Republicans Vote for State Reorganization Bill

Harrisburg—Ten Republicans joined an "end obstructionism" move Tuesday to help Senate Democrats pass Governor George M. Leader's government reorganization bill by a vote of 34 to 14.

The measure now goes back to the House where the Democratic majority is expected to concur next Monday in Senate amendments, unless Governor Leader should propose further changes in the language—not the intent—of the bill.

Henry Leader, the governor's legislative liaison officer, said that he believes the measure is acceptable as it stands.

Meanwhile the House of Representatives put off until next Monday a vote on the governor's companion bill to create a 12-man "Little Hoover Commission" that will have the job of formulating the governmental changes to be put before the Legislature in the interests of efficiency and economy.

The bill proposes that the commission be made up of four appointees by the governor, four by the Democratic speaker of the House and four by the Republican president pro tempore of the Senate.

Half of the commission members are to be legislators or members of the governor's official family, and half are to be from private life.

Most of the Senate Republicans who voted for the reorganization are anxious to pass the "Little Hoover Commission" bill as fast as possible. They think the governor will be embarrassed by fast action.

As the bill passed, the forthcoming "Little Hoover Commission" will draw up individual reorganization plans and submit them in resolution form to both houses of the Legislature. If neither house votes down the proposal it will go into force automatically at the end of 30 days.

Francis Huffman Elected President Of Greene County Agricultural Society

Reports of work during the year were given by County Agent John D. Gapen, his assistant, Robert D. Martin, and Mrs. Grace L. Boord, extension home economist. Mrs. Boord, who is on leave of absence for a year to take graduate work, reported for her assistant, Miss Lois Headlee, who was ill.

McCann Urges Education Board Changes

Assemblyman Stephen McCann of Carmichaels, who is chairman of the education committee in the House of Representatives, has urged the administration to streamline the Department of Public Instruction which he says is "demoralized."

Mr. McCann disclosed public instruction had served as a "dumping ground" for too many agencies with no specific educational ties.

"The rule seems to be that if the board doesn't fit any place, DPI is a good place to put it," he said.

He cited as examples the board of examiners of architects, registration board of professional engineers, board of barber examiners and board of cosmetology.

Mr. McCann said changes also are contemplated in the State's vast "borrow and build" school construction program. One would limit the number and size of classrooms any school district could add with state aid.

Some districts, he said, are using State funds to erect elaborate schools with fancy trimmings when simple, more practical structures might serve the purpose.

Medical Society To Aid Western Greene County

At the meeting of the Greene County Medical Society in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Albert Blair last week, four physicians volunteered to spend one morning each at an office in western Greene County. The place is to be designated by residents of the area.

The area has been without a physician since the sudden death of Dr. H. B. Wood last summer.

The society has adopted a program to improve child health care.

Members of the society are available as speakers for organizations desiring medical lectures.

The society will meet March 17 in Waynesburg High School auditorium for a telephone lecture on "Coronary Heart Disease."

President Eisenhower has sent to Congress a $101 billion, ten-year highway improvement program, about 30 per cent of which would be paid for by the Federal Government.

He recommended that about $25 billion of the Federal share, the estimated cost of completing and maintaining the 40,000-mile "interstate system," be financed by bonds to be issued against collections of gas and diesel oil taxes and tolls, independent of and outside the Federal budget.

The financing ideas in this presidential message are almost certainly destined to end up in the congressional chopper.

The President's highway plan closely follows the recommendations made January 11, by the President's Advisory Committee on a National Highway Program, headed by retired General Lucius D. Clay.

These recommendations, which the message picks up, are for the interstate system to be wholly federally built, at a ten-year cost of $25 billion; and for the Federal Government to continue at their current rates its contributions to the other portions of the Federal-aid highway system. These ten-year totals would be: $5.25 billion for primary and secondary roads; $750 million for urban streets which are part of Federal routes; and $225 million for forest highways.

These total $31.225 billion over ten years, the Federal share of the $101 billion total. The rest would be paid by the states, counties and municipalities, as at present.

Congress will probably have little criticism of these totals. But there is sure to be a fight over the President's proposal to issue bonds outside of budgetary control, and nominally outside the national debt.

The President's message does not mention the words "Federal Corporation" which the Clay committee used to describe the agency which would issue these extra-budgetary bonds.

He says: "A sound Federal highway program, I believe, can and should stand on its own feet, with highway users providing the total dollars necessary for improvement and new construction. Financing of interstate and Federal-aid systems should be based on the planned use of increasing revenues from present gas and diesel oil taxes, augmented in limited instances with tolls."

Dale Evans—"Angel" to Retarded Children

With "Angel Unaware" now well past the 350,000 mark in sales, Dale Evans Rogers' new book, "My Spiritual Diary," is scheduled for publication by Fleming H. Revell Co. on Feb. 14. Dale is co-star of NBC-TV's popular "Roy Rogers" Show seen Sundays at 6:30 P.M. "My Spiritual Diary" is Dale's daily chronicle of her thoughts on matters of the spirit through a period ending after hers and Roy's return from Europe last summer. She started the book before they left in February for the British Isles, so it vividly details her impressions of the country they visited for the first time. Her intimate recording makes the readers feel even closer to her than did "Angel Unaware," which won such warm response everywhere.

The welfare of retarded children, as everybody knows by now, has become a spirited project with Dale, and she hopes that "My Spiritual Diary" will continue to bless the work which "Angel Unaware" helped so much. She is allocating the entire author's royalty from the new book to a new diagnostic clinic for retarded children being established at Children's Hospital in Los Angeles, the first such clinic on the West Coast.

STRAIGHT OR LEFT, MISTER?

Behind the so-called Dixon-Yates controversy rises one of the most important decisions facing Congress and the American people

Is America's electric light and power to be socialized into a huge federal government monopoly? Or is it to remain largely a responsibility of business, with rates regulated locally?

The Mississippi Valley Generating Company proposal (called "Dixon-Yates") became a center of controversy because it points up this decision.

IMPORTANT TO EVERYBODY

This decision can affect the lives of all Americans in many ways.

When government builds power plants, taxpayers foot the bill.

When business builds, investors pay the bill.

Government plants pay little or no taxes—local, state or federal.

Business plants pay their full share of taxes.

When Government builds, the effect is a socialistic government monopoly.

When business builds, the effect is to encourage the business and personal enterprises of all people.

The difference between the straight road and the turn left is as simple as that.

Prototype Slated Of Freedom Ship

Washington—The Maritime Administration soon will ask Congress for money to build the prototype of a "Freedom ship," a cargo vessel which could be mass-produced quickly if a big war broke out.

The prototype would be a full-scale complete ship, which would serve as a pattern for the construction of many others in an emergency.

This was disclosed by Louis S. Rothschild, maritime administrator, in a speech to the national security commission of the American Legion.

Mr. Rothschild said the "Freedom ship"—so dubbed by a Maritime Administration designer—would be the Liberty ship of a future conflict in which the United States might be called upon suddenly for large numbers of vessels to carry war materials to remote shores.

A Grain of Sand

Is anything less important?
 A speck lost in the lonesome thunder of the surf . . . a billionth part of a desert dune . . . an irritant to the oyster . . . a trifle in the path of the snail. Such is a grain of sand.
 Yet this same grain becomes strikingly significant and important when combined with other grains and made to stick to them: A skyscraper rises; highways and bridges link a state and a nation; a tunnel bores its useful way under a river bed; and products of glass make our everyday living immeasurably easier—all because sand sticks together!

Almost all of us want a better world for ourselves and our children—a world of freedom, peace, and opportunity to live full and useful lives. But there are forces working against this realization. Ruthless men and ruthless nations have stated that freedom and opportunity are privileges of the state to dispense or withhold, not a right of the individual to obtain for himself.

And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are called according to his purpose —Rom. 8:28.

Any one person of the two and a quarter billion people on earth may be likened to a grain of sand in so far as his individual efforts to build a better world are concerned. It is when men join together that their combined efforts count for something.

Join a church and become an active part of a mighty force for good! Your Church will always be against any dictator or clique that denies men the right to a just, peaceful life. Your Church needs men and women who will worship together and work together, under a guidance greater than mortal man's, to achieve true freedom. Men have wrought miracles of sand.

Your Church achieves miracles—with men!
