Thompson Registers Heavy Vote; Judge Hook Defeats Opposition

JUDGE J. I. HOOK

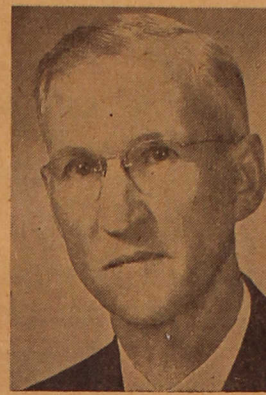

W. ROBERT THOMPSON

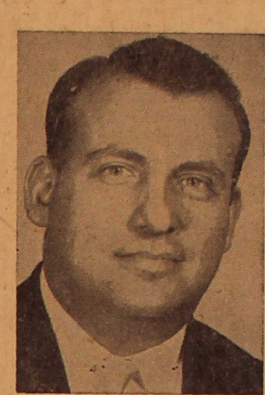

PAULINE KIGER

RAE B. SPRAGG

A. R. VARNER

HERMAN GUGLIOTTA

In one of the most hotly contested primary elections in years in Greene County, Judge John Inghram Hook, incumbent, won nomination on the Democratic ticket for a second term. His majority over his three opponents was 341 votes. Judge Hook's vote was 6,137 and his three opponents, W. Robert Thompson, J. B. F. Rinehart and W. Bertram Waychoff, polled 5,796 votes combined.

W. Robert Thompson, Waynesburg attorney, who was a candidate on both tickets, received the Republican nomination for which he was unopposed.

John B. Carter, former county commissioner, and L. F. Engle, retired county farm agent, were unopposed for the Republican nomination.

A. R. (Arleigh) Varner, who for many years was a teller in the First National Bank, and Herman Gugliotta of Dilliner, received the Democratic nomination for county commissioner.

They defeated W. Russell Tustin, C. Chesney Wood, present incumbent; Emil Fox, former sheriff, and Le Roy D. Cummings.

John G. Baily, incumbent county commissioner, and Mary Ganier, incumbent county auditor, were nominated by the Republicans for that office.

Democratic nominees are Levi A. Fuller, who has served as president of the board for several years, and Grace B. Guesman, who is at present a jury commissioner.

Rae B. Spragg, incumbent clerk of courts, who was unopposed by the Republicans, again won nomination on the Democratic ticket. She had two Democratic opponents, Fred Strohsider and John J. Kelley.

For the office of treasurer, the Democrats nominated Pauline Kiger, present clerk in that office. Marshall Lemley was unopposed on the Republican ticket.

Candidates for register and recorder are Lawrence Phillips, Republican, and Harold Dulaney, incumbent Democrat.

Attorneys William H. Sayers, Republican, and Glenn R. Toothman, Democrat, are candidates for district attorney.

Candidates for prothonotary are Leroy H. Minor, Democrat, incumbent, and John G. Warren, Jr., Republican.

The unofficial tabulation of votes by precincts is at the bottom of Page One.

40 Organizations Endorse Free Library for County

Forty organizations throughout the county have endorsed the project of establishing a free county library to be supplemented by a bookmobile to travel to convenient points in rural areas.

Following are the organizations:

Rotary Club of Carmichaels; Business and Professional Womens Club of Carmichaels; Business and Professional Womens Club of Waynesburg; Library Club of Waynesburg; Daughters of the American Revolution, John Corby Chapter; Daughters of the American Revolution, Greene Academy Chapter; Loyal Order of Moose, Waynesburg.

Greene County Federation of Women's Clubs; Mothers Study Club of Waynesburg; Parent-Teachers Association, Waynesburg; Parent-Teachers Association, Monongahela Township; Junior Chamber of Commerce of Waynesburg; Womans Club, Waynesburg.

American Legion, Waynesburg; Lions Club, Carmichaels; Lions Club, Greensboro; Southeastern Greene County Womens Club; Rosary Altar Society of Holy Family Parish; Fireman's Auxiliary of Greensboro; Fireman's Auxiliary of Bobtown; P. O. of A. Lodge, Greensboro; Dorcas Society of Baptist Church, Greensboro; Katherine Blackshere Guild of Presbyterian Church, Greensboro.

W. S. C. S. of Methodist Church, Greensboro; W. S. C. S. of Methodist Church, Mapletown;

Polly Wayne Garden Club; Children's Literary Guild, Waynesburg; Twentieth Century Club, Waynesburg; Social Service League, Waynesburg; Harvey Grange No. 1444; Shannopin Civic Club, Bobtown.

Wayne Remains Dry, Two Others Stay Wet

Wayne Township voters in a liquor referendum Tuesday held their area dry.

The vote in the two precincts was: East, 221 no, 48 yes; West, 240 no and 61 yes.

Perry Township voters continued the sale of liquor and beer. The vote was 434 yes, and 226 no.

The precinct breakdown; Perry No. 1, yes, 292; no, 187; Perry No. 2 (Mt. Morris), yes, 142; no, 39.

In Carmichaels borough where sale of beer had already been legal sale of liquor was also voted in. The count was 181 yes, and 155, no.

School Directors, Councilmen Nominated

Attorney Albert A. Sayers, Republican, was again nominated for school director of Waynesburg borough in Tuesday's primary.

Attorney R. Wallace Maxwell, who received nomination on the Democratic ticket for school director received a write-in vote on the Republican ticket. Two directors were to be nominated by each party.

Alva L. Caldwell is the other Democratic nominee.

For borough council Roy W. Clovis and Charles R. Moore, Republicans, were nominated in the North Ward; Floyd House and P. A. Wilbert in the South Ward, and E. Bryan Jacobs in the East Ward.

Democrats nominated were M. M. Stephenson and Charles R. Clark in the North Ward; C. A. Zahniser in the South Ward, and Raymond Scott in the East Ward.

Rabid Foxes in Perry Township

Dr. Elmer E. Marx, Waynesburg veterinarian, has received notice that a fox which attacked R. M. Spitznogle of Mt. Morris R. D. 1, was infected with rabies. Mr. Spitznogle was able to kill it after it had attempted to bite his leg. It had also attacked two beagle hounds near his home earlier in the day.

Residents are advised to watch actions of foxes, raccoons, skunks, possums or ground hogs which seem to show unusual behavior.

High School Baccalaureate Sunday Night

Rev. Ronald Moseley, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will be speaker at the baccalaureate in Waynesburg High School auditorium Sunday night at 8 o'clock.

Following is the program: Processional—Louise M. Manifold, organist.

Invocation—Rev. E. B. King, pastor Christian Church.

Mixed Quartet—"As They Flew Into Egypt," by Shawkey-Francis. Anna Jane Baily, Georgia Miller, Charles Acheson, Carl King.

Scripture Reading—Rev. Robert J. Bowden, Waynesburg College.

Prayer—Rev. Harry E. Gardner, Waynesburg College.

Sermon—"You Bet Your Life," Rev. Ronald Moseley, First Methodist Church.

Mixed Quartet—"I Walk With God," Reed.

Benediction—Rev. E. B. King.

There are 53 teachers in the borough and they have been divided into six groups. Group one—11 teachers, 30 or more years' experience; group two—12 teachers, 20 to 29 years of experience; group three—13 teachers, 10 to 19 years of experience; group four—nine teachers, five to nine years of experience; group five—none to four years of experience, and group six—less than two years of experience in this district.

Waynesburg Teachers Granted Salary Increase

Waynesburg borough school teachers will receive salary increases as of September 1955, based on length of experience.

The increase depends upon state funds returned annually to the borough schools being continued at the same rate or higher.

The raises will cost the school district approximately $10,000.

Announcement of the raise was made at the Waynesburg Teachers' Association meeting Thursday night by Charles L. Reed, chairman of the board's salary committee.

Miss Anna G. Meighen, co-chairman of the Teachers Association salary committee, expressed the group's appreciation for the increases, which were the first wide scale coverage raises granted by the Waynesburg School District in more than 20 years.

There are 53 teachers in the borough and they have been divided into six groups. Group one—11 teachers, 30 or more years' experience; group two—12 teachers, 20 to 29 years of experience; group three—13 teachers, 10 to 19 years of experience; group four—nine teachers, five to nine years of experience; group five—none to four years of experience, and group six—less than two years of experience in this district.

The five borough principals were given raises under a separate agreement. This was estimated at $1,000 total.

The raise scheduled is in addition to the annual state pay increase of $200, paid until the teacher reaches the mandatory maximum under the state schedule of $4,400 for those teachers with college certificates and $4,800 for teachers with master's degrees.

For Group One, the program will take teachers to the state maximum salary in the next two years, with equal raises each year.

Group Two teachers were granted a $300 annual base pay increase; Group Three, $150 annually, and Group Four, $75 annually.

Group Five teachers, with none to four years total experience in teaching, and Group Six, with less than two years of experience in the district, receive no base pay increases now.

The Republican Was Good, Even Then

Jesse McCracken of Aleppo Township on Monday brought to our office a Waynesburg Republican of October 7, 1884, which had belonged to John M. Benson, also of Aleppo.

The issue, outside of advertising and a little local news, was entirely concerned with the Cleveland presidential campaign.

The paper is in almost as good condition as the one in our files.

The Pioneer History of Greene County, Penna.

By L. K. EVANS

The Other Wetzel Boys

Martin was the oldest of the family, and no doubt endured more of the real hardship of border life than did any of the rest. I imagine that he was versed in all the arts of Indian warfare, and was an adept in all the arts of science. He was the pioneer among the boys and gave them the first lessons in the use of the gun etc. But he was once surprised and taken prisoner by the wily savages. He manifested the greatest satisfaction with his condition and soon succeeded in luring the Indians into the belief that he was perfectly content with them—not even entertaining a thought of home. He acquired implicit confidence and was adopted into one of the leading families. But he never ceased to think of home, with a most intense longing to return to it. He from the first determined to escape, but not to signalize this event by some daring act of vengeance upon the race who had dragged him away from his friends. Finally the opportunity came. He and three Indians went on a hunting expedition. One day he managed to meet one of them far from the camp, where he shot and scalped him. At night he manifested so much concern about the missing Indian that the other two had no suspicion of the foul deed. The next day the second one fell a victim to his gun, whom having scalped, he made his way to the camp resolved to complete the bloody tragedy and escape to his home. Presently the lone Indian came in with his load of game. Martin went forward upon the pretense of aiding him in ridding himself of the load. When the Indian stopped to put off the game, Wetzel struck him such a powerful blow with his tomahawk as laid him dead at his feet. Apprehending now no danger of pursuit he leisurely packed up what provender he could carry and made his way home with the three scalps, after an absence of nearly a year.

The first adventure in which John Wetzel engaged, of which I have any knowledge, was a horse stealing expedition. Seven daring spirits joined themselves together for the purpose of visiting the Indian country avowedly to steal horses in retaliation of like depredations committed on the settlements by the Indians. They penetrated the forests to a point near the head waters of Muskingum where they made a capture of fifteen good horses. They then immediately began a hasty retreat. On the evening of the second day of their homeward march one of their party was taken violently ill and could not travel. This caused them to encamp for the night. Near morning they were surprised and attacked by Indians, and three of their party were killed outright, while the other four escaped with their lives only, having abandoned horses, guns, blankets and all accoutrements in their haste to get away. They got back to the settlement after experiencing many and severe hardships, and thus ended the horse stealing project.

John Wetzel and Veach Dickerson one time conceived the project of taking an Indian prisoner. No reason could be assigned for this adventure except the mere novelty of the thing, as it had not been a custom among the whites to take Indian prisoners of war. With this avowed intent, these daring spirits set out having painted and dressed in complete Indian fashion. They traversed the unbroken forest to near the Sandusky River before they met with an opportunity to attempt their purpose. Here they concealed themselves close to a path. The first day several parties passed along, too great in numbers to suit the purpose of the two adventurers. On the second day of the ambush they saw two come sauntering along. They immediately stepped into the path and walking forward greeted the Indians in the most familiar terms. When within reaching distance, Wetzel struck one down while Dickerson seized the other. Wetzel coming to his aid, they bound him, and commenced a hasty retreat. All worked well till after they had crossed the Muskingum some distance, when their captive became suddenly stubborn and determined to die there rather than be taken to the settlements to be tortured to death amid the scoffs and jeers of the whites. They promised that he should not be tortured—that the things he so much dreaded should not occur. But he was incredulous and would not proceed. They then applied a withe well to his back, but he only became the more obstinate. All their efforts to induce him to travel proving abortive, they concluded to kill him and take his scalp. This they did and made haste to join their friends. They had succeeded in bringing home with them two scalps but the boasted prisoner was not among the trophies. They did not secure the promised "pet." At this day the contemplation of such a fact causes one to shudder with horror; but then such things were a different aspect. John Wetzel and Dickerson both died in the vicinity of Wheeling.

Of Jacob Wetzel I have already given one incident. He was a small boy then. He afterwards became a stalwart and powerful man, and lived to teach his captors many terrible lessons in their peculiar mode of warfare. Though the hero of many an exploit in which he distinguished himself as second to no border hero of his time, the particulars of only one of them have been preserved with any degree of distinctness. In this affair he was associated with the world renowned Simon Kenton, in a fall hunt. They repaired to the hill country near the mouth of the Kentucky River. When they arrived at the place where they contemplated establishing their camp they discovered signs that the ground had been preoccupied by Indians. A Wetzel and a Kenton were not the men to abandon a project without sufficient reason. They resolved to discover the strength of the party. They at once set about finding their camp—which they succeeded in doing on the evening of the second day of their search.

Upon reconnoitering the situation they found the party to consist of five warriors, but notwithstanding our heroes numbered only two, they resolved to attack the camp. But contrary to usual expectations, agreed to defer the onset till daylight. They took their position behind a large log near the foe, and awaited the full blown day. Wetzel had a double barreled rifle, and at the concerted signal both fired and two of the Indians bit the dust. Wetzel immediately discharged his other barrel and another fell. Now their numbers were equal and our heroes sprang over the log into the camp with awful yells. The remaining two Indians took to their heels in different directions, one closely pursued by the athletic Kenton, and the other by the fleet footed Wetzel. Both were overtaken, and when Wetzel and Kenton next met an Indian's scalp graced the belt of each.

With this sketch I bid farewell to the Wetzel family, trusting that I have done no injustice to the memory of these brave, generous, but oft times misguided and overzealous men. For further details of the foregoing incidents and adventures I take pleasure in referring the reader to "Our Western Border," a late and most interesting work by Charles McKnight, Esq., of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.—L. K. EVANS.

George Morris

The subject of this sketch leads me again into the unbroken wilderness of a hundred years ago. Of his ancestors I have little or no information. He was a native of New Jersey, born in the year 1774, of an honorable parentage, but possessing neither titular rank nor distinguishing wealth. Leaving home by consent of his parents, at the early age of 18, he became the architect of his own fortune.

Co-Op Association To Sponsor Trips For Rural Youths

Five hundred rural youths and their leaders will take part in educational tours to be sponsored this summer by Farm Bureau Cooperatives in Pennsylvania.

George M. Myers, director of membership relations for Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, Harrisburg, said approximately 400 youths will participate in 28 one-day tours.

The one-day tours, arranged by local Farm Bureau organizations, will take the youths to such places as cooperative facilities, grain elevators, livestock markets, poultry processing plants and fruit and vegetable exchanges, Myers added.

Myers explained that the trips will be designed to show the youths how farmers secure farm supplies and how farm products reach consumers.

Approximately 100 other youths and leaders will be taken on a seven-day trip to attend the annual meeting of the American Institute of Cooperation at Purdue University, West Lafayette, Indiana.

Four participants will be selected on a competitive basis. The selection process will include written reports covering the experience gained by youths in their 4-H Club and FFA farming programs and knowledge of farmer cooperative activities.

Those youths turning in the best reports will receive the trip to Purdue, Myers explained. He added that the trip would be made by buses and would cover the period from August 6 to 13.

In several areas of the state, other farm cooperatives have joined the Farm Bureau organizations in co-sponsoring the program.

Youths living in these counties will participate in the program: Adams, Armstrong, Bedford, Berks, Butler, Bucks, Cambria, Centre, Chester, Cumberland, Dauphin, Delaware, Franklin, Greene, Jefferson, Lancaster, Lawrence, Lebanon, Lehigh, Mercer, Montgomery, Mifflin, Northampton, Perry, Schuylkill, Somerset, Union, Washington and York.

Students Give Dean New Auto

—Ames, Iowa—

An Iowa State College dean, who has never coached the school's athletic teams, got a surprise gift, a new automobile, from students and friends last week.

"I just can't believe it," M. D. Helsler, dean of student affairs, repeated after he was given a new Cadillac in a surprise ceremony before 8,000 persons in the college's football stadium.

Helsler, a member of the faculty for 40 years, got as many cheers as a halfback running a touchdown when the car was presented to him. It was purchased by donations of students and friends in response to criticisms that coaches receive valuable gifts while professors are overlooked.

Whisky Rebel's Home May Be Demolished

—Washington, Pa.—

There's a historic stone house here that's 167 years old, but it may not be around for its 168th birthday anniversary.

The house was built in 1788 by David Bradford, an attorney and a leader in the Whisky Rebellion. Later, it became the birthplace of Rebecca Harding, mother of the late Richard Harding Davis, famed war correspondent.

The windows of the house are plastered with cigaret and movie advertisements now. The interior is dark and gloomy. No one lives there.

The present owner, William McWreath, is thinking about tearing it down for a parking lot. With a parking lot he at least would have some income to offset taxes.

Proposals have been made from time to time to raise funds to save the house. So far, none of the plans has materialized.

When Bradford built the home it was considered one of the finest west of the Allegheny Mountains. The stairway, built of South American mahogany, stands today just as it did in his time.

With the rise of the Whisky Rebellion in 1794, Bradford became one of its leaders in Western Pennsylvania. The revolt by the people west of the Alleghenies stemmed from their reluctance to pay an excise tax on whisky.

As the rebellion flared into armed revolt, George Washington, then President, sent a militia of 13,000 into Western Pennsylvania to quell the insurrection.

Bradford fled to the South. He moved down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers to Louisiana, then

U. S. Steel Institutes Payment by Check

Payment by check was instituted in the Frick District on April 22, when United States Steel contract employees received their wages.

W. R. Stedman, general superintendent, Frick District, pointed out that after discussions with the UMWA officials and local mine committees, it was decided that the payment by check had many advantages. Miners would not have to line up at pay windows nor have the risk of carrying cash on their persons. Also, greater security is gained since a check can be replaced, whereas lost cash is seldom recovered.

The corporation made special arrangements with the following banks to cash the checks without charge to the employee: The Galatin National Bank in Uniontown, New Salem, Republic, Pt. Marion, Perryopolis, Connellsville and Dawson; First National Bank in Carmichaels and Fredricktown; National Deposit Bank and First National Bank in Brownsville; Second National Bank in Masontown, and the First State Bank in Smithfield.

traveled eastward to Bayou Sarah in Spanish West Florida. There he settled and opened a flour business. He also continued practicing law and in 1805 was admitted to the bar of New Orleans. In 1810, a relatively wealthy man, he died in Bayou Sarah.

Twenty-one years later in the Bradford house in Washington, Rebecca Harding was born. As the years went by she became a writer and produced several best-sellers of her time.

She married L. Clark Davis, a Philadelphia newspaper editor, and to this union was born a son, Richard Harding Davis. Richard later won fame as a newspaper correspondent and author of adventure stories.

Natural Gas In Plentiful Supply

"Natural gas will be in plentiful supply in this area for years to come," M. G. Shriver, Assistant Superintendent of The Peoples Natural Gas Company's Washington Field District, said this week.

"Local customers of Peoples who have turned or are turning to gas for their fuel needs can rest assured," Shriver said, "that they will not be haunted by gas shortages."

Mr. Shriver said he based his statement on latest natural gas reserve figures released by the committee on reserves of the American Gas Association and the American Petroleum Institute.

"As of December 31, 1954, proved recoverable natural gas reserves reached a new high of 211.7 trillion cubic feet," he said. "The figure represented an increase of 263 billion cubic feet over reserves of 211.4 trillion cubic feet a year earlier."

Pointing out that the report followed a traditional pattern, Mr. Shriver said new discoveries of natural gas during 1954 again exceeded production, even though production gained a new peak of 9.4 trillion cubic feet.

"Production of natural gas," he said, "was about two billion cubic feet more in 1954 than in the previous year. Geologists and production men in the Appalachian area, as well as those in other gas producing regions of the United States, are constantly locating new sources of gas supply. Their success is reflected in the significant fact that amounts of gas made available by new discoveries have consistently exceeded amounts used during yearly periods. This has been true for a number of years," he said.

Saturday drivers BEWARE

More accidents—and more fatal accidents—occur on Saturday than on any other day of the week.

Saturday drivers accounted for more than 20% of Pennsylvania highway fatalities last year—more than any other single day of the week. Friday, Saturday and Sunday drivers accounted for more than half of Pennsylvania's 1538 highway deaths. This Saturday...this week end...every week end...drive as though your life depends on it...IT-DOES!

Drive to stay alive in '55!

This message in the interest of highway safety is one of a series prepared and disseminated by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association and the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue.

Farmers Get OK To Administer Poultry Vaccine

Action that will enable Pennsylvania farmers and poultrymen greatly to cut down annual financial losses from diseases of chickens and turkeys has been taken by Dr. William L. Tenning, State Secretary of Agriculture.

Through an official proclamation he gave permission to poultry owners to purchase and themselves administer infectious bronchitis vaccine to their flocks.

The Secretary's notice to the poultry industry also continued this same privilege for the use of fowl pox vaccine, pigeon pox vaccine and Newcastle disease vaccine.

The move resulted from Secretary Henning's "open door" policy with all Pennsylvania agricultural organizations and services. It was decided upon through consultation and cooperation with representatives of the poultry industry, the agricultural extension service and the veterinary profession, he said.

"This new service should enable poultrymen materially to reduce the present rate of mortality in flocks due to disease," he declared. "Losses have been running 20 per cent or more and we want to do everything possible to help farmers reduce them."

He explained that poultrymen may use the approved vaccines to vaccinate their own birds provided they purchase them from a licensed veterinarian or an approved biological producer licensed by the State Bureau of Animal Industry to sell or distribute biological products for veterinary use.

Veterinarians and producers are required to report monthly to the bureau on all sales. Poultrymen should consult with their veterinarian. Expanded use of the five State regional poultry diagnostic laboratories will further reduce losses.

Charting STEEL'S PROGRESS

STEEL IS MADE IN 27 STATES

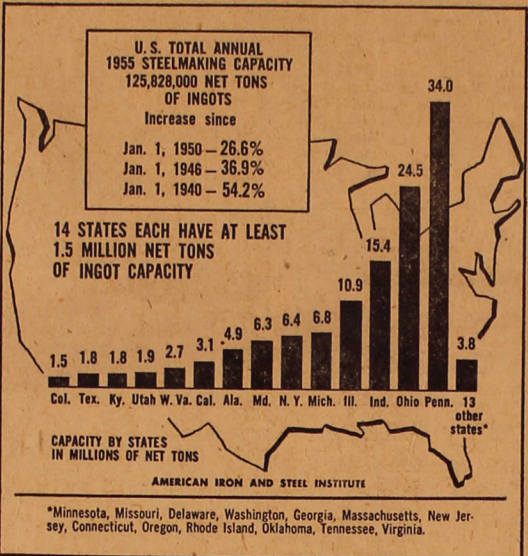

When steelmaking capacity reached a new peak of 125.8 million net tons of ingots annually at the beginning of 1955, steel was being made in 27 states. Each of 14 states had a capacity of 1.5 million tons or more. Over a fourth of the total capacity was located in the state of Pennsylvania, the nation's leading steel producer.

Oregon, Tennessee and Utah, which had no steelmaking capacity prior to World War II, are now listed among the steelmaking states.

California, Colorado, Kentucky, Texas and Utah since 1940 have moved into the group of 14 states which have over 1.5 million tons of capacity.

Between the start of 1940 and 1955, the steelmaking capacity of the nation was increased 64.2 per cent. It was increased 26.6 per cent since 1950 alone.

President Accepts USO Honorary Chairmanship

President Eisenhower receives a scroll in appreciation for his acceptance of USO's honorary chairmanship from Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., (far right) of Akron, Ohio, USO's Board Chairman, and Emil Schram (second from right) of Peru, Indiana, USO President. At the meeting in the White House, Admiral J. L. Hall, Jr., Alexandria, Va., was announced as USO National Campaign Chairman. The USO this year will seek $13,934,444 for operational expenses in 1956 through community chests and united funds and an independent campaign in New York City. Adm. Hall commanded the Amphibious Forces at Omaha Beach, Sicily, North Africa and Okinawa in World War II. USO has 208 operations in this country and 24 overseas located in Alaska, Guam, Okinawa, Philippines, Japan, France, Greece, Turkey, North Africa, Italy, Korea, and the Canal Zone.

Commonwealth's One-Room Schools Disappearing At 250-a-Year Rate

The little red schoolhouse, landmark of rural regions in another day, may be gone from the Pennsylvania scene in the next decade.

The Department of Public Instruction reported that an average of 250 of the old schools—mostly one-room affairs—are going out of use each year.

At that rate, an estimated 1,200 still in existence could be gone within five years, said Roy W. Robinson, chief of consolidation and transportation. He added:

"We don't expect them to be all gone in that time, however."

He said there are some rural areas which are just too remote to consolidate their school districts with others and where it would be impractical at present.

As an incentive toward consolidation of districts and construction of larger, modern school facilities, the commonwealth pays $200 a year to each district for each smaller school eliminated.

Although about 1,200 of the one-room school buildings remain about half of these—in teaching procedure, at least—bear little resemblance to the rural schools of former years.

Cumberland Legion Awards

Norma Jean Gabler, Cumberland Township High School senior, has been awarded a $100 scholarship for her freshman year in college, by Cumberland Post No. 400, American Legion. Presentation will be made at commencement.

Crater on Moon to be Named for Einstein

—London—
A 28-mile-wide crater on the moon is to be named for Professor Albert Einstein, famous physicist who passed on last month, it was announced here.

The suggestion that one of the moon's 65 craters should be named for him was made by the Washington Naval Observatory. They asked Dr. H. B. Wilkins, director of the British Astronomical Association's lunar section to choose the crater.

Dr. Wilkins, world authority on the placing of moon craters, chose one named "Simpellius D." It is near a crater named after Sir Isaac Newton, 17th century British philosopher, who conceived the idea of universal gravitation after seeing an apple fall in his garden.

The moon's craters are centers for a system of bright rays which radiate in starlike patterns thousands of miles long. They are believed to be formed by some crystalline substance which comes from the interior of the moon through cracks in the crust.

The craters are believed to have originated from a volcanic source or from meteoritic bombardment.

Many of them are named after Greek philosophers or mythological characters.

Aren't you forgetting something?

Let's See—

A baby bath to splash in, a bassinet to

howl in, bottles to break, buggy to sleep in,

clothing to grow out of,

toys to ignore.

It gets to be a long list. But a baby needs many, many things. And one of them—strangely enough—is money.

In fact, can you think of anyone who needs a little financial security more than a helpless baby does?

Money saved now will protect him against future emergencies, buy him fine medical care, help pay, someday, for a good college education.

And the best way to give a baby financial security is through U. S. Series E Savings Bonds. Because Savings Bonds are money in its safest form: money that's a little harder to spend than cash, money that can't be lost or destroyed, money that's constantly earning interest.

To the love and comfort you're giving your baby, why not start now to add the solid, reliable protection of United States Savings Bonds—one of the world's surest, finest investments.

Sign for the easy automatic Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Or if self-employed, invest regularly in U. S. Savings Bonds at your bank.

A special message to aunts • uncles • cousins

grandmothers • grandfathers godmothers • godfathers • friends

Buy that child helpful, welcome Savings Bonds — for birthdays, Christmases, graduations.

Overtones

Music would be little more than flat sound without "overtones." Ask your church organist about them sometime.

She'll tell you that the basic notes of the scale are music's "fundamentals"—true to pitch, but with little characteristic beauty. Good musicians add overtones to these notes. The violinist vibrates his hand slightly to make the instrument sing. Likewise, as a trained organist pulls the stops of the instrument, fundamental songs of faith receive overtones of compelling beauty and meaning.

If you have time, read this over again. For in understanding the overtone's contribution to music, you understand why the church is so important in our lives. The fundamental truths of the Bible are available to even the casual reader. But when the overtones of the church service—the music, the light, the friendships, the little faces in the Sunday School—are added to these fundamentals, the religious experience deepens and grows.

Overtones . . . we need them so much in life to help us bring happiness out of routine; meaning from trifles; joy from the seemingly humdrum of life.

Your church service—the overtone to truth—stands ready to add overtones to your life too.

I will be glad and rejoice in thee: I will sing praise to thy name, O thou Most High. —Psalm 9:2

Fifty-Year History of Greene County Sports

By GEORGE N. THOMAS

RIFLE TEAMS
The Famous Taylors

Of Greene County's pioneer families, perhaps none is so closely connected with rifles and shooting as the famed Taylors. Their ancestors helped chase the Indians out of the county. They are descendants of the hardy Elizabethan English settlers who trekked across the Alleghenies on foot and horseback from Old Virginia into the then frontier wilderness and part of Augusta County of the Old Dominion State.

And like other frontiersmen, the Taylors lived by the gun. They depended on it for survival as well as food for which they killed turkey, deer and other wild animals.

Finally, their westward journey ended near Bluff, where they decided to settle.

Down through the generations came men and women of keen eyesight, steady nerves and unerring shooting which they apparently inherited.

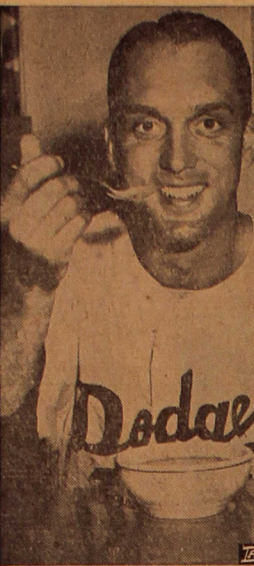

There are countless unknown and unheard of stories of the exploits and accomplishments of the Taylors and their relatives.

It wasn't until the last half century that they made the news through the feats of Roy and Bill Taylor and later by the sharpshooting of Earl and Virginia Lee Taylor.

Actually, Roy and Bill came along too soon to gain deserved recognition through organized competition.

When Roy did get around to entering the post-World War I

Soup for Breakfast!

Carl Erskine, Brooklyn Dodger pitcher, is fighting his weight problem—by having soup for breakfast! Carl had an appendectomy during the winter and arrived at the training camp five pounds underweight. He ate substantial breakfasts, including cream soups with rich cream added, to get back to his normal playing weight.

American Legion shoots, he emerged among the top 10 in the nation for years.

Roy helped to organize the Waynesburg Gun Club, then worked it in as an integral part of the Waynesburg Sportsmen's Association.

In his prime, in the 1920s and 1930s, Roy became so accurate that it almost did him no good.

That's because he favored money shoots—contests in which the best shot takes home the stakes—and he broke up the shoots as fast as they were organized simply by making an appearance.

Roy had broken up as many as three shooting matches in one day because as soon as he pulled up with his trusty rifle, other shooters took their money and their guns and returned home.

No one wanted to shoot against Roy Taylor.

And Bill, also called "Windy," was just as bad—for the opposition, that is.

He, too, was an organizer of the Gun Club and helped see it through the lean days when citizens didn't trust people running around with guns and firing at targets.

Bill did right well in money shoots and sent many gunmen home wishing they had his accuracy—or had practiced more.

On one occasion, Windy Bill was the first in a shoot. He fired five shots, off-hand, and all five not only struck the bull's eye,

Striped Squirrels In Venango County

A little mammal not native to Pennsylvania was recently photographed on State Game Lands south of Polk, by R. D. Parham, an officer from the Game Commission's Northwest Division offices. The animal in question is the thirteen-lined ground squirrel, or striped gopher. It is about the size and appearance of the chipmunk, though longer in body.

The striped gopher was introduced in Pennsylvania about the year 1900, when a captive pair escaped in the vicinity of the Venango County town. The booklet "Mammal Survey of Northwestern Pennsylvania," authored by Neil D. Richmond and Harry R. Roslund, Pittman-Robertson research men, and published in 1949 has this to say about the little burrowing animal in this state:

"In approximately 50 years these ground squirrels extended their range until they now occur in scattered colonies in western Venango and northeastern Mercer Counties. Their habitat is pasture fields and other short grass areas. They were more abundant in the 'thirties'. We noticed a decrease in the spring of 1947 from what they had been the previous fall. It seems that some factor or factors, possibly predation, climate, or both are acting to hold this species in check."

but all went through the same hole.

More than 30 other shooters standing by for their turn, conceded the match, took their irons and returned home.

Because they had mastered shooting as an art, both Roy and Bill turned instructors to countless hopefuls at the club.

But on no one did they realize better results than upon their two offsprings, Virginia Lee and Earl.

Virginia Lee was one of the best shooters ever to pick up a gun in Pennsylvania. Certainly she excelled above all other women in the club.

She won every match she entered, but what disturbed her most was that her sex kept her from becoming a state champion. Rules forbade women from state competitions.

But she and Earl shot brilliantly while on the best team Waynesburg High ever had.

Earl was the kingpin of county shooters from the time he led up the high school teams to victories until he became a world's titleholder.

He was handed his first gun at the age of four and his dad, Bill, taught him early, as Earl began picking off squirrels, birds, rabbits and deer—he shot a 12-point buck when only 12.

From 1948 through 1950, Earl and his teammates, Michael Eddy, Juanita Van Cleve, Bill Dulaney, upset the state defending champions, Oakmont, by 30 points, and went on to win the all-around state title, that amounted to indoor and outdoor togas.

And the same group placed in the national junior indoor championships.

Earl won his first medal at nine and became an individual state champ in 1948.

The same year he became a world renowned by setting two national and world records in the 50-yard any-site and 100-yard iron site events, in the junior division.

At Altoona, he hit 36x's while scoring 400 out of 400 in the 50-yard event, and in Frostburg, Md., in the iron site try, he fired a score of 183 with 12 x's.

At 15, he defeated two world's champs in a Vandergrift shoot, and at the half century Earl was the only member of the Gun Club with a "Master" rating.

Earl's sharp eyes brought wins and praise to many Greene County teams from high school through Junior Legion, American Legion and Sportsmen's Club's teams.

The latter fired up as unofficial state champs in 1950 and ranked third in the nation among clubs the same year.

The Taylors thought nothing of shooting out the eye of a rat from a cross the street—that would give even Daniel Boone the heebie-jeebies, or pick off the tops of pencils at 50 feet, firing off-hand.

Although some will argue that shooting like that must be innate, let them explain the long hours of practice consumed by the Taylors and their counterparts.

Many of them were out practicing at 7 a. m., firing away before going to work.

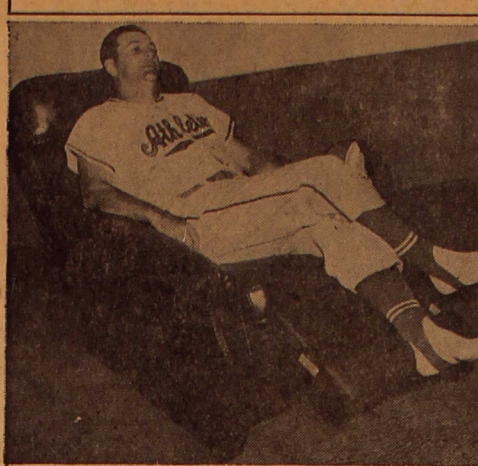

So far as history knows, only one target has escaped the sites of the closely-related Taylors, Tustins and Coles.

During one of their hunts a swift grouse miraculously dodged an assault from the huntsmen and it bobbed when it should have bobbed and ducked when it should have ducked.

After some time they took compassion on the grouse, declared a truce and allowed the bird to wander away to its freedom.

Considering the transition from shooting for rewards and awards to their contribution to national defense in time of war, they certainly deserve to be called the Champion Taylors.

Lou Boudreau Dreams of Pennant?

Lou Boudreau, manager of the Kansas City Athletics, relaxes in his new Barcalounger, given to him by the Barcalounger Manufacturing Company with best wishes on the start of another baseball season.

Could he be day-dreaming of the first division—or even a pennant. For with a new young team and an enthusiastic new home town behind them, the Athletics figure to be a dark horse in the American League this year. But no matter where they stand, when the stress and strain of the baseball season begins to tell, there's no better way to relax than to lean back in a reclining chair. Ask Lou!

Mt. Morris High Thinclads Victors In Wash-Greene Class C Meet

Coach Steve Bootz and his Mt. Morris High School thinclads won the Washington-Greene Class C Conference track meet at College Field, Washington, Friday. Four records were broken during the event.

The winner scored 67 1/2 points. Hickory was second with 40 1/2, McDonald third with 37, Midway fourth with 30 1/2, and East Washington fifth with 22 1/2.

Haley of Midway lowered the 100-yard dash mark to 10.4 bettering the 10.8 set by Frank Burns of Richhill in 1953.

White of Hickory, ran the mile in 4:38 to lower the mark by five tenths of a second. The old record was set last year by Joe Smith, also of Hickory.

Dieth of Mt. Morris threw the shot put 44 feet, nine inches to erase the old mark of 42 feet, 11 1/2 inches set by Liggett of Hickory in 1954.

Vore of East Washington set the other record when he made a leap of 19 feet, 8 1/2 inches in the broad jump, bettering his old mark of 18 feet, 4 1/2 inches, set last year.

Most of Mt. Morris' points were garnered in the 220 and 880 yard dashes, and the pole vault events. The winners grabbed nine points in each of these as Long was first and Morris second in the 220; Klink winning and Burris second in the 880, and Kerns tying with Morris for top honors in the pole vault. Long also took top honors in the 440 yard dash and the winners won the 880 and mile relays.

Moore to Defend Title June 22

—New York—

Archie Moore, whose best fighting weight fluctuates to meet the situation, has agreed to defend his world light heavyweight title against Carl (Bobo) Olson, the middleweight champion, in New York's Polo Grounds on Wednesday night, June 22.

The light heavyweight limit is 175 pounds but in his last bout Moore came in at 196 1/2 pounds and outpointed Nino Valdes, Cuban heavyweight rated by many the number one challenger for Marciano's crown.

Olson, a Hawaiian with a Scandinavian name, has fought himself out of opposition among the 160 pounders, whom he has ruled since whipping England's Randy Turpin on October 21, 1953. Should Olson defeat Moore he would be forced to relinquish his middleweight laurels.

$250,000 Purse For Auto '500

—Indianapolis, Ind.—

Estimation that the purse in this year's Memorial Day 500-mile race will top $500,000 for the second straight year has been issued by Anton Hulman, Jr., owner of the Indianapolis Speedway.

Hulman said cash accessory prizes donated so far total $22,500. In addition, $30,000 dollars in lap prizes also are assured, plus the Speedway's share of the purse.

Among this year's prizes will be a $500 award to the "forgotten men," those who fill the roles of alternate starters on the basis of their qualifying time.

Rabbit Outfights Cat

A Huntingdon County Game Protector, Dean M. Leggett, believes rabbits in his district are pretty tough. He says, "One day last winter, while Fish Warden Owens and I were releasing box-trapped rabbits, one of the rabbits ran straight for a barn. We were not surprised to see a large house cat at the barn strike out in hot pursuit. The cat kept after the zigzagging, speeding bunny until he caught it. Then came a surprise. The rabbit kicked and clawed about three times as fast as the cat, and the fur really flew. The struggle lasted only a few seconds. The rabbit got away without any help from us and the chase began again. But the cat soon played out, and the scared and scarred bunny finally disappeared into nearby cover."

New Type Bridge Tested on Rhine

—Darmstadt, Germany—

The United States Army spanned the Rhine River in 4 1/2 hours with a new-type floating bridge. It was the first time the 1,000-foot bridge had been used in crossing a major waterway.

The bridge is constructed on rubber pontoons. Special aluminum provides a lightweight superstructure.

Winter Olympics Draw 33 Nations

Official entries in the 1956 Winter Olympics, which will be held here, show a record 33 nations will compete. This is three more than the previous record of 30 at the 1952 Winter Games in Oslo, Norway.

Organizers said Austria, Japan, Yugoslavia, Poland and Rumania were the latest nations to announce participation officially.

Previously announced entries were Argentina, Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Canada, Czechoslovakia, Red China, South Korea, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, England, Iran, Iceland, Israel, Italy, Lichtenstein, Luxembourg, Monaco, Norway, Holland, The Sarr, Sweden, Switzerland, the Soviet Union and the United States.

The Russians, who made strong showings in winter sports at the European and world championships during the last three years, will be taking part in the Winter Games for the first time.
