4 County Men Receive Degrees As Doctors

President Truman has signed the bill lowering the draft age to 18½ and nominated a five-wan commission to lay the foundation for Universal Military Training.

Selective service will remain in effect for four more years under the new law, and the period of service in the armed forces is extended from 21 months to 24. Young men must register at the age of 18. They may be induced six months after registration if the supply of eligible men in older categories is exhausted.

For the new National Security Training Commission, Mr. Truman selected James W. Wadsworth, former Republican House member from New York; Admiral Thomas C. Kincaid, U. S. JOHN HARROD, SENIOR

The first official record we have of John Harrod, Senior, is found in Pennsylvania Colonial Records in a letter of May 1750, from Secretary Richard Peters to the Colonial governor. Secretary Peters had been sent into what is now Cumberland and adjoining counties in Pennsylvania to warn the people off the land which had not yet been purchased from the Indians. It was on this trip that the story of the "Burnt Cabins" occurred. Trader George Croghan was with Peters in the Augwick Valley where he had a home. When the commission went to the Little Cove and Big Cove, they report that they ordered a number of persons off their improvements, including John Harrod. This was at a time when William Harrod, Jr., reports his grandfather as living in the Big Cove. It was the same locality that saw James and William Harrod begin their military service under Forbes, and where William Harrod begin their military service under Forbes, and where William Harrod of this first commission a few years later. John Harrod is the only one that is reported of that name and he had been there at least three years. It is in the same vicinity that John Harrod, Jr., half brother of James, William, etc., spent the last years of his life. There can be little doubt that this was the father of the famous sons. From William Harrod, Jr., we must assume that John Harrod, Sr., did not stay out long, and like many of his compeers, he returned at once where he died before 1755, as William was called the "widow's son" at that time. It was in this location that John Harrod, Sr., a hardy Frontiersman himself, fitted his sons for the future lives they were to lead. He had been a pioneers in the Shenandoah after the death of his first wife, for it was here that he met and married Sarah Moore, his second wife. He could have been following the fortunes of Jost Hite, who was making the moves from New Jersey to Germantown, Pennsylvania and then into the Shenandoah about the time John Harrod, Sr., is reported in these places. We do not choose to go into the vario

Thomas Harrod, son by the first marriage, settled in North Carolina, where he died in Rutherford County in 1798. He made several trips to Kentucky, and there is evidence he visited the Tenmile Country. He owned land in Kentucky, and a dispute over this land discloses his children. They were:

James Harrod, who married Stephen Montgomery.

Jane Harrod, who married William Grooms. It is to be noted that a William Grooms warranted a tract of land one farm removed from Levi Harrod in Morgan Township, Greene County, which was patented to Samuel Nyswanger.

John Harrod, Jr., born in Chester County, Pennsylvania about 1734, died in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, December 26, 1781. He was known as John Harwood, and as a major in the Revolution was captured when serving in Colonel Parker's Regiment under Baron DeKalb. He was taken to Canada but after returning, his injuries made him unable to do further service, and he retired to Bedford County, Pennsylvania. He married August 5, 1758, Rachel Shepherd, who died November 10, 1806. This information and the dates of the children are from the Rachel Henton Notebook. Rachel Henton was a descendant of this couple.

Nelle Harrod, married Valentine House. Probably parents of Andrew, Levi, and Samuel House, who came to Tenmile Country. Not yet proven.

William Harrod, son of John and Sarah (Moore) Harrod, was born in the Shenandoah Valley on December 9, 1737, and died in Bracken County, Kentucky, April 1, 1801. A book could easily be written about him. His son, William Harrod, Jr., in an interview with Draper, has given the highlights of the career of this soldier frontiersman. Draper is full of references to him. From boyhood to old age he served the calling of arms, and while the major part of his adult life was spent in the field, one thing to be remembered is the fact that the Tenmile Country was his home from youth to old age. He came to the Tenmile just after his marriage in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, on October 1, 1765, to Amelia Stephens. Here the most of his children were born and here his wife died in September 1793. She is probably buried on the tract "Drawl" warranted to William Harrod, December 23, 1785, but later patented to George Rex. A part of this tract now lies in the town of Jefferson. It was here that he recruited for his many campaigns, using Fort Jackson, Fort John Swan, and the fort at Redstone as a rendezvous. His children married here and at least one of them is buried here. Many of his neighbors were among those who served under him on his campaign under George Rogers Clark, perhaps the highlight of his military career. Many Greene County familes can feel justly proud of that their teen-age ancestors served under this experienced commander on that campaign. It was not until after 1796, near the close of his life, that he removed to Bracken County, Kentucky, where he died a few years later and is buried in the old Sharon Cemetry.

and Elizabeth (Lucas) Swan. Her husband, a lad of but 16 years, served under her father on the Clark Campaign.
He was born in 1762, and died December 25, 1835. Both are buried in the Swan Cemetery near Rices Landing.
Samuel Harrod, born January 19, 1769, died in Bracken
County, Kentucky, where he was living on September 19, 1798, when he and wife Sarah made a deed for a tract of land called "Union," originally warranted to Sarah, Henry, and Barnabas O'Neal. (Deed Book 1, pp. 198.) When the patent for this tract was granted, Samuel Harrod was included with his wife Sarah, which indicates he had married Sarah O'Neal, daughter of Barnet O'Neal, Sr. Guardians had been appointed for these O'Neal children in Washington County Courts.
Elizabeth Harrod, Jr., born January 10, 1773, died in 1847.
He is best known for his interview with L. C. Draper in which he gave the most authentic genealogy of the Harrod Family yet found. William Harrod, Jr., married Nancy Rice, daughter of John and Sarah (Roach) Rice. They moved to Bracken County, Kentucky, with William Harrod,

Colonel James Harrod, the founder of Harrodsburg, Kentucky. Books have been written about this member of the family and there is little room here for his biography. One fact not given much notice, is that he dwelt on the Tenmile for some time before leaving to settle the town that bears his name. He is in the Bedford Tax lists for 1772, for Springhill Township, as the head of a household, perhaps that of his mother and any lumnarried children of Sarah (Moore) Harrod. Indications are that he spent four or five years in the Tenmile Country, or used it as his base, before making Kentucky his permanent home. A late record not used in previous biographies, shows he enlisted at the age of 16 years in Captain Gavin Cochrane's Company in Colonel Boquet's Campaign, and was on that muster roll on June 7, 1760. At that age he was 5 feet 2½ inches Itall and later references in the Henry Boquet Papers indicate that he was not cut out for an officer's servant but satisfactory as a soldier. (Boquet Papers Series 21645 pp. 2.)
Rachel Harrod was one of the older Harrod girls, possibly older than her brother, James. Her husband was George Newland, who went out on Boquet's Campaign under Captain Evan Shelby, (Boquet Papers 21644 Vol. 2. pp. 182) and is listed in the muster roll of that company July 1759. While serving under Captain Clapham in that campaign he was taken prisoner, but on December 26, 1760, was released by the Indians and brought into Fort Pitt. He had been a member of the Pennsylvania Light Horse Regiment. (Boquet Papers 21655 pp. 103.) After Boquet's Campaign the family of George Newland brought into Fort Pitt. He had been a member of the Pennsylvania Light Horse Regiment. (Boquet Papers 21655 pp. 103.) After Boquet's Campaign the family of George Newland in the muster roll of that company July 1759. As a widow on March 4, 1785, Mary Newland got a warrant for a tract of land where a part of Jefferson, Pennsylvania, now stands, but this tract was later patented by Colonel John Heaton. She had remarried before August 20, 1789, for on that date she made a deed in which she is joined by her husband, Evan Shelby, and is described as "formerly the widow of Adam Newland." Sarah Harrod, daughter of John and Sarah (Moore) Harrod, never married.
Levi Harrod, youngest son of John and Sarah (Moore) Harrod, was born in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, on January 22, 1750, and died in Knox County, Ohio, on October 2, 1825. He married about the time his family settled on the Tenmile and is listed in the 1772 tax list as the head of a family. As a military man his services did not attain the prominence of his older brothers, but he performed his regular tours of duty in the militia, where he advanced to the rank of lieutenant, serving much of the time in the company of Captain Benjamin Stites. This service extended beyond 1790, for he is listed as a guide on the "White Woman's Campaign." (Draper Mss. 373174.) In styll life his activities played an important part in the refinement of the frontier community. As Justice of Peace at a time when that office was more important than the present, Levi Harrod acted as wise judge and counselor. His office at his home near the present Harold Bell Poultry Farm, was the scene of many early weddings in which he performed the ceremony. For many years he served as Moderator in Goshen Baptist Church, where he and his wife both belonged, and where he was frequently called upon to settle differences among members, or recall some erring member to his or her duty. It may be said that his influence was a factor in all walks of life in the Tenmile Country. Shortly before 1800, his sons began pioneering in Knox County, Ohio, and in the twillight of his years, Levi Harrod sold his plantation on Tenmile to join his children at that place. Goshen Baptist Church records disclose that on July 28, 1811, he and his wife asked for letters of dismissal and in 1813, they moved to Ohio. His wife was Rachel Mills, who was born October 22, 1752, and did september 28, 1834. She is buried with her husband in the Umon Graveyard in Harrison Township. Levi Harrod's will was made on September 24, 1825, and names nine of his twelve children.

This arrangement, obviously, was not altogether satisfactory. Twenty years later, on March 17, 1809, the General Assembly abolished both offices, and consolidated most of their duties into a new "Office of The Auditor General."

The first Comptroller General received a salary. This volume is one of a set of three books, the other two being a day book, identical in appearance and size, and the other being a slim but larger cardboard bound paper index.

The historic treasure trove being recovered from the dusty and forgotten accumulation of Auditor General's records in the basements and sub-basements of the Capital building includes official fiscal records dating from the year in which the office was created, 1782, it was announced by Auditor General Weldon B. Heyburn.

The oldest official volume recovered in Anditor General Heyburn's program of restoring and consolidating all the records of the foffice, is a sturdily made volume of standard ledger size, 12 by 8 inches, bound in leather and containing leaves of handmade, watermarked paper.

The earliest entries in this volume are dated 1780 and the first ones account for "State Money Taxes." The earlies entry is "Philadelphia City and county, to Taxes of 1781," and next comes Bucks County with a statement of taxes for the same year.

Some 5,000 spectators watched as she started to sign the painting at a ceremony opening a playing field. A canvas covering

Suddenly the princess looked

The canvas covering had split and spilled a couple gallons of hurry to get home that he was cited for 13 traffic violations. A pair of radio car officers said they saw him run a red light and

The community, until that time had not seen any team representing the school. Coaches McHenry and Mills had tried but neither had remained long enough to develop unusual teams.

Scholastics to Carmichaels. He did it on ability and a lot of work.

The present high school building was still an architect's dream when Venen was signed as coach. Home basketball games were played in the Community Hall, now the firehouse. And even though Cumberland did not join the WPIAL for years, the Venemen never played before anything less than a packed house. In that first winter, Venenchose the nucleus of the 1925-26 spanning less than a packed house. The hardold Allison, Leroy Ross, Ben Donley, Charles Farrell, Condit, Moore and Williams. With this crew, Carmichaels won 13 out of 18 games including a pair of wins over Mapletown It was left for Carmichaels and Waynesburg to decide the county championship.

Two regular games were scheduled, Carmichaels won the first Waynesburg to decide the county championship.

Climaxing a good season, the Venenled group advanced to the semi-finals of the second Annual Waynesburg College Scholastic tourney. Sharpsburg beat them. The 1926-27 winter was one of Venen's best. His team won 21 out of 24 ball games, including the college tourney in which they again advanced to the semi-finals before bowing to Burgettstown.

At the conclusion of his second year at Cumberland, Venen had won (in all sports) 46 contests while dropping only 13.

In the middle of Venen's third campaign, school authorities announced plans for a $250,000 Cumberland school. With it was to come an athletic setup equivalent to the expanding community and second to none.

Dick Hathaway was captain of the '27-'28 team. He played with Harleigh Flenniken, Chads Chalfant, Ben Donley, Paul Longanecker and Al Cree. This team won 14 out of 19 games and wound up the year with a 17-6 record, following the tourney.

Hitting the High Spots By JACK HAMMERS

Well "old" Joe Louis proved at least one thing in his bout with Lee Savold last week. He's pretty good at calling his shots. At least 10 days before the fight, when asked how he thought the fight would end, Joe replied. "I'll knock him out in the sixth round." He did just that, in 2:29 of the sixth to be exact. Savold wasn't too bad in his prediction either. He claimed he'd win by a KO in the fifth. Well the fifth was the only round he won.

Jim Conklin, former Waynes-burg High School wrestling star and the first boy in the history of Pennsylvania wrestling to go of Pennsylvania wrestling to go through four years of competition undefeated, winning a state title in four diferent weight divisions, closed out his wrestling career this year for the University of Pittsburgh and was honored by his teammates as he was chosen the outstanding member of the squad for the second consecutive year. He was presented a trophy at a dinner in the Schenley Hotel last week.

Branch Rickey, long noted for his famous trades, really came up with a peach last week. Some Pittsburgh fans think he must have lost his mind when he gave up Wally Westlake, but he's always got the best of deals in the past, and we think he'll prove he's right again. he's right again.

beheaded just because he was a Christian.

If you will look on a map of the Roman Empire for the places mentioned at the beginning of I Peter, you can see how widespread was the "fiery trial" which the readers of that letter were then suffering. As for the book of Revelation, its writer was, he says, "on the isle of Patmos for the word of God and the testimony of Jesus Christ."

Patmos Island was no resthaven for tired missionaries; it was not a missionary field either. It was a barren island, a convict camp, where many Christian missionaries, on being arrested, were sent after their trial and sentence, to work at forced labor in the mines there.

work at forced labor in the mines there.

If the scenes of that book often flow with blood and blaze with fire, it is not because the writer had a too vivid imagination. He might have seen with his own eyes Christians, men, women and even children, with their heads chopped off by the public executioner, or dying amid the flames at the stake. Those were terrible times, and it took courage to be a Christian at all.

The Victory

The message of the New Testament is never optimism, but always hope. That is to say, no one in the New Testament, from Jesus in Galilee to John on Patmos, holds out any promise or picture of smooth and easy going for the Christian church. ABOUT two thousand Christian picture of smooth and easy going for the Christian church.

It will have trouble, and the more faithful it is to Christ the more trouble it is likely to meet. But in the long run, Christ's true church (which means simply all those who are true to Christ) will conquer all her enemies, for the reason that it is Christ's church and not ours alone.

It has recently been reported that the Russian government has thought up a smart idea. They find that the more religion is persecuted, the more religion is persecuted, the more stubbornly vigorous it grows. So the government nas given up persecuting religion, and proposes to let it "die on the vine."

That may work; if Christians

A BOUT two thousand Christian missionaries have been forced to leave China during 1950 and 1951. In more than one country "freedom of religion" has meant in practice, freedom to ridicule and hinder religion. In Spain, Protestants are forbidden to use the name "church," to meet in any building on a main thoroughfare, or to worship in buildings that in any way resemble a church. In Colombia, churches have been burned by mobs without the slightest interference from the police. All this is bad; but it is nothing new.

When Christian Meant Criminal

At the time the Christian religion began, it came under fire from the authorities of Jerusalem. It was to be expected that the same men who had condemned, cast out and crucified Jesus would try to stamp out his followers as well.

But one of the leading men of Jerusalem said, in effect; "If this new cause is God's cause there is no use in our fighting it." It was God's cause, and so the opposition at Jerusalem to only did not stop or destroy the church but actually only succeeded in spreading it.

As the new Christian religion the vine." "die on the vine."

"die on the vine."

That may work; if Christians have too easy a time, the Church will attract only the lazy and the lose too easy a time, the Church will attract only the lazy and the lose-joined to Christ, the ever-living Vine of God.

But when it came out that Christianity was a new religion, and especially when it became clear that the Christians acknowledged only one Lord, and would edged only one Lord, and would not worship the Emperor, the Ro-man government began a long series of persecutions, which lasted for close to three hundred
