The American flag was adopted in Pennsylvania. It followed the general pattern of the thirteen stripes of the Union flag which had been designed by a committee headed by Benjamin Franklin, but replaced the British Union Jack on a blue field, which appeared on the earlier design by a circle of 13 stars. This design has been attributed to Francis Hopkinson, a talented Philadelphia lawyer and patriot, who wrote the first American popular song, as well as the first native instrumental music ever performed in our country. He was also one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Other stories of the making of the American flag have become part of our national tradition. The home of Betsy Ross in Philadelphia, where it is said the first flag was stitched together, is visited annually by thousands of school children, but whatever the origin of the design of "Old Glory," the flag was certainly a Pennsylvania product and one of our Commonwealth's many gifts to the Nation.

19-Year Olds Face Fall Draft

Harrisburg—
The draft will not reach Pennsylvania youths of 19 until late next fail under present induction plans.
Colonel Henry M. Gross, State Draft Director, said Tuesday there is still a substantial number of older age groups scheduled for call before the 19-year group is reached.
"The present reservoir of older groups won't be depleted for some time yet," Gross said, "unless world conditions worsen."
So far, the draft head reported, only a very few of the State's 175 Local Draft Boards have dipped in the 19-year age group.

in the 19-year age group.

"The vast majority won't dip that low for quite a long time under present draft calls," Gross stated.

He said some 36,825 men have been drafted into the Army from Gaush, Farmington. (co-winners).

Business Administration—Thomas H. Meehan, Allison Park.

Chemistry—Charles P. Dorsey, Republic, and Albert W. Simon, McKeesport. (co-winners).

Draft calls since September reached a peak of 5,821 in March, with the quotas dwindling to low of 856 for June.

The rate of acceptance of Keystone selectees has been averaging about 70 per cent, Gross said.

He termed this average very high in comparison to the acceptance rate is acceptance. in comparison to the accept rate in many other states.

THE HARRODS

THE HARRODS

No one locality can lay exclusive claim to the Harrods. They are as much a part of the Tenmile, Country as they are of Kentucky, James Harrod alone lived a longer period of time in Kentucky than he lived in Pennsylvania. The Tenmile was the home of William, Levi and for his brief life, Samuel Harrod. Thomas and John Harrod, half brothers of James, William, Samuel and Levi, were not of the Tenmile nor of Kentucky except for brief periods of time. It is unfortunate that so much confusion has grown up concerning the history of these men. The errors that have crept into the history of these men is perhaps due to the fact, that like Daniel Boone, their contemporary and at times their companion, they were trail blazers, and were continually skirting the frontiers. Always on the trails, seldom at home, their feats made possible the security of the border settlements. It is not surprising that their deeds have become a national folklore.

Mrs. Otis W. Swainson, now of Piedmont, California, with whom the writer has collaborated during the past ten years, is probably the best living authority on the Harrod Family geneology. A descendant of Levi Harrod, she has sifted every source of material in her search to clear up the many errors previously printed. Her coming book on the Harrods should go a long way in correcting the errors. It is obvious that certain writers, who do not have the facts, have frequently tried to create them. Mrs. Swainson produces the data she has uncovered, and lets it go at that.

Mrs. John B. Mason is also printing a book on the Harrods, which will be the most readable and entertaining yet printed. Mrs. Mason has collected a trunkful of material, which she recently brought to Waynesburg, for the purpose of getting the local angle on the Harrods. She is more concerned with the story than the genealogy of the family, but her genealogy will be correct so far as she uses it.

A three way correspondence between Mrs. Swainson, Mrs. Mason and the writer of these articles, has uncovered early

"The father of the Harrods (Thomas or Samuel, probably) came from England when a young man—married Sarah Moore, on the Shenandoah; oldest son, Samuel, born there, and then removed to the Big Cove in then Cumberland County, Penna., and there William was born on the 9th day of December 1737—then Nellie (married to Voluntine House)— then James, born in 1742—then Rachel (married to George Newland) then Mary (married to Adam Newland)—Levi, Sallie (never married)—then Elizabeth (married to Benjamin Davis, cousin of Anthony Wayne)—and Jemima (never married)—"William Harrod served as a sergeant on Fobers (Forbes') camagin in 1758, greatly pressed for provisions and had to kill some of the pack horses, and Harrod went out one day and killed three of the pack horses, and Harrod went out one day and killed three of the pack horses, and Harrod was on the return to Fort Cumberland.

"Before the close of the French War, Captain Harrod was stationed at Juniata and Captain James Piper commanded at a neighboring fort. A party of Indians came and killed some men near Juniata Fort. Others with them fled and reported about fifty Indians. Harrod raised at his own and Piper's Fort, 35 men; took the trail, and overtook them in the evening, camped at the head of a hollow. Harrod's men surrounded the Indian camp, and as the day was dawning and the Indians just getting up, fired on them and killed several; the others fled without firing a gun, leaving several guns and other plunder in camp. Harrod's party returned victorious, and no depredations were committed in that region for some time.

"On the first of October 1765, Captain Harrod married Amelia Stephens, moved from the Big Cove to the Little Cove, and in 1772, removed to the Monongahela country, and settled on the south fork of Tenmile Creek.

"It was Samuel Harrod who in 1767 was with Michael Stoner hunting in Illinois *** Samuel was a great hunter, remained in the French country, killed buffalo meat and took it to New Orleans to supply the garrison, and thus remained until the spring of 1780, when he was killed at the mouth of the Tennessee by an Indian hired to do so from some pique by a French trader at Kaskaskia, whom William Harrod had apprehended and put in irons, took his store of goods and divided them among his soldiers.

"War of 1774. In the summer of 1774 Captain Harrod commanded at Ross's fort on Rough Fork of Tenmile. (Ruff's Creek) Captain Harrod aided in getting supplies for Dummore's Army and went out with a company in the Fall of 1774. Dunmore's Treaty was made on Kinnekenic Creek, a branch of the Sciota.

"Early in 1776 and perhaps late 1775 Captain William Harrod visited Kentucky.

"Late in 1776 he was placed in command at Grave Creek and there remained the most of 1777. He was of Foreman's party, took to the hillside with Samuel Thomas and others. Foreman's men were fired on. Harrod and others hollowed and ran down the hill firing on the Indians. The latter fled and several swam the Ohio. One Thomas shot swimming and both the Indian and his gun sank.

Jacob Vanmeter's Fort on Swan's Run. (note—This was Henry Vanmeter's Fort.)

"Swan's Fort and at Captain Harrods—Adam Rowe's family, wife and several children killed, two sons not killed; hid some pot metal, plowing irons; going down the Ohio with Captain Harrod, and Rowe would go and get his hidden articles against Harrod's advice, who saw fresh Indian signs; Rowe and Isaac Perry, a young man, went to Rowe's cabin, under the floor of which the articles were hidden, and as they recovered it, they discovered several Indians sitting down in front of the cabin eating. Several fired and shot Perry, who ran a few steps and fell. Rowe escaped and joined Harrod, abandoned their canoe where it was tied and had to go around back water, and thus were so long in getting to Wheeling. "Harrod, Rowe, and Perry had left a large keel boat, in a large keel boat to Rowe's plunder, and then rejoin the keel boat. Accompanying the keel boat were other boats—a day or so after Perry was killed, this keel boat was fired upon and Mrs. Richard Swan was wounded in the shoulder.

"William Swan was Colonel of the militia of Washington County, Pennsylvania. (This should be Charles Swan). This was before Greene County was laid off. In some way William, Harrod gave his vote against slavery.

"In April 1793, William Harrod lost his wife, about that time he commanded a block house high up on Wheeling Creek, some 22 miles. Commanded at Fish Creek a while.

Individual independence is a traditional American characteristic.

But there are certain things for which we must depend upon each other, certain personal advantages we Americans forgo for the benefit of others. By such trifling surrenders of private freedom, we not only grow in moral stature, but we keep the day-by-day behavior of society on a high plane.

That's the principle behind the laws established for safety on the highway. Individual liberty doesn't mean license for anybody to defy the rules of the road designed for the protection of everybody. We can still preserve our liberties-probably our lives, too-if we drive legally, safely and sanely.

This July 4th we celebrate the liberty purchased with the blood of Americans. Don't desecrate this hallowed day by shedding the blood of other Americans on our streets and highways. Give the other fellow his rights ... and a little bit more!

Interdependence - like Independence - is typically

Fifty-Year History of Greene County Sports

Three years later, in 1920, Car-michaels added two other district schools to its schedule—Jeffer-son and Blacksville.

1913. The high school charges had defeated a team called the "Willow Tree 5," 45-10.

Although the score was given, no lineup accompanied it. There may be no significance, either, in the fact that the school in augurated informal cage play ithe same week Woodrow Wilson was inaugurated president.

Basketball prospects brightened a bit the following year. After trim ming the "Carmichaels School" (probably of under high school age) the high school athletes took on Waynesburg High and Waynesburg College Academy.

Morris Township was beaten, 91-23. It is believed that the 91 points is also an all-time high for a Cumberland team. Ruth, a teammate of Gwynne, contributed 24 points, but Gwynne's figure overshadowed him.

Kimbel tallied 39 points that

The team swept through a 10-game schedule unbeaten for what would be the school's only unde-feated cage campaign in its his-tory. Swept under by Sid Gwynne and his mates were such teams as California. Pt. 15 and his mates were such teams as California, Pt. Marion, East Bethlehem, Blacksville, South Brownsville, Jefferson and

In the 1923-24 season they recorded twin wins over the team they had never beaten—Waynes-burg.

Both contests were close—son and Blacksville.

Blacksville's boys were bitter about their loss to Waynesburg earlier and they took it out on Cumberland. Grooms, Luce, Patterson, Sheldon, W. Baily, Areford and Barklay wore themselves out fruitlessly for Carmichaels.

Hitting the High Spots By JACK HAMMERS

All the fuss over colleges televising football games could be cleared up without putting universities on a black list. Any more schools have no voice in the policy they wish to follow. They either play the way the NCAA wants to or they don't play.

NCAA wants to or they don't play.

The NCAA is forgetting the whole idea back of sports and is trying to make a big business out of it. They seem to have forgotten, also the fans, who through illness, lack of transportation, or a number of reasons, are kept from the ball park.

Television has helped professional sports so why can't it do the same for colleges?

Reports from Wheeling has

Reports from Wheeling has "Big" Bill Lias planning many improvements for Wheeling Downs. District fans claim all he needs to do to make his track one of the best in the country is to add an automatic tote board.

Our congratulations to Jim Our congratulations to Jim Moore of Carmichaels, on being signed by the Pirates. With Dick Drury and Ralph Lewis already in the fold maybe it won't be too long before a district boy will be a star for the Forbes Fleld crew.

Jersey Joe To Meet Charles In Pittsburgh

-Pittsburgh-

—Pittsburgh—

Old heavyweights never diethey just go on fighting Ezzard Charles. Look at aging Jersey Joe Walcott. He signed Thursday to meet Charles for the third time.

Walcott says he's only 37—feels like 25, and hopes his hand will be raised as heavyweight champion on July 18 at the Forbes Field home of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

It will be the fifth attempt of the Camden, N. J., father of six, to win the crown. Joe Louis beat him twice. Charles, who turns 30 next month, will be making his ninth defense.

Ez first defeated Jersey Joe in Chicago two years ago to win the National Boxing Association version of the heavyweight title. He then successfully defended it against Walcott in Detroit last first Baptist Mt. Zion.

Carmichaels High Ace Signs With Pirates

Jim Moore, ace hurler for Carmichaels High School, has signed a contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates and has been assigned to Brunswick, Ga., in the Class D league. Moore, who gained local fame

Moore, who gained local fame by throwing two no-hit no-run games at the Raiders of Waynesburg High, signed the day following his graduation.

Jime is 18 years old, stands five feet eleven and tips the scales at 165 pounds.

Moore has the easy grace needed to become a top hurler but in case he fails in that spot, he can fall back to playing the outfield.

Residents of Greene County have been invited to enter a bass contest sponsored by the Ten Mile Sportsmen Club of Mather. The contest winners will receive cash awards. Fish must be caught in the county and meausurements will be taken of girth and length. Entered fish will be measured at the Little Village. —London—

Sugar Ray Robinson will put his world middleweight championship on the line here July 10 in a 15-round bout with Randolph Turpin, British Empire and European title holder.

Turpin, one of the best fighters developed in England in many years, stopped Jackie Keough of Cleveland in eight rounds recently at White City Stadium.

After the bout Robinson's manager, George Gainford, conferred with Promoter Jack Solomos, and the leub should attend a get acquainted outdoor party July 4.

Yellow Jacket Squads
Honored at Banquet

Athletic squads of Waynesburg
College were honored recently at a banquet staged by Waynesburg at the Elks Lodge. All squads were honored at once instead of holding separate testimonials for each team.

W. Walter Montgomery, supersising principal of Waynesburg schools, acted as toastmaster.

Talks were given by Paul R. Stewart, president of the college, and Jack Wiley, newly named football coach.

Work Progresses On Library

Additional steel for the new Waynesburg College Library building on College Heights, will arrive within a few weeks and will be erected during the coming summer, President Paul R. Stewart announced Saturday at the meeting of the board of trustees.

Dr. Stewart also reported that the first floor of the library is now being poured and that the masonry is rising.

Four board members whose terms expired this year were re-elected. They are Richard Baily of Carmichaels; U. S. Senator Edward Martin of Washington; John R. Conklin and Charles T. Strosnider, both of Waynesburg.

Strosnider, both of Waynesburg. Two present board members were made honorary trustees. They were Charles T. Sutton of Waynesburg, and Dr. Charles Graham of Library.

In his report of the year's work Dr. Stewart said that student spirit and accomplishments reached a new high level; called attention to the accreditment of the college by its regional accrediting agency, and to the fact that assets and facilities of the college are now at the highest that assets and facilities of the college are now at the highest level in the institution's history. The trustees granted a year's sabbatical leave to Professor A. M. Mintier of the history department, to do graduate work.

At noon Sunday the trustees and their wives and Dr. and Mrs. Stewart were hosts at a luncheon to U. S. Congressman George Mahon of Abilene, Texas, the commencement speaker, and Mrs. Mahon and other honor guests and their wives. The luncheon was at Walton Hall.
