Jack Wiley Selected As Assistant Coach at Pitt

John W. Wiley, former star tackle with the Pittsburgh Steelers, who has been head football coach at Waynesburg College for the past three years, has resigned to become line coach at the University of Pittsburgh.

At Pitt John will be assistant to John Michelosen, a coach with the Steelers for whom Wiley played four years.

In the three years that Wiley has coached at Waynesburg his teams won 22 games, lost nine. Five of the defeats were at the hands of West Virginia, Kent State and Virginia Polytech, all schools of university class.

In 1952 and 1953, Wiley's teams were Class B co-champions of Western Pennsylvania and last season his team scored the first victory ever registered by a Yellow Jacket squad over Washington and Jefferson College.

Wiley is a graduate of Waynesburg College, being a standout player on teams coached by the late Frank Wolf. In addition to coaching he carries on an insurance business in Waynesburg which he will continue to maintain.

The youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Wiley of Richhill Township, he is one of four brothers who were varsity line-men at Waynesburg College.

At Richhill High, Jack played on the team coached by his father, Asa Wiley, and against Center Township High which was coached by another brother, the late Captain Robert Wiley, who was killed in World War II.

Shortly after graduation from college, he entered military service with K Company, 110th Regiment when the National Guard was recalled to active service. He received his commission at Fort Benning, Georgia, and served in this country until July 1946, when he was separated with the rank of captain.

Army to Bolster Atomic Force

The Army, in a move to strengthen its atomic striking force overseas, said it will send a sixth battalion of 280-millimeter cannon to Europe in the near future.

The unit is the 216th Field Artillery Battalion, now completing training at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. Like the other five already in Europe, it has six of the cannon capable of hurling both conventional and atomic ammunition up to 30 miles.

The Army halted manufacture of 280 MM cannon last year, saying its production needs for 1954 had been met. Officials hinted, however, that no more of the 85-ton artillery pieces would be made because it might be practicable to squeeze useful atomic loads into shells that could be fired by smaller, less costly and more flexible guns.

Attend Dinner for Senator Martin

Among those attending the dinner given recently in Washington, D. C., by alumni of Western Pennsylvania Colleges in honor of United States Senator Edward Martin, were:

Dr. Paul R. Stewart, president of Waynesburg College; Mrs. C. A. Weaver and Mrs. Thomas S. Crago of Waynesburg; Admiral Vane M. Hoge, Mrs. Clyde M. Howard, Mrs. Frank Olmstead, Mrs. Martha Knox Egge, Mrs. William D. Berryman and Mr. and Mrs. Byron Denny, all of Washington, D. C., formerly of Waynesburg, and Colonel and Mrs. Franklin Bell of Washington, D. C., formerly of Washington, Pa.

War Ruins Yield $20,000 in Silver

Hanau, Germany—United States Army bulldozers leveling war ruins here uncovered a hoard of silver articles valued at $5,000 marks ($2,200).

Nearly 850 pieces were unearthed by an engineer unit at the site of a bombed silversmith shop owned by Hanzler Erben. Erben was killed in an air raid December 6, 1944, which also demolished the shop. The silver was placed in a bank for safekeeping while authorities seek Erben's granddaughter and other living relatives.

Fine Dropped By State GOP Policy Group

Miles Horst, Republican state chairman, Friday dropped former Governor John S. Fine from the Republican State Executive Committee.

At the same time, Horst said Pennsylvania's two United States Senators, Edward Martin and James H. Duff, will remain part of a newly constituted 32-member committee.

In addition to Fine, 17 other top Republicans were replaced on the policy-making committee.

Horst has promised that the new unit will be "a working committee." The previous committee never had a meeting and this fact was pointed up when Samuel S. Lewis, Secretary of Forests and Waters in Fine's cabinet, commented:

"Dropped from the committee? I never even knew that I was on the committee."

In announcing the membership of the new committee, the state chairman said in a statement: "These Republicans from every section of Pennsylvania and every level of the Republican Party will work with me and other party leaders in rebuilding a stronger Republican Party than ever before."

Horst after the November 2 election defeat said new blood was needed to revitalize the GOP. Among newly appointed members are:

Representative Robert Kent, Meadville; Mrs. Jessie Vann, Pittsburgh; Samuel F. Bonavita, Warren; William K. Ujerich, Clearfield; Thomas E. Whitten, Pittsburgh, and Carl D. Butler, Hollidaysburg.

In addition to Fine these were among other Republicans dropped from the executive committee.

William Baird, Cambridge Springs; Samuel A. Breene, Oil City; Mrs. Adelaide Conly, Pittsburgh; Mrs. George R. Hemphill, Beaver Falls; Elder Marshall, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Helen M. Schluraff, Erie, and James F. Torrance of Export.

Service Pay Hike Urged

Secretary of Defense Wilson said Tuesday the inability of the armed services to keep more trained, capable men in uniform poses a grave and growing threat to United States military efficiency.

"We have been impressed for some time with the seriousness of the personnel problems in the armed forces, but lately we have seen an already critical situation get worse," Wilson told a House Armed Services Sub-committee.

Wilson and other top Pentagon officials appeared before the sub-committee, headed by Representative Kilday, Democrat, Texas, to support the Administration proposal for higher pay and allowances for career service personnel.

Oldest Eagle Scout, 79, Dies

Fair Haven, N. J.—Dr. Edwin F. Stewart, America's oldest Eagle Scout, died Saturday of a heart attack. He was 79.

Fair Haven police said he collapsed in the police station while delivering a health notice. Stewart was borough public health officer.

Stewart joined the Boy Scouts in 1910, the same year the organization was founded in this country.

Bill Introduced to Bring Turnpike Through County

Democrats Set July 23 Convention

Democratic leaders announced Tuesday they have decided provisionally to open their national convention in Chicago on July 23, next year. But Republicans are still debating a time and place for their session.

President Eisenhower met with his political lieutenants to discuss the question. Traditionally, the GOP nominates its presidential ticket before the Democrats and its last three conventions have been held in the same city.

Leonard W. Hall, Republican national chairman, reported after the White House meeting that Eisenhower expressed no preference among three cities contending for the 1956 GOP convention but favored as late a date as possible and a short campaign.

Democrats liked the idea of a late date and a short campaign, too, but they found it was impractical because some states require certification of presidential candidates 70 to 90 days before the November election.

If the election laws are changed in time, Democratic Chairman Paul M. Butler announced, his party will delay its nominating session until August 13. That was the date tentatively chosen earlier.

The Democrats will gather in Chicago's International Amphitheater, scene of both party conventions in 1952. M. E. Thayer, manager of the amphitheater, said the rent would be $6,500 a day.

Hall told reporters he is "going on the assumption" that Eisenhower will accept nomination for a second term, although he said there was no discussion of that during the meeting. The President has not committed himself one way or the other.

Cancer Society Plans Campaign

A meeting of the executive committee, campaign chairmen and volunteer workers of the American Cancer Society, Greene County Unit, will be held Friday evening, February 18, 1955, at 7:30 o'clock in the College Playhouse, North Morris street, Waynesburg.

The guest speaker will be Mr. L. F. Gerber, Executive Director, Pennsylvania Division of the American Cancer Society.

Those who have served five years as volunteer workers to the American Cancer Society, will be awarded certificates for such services at this meeting.

Valuable information concerning the campaign will be given out at this time. Light refreshments will be served. All are urged to attend.

Style Show At Carmichaels

A style show will be sponsored by the St. Hugh's Rosary Society in the social rooms of the church Monday night.

The theme is, "There's charm in every age. My lady can look nice regardless of age and size."

Both adults and children's models will be shown by Burger and Roth of Carmichaels, and the Velvet Room of Union Supply Company.

Chairmen are Mrs. Agnes Toth and Mrs. Emma Darney, and co-chairmen, Mrs. Eleanor Kragnak and Mrs. Antoinette Frascarelli.

Appeal Made for Overseas Clothing

Waynesburg Ministerium and the Greene County Ministerial Association have appealed for clothing to be sent to Korea and other needy nations, according to an announcement by Dr. Paul P. Holden, president of the local organization.

"The need for clothing of all kinds is too great to be described in a brief article such as this. But suffice to say—many thousands of human beings, with feelings just like yours and mine, are practically naked and destitute of the bare necessities of life," Dr. Holden said.

Please take all available contributions to the Jacobs Oil Products and Supply Company, 404 South Washington street, Waynesburg. The Church World Service truck will come for them Monday, March 7.

Greene County Planning Association for the Southwestern Turnpike

Assembled by Stephen McCann with the four assemblymen of Washington County, have introduced a bill to connect the turnpike to West Virginia through the two counties.

Speakers included Roy E. Furman, Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania, who was one of the original planners of the Pennsylvania Turnpike; Arthur J. Bray, publicity director of the Western Pennsylvania Regional Planning Association, and Assemblyman McCann.

Also, Roy Provost, secretary of the Washington Chamber of Commerce; President Paul R. Stewart of Waynesburg College, and James H. Ely, secretary of the Waynesburg Chamber of Commerce, which sponsored the meeting, spoke briefly.

Calvin Heasley, president of the Waynesburg Chamber, presided. Judge J. I. Hook was toastmaster and spoke briefly. The western connection is recommended because this area has a greater potential maximum tonnage; is about 25 miles shorter which would save at least $50,000,000 in construction, and the area contains 39 per cent of the state's population.

Mr. McCann warned that the measure will meet opposition since Westmoreland County also is striving to have the route go through its territory.

The West Virginia Turnpike Commission, Judge Hook said, "cannot overlook its Panhandle district, a 60-mile stretch of industrial area, from one to ten miles wide, and one of the greatest industrial areas in their state."

Lieutenant Governor Furman said the administration in Harrisburg is not committed to any specific route for a southwest toll road, but added that the administration is "definitely committed to building a superhighway from Erie south through a connecting link with the existing superhighway to a southern terminus with the West Virginia Turnpike."

He predicted that this legislation will probably be passed this year.

J. B. Aiken Heads Red Cross Gift Group

John B. Aiken, superintendent of the West Penn Power Company in Waynesburg, has accepted the chairmanship of the initial gifts committee for the 1955 Fund Drive of the Greene County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Announcement of his appointment was made by Judge J. I. Hook, general chairman for the annual campaign to raise funds with which to carry on the local and other work of the Red Cross.

Members of the initial gifts committee are:

Mountain Man Going on Stamp

Franconia, N. H.—The Old Man of the Mountain, whose great stone face has gazed for untold centuries from a cliff towering above Franconia Notch, in New Hampshire's White Mountains, soon will grace a postage stamp.

Word was received from Assistant Postmaster General Albert Robertson Friday that the stamp will commemorate the 150th anniversary, this year, of the discovery by white men of the gigantic profile.

Marine Corps Gets USS Henderson Bell

The ship's bell from the venerable transport USS Henderson—"Old Number One"—which carried Marines to France in World War I, was presented to the Marine Corps. At a ceremony Monday the bell was installed beside a flag pole in front of Henderson Hall, barracks of the headquarters battalion here.

William H. Sayers Heads County Bar

WILLIAM H. SAYERS

William H. Sayers of Waynesburg, was elected president of the Greene County Bar Association at the meeting Tuesday noon in the Fort Jackson Hotel.

R. Wallace Maxwell was named vice president; James Hook, secretary, and Floyd A. King, treasurer.

Mr. Sayers graduated from Waynesburg College in 1932, and from Dickerson Law School in 1939. He was admitted to practice before the Supreme Court January 25, 1943, in Philadelphia, and to the Greene County Bar April 21, 1947. He served three years in the South Pacific in Army Intelligence, separating with the rank of captain.

County Accredited In Bangs Tests

Modified accredited rating from Bangs disease has again been given to Greene County dairy and beef cattle herds, County Agent John D. Gopen has announced. Rating extends over a period of three years.

Veterinarians have just completed an eight months retesting campaign sponsored by the State Bureau of Animal Husbandry.

Throughout the entire county, positive reactions were found in only 14 of 23,199 head of cattle tested, for a .06 per cent.

The county percentage is far under that required to qualify for recertification as a modified accredited area.

The requirement is that a county must have less than five reactors in every 1,000 head of cattle tested.

Steers and heifers under six months are not tested.

Only five herds showed Bangs disease and 14 animals were retested after a quarantine was established. No animals can be sold until the disease has been stamped out in these herds.

The milk ring test was used for dairy herds.

Fire Damage Slight To Coal Bridge

Fire, which apparently started from a blow torch, smoldered for about an hour in a pile of the Mather Coal Company's high tressle from the Monongahela Railroad just below Stoney Point.

One tie was burned. Workmen had been using a torch to cut bolts from ties. The bridge is about 60 feet above Tenna Creek.

A fire plug at one end of the tressle was frozen and Jefferson Firemen had to use their tank and then go some distance to refill it.

Self Employed Must File for Benefits

Self-employed persons who plan to file claims for social security benefits in 1955 must submit a copy of Form Schedule C for their 1954 federal income tax return, Henry D. Harper, manager of the Washington, Pa., social security office points out.

Local Postmaster Held For Alleged Shortage

World War II K Company to Hold Reunion

World War II K Company, which suffered heavy combat losses in the Battle of the Bulge in 1944, will hold its ninth annual reunion Saturday at 6:30 in the Armory on North Washington street. Dinner will be served and later there will be a business session.

The company was called to active federal service on February 17, 1941. At that time, the unit's roster listed four officers and 111 enlisted men.

Eleven enlisted men of the company were killed in action during the war, 10 per cent of the enlisted strength. They were Peter Bradley, Encl Glover, Blair G. Kerr, Benjamin B. Kiger, Harry L. Lemley, Milford E. Matthews, James T. Maxon, James E. Monroe, Raymond F. (Sam) Morris, Earl E. (Davey) Rush and Robert C. Wiley, who was first sergeant of the company when it was federalized.

Two members, Elgie H. Baysinger and Lawrence S. Snyder, died in service of natural causes.

Three more company veterans have died since the war. They were John L. Burr of Washington, who was also a company member during World War I; Russell C. Carter of Waynesburg, who was killed in an automobile accident shortly after the war, and O. Ray Lemley of Sycamore, whose death occurred in Harrisburg August 14, 1954.

Captain Homer E. Stephens was company commander in 1941, and First Lieutenant James W. Hawkins, who later rose to post-war command of the 110th Regiment, was unit executive officer. Lieutenants S. E. Hartley of Mt. Morris, and Paul D. Hart of Carmichaels, were platoon leaders.

The unit trained at Indiantown Gap, and in North Carolina, Virginia and Louisiana before shipment overseas early in 1944, with the 28th Division, which earned its German designation, "Bloody Bucket" division, in hard fighting in Germany, France, Luxembourg and Belgium.

Field Director For Red Cross In Far East

Miss Mary Sanford McKahan of Waynesburg, who for 13 years has been a psychologist at the National Naval Medical Center in Bethesda, Md., will leave Thursday, February 17, to become a field director in Medical Social Service for the American Red Cross in the Far East.

Miss McKahan is a graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology. She will visit her sisters, Mrs. Clarence F. Long and Mrs. Guy Lytle in Sacramento, Calif., before leaving for Japan.

Truman Sees Peace or Doom

Former President Truman, urging the world work for the brotherhood of man, said recently, "If peace doesn't come, there will be no world left."

"We are facing the greatest age in history. We must meet it. All we need to do is meet the situation with which we are faced, and we should meet it on the principles of the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man."

"You are listening to one who knows what he is talking about and I say that advisedly." Truman, later in his speech, said he had reference to the use of atomic energy. He was the main speaker at a testimonial dinner honoring the Rev. Dr. Harold L. Reader, a fellow 33rd degree Scottish Rite Mason.

DeMille to Design Air Academy Garb

Cecil B. deMille, Hollywood producer and director, will design the student uniforms to be worn at the new Air Force Academy near Colorado Springs, Lieutenant General Hubert R. Harmon, academy superintendent, said.

General Harmon told the annual Aurora Chamber of Commerce banquet "our men will be the best dressed and sharpest-looking men ever to be in the uniform of United States military service."

Federal investigation of Waynesburg Postoffice is being made by inspectors after Postmaster William R. Cumpston was charged Thursday with allegedly making a false entry in his account and cash book.

He was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Edward Snodgrass in Pittsburgh, and was released under $1,000 bond.

On February 5, inspectors found a cash shortage of $4,000, in the audit and the postmaster was charged with false entry.

On arraignment Mr. Cumpston stated he admitted the shortage. Inspectors stated the amount had apparently been taken over a period of at least a year.

Complete investigation of records is now underway. Mr. Cumpston has been postmaster 13 years, succeeding A. L. Moredock. Ernest O. Clayton was placed in charge of the postoffice pending final outcome of the federal inspectors' investigation.

C. of C. Attacks Jobless Pay Plans

The State Chamber of Commerce has attacked the administration's unemployment compensation bill as a threat to Pennsylvania's industrial economy.

In the first broadside shot at the administration measure the chamber said employers would pay $170,000,000 this year in jobless taxes instead of an estimated $140,000,000 if the bill becomes law.

The organization, which represents the bulk of employers in the state, in an open letter to Governor George M. Leader, declared:

"We estimate, quite conservatively, that your proposed benefit increases ($5 a week) would drain an additional $40,000,000 or more per year out of the U. C. fund at the current claim load.

"Such wholesale increases in benefits would undermine the experience rating system by forcing employers to pay permanently higher tax rates and ultimately a uniform 2.7 has been depressed below $250,000,000. This is the very thing the pending bill seeks to avoid.

"Employers both within and outside Pennsylvania will be quick to recognize this threat and to shape their expansion plans accordingly."

The chamber said that pensioners were drawing unemployment compensation checks which it said was only one of a number of loopholes through which millions of dollars were drained from the fund.

Retention of the current employer tax table was urged by the organization which estimated current contributions to the fund would total $140,000,000 this year.

Action should be delayed on all other proposed changes "until a thorough and careful study has been made."

Among suggestions advanced by the chamber were: That all claimants be required to be actively seeking work; repeal of the "over-generous 1953 amendment" of computing eligibility for partially employed; amend the law so that bona fide strikes shall not be labelled lock-outs and limiting "good cause" for leaving work.

Holy Family Church Dedicated Last Week

Bishop John F. Dearden of the Pittsburgh Catholic Diocese, celebrated the first mass in the new Holy Family Church at Greensboro Wednesday, last.

More than 50 priests were in attendance.

Bishop Dearden praised the pastor, Father Louis Minewiser, and the 248 families of the parish.

He declared:

"You have constructed a beautiful house of worship. Celebration of this, the first mass, climaxes a lot of hard work and effort. It transforms what has been just a large building into a church."

Mass was first offered at Greensboro in April 1938, but it was not until February 2, 1941, that it was offered every Sunday. The Vox Theater was used until the basement of the new church was completed and placed last December.

Rev. Andrew Schneider, a former pastor, preached the dedication sermon. He is now pastor of St. James Church at Apollo.

The Pioneer History of Greene County, Penna.

By L. K. EVANS

After Mr. Corbly had married Miss Tyler he settled on an improvement, now the estate of Mr. John Long, and the "humble parsonage" was located about on the site of Mr. Long's present residence. Here they lived in peace and contentment for a number of years, multiplying and replenishing the earth till a family of eight little responsibilities surrounded the family altar. It may be proper to narrate for the benefit of such as are not acquainted with the situation, that Mr. Corbly's house was located in the valley of a run which puts into Big Whiteley Creek from the north side, just east of the village of Garards Fort, and about a half mile from the creek. It was about a half mile from the church and nearly a mile from the fort.

On the south side of the creek and just opposite the mouth of the valley in which Mr. Corbly's family resided is an abrupt elevation of great height. From this lofty eminence a distinct view can be had not only up the valley of Long's Run, but over the entire scope of beautiful table land surrounding the location of the fort. It is one of God's own observatories and might well be denominated Point Lookout.

As there is a great deal of misapprehension as to the exact locality of the historic spot upon which Garards Fort actually stood, I will remark that it was not on the generally supposed site, the bluff in Honorable Jonathan Garard's meadows above the road as we go down the creek just beyond the barn. I believe there are some decayed remnants of an old stable sticking out of the ground in view from the road, from sight of which travelers jump to the conclusion that they are relics of the fort. But this is all a delusion. The actual site of that old fortification is about one-eighth of a mile in the rear of Judge Garard's residence, and if I remember correctly, in rather a northeasterly direction therefrom. There on a delightful plateau, in the center of a beautiful and picturesque valley which widens out just there into respectable proportion, an acre or two of land were enclosed with a system of cabins stockaded and palisaded after the most approved plan of fortifications of the day. Mr. Corbly's two daughters by his first wife were married, and I am led to conclude, were dwelling with their husbands within the fort, and I presume Priscilla, a daughter by his second wife, was sojourning with them.

It is sabbath morning—a calm and beautiful and balmy 10th of May, 1782. The Rev. John Corbly and his family are at their morning devotions—the fort people are performing their ablutions and preparing for divine service, as preaching is to be within the fort that day. A party of Indians are on the summit of Point Lookout eagerly peering into the door of Rev. Corbly's humble cabin, and intently spying into the military status of the fort. The hour appointed for worship is close at hand. Margaret is out at the fort milk house preparing a repast for her little ones prior to the commencement of the hour of devotion. The Rev. John Corbly and his entire family leave their home for the place of prayer. The savages, gloating over the opportunity to slake their thirst for blood, with bated breath and muffled steps, hurry down the eastern declivity of that lofty height into the deep gulch near Dr. Denny's residence. They hastily cross the creek and cautiously file up the little ravine past John Corbly Wright's present premises toward the site of the old grave yard.

Meanwhile Mrs. Corbly discovers that the bible entrusted to her care had been left behind, and her husband returns and procures it. He follows on, meditating as he goes upon the gospel truths he expects soon to expound. Suddenly a shriek is heard that startles both the husband in the rear and Margaret at the fort. The Indians have intercepted the innocent and unprotected family, and the mother has screamed for help. Mr. Corbly is unarmed, but he runs with great violence for the scene of death, vainly looking for a club. His wife sees him approaching and beseeches him to escape. An Indian made after him with a gun and seeing the odds too great he turned and fled, and meeting a friend on horse back got up behind him and escaped to the fort, hoping that his wife and children might be taken prisoners and yet be retrieved. But a very few moments dispelled this hope. For a company at once proceeding to the fatal spot found that Nancy, the babe, had been torn from its mother's bosom, its brains dashed out against a tree, and its tender scalp rudely torn off. The mother was found reclining against the root of the tree breathing her last. She had been literally chopped to pieces with the tomahawk in order to free the infant from her grasp, and yet she had to be shot down by the Indian who returned from the pursuit of Mr. Corbly before she fell. A little boy six years old, whose name was Isalah, next became the victim of these merciless wretches. Then Mary Ann and Katherine, two and four years old, were killed and scalped. And now little Elizabeth has all her hair and a part of the skull ruthlessly torn from her head and was left for dead. John, a lad of eleven years, had been overtaken by an Indian but just as the savage reached for him, John's faithful dog interposed and he escaped. Delilah, the oldest daughter, had, unobserved, concealed herself in the hollow of a fallen tree and from her hiding place had witnessed all the horrid scene. Eager to render assistance to her unfortunate kinsfolk, and thinking the savages all departed she ventured out, but, alas! too soon, for a lurking savage observing her, cleft her down and added her scalp to those already taken. Thus terminated a brutal butchery, which, viewed in all its bearings, is unsurpassed in enormity by any in the annals of border life, and one that is monumental of Garards Fort for all time to come. It is not an incident of traditional fame merely, but is one that has long since passed into history and is as familiar to the readers of the States as almost any other historic event.

Mr. Corbly accompanied the party that hastened to the dread scene of the awful carnage. When he beheld the desolating spectacle, hope vanished and he became the victim of a temporary despair. His soul sickened within him and he fainted and fell as one dead. But by the kind nursing of sympathizing friends he again revived and was soon animated and cheered at the prospect that a portion of his family might yet survive. Two of his daughters, Elizabeth and Delilah, gave signs of returning life, and little Isalah, the father's pet was found to be yet breathing.

Persons are yet living who remember of hearing Margaret, ("Aunt Peggy") his oldest daughter, describe the scene as witnessed by her, when the killed and mangled were borne from the place of slaughter to the fort. She said it seems but an incredible short space from the time she heard her step-mother scream that the Indians were killing her, until one of the fort people came riding in great haste carrying the murdered woman dangling across the withers of the horse. The skirt of the dress, which was a black silk one, had been cut off close to the waist, and she was frightfully mangled and besmeared with gore, presenting a spectacle more ghastly than language can portray. A few minutes later, others of the party came bearing the four little ones dead and dying and suffering—a scene of horror and beggaring description.

Special 'Drop Out' Provision Means Higher Social Security Payments

"The drop-out of years of low or no earnings in figuring benefits is an entirely new provision in the social security law brought about by the 1954 amendments enacted by Congress," Henry D. Harper, Manager of the Washington District Office declares.

In general, anyone who has at least six quarters of coverage acquired at any time after June 30, 1953, can eliminate up to four calendar years of low or no earnings in computing his average monthly wage. And if a worker had at least 20 quarters (five calendar years) of coverage at any time in addition to meeting the above requirements, he could drop another calendar year of low or no earnings. The four or five year drop-out will be used in all cases where the omission of low or no earning years in the calculation will increase the worker's average monthly wage on which benefit payments are based. One year is the minimum drop-out allowed under the law.

In the case of those people who are first under social security beginning January 1, 1955, the years between 1951 and 1955 will not be counted when the time comes for the computation of their benefits. A period of one and a half years of covered work acquired at any time after June 1953, is required for any worker to take the advantage of the drop-out.

"The drop-out," Harper says, "will be used in computing their benefit amounts when a worker becomes eligible for old age payments or when his survivors become eligible for monthly insurance payments."

If you desire more information as to the various methods of calculating benefits, you are urged to visit your local district office at 180 South Main street, Washington, Pennsylvania.

Enlistments Set Post-Korea Record

—Washington—

The military services got more than 60,000 voluntary enlistments in January, the largest number to join up in any month since the end of the Korean War.

Preliminary enlistment figures made available by the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps showed a total of 60,339 against a January 1954 total of 38,392, and a figure of 22,383 for December.

New Vice President Of New York Gas Co.

EDWARD C. INGRAM

Edward C. Inghram of Park Manor, Library, has been elected vice president of New York State Natural Gas Corporation, a Pittsburgh-based firm having extensive natural gas installations throughout Pennsylvania and New York.

Mr. Inghram, who is well known throughout the gas industry in Pennsylvania and New York, will continue his duties as general superintendent of the corporation.

A native of Burgettstown, and a former resident of Waynesburg and Greensburg, he began his over 23-year term of service with New York State Natural in the firm's Tioga District where he was promoted to District Superintendent in 1938.

In 1946, Mr. Inghram was made assistant superintendent of production and storage for Peoples Natural Gas Company, sister company of New York State Natural, and, in 1952, he was elected general superintendent of New York State Natural.

Mr. Inghram supervised beginning work on the Oakford Storage pool, a joint development of New York State Natural and Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation, located near Delmont. He has also had a prominent role in the corporation's extensive drilling activities in northern Pennsylvania.

In his early teens, Mr. Inghram was associated with his father, the late David Inghram, in independent drilling and contracting projects in the Greene County gas fields. His father was, for many years, drilling superintendent for Peoples Natural Gas Company in Greene and Washington Counties, and was a prominent figure in the gas industry in this area.

As one of the youngest drillers in the Greene-Washington Counties area, Mr. Inghram was among the first of a group of southwestern Pennsylvanians sent to Lawrenceville, in the northern part of Pennsylvania, to help develop that field when it was discovered.

His wife, the former Eliza Alley, is also a former resident of Waynesburg.

EAGLES' ROOST—ninety minutes from the North Pole!

TEXAS EASTERN SERVES THE COMPANIES THAT SERVE YOU
A production line scene in Ingersoll-Rand's greatly diversified plant at Phillipsburg, New Jersey. Natural gas for this huge plant is supplied by City Gas Company of New Jersey, a customer of Texas Eastern.

You can sleep quietly tonight because at Thule your Air Force is awake. This giant new base in Greenland is a 90-minute jet flight from the Pole. In winter, night is four-months long... ice in the harbor is eight feet thick... and outdoor machinery is run 'round the clock to keep it from freezing solid. It's tough duty for men and machines. Vital parts of the 30 Ingersoll-Rand diesel-generator units that produce electric power for the base were heat treated for toughness in natural gas-fired furnaces. Why natural gas? Because it develops uniform heat... can be exactly controlled... and does the job economically.

TEXAS EASTERN
Transmission Corporation
A LOCAL CITIZEN SERVING THE NATION
SHREVEPORT, LOUISIANA

Through a pipeline system of more than 4500 miles Texas Eastern transports natural gas from the Southwest to serve homes and industries of the Midwestern, Appalachian and Eastern areas.

Infrared Brooders Help Farmers Obtain Economies in Production

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

INFRARED BROODING — keeps chicks in view; reduces mortality rate.

Labor Saving Features—no floor-type brooders to service; electricity provides light as well as radiant heat; the latter is absorbed by chicks for maximum comfort; feed and water containers are quickly and easily refilled; water will not freeze in heated areas; chicks always are in full view so abnormalities may be detected instantly and those affected culled without delay; infrared brooders keep little dry and comfortable, so replacement is necessary less frequently.

Profit Features—lower mortality rate; weaker chicks can bask in the warmer areas and stronger chicks are on the edges of the heat pattern, thus giving the weaker chicks a better than average chance of survival; infrared heat promotes healthier growth through faster feathering and stimulation of appetites; pullets usually begin laying two to three weeks earlier than those brooded by other methods; and birds are ready for market earlier when prices are normally higher than at other times.

Infrared brooders are available in single, three, four and six-lamp types. They are provided with convenient means for suspension and are factory wired, including cord and plug. The brooders may be purchased with or without automatic controls, as well as with or without guards to protect lamps against accidental impact.

Single lamp brooders will accommodate from 80 to 100 chicks; three-lamp types, 250 chicks; four-lamp brooders, 300 to 350 chicks, and six lamp brooders, 500 chicks. Costs of operation vary, but run from 1 1/2 to 2 cents per chick over the brooding period.

ers and poultry specialists have found that the use of this modern method shows an appreciable saving in labor, plus a substantial reduction in chick mortality. They base their calculations on the following important factors:

they will take spring training. Both are under contract with the Brooklyn Dodgers club.

FATHER CHARLES A. THOMAS
Pastor of St. Hugh's Parish

Bishop Dearden Will Dedicate Edifice Saturday

The Most Reverend John Francis Dearden, S. T. D., Bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Pittsburgh, will give the blessing and dedication of St. Hugh's Catholic Church at Carmichaels Saturday morning and will celebrate pontifical high mass at 11 o'clock.

Father Charles A. Thomas is pastor of St. Hugh's parish, which is the largest in Greene County.

Lunch will be served following mass to the bishop, church dignitaries, Father Thomas' family and invited guests.

Father Thomas was appointed to St. Hugh's Parish June 26, 1952. He had formerly been assistant pastor at St. Coleman's Church in Turtle Creek, and on September 23, 1952, was named first pastor of St. Hugh's.

The church had formerly been a mission under Our Lady of Consolation in Nemacolin of which Father Paul J. Simko was pastor.

Groundbreaking for the church, which is of colonial architecture, was begun May 23, 1954, and the corner stone was laid September 26 of that year.

The building is 101 feet long and has a seating capacity of 435.

Attorney Thomas R. Balaban of Waynesburg, will be the speaker at the banquet in celebration of the dedication Saturday night at Kesock's Hotel at 6:30 o'clock. Father Thomas will also speak.

There will be dancing from 8:30 to midnight.

Reservations for the banquet may be made by calling Carmichaels 3426 or 4444. Dancing is open to the public.

John E. Siko, past president of St. Hugh's Holy Name Society, will be toastmaster.

Committees in charge of the dedication include:

Ushers—John Blasko, chairman; Joseph Bernot, Matthew Brnusak, Steve Vargo, Joseph Kairush, and Robert Brown.

Escorts—Andrew Smell, chairman; Ben Lipniskis, Andrew Savanik, Jr., Regis Siko, Edward Smell, Louis Pasceuzzio, Paul Morris, Jr., Thomas Doty, and Michael Kovach.

Pre-Packaged Cherry Vanilla Tops As February Ice Cream

Come February and we take a bow to George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. In honor of our first president and his fabled cherry tree, the ice cream industry has designated cherry-vanilla as the ice cream flavor of the month.

Cherry-vanilla was introduced some 20 years ago in Philadelphia and has since become a national choice, ranking close behind vanilla and chocolate during its big February promotion. Specially developed Oregon cherries help make it bright and flavorful.

You'll find it handy and economically pre-packaged in pints and half-gallons and available at self-service cabinets in grocery and drug stores. Pre-packaged ice cream now outsells bulk and the grocery store is the leading purchase point.

Favorite cookies cut in hatchet shapes and frosted pink make an appropriate George Washington trim to a luscious dish of cherry-vanilla ice cream. Because of its rosy coloring, cherry-vanilla would make a hit on the Valentine menu, too, with the cookies going heart-shaped.

Talks On Birds In the County

Ralph K. Bell of Jefferson R. D., a member of the Audubon Society, spoke on "Useful Birds" at the Polly Wayne Garden Club in the home of Mrs. Norval R. Daugherty of West Wayne street, Thursday.

Mr. Bell stated that despite the fact that starlings are a nuisance in the eastern part of this country, yet they have been valuable in controlling the Japanese beetle.

He stated he had banded 53 species of birds in the county and described some of the little known kinds.

Mrs. Sylvia Minor, president, was in charge of the meeting. A memorial was conducted by Miss Lena Hawkins for Mrs. John McCurdy and Mrs. James McCracken.

The hostesses, Mrs. H. E. Milliken and Mrs. O. N. Gump, served tea.

Governor Proclaims History Month

Governor George M. Leader has designated this month as American History Month. This decision was made in compliance with a resolution addressed to the chief executive by the annual state conference of the Pennsylvania State Society, Daughters of the American Revolution.

The text of the Governor's statement is as follows:

"The greatness of a nation's part should be a part of the living presence of every child who embodies the hopes of a nation's future. Our children should be imbued with the tremendous inspiration and spiritual strength the saga of American freedom can bring to those who really know the sweep and majesty of our national history.

"Our age needs our citizens rooted deep in the meaning of America for human liberty and dignity. The democratic process is under challenge from totalitarian tyranny armed with might and the world-embracing instruments of mass propaganda. Supplied with a consciousness of the facts and not the fantasies of what this Nation has meant for the aspirations of the oppressed throughout the globe, certainly the school children of America as well as our mature citizens shall choose liberty to the twentieth century form of human enslavement.

"I am happy to designate February 1955 as American History Month, and hope that all the educational and community agencies of the Commonwealth will appropriately work to fulfill its laudable goals. May I commend the Pennsylvania State Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution for their arduous efforts to advance a deeper appreciation of what American history means to make liberty itself more understandable in the lives of every one of us."

Kostelanetz With Symphony

ANDRE KOSTELANETZ

Andre Kostelanetz, a man whose name in music is as familiar to the devotees of Gershwin, Kern and Cole Porter as it is to the lovers of classical music, will be the first guest conductor of the current Pittsburgh Symphony season this Friday night and Sunday afternoon at Syria Mosque. In addition to these two regular subscription concerts, he will also conduct a special concert on Saturday night, which has been designated as "Railroad Night," since most of the seats for this concert have been subscribed for by employees of the railroads serving Pittsburgh, although some seats are still available to the public.

The orchestra will be playing its first concert after returning from its annual tour, which again included a concert at New York's famed Carnegie Hall. William Steinberg, the regular conductor, has taken a six weeks' leave of absence to accept engagements to conduct great orchestras of Europe.

The program for the Friday and Sunday concerts will include the Overture, "Roman Carnival," by Berlioz; Copland's "A Lincoln Portrait," with Lawrence Lee, well known University of Pittsburgh professor, as narrator; Ravel's "Daphnis and Chloe," Suite No. 2, the Concerto No. 4, in d minor, for violin and orchestra by Vieuxtemps, with concertmaster Samuel Thaviu as soloist, and Ferde Grofe's "Grand Canyon Suite." The same program will be given on Saturday night with the exception of the violin concerto, which will be replaced by music from Jerome Kern's "Showboat," and Ernest Toch's "Circus Overture."

The more than 25,000,000 Kostelanetz records that have been pressed and sold bear testimony to his unique position in American music. He is the only conductor who is equally recognized in the three fields of classical, semi-classical and popular music. He is almost always greeted by packed houses wherever he goes. Just last summer, at Chicago's Grant Park, he conducted two concerts which drew an unprecedented 125,000 people. His special Saturday night concerts at New York's Carnegie Hall have broken all attendance records, and he has enjoyed equal success as guest conductor of many of the leading symphony orchestras, both in this country and abroad. In fact, Kostelanetz has become somewhat of a legend on the American musical scene.

Samuel Thaviu, the orchestra's concertmaster for nine years, will be featured as soloist in the Vieuxtemps Violin Concerto. Mr. Thaviu was born in Chicago, and in 1931, won the National Federation of Music Clubs contest, and later a scholarship at the Juillard Foundation for a three-year period.

Dr. D. D. Haines, Charleroi Physician, Still Active in Practice at 90 Years

Apparently being born at Kirby, Greene County, leads to longevity of physicians.

Dr. D. D. Haines of Charleroi, was born at Kirby, February 16, 1865, and on his birthday anniversary is still practicing as is also his good friend, Dr. L. S. McNeely, 94 years, oldest practicing physician in the state.

He attended Waynesburg College two years, and graduated from Western Medical College, now the University of Pittsburgh Medical School, in 1903. Dr. Haines aided in the fight against smallpox which was raging in Pittsburgh at that time.

Dr. Haines practiced in Allentown 20 years, and has since been in Charleroi.

He married Similda Headley of Perry Township. They have two children, D. Clyde Haines of Pine Bank, and Mrs. Ethel Blanche Bowers of Charleroi.

Gettysburg Battle Celebration Planned

Senator Donald P. McPherson, Jr., Republican, Adams County, asked Legislature approval for a $25,000 state appropriation to get plans under way for commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg in 1963. McPherson said he is making his bid early in order to have Pennsylvania prepared to enlist other states in the celebration.

New York Bans Children's Arrows

Mayor Robert F. Wagner has signed into a law a measure banning the sale of hunting arrows to children under 16 years old.

He said that the "indiscriminate use of arrows by children has caused tragedy to other children and is a potential source of danger."

Maple Matmen Twice Victors

Mapletown High School's mat squad added two more victories to their record for the season last week as they defeated Charleroi High 30-15 and the grapplers of Claysville High 31-18.

The Maple Leafs scored victories in seven of the 12 bouts to easily dispose of the Cougars. Biggest surprise of the match was the defeat of Ben Cree, undefeated 154-pounder for the Maple Leafs, who was pinned in his bout.

Mapletown copped seven bouts, three of them on falls, to rack up their win over Claysville.

Scoring falls for the Maple Leafs were Harold Black, 165, George Lewis, 185, and Bill Molek, 88.

Earl Hancher scored his eighth fall of the season in the 95-pound class for the losers. Sam McKee, 133, scored the other fall registered by Claysville.

Fifty-Year History of Greene County Sports

By GEORGE N. THOMAS

GREENE COUNTY TENNIS

Aside from periodic departures into collegiate and scholastic ranks, tennis never really strayed from the community game it was in Greene County.

The impetus given tennis in the mid-1890s by John Gwynne, Dr. John Laidley and the Rev. W. H. Hudson, was a community touch that never was lost.

When Waynesburg College periodically came up with an exceptionally fine squad and when the one memorable tennis team made history at Waynesburg High, they were results of community talent in another guise with an educational banner.

While collegiate and scholastic students stipulated tennis labeling it a "minor sport" or no sport at all, communities encouraged young men and women to take up the racket.

They emphasized the lack of body contact, least strain, and benefit of fresh air and sunshine without combatting elements.

And a good many youngsters took up the sport in spring and summer when other sports didn't attract them.

Churches sometimes sponsored junior teams. One of their best years was in 1921, two years before the college had its first court.

By the late 1920s, an annual juvenile tennis tourney was being successfully staged in Waynesburg with various coaches and physical education instructors in charge.

In 1929, for instance, with Jefferson Coach Walter Montgomery playground director, William Dembo beat Dave Garrison, Jr., for the championship.

Crowds increased in size as these events grew in magnitude. One of the best tourneys was in 1932 when Clarence Roberts won the singles title from Bill McKay, and Henry Dembo and Victor DeWeese beat Jim Craft and Bill McKay in the doubles.

Lewis Sayers and Wallace Maxwell, who sponsored the tourney, presented gold watchfob tennis racquets.

The next year, Washington and Greene County players agreed to a two-county tourney in Waynesburg.

The Greene Countians were fresh out of extraordinary talent that spring and Bill Thompson, lanky star of the W. & J. team, defeated a Washington Tennis Club player, Jim Taylor (former University of Illinois player) for the amateur title.

Later in the summer, a star was born in the county when Andy Waychoff of the college team, rapped out the amateur singles championship from John Baily, then a Pitt law student.

In the tennis world, Andy would have been the Man of the Year in 1934. Not only did he win the Greene-Washington County tourney by beating a relative, Roy Waychoff, but he won numerous other events including the Municipal Tourney (defeating McKay who was growing up and improving).

Besides McKay, Andy had to get by Clarence Roberts and Bill Kyle, who were mighty rough competitors. But the sweater prize went to Andy.

Although McKay had considerable difficulty winning community events, he went great guns in college. He became number one man almost immediately, and Orange and Black teams were built around him by his best admirer, Coach Leslie Brock.

About this same time, the Greene County Country Club staged tourneys of its own.

Bill Dembo dominated those eliminations, keeping the cup so long he could have owned it. He won it from J. C. Deigman in 1937 in interesting sets.

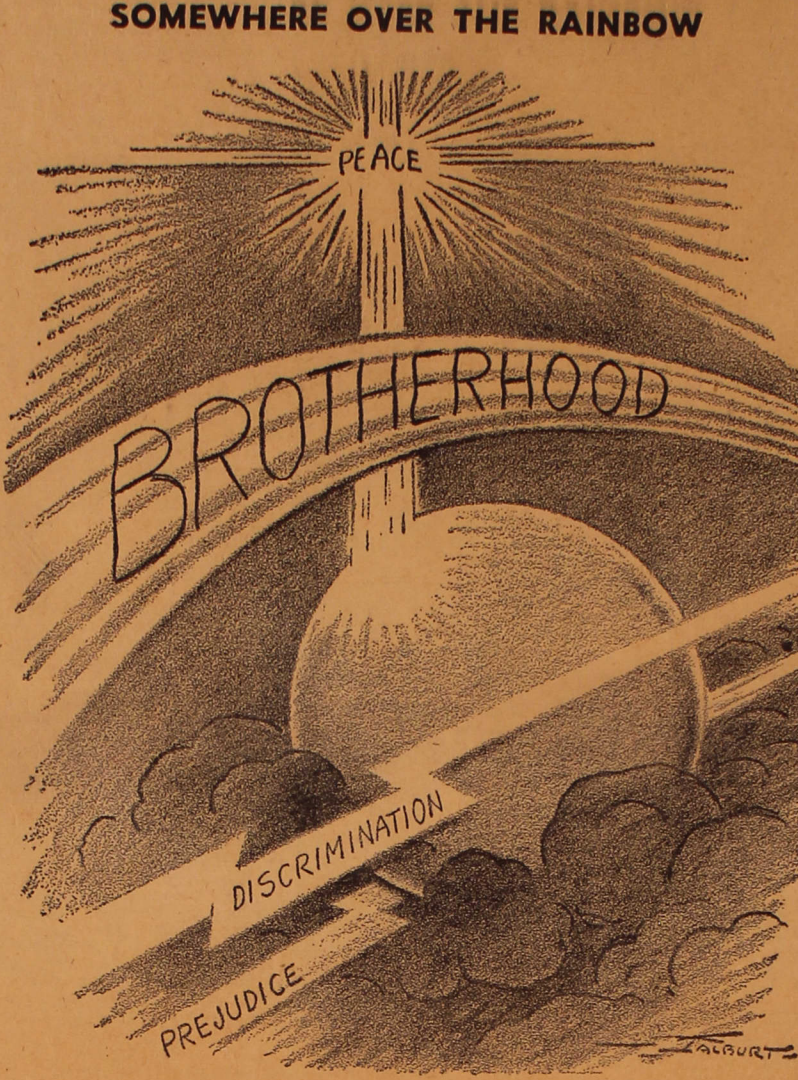

The same summer, John Ingraham won the county junior title by edging Jerry Debolt.

And so it went, community-sponsored tennis made excellent gains when it was properly conducted and it provided ready-action players for high school and college.

Tennis is too fine and artistic game to learn in those brief years in school. The stars begin early, gain ability not through listening, reading or watching it. They have to play, the experience is what counts.

County high schools never have emphasized tennis enough and as a result, have not reaped any sort of lucrative harvest.

Waynesburg College has, however, to some degree benefitted from time to time.

BROTHERHOOD WEEK
February 20-27
Sponsored by The National Conference of Christians and Jews

Legion Post Holds Banquet For Gridders

Coach Steve Bootz and his Mt. Morris High School football squad were honored at a community banquet last week. Hosts for the affair was James T. Maxon Post No. 992, American Legion, and Auxiliary.

The welcome address was delivered by Post Commander Dale Kennedy, former coach of the Black Hawks.

Given special recognition were five senior players and a graduating manager. Those awarded letter sweaters were Wesley Morris, Ray Kern, Robert Poling, Vic Phillips and George Hendershot, and Manager James Sollars.

Wesley Morris, team captain, presented a gift from members of the squad to Coach Bootz.

Glenn R. Toothman, Waynesburg attorney was the principal speaker and stressed the good citizenship potential and virtues derived from gridiron loyalty and spirit of competition.

Others introduced by Assemblyman Stephen McCann, who was toastmaster, were Stidger Lohr, high school principal; Dr. James Brooks, team physician; Dr. Lindsay S. McNeely of Kirby, and Mrs. Fehr S. McCall and Mrs. Brenda M. Donley, high school teachers.

The invocation was offered by Orville Pyle, post chaplain, and Rev. Paul J. Shimko pronounced benediction.

Red Raider Matmen Score Victories Over Canonsburg and Chartiers High

Coach Frank Bonifield's Waynesburg High School mat squad continues to show improvement as they added Canonsburg and Chartiers High Schools to their list of victims for this season. The Red Raiders downed the Gunners 27-22 and topped the Bucs 30-15.

Waynesburg rolled up an early 24-8 lead in their dual meet with Canonsburg to gain the victory over the Gunners.

The Red Raider matmen got three pins, two decisions and a draw in the first eight bouts and that start withstood two pins and a decision by the Gunners in the final bouts.

Waynesburg copped seven of the 12 bouts, three of them on falls by Rattigan, 185; Wernicke, 133, and Barclay, 127, in their win over Chartiers.

Chartiers started off the evening by taking the first three bouts, were stopped in the 112-pound tussle, but picked up two more points in the 120-pound bout which ended in a draw. They then were shut out until the 154-pound clash which they won on a decision.

Bentleyville Five Trips Maple Leafs

Outscoring the Mapletown High five in every period but the second, Bentleyville High School's cage crew scored an easy 76-43 victory over the Maple Leafs in a WPIAL Section 18 contest last week.

Mapletown gave Bentleyville a stiff argument in the first half and trailed only 29-20 at intermission. However, the Bears, led by Fran Kondrad, who tallied 29 points to nail down scoring honors for the night, increased their lead by 11 points in the third period and made it ever more convincing in the final stanza.

Score by periods:

Bentleyville	16	13	21	26	76
Mapletown	7	13	10	13	43

Mike Quintet Tops West Bethlehem

Building up a commanding first half lead, the Carmichaels High School cagers scored a convincing 88-41 win over the cagers of West Beth High in a WPIAL Section 18 game last week.

Outstanding about the Carmichaels victory was that Jim Walters again made things miserable for West Beth. When the two teams first met this year, Walters set a WPIAL scoring record of 60 points, and in last week's game he added 39 for a total of 99 in the two games against the same team.

Steubenville and Alliance Cagers Both Defeat Yellow Jackets Last Week

Steubenville and Alliance College fives handed the cagers of Waynesburg College defeats last week, the former winning 88-53, and the latter 84-70.

Steubenville got the advantage early in the game and added to their margin as the game progressed, having a commanding 48-23 edge at the half way point.

Bob Brownlee and Jim Smith were top men in the scoring parade for the winners, netting 16 and 19 points respectively.

High scorers for the Yellow Jackets were Bob Kelly with 14, and Rallie Moore, who flipped in 11 points.

A brief rally late in the game by the Yellow Jackets wasn't enough to narrow the gap on Alliance in their game at the local gym.

The Jackets crept to within a few points of the winners late in the second half but the visitors strengthened their defense and regained control of the contest.

Cy Kallislak and Stan Czenis led the scoring for Alliance with 18 and 19 points respectively.

Red Raider Five Defeated Twice

Waynesburg High School's cage crew dropped two WPIAL Section 4 contests last week, bowing to the Gunners of Canonsburg High 58-39, and to Burgettstown High 53-38.

Canonsburg turned the heat on Waynesburg in the second half to account for the victory after leading the Red Raiders by a slim 18-13 edge at the half. John Arcuri and Donaldson paced the Gunners with 20 and 16 points respectively.

Chuck Friday did the best scoring of the night as he dunked in 29 points to lead Burgettstown to its victory over Waynesburg. The Raider's attack was lead by Chastain, who collected 14 points.

Score by periods:

Canonsburg	10	8	18	22	58
Waynesburg	4	9	6	20	39

Taking Hurry Out Of the Bloodstream

By DEAN N. R. HIGH MOOR

Hurry, poisons and depletes the body, mind and spirit. It constitutes a real threat to any hope of emotional balance; any attempt at mental tranquility.

I had pictured myself relaxing in a deck-chair with old Sol streaming down upon my tired corpus. Around me would lie the vast stretches of blue water, extending as far as the eye could see, in every direction.

But I found that I was travelling on a ship whose owners were obsessed with the idea of maintaining a fast schedule.

"Here endeth the Lesson," that we hear announced by the parson as he closes the Good Book following a selected reading at a Sunday morning service.

"No hurry" should be a motto hung in the forefront of one's mind; on the walls in every home; and on the front and back of every office door.

If this motto became an attitude, how much we would see that we had been missing! How peaceful would be the nights and sane the days!

Then, too, one might be saved from being run over by the rush of traffic. This would, at least, tend to lower the rate of accident insurance.

Bayard, Paul, Ivor and Randolph, all at home, and three nieces, Mrs. Lillian Denney Rex of Carmichaels, and Mabel D. Grimes and Ethel Denney, both of Clarksville R. D. 1.
