who had won 16 straight games. By the second inning, Hooker's Independents unmercifully pounded him. Mather cancelled three remaining games.

The 1922 aggregation was never equaled by Hooker Phillips' 1923 and 1924 clubs. The 1923 team played about 500 ball and the season was highlighted only by another brief but exciting series with the Sackville Stogies. Mather was after Phillips as a manager in 1923. He made an unsuccessful start at Mather, then returned to Waynesburg late in May. On his squad were Harry McHenry, Ross Minor, Frank Wolf, Andy Fisher, Budget Tustin, Ernie Brock, Hallie Long, John O'Malley, Paul Masters, Burlin (Mike) Willis, Stanley Granger, Stone McGoye, McWilliams, Rider, Mateoski, Coulter, Grim, Toothman and Wildman. Likewise, the 1924 diamond crew broke even in season play. That was the year of the merger. Ernie Sackville figured if he couldn't beat Waynesburg he might as well join them.

Even in the merger, Hooker, the shrewd bargainer, selected the first name of the club and the Waynesburg Stogies emerged. In the deal came catcher Bill Amos, a recent All-American from Washington and Jefferson College, and his team mate, "Whoopsey" Wild, an infielder.

The powerhouse lineup also included Harry McHenry, 2b; Joe Klinger, 1b; Red Irwin, cf; Bowman, ss; Joe Verasco, 3b; Bill Helmick, p and rf; Teed Carroll, lf; Frank Havanas, c, and Semmler, p. Klinger came to the club unpolished but when Hooker taught him to hit curves, he moved into the big leagues.

Late in the season the team played an exhibition tilt with Goodyear Rubber team, in Akron. The phone rang in Hooker's room.

"This is Fenway, Cleveland Indian scout, Mr. Phillips, who's worth watching on your squad?" Elated that the Indians would be interested in his modest club, Hooker proceeded to outline the abilities of his star athletes. He didn't hear the snickering going on in the background on the other end of the line.

Months later, Stanley Granger and Harry McHenry told Hooker that they were the "scout." "Strategy Joe" Phillips won nothing but praise the three years he managed Waynesburg teams between 1922 and 1924. They loved him in the county because he more than held his own when playing in faster company. Visiting teams often praised Waynesburg's cleverness. Hooker would do anything if it meant a Waynesburg victory. Once, when the fans suggested the club might win more games if he had a haircut, Joe submitted to the scissors. The team came out of its slump two days later.

A reporter asked Hooker recently to name the best team he ever managed. "Oh, give me that 1922 Independent team," he said. "They were even a better lot than Fairmont, Cumberland, Portsmouth and Jeannette."

College Holds Memorial Services for Three Men

The attribute of exemplary devotion which three men long prominent in Waynesburg College athletics, had for their school was the underlying theme of a memorial service Thursday morning in the college gymnasium.

Those whose memories were honored and whose deaths occurred recently were Dr. Thomas D. Whittles, coach and player with the school's first football team in 1895; George "Chuck" Karmarkovich, basketball star and high scoring record holder, and J. Stanton "Stan" Keck, who was football coach and athletic director at the time of his sudden death January 20.

It was a deeply impressive service and was attended by the student body, representatives of the board of trustees, faculty members and townspeople. The joint memorial was held because of the deaths all having occurred within a short time of one another.

For the text of his memorial address President Paul R. Stewart of the college selected the passage "Take thy shoes from off thy feet, the place whereon thou standest is Holy ground."

Speaking of Dr. Whittles he pointed out that his idea of exemplary devotion to the college had taken the form of substantial gifts such as collections of valuable minerals donated to the museum, construction of the mezzanine room in the gymnasium now used as a museum but later as a physical education classroom, and establishment of a fund for education of young men in the Presbyterian ministry. His life, Dr. Stewart said, had reached its full "three score and ten" years.

Of Mr. Keck, Dr. Stewart said that although his life was only little more than the Biblical span, that he had lived a full lifetime in the matter of devotion to the college and his fellow men.

"We here at Waynesburg knew of no one who was kinder in his heart toward everyone than Mr. Keck," Dr. Stewart said. "Although he lived less than his allotted span it does not matter because man lives in the deeds he does and from the viewpoint of exemplary service he had lived the equivalent of a full lifetime."

Speaking of Mr. Karmarkovich, who had lived less than a quarter of a full lifetime, Dr. Stewart art recalled him as "a youth whom we shall always remember for a cheery smile and a pleasant 'hello' to everyone."

Referring to the gymnasium setting as an appropriate place for the memorial services, Dr. Stewart said that in effect "in this room with these baskets is Holy Ground as we recall with bowed heads that we never knew Chuck Karmarkovich to do other than his best on the playing floor. This too," he reminded the assemblage, "was another form of exemplary devotion to Waynesburg College."

An improvised rostrum, with a background of ferns, occupied the center circle of the basketball court. The glee club, which sang sacred numbers, was seated to the right of the speakers' dais. Those participating in the program at the right and the students and others on the east bleachers.

Participating in the program were Rev. Harry Gardner, who gave the invocation; Rev. Robert J. Bowden, who read the scripture lesson; Rev. J. E. Victor Carlson, who offered the prayer; Rev. Dr. G. C. Edson, who pronounced the benediction; George M. Fabry of the Lettermen's Club and Harry Fowler, captain of the basketball team.

Canonsburg Bests Waynesburg High 23-22 In Exciting Fray

Hitting the High Spots By JACK HAMMERS

Now that a national emergency has been declared and building curtailed somewhat, it looks like it will be a long, long time before the proposed new college field is even started. We think it would be nice if the college would spend a few dollars and put some much needed improvements on the present field.

Nothing elaborate would have to be done. Just a building decent enough for the teams to rest in during the half, a couple of rest rooms for the fans, some safer bleacher seats, and a building for a hot dog stand would be fine.

Last year the local American Legion Post, along with contributions from local fans installed lights for night baseball to start the improvement. The college, and the high school which also uses the field, should continue along these lines. We feel it would be money well spent.

If college football isn't big business wonder why all the schools in the district are in such a hurry to pick up Duquesne players now that the Dukes have dropped the sport?

So Branch Rickey wants a pennant for Pittsburgh by 1954 eh? Seems to me I remember someone promising the Bucs would have the National League flag by '50. Looks like all the fans are sure of is promises.

The passing of Stan Keck left college officials with a vacancy they will never be able to fill. The post can be filled, but no one will ever take the place of Stan in the hearts of local fans. A great loss to all of us.

In one of the best wrestling matches ever seen in the Waynesburg High gym, the Red Raiders of Waynesburg High came within a cat's whisker of pulling the upset of the year as they held the powerful Gunners of Canonsburg to a 23-22 score.

The Raiders took the lead at 3-0, saw Canonsburg run it to 11-3 before Kurtz tied it up. The Raiders at this point looked like they had the upset of the year in the bag. Canonsburg came back to life to once again go ahead. That left Johnny Higgins as the man to insure a Raider victory. If he could pin Hunter that would be it. Hunter held on tough and Higgins had to settle for a decision.

Results: 88—Herrod (W) decisioned Antonelli 3-0. 95—Hulings (C) pinned T. Crouse 2:05 2nd period. 103—M. Pihakis (C) decisioned L. Crouse 6-0.

112—J. Pihakis (C) decisioned Gorman 4-0. 120—Barna (W) pinned Sroka 1:02 2nd period. 127—Kurtz (W) decisioned George 6-0.

133—Shirk (W) decisioned DeFelice 4-0. 138—Wright (W) decisioned Scouluhas 10-2. 145—Abraham (C) pinned Conner 2:20 2nd period. 154—Soloman (C) pinned Wise 1:42 2nd period. 165—Barclay (W) drew with Parley 5-5.

185—Higgins (W) decisioned Hunter 9-6. Referee: Paul Rose.
