State VFW Commander Feted Here Saturday Night

James J. Davis, Pennsylvania commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, speaking to the Waynesburg Post, and the Greene County Post in Carmichaels, Saturday night and Sunday, declared: "One of the gravest problems of our times is determining who is, and who is not, loyal to American ideals and traditions."

The dinner at Waynesburg was in honor of the 6th anniversary of the post's charter. In Carmichaels it was a testimonial for Commander Davis.

Urging passage of the Pechan Loyalty Oath Bill, Mr. Davis said:

"The majority of Americans want our system of liberty and freedom and opportunity for self-determination preserved.

"The people of this Commonwealth have the right to resort to orderly, legal procedures to protect the form of government they desire. We have witnessed too many examples of opposition to measures to protect our way of life. The result of this opposition has been the weakening of our bulwarks of internal security."

"Only those whose loyalty to America and our Commonwealth is questionable, could fear the consequences of the oath.

"In these times, you are either an American or you are not. There can be no compromise with patriotism."

Mr. Davis assailed the policy of the Korean war saying: "It was the Kremlin, not the North Koreans or the Chinese, who decided what kind of a war we are fighting. They have placed us in the hopeless position of competing with the almost unlimited man power of China against which we are bound to lose."

Other guests who spoke at the Waynesburg Post's birthday party were: Charles F. Connors, 24th District VFW commander, and Mrs. Connors of Washington; Mrs. Ann Eagon of the Department State Auxiliary staff; R. Wallace Maxwell, Waynesburg Burgess; Joseph L. Polya, County Council commander of Philadelphia; Albert Ceres, Department Public Relations officer; C. A. Gnau, Department Quartermaster, and Mrs. Dorothy Simmons, State President of the Auxiliary to the VFW, who congratulated the local unit.

J. I. Hook, president judge of the Greene County Court, cited the Waynesburg Post's outstanding progress and commended it for its participation in community affairs.

H. Leslie Shriver of Waynesburg, Counties Council Commander who served as toastmaster, described the coming Christmas goodwill activities of the post.

110th Regiment Billeted In Mannheim

—Mannheim, Germany—

The 110th Infantry Regiment of the 28th (Pennsylvania National Guard) Infantry Division assembled in temporary quarters here for movement soon into permanent stations in south Germany.

The regiment arrived in Germany last week.

The commander, Colonel Henry K. Fluck, said he was well pleased with the way his troops were transported to Germany by two military transports, the General Sturgis and the General Blatchford.

Captain Robert H. Campbell of Washington, Pa., the regiment's public information officer, said "wonderful weather and good food" marked the voyage. But the regiment ran into rain here in Mannheim, and soldiers were tramping through mud as they collected their gear for their permanent stations still not disclosed.

Company H, which was headquartered in Washington, and is commanded by Captain Robert H. Stoner of that city, came over on the Sturgis which arrived in Bremerhaven Saturday.

Headquarters Company, also formerly of Washington, came on the Blatchford, which docked Sunday.

Raymond Allison Injured by Bull

Raymond Allison, 41 years, of Franklin Township, sustained five fractured ribs and bad bruised burns and cuts when he was tossed by a bull in the barnyard at the Allison farm on Route 19, at the foot of Gordon Hill Saturday. He is a patient in Greene County Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Allison stated the bull, a purebred animal, apparently did not make an intentional attack on him. He said he slipped as he was walking past the bull and the animal immediately started to roll and pitch him in a playful manner.

It was explained that bulls will often pitch or roll along with their horns in apparent diversion rather than anger. Mr. Allison said that if the bull had been of a cross or angry nature it could easily have killed him before it finally rolled him toward a wire fence. There he was able to slip under the lower strand and walk to the house about 150 feet away.

His clothing was badly torn, part of a coverall suit having been practically ripped to shreds. On one thrust one of the horns penetrated all the way through the clothing.

Mr. Allison's father went to the barnyard and placed the animal inside a barn stall with no difficulty, an additional indication that the animal did not apparently make an intentional attack.

Mr. Allison is a former member of the Pennsylvania State Police. He is now associated with his father, George Allison, and his brother, Arthur, in operating a purebred Hereford breeding farm on Route 19 and their other farms on Route 188 and on Wisecaver Run in Franklin Township.

Vendors Protest Ordinance

A delegation of vendors of merchandise from door-to-door Monday night protested the "Green River" ordinance recently put into force by Waynesburg borough council.

The main objection raised was that it would practically stop legitimate salesmen from operating in the borough.

Modifications were suggested as having manufacturing firms or home offices list the names of salesmen with local officials. The protests were referred to the legal committee for study.

Solicitor Floyd King was authorized to go to Philadelphia to complete necessary arrangements with a registered bonding attorney to prepare for the offering of the sewage disposal bond issue.

With respect to John Snowden Hook, son of John and Sarah (Simpson) Hook, evidence clearly points to his continued residence in Frederick County, Maryland, moving to Cumberland, Maryland, about 1786. He died there in 1825, leaving a will. We are at loss to explain the name of a John Hook with Captain James Hook's Company on the Tenmile in the latter part of 1776. It is certain that John Snowden Hooke was enrolled August 8, 1776, by Lieutenant Clement Hollyday, along with William Carroll, James Weakley, Richard Sarjeant, Jr., and others, names that are associated with the Tenmile. But as enlistment periods were short, it could well be that John Snowden Hook enlisted with his brother's company, either while surveying the Tenmile Country for possible settlement, or at the time "The Calico Hunting Shirt Company" was in Cumberland on the way to join Washington's Army. (Maryland Archives Volume 18, pp. 49.) The appearance of John Hook in the tax list of Morgan Township in 1784, and in Franklin in 1788, is also not explained as no deeds appear to show the ownership or sale of property. At this later date, the taxable could also have been the son of Captain James Hook, though this is complicated with reported movements of the captain's son. Because of the lack of evidence it is unwise to suggest the possible relationship of the Tenmile Country John Hook.

JOHN JONES

John Jones, one of the older settlers in the Ten Mile Country, was here as early as 1772. It has been stated that he owned land where Waynesburg is situated but there is no evidence available that any improvements were made prior to those of Thomas Slater in 1771. Since John Jones' date of arrival in Ten Mile Country coincides with the Inghrams and his land was close to theirs, we are inclined to feel that Waynesburg's present location was not the original settlement of John Jones. In view of the fact that he settled near, and at about the same time as the Smiths, Gorrells, Inghrams, Ankroms, Hooks, Cathers, Duvalls, Wells, and the Seals, who are known to have migrated from Maryland, it is more than likely that he also came from the same locality (near Elk Ridge, Md.) He served under Captain James Archer, Washington County, Pennsylvania Militia (Penna. Archives).

After Richard Jackson moved to Kentucky about 1790, the land which he owned, and on which had stood Fort Jackson, soon came into the hands of John Jones. On August 8, 1806, John Jones and his wife, Hannah, sold a part (154 perches) of this tract to Trustees of M. E. Church, James Eagon, Solomon Eagon, Greenbury Jones, Ami Moor, and Christian Fry. Jones was living on tract at the time (DB 2, p. 197, Greene County, Penna.) The Methodists later built a church on this property and at present it is the site of the Old Cemetery in East Waynesburg.

Greenbury Ridgely Jones, son of John, inherited the remainder of the tract of land at the time of his father's death in 1816. In 1825, Greenbury sold this property to James Hook, Jr., (D. B. 5, p. 383, Greene County, Penna.) In 1853, Hook laid out a plan of lots called Perryville, commonly called Hookstown, bounded roughly by present Porter Street and Woodlawn Avenue.

John Jones was twice married, with no record of his first wife

America's New Challenger

This is a man's-eye view, head-on, of the new superliner UNITED STATES at her outfitting dock in the Newport News (Va.) Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Company yard. The sleek lines of the vessel, largest and fastest passenger ship ever built in this country, make a colorful pattern against the late afternoon autumn sky. The ship, now 85% completed, will be 990 feet long, 101 1/2 feet in beam, and will have a speed in excess of 30 knots. She will be delivered to the United States Lines in New York early next summer and will join the present flagship of the line, the AMERICA, in transatlantic service.

available, although it is certain that she was mother of children named in his will. Second wife was Hannah Wood, widow of Kent Mitchell. In 1776, Kent and Hannah Mitchell were living in Susquehanna Hundred, Anne Arundel County, Maryland, and were each 33 years of age. They had several children (Brumbaugh History). Kent Mitchell died here about 1786, and some time later Hannah married John Jones. Hannah Jones died September 19, 1823, aged 81 years, and was buried at Morrisville (Greene County, Penna., Tombstone still standing). The probabilities are excellent that the first wife of John Jones was a daughter of Greenbury (Greenberry) Ridgely of Maryland.

John Jones will on file in Greene County, Penn., (W. B. 1, p. 177) was probated May 7, 1816. He named wife Hannah and the following children:

- Cassandra.
- Mary.
- Sarah.
- Elizabeth.
- Martha.
- Susannah.
- Thomas (son of Thomas, deceased)
- John, Jr.
- Samuel.
- Nancy.
- Greenbury Ridgely.

The first six girls inherited a tract of 400 acres on Middle Island Creek, (Tyler County, West Virginia). To grandson Thomas, he willed tract "Beach Bottom" in Brooke County, Virginia, while John, Jr., received an adjoining tract in Brooke County, Virginia. Samuel and Nancy inherited land in Morgan Township, Greene County, Pennsylvania. Greenbury inherited remainder of tract originally purchased from Richard Jackson.

It has been reported that Mary became wife of Elijah Fee, but we know only that Sarah married James Crawford and she died in Jefferson County, Ohio. Greenbury Ridgely Jones married Rebecca Connell, daughter of the founder of Connellsville, Pennsylvania, on May 29, 1804, and they later moved to Ohio.

THE BENJAMIN LAKIN MANUSCRIPT

Through the courtesy of Mr. James W. Hook, we are privileged to print the text of a paper written in 1847, by Reverend Benjamin Lakin (1767-1849) for his nephew, John Lakin. The original paper has been lost but many copies were made for various members of the family, thus it can be accepted as authentic. Benjamin Lakin was born in what is now Montgomery County, Maryland, August 23, 1767, and died February 5, 1849. He married Elizabeth Ray of Kentucky, but had no children. He was a noted pioneer minister of the Methodist Society, and was out on the frontiers as far as Indiana as early as 1803. He was a son of Benjamin and Rachel (Fee) Lakin, and grandson of Abraham and Martha (Lee) Lakin. It can be seen from this record that he could have been well acquainted with many of the settlers of the Tenmile Country, especially the many members of his own kinfolk that settled about Fort Jackson. This paper "written in my 80th year" attests to the keenness of memory of this man, and the intimate knowledge of his kith and kin. Of those names mentioned in the paper, it is easy to recognize as pioneers of the Tenmile Country, the Lakins, Fees, Aldridges, Ankroms, Wells, Slaters, Archers, Bradfords, Owensens, and James Hook and Richard Jackson. The paper reads as follows:

"I have here given the genealogy of our family and connections, as far as I can attain to the family of the Lakins, they come from England and are perhaps of the Saxon stock, as I find in Mr. Wesley's Journal, he mentions coming to a place called 'Lakin's Heath'. The Fees, I think, are either from England or Wales.

"The Lakins sprang from Abraham and Martha Lakin. Their sons were Abraham, Joseph, and Benjamin. They had some daughters but I know not their names;—one of them was married to a man by the name of Leith, from whom, on the mothers side, the younger family of the Fees sprang.

"Abraham had two sons; Daniel and Abraham. I know not whether he had any other children. They lived in Frederick County, Maryland. What their posterity is I know not.

"Joseph was married to Elizabeth Fee. They lived in Frederick County, Maryland. They had three children—John, Samuel, and Mary. I know not whom John married. He had no children. Samuel married Sarah Musgrove, and Mary married John Aldridge. These with their father moved to Ohio. You know their families and if you see cause you can trace them up.

"Benjamin Lakin, the youngest son of Abraham and Martha, was born March 29, 1739, and was married October 23, 1760, to Rachel Fee, daughter of George and Parnell Fee. Rachel was born April 11, 1739, and died December 30, 1811. Benjamin Lakin died April 6, 1776. They had a son named William, and a daughter, Elizabeth, who died in childhood.

"The following were their other children: Thomas, John, Benjamin, Joseph, James, and Rachel, their sister. Thomas married Priscilla Sullivan, moved from Montgomery County, Maryland, where my father lived and died and settled in Beans Cove, Bedford County, Pennsylvania, when he raised a large family, and afterwards with some of his children, moved and settled in Harrison County, Ohio, where he died some years since.

"John Lakin married Elizabeth, the daughter of John and Martha Ankrom, they had besides Elizabeth:—Deborra, Sarah, and Martha, and two sons, Richard and William. If there were any others I have forgotten them. Martha Ankrom's maiden name was Wells, sister of Thomas and William Wells, who lived on Middle Island.

"Joseph Lakin married Mary Slater, by whom he had children:—Thomas, Eleanor, Benjamin, John, and James. This first wife died, and he married the second time Margaret Simmons, by whom he had Joseph, Leonard, and Elizabeth, Wesley, and daughters, Mary, Rachel, Margaret, and Elizabeth.

"All my brothers and sisters are gone, and I am left alone in my 80th years, and how soon I shall go I know not.

"Our maternal line commences in George and Parnell Fee. As far as I know they had one son and two daughters:—Thomas, Rachel, and Elizabeth. Of the daughters I have already spoken, Thomas was twice married. His first wife was a Thrasher, by whom he had children:—George and John and Mary and Ruth, whom George married an Archer, John married Elizabeth Bradford, and Mary married Richard Jackson, the proprietor of Jackson's Fort on Tenmile Creek. Ruth married an Owens. Thomas Fee's second wife was Sarah Leith, a niece of my father, by whom the family of Fees on this side of the Ohio came. Mary Leith, a sister of Sarah, was married to James Hook, the father of John Hook. They had a large family.

"I have given you as much as I can recollect of our family."

U. S. Ready To Defend Japan---If

—Nagoya, Japan—

American air, ground and sea forces are working toward a "Pearl Harbor-proof" defense of Japan.

The pattern follows closely the intricate military plan developed to safeguard North America if an atomic war is launched.

The United States will carry the burden of Japan's defense after the occupation of this defeated nation ends. Air, ground and naval units will remain here under the United States-Japan Security Act.

The key link in the defense chain is the 314th Air Division. It is supported by—and would support in an attack—ground units such as National Guard divisions of occupation duty, anti-aircraft batteries and navy ships and planes operating off Japan's rocky coasts.

A 2,500-mile air trip through the heartland of Japan's most vulnerable points reveals a bristling defense that grows stronger daily.

The rocky shores of Hokkaido are dotted with radar stations. Their screens sometimes pick up Communist planes flying over Red territory on training missions. No plane—friendly or enemy—can approach the coasts without being picked up.

Jet interceptors patrol night and day in all kinds of weather. Some reconnaissance patrols range far out to sea.

Every airfield occupied by American forces is on a strict wartime basis.

The islands defenses are better than they were a year ago. The feeling is they can be held.

Barber Says Men Fussy as Women

—Winnipeg—

Russ Lavers, 68, has been a barber for half a century and estimates he has done 324,000 haircuts. He says that customers are "fussier nowadays." And he says "the men are just as vain as the women. Some are worse. Young fellows come in here asking for a permanent wave, and lots of them have finger-waves."

Poor Swim Mark In City by Sea

—Norfolk—

In this city by the sea less than half the children of school age are able to swim. The Norfolk Red Cross chapter made a survey after two children had been drowned. It revealed that 6,948 could swim in varying degrees of proficiency while 9,417 could not swim. Over 15,000 children indicated desire for instruction.

India Denies Selling Tires to Red China

The Commerce Ministry has denied in Parliament that an Indian firm shipped 14,000 giant tires to Hong Kong last year—presumably for later sale to the Chinese Communists. The ministry reported that Indian manufacturers exported 44,047 large tires and 36,695 tubes in 1950 and other exporters shipped 12,500 sets of such tires and tubes. These went to numerous destinations, the ministry said.

Crisis Care Urged For Automobiles

Care for your car is vital today because the war crisis may make it difficult to get another. This is the opinion of Dean A. Walters, service manager for a motor manufacturer. He suggests frequent brake and alignment tests; frequent oil changes; an undercoat on the car to prevent rust; an engine, carburetor air filter and electric system kept in adjustment, and wax on the body.

WHAT IS TOLERANCE?

We hear a great deal of talk about tolerance. But what do we mean? I know the dictionary defines it as "Willingness to bear with others, especially those whose views differ from one's own." That is a theoretical definition. I wonder how often we try to make it practical.

We are reminded of the incident in Luke 9:49, "And John answered and said, Master, we saw one casting out demons in thy name; and we forbade him, because he followed not with us." To the Jews, all others were dogs. To the Greeks all non-Greeks were barbarians. The Germans considered themselves the "Super Race." The Japanese considered themselves the "Sons of Heaven."

Let us get a little nearer home. Which is the more tolerant? The southern man who hates the Negro as a race, but follows the Old Negro Mammy to her grave with a breaking heart as a child who has lost its mother? The northern white man who professes to love the race yet lets the individual "root hog or die" and seems not to care what happens to the individual? The Negro who has gained a little foothold in a material way and considers "poor white trash?" The American who refuses to allow the Chinese or Japanese to own property in some states? The man who in the midwest turns up his nose at the Mexican? Those in some sections who refer to certain peoples as "bo-hunks."

Which is the more intolerant and narrow? The man who because of conviction practices only immersion for baptism or the one who scorns him and calls him narrow because he himself practices something else? Which is the more intolerant and narrow? The man who considers it a sin to use tobacco or the man who blows tobacco smoke in his brother's face?

Well, we could go on and on, but I think you see the thing I am trying to say. Isn't it about the time we all tried to put ourselves in the other person's place? Give the other fellow the same consideration we demand for ourselves? In short, isn't it about time, we in our world, a world of the A-Bomb and the H-Bomb, come to the place we were willing to follow the words of Jesus when he said, "Therefore all things whatsoever would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them; for this is the law and the prophets." (Matthew 7:12)?

It seems to me, that if we had only practiced this great rule of the Master, many a mother would have had her son home for Christmas. Many a young mother would not be fighting the battle alone with her children because the husband and father had given his life to fight on a foreign shore. Also that many of our sons, brothers and husbands would not be dying on the bleak hills in Korea. These are but a little of the cost we have to pay for not following the rule and way of the Master.

Fourth Estate On Trial In Louisiana

—Lake Charles, La.—

Freedom of the press goes on trial here today.

Kenneth L. Dixon, managing editor of the Lake Charles American Press, is being brought to task on a charge of defamation by the state of Louisiana, which also produced such firsts as Huey Long and Hadacol.

Four other members of the newspaper's staff are slated for later trials on the same charge.

Mr. Dixon, a former Associated Press and International News Service writer, is charged with defaming the district attorney, his assistant and 13 Calcasieu Parish police jurors.

The newspaper official supposedly defamed all those people last March 7 when his publication editorially and in a column questioned action by the police jury, which corresponds to a grand jury in other states.

Mr. Dixon came here in 1949 and immediately joined the People's Action group, an organization of Lake Charles citizens who were sick and tired of having gambling under their noses.

The anti-gambling group now boasts of a membership of more than 5,000 persons.

The police jury on March 6 displeased Mr. Dixon and he said so editorially, declaring:

"It would be a bit difficult to confine our words to printable language in commenting on a public body which declines even to go on record as being opposed to open law-breaking—whether the laws involved are anti-gambling laws or any other statutes."

Two Local Engineers Promoted By New York Natural Gas

HARRY MCNEELY

WILBUR J. WHITEHILL

Harry McNeely of Sycamore, former chief engineer at New York State Natural Gas Corporation's Preston Station, has been promoted to district engineer of the corporation's compressor stations in the southern area of Pennsylvania. McNeely's district will include South Bend, Tonkin and Preston Stations.

Wilbur J. Whitehill, also of Sycamore, has succeeded McNeely as chief engineer at Preston Station. He had been serving as assistant chief engineer at the station since August 1951.

McNeely, a veteran of 33-years service with New York State Natural Gas Corporation and its sister company, the Peoples National Gas Company, was formerly assistant chief engineer at Peoples' Brave compressor station in Greene County.

According to Fenton H. Finn, vice president of New York State Natural, the appointments "have been made in order to coordinate further the operation of the several new compressor stations which have been added to New York State Natural's system in the course of the current expansion program."

Powder Expedition Of 1776 Heroic Act Of Revolution

—Harrisburg—

The powder expedition to New Orleans in 1776 by George Gibson and William Linn was one of the most heroic acts by Pennsylvanians in the Revolutionary War, Henry W. Shoemaker, President of the Pennsylvania Folklore Society, State Museum, said.

As a result of this undertaking to obtain a large supply of powder for the American Army, both Gibson and Linn became marked men, Shoemaker said. Neither survived long after the Revolution and both were killed by Indians and Tories. Shoemaker gave this account of the heroic Gibson-Linn expedition:

"Powder being scarce, despite efforts at Hummelstown, Wyoming and Jacobs' Creek, to produce it, and when it became known that much of it existed in New Orleans, then a Spanish Colony, the patriot military chiefs decided to obtain a share of it by sending two daring frontiersmen, George Gibson of Perry County, and William Linn, son of a Cumberland County hunter and fur dealer, to secure as much powder as money could buy. They left Fort Pitt on July 19, 1776, having learned before departing of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, and arrived at New Orleans five weeks later.

"Provided with letters to the Spanish Governor whose instructions were, even though England and Spain were at peace at the time, to use his influence any way he could to weaken the long time British enemy, and also to a Pennsylvania merchant residing in New Orleans, named Oliver Pollack.

"At the beginning of the Revolution, Gibson had raised a company in western Pennsylvania composed of fearless young sharpshooters, who were called Gibson's Lambs, because like the Biblical expression they seemed to 'Go like lambs to slaughter' against larger forces, yet always came back victorious especially in two encounters with Lord Dunmore's Tories and loyalists in which, though less well armed, they slaughtered in great numbers.

"Fifteen of the boldest of the 'Lambs' were selected to accompany Gibson and Linn; in Kentucky they were joined by a Pennsylvanian, 'Dutch' Smith who accompanied them on the expedition. In Kentucky, Linn staked out a farm he would take up after the war and there five years later he was ambushed by a small party of Indians, whose mission was to get him, and he was killed, scalped and mutilated on March 5, 1781. Next day what was left of him was found along the trail, his horse standing guard over him. Gibson fell victim to an Indian sharpshooter's bullet on November 4, 1791.

"At New Orleans, the British Intelligence complained to the Spanish Governor that the party from Pennsylvania were not harmless traders with Pollack, but munitions runners, and Gibson was placed under arrest. Linn stayed out of observation, and was not taken. A deal was worked out with the Spaniards, whereby 12,000 pounds of powder was secured and divided into two parts, Gibson was to take 3,000 to Philadelphia, while 9,000 was in Linn's keeping for the armies of the west. The British knew that the convoy would not leave New Orleans without Gibson, but being able to speak French, he conversed with the jailor's daughter, who brought him his meals, the Senorita Merced Hernan, who was about Gibson's height and build, and one night he walked out of the cell, with a tray of cups and dishes, wearing her clothing. Her father was aware of the deception and did not start a search for the prisoner, which enabled Gibson to load the powder, marked as merchandise of various kinds in boxes and half casks, and leave that night for the north. By the time the trick was discovered the boats had traveled quite a distance, and while the Spanish and English force went in pursuit, they did not overtake them. Yet, the ascent of the rivers was slow and toilsome. At the Falls of the Ohio it was necessary to unload the cargoes and carry the heavy casks to the head of the rapids. The river froze, and fish and game became scarce, and severe illness slowed up the men's activities; and unfriendly Indians appeared.

"On May 2, 1777, the barges reached Fort Henry, near Wheeling in West Virginia. The powder was conveyed to Fort Pitt, and stored in the Magazine at the Point, the keys being placed in the hands of Adam Taub, life custodian of the fort, and great-grandfather of General Richard K. Mellon.

"George Gibson was made lieutenant colonel, and given his choice of 5,000 acres of land, while William Linn became captain—commandant of the famous Lambs, and got a selection of 3,000 acres of land.

"The powder was divided where it would do the most good among frontier rangers in the vicinity of Fort Pitt, and two newly organized regiments, while some supplied George Rogers Clark, in the spring of 1778, for his campaigns in the Illinois country.

"The Powder voyage' severely strained Anglo-Spanish relations in Louisiana, culminating in William Blount's rebellion when, some time after, a group from Georgia endeavored to secure Spanish aid to throw off the British yoke.

"Alfons Hernan, the jailor, was dismissed from his position, and sentenced to two years imprisonment, while Merced got six months, her mother and her boy friend, William Yezquel four months each. Hernan's sentence was commuted and he decided to quit the province with its Spanish and English double-dealing and treachery. With his wife daughter and her admirer, they started north in a pole boat, to enlist the aid of Gibson, Linn, and Smith. Arriving at Fort Pitt in the summer of 1778, none of these men could be located, but their case was brought to the attention of the provincial officials by Adam Taub, Hernan and his future son-in-law were each given 1,000 acres of good land and they decided to become partners in a trading post and tavern somewhere near the lost town of Beulah, 'Overnight' county seat of Cambria County, where the name Yezquel is well known today."

Teachers Get $400 Pay Hike

Harrisburg—A $400 salary increase over their 1950-51 school year salaries Tuesday was in store for Pennsylvania's 60,000 teachers.

The raise, which brings the state's share of teacher salaries to $285 million in this biennium, was assured when the Senate passed the necessary legislation with only one dissenting vote.

The lone negative vote came from one of the Republican Senators who had opposed Governor Fine's now-defunct income tax, Henry J. Probert, Montgomery County.

All of the Republican income tax rebels, including Majority Leader John M. Walker, Oakmont, voted for the bills which add $56,700,000 a biennium to the Commonwealth's education cost.

With $27 million, which was mandated by the 1949 Legislature for teacher salary increases in this biennium, the total increase for the current two-year period comes to $83.7 million.

Christmas Seals On Sale in Stores

Sale of Christmas Seals by which the work of the Greene County Tuberculosis and Health Society is carried on, will begin in stores and banks and the Waynesburg postoffice this week in order to aid shoppers who may wish to mail directly, and those who may not have purchased their quota.

Booths will be set up in the First National Bank & Trust Company, the First Federal Savings & Loan, Murphy Store, Long's and the postoffice. Members of the 8 of 40 Auxiliary and Legion Auxiliary are aiding the Tuberculosis Society in the booth sale.

At present the society is maintaining four patients in sanatoria.

The society also sponsors free chest X-ray examinations twice a year as an aid to maintaining health of county residents.

This year's seals have a jolly Santa on a green background and of course, the double-barred cross, symbol of the world-wide campaign against tuberculosis. This cross ever since its appearance in the 9th century as the emblem of the eastern branch of the Christian church, has been linked to crusaders, being adopted as the Crusaders' emblem in 1099.

BUY AND USE CHRISTMAS SEALS.

Miss Helen Clutter was hostess for the second November meeting of Xi Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority at the home of Mrs. Bessie Richey, South Washington street. Mrs. Earl D. Clutter, a member of drama groups in Pittsburgh, was guest speaker. Mrs. Clutter reviewed the play "Juno and the Paycock" by Sean O'Casey. In the discussion, Mrs. Clutter stated O'Casey, reflecting his environment and the times in which he lived, portrays heights of emotions and depths of despair. Having lived in the slum areas of Dublin, O'Casey takes characters from his associations there, sometimes without even changing their names. Many of O'Casey's plays have been produced in the National Theatre, later the Abbey Theatre, in Dublin. "Juno and the Paycock" was presented in 1924.

The Woman's Faculty Club of Waynesburg College will meet Friday evening at the home of Mrs. P. D. Reinhart of West Franklin street. Two movies, "Be Your Age" and "Guard Your Heart," will be shown. 16,000 Petition White House For Chips Off the Old Block

Washington—Sixteen thousand persons have sent in their money and said "Please send me a part of the White House" for a souvenir.

The Commission on the Renovation of the Executive Mansion is doing its best. Its job includes not only remodeling the White House; it also must dispose of the old wood, stone, and brick that can't be used again.

Nobody knows why but the most popular item has been No. 4, which contains, according to the official order blank, "small piece of old stone and an old square nail 2 1/2", suitable for paperweight." The cost: 50 cents, plus shipping charges.

Next in popularity has been "one brick, as nearly whole as practicable." Cost: $1, plus shipping charges. It has fetched 2,773 orders.

Running a close third, with 2,548 requests, is No. 1 on the list, "enough old pine to make a gavel," $2.

These notes on the disposition of the old White House come through the courtesy of Major General Glen E. Edgerton, executive director for the commission.

General Edgerton had a news conference recently to show how the job is going.

Most of the stuff has been piled into an old tin building at nearby Fort Myer, Va. These workmen were busily sawing up old wood, breaking stone into small pieces and wrapping bricks for mailing.

The general says the idea is to give as many people as possible a memento. That's why nobody can get more than one item, and he must agree he's not going to sell it. (He can give it away, if he wishes.)

If you, too, wish to join the fun, mail a postal card to "Souvenir, Fort Meyer, Va.," asking for an application blank. It gives the price list, shipping weight, and other vital information. The commission plans to accept orders up through June 30.

On the whole, General Edgerton says, everyone seems pleased with what he's getting.

One fellow, though, complained after he had paid 25 cents for a piece of old lath that it looked like an old stick to him.

"I don't know what he expected," General Edgerton said, "A door, I suppose."

And a lumberman wrote in to say that the wood in his gavel wasn't pine, as advertised, but fir. Furthermore, this meant the wood wasn't in the original White House, built back in 1792 to 1800, but had been put in later.

The lumberman explained that fir wasn't shipped East until after 1890.

"He was right," General Edgerton conceded. "Until he wrote, we hadn't realized we had any fir from the White House."

Some of the letters have their comic side. Such as the woman who wanted a brick from the fireplace where President Roosevelt used to give those fireside chats. (There weren't any fireplaces there.)

And the woman who said if President Truman gives up his piano, she'd like a part of it.

Reds Object To GI Rotation

Panmunjom

The GIs in Korea won't like this. The Communists have objected to the rotation system, which is the best way a GI can get out of this country and go home. The Reds said they objected to replacement on a man-for-man basis during the armistice period.

Fifty-Year History of Greene County Sports

By GEORGE N. THOMAS

THE LEAN YEARS

From the beginning and almost continuously every year was lean so far as Waynesburg College sports were concerned. But few were so plagued as the mid-to-late thirties. Not in victories, but in finances to keep athletes fed and equipped.

BILL CUMMINS

No one ever did it, but a sign should have been hung over the doorways at Hanna and Varsity Halls: "Through these portals pass the most courageous guys in the world."

Housed eight to a room which was made for two was an ordinary matter. But they found time for humor. They called themselves "Rats" if they roomed in basements of various college buildings. Those in attics were "Bats."

Freshman athletes trying out for teams had a special name: "Mice."

From this group of iron-nerved men came the heroes of World War II.

Lieutenant Colonel Bill Carroll piloted the "Memphis Belle" and another helped drop an A-Bomb to end the conflict.

In spite of success Coach Frank N. Wolf never was handed anything on a silver platter on College Heights. Maybe it was because the institution never had it to hand over.

The shoestring of finances on which Wolf and Faculty Manager Jim Miller ran athletics was thinner and nearly broke through in the 1930's.

Everyone expected Wolf to quit Waynesburg early in 1934. It was no secret Bucknell wanted him. They offered him the basketball post, but he said no. Wolf again turned his back on big-time coaching after Carl Snively resigned and suggested Wolf as his successor.

"Butch," as the boys liked to call him, turned, instead, to his immediate problem: Would Rab Currie be allowed to play in 1934?

The coach asked the Tri-State Conference to consent because Currie was too light his Freshman year and was not given a uniform.

The vote was unanimous and thus Rab played his fourth year of basketball before his final year on the gridiron.

It was jubilant news in Waynesburg and fans settled down to another year of Wolf's "Crazy Quilt" football pattern, so called because plays ran in every direction when least expected and without symmetry.

Actually, "Crazy Quilt" consisted of a spinner play from Carnegie Tech, lateral pass from Notre Dame, off-tackle slant from Pitt, and forward and punt formation from Penn.

Further, it was a combination of short-kick, T-formation (years before Clark Shanughnessy) and single-wing back formations.

Wolf took pride in what he termed "the simplicity of the system." His simple definition went like this:

One boy takes the ball and all the rest run like—the devil.

In 1934, Wolf and assistant Mark Booth came up with the single-wing variation.

In order not to kill the boys because of their lack of size and weight, the coaching staff invented a double wing.

That involved cross-blocking, a science supposedly "introduced in 1941 with T-formations.

Billy Paul and Jim Conroy co-captained the fairly successful (5-4) season of 1934.

John Ross and Fred Rollason of the '32 champion team stayed on to aid Wolf.

Tom Holland, Bob Coen, Mark Booth, Billy Paul, Lou Rozzi, Andy Sepsi, Ross McCracken, Adam Donnelly, Rab Currie, Bill McGlumphy and Jim Conroy started against Duquesne at night.

Throughout the season they were relieved by Jim Worden, Ben Parker, Joe McCune, Red McCombs, Russ Markovina, Guy Tornabene, John (Chipper) Bruno, Matt Wasko, Fred LaRue, Al Jones, Bob Criss, Capelini, Litman and Karasales.

But the Frosh stole the show, four of them earning starting assignments. One of them, Arnold Koepke, began attracting attention as a punter.

Waynesburg lost to Duquesne, St. Vincent, W. Va. Wesleyan and W&J. It was the last time they were to meet W&J on the gridiron and they made it a good contest (9-0).

Pitt expected Waynesburg to be a breather in the 1935 opener, but the Yellow Jackets helped put some grey hairs on Jock Sutherlands head.

After Pitt's 14-0 escape, Fordham called for a game with Waynesburg in 1936 and it was arranged. That was the year Pitt went to the Rose Bowl, too.

The Wolfpack was ready to claim another Class B title when Geneva beat them one fumbling afternoon.

Koepke's punting (50 and 60 yards), McCune's punt-blocking and McGlumphy's (143 pounds soaking wet) broken-field running featured the '35 campaign.

On Thanksgiving Day, Wolf displayed his "Crazy Quilt" for the first time east of the Alleghenies at West Chester.

The season tally for the 'Pack read 4-4-1. Line coaches Oakey Shaw, Fred LaRue and Mark Booth, and backfield coach Jim Conroy were highly praised by Wolf for their work.

New names in the lineup included Glenn Harshman, Chames (Cowboy Pete) Young, Bill Schimonsky, Charles Richnaffsky, Bill Cummings, Gilbert Palcic, John L. Sullivan, Frank Novak, Charley Stockum, Don Avery and Fred Bartoletti.

Early in 1936, sinus trouble which plagued Coach Wolf most of his life, got the better of him and he rushed to Baltimore for an operation. Faithful Mark Booth conducted spring drills.

Upon his return, Wolf looked over his crop of cold-bes and began crying the blues.

Opposing coaches were asked about the Jackets and they replied: "Oh, yeah—we've seen Wolf's terrible teams before."

This 1936 aggregation had one of the toughest lines ever assembled on College Heights. Of the Big Three (W. Va. U., Du-

Waynesburg Defeats Concord To Place Third in Tournament

Waynesburg College's cage squad came from behind in the second half to defeat Concord, 57-52 and take third place in the West Virginia Tech tourney at Montgomery, W. Va., Saturday night. Tech, which defeated the Yellow Jackets Friday, downed Alderson-Broadus 80-57 to grab the top spot.

Coach Jimmie Haddick's club found itself on the short end of a 27-23 score at halftime, but moved in front in the third quarter and retained their lead the rest of the game.

Leading the Yellow Jackets were center Mike Camacci with 16 points, all on field goals, and forward Bob Casey, who flipped in 15 points on five fielders and as many foul conversions. Marrs led Concord with 13 points.

The Jackets came through at the foul line for their victory margin, Concord holding a 25-23 edge in field goals. At the free throw line, Waynesburg made good 11 times in 19 chances. The Concord crew got only six free tries and converted two of them.

Score by periods:
Waynesburg 10 18 18 16—57
Concord 14 13 10 15—52

In the opening game of the tourney a powerful West Va. Tech five rolled to an easy 95-57 win over the Jackets.

The first quarter was fairly even with Tech holding a 27-21 edge at the stanza's end. The West Virginians really rolled in the second frame however, as quesne and Fordham) on the card, the Mountaineers scored once, the Dukes twice and the Rams only three times on the Jackets—and most of those through the air.

Joe McCune, captain, blocked punts all year and in one game blocked three of them.

Matt Wasko slushed 81 yards on a pass interception to ruin the dedication of St. Vincent's new stadium.

In the Rio Grande tussle, the varsity rang up three touchdowns in eight minutes.

And New York writers praised the Jackets for holding Fordham's Seven Blocks of Granite to 20-6 while Koepke booted 70-yard punts.

With a 4 and 5 record, Waynesburg never lost to a western Pennsylvania team.

The 1937 squad traveled more than any other in Waynesburg College history.

Again they met the Big Three and those were the only games they lost all year.

Bill Senior dreamed the night before the Duquesne contest that he scored a TD. And in the game he grabbed Casillo's fumble and raced 34 yards to save a shutout (34-7).

Starters for Wolf were Markovina, Cummins, Ronco, Avery, Sarge Harshman, Hoffman, Senior, Captain Koepke, Joe Lapkovic, McGlumphy and Ray Gensler.

Red Cummins was an important reason why Class B foes scored only once in seven games against the Jackets.

And Don Avery so impressed the nation's writers that the New York Sun listed him among its All-Americans.

they racked up 31 points to 8 for Waynesburg to turn the game into a rout. They continued the onslaught throughout the contest to hand Waynesburg one of their worst defeats in the school's history.

Waynesburg made good on 15 out of 25 free tosses while Tech connected 11 times in 16 throws.

Bob Percy lead the Waynesburg attack with 14 points, with Larry Kendig, freshman guard, notching 12. Rip Ritter led Tech with 20 with team mate Bill Swyers close behind with 19.

W. Va. Tech 27 31 25 22—95
Waynesburg 21 8 17 11—57

Jackets Drop Home Opener

With forward Don O'Hara dumping in 21 points, 14 of them in the final quarter, California State Teachers College rallied to defeat Waynesburg College 56-53 in the home opener of the season for the Yellow Jackets Tuesday night.

The first quarter was all Waynesburg as the host team ran up a 16-5 lead. The teams battled on even terms during the second period, and Waynesburg enjoyed a 31-20 edge at the half.

The second half saw the tide of battle change as California outscored the Jackets in the third and fourth quarters to win.

California made 14 out of 20 attempts at the foul line, with Waynesburg dumping in 9 of 12.

Bob Percy had 19 points to pace the Jacket attack but Don O'Hara's 21 total was high for the night.

Score by periods:
California 5 15 19 17—56
Waynesburg 16 15 13 9—53

Jefferson Defeated By Perryopolis High, 48-31

Jefferson High School's cage squad dropped the opening game of the 1951-52 season to a visiting Perryopolis five at Dry Tavern Friday night, 48-31. The game was billed as an exhibition.

The team from Fayette County got off to a 9-4 lead in the first quarter and held command all the way, leading at the half, 22-13.

Komlo and Stefanic had 14 and 13 points respectively to lead the Rockets, with Lafko and Knox getting like scores for the visitors.

Score by periods:
Perryopolis 9 13 11 15—48
Jefferson 4 9 6 13—31

Mock Battlefields 528 Square Miles

—Bonn— Allied mock battlefields in West Germany cover an area over half the size of Luxembourg, German officials reported. U. S. and British troops alone use 529 square miles for training grounds. The French also have marked off large military areas. Allied commanders are now studying a memorandum proposing a German advisory board to prevent excessive damage to agriculture and forestry.

India Studying Disease Cures

—Lucknow, India— Prime Minister Nehru presided at the recent opening ceremonies of India's new National Drug Laboratory. The laboratory will concentrate on finding cures for tuberculosis, leprosy, filariasis, leucoderma, and other diseases prevalent in India.

Four Jackets Honored On All-Pennsylvania

Four Waynesburg College grid stars were honored by winning berths on the All-Pennsylvania football teams.

Joe Laird, senior end, won a spot on the offensive first squad with his tossing mate, Kenny Beadling, being selected on the second team. Bill Scott and Fran Egnatz received honorable mention.

The four players honored aided materially in the Yellow Jackets winning the Tri-State Class B championship and in making Jack Wiley's first year as a coach a highly successful one.

Hitting the High Spots

By JACK HAMMERS

Now that a very successful football season has been closed, Waynesburg College followers are turning their attention to the basketball and wrestling squads.

How far these teams will go toward winning new honors for the college is not known. The wrestling team, as usual, is a power-packed outfit with stand-out performers from district high schools trying to win starting berths. Coach John R. Conklin has most of last year's undefeated squad back this year and with the newcomers is reported to be so strong that only a few schools want a part of the team.

The basketball team, on the other hand, faces a different situation. With a number of newcomers on the team and a new coach at the helm, the team faces a tough schedule. Rumor has the team a powerful one, but taking them from games played so far this year they fall short of this prediction. However, the team does show a lot of fight and hustle and should develop into a tough squad as the season rolls along.

We see an undefeated wrestling team again this year, and a 50-50 season for the cagers.

★ Looks like Jefferson High School's cage squad will have trouble winning this year without the services of Eddie Cipic unless some of the other boys start to click and take up the scoring slack shown so far this year. Eddie, who was high man for the Rockets and the county last year, was declared ineligible because of his age.

★ We see Trinity High School as having the top wrestling team among district schools this year. Of course, Waynesburg, Canonsburg, Washington and Jefferson will give the Hillers a lot of trouble, but Trinity picked up some good boys from Washington, Chartiers and Canonsburg, which should be enough to make them the top team.

Raiders Win Opener From Mikes, 53-43

Coach John Adamson and his Waynesburg High School cagers launched their 1951-52 campaign at home Monday night with a 53-43 victory over Cumberland Township.

Forward McKenna tossed in 21 points on nine field goals and three fouls to lead the Red Raiders' attack. Waynesburg led at halftime, 25-20.

Burkholder with 11 points, and Schifko with 10, were the scoring leaders of the Mikes. Waynesburg's Jayvees won the preliminary, 37-11.

Bill George Named On All-South Team

Bill George, Wake Forest College's great tackle from Waynesburg, has been named on the All-Southern Conference football team.

George, one of the few 60-minute men in college football and rugged on defense, was acclaimed for his offensive ability.
