Navy Announces Contract For First Atomic Sub

—Washington—
The Navy has announced that a contract for the first atom-powered submarine—sometimes hailed as the answer to Russia's dread "Snorkel" subs—has been awarded to the Electric Boat Company at Groton, Conn.

The Navy took just 26 words to announce what may be a revolution in power.

Experts said that theoretically such an undersea craft would be capable of cruising vast distances at speeds unknown to present-day submarines.

An inkling that an atomic engine may be nearly ready to go into the hull of a specially built submarine came recently from Sumner T. Pike, a member of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Pike said in a speech at the University of Rochester last February that "the design of two practical (atomic) devices for submarine propulsion is practically completed, and one of them is partly built."

While work on the submarine is being pressed, the Air Force and Atomic Energy Commission are also laboring on another project of far-reaching implications—an attempt to achieve an atom-powered airplane.

Scientists have speculated that a single pound of uranium-235—the fissionable material used in atom bombs—might drive a giant B-36 bomber 80 times around the globe.

Navy men were close-mouthed about the atomic submarine project, but it was recalled that one of the nation's foremost submarine experts, Vice Admiral Charles A. Lockwood, predicted some months ago that the United States atomic submarine would be "the answer to the Russian Snorkel" sub.

Lockwood, now retired, commanded United States submarine forces in the Pacific during World War II.

He predicted the atom sub would "outrun, outfight and outmaneuver the most advanced Snorkel types that Russia is building or is likely to build."

Lockwood said engineers estimated the A-sub could cruise submerged at 25 to 30 knots.

Also this week the Navy issued a billion dollar order for modernization of 101 vessels in 11 shipyards and construction of four mine sweepers.

County Buys $89,830 In Defense Bonds

Patriotic and prudent Pennsylvanians put another $27,400,236 into savings in the form of U. S. Defense Bonds during the month of July, Arthur C. Kaufman, Advisory Chairman of the Pennsylvania Savings Bonds Division, has announced.

Of the total, $22,851,837.50 were Bonds of the popular Series E, which are held exclusively by private individuals.

In Greene County Defense Bonds sales for July totaled $89,830.50, of which $86,830.50 were Series E. Bonds.

Greene County Fair Most Successful Ever Held

The Greene County Fair which closed a 4-day run Saturday was the most successful yet held. Large crowds were in attendance.

Livestock and farm products exhibits were unusually large and of the finest quality.

The fair is sponsored by the Greene County Municipal Recreation Authority. Harry F. Baily is secretary. Much praise is due all who assisted.

Racing attracted much attention and because of the great demand for running races and 50 entries in the fair they were continued on Saturday.

Racing was highlighted Thursday afternoon when 62-year-old Clarence "Sunny" Ewart, well known trainer and rider came out of the stands in street clothes to ride Cash Crop owned by John Higgins of near Waynesburg, to victory in the four and a half furlong running race. Cash Crop was three lengths ahead in a field of eight. Mr. Ewart was given a tremendous greeting when he came to the winner's circle.

Harold Kuhn of Spraggs, won the annual Veterans Farm Training livestock judging contest with 341 out of a possible 400 points. More than 100 entered the contest. The score was: first, Harold Kuhn of Spraggs, 341 points; second, a five-way tie with 307.7 points, between Henry Robinson of Waynesburg

Council Acts to Stop Motorists Beating Meters

Waynesburg Borough Council has warned motorists that officers will give red tickets if cars are parked in violation of the meter, without turning the lever. A recent supreme court ruling gives this right.

This action was taken since many, knowing that officers were required to turn the lever, would insert a penny without starting the timing device and when the officer turned the lever the timing action began thus beating the meter.

Parking in Cherry alley, which is parallel to High street on the south, has been prohibited because of congestion.

A resolution allowing repairs up to $1,000 in the fire zone has been passed, due to increased costs. The prior limit had been $500.

Council decided to extend the concrete sewer in Red Bird Hollow under North Church street.

Work Starts on Consolidated School at Spraggs

Ground was broken Monday morning for the consolidated grade school building to be erected near the present one-room school about a half-mile north of Spraggs, in Wayne Township. The building is to be finished next May.

About 30 officials participated in the ceremony at which George Powell, president of the school board turned the first shovel of earth.

D. C. Longanecker, superintendent of schools; Russell Headley of Garards Fort, president of the county school board; Ewing B. Pollock of Waynesburg, solicitor for the school board; E. L. Shea, representative of the State Public School Authority under which the building is being constructed; S. Lloyd Beal, architect, and Ross Cosgray of Waynesburg R. D. 2, who entered the Spraggs school about 52 years ago, all talked briefly.

Approximate cost of the plant will be $104,000, and it will contain three classrooms, and a large room which may be used as a recreation center with a kitchen area. An oak tree estimated to be 175 years old, will be spared in the construction.

It is the second consolidated school in Greene County and the 49th since the creation of the State Authority which furnishes funds which will be paid back by the township in long term payments.

Sun's Eclipse September 1

The sun will be eclipsed before it even has a chance to shine on Saturday, September 1.

A large portion of the disc will be obscured at 6:47 a. m. sunrise time, according to Arthur L. Draper, director of Buhl Planetarium, Pittsburgh. The maximum phase will come at 7:01, when 88 per cent of the sun will be hidden by the moon. Only a bright crescent, similar in appearance to a new moon, will show from 7:01 until 8:07 a. m.

A clear view of the eastern sky and dark glasses or dense photographic film are all that's necessary for viewing the spectacle.

The September 1 eclipse will be visible generally in the area east of the Mississippi.

Anti-Red Bill Passes House

—Harrisburg—
Legislation to outlaw the Communist Party in Pennsylvania passed the House by a lopsided majority last Monday despite strenuous opposition from a handful of Democratic assemblymen.

What Price American Security?

EVERY consumer is a taxpayer. Whether he knows it or not, $3 out of every $10 earned by an American worker today goes for taxes, most of these taxes being concealed in the prices of the things he buys. Prices are high because taxes are high.

The family that spends $300 a month for living today is paying nearly $100 of it in taxes and getting only $200 worth of goods. Working people should never cherish the delusion that someone else is paying their taxes for them.

Every American, regardless of his occupation or position in life, should realize the necessity for greater economy in government if he wishes to maintain his present standard of living and save a little something for future security.

The cost of "big" government is high. The very same people who turn to the government in their search for security pay all the costs involved, not only by higher and higher taxes but

Ban on Gas May Expand

—Washington—
The Government is keeping a watchful eye on 13 additional states to determine if its gas limitation order should be extended to any of them.

Earlier this week it clamped a lid on expansion of the use of natural gas in 15 states and the District of Columbia, effective Wednesday. The order applies to home heating and some industrial purposes.

Whether additional areas will be put under the order depends on supply and demand, an official of the Petroleum Administration for Defense, said.

Peoples Natural Gas Company officials in Pittsburgh, stated they will fight the ban.

McCarran Hits Alien Influx

—Washington—
Senator McCarran, Democrat, Nevada, said Monday that possibly 5,000,000 aliens have poured into the country illegally, creating a situation "potentially more dangerous" than an armed invasion.

Vast numbers of "militant Communists, Sicilian bandits and other criminals" are among the 5,000,000, McCarran stated. He said they would provide an enemy nation with "a ready-made fifth column."

McCarran is chairman of a Senate subcommittee on internal security. The group has just completed an investigation of alleged subversive activities in the United States.

2,100 Given Free Chest X-Rays

More than 2,100 persons were given free chest x-ray examinations by the mobile unit sponsored by the Greene County Tuberculosis Society. About 500 were examined Monday and Tuesday at Dilliner and Rices Landing; 1200 Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at the Greene County Fair; and 415 on Saturday when the unit was stationed in front of the courthouse. Positive reactors will be reported to their physicians.

The sale of Christmas Seals makes this work possible.

Star Gazer Jailed For Anti-Red View

—Berlin—
The astrologer's lot is a precarious one in Communist East Germany, where all but official soothsayers are frowned on. Helmut Juengling, now an inmate in an East German prison, was imprisoned after his horoscopes were found to contain propaganda against the Soviet administration in East Germany.

Water Company Lays Larger Mains

Waynesburg Water Company has begun installation of six and eight inch lines in Wards I and II, to assure adequate water in case of fire. About 2,500 feet will be laid, Russell D. Bartlett, manager, has announced. Fifteen hundred feet of the same sizes was laid last year.

Farm Electrification Job Nearly Finished In Area

With farmers using more electricity than ever before to produce more food, business-managed power companies are celebrating the fact that nearly all the nation's farms have now been electrified. West Penn Power Company is joining allied interests in the celebration of Farm Electrification Week, August 26. District Manager D. L. Currier has announced.

"Every citizen should be proud of the job farmers are doing to increase production of food so vital to our country's strength," Mr. Currier said. "Here in a part of the state not particularly noted for its good farm land, West Penn's farm customers are raising a tremendous volume of food for our busy industrial communities."

"Most people know that farmers make good use of electricity," he stated. "However, not everybody realizes that between the rural electric cooperatives and business-managed electric companies, electricity is now available to over 90% of America's farms. Continued requests of government agencies for more tax money to build federally operated power stations and transmission lines have given the impression that great numbers of farmers do not have electricity and can't get it. This is not the case."

Mr. Currier reported that 97% of the farms in the area served

Fine to Sign Oleo Bill at Ceremony

—Harrisburg—
Sale of colored oleo margarine awaits only the signature of Governor Fine. The State Senate approved the bill 42 to 7 Monday night.

The use of colored margarine in hotels and restaurants is prohibited under the legislation as well as bulk sales of the colored product.

The packaged colored margarine, however, can be purchased at the stores by housewives under the measure thus bringing to a successful finish a long battle by women's organizations.

Signing of the bill may be done in a ceremony with Judge Lois Mary McBride present, Governor Fine said Tuesday. She headed a committee that fought for the bill.

By the week end housewives will probably find on their grocer's shelves pre-colored margarine at a price perhaps two or three cents lower than they had to pay for jiffy-packed white margarine, the kind in the plastic bag and with the coloring in a built-in capsule.

That will peg the margarine at 33 to 35 cents, and generally it will sell for a cent a pound higher than white margarine in the regular pack. The reason for this, say the packers, is that they are putting up the pre-colored margarine in quarter-pound prints, and that takes more wrapping and more time.

Poised waiting for the stroke of the governor's pen are thousands of pounds of colored margarine in warehouses in Ohio, Maryland and West Virginia. It cannot be stored in this state until the bill becomes law.

The measure was bitterly opposed by the Pennsylvania Grange.

Jacktown Fair Opens Tuesday for 86th Year

All roads will lead to Wind Ridge Tuesday when the Jacktown Fair opens its 86th annual exhibition for a three-day and night run.

The fair, which is the oldest in the nation to exhibit consecutively, is sponsored by the Richhill Agricultural Association. It encourages farming, stock raising, improvement of farm products, and introduces newer and better methods in farm machinery.

Liberal premiums are offered and catalogs may be obtained from Floyd E. Campbell of Wind Ridge, secretary.

The association is striving to make the fairground a fine park and has equipped it with facilities for all public events. The grounds are on one of the highest hills in the county and Wind Ridge community is noted for its scenic beauty. The grounds are available for school events, flower shows, family reunions, homecomings and song festivals.

The fair in the past several years has been in the nature of a homecoming and many former residents attend.

The fair enjoys a splendid reputation for good entertainment.

Each afternoon there will be horse pulling contests at 1 o'clock. Large awards are offered.

The stage entertainment this year will be furnished by the Joe Hiller Theatrical Agency of Pittsburgh, and programs will be given each afternoon and evening. Entertainers are all popular television and radio stars. Included are Lee (Simple) Simmons, "the nitwit of the net works," Melino and Hollis, acrobatic clowns; Rulon's Hollywood Canines, Lu Henry and Miriam Sages, soloists; Emil and Evelyn, teeter-board stars; Rio and Rogers, Broadway hillbillies; George Wells and Pals with "music you love to hear," and Andrex high wire act.

A number of high school bands will furnish music.

Livestock and farm products exhibits will be extensive and of top quality.

The old saying "you'll never die happy 'til you see the Jacktown Fair," still goes.

Campaign Started By Muscular Dystrophy Ass'n.

A $60,000 campaign to "give hope to the hopeless"—the victims of Muscular Dystrophy—will be launched this week by the Western Pennsylvania Chapter of the National Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Muscular Dystrophy, which has been nicknamed the "Mystery Disease" is probably the least known to researchers of any popular scourge. Yet, studies made recently in Utah show that one person in every thousand is afflicted with it.

Its most numerous victims are children, with 80 per cent of them being young boys. The specific reason for this is not known.

Symptoms of the disease are the accumulations of fatty tissue around the voluntary muscles which gradually renders them useless. The victims become progressively incapable of movement until death is the final result.

So far, medical science has been unable to supply a cure. Meanwhile victims and parents of victims have banded together to raise funds for research through the National Muscular Dystrophy Association.

To date, most of the research has been conducted in New York at the Cornell University Medical Center.

However, the national organization has just made a grant of $4,000 to Dr. T. S. Danowski of the University of Pittsburgh, School of Medicine, to be used in research.

Greene County committee members are, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wood Williamson, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Clark, all of Waynesburg.

EVERY consumer is a taxpayer. Whether he knows it or not, $3 out of every $10 earned by an American worker today goes for taxes, most of these taxes being concealed in the prices of the things he buys. Prices are high because taxes are high.

The family that spends $300 a month for living today is paying nearly $100 of it in taxes and getting only $200 worth of goods. Working people should never cherish the delusion that someone else is paying their taxes for them.

Every American, regardless of his occupation or position in life, should realize the necessity for greater economy in government if he wishes to maintain his present standard of living and save a little something for future security.

The cost of "big" government is high. The very same people who turn to the government in their search for security pay all the costs involved, not only by higher and higher taxes but also by constantly lowering living standards, loss of self respect and individual freedom, and ultimately complete government domination of their lives. We need only to observe the effects of socialism and "government planning" in England and the other nations of Europe to realize the fact. It is amazing that many American people are willing to march down that same road on the strength of the misleading promises of radical political leaders. Never in world history have government promises to take care of the people been fulfilled, nor can they be.

Governments produce nothing, nor can they manage the affairs of the individual as well as he can manage them himself. Government cannot spend or give away anything it does not first take away from the people. It is childish to imagine that through government subsidy the American people can get something for nothing. As consumers, we, the people, pay the entire bill, plus the cost of an enormous and inefficient bureaucracy.

If the people of America want to have anything in the future, they must save it now and keep it themselves. If our forefathers had looked to government for their security instead of saving and providing it for themselves, Americans today would be no better off than the people of Europe and Asia, who are virtually the slaves of their own political leaders.

Our plea is for the people of this community to take a much greater interest in their government and to insist that government expenditures and controls be kept to an absolute minimum. We have the right to expect every possible economy in government and a minimum of control and restriction. Americans are entitled to lower prices, lower taxes, and the right to save something now for the future protection of their families.

By West Penn now have electricity. The company is supplying almost 320,000 customers. Of these, about 15,500 are engaged in farming. Rural cooperatives serve about 7000 customers within the area, of which several hundred are farmers.

"In our immediate vicinity there are scarcely any farms without electricity," Mr. Currier declared. "A check of all of our offices brings to light a total of about 200 applications for electric service from people engaged in farming. In spite of material shortages and restrictions on building, we hope to get electricity to many of these by the end of the year."

On the average, farmers are much heavier users of electricity than townspeople, the district manager revealed. The average farmer is now using about 4130 kilowatt-hours a year, which is almost twice the West Penn average residential use of 2100 kilowatt-hours.

"Not only has the farm home been made comfortable and cheery by the use of electrical conveniences such as ranges, water heaters, refrigerators, freezers and modern lighting," he continued, "but dozens of new agricultural uses of electricity have been developed in the last few years to help the farmer with his chores. Electricity carries water and milks cows,

MIFFLIN COUNTY PIONEERS

It is interesting to examine the 1790 Census Record for that portion of Mifflin County, Pennsylvania, situated South of the Juniata River. (pp. 151 of the published version). Living there at the time in close proximity, were a number of families that were shortly to move to the Tenmile Country. Most of these families had previously lived near Philadelphia in Chester and Montgomery Counties, where a number had served in the Revolution prior to their migration to Mifflin County. A few of them appear to have made survey trips to the Tenmile, to select their land, but Indian troubles had sent them back over the mountains until the frontier was safe for removal of their families. When conditions became more settled, they immigrated in a group and found their new home between Jefferson and the upper reaches of Whiteley Creek. Among the names we recognize as heads of families are: Jacob Tustin, Michael Roseberry, Jacob Hunnill (or Honnell), Jacob and John Stagers, Abraham Stiles, George John, John Milligan, Andrew Isenminger, Hamilton Grim, Archibald Hamilton, Peter Dalley, James Jacobs, and others, while on the Northern side of the Juniata we find the names of George Rex and several of the Smalley Families. It is curious to note how they intermarried before and after coming here. It is the same story of clannishness shown in all these westward migrations. We shall take up these families in the sections where they settled or with families with which they are closely allied, rather than as a separate group.

THE JOHN HONNELL FAMILY

John Honnell (or as his name is sometimes spelled and is now in general usage, Hunnell) was of Scottish descent, and came to the Tenmile with John and Jacob Stagers and John Isenminger, to settle in Cumberland Township, not far from Jefferson, where John Stagers bought land that had been patented to Robert Crosley. On November 11, 1797, near the close of his life, John Stagers made a deed for his personal chattels to his son, Jacob Stagers, and to John Isenminger and John Honnell, the latter two, apparently his sons-in-law. Then on September 10, 1798, John Stagers and wife, Eve, deeded the Crosley tract to James Henderson and James McCalley (McCullough?).

John Honnell, or Hunnell, settled in the same vicinity, and several of his children were married here. His will, which was made on May 9, 1813, was probated nine days later and mentions his brother, Jacob, whom we find listed in the 1790 Census of Mifflin County. He also mentions a tract of land in Mercer County, Pennsylvania, which he had bought from his brother, Jacob Honnell. Records in Mercer County indicate that this land, called "unseated land," was sold for taxes. Land in that part of Pennsylvania was in many cases obtained for services in the Revolution and since Census records for 1800 and 1810 indicate that John Honnell was born between 1756 and 1760, it may well be that he and his brother, Jacob, both served. One reference in the Pennsylvania Archives does give service for John and Jacob Honnell, both of whom were paid for service in Washington County Militia. (Penna. Archives, Series V, Volume 4, page 712). I am a bit skeptical of this record, however, and believe it refers to Hornells who lived near Beallsville, Washington County, and are known to have served. (Penna. Archives, Series VI, Volume 2, pages 207, 208, 235, 265).

John Honnell, or Honnell, died in Franklin Township, Greene County, between May 9 and May 19, 1813, leaving a will in which he mentions his wife, Catherine (Stagers) Honnell, and his living children. Catherine lived until 1837, apparently with her son, Jacob. She left a will which was probated December 26, 1837, and is found in Will Book 2, page 91. She is shown by the census records to have been younger than her husband. The burial place of John and Catherine is not certain, but they may be buried near Grimes' Hill in Jackson Township, Greene County.

RACHEL HEATON'S LETTER

Before taking up the Heaton Family, who settled on Tenmile, in and about the present town of Jefferson, I believe it would be of interest to quote a letter written by Rachel (Heaton) Colver on January 25, 1861. Rachel Heaton was daughter of Isaac and Hannah (Bowen) Heaton. She married Thomas Colver, an early attorney of Greene County. Their son, Samuel Colver, built the old stone house, that in late years, has been the home of Norval Rogers and his widow, Hattie Rogers. Rachel (Heaton) Colver died January 21, 1864, three years after this letter was written. She was in her eightieth year when she died. The letter reads:

"My Grandfather, Samuel Heaton, emigrated from Ireland early in the Seventeenth (she means early 1700s) Century. His name was Samuel H. Eaton. He went into business with a merchant of Connecticut, where they did a good business. In the multitude of the Yankees, he married an English lady by the name of Sarah Hancock by whom he had nine children: Samuel, Sarah, Mary, John, Jabesh, Daniel, Hannah, James and Isaac. The latter was my father, who was born on June 12, 1730. My grandfather moved to New Jersey, Sussex County, when my father was young, with his eldest son, Samuel, Jr., who was married and was a Baptist preacher. He constituted a church in a village, which was afterwards called Morristown. Sarah, Mary and John married and remained in the New England States. My grandfather brought with him five unmarried children: Jabesh, Daniel, Hannah, James and Isaac. My grandfather died before my father arrived at manhood. My father married Mary Booth and moved, with his father-in-law, to new Virginia, Berley County, Mill Creek, on which he built a saw mill which did a good business.

"But in the midst of prosperity there was adversity. His wife and child died and he remained a widower for some years, in which time he married my mother, Hannah Bowen. She was the daughter of Henry and Anna Bowen. Their ancestors were from Wales and Scotland. My grandmother Bowen's father's name was Simeon Moon. He was from Wales, and his wife from Scotland. Grandfather Bowen's father was from Scotland and his wife from Wales. My mother's ancestors were mostly Quakers. My grandfather Bowen and his wife had ten children: four sons and six daughters. Their names were: Rees, Henry, John, Jacob, and the daughters, Mary, Hannah, Margaret, Jane, Nancy and Priscilla. The daughters all married and had twelve children apiece, except one, who had thirteen. The sons all died single men, three in the bloom of youth—Rees, Henry and Jacob—and John died an old bachelor. Not one married to keep their father's name. My mother, the eldest, was born May 3, 1742, and was married to my father March 3, 1760. Since I came here Josiah Robb requested me to give him a record of my family, his mother's family. I did so. I now send you a record to the best of my recollection:

- "John Heaton was born December 16, 1760.
- "Mary Heaton was born December 2, 1762.
- "Sarah Heaton was born December 16, 1764.
- "Henry Heaton was born September 16, 1766.
- "Isaac Heaton was born October 29, 1768.
- "James Heaton was born February 2, 1771.
- "Daniel Heaton was born March 22, 1773.
- "Nancy Heaton was born June 11, 1775.
- "Hannah Heaton was born April 3, 1778.
- "Rachel Heaton was born April 3, 1780 (herself)
- "Rees Heaton was born February 4, 1783.
- "Jacob Bowen Heaton was born May 9, 1786.

"My father left Mill Creek, Virginia, in the fall of 1785, the 19th of November, and arrived at the desired place the fourth of December, where he remained a permanent citizen of Greene County, Pennsylvania. In the commencement it was all Washington County. Since my recollection, it was struck off and called Greene. My father was a man of not much learning, but of good judgment and a strong mind. His mind little abated until the day of his death. He died April 2, 1814. My mother died May 19, 1827. They were gathered home to their fathers.

"JOHN HEATON (married Sarah Morgan Roberts) was the father of Mary, Morgan, Bowen, Elizabeth, Charlotte, Hiram, John, Samuel, Alexander and Isaac.

"MARY LUCE (she married (1) Zephaniah Luce and (2) Samuel Luce) was the mother of Dillah, James, Henry, John, Warren, Charlotte, Susanna and Zephaniah.

"SARAH WATHEN (she married Nicholas Miles Wathen) was the mother of Mary, Henry, Hannah, Nancy, Rachel, Druscilla, Charlotte, Eli, Dillah, Cynthia and Sarah.

"HENRY HEATON (he married Martha Morgan, sister of Sarah) was the father of Rhuana, Cynthia, Samuel, Nancy, Franklin, Henry, Mary, Harriett, Martha, Hannah and Minerva.

"ISAAC HEATON (he married Hannah Wilson (Williams ?) was the father of two children, William and Maria.

"JAMES HEATON (he married Margaret Williams) was the father of Isaac, Enoch, Lewis, Hannah, Warren, Maria, John, Owens and Shevy.

"DANIEL HEATON (he married Amy Hill) was the father of Rees, Eli, Jacob, Bowen, John, Robert, Isaac, Priscilla, Anna, Hannah and Amy.

"NANCY HEATON (she married Rees Hill) was the mother of Bowen, Elizabeth, Isaac, Hannah, Daniel, Priscilla, Mary, Heaton, Amy, Rees and Naomi.

"HANNAH HEATON (she married Isaac Buckingham) was the mother of John, Jane, Rachel, Henry, Charlotte, Bowen, Mary and Hannah.

"RACHEL HEATON (she married Thomas Colver) was the mother of Samuel and Elizabeth.

"REES HEATON (he married Sarah Weaver) was the father of Nancy, William, Isaac, Hannah, Abigail, Daniel, Elizabeth and Cyrus.

"JACOB BOWEN HEATON (he married Rachel Weaver) was the father of Weaver, Abigail, Hannah, Henry, Eliza, Sarah, Nancy, Mary, Rachel and Mariah.

"John Heaton died August 1820.

"Mary Luce died January 1838.

"Sarah Wathen died June 1852.

"Henry Heaton died 1834.

"Isaac Heaton died 1834-5.

"James Heaton died December 9, 1855.

"Daniel Heaton died May 4, 1858.

"Hannah Buckingham died March 1850.

"Bowen Heaton died October 22, 1839.

"Thomas Colver died October 26, 1852.

"These are all gone to their companions. There are remaining our brother, Rees, and wife; our sister, Rachel, and Rachel Colver. Twenty-one dead and four alive. We are as leaves of the Autumn, dropping off every year. This would be no grief to me if I could find them again in one eternal day.

(Signed) "RACHEL COLVER."

Dated January 25, 1861.

This letter has been checked by the author through the various courts of Greene and Washington Counties, Pennsylvania; Frederick County, Virginia, and in other sources, and is found to be fairly correct. A similar letter was sent the author from Raymond Luce of Angola, Indiana, and had been written by Rachel Colver to his ancestor. Inspection of some thirty quit claim deeds in Frederick County, Virginia, disclosed much of the correct Bowen records of this letter. There the wills of Henry Bowen and Simeon Moon were found, along with the settlement of Rees Bowen and Henry Bowen's estates, Fayette County, Pennsylvania, uncovered the records of Henry Heaton. In the records of Isaac and Hannah (Bowen) Heaton, which will follow, the discrepancies of Rachel (Heaton) Colver's letter will be corrected.

It is not strange that Rachel Colver did not mention the fact that her uncle, Jabesh or Zabesh, also came to Greene County, for it is but natural that older people can remember the things of an early day that associate them with the subject at hand, and she was in this case concerned only with her immediate family. We regret she did not elaborate on the Ruff's Creek Heaton and those of the Castle Run section, other than her own family. The letter was written with a clear mind peculiar to the Heaton, for in the course of searching the records of this family, the writer received from Austa Heaton Daniels of Princeton, Illinois—a dear old lady past her eightieth year—the complete record of the Rees Heaton family, copied by this lady in long hand and kept up-to-date to the last birth and death.

ELECTRICITY NOW AVAILABLE TO NEARLY ALL U.S. FARMS

Power Companies Celebrate August 26 to Sept. 1 as "FARM ELECTRIFICATION WEEK"

Electricity now is available to over 90 per cent of America's occupied farms. And the nation's electric light and power companies are marking the virtual attainment of farm electrification with special ceremonies during the week of August 26 to September 1.

Evidence of the growth of farm electricity is in the record. In 1923, only about 200,000 American farms had electric service. Today, it is available to 4,900,000 of the country's 5,200,000 occupied farms as a result of the companies and local electric co-operatives working together.

The electric light and power companies pioneered in farm electrification. They now serve nearly half of America's farms. Almost the entire remaining half are being served by the local electric co-operatives. The electric companies are proud of the privilege of furnishing, at wholesale rates, about half the electricity distributed by these local electric co-operatives to their customers.

As the job of bringing electric service to farms nears completion, the electric light and power companies will continue to co-operate with local electric co-operatives and with agricultural colleges and experiment stations to sponsor research to put electricity to work in more ways for more farmers.

Strayed Sheep Back With Wool

Salt Lake City

A sheepman, June King, was amply repaid for the loss of five sheep that had been missing for four years. The absentees turned up again with fleeces so thick they could hardly waddle.

The sheep, found by Albert Stewart, a hunter and trapper, were identified by ear tags and paint brands buried deep in the wool. They apparently had remained "holed up" in the rugged Henry mountain area.

The Erie Conference Board of Education: Homer N. Clark, Executive Secretary of the Pittsburgh Conference Boards of Education and Missions.

There will be discussion groups for the various areas of responsibility in Adult Education, a series of informal interest groups in the fields of Drama, Crafts, Informal Games, Folk Games, Literature and Curriculum, Music, Folk songs, Audio-Visual Education.

The convocation is planned to provide inspiration and information that will challenge the leaders to go back to their respective churches with an enlarged vision, quickened insight and new skills to do better work.

Farm Electrification Job Nearing Finish in Area

broods chicks and animals, grinds feed, heats water and cools milk in the dairy, dries crops and ventilates stables for healthier cattle."

"We are proud of the fact that while we serve less than 10% of all the farms in Pennsylvania, our customers have 55% of all the crop drying installations in the state."

Mr. Currier gives credit to many agencies for the rapid adoption of electrical methods of farming. Among the groups working for greater farm productivity and profit, he cited the farmer and his organizations, the county agents, colleges, other extension workers, agricultural vocational teachers in many high schools, farm equipment dealers, farm columnists and commentators.

"West Penn's staff of ten rural service representatives have had the opportunity of working locally with these groups and to together they are bringing farm customers benefits of electric service which end the drudgery of chores, and make life in the farm home as comfortable and convenient as in the city. "In celebrating Farm Electrification Week and a job well done, it strikes me that we have just reached a milestone which points to still greater opportunities in the future for further increasing farm productivity and prosperity," he concluded.

Brady Family Pioneer Penna. Warriors Against Indians

—Harrisburg—
Henry W. Shoemaker, President of the Pennsylvania Folklore Society, State Museum, Harrisburg, recounted the story of the Brady family's warfare with Indians in the 18th century.

"One hundred and seventy-one years ago, Captain 'Indian Sam' Brady restored Mrs. Jennie Stoops and her infant child to her husband at Fort MacIntosh in Beaver County," Shoemaker said.

"Indian Sam," on a long scouting expedition, encountered hostile Indians on various occasions and made a dozen prisoners, including two young Wyandot squaws, and was proceeding with them to Fort Pitt when, game being scarce, he had trouble in feeding his troop and the Indian prisoners.

"Game had been driven off in the warfare in the region and he was only able to run across porcupines, beavers, otters, pelicans and loons. In the famous heronry on the Tionesta, he found enough young birds in the nests to feed his convoy. Ammunition being scarce, he was able to knock the young out of the nests with clubs.

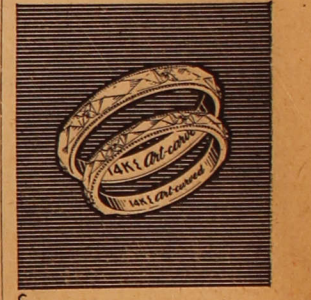

"After feasting to repletion the party resumed its way but in several days' time hunger again overcame them, but by then only two charges for his gun remained, which, Brady stated afterwards, made him shiver, as, if the Indian captives had known it, they would surely have murdered and killed his party with rocks and clubs.

"Finally they came upon a buck, doe and a fawn standing in the path, and the Indians loudly demanded that Brady shoot them. He aimed at the doe, which seemed to have the most flesh on her, but the gun flashed in the pan and still the deer stood still. Just then Brady heard the branches crack and, thinking more game was coming, made ready to fire again, when out of the woods came a process-

TUESDAY MORNING PROGRAMS

Fifty-Year History of Greene County Sports

By GEORGE N. THOMAS

WRESTLING—ITS INCEPTION AT WAYNESBURG COLLEGE

The night of March 12, 1923, was a cold one in Waynesburg, especially for those who stood outside the Army doors on North Washington street. The vestibule was jammed. The air was tense, quiet and smoky.

And only a handful in that crowd knew what was really going on.

Finally Henry Leucht, a husky 175-pounder, stood up with upraised arm.

Then the crowd went wild. They realized that a Waynesburg College boy had beaten a foe in the first wrestling match ever held here.

To many folks the sport was an enigma. Hennie Leucht and Charles England had grasped each other and rolled around a mat. To prove what? they asked.

Well, for one thing, the Athletic Benefit fund was swelled by about $1,000.

The newspapers praised not only Leucht, but also a couple of college football players, Bob Wisener and Leo Cunningham, and Allen Dittman and Francis Bradley, who wrestled as amateurs.

The clamor for wrestling was astounding. At that early date district fans adopted torso-twisting when many communities had rejected it.

Before the fervor cooled off, Leucht, always an alert business man, carded another match with England.

Again a sell-out crowd paid big money and the college athletic fund swelled again.

In the feature England lasted only 29 minutes with Leucht.

It was then that the college took the new competition seriously. They asked Hennie to organize a team.

The first team was composed of Harry McHenry, Bradley, Cunningham, Bernie Veschio and Bob Wisener. Leucht was captain and wrestled unlimited, although he pushed the scales to about 175.

On the squad also were Clair Bee, Allen Dittman, Jacob and James Adams, Howard Oster, "Chod" Core, Ambrose O'Malley, George Jefferson, Paul Masters, "Chenny" Williamson and Eugene Carroll.

Wrestling was not the sport of skill and finesse that it is today. There was little room for crafty men.

Most of the first team were brawny members of the football squad. Carroll was captain of the football team.

There simply weren't any collegiate opponents this side of the Alleghenies. For a while it seemed as though the team had been formed in vain, although the home town thrilled to watch even intra-squad matches at benefit performances.

Leucht

A professional team under the banner of W. B. A. U., was brought to Waynesburg and as most people expected, they trounced the collegiate yearlings. Wisener, in fact, went into a faulty roll and dislocated his shoulder.

The team idea faded out because of lack of competitors, but not Hennie Leucht.

That summer merchants showered him with gifts and he took over playground activities at Funk's Field (East End playground).

He tutored boys under 16 in field meets, hiking, swimming, baseball, basketball and quoits. Unable to exhaust his capacity to work with young athletes, he personally built a tennis court.

Throughout the mid-twenties Leucht was the "boys' pal" of Waynesburg and environs.

The following winter Hennie organized business men's evening gymnastic classes in the armory to reduce waistlines. The idea was so good that 50 men gave him a $200 profit each month.

He was originally a football lineman in Illinois, but to earn a living he had taken up wrestling. Hennie soon became junior heavyweight champion of Illinois. Clair Bee met him and encouraged him to come to Waynesburg.

When Hennie stepped into Western Pennsylvania, he automatically became the best wrestler in the area. He proved it by beating all foes.

It took five thousand years for wrestling to reach Waynesburg. The Greeks originated the sport in their Olympics, but before Leucht only through history books could one know the excitement the sport contained.

In 1905 the first American wrestling group was formed, with Yale, Princeton, Columbia and Pennsylvania, chartering the Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association.

At Waynesburg Leucht wanted to play football as well as wrestle, but a shoulder injury sidelined him.

He had learned wrestling from Farmer Burns in two summers at Omaha, Nebraska. Burns, in turn, had been a student of the daddy of them all, Frank Gotch. Anyone who disputed the superior Gotch probably never had a look at his record—154 wins out of 160 bouts. And he retired in 1913 because competition had run out.

When Farmer Burns thought Hennie knew enough, he sent the boy into the mid-West Amateur Championships at Bucyrus, Ohio, which amounted to today's nationals.

The outcome was something even Farmer Burns didn't expect. Hennie won both 160- and 175-pound classes and was laden down with medals.

Leucht wasn't sure Bee had done him a favor in prying him loose from Elgin, for in that first exhibition match at College Heights Hennie had to order a mat and promise to pay for it from the first night's proceeds. The gamble paid off and wrestling was here to stay.

Exhibitions netted the Athletic Association $600 to $1,400 a night. Competitors varied from pros from the mid-west to YMCA teams out of Pittsburgh.

The way the crowd understood the rules in 1924 was that adversaries struggled to one fall to the finish or best two-out-of-three falls, by agreement.

In a memorable bout in 1924 Hennie pinned Tommy Tucker of Cleveland, in 28 minutes.

That's how he beat many foes—by out-conditioning them in long bouts. To keep in shape he ran five miles daily before breakfast.

Among the best boys that year were Clay Hoy, now chief-of-police in Mather; Paul Masters, Earl Tate, and Coldron.

A couple of months later, Leucht was invited to try out for the U. S. Olympic team in Columbus. He did well enough to be asked to go to New York the following week. But the Wednesday before he was to leave he injured his shoulder again, and a Waynesburg Olympic entry never materialized.

Frank Steele, an Ohio State U. stalwart, offered Leucht the best competition in 1925. In a local match, Hennie threw him, but in his long career, Steele was the only matman to beat him.

Julius Biery, Leo Cunningham, Clay Hoy, William Mox, Charles Susano and Bernard Veschio were on Hennie's team, but most of their wrestling was done among themselves at benefit performances in the armory.

One of the finest gestures ever staged in Greene County took place early in February of 1926, just six weeks after the Downey House fire, a benefit night was

Pirates and Dodgers On TV Sunday

—Pittsburgh—

The Western Pennsylvania audience will get its first look at the Pittsburgh Pirates on television Sunday, August 26, when the Pirates and Dodgers will play in Brooklyn.

That afternoon's television play-by-play will be picked up direct in Ebets Field; brought to Pittsburgh by coaxial cable; and telecast "live" by Pittsburgh's WDTV.

Two other Pirate games will be broadcast by WDTV from Cincinnati's Crosley Field in September. These will be the Pirate-Reds game on Saturday afternoon, September 22, and the first game of a Pirate-Reds double-header on Sunday afternoon, September 23.

staged as a memorial for the five boys who lost their lives in the conflagration. It consisted of a combined wrestling-boxing-basketball exhibition, and Hennie climaxed the evening by whipping Charles England for the second time, after 25 minutes.

By 1927, when Leucht was graduated, he had stirred the fervor for wrestling in this quiet community. The stage was set for James M. Miller, Waynesburg College professor, who organized the first team which met other colleges.

Mt. Lebanon High welcomed Hennie with open arms and he became their first football coach in 1928. Until 1943, when he went to the Navy, Hennie had won 98 and lost 18 at the school.

Upon his return from the Navy, W. and J. grabbed him as head grid coach and John O'Hara, ace newsman, wrote, "W. and J. has broken the code by hiring a Waynesburg College grad" as a coach. It was the first such instance.

Brady Family Pioneer Warriors

sweatshirt who, in the heat of campaigns, had become separated from him and had married James Stoops.

"At Fort MacIntosh, Stoop's joy knew no bounds. He had known of Brady's early attachment for his wife and to have this former lover return her safe and sound was the very height of frontier justice and honor. "The law of the woods" which had torn asunder and reassorted so many pioneer couples, had lost out and his joy could scarce resist itself.

"Brady, after seeing that his party had all the buffalo meat they could eat, returned with his remaining captives, to Fort Pitt. On his way back he again encountered another party of Wyandots and shot and scalped their chief, the noted Bielaski. He rode into the fort with 'royal hair,' as chieftain's scalps were called, dangling from either side of his saddle bow, after an absence of 32 days.

"Volley after volley greeted him as he crossed the river and a great bonfire blazed. In the welcoming party was the stern Indian killer, Captain Van Swearingen (called 'Old Dutch'), who was accompanied by his daughter, the dark eyed Drusilla.

"Indian Sam' and Drusilla fell in love and soon married.

"Colonel Daniel Broadhead, in command at Fort Pitt, recommended Brady's promotion and on July 25, 1780, the Supreme Executive Council at Philadelphia, made him a Captain, dating his commission and pay from the previous September. Captain Sam Brady's career was a glorious one, yet noted for exact justice.

"His father, Captain John Brady, was ambushed by Indians at Wolf Run near Muncy, on the West Branch, in 1777, while in 1778 his favorite brother, James Quigley Brady, 'the young captain of the Susquehanna,' was surprised by Indians in a harvest field, near Milton, and scalped, from the effects of which he died. These deaths Sam Brady charged up to Woop-alannee, or Chief Bold Eagle whom he trailed and killed June 24, 1779, at Kittanning.

"The annals of the Brady family will long play a leading part in the saga of the history and folklore of Revolutionary days in Pennsylvania."

Traditions Tossed Aside During London Heat

—London—

Even Britons set aside ancient traditions in a heatwave. Judge G. B. McClure, sitting at London's Old Bailey, commented: "It's too hot," and removed his wig.

In a moment the two lawyers and the clerk in the court were also wigless.
