Eisenhower Needs Six U. S. Divisions in Europe

—Washington—
General Dwight D. Eisenhower has told the House Armed Services Committee that the United States should have six divisions of ground troops in Europe by the end of this year.

With two U. S. divisions already in the occupation army in Germany, this would mean that four more divisions would have to be sent this year to build the American strength to the desired goal.

The official report on Eisenhower's testimony before the committee said the General did not "detail the precise amount of American ground, air or sea power which will be assigned to Europe, but he did say that the transfer of some additional units to Europe will be essential."

Eisenhower also emphasized that speed was important. He said one unit sent soon would be the equivalent of three sent later in stiffening the morale of Western Europe.

The General said that the European members of the Atlantic Pact group would have to supply the bulk of the ground troops but that the American contribution was of the highest importance because "of the physical and psychological factors now involved in the collective armament program."

Dividing his time between the House Armed Forces and the Senate Armed Services Committees, Eisenhower urged the Senators to approve the pending Universal Military Training and Service bill.

He said he favored drafting men for 27 months of service, but from a soldier's point of view, he said, it made little difference to him whether they were drafted at 18 or 19 years of age. The pending bill provides for the draft of 18-year-olds for a 27-month period of service.

Bill to Curb Reds Ready For State

A bill to curb subversive activities of Reds will be introduced in the Legislature under sponsorship of Americans Battling Communism.

The first provision of the bill, entitled "Subversive Activities Act of 1951," would outlaw agents and agencies of the international Communist organization.

It also would make members of Communist "action" or Communist front organizations ineligible for employment by the state.

The bill describes a Communist "action" group as one which is controlled or dominated by "the foreign government or foreign organization controlling the World Communist movement and operating primarily to advance the objectives of such world Communist movement."

Communist "front" organization is labeled as one which is controlled by an "action" group, a Communist foreign government or the Communist movement.

The proposed measure also would deny any professional or organizational charter or license to any individual or group affiliated with Communism.

It would bar from candidacy for public office any member of the international Communist organization, Communist action or Communist front groups. Such persons also would be barred from office in any organization in the state.

The penalty for violation of any of the security act provisions would be 10-20 years imprisonment and a fine of at least $10,000 as well as loss of all state license, charters and privileges.

The bill further provides: "The attorney general shall cause to be investigated all persons, corporations, associations, groups or organizations otherwise herein defined for the purpose of determining whether the same are within the scope of this act, and his determination shall be presumed to be conclusive for all public purposes."

Newly-elected officers of Americans Battling Communism include Attorney Harry Alan Sherman, chairman; John Ladecis, vice chairman; Julie Coax, executive secretary, and Paul Kazimer, treasurer.

Hugh McKenna, Judges Harry M. Montgomery and Blair F. Gunther, Stanley Bakanas and Theodore L. Moritz make up the executive committee.

Fire Insurance Rates Revised

—Harrisburg—
The State Insurance Department has disclosed that Pennsylvania fire insurance rates have been readjusted to bring about a net annual premium reduction of $573,000.

The net saving in premiums for Pittsburghers will be about $35,000 a year.

Insurance department officials said no private residences will be affected, the cut going to mercantile, industrial and educational buildings.

In revising the 1949 rate adjustment manual, the Middle Department Association of Fire Underwriters said rate inconsistencies had developed.

The revised rates have been in effect since January 1, the department said.

Nevada Atom Blasts Pave Way to Bigger Stockpile

Top defense officials appear delighted with Nevada experiments in which smaller and more deadly atomic detonations may pave the way to almost doubling the nation's stockpile and output of terrible weapons.

There is widespread belief that American scientists are perfecting in these experiments the detonation of the dread hydrogen "hell-bomb."

Smaller and deadlier atomic detonations also constitute a giant step toward creation of atomic warheads for artillery shells and guided missiles.

There are further possible developments: If a smaller quantity of fissionable material can be used to make an atom bomb, then America's bomb-building capacity can be increased sharply.

A successful hydrogen bomb is brought closer to reality. Tremendous heat to trigger the H-bomb and fuse—rather than split—its atoms is one of the problems. A "hotter" A-bomb at the trigger may be the answer.

Republican Senators Urge More Economy; Not Taxes

—Washington—
Republican leaders are demanding that new taxes avoid efforts by Congress to make drastic cuts in President Truman's spending budget.

At the same time, Sen. Byrd (D.) Virginia, issued a statement proposing a slash of $9,100,000,000 in Mr. Truman's $71,500,000,000 spending proposals for the year beginning next July 1. Sen. O'Connor (D.) Maryland, called for a $5,288,000,000 cut.

Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, top Republican on the Senate Appropriations Committee, told a reporter that Mr. Truman's request for a $10,000,000,000 "quickie" tax increase "is nothing more than government by crystal ball." He said:

"How can the President ask for new taxes before he knows how much revenue we need? We should see first how much money we can save by cutting the fat out of government spending.

"This administration has failed to foresee the future in so many ways that it is most difficult to give requests for new taxes serious consideration at this time."

NOW THEREFORE, I, R. Wallace Maxwell, Burgess of the Borough of Waynesburg, do hereby proclaim Friday, February 9, 1951, "WORLD DAY OF PRAYER" in the Borough of Waynesburg, and call upon the people of Waynesburg to observe this day as an individual invitation to attend a specific World Day of Prayer meeting; and, if the duties of some are such as to make this impossible, I urge them to pause for their work for one minute of prayer at High Noon, to ask that God give us light to guide us, courage to support us, and love to reunite them once or often to ring their hearts and minds for the observance of the minute of prayer.

Allies Knock Chinese Reds From Main Seoul Defense

United Nations forces have knocked the Chinese Reds from their main line of defense south of Seoul, an Army spokesman said.

Spokesman said the Chinese have withdrawn five and one-half miles into a new mountain line less than six miles below the Han River.

The Han skirts the southern edge of the Red-occupied South Korean capital.

The Allied capture of Hill 431 made the enemy's whole line of resistance untenable. The hill is 12 miles south-southwest of Seoul.

Hill 431 was the key to the mass of hills from which the strongly entrenched Chinese had impeded the progress of the UN limited offensive in the west.

Chinese rearward units fought stubborn delaying actions to cover the withdrawal. Allied troops methodically eliminated pockets of Red resistance.

The Army spokesman said the enemy has reinforced heavily his positions along the Han River and intends to make a determined stand on the south side of the river to defend Seoul.

The western front was quiet through Tuesday night. Only one patrol clash was reported.

Some United Nations forces were reported only three air miles south of ruined Seoul. Allied artillery, warplanes and warships offshore poured a withering stream of fire all day into the battle area where Chinese troops were swarming.

In Tokyo there were reports that General MacArthur has recommended to Washington that Chinese Nationalist troops be used against the Communist Chinese forces in Korea and elsewhere.

Informed sources said the veteran UN field commander believes the Nationalists should be supported in a thrust against the Chinese mainland as well as be used in Korea as needed.

81 Killed, 380 Injured In PRR Wreck

—Woodbridge, N. J.—
A speeding Pennsylvania Railroad commuter train cracked up on a temporary overpass Tuesday night killing at least 81 persons. At least 400 were injured.

The train plunged some 20 feet from the trestle to a street below. The 11-car train roared onto the trestle and swayed sickeningly. Then the steam engine left the rails, dragging five of the cars with it. The crash occurred at 5:43 p. m.

The train—"The Broker"—was carrying passengers on the wealthy North Jersey Shore from New York City 30 miles away. The train carried a large number of commuters who normally travel on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, which was shut down by the switchmen's "sick call" walkout. Both lines service the area.

Railroad men on the scene said the new trestle was put into service only Tuesday and the wrecked train was one of the first few to cross it.

Engineer A. Fitzsimmons, a veteran railroad man, who escaped death, denied reports the train was running at too great a speed.

Compensation Referees Ok'd

—Harrisburg—
A majority of workmen's compensation referees were back on the state payroll today after the Democratic "solid front" in the Senate caved in under pressure from labor.

The Democrats, who had threatened to hold up all confirmations unless given the chance to unseat Attorney General Charles J. Morganti, voted to confirm 11 referees and a workmen's compensation board member.

Democrats unanimously voted to confirm the 12 men after labor groups had complained that claims from injured workers were backing up and causing financial distress.

'The Tenmile Country and Its Pioneer Families'

(COPYRIGHT, 1950, By HOWARD L. LECKEY)

THE SWAN-HUGHES BIBLE

Much of the data used in the history of the families of Charles Lucas, John Swan, and Thomas Hughes, is taken from an old Family Bible, pages of which are here reproduced. It was first reported to us by M. Marie Perrin Lemley, a professional genealogist of Los Angeles, California, who copied the records from it, at the home of Thomas Hughes in Palms, California, in the Fall of 1916. At that time Mrs. Lemley described the Bible as being bound in deer skin, faced with the same material, with the hole left in the skin, showing the mark made by the bullet, with the pages worn at the edges, blotting out some of the dates. Then in 1940, Mr. Henry Swan of Denver, Colorado, visited Mr. Hughes, who permitted the Bible to be photographed, after which Mr. Swan sent copies of these photographs to the author.

Mr. Thomas Hughes, owner of the Swan-Hughes Bible, was born at Rices Landing, Pennsylvania, on August 25, 1859, a son of James and Mary Francis (Kline) Hughes, grandson of Thomas and Sarah (Swan) Hughes, a great-grandson of Thomas and Elizabeth (Swan) Hughes, great-great-grandson of John and Elizabeth (Lucas) Swan, (two lines) and great-great-grandson of Charles and Elizabeth (Evans) Hughes. Mrs. Lemley and Mr. Swan are direct descendants of John and Elizabeth (Lucas) Swan.

This Bible, which we have designated the "Swan-Hughes Bible," as shown in the photograph was printed by T. Wood and E. Palmer for the Company of Stationers, in London, England, in the year 1732. It was probably first the property of Charles and Elizabeth (Evans) Lucas of Prince George's County, Maryland, passing from them to their eldest daughter, Elizabeth (Lucas) Swan, who brought it to the Tenmile Country. At her death or more probably, at the time of marriage, the Bible passed to the eldest daughter, Elizabeth, wife of Thomas Hughes. One can but stop and ponder over the romantic wanderings of this precious volume of authentic records. One error alone may be recognized, and that does not surprise since it is carried out on a tombstone record. This record says John Swan was born in 1721, and died in 1799, whereas the will of John Swan as filed in Greene County shows that it was signed by John Swan on November 3, 1800. As this will was probated on January 6, 1801, it is evident that John Swan must have died about December 1800, rather than in 1799, the dates of the Swan-Hughes Bible and his tombstone.

JOHN SWAN, PIONEER

The best known, but by no means the first permanent settler of the Tenmile Country, to distinguish him from his father and son of the same name. John Swan, pioneer, was a son of John Swan, who in 1722, bought a tract of land in Anne Arundel County, Maryland, known as "Evans' Range." The elder John Swan had married about 1720, the widow, Elizabeth (Green) Foster. Her first husband, John Foster had died, leaving four sons, John, Richard, Thomas, and Hugh a daughter, Condit Swan, and a son, John Swan, the pioneer, who was born in 1721. The elder John Swan died about 1727.

John Swan, pioneer, married about 1744, Elizabeth Lucas, daughter of Charles and Elizabeth (Evans) Lucas. The names of her brothers and sisters and the dates of their births are to be found in the "Swan-Hughes Bible," which is still in existence, and photostatic copies are, through the courtesy of Henry Swan of Denver, Colo., in our possession. Charles Lucas was a son of Thomas Lucas and wife, Dorothy (?) Maryland pioneers. Charles Lucas was born April 20, 1693, and married Elizabeth Evans, on November 20, 1718. Elizabeth Lucas, wife of John Swan, pioneer, was born March 11, 1723.

About 1767, Thomas Gist led a party of Maryland and Virginia people to the Tenmile Country to settle on land which had been sold December 12, 1757, by John Owens, Indian Trader at Fort Pitt, to Abraham Teagarden of Frederick County, Maryland. The subsequent transfers of this land have not been found to show how John Swan, pioneer, obtained the land, which he later patented. The party led by Gist included in addition to Swan, the Henry Vanmeter family, the James Hughes family, the Hillers, the O'Neals, and probably the family of Thomas Foster, half brother of John Swan, pioneer, all of whom settled close together, between the Tenmile and Muddy Creek.

When John Swan, whom we now call John Swan, Sr., and the party of immigrants settled in the Tenmile Country, the Indians were at peace with the whites, but this condition was broken by Lord Dunmore's War in 1774, and forting became necessary, and continued until a few years after the end of the Revolutionary War. Strong cabins were erected at strategic points to repel the roving bands of savages, while in other places, stockaded forts were built. One such stockade was built around John Swan's cabin on Swan's Run (later Pumpkin Run and in some records, Enoch's Run) and another was built around Henry Vanmeter's cabin on another branch of Swan's Run. There is no evidence that John Swan, Sr., served in any capacity as a soldier either in Dunmore's War or the Revolution which followed, but he did maintain at all times, a stronghold which was used almost continuously from 1774, until 1782, as a place of refuge, and for recruiting soldiers, many of whom were quartered at his fort for periods of enlistment. John Swan, Sr., also loaned money and supplies to Lord Dunmore, as well as advancing supplies to the militia of the Revolution.

Though not a native Virginian, John Swan, Sr., maintained an allegiance to the State long after the border had been settled, but his acts never reached the violence stage as did that of his neighbor, Henry Vanmeter. After the need for forting was over, John Swan, Sr., set about improving his land and buying other tracts, on which to settle his sons and work his slaves. He was quite a wealthy man for his times, when he made his will on November 3, 1800. It was probated on January 6, 1801, which gives the approximate date of his death. There is an error in his tombstone record which gives his death as December 29, 1799. His wife died on October 17, 1805, and is buried with her husband in the Swan Cemetery. She was probably the second owner of the Swan-Hughes Bible.

Children

1. John Swan, Jr., was born in Maryland May 7, 1744, (Bible Record) died while on the way to Kentucky, about 1782-3. With members of his own and his wife's families, John Swan, Jr., with his wife and small children were floating down the Ohio River to take up land, and when a short distance below Fort Pitt, while John Swan, Jr., was fast asleep on the flat boat with his young daughter in his arms, he was shot through the breast by an Indian on the shore. So fatal was the shot that those aboard were unaware of the incident until the child cried out: "Oh! Papa has been shot and warm blood is running over me." The party on board made ready to repel an attack and began a vigorous fire at the enemy on the shore, the newly-made widow of John Swan, Jr., loading guns for Joseph Hughes, brother-in-law of the dead man, until they drove off the raiders. The party then sadly proceeded to their destination. The date of this unfortunate happening may be judged from the filing of the will of John Swan, Jr., in Will Book A, pp. 11, in Hardin County, Kentucky. The will was made September 12, 1780, and probated February 18, 1783. In his will he mentions his wife, Elizabeth, and children, John, Joel, Elizabeth, and Letitia. A son, Thomas, was born posthumously. The widow, her father, and Richard Swan, are named executors. The witnesses were Mary Hinton, Rebecca Collins, and Margaret Haycraft, all sisters of the widow, and who were of the party on the way to the Severn Valley in Kentucky. John Swan, Jr., had married in the Tenmile Country, Elizabeth Vanmeter, daughter of Jacob and Letitia (Strode) Vanmeter. Jacob Vanmeter was in charge of the party, which Colonel Thomas Jones, in an interview with Draper relating to his settlement at Louisville in 1790, said "consisted of 27 family boats in charge of Vanmeter who had fort on Muddy Creek on the Monongahela." (Draper MSS CC-11-p. 232.) After the death of her husband, Elizabeth (Vanmeter) Swan married (1) on August 20, 1793, Thomas McNeil, and after his death, she married John Ventres, a widower with a large family. They were then settled on Rollin Fork of Salt River, near Elizabethtown, Kentucky. In the Journal of the Western Commissioners 1782-1783, in the Virginia Historical Library (pp. 84) it is shown that Elizabeth Swan, widow of John Swan, received the sum of 12 pounds, 5 shillings and 4 pence for flour and pork purchased by her husband for the Clark Expedition, in which he served as second in Command to Captain William Harrod. The George Rogers Clark Papers of the Illinois Historical Society, note that an entry in Clark's Diary of March 1778, showing that Clark "appointed a rendezvous of Captain Harrod's Company at John Swans on the 30th." (pp. 28) Then in Clark's Papers of 1781-1782 Volume 4 of the Virginia Series (pp. 388) there is the entry "Received and settled Captain John Swan's payroll of the Jefferson Militia, etc." John Swan, Jr., was a lieutenant in the Foreman Party that was ambushed near Wheeling.

Children

- John Swan, married Margaret Coburn.
- Elizabeth Swan, married the Solomon Brandenburg, (2)
- Thomas McNeil, (3) John Ventres.
- Letitia Swan, her tombstone in the old cemetery near Elizabethtown, Kentucky, shows she died October 10, 1845, aged 67 years. She married in Hardin County, December 10, 1795, Andrew Fairleigh, who had been married previously to her cousin, Letitia Hart.
- Joel Swan, born posthumously, married Ruth Rollins. Draper MSS 61-J says "At a meeting of the Commissioners at Louisville, the 31st of August, 1789; to John Swan's heirs for his four surveys, 500 acres to each, and one other deed for the balance of 156 acres."
- Thomas Swan, son of John and Elizabeth (Lucas) Swan was born in Maryland about 1747. (See Brumbaugh Maryland Records pp. 47.) He took up claims to three tracts of land, which is not entered in official records, but when he made his will January 6, 1779, filed for probate in Monongalia County, December 6, 1779, he passed the land over to his son, Samuel Swan, then a minor child. When Samuel Swan became of age he secured a warrant by virtue of a Virginia Certificate to the tract called "Difficulty" on April 21, 1786, and had it patented to him on June 24, 1794. He sold the other tracts given him by his father. Thomas Swan's wife was a Vanmeter, probably a daughter of Jacob and Letitia (Strode) Vanmeter. Four children of Thomas Swan are named in his will.

Henry W. Shoemaker, president of the Pennsylvania Folklore Society, State Museum, Harrisburg, today said the inspiration for Count Alexis de Toqueville's great book, "Democracy in America," may have been partly received in a hunting cabin at the head of Deer Creek in Central Pennsylvania in 1831.

"The French government sent the youthful chef de cabinet de Toqueville to America to study prisons and penitentiaries," Mr. Shoemaker said. "The visitor made a careful survey of the penal institutions in Pennsylvania, which were said to be extremely well organized, under plans devised by William Penn.

"When de Toqueville came to Philadelphia, Arch Street prison was in use and Moyamensing was erected during his sojourn in 1832. In the interior of the State, the county jails at Lancaster, Harrisburg, Sunbury and especially Lewisburg, were said to be model institutions, and these were inspected by the French penologist.

"While at Lewisburg he was a guest at Hugh Wilson's stately stone mansion, a mile west of the former Derstown. Erected as early as 1774, at a cost of $4,000, the Derstown jail was always kept as a show place, and doubtless gave some new and useful ideas to the French visitor.

"Hugh Wilson suggested that his son, later Dr. William Irvine M. Wilson, take the French guest on a deer hunt up White Deer Creek. 'I had my rifle with me,' says de Toqueville, in his journal, 'and I told them I could shoot, but never hunted the large stags, only 'les daims' (fallow deer). Wilson, Jr., de Toqueville, and the servants boarded the Sugar Valley Stage, and rode up White Deer Creek to a point opposite Wild Horse Hollow, crossed the creek, and entered the draft.

"Wilson said in a low tone of voice, 'Sir, it will be best to speak no louder than a whisper and you will get a fine deer.' He had barely said these words when he indicated a bare place on the mountain, where stood a magnificent 10 pointer. (There were many such in those days) de Toqueville fired, and the deer fell, shot through the heart.

"While they were getting ready to move to another hollow they met John Tunis, the great landowner from Philadelphia, who had built a log house on the green sward at the mammoth spring where White Deer Creek is a point opposite wild cone-shaped Tunis Knob.

"When they arrived at the Tunis cabin they surprised Tunis' daughter, Maxula, peeling potatoes on the stoop. According to his notes, an inspiration suddenly surged through de Toqueville's brain, 'the exact basis of the successful democracy of America's' he said 'comes that they adapt themselves, and are masters or mistresses of any situation in which they find themselves.'

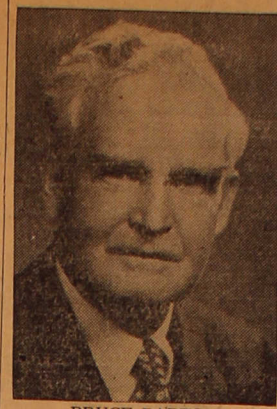

"Democracy is a divine principle, the Americans are the finest people advanced far enough to profit by it. This girl who with-out doubt has been a belle at the Philadelphia dancing assemblies is as efficient at peeling potatoes, making Pennsylvania tea, getting dinner and keeping house in the wilds, as leading a German cotillon, she grasps every task and is pre-eminent at it!

"That night de Toqueville sat up with Maxula, charmed by her wide reading, wit, and musical gifts. Here was a cross-section which revealed the success of American democracy, no other people in the world could adjust themselves to every circumstance, he would write a book on 'American Democracy,' which could show the Americans as unlike any other people in the world; in the afternoon Maxey was peeling potatoes, tonight she would be discussing European politics with a French minister's chef de Cabinet, tomorrow she might outshine Diana as a huntress; de Toqueville confesses that he did not sleep that night, but with the beautiful girl before him as an image of enlightenment he sketched mentally the scenario of a book which was destined to profoundly affect human thought.

"His work, in two volumes, was successful, and the first edition sold before the bookstores closed the day of its issue. Its flattering inscription to 'M. T.' set many to thinking, and Maxula Tunis joined the category of great women who have led genius to new paths.

"Next day, Maxula, outclassing Diana as a guide, led de Toqueville to five more bucks, all brought down with single shots.

"The young Frenchman's skill with his Lebo-Courally rifle is still told of on winter nights in hunting camps, White Deer, McCall's, Crab Apple, Lyman Run and Zimmerman's, and will be repeated and enjoyed as long as Pennsylvania folklore and history endure."

Heart Fund Drive Opens

"New Hope for Hearts" is the keynote of the 1951 Heart Fund campaign to be conducted in Waynesburg this month.

The Waynesburg campaign is part of the nationwide drive of the American Heart Association, with which the Western Pennsylvania Heart Association is affiliated. Public support is being sought for a three-way program of research, education, and community cardiac service essential to checking and controlling the cardio-vascular diseases.

"The spirit of hope for new victories against heart disease, expressed in our 1951 Heart Fund slogan, inspires all of the volunteers we have enlisted in the past few weeks," it was stated by T. R. Fredley, Waynesburg chairman of the drive. "They are ready and willing to conduct a successful campaign in Waynesburg with the feeling that growing public awareness of the heart disease problem will insure greater response than ever to their appeal.

OFFICIAL POSTER

The official 1951 Heart Fund poster stresses the campaign theme of "new hope for hearts" which is based on recent advances in the diagnosis, treatment and prevention of the heart diseases.

"The funds raised in this campaign will help scientists seek unknown causes of high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, and rheumatic fever, which account for 90 per cent of all heart disease. Scientists believe we are on the verge of great new developments in the heart disease field. Strong support by our community can truly bring new hope for the hearts of our citizens."

Chairman T. R. Fredley will be assisted by Mrs. Russell Wise, vice chairman, and Leslie Shriver of the First National Bank of Waynesburg, as treasurer.

College Players to Give 'The Two Orphans'

Waynesburg College Players will present "The Two Orphans," the greatest of the old melodramas, to theatre-goers Monday and Tuesday evenings, February 12 and 13, at the Playhouse.

Written by two popular French dramatists, Adolphe d'Ennery and Eugene Cormon, the play was first produced in America at the Union Square Theatre, New York, in 1874.

It is the story of Henrietta and Louise, two pretty orphans, who arrive in Paris where they have a distant cousin, a physician, who holds out some hope of curing Louise, the younger, of her blindness. They were to be met on their arrival by stagecoach from Normandy by Martin, a friend of their uncle. Unfortunately, Henrietta was seen earlier by the wicked Marquis deFrelle who has arranged with Picard, a "shady agent," to drug old Martin and abduct Henrietta. Thus Louise is left alone in a strange city.

Ellen Troutman as Louise, the blind orphan, and Ethel Bocher as Henrietta her sister, have the leading roles. The cast also includes Doris Warne as the Countess, Jesse Strum as Pierre, Jerry Perlin as Jacques, the villain, and Addie Coughlin as La Frochard, the old villainess.

Nemacolin Man Killed in Fall From Ambulance

Joseph V. Valla, 26 years, of Nemacolin, was instantly killed Saturday afternoon, when he fell from an ambulance going west on Route 21, at the foot of Love's Hill.

Young Valla, a World War II veteran, was helping to care for Leroy Rich of Carmichaels, who was being transported to Greene County Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Rich was also in the cab of the ambulance which is operated by the Greene County Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars at Carmichaels, as a community project.

Mr. Rich apparently had become more ill and Valla reached for a medical kit, somehow striking the rear door causing it to swing open. He was thrown to the highway.

The ambulance was operated by Clarence L. Huntley and Marshall Helmick of Carmichaels.

Joseph V. Valla was a son of Elizabeth Obitko Valla and the late Frank Valla, and was born at McKeesport. He had spent most of his life at Nemacolin. He served in the Army in World War II, and graduated from the University of Pittsburgh in 1950 with a degree in accounting.

Mr. Valla was a member of Greene County Post No. 3491, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Cumberland Post No. 400, American Legion, both at Carmichaels; of Moose Lodge No. 819, Carmichaels, and of Our Lady of Consolation Catholic Church at Nemacolin.

Surviving are his mother, of Nemacolin; and five brothers and sisters, Dorothy, Francis and Patricia Valla, all at home, and William and Paul Valla, both of Roscoe.

Requiem high mass was sung Tuesday morning in Our Lady of Consolation Catholic Church with Father Paul Simko as celebrant. Interment in St. Mary's Cemetery at Crucible.

Sturdy tree seedlings with strong, compact root systems are shipped from the six state nurseries in early April and many planters achieve survivals of 95 per cent or more through careful handling and planting.

For further information and order forms to purchase state tree seedlings send a postal card to your District Forester. He will be glad to furnish both free of charge.

Pa. Completes Civil Defense 'Blueprint'

A civil defense "blueprint" designed to protect Pennsylvania's residents and industries from possible enemy attacks has been completed by the state's civil defense planners.

A spokesman for the Civil Defense Commission said the master plan involves outlining of 49 civil defense activities to be carried out on the county and municipal levels.

The details of the plan will be made known to local defense planners as soon as the legislature acts on the proposed civil defense law, slated for action this week.

Just how much the program will cost the state is not yet settled, Governor Fine said.

Fine said the proposed legislation will contain no appropriations to pay for the program. That will come later when the amount of money needed is decided.

The proposed measure is expected to be similar to legislation in effect during World War II, with tailoring to meet new conditions.

Traffic laws aren't made just to give law enforcement officers something to do, and neither are they made solely to speed up traffic, but a very important purpose of these regulations is to save lives. Strangely enough, people seem more afraid of arrest than they are of the grim reaper. So, to save their lives, officers must keep constantly at the job of enforcement.

Agriculture Group Meeting March 8

The 35th anniversary meeting of the Greene County Agricultural Extension Association is scheduled for 8 p. m. Thursday, March 8, in the auditorium of the Waynesburg High School.

The program committee, consisting of Ben W. Jacobs, Donald C. Minor, Mrs. Francis Huffman, Mrs. Josephus Hartley, and Mrs. Ezra Hoge, met in the extension office Thursday evening and completed plans for the event, which will be one of the most outstanding ever undertaken by the association.

The committee debated the advisability of holding a dinner meeting with a limited attendance or having a meeting in the auditorium that would seat approximately 700, and it was decided to make it possible for a larger number of people to attend and enjoy the celebration.

H. R. Cotterman of Capital University, Columbus, Ohio, has been recalled to Greene County for the third time as guest speaker and his popularity as an entertaining speaker was one of the deciding factors to discontinue a dinner meeting this year.

Additional features will be announced from time to time and it is hoped that all rural and urban organizations will not schedule other events for this date.

Local College Enrollment Drops Slightly

Enrollment at Waynesburg College for the second semester totals 501, a decrease below that of the first semester, Registrar M. K. Talpas reported Monday night.

Registration for the first semester was 590. A slight increase is expected before the end of the week.

The decline was said to have been caused by induction into the armed services and anticipation of such induction by others.

Some two score students completed their college work in the first semester and will be graduated at the commencement exercises in June.

The enrollment by classes shows 160 freshmen, 104 sophomores, 99 juniors and 138 seniors. A breakdown shows 376 men and 125 women. Most of the remaining GIs in college are in the junior and senior classes.

State Produces Quality Tree Seedlings

The Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters began its State forest tree planting activities in the year 1898 and since the 1900's State Forest tree nurseries have been supplying the program with millions of seedlings each year. Present accommodations inventory 50 million tree seedlings.

According to District Forester Loren R. Brown of Unlontown, 25 species of pines, spruces, other conifers and hardwoods may still be ordered by private landowners during March. Seedlings are sold at the production cost of $6 per thousand. The seed selected for nursery planting must meet exacting specifications. Technical foresters inspect thousands of woodlots and then make their seed collections from comparatively few acres of high quality seed trees. Conifer seeds, pine, spruce, larch, etc., are sown in the spring. They are very small (often as many as 200,000 seeds in a single pound) and germinate readily.

General Sick, Children Cheer

Teachers told their Chinese pupils to cheer whenever Major General Dunlop, G. O. C. Singapore district, paused in his speech he was to give. Major General Dunlop became ill and was unable to attend. Brigadier Harry Sparks took his place.

Brigadier Sparks told the children, who did not understand English: "I am very sorry to tell you that the general is sick."

He paused. "Hurray," the children shouted, waving their paper Union Jacks. The brigadier continued: "As a matter of fact, General Dunlop is very sick today."

Another pause. "Hurray," the children yelled again. "A classic example of misunderstanding," said Major General Dunlop when told about it later.

Enemy concentrations, road junctions and vehicular traffic were pounded day and night by the naval ships.

Bid to Pick Flowers

—Pueblo, Col.—

Do you get mad when you see a sign, "Do not pick flowers?" Officials at Colorado's State Hospital recognize this as a fairly common reaction, so they've done something about it. Beside a large bed near the hospital greenhouse is a sign, "Please pick flowers here."

These spicy, sugar-coated hot cross buns have been associated with religious customs since 1,000 B. C., according to the American Bakers Association. Originally offered to the gods of the early civilizations, the buns were adapted by Christians and eaten on the Lenten holiday of Good Friday. Today, the hot cross buns have lost their religious significance, but are still eaten during the entire Lenten period.

Take Cover, Bath, Atomic Expert Says

—State College, Pa.—

Dr. Richard Gerstell, consultant of the Federal Civil Defense Administration and author of "How to Survive an Atomic Bomb," told a seminar of state newspaper editors last week that individual survival during the first impact of an A-bomb blast can be summed up in two words: "Take cover."

"Then take a bath." Such action will lessen the blast effect. Flatten yourself against a wall with your head buried in your hands if you're in the street, he urged. At home, lie down beside a cellar wall.

If you think you've absorbed some radiation, ordinary soap and water are the best means for removing the radioactive particles. He added:

"The knowledge and quick thinking of the average man-in-the-street will make or break any civil defense program."

Her topic was "She Walks in Beauty" taken from the program book, "Living in Your World." Millions of dollars are spent each year to tell the modern woman just how to make herself more attractive. Every woman owes it to her world to present it as pleasing a appearance as possible, and to herself to smoothe her passage through life by acquiring ease and self-confidence which follows upon the knowledge that she always looks her best. Mrs. Fritz said that one of the most revealing things ever written by a man about women is J. M. Barrie's famous "charm speech" in which he said that charm is "a sort of bloom on a woman; if she has it, it doesn't matter what she has not got, and if she hasn't got it, it doesn't matter what else she has got." Mrs. Felski read an article from Reader's Digest on "Why Be Blind to Beauty?" Representatives of the American Cancer Society gave information on their work and showed members their method of making cancer dressings. Lunch was served by Frances Johnson as chairman.

The Polly Wayne Garden Club will meet Thursday, February 8 at 2 o'clock in the social room of the First Christian Church. The hostess is Mrs. T. D. Simmons, and her aide is Mrs. George Connor. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Grace Law Kelley, who will give "Highlights on Judging and Exhibiting at a Flower Show."

The anniversary meeting of the Library Club will be held Thursday, February 15, at 6 o'clock in the First Jackson Hotel. For reservations phone Miss Jany Hogue, Mrs. John R. Throckmorton or Mrs. Roger Jorgensen. A program will follow the dinner.

Pittsburgh Opera Co. To Present Carmen

For the third production of their current 1950-51 series, the Pittsburgh Opera Company has chosen the very popular "Carmen" which has always been a favorite of music lovers. The Pittsburgh Opera presentation will be enhanced by the appearance of three outstanding artists—Brenda Lewis, Ramon Vinay, and Norman Scott. Miss Lewis appears in the title role of Carmen; Ramon Vinay as Jose; and Norman Scott as Escamillo. Other roles will be sung by well known artists, including: Gil Ferrando as Zuniga; Irwin Barnes as Morales; Nathaniel Sprinzema as Remendado; Henry Cody as Dancairo; Janet Preto as Frasquita; Vivian Johns as Mercedes; and Phyllis Sydney as Micaela. Appearing with these artists will be a large chorus of local singers.

Bizet's "Carmen" is in four acts, with text by Heilhae and Halvey, after the novel by Prosper Merimee, and the first production of this well known opera was given in Paris in 1875.

One of Abraham Lincoln's greatest strengths lay in the fact that he never compromised with his own convictions. Simply . . . directly . . . patiently . . . he worked and fought to fulfill them, as each of us must stand by his own ideals today.

Fifty-Year History of Greene County Sports

By GEORGE N. THOMAS

WAYNESBURG - SACKVILLE BASEBALL SERIES 1922-24

E. H. Sackville of Washington, during the 1922-24 seasons, crossed Dividing Ridge Hill so often that he was a common sight in Waynesburg.

But Ernie, as he was called, visited here not for love of town or county. He was here on business. And business to Ernie Sackville was winning a baseball game. He took his business so seriously that he disliked Waynesburg and all of Joe Hooker Phillips' Independent ball clubs.

Ernie Sackville disliked this community because it handed him the only setback he had sustained in his long and successful career as a businessman. He had made plenty of money and was a philanthropic gentleman. One such generous venture was the independent baseball team he supported for Washington.

He made money and he spent it freely. It was no secret that Ernie spent as much as $5,000 to put together a diamond outfit strong enough to trim a Waynesburg Independent club.

Sackville imported players from all over the East, but Joe Hooker Phillips stuck by his regulars. Although Ernie must have gotten some satisfaction in winning his share of the ball games, Hooker got more of a thrill in taking a series.

Beating Waynesburg was costly to Ernie, however. He toured the East in search of players who could set down the Greene Countains. Once, he transported an entire team from Hartford, Conn., which had won the New England championship.

Sackville called his team the "Stogies."

The "Stogies" began the first series auspiciously enough when they copped the opener in 1922 by a 1-0 count. Waynesburg rallied, however, and played the Sackies until dark and a 3-3 deadlock in the second tussle. Waynesburg won a third game 2-1, and it was one game across the board for each club.

Sackville came here loaded with more than cigars. He reserved a special seat on the W&W narrow gauge for George Queen, a spitball artist. When Hooker saw Queen warming up, he ordered his team to discard their uniforms. He wanted no part of a splitter as he had already shown the Washington Independents earlier in the season. Sackville finally agreed with Hooker and Waynesburg proceeded to win the contest 9 to 6. Budge Tustin was in his usual fine form as he whiffed nine Stogies, and Chip Helmick and Frank Havanas rapped out extra-base blows.

With Waynesburg leading in the series, Sackville and Phillips scheduled a Labor Day double-header to decide the championship. The games were to be played here.

The field was packed to capacity and people stood on house-tops to watch the double-bill. On Waynesburg's team were Chip Helmick, Budge Tustin, Billy Keefe, Snuffy Spencer, Wally Rhine, Arthur Main, Harry McHenry, Stanley Granger, Joe Verasco, Tody Fisher, Clem Beveridge and Frank Havanas.

Waynesburg won the morning game, 4 to 1. Wild demonstrations took place for the second game would not affect the outcome of the series.

The Stogies whipped the Greene Countains, 11-5 in the afternoon, but it didn't matter then.

No small part in wins over Sackville was played by Snuffy Spencer, an 18-year-old from Washington sandlots. Hooker had picked him up when the Washington Independents broke up.

Snuffy was a southpaw whose temperament kept him out of the major leagues. He learned that he could not be a ball player and a playboy.

He had ability to burn, and when the dollar spoke, Snuffy was on anybody's mound pitching against anybody. He beat the Homestead Grays eight out of nine times in one season when the Grays were beating big league clubs.

Before coming to Waynesburg Snuffy had pitched for Sackville from time to time. On one occasion, as the story goes, Sackville paid Snuffy $40 in advance to pitch on a week end. He told him to show up at the ball park in an Ohio town.

Snuffy was there all right, but he was in the other team's uniform. Ernie ran his blood pressure up but in vain, for Snuffy pitched against him and beat Sackville's Stogies.

Hooker had his trials with Snuffy, too, but the lad was so full of fun that he kept the club's morale high.

The Sackville series took up again on Memorial Day, 1923. Ernie's boys won the morning game 13-8, despite the hitting of Ross Minor, Frank Wolfe, John O'Malley and Red Irwin. Wildman hurled and won the second contest for Waynesburg. McHenry was the heavy hitter.

Late in June, the Independents reorganized and Phillips took over as manager again.

Hitting the High Spots

By JACK HAMMERS

Local wrestling enthusiasts will be afforded another chance to see the Yellow Jacket matmen in action when they entertain Franklin & Marshall on the local mats Saturday night. Waynesburg is riding the crest of a 14-match win streak but F. & M. has several seasoned boys on its squad and may prove a tough nut for the Jackets to crack.

Waynesburg High School's decision to hold the WPIAL wrestling tourney is to be commended. Due to the fact that host schools wind up with nothing but headaches for their troubles because of the big cut taken out of the gate receipts by the WPIAL, other district schools wanted no part of the affair. If the WPIAL continues this policy, host schools for any championship affair will be hard to obtain.

The long wrestling career of Jimmy Conklin, former Waynesburg Hi star, and first boy ever to win the coveted state title four years straight, may have come to an end. Jim wrenched his knee in a bout at Army recently and his return to action for the Pitt Panthers is doubtful. This is his last year of eligibility.

The IBC sure did pick a "worthy contender" for Ezzard Charles didn't they? Ancient Joe Wolcott. Charles might be defending his crown, but he's not taking much of a chance at losing it.

Greensburg Tops Raiders 25-18

Greensburg High's wrestlers continued unbeaten at the expense of Waynesburg Friday night as the visitors bagged a 25-18 triumph over the Red Raider grapplers.

After Waynesburg's Herrod decisioned Stephens to open the match, the score continued in see-saw fashion. Johnson's fall in the 145-pound event gave the Waynesburg team an 18-12 lead.

However, Greensburg bagged the next three events, two of them on falls, to clinch the victory.

Earlier in the week, the Red Raiders snowed under an inexperienced German Township mat crew 43-10.

 187—Hoffman (G) pinned Higgins 1:18 2nd period.

Sackville beat him in the opener 15 to 3. The July 4 double header was played here. A jubilant crowd saw a split as Toothman won the morning game for Waynesburg and Dougan and Wildman lost a close afternoon contest.

With the Stogies leading in the series three to two, Waynesburg won the final game in August, 5 to 1. The season ended shortly thereafter with no champion.

The year 1924 was the year of the merger. Astute Hooker Phillips named the team the Waynesburg Stogies.

All-American Bill Amos and teammate "Whoopsey" Wild of Wash-Jeff joined the team as catcher and infielder respectively. Also on the team were McHenry, Joe Klinger, Irwin, Bowman, Verasco, Helmick, Ted Carroll, Havanas and Semmler.

This squad won about half its games. Once when some of the men didn't show up, the team took a lacing in Akron. The real score which was never recorded, was something like 30 to 0.

Tony Kendall played under Hooker from time to time. He was a good fielder but a weak hitter.

At Grafton, W. Va., one afternoon, Kendall got hold of a fast one and drove it to centerfield. It was headed for a homerun in the fenceless outfield, but the ball hit a grazing cow and stopped short. Kendall got to second base only. In later years, he said that cow ruined the only homerun he might have had in his long career. He even stopped drinking milk because of his ire.

Joe Hooker Phillips, Waynesburg's grand old man of baseball, was ever determined to have the best team in the district year in and year out. His savvy, learned on diamonds all around the nation, was perhaps the difference between Waynesburg and its northern foe.

In any case, there's no record anywhere of a deal or ball game when the Stogies ever hooked Hooker.

Boy Scouts Mark 41st Anniversary

President Truman greeted 12 outstanding Boy Scouts in the White House Tuesday, opening the 41st anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America. Boy Scout Week is being observed now in every part of the nation by more than 2,750,000 boys and adult leaders. "Strengthen Liberty" is the birthday theme.

Successful Scout-O-Ree Held Here Saturday Night

One hundred and ninety eight Boy Scouts representing 15 troops, took part in the annual Scout-O-Ree Saturday night in Waynesburg College-Community gymnasium. A number of parents were in attendance.

The program of games and contests was directed by Lawrence Phillips of Nineveh, chairman of the district camping and activities committee.

Nemacolin Troop 161 won first place in the Scout-O-Ree events with a total of 21 points. Troop 160, of Mather, was second with 16 points, and Waynesburg Troop 184 placed third with 11 points. Prizes were awarded to winning troops by Robert Probst, field executive from the Washington-Greene Counties Council.

Council "Four Point" Crusade awards were presented at the rally to William Sica, district committee member from Nemacolin, to the following units; Packs 161, Nemacolin, and 166 Jefferson.

National Crusade awards for excellent project completion record, made by A. W. Hesse of Waynesburg, a member of the council executive committee, went to Pack 61, Nemacolin, and 162, Carmichaels, and Explorer Unit 182, Nineveh.

Progress awards for between 50 and 100 per cent project completions went to Packs 168, Rices Landing, and 182, Nineveh, and Troops 168, Rices Landing, 185 Rogersville, 170, Bobtown, and 187, Waynesburg.

Merit awards for 50 per cent project completion records were presented by Mr. Hesse to Packs 160, Mather; 163, Greensboro; 159, Carmichaels, and 189, Waynesburg; Troops 165, Greens-

Waynesburg Again Hosts WPIAL Wrestling Tourney

Henry W. Pharaoh, principal of Waynesburg High School, announces the WPIAL Wrestling Tournament will be staged here Friday and Saturday, March 2 and 3.

Waynesburg High officials had informed the WPIAL it would handle the tourney this year if desired, and Mr. Pharaoh was notified by R. J. O'Connell of Canonsburg, chairman of the WPIAL Wrestling Committee that the Waynesburg offer had been accepted.

The WPIAL tourney was held in Waynesburg the past two years and Canonsburg originally was selected as the site of the 1951 event.

It was found, however, that complications over the use of the Canonsburg Armory made it impossible for Canonsburg to serve as hosts for the event.

The Waynesburg High gym is one of the few places in the district suitable for the handling of the tournament. Adequate facilities for wrestlers and spectators are available and an important additional factor is that personnel are experienced in the handling of the affair, which this year will be larger than the PIAA (state) tournament.

The WPIAL mat tourney will be one of four regional events in the state. The PIAA tournament will be confined to a single day, Saturday, March 10, at Johnstown, and the regional tourneys will lower the number of PIAA entrants to four in each weight class.

Because the WPIAL is so large and includes a greater number of schools which compete in wrestling, PIAA officials approved the decision that the final session of the WPIAL tournament would also be one of the four Regional tournaments.

Several more schools in the WPIAL adopted wrestling this season and the tournament in Waynesburg in March, the 16th annual WPIAL event, promises to be the largest ever staged.

Jesus Meets Need

Lesson for February 11, 1951

WHAT PEOPLE want would fill many books. What people need is a simpler story.

What ever success Christianity has had, is due to its success in meeting human needs. If Christianity were only an argument or a system of ideas, it would never have gone as far as it has, nor won so many friends.

Ignorance

The church at its best has simply followed in the paths on which Jesus was a pioneer.

One of the first needs of man is to be saved from his ignorance. Jesus saw the human race not as a pack of wolves or a mass of snakes, but as sheep without a shepherd.

So Jesus then, and the church now, set out to teach. A church that does not teach is a poor church.

It is not on record that Jesus ever walked by a sick person without making him well.

Sickness

When you think of all the loss of time, money and happiness that one miserable little cold can cause, and multiply that by the number of colds in North America alone; when you think of the pain and danger and after-effects of one attack of malaria, and then think of all the cases of malaria in all the warm regions of the world; and when you go on adding up all the diseases there are, you really wonder how the human race manages to stagger along.

Now the Christian church has always been doing something about this. Today, in many backward countries, Christian doctors and hospitals have pioneered in health, and indeed are the only effective disease-fighters in the whole region.

Hunger

Whatever else can be said of the feeding of the five thousand, one thing is plain; Jesus did not think it was a good thing for people to stay hungry.

So the church, following his example, has fed the hungry wherever it can. The church will continue to protest, against any society or institution that leaves people hungry. It is on empty stomachs that things like Communism rise.

So when a missionary like Sam Higginbottom in India teaches better ways of farming, or when the Salvation Army adopts the slogan "Soup, soup and salvation," or when heifers are rounded up and sent abroad as a gesture of Christian friendship, when CROP interests the Christian farmers of America in rural reconstruction in war-torn areas of Europe, the church is just following the lead of Jesus.

Slavery

One of man's deepest needs is freedom. Jesus did not set free any slaves in his time, it is said; but is this true? There are other kinds of slavery besides that from which Abraham Lincoln freed the Negroes in 1863.

Of these other kinds, one of the worst is slavery of the mind. We see Jesus setting his contemporaries free from the heavy chains of taboos and false traditions which the Pharisees had piled on them.

So when the first Christians broke away from the burdens of the old ceremonial laws, or when a Christian missionary in Africa or China or Greenland set men free from the darkness of pagan superstitions, or when the Protestant Reformation came, a great Declaration of Independence in the name of Christ from the traditions and superstitions which had long obscured the truth and burdened the minds even of Christians, the church is only following the example of Christ.

When we stand for a free church in a free land and a government of free men, we stand as Christians ought to stand, enemies of tyrannies in every form.

GI Digits Sub for Spoons

—Western Front, Korea— Someone forgot to include eating utensils in a shipment of United States Army combat rations.

"An army lives on its stomach. But it eats with its fingers," said Corporal Edward Sheelam of Rockland, Mass., as he ate a can of pork and beans—bean by bean.

Each daily C ration is supposed to contain a plastic spoon.

But there are no spoons in a late shipment from the Chicago Quartermaster depot.

Quartermaster officers say it is all a mistake.

Wise GIs now make sure they have a spoon in their pocket as well as a gun by their side.
