General Douglas MacArthur Given Returning Hero's Welcome

Behind MacArthur's Dismissal

MacArthur Greeted by Vast Throngs

The wildest celebration since V-J Day greeted 5-star General Douglas MacArthur Wednesday in San Francisco.

Thousands of cheering, applauding citizens lined the parade route extending a hero's welcome to the 71-year old general, his wife and 13-year old son.

The trans-Pacific Constellation "Bataan," arrived in San Francisco Tuesday night from Honolulu. A roar of greeting went up from the crowd at the airport as the General's plane landed, and other thousands waited along the route to the hotel. Governor Earl Warren was at the landing field.

MacArthur's aides have made it plain that he is coming home to fight one of the most vigorous battles of his career for the policies that cost him his job. President Truman dismissed him from his Far East commands, saying he no longer was confident the general could give his wholehearted support to the United States foreign policy.

From San Francisco the general will fly to Washington and give Congress, Thursday, his first report on his side of the case. Nothing was known of the specific nature of the speech. MacArthur himself had said it would be "in general terms."

After his Washington appearance, he will go to New York for a traditional rip-roaring reception and ride up and down Manhattan Island on Friday—"Mac Arthur Day" by proclamation of Mayor Vincent Impelliteri.

"To you, the world is in a pretty sorry state. But not to a boy. He's growing up in times like these. He doesn't remember much different.
"Perhaps you ought to remind him that many precious things may be taken from him, temporarily. Many prized American freedoms, rights and opportunities must be suspended for a while, as the price of arming the nation against aggression.

ican people are now launched upon another over Asia. This one is dramatized and sharpened by General Mac-Arthur's dismissal. It is Having just concluded a great debate over foreign policy in Europe, the Amer-embittered and confused by personal and partisan conflicts, says THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR, and echoed by the REPUBLICAN. But, behind these lies a question of fundamental policy. It is bigger than General MacArthur, bigger than President Truman!

In the heat of the hour the most useful thing we can do is to try to examine dispassionately the chief facets of the controversy and broaden our grasp of the central issue. The MacArthur-Truman differences involved three questions. One was over the relative importance of Asia and Europe. As early as 1942 General MacArthur felt that the bulk of American forces should be given to him to press the war in the Pacific. Today he believes the Communist effort centers in Asia. In these views the general differs not only with Mr. Truman and his advisers but with the leaders of nearly all America's non-Communist Allies.

The same holds true in a second difference - over methods of conducting the world struggle against communism. General MacArthur approaches it as a military action. His opponents recognize the necessity for building military defenses, but they consider the struggle basically one of ideas.

They believe that fundamentally the struggle is to be won by advancing concepts of freemon and justice and demonstrating effective friendliness for oppressed or backward peoples. Specifically in Korea they have sought to halt aggression and establish a free government. They count the first aim as achieved and they still hope to succeed in the second without carrying the fighting outside Korea and attacking the Chinese people.

Aside from the military risks of such a venture-becoming bogged down in the vast morass of China and the possibility that Russia would throw its power openly into Korea in fulfillment of its mutual defense treaty with China — they believe such an attack would rally the Chinese people behind the Red regime. They hope the Chinese, already restive under the Moscow yoke, will either free themselves from the Chinese Communists or force them to break with

The third difference was one of authority-chain of command. General MacArthur held a unique place. In Japan he exercised vast political as well as military powers. He has been a brilliant and glamorous figure operating in the style of a viceroy.

His position was further reinforced by his great services beginning long before he became a popular hero for his defense and recapture of the Philippines. His tremendous effort to reshape Japan has been widely hailed. And his consummate generalship was freshly illustrated in the daring landing at Inchon. Few generals have ever reached such a peak of popularity and prestige.

He has made political statements and corresponded with politicians in a manner that naturally would not be tolerated in an ordinary field commander. Increasingly his opposition to the policies laid down by the President and the State Department has been used in partisan debate. Beyond that it has lately become plain that he was out of sympathy with the military instructions given him by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The situation had become such that the United States was speaking with two voices on national policy and military measures. Moreover, the UN commander in Korea was evidently not in sympathy with UN aims there-poorly defined as they are. The situation could be cleared up only by a decision on one side or the Unless the basic policies of the United States and the United Nations were to be overturned, it became necessary for General MacArthur to conform, to resign, or be removed.

The fundamental questions of policy have not thus been settled. But a debate has been precipitated which should go far toward clarifying them.

To do the job right, ventilation systems should provide each 1,000 pound cow with six changes of ail per hour. Electric fans, used for this purpose, generally are rated at from 1/10 to ½ horsepower, depending on the size of the barn and herd. More than one fan usually is used in large buildings. Air is drawn out of the stable from a point or points near the floor. Where used, intakes are provided around the barn to deliver ail upward against the ceiling without draft. Fans can operate continuously throughout the winter or be controlled by thermostats and speed reducers in very cold weather.

In addition to winter use, ventilation systems are also being employed to expel hot air in the summer. In these instances, however, larger fans and motors are used than those generally recommended for winter use only. Ventilation systems operate best Irrigate a garden—quite possible when we realize that moisture is breathed into the air at a rate of from 5 to 8 quarts per cow per day.

But don't try to prove it. It's enough just to know that such conditions exists to that something can be done about them—particularly in the winter when natural ventilation often is inadequate.

How can you explain these times to a boy?

To you, the world is in a pretty sorry state. But not to remember anything much different.

Perhaps you ought to remind him that many precious things may be taken from him, temporarily. Many prized American freedoms, rights and opportunities must be suspended for a while, as the price of arming the nation against aggression.

But warn him that there may be danger of losing these freedoms permanently. Because there are some people who, for years, have been saying, "The government ought to own and run things. The railroads, for example, and the electric light and power companies." And right now the defense program may give these people a new opportunity for putting over their idea of government ownership and permanent controls.

And tell him that the real name of this idea is socialism, and that most Americans don't want it. For socialism means that people have less money, and fewer rights and privileges. Tell him we all must make sacrifices today. But tell him, also, that when we give up any of our freedoms, we must be sure to keep the claim check that says, "Return to bearer

By JIM DENT

FRANK L. STANTON Poet Laureate of Georgia From the writings of Frank Lebby Stanton came the words

"Mighty Lak a Rose"
"Jus' a' Wearyin' for You"
"End of a Perfect Day"
And a number of other classics contained in his "Songs of the Soil" and "Comes One with a Song," faithful presentations of the Negro folklore of the South.

Knew him personally.
Worked on the Atlanta "Constitution," published by the venerable Clark Howell for years, when Mr. Stanton was writing his famous column, "Just From Georgia."
Used to assist him on and off

Loved his homely philosophy.
Accepted, without question, his idiosyncrasies.
Listened to him avidly.

One evening he talked to me about the rain lightly dropping on the tin roof.

His library, the result of more than thirty years of collecting, contains many rare manuscripts and volumes, besides John's own scrap books and notes accumulated over years of personal research on early music in all parts of the country. In fact, there are few songs ever known and sung in America which cannot be found somewhere in John's library.

John Lair, the genial host of Renfro Valley, 'Kentucky, is the proud owner of one of the most unusual and valuable collections of Folk Music to be found in America. Historians, writers and scholars have come from all over the country, and from England, Canada and the Bahama Islands to do research on musical subjects, and John's doors are open to anyone who is interested in the melodies of our pioneer forefathers, and the musical history of America.

His library, the result of more

Although not a performing musician himself, John Lair has a deep and abiding interest in music and performers, and organized his first string band, when he was only ten, by gathering up a group of the neighboring boys who played the fiddle, a homemade possum hide banjo, and a guitar.

His remarks to me were that a person goes through the vicissitudes of life, loving this, adoring that, and admiring myriad other things. But, when the aching heart needs soothing, God gently drops the preclous pearls from above.

He was a wonderful man.

His name will live, probably, for another generation.

But his earthy, soul-revealing folklore of America will live for ever.

Haydn Manuscript Is Sold for $7140

The original manuscript of Haydn's 155-year-old "1st London Symphony" was sold for 30,000 marks ($7140) at an auction of musical antiques here recently. Schumann's "Sonata in c minor" brought 5000 marks ($857); a previously unpublished letter from Beethoven to his publisher sold for 3500 marks ($833), and Bach's "Cantata 188" went for 1500 marks ($357).

The auctioneers who handled

1500 marks ($557).

The auctioneers who handled the sale refused to identify the buyers except to say that the Haydn manuscript is "still in German hands." The London Symphony Orchestra has been reported dickering for the score.

RAY WELSH

Doctor Roy Easterday's arrival on the campus marked a quick once-over of the basketball squad. In front sat Ray Welsh from Connellsville. Freshman Welsh was among newcomers Bob Call, Julius Biery, John Weitzel, Wesley Gault, Dave Newell, Glenn Woodward. Frank Olmstead, Maynard Wood, Mel Schmidt, Ken Heider, William Mox and Jacobs.

The aspirants looked upon veterans co-captain Burlyn Willis, Leon (Jake) Ethyre, March Davies, co-captain Red Irwin, Ross Minor, Paul Harkins, W. Walter Mont gomery, Clair Bee and Harold Mays.

Coach Easterday explained his system used at Bethany. He wanted tight defense, a lot of criss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of pass-and-cut, no one to get more than four foriss-cross, plenty of the point hat the time, and the basket.

Everyone felt that the position of co-captain willis was secure. But Welsh son con

Knute Rockne Selected All-Time Pigskin Great

Last Sunday the 1951 trout season came in with a bang. Despite the fact that the streams were up and the day was far from perfect, thousands jammed their way into the streams to trytheir luck. Fair catches were reported in most sections. The state has stocked the streams heavily this year and if the weatherman would cooperate a little and give some nice weather, fishermen should have the best trout season ever.

—New Brunswick, N. J.—
Knute Rockne, the colorful, pugnosed strategist who made Notre Dame a household word in football has been chosen coach of the All-Time All America football team.

The little Norwegian, master of locker-room inspiration, won out over two famous pioneers of the sport, Glenn S. (Pop) Warner and Alonzo Stagg.

Rockne's career was cut down its prime by an airplane accident that took the coach's life March 31, 1931, but he left behind a brilliant record of achievement.

His teams scored 105 victories over a 13-year span again.

Weather Makes Jackets Idle

Waynesburg College's Yellow Jacket baseball squad will try again to get their 1951 season underway Saturday when they host West Liberty.

The Jackets were to have played California Teachers and Duquesne during the past week but both games had to be postponed due to inclement weather.

Coach Roger Jorgensen has announced that the University of Pittsburgh has accepted an invittation to play a night game here May 12 besides the regularly scheduled day game.

Harris Breth Addresses Local Waltons

Annual dinner of the Greene County Chapter of the Izaak Wal-ton League was held Thursday night in the Fort Jackson Hotel.

Harris G. Breth, outdoors editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and a member of the State Legislature from Clearfield County, guest speaker, declared that the state game program is a failure in that proper conservation methods are not practiced to care for small game.

Attorney B. Stanley Smith of Attorney R. Stanley Smith of Waynesburg, president of the State League, presided.

"Only food and cover are needed," Mr. Breth said, "to encourage small game." He urged farmers to leave a row of grain standing for hings and gravelly game.

Mr. Breth charged that the 800,000 acres of state-owned hunting lands are run like parks to produce timber not game.
He urged that the few remaining streams, not under contract to private fishing clubs, be kept open for public fishing and also urged that state fish hatcheries be renovated.

on what you mean
by the question.
God is the Ruler of all nations, and Judge of them all. If the United States and Can-ada can be called Christian na-tions today, it is because we can point to men on both sides of the line who have been not only high-calibre, influential men, but also men not ashamed of their faith in God. But some nations have been far more conscious of the true God and obedient to Him

An American congressman who Dr. Foreman have.

God's Name on Paper
God can be mentioned often, yet not count for very much in a nation. For instance, His name can be on the money, it can be in the state ceremonies, it can be in the constitution, or if there is no constitution, the monarch may be said to rule "by divine right."

But such things may be no better than formal. The money can pass from wicked hand to wicked hand, it can be used for godless purposes by men who do not have God in all their thoughts. The name of God in public ceremonies (such as oaths of office) or in the constitution may mean no more than decorative designs on a letter-head. The king ruling by "divine" right may be a cruel and corrupt man.
Religious-sounding songs, such ponents alike, has said it is more important to him to know what God wants than what his constituents want. Mose governors of states profess religion; and some of the best of them practice it. What America would have been without such men, one can only guess; certainly far worse than it is.

God in Laws and Lives

God in Laws and Lives

God can also be in a nation's laws. It is true, we cannot run a modern nation or municipality on the laws of Leviticus, and nobody wants to, not even the preachers and rabbis. Still, the laws of a land either reflect the will of God or they do not. So far as the laws of a nation are in line with the teachings and truth of Christ, so far God is in the life of that nation.

But the question is not finally What do the laws prescribe, but do the people respect the laws? God does not get deeply into the life of a nation until He gets into the homes of high and low alike. If the nation of Israel ever became godly, they had Moses "divine" right may be a cruel and corrupt man.
Religious-sounding songs, such as "God Bless America" or "God Save the King," can be sung by rascals. No. God in a nation's life must be more than a name on paper, green or white.

If the nation of Israel ever to thank; yet he himself was under no illusions as to the people he left behind him. "I know that after my death ye will utterly corrupt yourselves and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you." (Deut. 31:29.)

It took centuries of toil and pa

on paper, green or white.

God in Great Men
God begins to get into the life of a nation when He gets into the lives of people. It is not disparaging the common man to point out the plain fact that as between one believer in God who is obscure, and another who is prominent and powerful, the latter means more in the long-run life of a nation.

It was so in the era of Moses. That was the time of religious confusion, pust as it is today. Doubtless there were many humble persons at that time who had a living faith, but if it had not been for Moses, the nation of Israel would never have been a nation, but would have shrunk into the ruck of little no-account tribes, never to be heard from again. When we hear that even Moses' own brother was so stupid or bad as to lead the people in worshipping a gold-plated calf, we can imagine what the masses of the people were like. (Convigit 1951)

If took centuries of toil and patience on the part of God and His prophets to change *Israel from a nation mostly indifferent to God, to a people mostly Godfearing; and the change took place only as homes changed.

Is ours a Christian nation today? The answer is not in our constitution, not in our leading men, not in our history or laws or traditions; the answer is in our homes. When the cry goes up "Back to God!" the place to start back, and the place that counts most, is our homes.
