Ewing B. Pollock Named 'Man of the Year' by JCs

Ewing B. Pollock, prominent Waynesburg attorney, has been selected the 1954 "Man of the Year" in Greene County by Waynesburg Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A banquet will be given in his honor this month and he will be given a plaque commemorating the award.

Awards are made on the following: contribution to the community, participation in community activities, evidence of contribution, business personal progress, leadership and cooperation.

Mr. Pollock graduated from Waynesburg College in 1942 and from the University of Pittsburgh Law School in 1949.

Following graduation in 1942, he enlisted in the Army and received his honorable discharge in 1946, having served in the Field Artillery overseas for 20 months. He has continued his military career through the Active Reserve, and is now commander of Company C, 326th Engineers, Waynesburg Reserve unit.

Mr. Pollock is associated in law practice with his father, Lloyd E. Pollock. He is married and has four children.

Mr. Pollock is president of the Greene County Chapter, American Infantile Paralysis Foundation and is vice president of Waynesburg Borough Council, having been elected to council in 1952.

It is well known for his work in Scouting, having been prominent in the field for the past 20 years. He began as a Tenderfoot in a Waynesburg Boy Scout Troop and rose to the rank of Eagle in regular Scouting. He later served as a Scoutmaster for two years and now is organization and extension chairman of the General Greene District. In 1953, Mr. Pollock was awarded the Scout Service Award for outstanding work in Scouting.

GI Education Bill Advances

The Senate Labor Committee has unanimously approved a measure to provide full GI educational rights for servicemen who entered the armed forces on or before last January 31.

The bill already has won unanimous House endorsement and is headed for Senate passage probably later this week.

Endorsed by the White House, the measure would offset in part a New Year's Day proclamation by President Eisenhower setting January 31 as the legal end of the Korean War for certain veterans' benefits.

The education provision, only one affected by the bill, allows a serviceman 1 1/2 days of schooling for each day spent in uniform, up to a maximum of 36 months.

EWING B. POLLOCK

Warren G. Roberts Vice President of State Supervisors

Warren G. Roberts of Garards Fort, who has been secretary-treasurer of Greene County Association of Township Officers for eight years, and who has served as second vice president of the Pennsylvania Association of Township Supervisors, was elected first vice president at the 33rd annual convention in Pittsburgh, Tuesday.

He is now in line for the presidency in 1957.

Harry Burrow of Corry, Erie County, was elected president to succeed George B. Potts of Bradford, McKean County. H. A. Thompson was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Bills to Move Primary Date Introduced

Democratic organization legislation to set back primary elections in Pennsylvania to mid-July, except in the years of presidential elections, hit both houses of the General Assembly Tuesday.

The proposal would schedule this year's primary elections for July 19 instead of the May 17 date on which it would be held under existing law.

The Senate took no action on the bill. The House of Representatives, where the Democrats are in the majority, gave the measure quick committee consideration, reported it to the floor, and gave it first reading. Albert S. Reading, House majority leader of Reading, said the purpose was to eliminate lengthy campaigns.

Certain Success Predicted for College Fund Drive

Dr. Paul R. Stewart, president of Waynesburg College, stated authorities of the college expect to bring the Waynesburg-Greene County phase of the New Century Advance to an end on March first. From results of outside contacts with industries and corporations with interests in this region, it seems certain that the goal of $120,000 will be not only reached, but definitely surpassed.

Dr. Stewart stated: "Waynesburg and Greene County have definitely wakened up to the fact that this college is being rapidly transformed through local patriotism from a struggling institution into one of the strongest established colleges of the nation. The momentum of this campaign is such that the present intensive phase will be gratifyingly over-subscribed. It is now obvious that by 1959 the by-products of our quota will, through annuities, bequests, and special gifts be pushed beyond the $200,000 mark. This is amazing and very gratifying, especially to those who have labored so hard to bring this college to the fore. With such tremendous enthusiasm, there is no doubt but that the national goal of $750,000 will be reached and possibly surpassed."

The Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., has given great support, and it is hoped to be at least tripled over that which has been contributed over the past twenty years.

Sen. Martin Given College Citation

—Washington— Senator Edward Martin, Republican of Pennsylvania, was presented with the 1955 citation for the all-Pennsylvania College Alumni Association Saturday night in a Washington ceremony. Dr. Francis P. Haas, Pennsylvania superintendent of schools and a former recipient of the award, presented the citation.

The presidents of many state colleges were present. Mrs. Frank D. Scott of Jenkintown, widow of Dr. Frank D. Scott, pastor of Beaver College, who is a sister-in-law of Mrs. Martin, was also present.

Brigadier General Louis V. Hightown, United States Army General Staff, chief of organization and training, was the speaker.

Elected to C of C Board of Directors

G. Conrad Huffman was elected a director of Waynesburg Chamber of Commerce Tuesday to succeed Shirl Headlee, who resigned due to pressing business affairs.

JOHN ALLEN

Economy League Elects Successor To John Allen

J. Paul Riden, Jr., was elected executive secretary of the Greene County Branch of the Pennsylvania Economy League at the board meeting Wednesday night. He will succeed John Allen who has served here 20 months. Mr. Allen will join the Utah Foundation in Salt Lake City. Before coming to Waynesburg, he had been located in Detroit, Michigan.

Mr. Riden is a graduate of Lewistown, Pa., High School, and attended Benjamin Franklin School of Accounting in Washington, D. C.

He has served as head bookkeeper of the Royal Typewriter Company in Washington, D. C., and as a teller in the Russell National Bank in Lewistown. After serving in the 740th Tank Division in Europe during World War II, he returned to his position in the bank.

Later Mr. Riden became chief clerk to the Mifflin County Board of Commissioners. For some time he has been field representative of the state tax equalization board.

Council Hires New Patrolman For Borough

Harry W. Brumage, Jr., of Holbrook, was employed by Waynesburg Borough council Monday night, as a patrolman to replace Harold E. King who has accepted a position with the state highway department.

Patrolman Brumage has served six years in the Marine Corps.

Council voted to construct a new storm sewer on Bloody Run in West Waynesburg, to Rinehart street and up Rinehart street to Fourth avenue. It was explained that Paul Acklin, who has built two new homes in that section, has offered to contribute $1,000 to the project, and to supply tile at 55 cents per foot. The sewer would eliminate the necessity of his installing septic tanks.

Council instructed Borough Engineer K. DeNyssen Wermecke to make a study of the project.

After bids were received council awarded purchase of a dump truck to East End Motor Company on a low bid of $2,200.

Council also discussed periodical hosing of streets in the business area.

Changing of charging on parking meters from one cent to five cents to give only half hour parking instead of twelve minutes, was deferred.

Burgess Fay Headlee spoke in favor of the new plan. He said it will cost $2.38 to convert each of the 100 "new" meters to take only nickles and to change the dials so that motorists could pay for three hours of parking. But the 200 "old" meters, he said, would have to have new clocks and it would cost about $6.50 each to convert them.

To Participate in National Panel

James L. Brewer, treasurer of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, will participate in a panel discussion "Collection Procedures and Problems" during the annual convention of the American Savings and Loan Institute, to be held March 21-24 in New York. The national organization extended the invitation because of work Mr. Brewer took at the Graduate School of Savings and Loan at Indiana University of which he is a graduate.

Hero of Bulge Gets New Post

McAuliffe's new appointment will advance him to rank of full general. He will succeed General William M. Hoge, who retired January 31.

The bulk of the money will be raised by a house-to-house campaign which will reach into every section of the county. Chairmen will be named in each township and borough to organize the drive.

The special gifts committee already is at work, and several contributions have been received. The first donation, a $100 check, was received from the Crucible Steel Company by J. Allan Brookes of Carmichaels, chairman of the industrial division.

Mr. Ely stated he will hold meetings in the near future to set up the 1955 campaign and to name chairmen to take charge of the various phases.

John M. Denney Dies in Pittsburgh

John M. Denney, 72 years, of 5420 Darlington road, Pittsburgh, died Tuesday morning, February 8, 1955, in Allegheny General Hospital. He had been in failing health for some time.

Mr. Denney was a son of Dr. William Denney and Lucinda Bell Denney, and was born at Jefferson, Greene County, August 1, 1882. He was a great-grandson of Rev. Barnett W. Whitlatch, founder of Calvary Baptist Church at Lippencott. He had recently presented the church with a bronze plaque honoring his ancestor.

Mr. Denney had resided in Washington, Pa., until the past several years when he lived with his brother-in-law, U. Grant Miller in Pittsburgh. He was a graduate of Washington and Jefferson College in the class of 1907, and was a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity. Mr. Denney was a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Washington.

For more than 30 years Mr. Denney had been associated with the advertising department of the National Tube Company in Pittsburgh.

LOUISIANA

In the interest of connecting the Northwestern Extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike to West Virginia through Greene and Washington Counties, a meeting will be held Friday night at 6:30 in the Fort Jackson Hotel.

The meeting has been called by Assemblyman Stephen McCann and Democratic committee officials in order to aid business conditions in the area.

Arthur J. Bray, director of Western Pennsylvania Regional Planning Commission, will present charts and explain various phases of the problem.

Mr. McCann and four representatives from Washington County will introduce a bill in the lower house in an effort to connect the Northwest Turnpike from near Zelenople to West Virginia. The extension to Erie has been approved by the state.

Harold Dulaney, Democratic County Chairman, has asked both parties to be represented at the meeting, and Calvin Heasley, president of Waynesburg Chamber of Commerce, has contacted civic organizations.

The proposed link has three possible surveys: through Wheeling, W. Va., to hit the Pennsylvania Turnpike near Pittsburgh; to run through the eastern part of West Virginia; to go through Greene County east of Waynesburg to Washington County.

Lund Again Heads Carmichaels C of C

Werner Lund, well known business man of Carmichaels, was elected president of Carmichaels Chamber of Commerce for the third year, at a re-organization meeting Monday night.

Others elected were: vice president, Charles I. Donley; secretary, Kenneth A. Forsyth; treasurer, Alfred Armstrong; directors, Lucille Butler, Edward Scott, Stephen McCann, Sigmund Roth, James Yeash, J. Howard Bally, Frank Urbany, John G. Bally, LeRoy Willis and J. Claude Smith.

A safety award will be presented to one of the county's seven major mines compiling the best record of hours without loss by accidents. Further recognition will be given at the second annual Coal Festival in September.

The chamber also voted to sponsor a float in the 1955 Wool Festival parade at Waynesburg and to send flowers and a representative to the forthcoming dedication of the new St. Hugh's Roman Catholic Church in Carmichaels.

A water sewage survey of Carmichaels Borough and Cumberland Township was presented by Chester Engineers of Pittsburgh, stating that the present sewage treatment system had reached its capacity.

Estimated cost of approximately half mile main transmission line and a new treatment plant to service a total of 567 consumers (including 297 already in the present system) is $152,000. Estimated cost of trunk lines, tributary lines, leading into the main transmission line would be an additional $118,000.

The engineering firm suggested the cost of the transmission line and new plant be financed through a bond issue, while cost of installation for moving sewage from the consumer into the main line could be financed by assessing property owners a charge of $4.50 to $5 per front footage.

Erection of Greene County Recounted By Mildred Russell D. A. R. Regent

Little attention is given to February 9 as a special day by most people, but to residents of Greene County, it should be considered a red letter day. Until that time, 159 years ago, the government of Greene County had been under various heads.

Before the final establishment of the Mason and Dixon line in 1784, both Virginia and Pennsylvania had claimed the territory now known as Greene County, and the allegiance of the settlers in this section was divided. Some were loyal to Virginia and some considered themselves citizens of Pennsylvania. Land grants had been given to the settlers by both states and there was much controversy over the validity of the claims.

Under Virginia's claim to the territory the section wherein Greene County is contained was known as the District of West Augusta, while Pennsylvania considered the territory to be a part of Westmoreland County which had been erected in 1771. In 1781, Washington County was erected, and present Greene County became a part of it, with the county seat at Washington.

After the Pennsylvania-Virginia controversy was settled and Pennsylvania was positive of its claim to the territory, settlement became more rapid and in 1796, citizens of the southern part of Washington County requested that a new county be formed.

By an act of Pennsylvania Legislature February 9, 1796, all that section of Washington County lying within the bounds of present Greene County was erected into a new county. The name was chosen in honor of General Nathaniel Greene and by the same act David Gray, Stephen Gapen, Isaac Jenkinson, William Meeker and James Seals were appointed commissioners. These men were to procure land not exceeding five hundred acres, within five miles of the center of the county for a county seat; survey and lay out the same into lots, the sale of which was to raise sufficient funds for the erection of a court house and prison.

Until this was done the courts were directed to be held at the home of Jacob Kline on Muddy Creek. The place where the court was held has been marked by John Corby Chapter. Daughters of the American Revolution, and is just west of the Muddy Creek Church.

After several months the commissioners finally decided upon a location for the county seat and purchased from Thomas Slater a plot of ground called "Eden," containing 158 1/2 acres, for the sum of $2,376. The only structure on the ground was the cabin of the owner. A draft of the plot of the town accompanies the deed and may be seen in Deed Book 1 in Greene County courthouse. Lots of the new town, named Waynesburg, were laid out for sale, and the out lots, which were not to be sold, were called "The Commons," today known as Waynesburg Parks. In the early days of the county "The Commons" were used for grazing cattle, and are yet today county property, free for the use of all its citizens.

The section kept by the commissioners for the courthouse is the block between Washington and Church streets and High street and Cherry alley. A courthouse was not erected on this site immediately, a small log structure for that purpose having been erected on the corner of Greene street and Whiskey alley. This structure is still standing but has been added to and covered so that the log portion is not visible. The building, formerly owned by M. D. Wood, is now owned by Wilda McClure of Waynesburg, and is the oldest building in the town.

The first courthouse built on the site selected by the commissioners was erected in 1800. The present structure, recently restored, was built in 1850. This building is nationally known for its architectural beauty and is one of the county's few remaining early buildings.

The county government was organized soon after the erection of the county with David Gray as associate judge; John Boreman as Register and Recorder, prothonotary and clerk of courts; John Minor as justice of the peace; James Hook as sheriff, and James Boone as coroner. The county came under the fifth judicial district with Alexander Addison as president judge.

The Pennsylvania Census of 1800 shows the population of the county four years after its erection in 1796, was 8,605.

Many of the male settlers of the section were soldiers of the Revolution and have numerous descendants living in the county today, and many of the farms which were patented by the original settlers are still owned by their descendants.

The Pioneer History of Greene County, Penna.

By L. K. EVANS

He seems to have settled down in Berkeley County, Virginia, about the time of his marriage or shortly thereafter, and soon became intimate with Elder John Garard, a very powerful and zealous minister of the Baptist persuasion. In conversation with him Corbly became deeply concerned about his soul's salvation. His convictions deepened which speedily resulted in his conversion and entire consecration. He was baptized by the Rev. Garard and became such an ardent and efficient co-laborer in the cause of the Master that he was specially licensed to labor in the ministry. He soon became conspicuous as a preacher, and proved so successful in the propagation of the pure principles of Christianity as to excite the jealousy and persecution of other sects. For devoutly maintaining the faith he was driven from post to post, was misrepresented, arrested, literally beaten with many stripes and finally thrust like a culprit into Culpepper jail. Here he remained confined for many days, but his spiritual ardor was not thereby abated. For he continued to preach the unsearchable riches of the blood of Christ within his prison walls, and gained large audiences from those without who gathered to hear him expound the gospel of peace through the prison bars. By this means he became exceedingly useful, for many heard him gladly and became converted to Christ and joined themselves with the despised Baptists. Imprisonment, instead of subserving the purpose of silencing him, increased his popularity and influence. Comprehending this his persecutors released him, but still they persisted in maltreating him in every possible and malicious way. He was often threatened with death, and was frequently taken from the pulpit, dragged from place to place, and cruelly and brutally beaten. While under arrest he was at one time proffered his freedom providing he would desist from preaching, but he declined to accept the terms, choosing to suffer rather for Christ's sake. Such was the toleration of Christian and free America one hundred years ago. Such was the asylum afforded by old Virginia for the worship of Almighty God under her vine and fig tree.

The exact date of Rev. Corbly's imprisonment is not certainly known, nor for what length of time he endured these severe persecutions. But it is said that about the year 1768, he was tried and acquitted. Having conducted his own defense, he made such an impression on the Governor that he was licensed to preach. By 1769 he was a delegate from Mountain Run Church, in Culpepper County, to the Ketchikan Association, of which body he was chosen clerk.

About this time (1769) I presume, it was that he determined to leave that field of strife and persecution for a more congenial atmosphere on the verge of civilization. He was willing to endure the privations of border life and brook the dangers of savage foes, in order that he might enjoy soul liberty and exercise freedom of conscience in religious things. David Benedict, in his history of the Baptists, says that he became "the coadjutor of Rev. John Sutton, and settled in western Pennsylvania in 1768." I am inclined, however, to the belief that this date is a year or two too early.

I presume, also, about this time his wife died, bequeathing to him the legacy of two little daughters—Margaret and Rachel—who no doubt were a solace and comfort to him, and who, as we shall see, became the mother of two of the largest and most respectable and influential families of Greene County. It is thought, however, that at least two other children had been born to them—but were now dead. Contemporaneous with him were the Rev. Isaac Sutton, Rev. James Sutton and Rev. John Sutton. They labored in their mission of love from settlement to settlement. They established a church called Great Bethel, on the present site of Uniontown, as early as 1770. The Peters Creek Baptist Church was gathered by them about the same time. Then followed Mount Moriah at Smithfield, Goshen at Garards Fort, North Ten Mile, known as the "Ridge" Church, in Washington County, Pigeon Creek, Prickets Creek, Buchanan and others. The Rev. John Corbly was partially instrumental in planting all these churches between the years 1770 and 1800.

As seen in a former sketch the first Baptist settlement in Greene County was on Muddy Creek, by the Vanmeter family, in 1769. In the month of April 1771, a meeting house was built near Garards Fort, and I presume about on the site of the present neat and commodious brick church, which is the fourth house built on that site for public worship, and worship continued under the ministrations of John Corbly, who was as yet but a licentiate.

On the 7th of November 1773, a church was constituted, the Revs. Isaac Sutton and Daniel Fristoe officiating, and called Goshen. The following thirty persons were its constituent members:

Jacob Vanmeter, Edward Rollens, Abraham Vanmeter, John Vanmeter, Benjamin Underwood, Eastwood, David Kenton, Bambo (colored man), Daniel Waychoff, Moses Lambert, Michael Hahn, Alhalla Minor, Alice Davis, Jacob Frazly, Isaac Sutton, Letty Vanmeter, Rebecca Rollens, Rebecca Vanmeter, Mrs. Underwood, Mrs. Eastwood, Mary Kenton, Dinah (colored), Benjamin Vanmeter, Thomas Mingo, Henry Crosby, Nancy Bowen, Rebecca Jenkins, Abner Eastwood, and Daniel Fristoe.

On the 11th of December, 1773, Jacob Vanmeter was elected the first deacon and David Kenton, clerk, and to "raise the Psalms." Almost every meeting accessions were received and the congregation soon became a strong and self-sustaining society. John Corbly was received into membership by letter of dismission and recommendation from the Mill Creek Church in Virginia. An ordination counsel was called at the Goshen Church on the 10th day of June, 1775, to ordain John Corbly a regular Christian minister. The Revs. James and Isaac Sutton officiated. He also received the right hand of fellowship as the settled pastor of the church, he having hitherto preached as a supply—Rev. James Sutton having had nominal charge as pastor.

The year 1775 was denominated "Tory year." It was a time when the fate of the young Republic was hanging in the balance. Misfortune and disaster with ominous fatality were attending the arms of the struggling colonies. Discouragements and vague apprehensions were insinuating themselves into the stoutest hearts and most patriotic breasts. The open enemies of the country began to assert themselves, the disaffected were avowing their allegiance to the crown, and the wavering and halting were ranging themselves in the ranks of the King. It was a life or death struggle and Rev. John Corbly being an ardent patriot and advocate of freedom, and a man of wide and great influence among the people, threw himself in the breach and preached political freedom and independence as the counterpart of an untrammelled liberty of conscience, and to maintain them a sacred religious obligation. John Crawford, in his private memoir of the times, says: "But at this time we had the Rev. John Corbly settled among us. His prayers and sermons tended to re-animate the people. His preaching was attended by large assemblies. Many would come ten miles to hear him. He represented our cause as the cause of Heaven."

During these trying times it became necessary in order to maintain the supremacy of the government, to declare martial law and make many military arrests in the community. By prompt action on the part of the friends of the government civil strife was suppressed and fraternal bloodshed happily averted in this section. In reference to this subject Mr. Crawford makes the following observation, "The most dangerous of these men—the arrested Tories—were sent to Williamsburg, Va., in irons, to the number of sixteen or eighteen, under the direction of the Rev. John Corbly, who was at that time a Justice of the Peace for the State of Virginia. He marched them on by slow marches, preaching and praying all the way, and did not arrive till a day or two after the proper time. This was thought by many to be intentional on the part of Mr. Corbly, who wished no man's life taken for a mistaken policy. They were pardoned, took the oath of allegiance to the State and returned to their families." The incidents serve to give a somewhat correct idea of the "true inwardness" of the man.

Sometime during these intervening years Mr. Corbly remarried. His second wife was Miss Elizabeth Tyler, and is said to have been a very amiable and estimable lady. The awful fatality that attended the untimely close of her temporal existence will form the painful yet intensely interesting theme of the next sketch.

Decorator's Notebook by Alicia Joyce

Here is an idea for your room that will meet your furniture fashion requirements. At the same time it will give long-term comfort, durability, and pleasure for the entire household.

The charming nook pictured above has been designed to please the man of the house, and to reflect his hobbies.

Adhering to the growing trend to color in furniture, the beautifully tailored chair is done in Capri blue leather, and has an ottoman to match. The chairside reading table is of solid cherry. It is from a new collection introduced at the recent furniture markets. The hardware on it is brass.

Interpret this setting in your own home. Add a comfortable chair and handy table to a cozy corner of your living room. Then display hobby equipment such as, the fishing rods and reels in the setting pictured above.

Another interesting note in this room is that the use of leather has been carried out even to the matting of the wall prints. The color of the leather is the same as that of the chair and ottoman—Capri blue.

Visitors to See Six More Rooms in Lincoln House

—Springfield, Illinois—

Six second-story rooms in the house where Abraham Lincoln lived from 1844 to 1861 will be opened to the public February 12, the 146th anniversary of the Civil War President's birth.

Heretofore, the hundreds of thousands of persons who visit the Lincoln home each year have had access only to the first floor. There were 425,000 visitors in 1954.

Six months was required to ready the upstairs rooms, including those of Lincoln, his wife, and a son, Robert Todd Lincoln, a guest room, a maid's room, and a trunk room.

The heavy traffic flow through the 116-year-old frame house, the only one Lincoln ever owned, had to be considered in the restoration project.

Largely on this account, the deteriorating brick foundation of the house was strengthened. Sills and joists weakened by dry rot and termite invasion were replaced. The back staircase was widened and guide rails installed.

Original materials were retained where supervisors of the project determined they could be made strong enough for safety.

We Had More to Spend In '54 Than Ever Before

Despite the business downturn which lasted most of 1954, the public had more income and more spending money last year than ever before, the Commerce Department has reported.

In the last two months of the year, the department said, the income of individuals—personal income—sailed above the peak rate achieved in the business boom of 1953.

Disposable, or spendable, income—which is total personal income minus personal taxes—amounted to 254 billion dollars in 1954 or about 3½ billions above the previous record set in 1953, the report said. This increase in purchasing power, despite a rise in unemployment, was described by the department as chiefly the result of the approximately 10 per cent reduction in Federal income taxes which went into effect January 1, 1954.

Total personal income in 1954 was computed at $286,500,000,000 compared with the previous high of $286,100,000,000 in 1953.

The report said total personal income held up despite the business downturn, which clipped nearly 2½ billions off of wages and salaries, mainly because dividend and interest payments and unemployment benefits rose during the year.

Light Opera Festival Wednesday, March 16

The third event on the Celebrity Concert Association will be the light opera festival program which will be presented at Waynesburg High School auditorium on Wednesday, March 16.

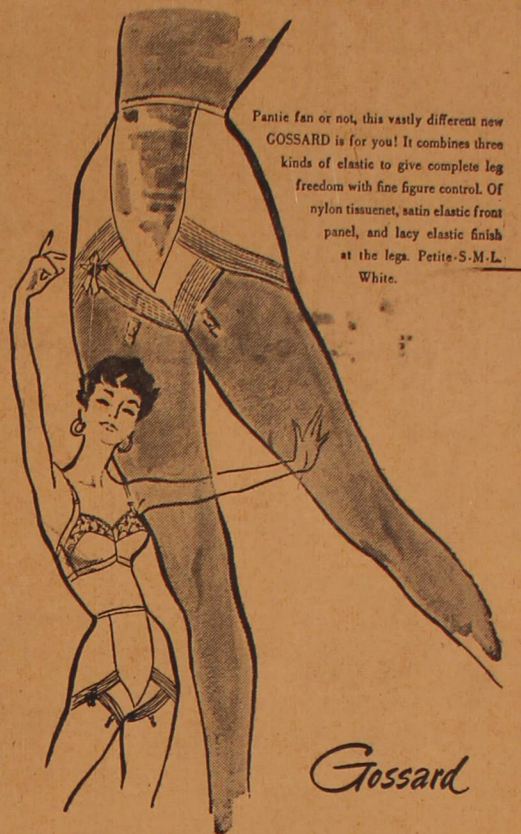

The program will star Virginia Card, soprano, who will be assisted by Harry Wayne, baritone, and the pianist, Alfred Patten. There will be solos and duets and the program as a whole provides a good picture of light opera literature through the years. There will be selections from the most famous of all operetta composers, Franz Lehár, as well as numbers from current Broadway shows that have not yet been heard on tour.

Prominent on the program is a special English version of excerpts from "The Barber of Seville." This will be performed in the new English adaption which Miss Card has prepared.

Miss Card is well known for her lovely voice and excellent dramatic sense. Mr. Wayne, too, has been recognized as an outstanding artist in music demanding not along vocal ability but a true sense of theatre. Alfred Patten has appeared as pianist with many of the leading soloists today.

Subsequent programs on the Celebrity series are Larry LaVaux, accordionist, Monday, March 21.

Fifty-Year History of Greene County Sports

By GEORGE N. THOMAS

GREENE COUNTY TENNIS

Since the advent of tennis on the Waynesburg College campus, the institution has been grateful, to some degree, to the home town talent which has helped bring about some of its squad's success.

On the very first team back in 1929, Waynesburg Dick Hatfield and Bert Waychoff were among the chosen few. And from within the county's confines came Oscar Enstrom.

In the early 1930s, Bill Sayers and Andy Waychoff contributed their share to the Yellow Jackets having learned the game on hometown and college courts.

Other parts of the county sent Don Titus, John Bally and Bill Kerr, all of whom played excellent first-team tennis.

One of the finest teams in college history was the late 1930s squad on which played no fewer than four Waynesburgers: Bill McKay, Grover Powell, Roy Waychoff and Henry Dembo.

And a little later came Frank Jamison, Joaquin Patterson, Joe Jefferson and Art Patterson, Jr., most of them from the great Waynesburg High outfit.

After this group left college, tennis fell into a terribly quiet doldrum broken only by intramural play.

Before another crop of good players could enroll or be developed, World War II interrupted all college sports and the minor ones, such as tennis, were among the first to sacrifice travel schedules.

But after the boys returned to the campus, it wasn't long before the racquets were brought out of the moth balls, the courts repaired and action resumed.

In the spring of 1947, E. Joaquin Patterson returned to college to complete his education and to take up a dual role (coach and captain) with the tennis squad.

Once again the institution looked to hometown talent for the nuclei of a team and Patterson, Glenn Rex and Charley Lewis swatted the peach-ball fine.

Aiding them were John Echon, Don Guyatt, John Inghram and Jack Boly.

Cancellations and rain played havoc with the spring schedule. W. & J. and West Virginia University cancelled their matches with Waynesburg during that uncertain time when rain not only prevented lengthy practice, but forced several cancellations at the last minute.

Nevertheless, the Yellow Jackets won two out of the three times the sun shone long enough for a complete match.

They set back California and Duquesne, and lost one return match to the Dukes.

Between matches and rain, the boys labored gallantly repairing the neglected clay courts which at one time had the reputation of being the finest in the tri-state district.

Just about the time they had the clay in perfect condition, the season ended and school was out.

Patterson, Rex and Lewis were back in 1948. Echon was, too, as co-captain with Patterson, John Weber and Guyatt rounded out the sextet.

And they had a good year. Not only did they engage the most energetic card in Jacket history, but they came out of it as one of the three sport teams with a better than .500 average for the year.

They won six in a row, but just about exam time they slipped and lost four straight to wind up with a 9-7 mark.

Among their victims were California, Fairmont, Geneva, Marshall, Thiel, and West Virginia University. Duquesne and Youngstown beat the Orange and Black twice, but it wasn't easy.

Most of the same teams were on the schedule in 1949 when John Echon became coach and Lewis Weber, Eugene Russ, Sam Braverman and George Pfrogner played and won most of the home matches.

They didn't topple the big teams, because they weren't the polished group of the year before.

But they brought many happy moments to the campus tennis enthusiasts, particularly the coeds who could watch the battles from their windows in Walton Hall's upper floors.

And, after all, that made the bruises of victory or defeat worthwhile.

HAPPY TOOTERS—Happy Felton leads members of his Spotlight Gang in a kazoo rendition of "I Want to Be Happy," theme song of his NBC-TV program. Raider Grapplers Bow to Uniontown; Upset Washington High Matmen, 25-20

Red Raider Cagers Defeated Twice in Section 4 Tilts

Coach Jack Cassidy's Waynesburg High School cage crew returned to WPIAL Section 4 play last week and were defeated by Mt. Lebanon High 64-48 and the Washington High five 89-46.

A 21-point spurt in the third period enabled Mt. Lebanon to capture the victory over Waynesburg, as John Reid, with 20 points, and George Schaeppner, with 17 markers, paced the Mounties.

Chastain racked up 17 points to lead the Red Raider scoring.

The Red Raiders gave Washington a real battle in the opening quarter which found the Little Prexies in front 12-10 at the end of that time. However, the superiority of the defending section champs started showing in the second stanza and at the end of the half Washington was in front 40-22.

Jim Kimbrough, Beanie Gordon and Jack Naser all scored in double figures for the winners while Dick Bennett collected 15 points to grab high honors for Waynesburg.

Score by periods:
Mt. Lebanon 12 16 21 15—64
Waynesburg 17 13 5 13—48

Washington 12 28 25 24—89
Waynesburg 10 12 16 8—46

Geneva Five Tops Jackets

Geneva College's basketball squad scored their second victory of the year over the Waynesburg College cage crew as they defeated the Yellow Jackets 97-47 Saturday night at Beaver Falls.

Waynesburg, with three wins for the season, never was in the game, as Geneva led 50-26 at the end of the first half, and even though playing reserves the bigger part of the second half, continued to dominate play.

Geneva scored on 52 per cent of their field goal attempts while Waynesburg averaged 30 per cent on their shots from the floor. Geneva's superior height not only enabled them to dominate both boards and grab most of the rebounds, but also made it difficult for the Jackets to penetrate their defense.

Forward Ken Woodeshic and Stan Yikica, dumped in 22 and 18 points respectively to lead the Geneva attack. Nick Raynovich scored 14 points and John Zamparini got 13 markers to pace Waynesburg.

The winners made good on 11 of 21 foul attempts, while the Yellow Jackets converted 13 of 19 tries.

'Rosey' Rowswell Dies Suddenly

Albert K. "Rosey" Rowswell, who for the past 19 years has broadcast the play-by-play description of the Pittsburgh Pirate baseball games, died Sunday in his Fox Chapel home. He was 71.

Members of the family said he died of uremic poisoning. Death was unexpected. Only Saturday night he had been slated to appear on television with Branch Riecke, general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Rowswell, born in Tarentum, was known throughout Western Pennsylvania as a sportscaster, master of ceremonies and speaker at banquets.

Although Rosey's voice first was heard on the airway in 1936 and last heard during the 1954 season, Rosey was no stranger to the dialers as far back as the early twenties when radio was coming of age.

One of his first chores as a radio personality was announcer of the Cluquet Club Esquires, a network program in the era of the crystal set.

His love for the Pirates dates back to 1909, the era of Honus Wagner, and stood firm strengthened by such stars as Wilbur Cooper, Pie Traynor and others. Surviving are his wife, the former Myrrel Hayden, and two sons, William of Bethel Township, Allegheny County, and Albert K., Jr., of Dallas, Texas.

Waynesburg College Matmen Defeat Purdue University for Sixth Victory

Sweeping all bouts but the heavyweight tilt, Coach "Bucky" Murdock's Waynesburg College mat crew scored an impressive 29-5 victory over the Purdue University grapplers at the local gym last Wednesday night.

The victory was Waynesburg's sixth straight this season and the eighth straight since the present winning streak started last season.

The triumph was also the second time in three matches that Waynesburg has beaten a Purdue team, the third match ending in a draw. It also kept the Yellow Jackets' record against Big Ten teams clean as the local squad have previously beaten Ohio State and Indiana Universities.

There was no particular hero in the victory over the Boiler-makers. The distinction of scoring the fastest fall went to George Terembes, Waynesburg's undefeated freshman 167-pounder from Jefferson High. Terembes pinned D'Amico in two minutes flat.

Another Jefferson High grad, Elroy McMannes, came through with flying colors, pinning Nick Tharenos in 4:55 after dominating the bout up to that point.

Ray Carlson, Waynesburg captain, who is student pastor at Jefferson Methodist Church, kept his season record free of defeat as he scored a fall over Ronald Larson.

Billy Joe Patton, a home town product, never looked better as he scored the other Waynesburg pin, nailing Haf Whitney in an 1:30-pound contest.

"Ace" Adams, freshman 123-pounder from Chartiers High, Joe Thomas and Harry Rinehart all came through with decisions for the Jackets.

John Barish, Waynesburg heavyweight, dropped his first bout of the year when he was pinned in the final bout of the night.

Summary:
123—Adams, (W), decisoned Alzarian, 6-3.
130—Patton, (W), pinned Whitney, 8:00.
137—Thomas, (W), decisoned Kirchner, 6-5.

Gettysburg Awaits Arrival of Neighbor As Eisenhower Farm Nears Completion

Gettysburg, Pa.— This little city's 7,046 residents are quietly excited over a renovation job that promises to bring them their most illustrious neighbor.

The subject of the renovation is a century old farmhouse set on 189 acres a short distance from town.

The neighbor-to-be is President Eisenhower. He and Mrs. Eisenhower now spend an occasional week end on the farm and plan to retire there upon leaving the White House.

A white board fence now lines the entire front stretch of the farm along a road leading from the Gettysburg battlefield park.

Only one wing, which includes the kitchen, remains of the original building. Where there were once seven rooms, now there are 14. The additions include a living-dining room, a recreation room and several bedrooms.

Sturdy oak beams from the old building were salvaged for the ceiling of a new den. And upstairs will be a well-lighted studio for the President to pursue his hobby of painting.

All these preparations amount to something of a personal matter with many Gettysburgers. For Eisenhower has so many local ties his settling here is considered by some to be a homecoming.

Not far from here, the President's first ancestor in America, Nicholas Eisenhower, settled in what now is Lebanon County, in 1753. The President's grandfather went west in 1878, and Dwight D. Eisenhower was born at Denison, Texas, in 1890.

Quite a few oldsters, however, knew Eisenhower personally when he served as a captain at new defunct Camp Holt here during World War I.

William G. Weaver, a town burgess, recalls that Captain Eisenhower was often a customer at the Weaver family's department store.

He added: "And Mrs. Eisenhower still has many friends she used to play bridge with in those days. She invited them to the inauguration in Washington in 1953."

Townfolk are quick to tell visitors that this is the only land in the United States which the President owns and on which he pays taxes. He bought the Adams County property in 1950.

An old friend of the President, General Arthur Nevins, owns an adjoining farm and has looked after management of the property for the President.

Mares Sherman, president of the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce, expects Eisenhower to be active in community life when he moves here.

The President has been made an honorary member of the local Rotary Club and the Gettysburg Fire Company. He also holds an honorary doctor of laws degree from Gettysburg College.

Townpeople are anxious that the President be given privacy when he leaves the White House.

The farm, they say, will be one of the town's sights—but tourists will have to be satisfied with viewing from a distance. The sprawling Civil War battlefield here annually draws some 800,000 visitors.

Lacy Cake For Lazy Ladies To Make For Valentine

This romantic cake for St. Valentine's Day, complete with an easy, chocolate filling made with semi-sweet chocolate morsels, is ready in mere minutes. The secret? Store-bought sponge cake, quick chocolate filling made with only two ingredients, and a sifting of confectioners' sugar for the Valentine lace finish.

Men have been known to complain on Valentine's Day that the refreshments are too frilly and fancy to suit them. But here is a cake that is really Boston Cream Pie, quickie version, and everyone knows that Boston Cream Pie is a favorite masculine dessert. Thanks to the fact that semi-sweet chocolate morsels have a complete, candy-like flavor, you need add very little to make wonderful, quick fillings and frostings with them.

- St. Valentine Lacy Cake
- 1 package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
 - 1/4 cup evaporated milk
 - Dash salt
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
 - 2 8-inch bought sponge layers
 - Confectioners' sugar
- Melt semi-sweet chocolate morsels over hot (not boiling) water; remove from heat. Add half of evaporated milk—stir well. Add remaining milk, salt, vanilla and stir until smooth and thickened. Cool slightly. Spread frosting between layers, reserving about 2 tablespoons to spread thinly over top layer. Sprinkle with sifted confectioners' sugar. If attractive design is desired, place paper doily on top of cake before sprinkling with sifted confectioners' sugar. Remove doily.
- YIELD: 8 servings.

TB Hospital Head Warns Nation

Too many people—doctors and laymen alike—are lowering their guard prematurely in the fight against tuberculosis, the president of the National Jewish Hospital in Denver warned in Pittsburgh a few days ago.

Speaking at the annual luncheon meeting of the hospital's Western Pennsylvania Committee, Stanley C. Shubart declared: "Tuberculosis is still the number one killer among contagious diseases, yet our scientists have proved that it is unnecessary for a single person to die of tuberculosis."

Mr. Shubart said that greater emphasis is now being placed on surgery to effect cures.

He cited the construction of new surgical and clinical facilities which will triple the hospital's present surgical capacity.

Of tremendous help in the surgical field, he said, is the development at National Jewish Hospital of a cardio-pulmonary analyzer which predicts, with amazing accuracy, how a patient can be expected to respond after major lung surgery.

"We want to cut down on the number of deaths after technically successful operations."

Second-Class Citizens By DEAN N. K. HIGH MOOR

An unanimous decision was handed down recently by the Supreme Court of the United States. The decision marked a forward step, it advanced dignity and self-respect.

The decision dealt with the matter of segregated public schools.

As we, at least the majority of us, rejoice in the action of the Court, it is a happy thought to remember that not only the Negro benefitted but so also is the interest of every person in the country. As long as segregation was maintained, it more than suggested that there existed a second-class citizenship in the U. S.

Unfortunately, there still remains a second-class citizen. His status is not due to race or color or creed. These are fundamentally due to birth and environment and tradition. We are born of a certain race or color; we are born into a traditional creed, that has come down to us through our ancestors, remote and proximate.

But there is a citizen who is definitely second-class. He is that person who believes—and practices his belief most assiduously—that it is better to receive than to give; better to be served than to serve; better to "get his," never mind the spirit and methods involved in "the getting." A deep inner self-respect is missing in his life and he is completely unaware that such a spiritual void exists. He knows not what is meant by a fair day's pay for a fair day's work nor by a fair day's work for a fair day's pay.

The health of the country depends on moral and spiritual rectitude in all human relations. It might well be added that these second-class citizens are not harnessed to any legal ruling that holds them to a second-class level. Their condition is self-imposed, of their own volition. By their bigotry, blindness and selfishness they seek to feather their own nests at the expense of others. Their attitude insults the social sensitivity of every right-minded American.

Navy Recruiter Here Each Week

The Navy recruiting station in Uniontown, has announced that once again it will enlist young men who are high school graduates directly into one of the Navy's 54 trade schools upon completion of his recruit training.

All applicants for service schools under this program must pass mental and physical examinations prior to his being enlisted in one of the four ratings.

These ratings are: electronics field seaman recruit, high school hospital recruit, high school airman recruit, and high school seaman recruit. Applicants selecting to work in the aviation school will attend a service school at Memphis, Tenn.

During recruit training all applicants under this program will be tested and interviewed to determine which school he will be assigned. His choice will be the main factor in the school assigned. There is no waiting period for applicants applying under this program who can pass the mental and physical standards in the school of their choice.

Chief Petty Officer Paul E. Redmond, officer in charge of the recruiting station, Post Office building, Uniontown, states that all young men who are high school graduates should investigate a possible career under this program, which guarantees so much for so little. A Navy recruiter will be at the Post Office, Waynesburg, each Thursday from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., to enlist or discuss opportunities of life in the Navy with anyone that may be interested.

91,000 Killed by Accidents in 1954; Economic Loss Ten Billion Dollars

Accidents in the United States last year took a staggering toll, killing 91,000 persons and injuring 9,200,000. The estimated economic loss was nearly ten billion dollars.

The nation's number one accident killer, as in the last several years, was the motor vehicle.

The National Safety Council, which reported the various mishaps in 1954, said of the total killed in all types of accidents, 36,300 lost their lives in traffic. That was a reduction of five per cent from the 38,300 motor fatalities in 1953 and the lowest total since 1950. All-time record high was 39,969 in 1941.

In addition to the 36,300 fatalities on the highways last year, traffic accidents caused about 1,250,000 non-fatal injuries.

The 1954 overall accident death toll compared to 95,000 in 1953, a decrease of four per cent. The 1954 death rate for accidents of all types was 56.5 per 100,000 population. That was the lowest rate on record and 26 per cent under the 1941 rate.

However, the council said one out of every 17 persons in the United States suffered a disabling injury last year.

The estimated economic loss of $9,700,000,000 from mishaps in 1954 covered both fatal and non-fatal accidents. The total included wage losses, medical expense and overhead costs of insurance, production delays, damage to equipment in work mishaps and property damage from traffic accidents and fires.

Accidents in the home claimed the second largest number of lives, 28,000, which was an increase of 1,000 over 1953. The council, which said all figures are estimates, said another 16,000 persons lost their lives in public (no motor vehicles) accidents, the same number as in 1953, and 14,000 were killed in mishaps at work, a decrease.
