Chorale Rates Fine Comment

The Pittsburgh Post Gazette Tuesday printed the following comment on the Downtown Chorales rendition of King David Monday night under the direction of John R. Lively, organist and choir director of the Sixth Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Lively is a son of Mrs. C. C. Lively of Ross street, and the late Dr. Lively.

The article in part: The Downtown Chorale in its first appearance of the season under its new director, John R. Lively, presented Arthur Honegger's "King David" in Carnegie Music Hall.

The Chorale, which has had several successful seasons under the direction of Henry Mazer, has lost none of its competence under its new director. Mr. Lively, judging from the performance of "King David," is a leader of imagination and ability.

The Chorale sang all of its passages with consistent sympathy with the score. Moreover the Chorale achieved a good balance when such a state is difficult to achieve, in these days of shortages of male singers.

The accompaniment by members of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra was exemplary although occasionally, Mr. Lively permitted it to drown out the Chorales while attempting to reach a fortissimo.

The soloists were Jean Rodefer and Martha Bustite, sopranos, Jane Bower, contralto, and Conrad Seaman, tenor.

Jean Rodefer is the wife of David Rodefer of Pittsburgh, formerly of Waynesburg.

Eisenhower Fails to 'See' Senator Duff

—Washington— General Dwight D. Eisenhower flew back to Paris yesterday leaving behind a conspicuous refusal to say if he is available for the 1952 presidential race.

The fact that he didn't say "yes" and he didn't say "no" publicly—or perhaps even privately—leaves the five-star general a possible top contender for either the Republican or Democratic nominations.

Even President Truman apparently got no inkling of the General's future political plans, although the possibility was not foreclosed that they discussed how long Eisenhower will remain on the job as commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in Europe.

Republicans who have been booming Eisenhower for their party's presidential nomination are generally agreed they can't make an effective campaign until the General gives some public signal of his availability.

Throughout his visit in Washington Eisenhower refused to be drawn out on political questions. Nowhere, however, did he accept opportunities that arose to take himself out of the presidential picture.

This gave something of a lift to Republicans like Senator Duff of Pennsylvania, who have been talking him up for the GOP nomination.

Eisenhower made it clear that Duff and other Republicans, as well as Democrats who suggested him for their party's nominee, are operating on their own.

Asked if he had given anyone authority to undertake any political activity in his behalf, the General pursed his lips, grinned widely and rolled out a "no."

When another reporter asked whether he would permit anyone to talk politics with him on his visit, the answer was less emphatic:

"Not just now."

Texas Eastern Awards Contracts

Prizes For Floats In Christmas Parade

Waynesburg Chamber of Commerce issues an invitation to church or school groups and other organizations to enter floats in the annual Christmas parade, Friday, evening, November 30, in Waynesburg.

First prize of $50 will be awarded to the outstanding non-commercial float, $25 second prize, and an additional $25 to be distributed by the committee among the remainder of the floats.

The Chamber requests that floats carry out either religious or fairy tale themes, and it is emphasized that Santa Claus characters will not be permitted, as Santa will ride on the Chamber of Commerce float which will not compete for prize money.

Groups wishing to enter floats are requested to register entries with the parade chairman, Hugh A. Auld, or the Chamber of Commerce secretary, 208 Peoples Bank Building, Waynesburg.

Students, teachers and administrative employes at Waynesburg College paused in their various routines briefly Monday as they informally observed the 100th anniversary of the first use of Hanna Hall for classes.

In a brief message President Paul R. Stewart pointed out that just 100 years before this date students from the then struggling institution walked from the former Cumberland Church building on East Wayne street to the new structure.

It is still in use today. The first two floors are used for classrooms and laboratories and the third floor as rooming quarters for boys. The oak floors and stairways originally placed in the building are still in use and still appear to have many years of life ahead of them.

The worn stone steps, mellowed and a bit hollowed out by a century of use and weathering are still sturdy and appear to be in shape to be used for at least a half century more.

The bricks, burned from native clay, have also been mellowed by age and have faded to a restful shade of red from their original fiery crimson. Ivy, the traditional plant of college buildings, now covers most of the walls.

The Hall is steeped in tradition. Besides its use as a college building it was also used for some years back in the late 1919's and early 1920's as a building for public school classes.

On the occasion of the 100th anniversary of the moving of the students into the new structure the move was re-enacted by members of the college football squad.

THE RINEHART FAMILY

Johan Thomas Rinehart arrived in America on the British ship "Lydia," Thomas Allen, master, and took the Oath of Allegiance to the British at Philadelphia on December 11, 1739. In due time he migrated to Frederick County, Maryland, where he was living in 1776, when his son, Simon, enlisted in Captain Philip Graybill's Company of the German Regiment under the command of Colonel Ludwick Weltner. A short time later Thomas Rinehart, Sr., with his wife, Anna Maria, and five sons, Simon, Thomas, Joseph, John, and Barnet Rinehart, removed to the Tenmile Country and settled at the head of Coal Lick Branch of South Tenmile. Here they made their improvements and two of the sons were to fall at the hands of the ever present Indians. When Thomas Rinehart, Sr., died in 1793, he mentioned these deceased sons in dividing his estate, giving their proper share to their children. His wife, Anna Maria, survived him as shown by the probate of the will on November 23, 1793. (Washington County Will Book 1, pp. 211.)

Three Korean Heroes Receive Medal of Honor, The Highest Fighting Award

Washington, D. C., Sept. ( )—Three Army heroes, pictured after receiving the nation's highest award, the Medal of Honor, from President Truman. They are, l. to r., Sgt. John A. Pittman, Tullala, Miss.; 1st Lt. Carl H. Dodd, Keniv, Ky.; and M/Sgt. Ernest R. Kouma, Dwight, Neb. Sgt. Pittman, although wounded, threw himself upon an enemy grenade thus saving the lives of his men. Lt. Dodd spearheaded an attack against a well entrenched enemy position. He single-handedly cleared out a machine-gun nest and led his platoon in wiping out every hostile position. Sgt. Kouma discovered his tank was the only obstacle in the path of an enemy onslaught. He spent nine hours of violent action, running an eight-mile gauntlet through enemy lines, leaving 250 enemy dead behind. Twice wounded he attempted to return to the fighting. These heroes are giving everything in defense of their country, and they expect those at home to do their share. The best way, they say, is "to buy U. S. Defense Bonds." They add: "Defense is your job too. Back the Fall Defense Bond Drive."

- Thomas Rinehart, born 1834, died July 27, 1845.
- Harriett Rinehart, born November 26, 1838, died January 28, 1905; married, January 15, 1861, Henry Grimes.
- William Arthur Rinehart, married Rachel Kincaid.
- Henry Porter Rinehart, born June 1, 1844, died February 25, 1892; married, June 28, 1866, Maria Bowers, born February 22, 1844, died December 30, 1932.
- Levi Rinehart, son of Thomas and Hannah (Inghram) Rinehart, married Maria McClelland, a daughter of Asa and Catherine (Brown) McClelland. He died in 1854.
- Hannah Rinehart, daughter of Thomas and Hannah (Inghram) Rinehart, married Thomas Rinehart, son of Joseph and Elizabeth (Huffman) Rinehart.

FAMILY OF SIMON RINEHART

Simon Rinehart, son of Thomas and Anna Maria Rinehart, after serving a tour of duty in Captain Philip Graybill's Company of the German Regiment under Colonel Ludwick Weltner in Frederick County, Maryland, in 1776, removed with his father's family to the head of Coal Lick Run. Evans says that he and William Brown agreed to the exchange of their lands, and in the process of moving both men were ambushed and killed by the Indians; Simon Rinehart being shot by an Indian lurking behind a tree on Laurel Run. This tree, frequently pointed out to early inhabitants of the section, was for many years known as the Simon Rinehart Tree. The story told by William Harrod, Jr., and Harrod Newland, both of whom were called up to avenge the slaying, says that the men were making maple sugar and were ambushed at their camp. John Owens and William English were the other unfortunate men in this event. It is possible that both stories are true, and since we know from court records that John Owens was killed in the Spring of 1781, we can place that date as the death of Simon Rinehart. His name is on the petition for the formation of the new state to be called "Westsylvania," which was sent to the Continental Congress about 1779. Simon Rinehart was born about 1750, and married about 1772, to Sarah _____, who survived her husband and re-married. ## Old Abe Buzzard Turned From Crime To Religion

—Harrisburg—

Henry W. Shoemaker, President of the Pennsylvania Folklore Society, State Museum, Harrisburg, said Abe Buzzard, the last of Pennsylvania's "knights of the road," or outlaws died some years ago, apparently a reformed man who conducted a Sunday School in his last years.

"The Welsh mountains back of Honeybrook, were the great stronghold of the Buzzard Gang, headed by Abe, who knew every cave and hideout on the mountains," Shoemaker said. "A dark, gipsy-looking man, he claimed French Huguenot descent, and compared himself to the disparagement of earlier highwaymen, David Lewis and Sandy Flash.

"Who were Lewis and Fitzpatrick?" he would say, "they operated in a time when there were no telegraphs, telephones, railroads or even good roads. I defied the sheriffs for 30 years in the midst of those improvements."

"Buzzard's father, he said, was a Lancaster County copper miner; his mother, an Amish farm woman, whose home in the Golden Valley, back of Honeybrook, was a secluded log shack.

"For years, Mildred, the sister of the five Buzzard boys, rode about on her white pony accompanied by a brace of dogs resembling Scottish deer hounds, her pale, high-bred face concealed by a floppy wide-brimmed, straw hat, adorned with corn flowers. Some said she was a spy for her brothers, noting the absence of menfolk from particular farms, or picking out places suitable for rich hauls. Others said she dealt in old lamps and other antiques and that she was perfectly honest.

"Walter Hampton, a former deputy sheriff, who once disarmed Buzzard, had his rifle hanging in his rest station on top of the Welsh mountains, north of Waynesburg, now Honeybrook. Buzzard hid in the Wolf's Den, near there and was tracked by a band of 50 armed special deputy sheriffs, the largest party of deputies ever sent for a prisoner in Lancaster, Chester or Delaware Counties. "Buzzard, from his lookout, saw a little army approaching and shouted, 'I am coming out, and any man who stands in my way, I will shoot dead, so get out of the way or die!'

"There was a 'scrambling' of the armed posse, running down the steep hill, hiding behind rocks and logs, as Buzzard emerged, his fine, dark eyes flashing, looking neither to the right or left, primed loaded rifle in hand. The band was compelled to report back to Lancaster, 'they had not arrested the Buzzard.' Later Hampton surprised Buzzard in an old log cabin and single-handedly disarmed him—single-handed, because he only had one hand. The courts of Lancaster County gave him the rifle as, 'if a one-armed man could disarm a man who had terrorized 50 men, he deserved a rich reward.'

"What do you want?" said Judge Livingston, from the bench. "Pray, your Honor, I covet Buzzard's Schell rifle."

"It is yours by common consent," said the aged jurist.

"Buzzard after robbing the bank at Ephrata in 1896, as a 'lone bandit,' and escaping from his captors, when taken to the bank to be identified, fled to Clearfield County, where he lived for several years as a refugee in the mountains. Later, he served a term in Lancaster jail for stealing pea fowls. 'The peacock is a royal bird,' he said, 'they would never get me on chickens or ducks.'

"He became an evangelist, and his services, held in a grove near the Ephrata Cloisters, gained many earnest converts. He put forward the scheme to re-convert the Cloisters property and make it a state headquarters for a new non-sectarian religion, the 'Sect of Penn.' "Unlike his fellow Pennsylvania free-booters, Lewis, Conley, Heller and Sandy Flash, he lived to repent the misdeeds of his youth, and in his last days conducted a sabbath school for neighbor children."

Abbreviations are always followed by a period except on the beach and then they are followed by a crowd.

Tither Reward Unclaimed

—Santa Ana, Cal.—

There's $100 on deposit in a bank here which can be claimed by anyone. Anyone, that is, who tries tithing for one year and finds that God does not keep his promise to take adequate care of the giver. In five years there have been no claimants.

The Rev. DeWitt Safford, who deposited the money, recently renewed the offer and promised to include the five years' interest.

A tither is one who gives 10 per cent of his income to the church. Safford reports his church has 178 tithers out of a communicant membership of 481. None of them, he says, has shown an interest in his $100.

Shark Fin Dinner Hit by Inflation

All food costs are steadily going up here—even shark's fins. A Chinese restaurateur said the price of fins had risen 30 per cent in the last few months. He added: "Chinese diners do not mind the extra cost. They love good food and are willing to pay for it."

- Weekly Sermonette -

By PAUL R. STEWART.
President Waynesburg College
I am happy that I have been asked to write the November numbers of the new series of sermons which the Waynesburg Republican is projecting. The subject matter of this series of November sermonettes has been inspired by an article in the Post Gazette this morning, November 6. Part of the headlines of the article gives the thought that man is about to fly into space, thus "breaking the fetters that have bound him to earth for over a million years." Not once in this article, which is reasonably scientific, although somewhat conjectural, does the writer mention the Author of the great universe which man thinks to conquer.

The series of sermons which I shall attempt will emphasize a kindred thought: how impossible it is for man to break the fetters that have bound him to an Almighty God since the dawn of creation. The bombastic and boastful utterances of puny man as he shrills his childish voice into the infinite depths of God's creation remind me of several instances of like materialistic chatter mentioned in the "Good Book." The reader will remember the time that upon the plains of Babel, the ancients said, "Let us build a tower which will reach into heaven." We also remember God's rebuke to Job when he had been listening too assiduously to the humanistic advice of his three conceited comforters, Bildad, the Shuhite; Eliphaz, the Temanite; and Zophar, the Naamathite. Bible readers will also recall how the Lord answered Job out of the whirlwind, saying, "Who is this that darkeneth counsel by words without knowledge?" Then it will be remembered that the chiding voice of the Lord asks, "Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth?" And later, "Hast thou commanded the morning since thy days, and caused the day-spring to know his place?" And still later, referring to the inability of man to control the weather, "Canst thou say the buckets of heaven?"

These admonitions from the Bible teach us to be less boastful when speaking of the accomplishments of man. Bringing the thought of humility before God down to yesterday, how much better it was to hear our grandparents say respectfully, "The Lord willing, I will see you next Saturday," rather than the modern flamboyant, "When I fill the old jalopy with gas, I will get to town to see you."

These considerations have led me to a series of sermons whose subjects will be as follows: November 7, "Canst thou bring forth Mazzaroth in his season?"; November 14, "Canst thou bind the sweet influences of Pleiades?"; November 21, "The heavens declare the glory of God, and November 28, "The bruised reed will He not break." We now come to the subject of the first sermon, "Canst thou bring forth Mazzaroth in his season?" This statement becomes the text of our sermon. It is found in the 38th chapter of Job, the 32nd verse.

Mazzaroth is an oriental word used as a synonym for zodiac, and the zodiac, as all we know, represents the belt of twelve constellations—one for each month—through which the sun passes in its annual circuit of the heavens. The signs of these constellations are found in the well-

Tuberculosis can strike at any age, at anytime, at anyone. Anyone can strike back by buying Christmas Seals. known almanacs. These constellations occupy a belt eight degrees on each side of the ecliptic, or the sun's annual path, thus making a belt sixteen degrees wide. Half of this belt, of course, is north of the equator and contains the constellations, The Fishes, from March 21 to April 21; The Ram, from April 21 to May 21; and thence, The Bulls, The Twins, The Crab, and The Lion, up to the autumnal equinox on September 21, when the ecliptic, and with it the zodiac drops south of the celestial equator and into the fall and winter months.

The voice of the Lord translated into English thought is simply this: "Are you able to change the seasons to suit your own whims?" Like Job of old, we constantly need admonishment when without a thought of gratitude for God's providence or a thought of humility before His majesty, or a thought of dependence upon His grace, we read such conjectures as to future travel in space, or feel for a moment that we can plant our crops, or make our journeys without realizing that we are only a part of the creation which we long, in our frustration, to control. Rather should my readers go with me during the remaining part of this sermon into a part of the heavens and study one of the best known phenomena and yet one of the least appreciated of all the Creator's blessings to man from the glory of the heavens.

I refer to the Harvest Moon and the Hunter's Moon. When we speak of the moons which were completed in September and October, we are speaking of the Harvest Moons. They are not just names, but represent moons which stay in the heavens a far greater number of hours than is true of other moons during the year. The moons have long been appreciated by our forefathers as giving light to the farmer as he gets in his late summer and autumn crops. The moon which has just started and which reached its first quarter last night, is known as the Hunter's Moon. It belongs to the series of long moons and for generations has been contemplated with gratitude by those who followed the harvest with an attempt to use the product of the chase to eke out Isaiah's "Seed to the sower and bread to the eater."

May we close with two thoughts, each illustrating the proper and hence more comforting attitude towards the Creator. The first is a story told of Theodore Roosevelt by the great naturalist Beebe. When Beebe and Roosevelt in the latter's home at Oyster Bay, would wax to egotistic in their conversation concerning man's discoveries and inventions, Roosevelt would say, "Let's go outside, Beebe." Then after looking at the majesty of the heavens and the infinite depth of space, Roosevelt would say, "Now, Beebe, I think we feel humble enough. Let's go to bed."

The second illustration can also be our closing prayer. It comes from the pen of Oliver Wendell Holmes: "Lord of all being, throned afar, Thy glory streams from every star, Center and soul of every sphere, Yet to each loving heart how near."

Economy League Reports On Disposal of Rubbish

W. C. Montgomery, chairman of the Greene County branch of the Pennsylvania Economy League, has issued a very interesting newsletter on garbage disposal, which is reproduced in part below:

One of the burdens of being civilized is the problem of the methods used to dispose of garbage.

Civilization calls upon us to do something better than that.

In actual experience, there are only two really proven methods of sanitary disposal of garbage and rubbish. One of these is the incinerator—an arrangement of furnaces in which the refuse is burned.

The other is the sanitary land fill.

There is nothing wrong with incineration as a disposal method. A properly constructed incinerator, constitutes no public nuisance, and can be a pleasant appearing type of industrial installation. But it involves a very substantial capital investment which is largely avoided by the sanitary fill.

A sanitary fill provides for the burial of refuse, and lets nature do the decomposition job that incineration does through a brief intense heat.

The operation is one of trench digging. Walls of earth are left in the trenches, inclosing a "cell." The cell is filled with refuse which is compacted by a bulldozer, and soil is then piled over the refuse and tamped down. The soil covering prevents breeding in the refuse, eliminates odors, and permits bacterial action that will gradually disintegrate the refuse.

The fill method was largely developed by the Army during World War II, as an answer to the sanitary problems of huge Army camps. Pittsburgh has a relatively modern incinerator with a rated capacity of 600 tons of refuse per day. The incinerator was built in depression times when the volume of refuse was low; today it can no longer consume the city's daily output of waste material.

Pittsburgh's officials considered building additional incinerator capacity but discarded that plan in favor of an experiment with the sanitary fill method.

Their experiment has been most successful.

In 1950, the city incinerated 157,000 tons of refuse. It buried 55,000 tons of refuse in its sanitary fill. The cost per ton of burning refuse and hauling away ash was $2.83. The cost of disposing of a similar ton of refuse in the sanitary fill was only 74 cents a ton.

This figure is operating only. It does not include the amortization of the initial investment.

The Pittsburgh fill was bitterly opposed by residents of nearby areas when it was first proposed. They had the "dump" idea firmly in their minds, and were ag'in it. Since the fill has been in operation, this protest has become inaudible. The actual experience with a properly operated fill has shown that it can work almost invisibly, and without any nuisance of any kind.

The League's researchers have figured out that a community of 30,000 population, would need a fill area for a 20-year operating life of sixty acres, costing no more than $60,000. Obviously, sanitary fills are not put on improved and valuable property. The equipment needed to operate the fill would cost about $15,000. The total cost of the sanitary fill would be $75,000.

The annual amortization charge over a period of 20 years at 2½ per cent interest would be $4.81.

The cost of purchasing land for an equivalent incinerator, constructing it, and equipping it for operation would be $250,000.

The annual amortization charge for the incinerator over a similar period and interest rate would be $16,037.

Operating costs of a sanitary fill are only about one-fourth as high as those of an incinerator. Capital charges are not far off from the same ratio.

The community which can use a sanitary fill may also have a reasonable chance of developing it through pay-as-you-go financing, and may well eliminate the land item by finding suitable land already in public ownership or heavily tax delinquent.

The sanitary fill has still another advantage. When the capacity of the fill is used up and no more refuse can be buried on the site, valuable acreage has been reclaimed for productive use. The community gains an asset.

The League does not recommend construction of housing on former sanitary fill sites because the fills should not be opened until the organic material buried has completely disappeared. This will not happen for fifteen years or more.

The best advertisement for a sanitary fill is the Pittsburgh operation on the old "Bell Farm," near the Crafton border. The operation has been viewed by a number of officials from various communities in Western Pennsylvania, and one city, Uniontown, has switched from incinerator operation to the fill method with consequent savings. The League will be happy to arrange inspection trips for interested groups with the Pittsburgh Department of Public Works.

None of the municipalities in Greene County participate actively in the collection or disposal of refuse with the exception of Waynesburg Borough. Waynesburg takes no part in the collection of refuse. It does, however, own 80 acres of land northeast of the borough in Franklin Township where it maintains a dump.

At present the urban areas of the county are widely enough scattered so that disposal of refuse is not a great problem at this writing.

The open dump is unsightly and a producer of filth and disease. The time is approaching when they can no longer be condoned in Greene County. The League will be happy to assist any municipality in the county in the problem of refuse collection or disposal.

County Clubs Sponsor CARE

Casualty tally for South Korea's civilians is 5 million homeless refugees and one million additional war victims. This summation, cited by CARE representatives who surveyed conditions in the war-devastated country, was released by the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The Federation, through its local Women's Clubs in every part of the United States, is currently conducting a Thanksgiving-season campaign for funds to send CARE packages of food and textiles to Korean war victims. National goal of the campaign has been set at 150,000 CARE packages.

Each CARE package subscribed by Americans kept five Korean orphans alive for seven days, during the tragic weeks before the second occupation of Seoul by Communist forces last winter.

Federated clubs taking part in this campaign are: Twentieth Century Club, Library Club, Woman's Club, Pleasant Hour Club, Mother's Study Club, all of Waynesburg; Cumberland and Carmichaels Civic Club, Shannopin Civic Club of Bobtown; Whiteley Township Farm Women's Society and Women's Civic Club of Southeastern Greene County.

All funds contributed will be used to provide CARE packages of food, clothing, textiles and blankets for Korean orphans, refugees and other civilian war victims. The campaign starts November 12 and ends Thanksgiving Day. Delivery of the packages will be made in time for the Christmas holidays. Mrs. Roy Cummings is chairman of the Greene County Federation.

Incinerators are one of the worst types of offenders in air purification programs, and are often fire hazards as well as sources of disagreeable odors.

Parliament Told Of Britain's Cash Crisis

—London—
King George VI warned Parliament Tuesday that growing inflation threatens Britain's defense program and the government must take "drastic action."

Prime Minister Winston Churchill's new Conservative regime will make proposals to fight inflation "in the immediate future," said the monarch in his traditional speech from the throne opening the first formal session of the new Parliament.

Churchill was scheduled to elaborate on the speech—which the Prime Minister and his cabinet had prepared—later.

Since the King is still confined to Buckingham Palace recuperating from a serious lung operation, the speech was read for him at a joint meeting of the Houses of Lords and Commons.

The King told Parliament that a "full disclosure must be made to the nation" of the recent serious deterioration in Britain's economic affairs.

Truman Plan For Clark Unchanged

—Washington—
President Truman's evident determination to resubmit the appointment of General Mark Clark as ambassador to the Vatican forecasts a bitter battle when Congress returns to Washington.

Mr. Truman told a White House news conference Friday the hula-balloo raised by his decision to establish formal diplomatic relations with the Roman Catholic Church state was not as great as he had expected.

The President also asserted that sending an ambassador to the Vatican—where the U. S. recently has been represented only by a personal representative of the President—does not conflict with the traditional American policy of separation of church and state.

This issue has been raised by Protestant church groups among them the Baptist denomination to which Mr. Truman belongs.

With the obvious inference he plans to resubmit the Clark nomination when Congress returns in January, Mr. Truman said there would be time in the interim for the people to get the criticism of his action off their chests.

The President dashed the hopes of some Democratic senators who have been urging that he sidestep out of the controversy by naming Clark as his personal representative. Myron G. Taylor previously served in that role.

Asked why he nominated Clark as an ambassador, Mr. Truman said because that was the way he wanted it.

You—and the SCRAP METAL EMERGENCY

ANSWERS every farmer should have to questions about scrap iron and steel

- Q. Why is iron and steel scrap a matter of importance to farmers?
A. Steel for our Country's defense program and civilian economy is being produced at the highest annual rate ever . . . and this will be greatly increased in 1952. Farm machinery and equipment needs must come from this over-all supply. As steel production increases the need for scrap increases.
- Q. How does scrap figure in the production of steel?
A. One pound of scrap is needed to make two pounds of steel.
- Q. Is scrap getting scarce?
A. Yes, the supply of scrap at the steel mills and foundries is not increasing fast enough to meet the needs of expanding steel production. Yet, there are millions of tons of idle iron and steel scrap, in small amounts, on farms throughout the country.
- Q. What if the needed scrap isn't obtained?
A. That will mean a serious loss of steel production . . . fewer products will be made of steel. It will mean more shortages of civilian products. Defense needs come first.
- Q. Why not use pig iron instead of scrap?
A. Every ton of scrap conserves approximately 2 tons of iron ore, 1 ton of coal, nearly ½ ton of limestone and many other vital natural resources—to say nothing of transportation facilities. Besides, there are not enough blast furnaces to produce the iron needed to maintain production.
- Q. How can more scrap be furnished?
A. By everybody pitching in—as we always do in every emergency—and searching out all possible sources of scrap. Manufacturers of all kinds of products are conducting scrap drives. Old ships are being salvaged . . . scrap is being obtained from countless sources including farms.
- Q. What is farm scrap?
A. It is any worn out, obsolete, unrepairable equipment, tools or other objects made of metal. It may be resting and rusting in fence corners, in the fields, the barnyard or the tool shed.
- Q. What should be done with farm scrap?
A. See that every bit of scrap gets to the scrap dealer located nearest to you. He will break it up into sizes used by the steel mills and foundries. He'll classify the metals then ship the scrap in carload lots. If you do not know the name of your local scrap dealer, consult your local implement dealer for this information.
- Q. What else can I do about farm scrap?
A. Support the scrap drive organized in your locality. Work with your local Scrap Mobilization Committee in getting the scrap started back to the steel mills and foundries through the local scrap dealer.

You'll be helping your country—and yourself!

Wild Potato Origin Studied

—Vancouver—

Indians in the British Columbia interior harvest a wild potato, small and slender, and sometimes called lady fingers. The flesh is yellow and the flavor resembles the sweet potato.

W. A. Faulkner of Lytton says that apparently centuries ago natives of Chile and Peru journeyed northward in their canoes to what is now British Columbia. They brought their native foods and vegetables and introduced them to Indian tribes.

However, Dr. V. C. Brink of the University of British Columbia says he believes the potatoes were introduced about 1850-1860 by Scandinavian trappers and miners.

Marriages

UNDERWOOD-TASSONE

Miss Margaret Patricia Tassone of South Morgan street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Tassone of Masontown, and Gregory Dwayne Underwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Underwood of Bridgeport, W. Va., were united in marriage Monday morning, October 29, 1951, in St. Ann's rectory. Father J. S. Garahan performed the ceremony. The bride wore a white lace gown over satin and her shoulder length veil fell from a satin cap. She carried a white prayer book topped with an orchid. Miss Helen Underwood, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. Her gown was teal blue lace over satin and her hat was also blue satin. Joseph Tassone, brother of the bride, was best man. A dinner and reception for the families followed. The bride graduated from All Saint's High School and Maison Frederic Beauty School in Uniontown. Before her marriage she was the proprietor of Margaret and Mary Beauty Salon, Waynesburg. The groom graduated from Grafton High School and served three years in the U. S. Army Air Force and is presently employed with the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Gas Company at Finleyville. Going away the bride wore a black velvet suit, and a white orchid corsage.

EVERETT-HARTZELL

Fifty-Year History of Greene County Sports

By GEORGE N. THOMAS

WOLF COMES OF AGE

Just before students scattered to their homes for the summer of 1929, "The Yellow Jacket," Waynesburg College newspaper, announced athletic captains for the school's 80th year, 1929-30.

Heading the list was Sam Smith of Pittsburgh, football general.

During the hot months Coach Frank N. Wolf worked secretly and frantically on an offensive system.

He recalled with agony the lone touchdown scored by the Yellow Jackets in the 1928 campaign.

Three weeks before the St. Vincent opener, Wolf and his assistant, Stephen Day, called veterans into Hanna Hall and began instruction.

Captain Smith, Milt Decker, Frank DeMoise, Clyde (Indian) Porter, Elmer Patsch, Tom Boyd, Oakey Shaw, Walter Elliott, Joe Harshman, Roy Yanosh, Bob and Ace Wiley, Emory Patterson, Jerry Nyhan, Arleigh Pettit, Scrapy Milliron, Jim Costello, Ralph (Jake) Porter, Jack Henley, Joe Lufitano, Reidel and Shriver, listened eagerly and word got around that this was going to be the passingest team ever at Waynesburg.

The team was light at visual inspection. It all added up.

St. Vincent went crazy trying to stop Wolf's new air and ground offense.

Indian Porter, Henley and DeMoise crossed into payland and Waynesburg won, 19-6.

Costello booted the extra point from the 20 under the new rule adopted that year. Two years before they had moved back the goal posts 10 yards behind the goal line.

Jock Sutherland's Golden Pitt Panthers temporarily deflated Jacket hopes at the stadium. Well fought, the game was 21-0 with but a few minutes to go. Then Pitt's subs ran Waynesburg's underlings into the sod by five more.

Back in their own class, the Wolfpack trimmed Indiana, Bethany and Grove City each by one TD. Meanwhile they were edged by Thiel, 6-2.

DeMoise, Clyde Porter and Costello were the heart of the scoring. Waynesburg put all its eggs into those three baskets.

On the line, Smith, Lufitano and Ambrose led the stubborn crew that gave little ground.

At Grove City, the Jackets were rated underdogs to the defending Class B champs, but the Pack caught them in the mud and Jake Porter and Lufitano took two rain-soaked Costello passes in a stunning 12-7 upset.

After the team arrived home, the old campus victory bell rang into Sunday morning. Prexie Stewart called a special victory chapel.

Nationally-known Geneva became Wolf's fifth victim in an Armistice Day battle witnessed by 10,000 at Beaver Falls.

Jake Porter's pass interception and DeMoise's running were brilliant exhibitions, outshining Geneva's honor-candidate, Knapik. The win shoved the Jackets into the limelight for Tri-State and district honors.

But Allegheny beat them in the last quarter and Duquesne squeezed through in the final minute, both copping by one score.

The Duke encounter was the first night game played in Pittsburgh.

Donelli scored both touchdowns for the Dukes. They got the last one when an inelligible Jacket caught a forward pass.

For a low-scoring outfit (73 points) Waynesburg did well over the season (5-4).

The college annals reported it this way:

"The fact that we beat Grove City and Geneva in the same season—not to mention Bethany—makes the 1929 season worth remembering."

It was one of Wolf's best teams. They had a surplus of courage, teamwork and sportsmanship. And they all loved their inspiring captain, Sammy Smith, an all-time tackle on College Heights.

For Coach Wolf it was a compound victory over obstacles. He had led his "roughnecks," as some conservative citizens termed his boys, to the forefront.

Frank Wolf had come of age—that is to say, he had beaten the experts who predicted he would win "one or maybe two" games.

Now, Wolf could howl.

Before basketball got going good, the grid squad chose sophomore Frank DeMoise captain for 1930. He had been named to several all-star and all-conference teams.

College Field, once the old Fairgrounds where football was born for the Orange and Black in 1895, got a face-lifting that May.

They turned the field around to make it northeast and southwest and Athletic Manager Jim Miller promised that by 1931 it would be "real green."

Patsch, Elliott, DeMoise, Yanosh, Henley, Shaw, Fortney, Lufitano and Jake Porter were back in the fold come August, but Wolf knew he had lost some fine talent.

Dick Toline, one of the school's greatest players, stayed on as assistant coach.

It was, however as "Der Beutcher" (name given Wolf by the squad) had feared. The team had little scoring punch.

The Wolfpack failed to score in its first two games and Slippery Rock won by a whisker, while Pitt won handily before 18,000 in Pittsburgh.

That is perhaps the largest crowd ever to watch a Yellow Jacket team play football.

Regular linemen included Lufitano, Sam Mazza, Anderson, "Bull" Brnjas, Yanosh, Patsch and Mayer; backs, Forney, Fred Rollason, Porter and Costello.

Subs who saw plenty of action were Bob Ambrose, Ace Wiley, Max Zanielli, Henley, Preston Berry, Doc Buttermore, Cecil Cummings, Shaw, Milliron and Pete Stipkowski.

St. Bonaventure won an air battle and Geneva won easily at night.

A Waynesburg reporter wrote: "The game was played under electric lights which was a handicap to the local team." He also mentioned it rained so hard the game was held off two days, then added ironically that Geneva "mopped up."

Juniata tried 27 passes, but the Wolfpack won on extra points and made it two in a row by trouncing Bethany.

Grove City, West Virginia Wesleyan and Davis-Elkins won the final three tussles.

All-American Cliff Battles led Wesleyan in victory. He ran 97 yards from scrimmage (a record against Waynesburg College) and 96 on a pass interception for two TDs.

Waynesburg's passing was said to "surpass anything seen on the Bobcat field in all time." Noel Lohr, who tossed them, was termed a "passing wizard."

In spite of the disastrous season (2-7) Brnjas made left guard on the Tri-State team, DeMoise and Ambrose, right half and right end, respectively on the second team.

As the school's fandom looked to the next year for better accomplishments, the 1931 schedule was released.

And lo, Penn State led all the rest!

Training is everything. The peach was once a bitter almond. Cauliflower is nothing but a cabbage with a college education.

—Mark Twain

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

LETTING OFF STEAM

ONE OF THE FACTORS OF STABILITY IN OUR DEMOCRACY IS THE FREEDOM TO "LET OFF STEAM"—THE OPPORTUNITY EACH OF US HAS TO LESSEN THE PRESSURES OF LIVING, IN OUR INDIVIDUAL FASHIONS.

FREEDOM TO SPEAK OUR MINDS IS A BASIC ELEMENT IN THIS, BUT FREEDOM TO CHOOSE OUR AVOCATIONS, AS WELL AS OUR VOCATIONS, IS PART OF IT. WE AMERICANS, THROUGH OUR INITIATIVE, INDUSTRY AND THRIFT, HAVE STEADILY BROADENED OUR OPPORTUNITIES FOR PLAY... IN RECOGNITION OF THE INDIVIDUAL'S NEED TO "LET OFF STEAM," WE HAVE MADE TIME OFF FROM THE JOB—AN ANNUAL VACATION—A GENERAL PRACTICE IN OUR DEMOCRACY.

Hitting the High Spots

By JACK HAMMERS

The more we see of Waynesburg College's football team, the more we like them. Jack Wiley has done a remarkable job in his first year as coach regardless of how the team makes out in their remaining games. If all goes well Wiley should have an excellent team next season as he will have over 20 freshmen and sophomores returning who will be familiar with his single wing system. This system which depends on good blocking and timing by all players has become popular with local fans. Maybe one of the reasons is because it brings back memories of the days when Waynesburg was king of its class in the district and dreams of the day when the throne will once again be occupied by the Yellow Jackets.

Our congratulations to Ben Parker and his Jefferson High School Rockets on their completion of an undefeated football season. We'd also like to see the WPIAL Class B title in the hands of this fine crew.

Local fans will be given their last opportunity of the year to witness a football game here when Waynesburg High's Red Raiders host the Hillers of Trinity High School under the lights of College Field Friday night. Kick-off time is set for 8 o'clock.

We suffered the worst week of the season in the selection of football games last week as upsets from every angle gave us a six right, 3 wrong, and one tie for games picked. Seasons totals now read 56 right, 21 wrong, and three ties. Posting a fair .727 average, we see these results for this week:

Trinity over Waynesburg South Union over Pt. Marion Redstone over Charleroi Donora over Monessen Farrell over Sharon Latrobe over Uniontown Johnstown over New Castle Masontown over German Twp. Chartiers over Centerville Waynesburg College over St. Vincent

East Beth Defeats Mapletown High, 18-0

East Bethlehem High's football team scored in each of the first three quarters to defeat Mapletown High School 18-0 at Mapletown Friday night. The game was the final of the season for Mapletown.

Marconi scored the first TD for East Beth on a five-yard plunge. Doman intercepted a Mapletown pass and galloped 55 yards for the second, and Marconi rambled 53 yards for the final tally.

First downs were even at 7-7. Score by periods: East Beth 6 6 6 0-18 Mapletown 0 0 0 0-0

Center Township Halts Hickory High, 12-6

Center Township High School's football squad closed their 1951 season by copping a 12-6 victory over Hickory High at Hickory on Friday. Center had a 10-3 edge in first downs.

Center scored in the second and fourth quarters on runs by their ace fullback, Lew Barton. He rambled 35 yards in the second period and scored on a one-yard smash to insure the win late in the final stanza.

Ray Zemaits took a pass and ran 40 yards for Hickory's only score.

Score by periods: Center Twp. 0 6 0 6-12 Hickory 0 0 0 6-6

—Washington— Want to know how to produce dichlorododecafluoroheptane and derivatives thereof?

You can find out by going to the United States Patent Office. A method of producing it was one of 25 government-owned patents which the Atomic Energy Commission has released. The AEC didn't say what dichlorododecafluoroheptane is useful for.

The 25 patents it released are available for royalty-free use by industry, under licenses granted by the AEC. The commission described them as nonsecret—presumably of no great benefit to the Russians.

Jefferson Tops Raiders For Eighth Win

Jefferson High School's football team closed their regular 1951 season with eight straight wins as they downed a visiting Waynesburg High School squad 32-13 at Dry Tavern Thursday night. Jefferson is high in the WPIAL Class B running and all indications point to their being in a post-season game for the title.

Jefferson was quick to take advantage of Waynesburg fumbles to score early in the game.

Jefferson kicked off and the Raiders fumbled on their own 22. Four plays moved the ball to the four from where Cicpic scored for the Rockets.

Jefferson kicked off again but after three plays the Raiders again fumbled, Jefferson recovering on the Waynesburg 40. Bill Komlo cracked over from the 4 for another score. Komlo again scored from 19 yards out after an exchange of punts to give Jefferson a 20-0 edge at the end of the first quarter.

Both teams scored once in the second quarter. Lew Johnston scooted 54 yards for the Raider score and Stefnic took a pass from Cicpic to score for the Rockets.

Jefferson scored in the third quarter on a one-yard smash by Brosovic. A fumble by Waynesburg set up the scoring chance.

Bill Heft plunged over from the one to cap a Red Raider drive of 80 yards for the final score of the game.

Score by periods: Jefferson 20 7 0 3-34 Waynesburg 0 6 0 6-12

Point Marion Rallies To Tie Carmichaels

Point Marion High School rallied in the fourth quarter at Point Marion Friday night to tie Carmichaels High School, 13-13. First downs were 12-4 in favor of Carmichaels.

Carmichaels scored in the first and second quarters to take an early lead. Krutko ran 12 yards to cap a drive of 60 yards for the first score, and Banish ran 11 yards for the second TD.

Only four minutes remained when Point Marion started to rally. Point Marion connected on 8 consecutive passes, scoring one TD and setting the stage for the other.

Ten seniors played their last game for Al Cree's Mikes.

Score by periods: Carmichaels 6 7 0 0-13 Point Marion 0 0 0 13-13
