10 Billion Tax Increase Asked Again by Truman

—Washington—
President Truman Monday again urged Congress for a $10,000,000,000 tax increase as a safeguard against deficit financing. "Such an increase in taxes, though heavy, would not interfere with needed work and production incentives," he declared. "It would be consistent with maintenance of a good standard of living, and an equitable distribution of spending income. It would aid substantially in the stabilization of prices. It would ease the problems of managing the huge national debt."

Mr. Truman outlined to Congress a vast second-round expansion in United States military power, keyed to likely new manpower calls and new billions in weapons. Some lawmakers indicated cautious acceptance of new military goals while others were more skeptical. But even close White House allies saw little hope for a strong new plea for stiffer economic controls.

Whatever happens in Korea, the President said, calls to the armed services may rise in "important aspects" above the present goal of 3,500,000 men. This was the first hint of presidential favor for such a move.

Output of planes and tanks and other munitions tripled in the first year after the Korean war outbreak but now is lagging behind schedule. Mr. Truman said.

The President's plea for tax increases in his mid-year economic report, came as the Senate Finance Committee resumed hearings on the $7,500,000,000 House-approved tax bill and heard Ellsworth C. Alvord, chairman of the United States Chamber of Commerce's Federal finance division, state that no tax bill was needed at this time.

Alvord said the Treasury had notoriously underestimated revenues, while Mr. Truman had failed to cut down non-essential expenditures. He said the deficit of $7,000,000,000 forecast for fiscal 1952 could be eliminated by severe economies.

The chamber's views, however, were not shared by the Senate's top Republican leaders. Chairman Eugene D. Millikin of the Republican Conference, and Chairman Robert A. Taft of the Republican Policy Committee, said domestic, military and foreign budgets could not be cut enough to balance the 1952 fiscal budget.

"There will be a tax bill this year," Millikin said. Taft declared that any cuts in foreign aid were out of the question, since the President and his advisers had already lopped off substantial funds from earlier budgets.

Settlement In Damage Case
The Greene County Court has approved a compromise agreement for a settlement of $5,000 in a trespass action brought against William Aluwei by Ruth Sellers, a minor, and her parents, Harry and Jean Sellers of Waynesburg R. D. 6. The suit was the result of an accident on Route 188 near the Children's Home, when the child suffered a fractured leg and other injuries when the defendant's car struck her. The defendant contended the child darted into the path of his automobile. The plaintiff stated the child would probably have shortening of the broken leg.

The sum of $1,250 was awarded for counsel fees; $250 for surgical expense; $386.45 hospital expense; $400 for physician's fee; $2,713.60 set aside for the child's use in the First National Bank & Trust Company as guardians in paying the fund for the child's use.

Flagpole Raising

Cease Fire Talks Still on in Korea; Fighting, Too

—Korea—
Allied and Red delegates met across a conference table at Kaesong Wednesday in a session with peace or war in Korea at stake. This was the ninth and showdown meeting. The only remaining issue was foreign troop withdrawals. The Reds want it on the agenda for the peace talks. United Nations delegates say it is a political matter and should not be discussed in these military talks. In the face of the firm Allied stand, the Reds last Saturday asked a four-day recess.

The Red radio has been hammering on the troop withdrawal demand as one of paramount interest to the Communists—but has not said flatly they were prepared to break up the talks over it.

In Washington, Defense Secretary Marshall said withdrawal of foreign troops "at the proper time" would pose no problem if the Reds sincerely wanted to work out a "real settlement."

Allied planes, flying nearly 1,000 sorties Tuesday shot up Red frontline positions, blasted highway traffic and pounded rail yards.

Land-based Far East Air Force pilots claimed they killed or wounded more than 200 Reds in Eastern Korea where the only fighting of consequence has occurred this week.

Carrier-based pilots raked the Chosen Gulf area of northeast Korea. They destroyed 33 Red vehicles and 15 railroad cars.

Thirteen B-29 medium bombers again attacked Sariwon, on the road between the North Korean capital of Pyongyang and Kaesong, site of the current cease-fire talks. The Superforts blasted the Sariwon rail yards.

Petaim Dies at 95 On Prison Island

—Le D'Yeu, France—
Marshal Henri Philippe Petaim, hero of Verdun in the First World War and condemned traitor for his Nazi-dominated Vichy regime in the Second, died Monday on this bleak fortress prison and fishermen's island. He was 95.

Still a great controversial figure in death, he was denied burial at Verdun, where he often had said he wanted to be put to rest among the French heroes he led to victory in 1916.

The controversy over Petaim seemed bound to live in French sentiment and politics for some time to come.

Burial at Verdun was turned down in a message from the Government answering an appeal from Petaim's lawyers.

Instead, he was buried Wednesday after services at the church of Notre Dame du Port in the little stone-walled cemetery of Port Joinville, near the villa where he spent his last days.

Eight veterans of Verdun and two former prisoners of the Second World War carried his casket.

Petaim died six years to the day since his first appearance before the High Court of Justice in Paris on treason charges.

This wind-swept spot in the Atlantic lies nearly a thousand miles distant from the Mediterranean island of Elba, where another French soldier, Napoleon Bonaparte, was exiled.

Annie, the 75-year-old wife who voluntarily shared Petaim's exile, was at his bedside, with his family and lawyers who had worked constantly to reverse the marshal's treason conviction.

6,267 Vets Back Home

—San Francisco—
Two vessels brought 6,267 combat veterans home from the Korean war Saturday.

It was by far the greatest number to return in one day. Most of them were home on the rotation program. Others were back for reassignment; still others, for discharge from the services.

First in the harbor was the transport General William Weigel, which carried a record-breaking passenger list of 4,321 military men—the largest single contingent yet to return.

The General Weigel was followed by the Navy vessel, U. S. S. Telfair, which had been scheduled to arrive Sunday. She had aboard 1,946 military passengers—1,193 Army men, 474 Navy personnel, 273 Air Force men and six Marines.

U. S. Aid Seen Franco Price

—Washington—
Substantial economic and military aid is the price which Generalissimo Franco has indicated he wants for American use of Spanish sea and air bases. The United States is prepared to pay the price.

Responsible officials have confirmed this as new details were learned of the conference last week between Franco and Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, of the American Joint Chiefs of Staff.

At the same time it became known that the State Department has sharp limitations of American-Spanish negotiations.

The U. S. diplomats were told to bring out that the talks deal solely with military arrangements and do not imply American approval of the Franco regime.

Fine Racing Booked for County Fair

Harness racing, with purses of $405 for each race, will feature the Greene County Fair August 15, 16, and 17. The fair is sponsored by the Greene County Municipal authority.

Two running races each afternoon are also scheduled. An orchestra will play each day and many fine free acts are scheduled.

The track is being put in top condition and the livestock barns have been repaired. In addition, construction has begun on a new commercial exhibit building and it is expected it will be completed in time for the fair.

Attorney Glenn R. Toothman and Miss Louis Fox, both of Waynesburg, are assisting Harry F. Baily with fair arrangements. Named as heads of major departments were: William C. Minor, saddle horses; Jesse Schultz, draft horses; Charles Cummins and Lazar Elmsinger, beef cattle; Wayne Keiser, dairy cattle; Carter Andrew, sheep; John Gopen, 4-H Clubs, and Mrs. Irving Rumble, floral hall.

In Ward 3 Bruce Long, now in council, defeated Mel Hart, 177 to 129, for the Democratic nomination.

Jackson Township voted against sale of liquor 117 to 73. Sale of beer had already been voted out. The township will go dry next April 30 when licenses expire.

In the state, T. McKeen Childsey, was nominated for State Supreme Court, and Michael A. Musmanno defeated Grover C. Laddner for the Democratic nomination. Both will go on the bench by state law.

Doctors Seek Raise in Briton

—London—
The Labor Government received notice Friday that all 20,000 doctors in Britain's Socialized Health Service will pull out September 25 unless they get arbitration of their demands for higher pay.

The British Medical Association delivered the ultimatum to Health Minister Hilary A. Margand after BMA committees from all counties had conferred for seven hours in London.

Pay negotiations have been going on for months between the Health Ministry and the physicians' group, but the doctors contend they have been getting nowhere.

At present the physicians get a fixed rate of $2.50 a year per patient and are allowed to sign up to 4,000 patients. They claim they have to work around the clock to make ends meet.

David Duncan was born in Pennsylvania about 1730-35 and died in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, in 1792. His wife, Margaret Hamilton, survived him more than thirty-two years, dying in Fleming County, Kentucky, in 1824. They were parents of Samuel Duncan, who married Ann Smith; David Duncan, Jr.; Hanah Duncan, who married Major John Finley; Mary Duncan, wife of David Clark; and Margaret Duncan, who married Isaac Holvey.

THE MOREDOCK FAMILY

I refuse to enter into the controversy as to how the name should be spelled, other than to say I have seen it written Moredock, Mordoc, Murdock, Mordick, Mordock, etc., in records that all refer to the same family. Following usage by the branches of the family we will use the Moredock spelling for the Rices Landing settlers and Murdock for the Muddy Creek group. The two groups are descended from brothers, Daniel Moredock at Rices Landing, and James Murdock on Muddy Creek, and they were among the first settlers in their respective locations. Both men are listed in the tax list for Springhill Township, Bedford County, in 1772. They appear to have come from Maryland, though the name is found in the lower Shenandoah Valley and in eastern Pennsylvania at an early date.

On May 20, 1772, Daniel Moredock bought two tracts of land from Adam Smith of Virginia, one of which was bounded by Rusby Run and the other by Enoch's or Swan's Run. The two tracts joined and included the fine land about the Dry Tavern at Rices Landing. This sale was recorded on February 24, 1782, in Washington County, Pennsylvania, (Deed Book 1-A-pp. 214) and is pretty good refutation of the value of tomahawk claims. Daniel Moredock does not appear on local military rolls, but this is not strange since he lived in the district from which the Captain Jesse Pigman Company was recruited. But we do find the names of Edward Moredock and John Moredock in Captain William Harrod's Company which was on the George Rogers Clark Expedition. They were also out under Harrod in 1780, on Bowman's Campaign, when John Moredock was killed probably at Pickaway. Edward Moredock was also reported killed in Ohio. These deaths are reported by William Harrod, Jr., in his interview with Draper, and the familiar way in which he speaks of them indicates they were well known to him. As the Harrods were near neighbors of the Moredocks, and since Captain William Harrod's Company was made up mostly of young men and boys from his Tenmile neighborhood, we are of the opinion they were sons of Daniel Moredock. A Robert Murdock got a pension from Greene County in 1818, but the recital of his application says he enlisted in Philadelphia in 1775, and was on the Expedition to Quebec. It does not say when he and wife Ann, settled in Greene County.

Daniel Moredock, Sr., died in Greene County about 1797, his will being probated on July 5, 1797. He mentions his wife Ruth. There seems little doubt that she was a daughter of George Williams of Fayette County, Pennsylvania, who made a will June 7, 1784, which was probated at Uniontown on July 17, 1784, in which he mentions his daughter, Ruth Moredock. (Will Book 1, pp. 18.) Ruth (Williams) Moredock died in 1813. She joined the other heirs of Daniel Moredock in the sale of land as shown by a deed in Greene County Deed Book 2, pp. 629½. It is from this deed we learn the names of the husbands of the daughters of Daniel and Ruth (Williams) Moredock. Daniel Moredock and his wife are probably buried in the old cemetery on Stockton's Lane, where a number of the family are buried.

Family of Daniel and Ruth (Williams) Moredock

1. Daniel Moredock, Jr., was an executor in his father's estate. It was he who secured a patent to the land bought by his father from Adam Smith. He secured a warrant for this land on June 7, 1786, and it was patented to him under the title 'The Park' on July 12, 1790. He died a short time after the death of his father. Daniel Moredock, Jr., married in March, 1789, Sarah Fitz Randolph, born November 8, 1763, died November 1840, daughter of Samuel and Margaret Fitz Randolph. Records show that before 1808, she had re-married to Rice, but she is buried in the cemetery on Stockton's Lane as Sarah Moredock. (O. C. Docket 1, pp. 29 November 3, 1808.)

Children of Daniel and Sarah (Fitz Randolph) Moredock

George Moredock married (2) Mary Worthington on May 5, 1843. She died June 22, 1864. George and Priscilla are buried in the cemetery on Stockton's Lane.

Air Force Camera Spots Golf Ball at 45,000 Feet

—Washington—

Made from a height of about 45,000 feet, the photo included a portion of a golf course. Visible in the picture to the unaided eye were the figures of two golfers on a green. Then, by use of a magnifying glass, the ball being putted by one of the players could be seen.

Priests and Laymen To Punch Time Clock

About 5,000 Roman Catholic priests and laymen in the central departments of the Roman Catholic Church government now must punch a time clock.

Only the most senior officials are exempted from the new rule, designed to enforce punctuality under threats of fines.

Time clocks will be used in the 12 sacred congregations, four tribunals, and four offices of the Curia.

Introduction of this device into the centuries-old machinery of Roman Catholic Church government met strong resistance from some Vatican officials.

HARRY McNEELY

Preston Station Greene County Showplace

Preston Station, picturesque Greene County showplace, is one of the vital connecting links in the New York State Natural Gas Corporation chain. Located on Route 18 near Waynesburg, it got its name from S. C. Preston, retired vice president of The Peoples Natural Gas Company. The plant is located on a 96-acre tract in Franklin and Washington Townships.

Gas received there at various pressures from the Big Inch Line operated by Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation, is sent on to New York State Natural's line number nine for Syracuse and Rochester at pressures up to 1300 pounds per square inch.

It is to the credit of Preston Station personnel that there have been no lost time accidents at the plant since the station started operating in 1947.

Harry McNeely, a good natured and cooperative fellow who likes the wide open countryside and his Greene County neighbors, heads up operations at Preston. A veteran of 35-years' service, he has been chief engineer at the station since it was built. Previously, he had been assistant engineer at The Peoples Natural Gas Company's Brave Station in Greene County. McNeely's term of service began there in 1918.

Jack Black, chief clerk at Preston, has efficiently handled administrative duties at the station for four years. He was formerly employed as a clerk for the state highway department.

Harry Snell, former chief engineer at Hoge Station before it was shut down for dismantling, is responsible for the rock and flower gardens that now dot the landscape.

Original main pumping units at Preston consisted of five 1200-horsepower Clark Brother's six-cylinder gas engines, each driving two 9 x 17-inch low stage compressor cylinders and two 6 x 17-inch high stage compressor cylinders. The cylinder arrangement (including piping) was changed to a single or high stage operation during November 1948, when the 9 1/2-inch diameter cylinders were replaced with six-inch cylinders.

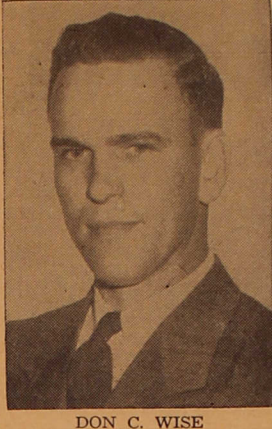

Three 275-horsepower Ingersoll-Rand PVG-6 gas engines, each driving 190 Kw 480-volt Ideal AC generators, compose the generating equipment.

Cooling equipment includes a Flour induced draft cooling tower, containing 12 GR Bentube sections for a jacket water closed cooling system and 12 GR Bentube sections for gas cooling. Make-up water needed can be pumped from nearby Brown's Creek. A concrete cistern was constructed for storing rain to be used in the jacket cooling system.

Gas cleaning equipment is composed of three 54-inch diameter scrubbers of Fish design. The dehydration plant, a "dry" type with two 48-inch contractors each, is packed with four tons of floris. The operation is reversed every 24 hours and a 30-horsepower boiler supplies steam to dry the floris bed.

Levant Jolted By Slaying of Jordan King

Assassination of King Abdullah of Hashemite Jordan, reportedly by a Palestine Arab extremist, is endangering one of the few remaining pillars of Middle East stability.

Diplomats here pointed out the following elements of danger: Emir Naif, King Abdullah's younger son who two hours after the attempt was proclaimed Hashemite Jordan's regent, is not believed to equal his father in statesmanship and courage. Though he is likely to try following King Abdullah's moderate policy he may find the going difficult.

Naif's task may become particularly difficult through the anticipated struggle for succession with his elder brother, Emir Talal, King Abdullah's eldest son. The latter, who repeatedly opposed his father's moderate policy regarding Arab-Israel relations, recently was sent abroad for "reasons of health."

Extremists in Hashemite Jordan may feel encouraged by the assassination. Political dissatisfaction in Hashemite Jordan has been on the increase ever since King Abdullah failed to win the support of the Palestine Arabs who form two-thirds of his kingdom and of its 1,500,000 population. Last spring dissatisfaction expressed itself in Hashemite Jordan's Parliament which for the first time in its history refused to approve the budget proposal and returned the bill to the government. King Abdullah, instead of yielding, dissolved the Parliament and set new general elections for August—a move which increased the unrest.

After conquest of most of the non-Israeli parts of Palestine in 1948, King Abdullah expected advantages from union of his 500,000 desert dwellers with the 1,000,000 educated Palestine Arabs. However, his inability to settle the nearly 500,000 refugees increased the influence of the extremists and made the King's policy of moderation unpopular. Last year's parliamentary elections returned a majority of opponents of King Abdullah's regime, including supporters of the former Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin Hussein, the King's arch-enemy for the past 30 years, as well as some pro-Communists.

More than 500 persons have been taken into custody in connection with the assassination.

Fifty-Year History of Greene County Sports

By GEORGE N. THOMAS

Waynesburg and Carmichaels Scholastic Girls' Basketball

A decade went by after Waynesburg College co-eds introduced basketball to Greene County, and high school girls began appearing in the strange, turtle-neck outfits.

The first county school to send a cage team into competition was Waynesburg High. In 1913-14, the juniors and seniors formed intramural teams, but no one expected them to play outside school circles.

That was the year school officials took over the Garden Theatre on South Morris street and converted the roller skating rink into a basketball court.

The girls decided to share it with the boys' team and intramural upperclassmen called the players together. Present were Mary Blair, Bess Carroll, Mary Munnell, Lucy Elms, Jeanette Sutton, Marion Wilkinson, Edna Faddis, Helen Hutchins, Helen Martin, Thelma Phillips, Kate Thompson, Gertrude Sutton, Florence Earnest and Merle Blackburn, with Mrs. J. I. Hook as coach.

From this group came the varsity and they were fast learners. They played together for several years and many of them went on to establish an outstanding team at Waynesburg College.

Mary Munnell became scoring leader from the start. In the very first inter-scholastic contest that Waynesburg played, which was lost to Claysville High, she dropped in all six of the team's points.

Proof that the girls had more eagerness than ability at the outset came when their six markers were chalked up in form of fouls. Not a single field goal did they make.

Later Mary Munnell accounted for most of the points and led the team to vengeance over Claysville as Waynesburg annexed its first win in history.

The second season was rough, too. Claysville became chief rival mostly because they nearly always won in close contests.

Waynesburg looked to Washington County for a great deal of opposition. Mary Blair, Edna Faddis, Merle Blackburn, Ethel McNeely, Bess Carroll and Mary Munnell carried the school's hopes.

In describing the game with East Washington girls, the reporter wrote the fems "played very rough for girls." Bruises showed many days after the whistle had blown.

By 1915, it was customary, when possible, for a girl's game to follow the boys' main attraction in scholastic circles. It was a gay ride home when both teams doubled victories. A split in the doubleheader was considered a good night.

And year by year fans not only began staying for the second game of the evening, but even paid to see just girls' games and cheered zestfully.

Mary Munnell was the star of the 1915-16 team, too. She nearly always made two-thirds of her team's points and cheerleaders constantly sought new cheers for her.

When she and several team mates "grew up" to the College sextet, new faces began turning in sterling performances for WHS.

Edna O'Hara and Laura Morris because they possessed accurate aim and had some height, were made forwards. Frances Huffman and Mary Sayers were centers; Wilma Sayers and Florence Earnest were guards.

Mary Munnell and Edna Faddis are two of the all-time great girl athletes at the school. They played the same type of ball—fast, feinting.

One of the greatest exhibitions of individual showmanship was in the high school-alumnae game of 1917. Mary Munnell made all the grads' points, but Edna Faddis went one point better, sinking all her team's points, and won.

The following year the girls could have claimed the county championship—indirectly. Waynesburg swamped Blacks-ville and Carmichaels was beaten by the West Virginians.

But the county clubs never met, so no claims were voiced, at least not openly.

Both schools beat Jefferson, Waynesburg by a larger score by virtue of Mary Sayers' "hot" 16-point night.

Inactivity in athletics set in in the late 20s.

Carmichaels
The first girl's basketball team at Cumberland Township High School was in 1920, and the team took part with the varsity in double bills.

Probably their first victory came over Jefferson High. The Jeffs entered competition the same year.

It wasn't easy to get games in the early twenties. Transportation was a handicap as well as a shortage of good basketball courts. Then, too, girls had to recruit chaperons.

But Carmichaels scouted about to find foes. It didn't always matter whether teams were scholastic or independent, such as McClellandtown.

It was Mary Martha Baily, a forward, who set the pace for the resurgent team of 1922-23. She led the team to three good seasons including the county championship in 1923.

Carmichaels and Jefferson met in the finals of that tourney. Jefferson's star, Miller, opposed Baily and an appreciable crowd rocked the gym with cheers for both.

The Cumberland girls hit their peak at a time when Waynesburg was not emphasizing girls' sports and Carmichaels ruled the county.

By the mid-twenties, the lassies were ready for out-of-county competition. And they did very very well, too.

The varsity had a good record that year and the girls were on the bandwagon, winning 80 per cent of the games.

The almost unheard of school surprised Canonsburg's girls when Mac McHenry, who coached them the year before, invited the team there for a double header.

Charleroi, too, tasted defeat—in a one-sided way—as did Claysville and others. Baily and Donley starred for Cumberland.

Although the collegians bounced back to split the series, the scholastics' victory was sweet. Venen's girls lost only four games out of 11.

Captain Devonnah Dayton led the fems that year. The rest of the first team was picked from Harriet Baily, Madge Steele, Sara Cree, Eeryl Miller, Bernice Riley, Elizabeth Dugan and Annabelle Crago.

Reservists were Viola Steele, Florence Condit, Myrtella Murphy, Mary Guseman, Kathryn McGuffie, Nancy Forsythe, Frances Fuller, and Virginia Barnhart.

And while Venen's second year varsity went wild with a 19-3 record, the girls weren't doing to badly either. Their biggest win, no doubt, was over Redstone whose boys and girls teams led Fayette county.

Bernice Riley moved up to captain that season. She, Antoinette Laidley, Mary Guesman and veterans Crago, both Steeles, and Flo Condit made up starting assignments. Margaret Richey, Frances Fuller, Charlotte McMinn, Evelyn and Lucille Barclay filled in when necessary.

It would have been better for Carmichaels if they had not put on uniforms the following season. One would have to look long to find a victory. Meanwhile Washington and Fayette teams made shambles of Cumberland defenses. Even the alumnae took it out on the undersized crew. All in all it was a season to forget.

Hitting the High Spots

By JACK HAMMERS

Last Wednesday night I was afforded an opportunity to witness a sporting event that even in my wildest dreams I had never hoped to see—a battle for the heavyweight championship of the world. To say that I was thrilled would be putting it mildly. As in all events that come once in a lifetime there are many things that will always remain in my memory. Such as:

My first glimpse of huge Primo Carnera. He is probably the biggest man I have ever seen.

The rather cold reception for Charles.

Jake Mintz, Ezzard Charles' manager, ranting and raving like a two-year-old who had his lollipop stolen by a bully, over a silly thing like a judge assigned to the fight. He seemed to embarrass everyone connected with him.

The fine physical condition of Jersey Joe.

The famous "Walcott Walk."

And of course, the sudden KO of Charles by Walcott, the ovation Joe received when his hand was raised in victory, and the grin of happiness on his face.

Walcott's words that he was only with God's help that he was able to win, reminding all that even in his hour of greatest triumph he remembered there is One who is higher and mightier than us all.

All in all it was a wonderful occasion. One I am sure I will never forget, nor will the other some 28,000 who witnessed the clash.

NCAA and Penn End TV Fight

—Los Angeles—
President Hugh C. Willett of the National Collegiate Athletic Association announced Thursday that Pennsylvania's revolt against the NCAA television program has ended and that the university has been restored to good standing.

In the first round neither fighter did much of anything except feel each other out. Charles, who was supposed to keep Walcott off balance with his long left hand just couldn't land as the challenger slipped his punches.

Jersey stepped up the tempo slightly in the second as he moved in close on Ezzard and pounded his body with hard lefts. This was the pattern for the rest of the fight. Walcott would force Charles into leading, slip his lead and step in close to hammer the champ's body.

Near the end of the third round Walcott caught Charles with a vicious right hand that buckled Ezzard's knees. The crowd at once yelled for the kill but Charles managed to hang on.

The fourth round Walcott taking his famous walk, thus sucking Charles into a lead. Whenever Ezzard did Joe beat him to the punch.

The fifth and sixth rounds found both boys mixing it up in close with Walcott having the edge in the in-fighting. Ezzard had a mouse under one eye and was bleeding badly from the mouth. He was having difficulty in breathing.

It was at this point that most observers felt that if old Jersey Joe could keep up the pace he would win as he was far ahead on points.

Charles, sensing he was far behind, tried to nail Joe with a hard right at the start of the seventh but was tied up by the old man from Camden. They clinched, were broken, squared off, and then—Charles was on the floor. It happened that fast. A left hook, traveling no more than eight inches put Ezzard face down on the canvas. He tried to get up at eight but fell over flat on his back and was counted out. Jersey Joe was champ!

The huge throng went wild with joy for here was the man nearly everyone felt had been cheated out of the crown three times at last undisputed champion. Seldom has an athlete been given the ovation received by Walcott.

They won nine, lost four and tied three in an era when the ball games were frequent in girl's play. One of these was a 23-23 thriller with Waynesburg as the county seaters returned to competition.

With the chips down it was Carmichaels winning the girl's county championship, 21-15.

Walcott Wins Heavy Title In Stunning KO Upset

By JACK HAMMERS

As the old adage says, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." Jersey Joe Walcott in his fifth attempt to grab the world's heavyweight title finally crowned 21 years of trying when he tagged Ezzard Charles with a hard left hook to floor the champ and annex the crown. The KO came in 55 seconds of the seventh round.

In winning the title Jersey Joe, who claims he is only 37, became the oldest man ever to reign as king of the heavyweight division.

The fight, held up for more than ten minutes by Charles' manager Jake Mintz's objection to one of the judges chosen by the boxing commission, was all Jersey Joe's from the second round on.

Although the collegians bounced back to split the series, the scholastics' victory was sweet. Venen's girls lost only four games out of 11.

Captain Devonnah Dayton led the fems that year. The rest of the first team was picked from Harriet Baily, Madge Steele, Sara Cree, Eeryl Miller, Bernice Riley, Elizabeth Dugan and Annabelle Crago.

And while Venen's second year varsity went wild with a 19-3 record, the girls weren't doing to badly either. Their biggest win, no doubt, was over Redstone whose boys and girls teams led Fayette county.

Bernice Riley moved up to captain that season. She, Antoinette Laidley, Mary Guesman and veterans Crago, both Steeles, and Flo Condit made up starting assignments. Margaret Richey, Frances Fuller, Charlotte McMinn, Evelyn and Lucille Barclay filled in when necessary.

It would have been better for Carmichaels if they had not put on uniforms the following season. One would have to look long to find a victory. Meanwhile Washington and Fayette teams made shambles of Cumberland defenses. Even the alumnae took it out on the undersized crew. All in all it was a season to forget.

The girls, however, insisted on entering the first Greene County tourney at Mapletown, March 9, 1929.

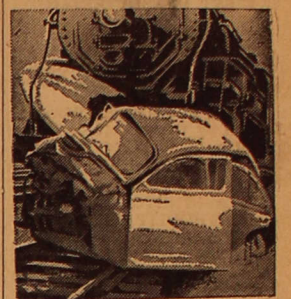

Five teams entered—Mapletown (the host), Redstone, German Township, Georges, and East Bethlehem. Nineveh, the only other county school interested, and Brownsville, got stuck in the mud and never reached Mapletown. German won the trophy and Carmichaels was out of the money.

Violet Steele captained the 1929-30 team. She played forward and consistently led in point-making. Her team mates were Lora Guesman, Violet Dayton, Caroline Hesse, Charlotte McMinn, Lucille Barclay, and Shoan and Sharpnack.
