Borough May Ask Dog Tax

Waynesburg Borough Council Monday night considered a special dog tax in order to employ a borough officer to enforce the law to keep dogs from running at large, especially at gardening time.

Salary of such an officer would amount to at least $1,000.

Residents who own dogs are requested to keep them under surveillance as provided by state and local regulations.

Council approved installation of a loading station at the northeast corner of High and Washington streets, and to discontinue one at Washington street and Strawberry alley.

A salary of $120 per month for Glenn Zahniser, caretaker at the borough building, was voted, the rate to be effective March 1.

Burgess Fay Headlee made the following financial report for the two week period ending March 15:

Parking meters, $822.00; tickets issued, 206; parking ticket fines, $111.25; building permits, $3.00; tearing down building, $1.00; amusement license, $50; tin cans sold at dump, $10, and red light fines, $10.

'Have Hopes,' Disarm Chief Stassen Says

—Washington—

Harold Stassen said Sunday he cannot guess what will result from his search for practical paths to world disarmament. But, he said, it is an effort that must be made because other means have failed.

"This is the search for ideas that mankind will have better hope for peace," he said. "It is the kind of matter in which you must never give up hope... even in a nuclear age."

Stassen, interviewed on a TV-radio show (ABC's "College Press Conference"), invited the public to send him ideas, suggestions and comments on how he could go about his new task. President Eisenhower Saturday appointed the foreign aid director as a special assistant, with cabinet rank to study the disarmament riddle.

Because disarmament efforts by the United Nations at London have made no progress, Stassen said, this does not mean hope of achieving it through the UN must be abandoned. He said that if his efforts are successful "it will strengthen the UN."

Senator Humphrey, Democrat, Minnesota, who like most members of Congress, were surprised by Eisenhower's creation of the new post, called for careful coordination with Congress on any proposals worked out by Stassen.

Republicans and Democrats alike praised the idea of such a special emphasis on disarmament. Democrats privately credited the White House with an astute political move.

Stassen said he will not have to go to Congress for additional funds to start his study because he will work with a small staff. He said he will seek to get most of his help by borrowing personnel from the Government agencies.

Wool Festival Canceled Due to Street Repairs

Waynesburg Chamber of Commerce has canceled the fourth annual Pennsylvania Wool Festival which is held in May, due to the State Highway plans to resurface High street.

Extensive repairs will make it impossible to hold a parade and crowning of a queen on the courthouse terrace.

Great need for additional parking during highway repairs was stressed at the board meeting.

Albert A. Hoge resigned as a member of the board and Hugh A. Auld was elected to fill the vacancy.

Greene County Regional Development Association will meet Friday at 2 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce office to plan a meeting for extension of the turnpike through the county to connect with West Virginia. Details for raising a fund to promote this enterprise will also be discussed.

Bumper Crop Year Predicted for 1955

—Washington—

Another year of bumper crop production is in prospect.

This is the essence of an Agriculture Department report on farmer growing plans and climatic factors in influencing farm output.

The total acreage likely to be planted this year will be little different from last year's 354 million acres, but the crop pattern will be changed somewhat under the influence of government programs.

Fear of a spreading drought has eased considerably with rains and snows in many areas in recent weeks. Shortages of irrigation water and persistent drought in the Southwest were said to be the chief dark spots in an otherwise rosy spring outlook.

Larger acreages than last year were indicated for corn, oats, barley, sorghums, potatoes, sweet potatoes, dry beans, peas, soybeans and hay. But reduced plantings were indicated for spring wheat, flaxseed, rice, tobacco, peanuts, and sugar beets.

The prospective reductions cover crops governed by federal planting and marketing restrictions. Increases were made principally for crops free of rigid controls.

The department had sought corn acreage this year of about 75 million acres, but the survey indicated that farmers will plant 82 million acres of corn.

Easter Seal Sale For Crippled Children

More than 6,500 Easter Seal letters have been mailed to county residents in the annual appeal for funds for the Greene County Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Dennis J. Loughman is president of the local organization; Attorney Anthony J. Marion is treasurer, and Mrs. James G. Davis, executive secretary and William Gabler of Mapletown, are co-chairmen of the drive.

Seal sale will continue through Easter, April 10.

Coin cards have also been distributed by drivers of Coco Cola trucks, Waynesburg High School students volunteered to put out the letters containing Easter Seals.

Seventy-six per cent of funds raised remains in Greene County for direct use locally. The remainder is sent to the national organization to support a program of education and research.

At present the society has 20 patients who are receiving physical therapy treatment at various times at Greene County Memorial Hospital.

Services maintained by the society are diagnostic clinic, speech therapy, physical therapy, anti-convulsion clinic, and bracing.

Sale of Easter Seals is the society's only means of obtaining funds to aid the crippled.

Miss Mary Sayers Leaves Property To College

Waynesburg College is the principal beneficiary under terms of the will of Miss Mary E. Sayers of Waynesburg, filed for probate last week.

Aside from a number of miscellaneous bequests of personal property to members of her family, Miss Sayers, who died February 26, left her entire estate to the college.

The old homestead at the corner of College and Morris streets, is made available as part of the college campus upon payment of $10,000.

This money will go into the residuary estate which, with other undetermined personal property, goes to the college as part of its endowment fund, to be kept intact for the purpose of establishing the "Mary Estelle Sayers Foundation for the Promotion of Anti-Alcoholic Education."

The chief requirement of this provision is that the college set up a method of instruction and education concerning the effects and uses of alcoholic beverages.

Need of County Library Stressed

Waynesburg Library Club, organized 52 years ago, is sponsoring a project to establish a county free library which will have bookmobile aid in distribution of books to areas accessible to county-wide communities.

Mrs. Thomas S. Bally is president of the Library Club.

Members of the sponsoring committee are Mrs. J. I. Hook, Mrs. Helen D. Howard, Mrs. Louis M. Waddell and Mrs. Bally.

To date contacts have been established with 43 organizations and meetings in three more areas are scheduled for next week.

Management of a county free library would be under the County Commissioners and directors of the board would serve without remuneration.

A thousand books would be obtained from the State Library every two years, and replaced as they are returned.

Interested persons are requested to contact any member of the committee.

The Library Club has maintained a fiction lending library for many years, but for some time has realized the need of a county-wide lending library of fiction and technical works.

Audubon's Book Sold for $25,760

The book was published between 1827 and 1838.

Detailed plans now are being worked out for the possible administration of polio vaccine to 2,054 Greene County children who will be eligible to receive it if it is licensed, Dr. W. B. Clendenning, Greene County Medical Director, stated this week.

As was announced recently by state health officials, all first and second grade pupils in public, private and parochial schools in the state are included in the planned program, he explained. It also will be available to others through physicians at the same time.

But parents were warned by Dr. Clendenning not to jump to the conclusion that the current planning indicated the vaccine already had been proved effective.

"The vaccine which will be furnished by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is the same vaccine that was given to 440,000 children last spring," he said. "We do not know yet whether it really prevents paralytic polio. Until April, when we will learn the results of the evaluation study now being conducted at the University of Michigan, we cannot know if the vaccine is effective."

"But we cannot wait until then for planning for the protection of as many of our children as possible. Vaccinating large numbers of children is a big and important job, entailing many procedural tasks that can't be performed over night."

"If the license is granted in April, we must be ready to start vaccinating at once, so that, if possible, we can finish before our schools close and the polio season starts. We want to give the vaccine early so that many children can be protected before polio appears in their communities."

"This program would not be another test but the first use of a newly-established preventive measure."

Under the direction of the State Health Department, Dr. Clendenning has been conferring with school authorities and physicians who have pledged their full cooperation.

The polio vaccine will be furnished from a supply being purchased by the National Foundation with March of Dimes funds. It will be made available by the National Foundation without charge for the product to State Health Officers for use in the above groups, if licensed by the Federal Government. Supplies also will be distributed through usual channels at the same time.

The National Foundation has financed the development and production of the Salk vaccine. Contracts were made with manufacturers for a supply of vaccine costing $9,000,000 in March of Dimes funds. This enabled manufacturers to keep their production facilities in operation during the waiting period and be ready to go into full production as soon as the vaccine is licensed.

"Vaccine would be given by the Health Department this spring only to those eligible children whose parents sign forms requesting it," Dr. Clendenning added. "It is a completely voluntary program. The forms will be distributed through the schools very soon. We should like to know as soon as possible how many eligible children we must provide for, if the vaccination program is carried out. If the vaccine is not licensed, there will be no program."

The Pioneer History of Greene County, Penna.

By L. K. EVANS

The sketches have been prepared for the most part in great haste and with but little systematic forethought. Many inaccuracies have therefore crept into them, most of which I could now correct by careful revision. I have the consciousness of believing that I have done little or no harm in their publication, and the gratification of knowing that I have awakened reminiscences, the contemplation of which has afforded pleasure to many. The sterner duties of life are demanding my present undivided and earnest attention, and "when duty calls, we must obey." Pleasant as it would unquestionably be to me to pursue the yet unwritten history of the fathers, the "hard times" necessitates the poor to "work for bread" that "the wolf may not enter his door." For this cause, then, I bid you, reader, an affectionate "goodbye."—L. K. EVANS.

Bell

It is believed that the family, of which the Bells of this county are a branch, came from some part of Great Britain, and originally settled in Virginia. From Virginia it spread into Pennsylvania and Tennessee, and through the former State into Ohio.

At a very early date, probably before the year 1770, James and Benjamin Bell came to this county, from the Shenandoah Valley. It is thought Benjamin did not remain long. He probably returned to Virginia, and afterwards settled in Ohio; at least it is understood that he finally settled in the latter state where his descendants reside in the Muskingum Valley.

James Bell located in what is now Morgan Township, and made a tomahawk claim, which included the same tract of land upon which his son, John, afterwards lived and died. It is the place on which Joseph Bell now resides. In 1790, he was elected a Justice of the Peace for Morgan Township, then Washington County. He had five sons: John, James, Isaac, Benjamin and David; and three daughters, Hannah, Mary and Sarah. Of these John, Isaac, David, Hannah and Mary married and settled in Greene County. The two daughters married Samuel and Meeker Woodruff. The three sons last named all settled near each other. John had seven sons, James, John, David, Morgan, Henry, Benjamin and Jesse; and daughter, Dorcas. She first married Cox, and is the mother of John B. Cox. She afterwards married Thomas Patterson of Carmichaels. Benjamin is a wealthy farmer and lives in Knox County, Ohio; David and Jesse died in the township where they were born, and John, Henry and Morgan still live in the same vicinity. Morgan is the father of John R. Bell, one of the County Auditors. Dorcas died recently in Carmichaels.

Isaac married Elizabeth Harrod, who died about ten years ago at the old homestead near Jefferson. She was the only member of the Harrod family that remained in Greene County. She was a niece of James Harrod, who was the leader of the party of adventurers from the Monongahela that made the first settlement and built the first cabin in what is now the state of Kentucky. They also found it necessary to at once construct a fort which was the first military post established in the state. He with other members of the Harrod family came to Greene County from Virginia. Levi Harrod, who was Justice of the Peace in 1781, was probably a brother. In the year 1773, he raised a body of men with whom he went down the Monongahela in a flat boat to Fort Pitt—now Pittsburgh; thence these daring spirits sailed down the Ohio through an unexplored wilderness to the mouth of the Kentucky River, and up that river over 100 miles—in all about 700 miles—to a spot where they landed and founded the present town of Harrodsburg, the county seat of Mercer County, Kentucky. To appreciate the bravery and enterprise of these men who left the shores of the Monongahela at that early day—two years before the revolution began—we have but to consider the country through which they passed. Today, the cities of Wheeling and Frankfort, the capitals of two states, and Cincinnati, the Queen City of the Ohio Valley, are directly on their path. But then these cities were unknown and their sites among the solitude of the forest. This was the first settlement made in the "dark and bloody land." Boone had hunted through it before, but he did not locate there until the next year. Harrod, like Boone, was a mighty hunter, fearless and fond of solitude, and delighted most in that adventure which was attended by the greatest danger. He was often alone in the forest for weeks, and even months. Indeed, he went several times as a spy to the Indian towns known as the Miami Villages, which were in the valley now known by that name in Ohio. At one time he was chased by the Indians all the way to the Ohio River, which having swam, he shot the three foremost Indians while in the water—the rest having given up the chase. His life was full of adventures, a part of which were compiled and published about twenty-five years ago but can not be mentioned here. From one of his solitary expeditions he never returned and the manner of his death is unknown. He commanded a body of men at the battle of Kanawha, and in other engagements with the Indians. He was a leader of the most daring and intrepid character. We have made this digression because here seems the proper place to do it, and because the very first settlers of the Ohio Valley were from Greene County and the country adjacent.

To return, Isaac Bell had four sons—Levi Harrod, James, David and John; and two daughters, Rachel and Mary. Levi H. lived for many years in the vicinity of Jefferson, but removed to Washington County, near Amity, where he died during the war. Lieutenant John F. Bell of the 14th Pennsylvania Infantry, is one of his sons, and James M. Bell, late of Waynesburg, another.

David and John have died since the war at their homes near Jefferson. Isaac Bell of Waynesburg, son-in-law of W. T. H. Pauley, editor of the Messenger, is a son of David.

James Bell, the only surviving son of this family, lives near Carmichaels, and is the father of L. Harrod Bell of Howard Springs, Tennessee, who is the last one of Bells, and the only native of Greene, who bears the name of Harrod and to him I am indebted for most of the particulars of this sketch.

Rachel died unmarried. Mary is the wife of Stephen Crayne, who lives near Jefferson.

David, son of the first James, had one son, John Kennedy, who lives near Jefferson, and two daughters, Rachel and Mary, neither of whom married.

Sarah married James Hayes, who with Benjamin, emigrated to Licking County, Ohio, in 1814. James emigrated to the same county in 1815. These three had large families and their descendants who still live in Licking and Knox Counties, are very numerous. James had eleven sons and four daughters. One of these sons, Samuel Bell, is the father of Honorable William Bell, Jr., Ohio's present Secretary of State. One of the Ohio Bells was recently requested to enumerate that branch of the family but gave it up, and says that their "name is legion." It has been impossible to name all the present generation in this county, from a somewhat similar reason. As a family they have been farmers and, sticking to one business, have been prosperous, and have greatly multiplied; and among this long line of countless descendants those that are not industrious, intelligent, enterprising and respectable constitute the rare exceptions.

When You Build That New Barn . . . Here Are Some Ideas for Your Future

Ever wonder about the Department of Agriculture's conception of a stall barn? Well, here it is. It may not look like your barn does now. But it may be what you will want when—and if—you get around to building a new one.

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

Stall barns still are popular among dairymen, particularly those in northern areas. Usually cows are kept in this type of barn throughout the winter except for short periods of mild weather when they can be exercised out of doors.

The Department says that careful planning of a barn and all other related structures on the farm will be repaid in labor savings and additional production. The matter of stall sizes is especially important. Stalls that are too short result in unclean udders. Those that are too narrow can lead to udder injuries and contribute to mastitis.

Face-in barns, of the design illustrated, have feed alleys 4 to 5 feet wide. When cows face out, feed alleys should be 3 1/2 to 4 feet wide. This is exclusive of the width of mangers. Cross alleys need to be at least 4 feet wide in either type so feed trucks can be turned easily.

Litter alleys should be built to permit easy cleaning. When a barn cleaner is used, such alleys should be a minimum of 6 feet wide. If this labor saving device is not installed, litter alleys in face-in barns should be a minimum of 5 1/2 feet wide, and in face-out barns, from 7 1/2 to 8 feet wide.

A sweep-in manger, built like a trough slightly below floor level, is easy to keep clean. Also it permits use of open front stalls where cows can be kept comfortably in check with tie chains rather than stanchions.

Adequate wiring and lighting are essential to any farm building. Dairy barns, for example, should have 120-240 volt service and wires should be a minimum of #12. The dairy barn illustrated probably will need three 15-ampere branch circuits for lights, three 20-ampere branch circuits for ventilating system and convenience outlets for heat lamps, clippers and other plug-in equipment; a 30-ampere branch circuit for water heater and space heater, and enough individual 230-volt branch circuits for such equipment as milk cooler, milking machine, silo unloader, barn cleaner, hay dryer, etc. Incidentally, a feed grinder and barn cleaner will take at least #10 wire, and a hay dryer will require a minimum of #8 wire.

When it comes to lighting, present recommendations call for locating a light every 12 feet on the center line of the litter alley and one every 20 feet on a center line in the feed alley. If more light is desired, farmers may consider locating a second line of lights in the litter alley over the hind quarters of each row of cows.

Roberta Peters
With Symphony

ROBERTA PETERS

Roberta Peters, sensational coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will be the guest soloist with the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra this Friday night and Sunday afternoon at Syria Mosque, singing "Ach ich liebete, er se glücklich" from Die Entführung aus dem Serail by Mozart, "O luce di quest'anima" from Linda da Charmounix by Donizetti, "Charmant ciseau" from La Perle du Bresil by David, and the "Mad Scene" from Hamlet by Thomas.

Karl Kritz, the orchestra's associate conductor, will also conduct the orchestra in Verdi's Overture to La Forza del Destino, Mendelssohn's Symphony No. 4 ("Italian") and Suite from der Rosenkavalier by Richard Strauss.

Since her Metropolitan debut five years ago, which was the real-life Cinderella story of the day, Roberta Peters has captured the hearts and admiration of concert goers the country over, and established herself as a top favorite wherever she has sung. Singing to the largest audience and the greatest ovation in the 33 year history of the Cincinnati Summer Opera last year, she was crowned "Queen of the Opera" by the governors of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky. For the past three straight years, she has attracted capacity audiences to Pittsburgh's Syria Mosque for her appearances with the Symphony.

A popular performer on such major radio and television shows as Ed Sullivan's Toast of the Town and the Voice of Firestone, Miss Peters has recently added new laurels to her career by becoming a movie star in her first motion picture, "Tonight We Sing," and a recording star with her first LP for RCA Victor, entitled "Youngest Member of a Great Tradition," a current best-seller.

Now in her fifth season at the Met, diminutive, blue-eyed Miss Peters first stepped into the international spotlight when, at the age of 20, she scored a triumph in her Metropolitan debut, pinching the soprano's notice for an ailing prima donna. Not only was this the soprano's operatic debut, but also her first performance on any stage. Miss Peters went on to win recognition as one of the company's front-rank singers.

In addition to being one of the Met's most admired singers, she also wins hands down as the glamorous old opera house's champion show-saver. Each season since that memorable night five years ago, Roberta Peters has been called upon several times at the last minute to substitute for colleagues.

"Every job has its emergencies," she says, "and this is all part of my day's work."

But her colleagues and other stage folk agree with critic Louis Biancolli when he wrote, "There is only one Roberta Peters—ace trouper and leading lady of bel canto."

—Harrisburg—
A state highway safety official said "the blood will be on their hands" if legislators pass a bill lessening penalties for speeders.

Highway Safety Bureau Director H. Earl Pitzer looked a blast shortly after the measure was introduced in the Senate with bipartisan sponsorship.

The bill bases the suspension of drivers' licenses on a point system.

Speeders, now hit with a 90-day suspension for their first violation, would be the principal beneficiaries of the proposed act.

First offenders would get given points if they hadn't been traveling over 70. Speeds above 70 would bring ten points and a 30-day suspension.

The language of the bill doesn't make clear whether the state revenue secretary still would have the power to revoke drivers' licenses for such serious offenses as drunken driving.

In one section it says the point system of suspension shall be in addition to his powers of revocation and suspension under the vehicle code.

But in another section the bill states:

"Any offense for the conviction of which the secretary must revoke the operation privilege as provided by section 614 of this act . . . 10 points."

As the measure doesn't repeal the automatic revocation provided in the code for drunken driving convictions, the ten points and 30 days' suspension must be in addition to the year's revocation.

The code expressly provides for drunken, hit and run and similar serious offenses.

Senator George N. Wade, Republican of Cumberland County, one of the bill's sponsors, said it had the support of all motor clubs.

This portrait of Sir Winston Churchill, made entirely from wool carpet, has been presented to the Prime Minister by British carpet-makers. It was hand-woven by J. C. S. EXTRA protection for depositors

A bank's capital—invested by its stockholders—might be called a "first protection" for depositors. As the bank grows, a surplus is built up, and this becomes an "extra" protection for customers.

Beyond this, banks that are members of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation have each depositor's account insured up to $10,000. Adequate capital, growing surplus, insurance—these are three great factors of strength in the field of modern banking.

Holidays? Phoney says eight-year-old Cheryl Ann Creech. On the Fourth of July, 1948, she contracted whooping cough. On New Years Day, 1951, she had her tonsils out. On her birthday, May 1, 1951—measles. Christmas Day, 1951—pneumonia.

This year Cheryl had flu on St. Valentine's Day and an appendectomy on Washington's birthday.

To outwit the jinx, she's celebrating Easter early. Her mother, Mrs. Jesse J. Creech, gave her a big basket of Easter eggs while she is in bed convalescing from the Washington's birthday surgery.

Fifty-Year History of Greene County Sports

By GEORGE N. THOMAS

COMMUNITY GOLF

Ten years after the Greene County Country Club had organized, improvements were clearly visible on what used to be the Harry farm.

And the improvements were not all physical. Scores of the club's players had been lowered considerably because of the fine pros, practice and competition.

Dave Pitman was voted the new pro in 1933.

And it was a year to remember. Ed McLeod, as medalist, led the county group as they defeated the Washington Club on their own links. A. Bally and W. C. Spitznogle led the sweepstakes.

Dr. W. C. Brown remained as one of the top players in and out of the county. At the Alcoma Country Club he clobbered Perry Del Vecchio for the Potentate's Trophy.

Bill Goldberg, just out of Waynesburg High School, took over as the new county golf champ, succeeding E. M. Powell, Jr.

Activity increased considerably in 1934. The club had the services of two pros, brothers Dave and Wood Pitman.

All of a sudden Kingwood, W. Va., golfers became the chief rival of the Greene Countians and the teams squared off no less than four times that summer, each winning two.

The West Virginians had a fine team. Their acres were Major Watson, a New Yorker who was undefeated this side of the mountain, and his mate, Bud Dave and Woodie Pitman ended their win streak in Greene County.

By this time, the women had established their annual invitational tourney. It was well known in the tri-state area and 14 clubs looked for invitations.

Mrs. C. R. Sellers, Mrs. J. I. Hook and Mrs. Frank Spragg, with the cooperation of the pros, worked to make 1934 a big success.

When the ladies had finished swinging and putting, Mrs. Emily Stifel, mother of West Virginia's women's champion, won medal honors.

Goldberg successfully defended his title, with Ed Powell and Carl Headlee close on his heels, and Mrs. Spragg and Mrs. Murdock led the county women.

Just before winter came in 1934, Wood Pitman agreed for a final swing around the course with Club Champ Goldberg, Ed Powell and Con Huffman.

It was an exceptionally fine day, and Wood hit everything just right.

On the first nine, he tied the course mark at 33, and on the way in he shot a sizzling 34 for a total of 67 and a new record. That was seven under par.

Hardly had the snows melted in the spring of 1935, when Dave Pitman announced he could no longer remain as pro at the club.

After considering several applicants, the board of directors chose Valentine Manley, a leader in club affairs, to succeed him.

Manley formerly was an Englishman. In fact, he learned his golf in England under the tutelage of Fred Vardon.

And Manley not only was an excellent golfer, but he had played on some of the world's best known courses in England, Wales, Ireland, Scotland, France, Belgium, Canada, Bermuda, Hawaii, California, and southern United States.

"Manley," declared officials of the country club, "should add class to the organization." And he did.

As soon as the weather permitted, members competed in an 18-hole medal play and Bill Goldberg and Con Huffman emerged winners.

Because of Manley's reputation he was able to bring in unusually fine pros for exhibitions, which were free.

Manley's group of players invited the Pleasant Valley team of Connellsville to Greene County and trimmed them, 21-15.

The women, meanwhile, were staging their popular invitational tourney and the Nemaocolin Club women won over 56 entries, Mrs. A. S. Sijman and Mrs. G. Bruce led them.

For the county group, Mrs. H. J. Murdock, Miss Ruth Gates and Mrs. D. W. Lynch paced the way.

The men did not make out so well in the Greene-Washington championships at Monongahela Valley Country Club, although Camille Ross, John Daily and Charles E. Dittman were among the finalists.

And just before the golfing season ended, Albert Gordon succeeded Manley as the pro.

In 1936, Miss Mildred Underwood of the Nemaocolin Club shot lowest in the ladies' invitation tourney with Mrs. M. M. Foster just a few strokes behind.

Mrs. F. I. Spragg had the best score among home club members and Mrs. Ella White followed her.

Representatives came from Uniontown, Nemaocolin, Washington, Wheeling, Cedar Rocks, Fairmont, Clarksburg and Morgantown for the ladies' day, and while not all 64 women played golf, other games and amusements were provided.

The Greene County ladies were not especially noted for their accurate golf game, but as hosts they rated the district's best.

But the men improved a good deal. They defeated Washington (on the home links) and Pleasant Valley, even after they "loaned" them Dr. Brown, who won for the losers.

John I. Hook, Jr., of Princeton University's golf team, won the club title for 1936, beating Bill Goldberg, former champ, 3 and 2.

His father had won it once, and they became the first father-and-son winners in the club's history.

Mrs. Spragg swung her way to her fourth women's championship with little difficulty.

Baker-Mederos Top Weeks TV Fights

Two heavyweights, burning to get a shot at Rocky Marchiano's title, Bob Baker of Pittsburgh, and Julio Mederos of Havana, Cuba, meet in the week's top TV fight.

The 28-year-old Pittsburgh giant, rated the number three challenger, will test Mederos in a 10-rounder Friday in Madison Square Garden. The bout will be broadcast and telecast by NBC and can be seen on WJAC Channel 6, and WTRF-TV, Channel 7, starting at 10 p. m.

Mederos, a 6-2 puncher, is fresh from his spectacular fifth-round knockout of Roland LaStarza on March 2. That was the first time a heavyweight has knocked out LaStarza.

Mederos is reputed to be exceptionally fast and possessor of a good right hand. He's a former sparring partner of Baker and this one should show just how far he can go, because the Pittsburgh veteran is a pretty fair country heavyweight.

Woman Can't Powder Nose, Wins $11,800

—Hartford, Conn.—
A woman was awarded $11,800 by a judge Friday on the claim she suffers mental anguish because she can no longer powder her nose.
She said she broke her nose in an automobile accident two years ago and cannot use cosmetics on it due to disfigurement.
Awarding the money in her suit against the drivers in the accident, Judge Abraham S. Boardon declared:
"It is the prerogative of a woman to improve her appearance with cosmetics, and the deprivation thereof can easily lead to mental anguish far greater than painful bodily injury."
A majority of votes means more than half, while a plurality is more votes than any other candidate received, but less than half the total.

Navy Gets Request for Sailor Suit From 'Little Girl With Pigtails'

—Washington—
Janet, a little girl who wears her hair in pigtails and lives out on a rural delivery route, has posted a supply problem for the Navy.
Her letter came to the Pentagon, although she had addressed it to "U. S. Navy, Pacific Ocean."
She wrote:
"Dear sailors:
"Send me a sailor suit with a nice collar.
"Love
"Janet."
Janet, the Navy concludes, must be the "J. Rosland, R. D. 2, Elizabeth, Pa.," whose name appears on the envelope and whose snapshot is enclosed.
The "sailors" who run the Navy here as well as the ones in the Pacific Ocean would like Janet to have that suit with the nice collar but there are a couple of obstacles.

The law doesn't allow the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts to send sailor suits to anyone except the Navy's sailor. And if it did, Janet's picture indicates there would be none of that diminutive size.

Aims of U. S. Outlined To Church Men

—Chicago—
Harold Stassen said Saturday that the Western Powers seek a world system which would keep peace and enable men "to devote their time, talent and resources to something better than the service of Mars and the worship of Mammon."
To accomplish that goal, he added, President Eisenhower's partnership policy is trying to help the nations of the world help themselves.
Stassen, director of the Foreign Operations Administrations who has been named by the President as a special assistant for the disarmament, spoke before the National Council of Presbyterian Men.
He said:
"In recent years we have used our strength to launch an approach unique in history. This approach is known today as President Eisenhower's partnership policy."
"Involving not domination by a single partner, it recognizes the mutual effort of all, based upon respect for each. It involves not just the strong helping the weak, but trying to create the conditions under which the weak may themselves become strong."
"We find an illuminating account of this process in the story of how Jesus reacted when he saw the palsied man lying on the mat beside the well.
"Jesus did not put this man on his back and carry him. He said, 'pick up your bed and walk.'"

State Farm Show Dates Set for 1956

—Harrisburg—
The State Farm Show Commission has set January 9-13 for the 1956 farm show.
Dr. William L. Henning, agriculture secretary and chairman of the commission, said the theme of the 40th annual show will be "Farming for Freedom."
"Dedication of the show to 'Farming for Freedom' is a security and prosperity measure," Henning declared.

Quicker Action for Old Age Benefits

"You can get quicker action on your claim for Old Age Insurance Benefits if you submit a copy of your W-2 with-holding tax statement for 1954 when you file your application," Henry Harper, manager of the local Washington Social Security Office has advised persons who plan to apply for these payments.
"The reason the W-2 will speed up the handling of the claim," Mr. Harper explained, "is that wages paid the claimant during the latter part of 1954 are not yet available on social security records. If the claimant is able to furnish us with a copy of his W-2 for 1954, it may eliminate the necessity of writing to the employer for a statement of recent wages."
The manager stated that the form W-2 is furnished each worker by his employer either at the end of the year, or at the time his employment is terminated. The original copy of the form is to be used for filing income tax returns, and the duplicate is the employee's copy for his personal records. It is this employee's copy that the claimant is urged to bring to the Social Security Office when he calls to file his claim.

Gas Storage In State Land To be Started

—Harrisburg—
Governor George M. Leader has put into effect a long-range program for storage of surplus natural gas from the southwestern area of the United States in depleted gas fields on state-owned land in Pennsylvania.
Leader said the storage of out-of-date natural gas in natural "underground storehouses" in Western Pennsylvania would maintain the value of the commonwealth's gas fields through royalties paid by gas companies.
Dr. John C. Calhoun, Jr., McKean County, was appointed by Leader to conduct the program. Dr. Calhoun will be paid $1,000 a month for four months, without expenses.
Dr. Calhoun, who replaces Alden W. Foster, as consulting petroleum engineer in the Department of Forests and Waters, also will set up a permanent agency under the department to administer leases and natural gas royalties. Foster was paid $2,500 a month and expenses.
Maurice K. Goddard, secretary of forests and waters said the storage plan comes under the terms of a bill passed by the 1953 Legislature allowing the Forests and Waters Department to use its land for storage purposes.

New Requirements For Domestic Help

"If you pay $17 a month or more to your baby-sitter or maid, you will probably have to pay a social security tax in April," Henry D. Harper, Manager of the Washington district office of the Social Security Administration, said. Starting January 1, 1955, any household worker who is paid $50 or more cash wages by one employer in a calendar quarter, such as January through March, is covered by the amended Social Security Act. The length of time worked no longer matters.
This means that work of cooks, maids, housekeepers, gardeners, chauffeurs, and other workers in a private home comes toward eligibility for retirement or death payments under old-age and survivors insurance if they are paid at least $50 cash wages by one employer in a calendar quarter. Wages other than in cash—such as board and room—do not count. If the household work is done on a farm operated for profit, it is covered only if $200 cash is paid during the year to the domestic employee, Harper explained.

Dangers of Kite Flying Near Electric Wires

The dangers of kite-flying near electric wires were emphasized by West Penn Power Company district manager J. B. Aiken.
The district manager asked that all parents caution their children against the hazards of this popular spring activity.
Four good rules for preventing kite accidents, he detailed, are:
Keep kites away from electric wires. If kites are steered away from electric wires, the danger of their becoming caught is eliminated.
Use dry cotton string. Wet string and metal string make perfect conductors of electricity.
Never use metal on kites. Metal used anywhere on a kite, whether it be the frame or a decoration on the tail, is a conductor. No chances should be taken.
Never climb poles. The dangers of falling, becoming stranded, or contacting the wires are too great.
The importance of following these rules cannot be stressed enough.
If a kite does become caught in electric wires, it should be reported immediately to the local West Penn Office. A graphic example of this occurred not long ago. A kite was caught in the wires and the owner went off, not reporting it. That night it rained, the kite string became wet and caused a short circuit. As a result, the power in a whole neighborhood was interrupted.

Parents are also cautioned to warn children to fly control-wire model airplanes a safe distance from electric wires. Recently, on a spring-like day, a small boy took his model airplane for a spin. The plane's control wire caught in the electric line causing the boy to receive a severe shock.
Children should be urged to fly their kites and model airplanes in open fields, not in densely populated areas or heavy traffic and above all, stay away from any utility lines, the district manager cautioned.

To the Voters of Greene County:

I offer myself as a candidate for the office of Judge of the Courts of Greene County on both major political ballots.
The office of Judge is the only one the law allows a candidate to run on both tickets because it is a non-partisan office and should be conducted without regard to membership in either party. I recognize this truth and will so discharge the duties of this position.
I have tried to serve my clients, the community, Country and Church as faithfully as I could. I have always tried to help improve, in a small way, these things so that our children might enjoy better conditions than we have. My feelings in these matters would be carried with me and shall remain the same in the office which I now seek.
My law practice has been extensive and the experience gained from many civil as well as criminal trials has qualified me for the Bench.
If elected, I will decide all issues coming before the Court fairly and impartially without regard to the position in life of the litigants or of their Counsel.
Since the term of office is long, ten years, and the honor great, I would not presume to seek a second term.
Your vote and influence is earnestly requested.

W. ROBERT THOMPSON
