anew after one day of "twilight war."

Allied artillery opened up on the Western Front under new "shoot to kill" orders.

The Communists hurled at least 320 Mig jets into the battle over Northern Korea.

Twenty-two 'American Sabrejets tangled with 175 MIGs in a blazing 30-minute battle over MIG Alley. The Air Force said three jets were slightly damaged, but all landed safely. One Red plane was hit.

Allied troops counter-attacked on the East-Central front to regain an outpost lost to the Reds Wednesday night.

Front-line officers reported receiving new orders of the day slfortly after General James A. Van Fleet announced some of his treeps might have misintervated.

The officers said the order apparently applied only to artillery, and not to infantry action.

The change came on the same front where reports of a new "don't shoot first" policy originated.

mentately to finance a 30 per cent increase in orders for military planes.

They said Congress must authorize the outlay quickly if the Air Force goal of 140 groups is to be met in what the joint chiefs of staff have designated as "the year of urgency"—1954.

The construction period for a fighter has been raised from 18 to 22 months and for a medium bomber from 24 to 32 months. This is due to the more complicated equipment required for modern warfare.

Since the Air Force has committed all its funds to a program for 95 groups by the end of 1952, they said money must be provided and orders placed now if the additional groups are to be equipped within three years.

Waynesburg's annual "Santa Claus Parade" will be staged Friday evening at 7 o'clock, when the Christmas lights in the business district will be turned on by Burgess R. Wallace Maxwell.

The parade is sponsored by the Merchants Division of the Waynesburg Chamber of Commerce.

Christmas Comes

To Waynesburg!

Waynesburg Post No. 4793, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has placed a 30-foot Christmas tree on the courthouse plaza. The Post has provided a tree for several years. This year the tree was given by Clyde Varner of Smith Creek, and erected by members of the Post, under direction of the Commander, Virgil Hilverding.

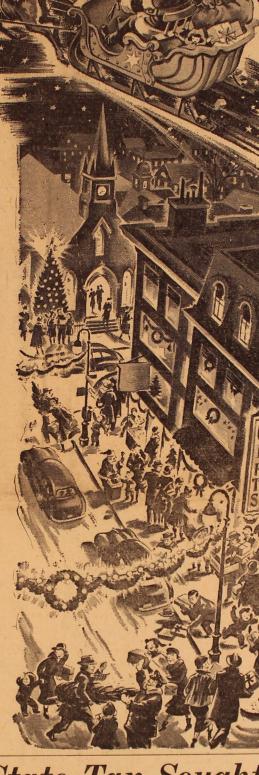

Commander, Virgil Hilverding.

Miss Shirley Moninger, senior in Waynesburg High school, will reign as Miss Merrie Christmas, and will ride with Santa Claus on the float sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Moninger of New Freeport, and was chosen by members of Waynesburg High School Band in which she is head majorette.

Four other floats have been entered to date. Entrants are: Greene County Christian Endeavor Society, the Young Adult Bible Class of the First Baptist Church of Waynesburg, the Young Adult Bible Class of the First Methodist Church of Waynesburg, and Beta Omicron Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

An outstanding feature will be the children's pet parade.

He was a son of Simon and Sarah Rinehart, and had been left an orphan, when the Indians killed his father about 1779-80. He is mentioned in the will of his grandfather, Thomas Rinehart, Both Barnet and his wife are buried in the old cemetery in East Waynesburg. Like his father-in-law before him, Barnet Rinehart served as sheriff of Greene County, being inducted into office in 1808. It is possible that Sarah Hook may have been married twice for William Rhodes noted in his Journal that on February 11, 1794, Sally Hook was married to Freeman.

wives have not been identified. Census records suggest they were older children of Captain James Hook, and married prior to 1790.

James Hook, Jr., was born in 1776, and died in 1838. He married about 1795, Charlotte Morris, daughter of Richard and Mary (Seals) Morris, who died May 13, 1827, aged 52 years, one month, 19 days. Both are said to have been buried in the old cemetery in East Waynesburg, but markers have disappeared. James Hook, Jr., was equally prominent with his father and quite successful in business. It is apparent that men seeking to leave for the west, found him a ready buyer of their property from which he profited nicely. He was among the list of first owners of lots in the new Town of Waynesburg, and purchased other lots from original owners, among them being the "hotel corner," which he bought from Christian Fair. This lot he sold on May 29, 1814, to John Inghram, who then established the "Bulls Head Tavern" on the site. After the death of his father James Hook, Jr., bought on July 1, 1825, from Greenberry Ridgely Jones, and wife, Rebecca, 226 acres of land described as "being the tract of land on which Jackson's Fort formerly stood, adjacent to the Town of Waynesburg." Here James Hook, Jr., laid out a town which he called Perrysville, but later familiarly known as "Hookstown," the plot of which may be seen in Deed Book 13, page 387. The town extended roughly from the present Woodlawn Avenue to Porter Street, and was on both sides of Main Street. A number of lots were given to his children, including one on which there has been erected a tanyard, which he gave to his son, Benedict Hook. One lot on which a smith shop stood, adjoined lots sold to Barnet Adams. The old Jackson and Hathaway mill site became the property of his son, Jesse Hook, Tradition mentions a saw mill operated by James Hook, from which timbers were donated to build a bridge at the foot of "town hill," the people of the town donating the labor to build it. Under the heading of James Hook, Sr., we have seen where the son had

The proud and happy youngsters shown here have "all their buttons" where traffic safety is concerned. For these Green Pennant buttons are awarded only to schools where not a single pupil has been involved in a traffic accident—anywhere—for at least 60 consecutive days.

The Green Pennant Program saves children's lives-ma life-if the school in your community participates in this safety crusade. The experience of the schools in Somerset County illustrates this.

From November 1949 to June 1951 there were 105 schools in Somerset County that took part in the Green Pennant Program. During this time only s schools reported traffic accidents involving pupils. Of the seventeen accidents reported—only three involved injuries and there were no fatalities.

The Safety Director of the Pennsylvania State Police in Somerset County

"It has been our experience that the Green Pennant Program does create considerable interest among the grade school children. On various occasions, members of schools have given those pupils a 'hard time' when they have been involved in an accident, thereby causing the school to lose its Pennant for a thirty-day period. With reference to the buttons given students after completing the second accident-free, thirty-day period, it has been noted that the students take great pride in wearing them. They are hurt if they have to give them up when one of their fellow students gets involved in an accident. The expenses of the Green Pennant Program have been shared by various civic clubs and business people."

Wouldn't you like your children to have "all their buttons" in traffic safety? Any interested organization can obtain full details of the Green Pennant Program from the Governor's Highway Safety Advisory Committee in Harrisburg. Write today. Protect your children from traffic accidents.

Dileached and ready for weaving.

Our forefathers appreciated this symbolism far more than we but the reader can quickly catch the relationship to the three sermons which have gone before. God, the Great, Weaver, seeks to integrate us into the warp and woof of His plan. The text of course, was used to represent the Messiah, the Christ. Christ was tempted, was exposed to hunger and cold, and at the last was "bruised for our iniquities," but through the Lord's promise He was not broken.

The same promise is extended

It is a brush of the world which will be wisked and thoughtless fear, are but sequels to other terrible events which cynics have predicted as the doom of Christianity. No. Christianity has survived the Roman arena, the ravages of Attilla, the Hun, the onslaught of Mohammedan hordes, the first and second World Wars; and it will survive the atomic age have much that must be bruised and smoked out of us, and the Lord knows it. But He has promised in the Good Book and in the majesty of His exploding heavens which we have mentioned in the last sermon, that as long as these mighty hovements are in His hands, we need not fear we will be "broken."

Louisiana, Texas Fight on Pelicans

-Galveston, Texas-Some ugly old birds no one cared about until the past weeks have broken up what was at best only a patched up friendship along the Gulf of Mexico.

The final thought comes again from Oliver Wendell Holmes' hymn:

Our midnight is Thy smile withdrawn;
Our noonday is Thy gracious dawn;
Our rainbow arch Thy mercy sign;
All save the clouds of sin are Thine.

We confess our little faults only to persuade others that we have no great ones.

—La Rochefoucauld

Following the 1932 football campaign, Coach Frank N. Wolf was riding on top of the world. A group of small tri-state colleges sought his services at an increased salary and Geneva brazenly talked of taking him away from Waynesburg College.

Larger institutions looked his way, too, and the board of trustees knew it. So they pushed a three-year contract for athletic director before him. But before Wolf signed it he had inserted a clause giving him option of moving to a better job. However, it took a war to pry him away from College Heights. More on that later.

Manufalle the country gleated was a faith finited second in the Tri-State Conference. Then, too, the 1933 football prospects never looked better a whole year in advance. Only captain Ace Wiley graduated from the '32 ranks.

The easy-going, hard-driving lineman was going to be missed for sure, but the rest were back. Also missing was Penn State from the schedule. Bob Higgins, who said Waynesburg used the "craziest system" he had ever seen, wanted no more. Muhlenberg took the Wolfpack's place. Bucknell, Duquesne and W&J took a war to pry him away from College Heights. More on that later.

Winners of second to ninth card.

That spring, The Waynesburg's vere added to Waynesburg's variety of the terustees, said it was the "best team in 37 years of Waynesburg College football."

Wolf put it another way: "Laziest outfit I ever saw but a great bunch of boys anyway."

And he called speed merchant Rab Currie the "ornriest guy on the squad—andd the fastest."

That was a gay winter in this area for two reasons.

Conspicuously absent was Bull Brnjas who never reported in. That was the first bad break for Coach Wolf and assistants, Oakey Shaw and Jake Porter, who had done an outstanding job with Nineveh High.

Spry-footed Rollason was bitten by the rheumatism bug. He was the key to the Jacket punch and his punts averaged 50 and 60 yards.

And Zuleba, 126-pound, one of the best passers in Class B, despite his handicap, was not to see much action. Pete had only a thumb and little finger on his throwing arm, but was deadly accurate.

In spite of all this, Coach Wolf was optimistic.
