State and U. S. Aid Speed Flood Clearance

The native courage and ingenuity of states struck by last week's torrential rains and subsequent floods, is in high gear to bring order out of chaos.

The full resources of the federal government have been pledged by President Eisenhower who flew over the devastated areas Tuesday and then met with governors of six states for a conference in Hartford, Conn.

The President expressed determination to see whether anything can be done toward preventing such flood havoc.

Governor Leader returning to Harrisburg from the conference estimated damage in Pennsylvania at close to a billion dollars.

The vast extent of havoc came into sharpened focus as workmen dug into the debris and surveyed the huge job ahead.

Persons killed by the flood or in accidents connected with it, including electrocution by fallen wires, were counted by states as follows: Pennsylvania, 93; Connecticut, 60; Massachusetts, 13; Rhode Island, 1; New Jersey, 16; New York, 4, and Virginia, 3.

Virginia suffered less destruction than the other six states and was the only one not designated a disaster area eligible for federal relief aid.

There was still no firm overall estimate of the damage costs, but here and there communities came through with rough guesses.

The Red Cross, which sent 260 specialists into the stricken area to survey cases of critical family need, said a partial count showed 34,169 families lost their homes in the deluge.

Two million dollars was allocated by the Red Cross to begin rehabilitation work and the organization estimated that five million would eventually be needed.

Industries and normal business life were paralyzed, throwing thousands out of work as long as damaged factories remain idle.

Coal Interests Say Atom 'No Threat'

—Washington—
Three men vitally interested in the coal industry say they are not worried by talk at the Geneva "Atoms-for-Peace" conference of atomic power replacing coal for generating electricity.

An American atomic scientist at the atoms-for-peace conference in Geneva forecast this year that United States nuclear-produced electricity may be competing with that from coal in the next 15 or 20 years. And a British scientist said that by the year 2000 it may be possible to get the same energy from one ton of uranium as from a million tons of coal.

However, Robert C. Byrd, Democrat of West Virginia, who represents the biggest coal-producing district in the nation, said coal will never be replaced. "Atomic energy, instead of replacing coal, will continue to call upon it for its own use," Mr. Byrd said. The present atomic program, he added, "is one of the greatest users of coal-produced energy."

Tom Pickett, executive vice president of the National Coal Association, said he can see no real threat to coal from atomic power in the foreseeable future.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, was out of the city, but a spokesman said his views run something like this: Atomic production of electric power is not "just around the corner" as some would have the public believe.

Neubauer's Remodel Greenhouses

Within a few days, Neubauer's Flowers, Inc., will complete their $25,000 remodeling and expansion program at their two-acre range of greenhouses in Cameron, West Virginia.

Included in this remodeling program was the installation of a new 125-horsepower boiler, completely automatic and installation of thermostatic valves for complete controlled heat throughout the entire range of greenhouses. The entire interior and exterior of the greenhouses has been renovated.

Besides furnishing their own needs in Cameron, Neubauer's operate a retail store in Moundsville, and in Waynesburg, and also furnish a continuous supply of flowers and blooming plants to the Pittsburgh market.

Open house at the greenhouses will be held this fall. The date will be announced later.

Economy League On State Support of Public Education

All children throughout the Commonwealth are entitled to equal educational opportunities.

Article 10, Section 1, of the Constitution provides that the General Assembly shall provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of public schools, wherein all the children of this Commonwealth above the age of six years may be educated, and shall appropriate at least one million dollars each year for that purpose.

Many different methods have been used to distribute the State Aid; number of taxables, number of children, minimum salaries, number of certified teachers, assessed valuation per teacher, population figures and assessed valuation of taxable real property.

For a number of years prior to 1947, one of the basic factors used in distributing school subsidies was the assessed value of taxable real estate.

Because of the variety of methods used by each of the 67 counties in arriving at the assessed value of real estate, also due to the fact that a low assessed value would mean more State Aid, the General Assembly realized that the school subsidies were not being distributed equitably.

The 1947 General Assembly created the State Tax Equalization Board. The principal function of the Board is to determine, annually, the aggregate market value of the assessed taxable real property in each of the Commonwealth's school districts. The market values are re-evaluated and revised annually to reflect any changes due to local economic conditions or other relevant data. The market value of each school district is certified annually to the Department of Public Instruction to be used as one of the basic factors in the distribution of state subsidies to each of the school districts.

The Pennsylvania State Tax Equalization Board, unlike similar boards and commissions in other states, has no supervision over local assessments of taxable real property; has no power to order reassessments, and has no legislatively prescribed responsibility for improving local assessments; nor does the Board have any control over local taxes or taxing functions of any kind.

The equalization system operates with three basic factors: local financial capacity, need, and local effort.

The local financial capacity is determined by the market value of taxable real property as certified by the State Tax Equalization Board.

The need for educational services is measured in terms of teaching units. A teaching unit consists of 22 high school or 30 (Continued on Page Five)

New 'Mayflower' To Be Constructed

—Brixham, England—
The 20-ton keel of a 20th century duplicate of the Mayflower, which will next year sail the Atlantic with immigrants to the United States, has been laid at a shipyard in this ancient port.

The ceremony was performed by Lieutenant Commander D. K. Winslow, a retired naval officer. Five of his ancestors sailed in the original 180-ton Mayflower from Plymouth, England, in 1620.

Standing nearby as Commander Winslow eased the keel into position with a jack was Dr. W. A. Baker, an American naval architect from Plymouth, Mass., who designed the vessel. The ship is expected to be launched in February. It will eventually sail from London to follow the original Mayflower's route, calling at Southampton, Dartmouth, and Plymouth.

It will carry a crew of 25 and 30 passengers, who will wear 17th century costumes for the trip.

Among the passengers will be the winners of an "ideal immigrant family" contest organized by the Mayflower Project, a nonprofit organization, which has undertaken to build the ship. The family will receive free passage to the United States where they will settle "as a living and enduring memorial to the ideals of Anglo-American friendship."

Edward F. Six, 45 years, of Blairtown, Waynesburg R. D. 3, was instantly killed about noon Tuesday when he was struck by an automobile while operating a pneumatic drill in the middle of Route 88 near the top of the Millsboro Hill.

The highway is being widened from two lanes to three by the Clyde S. Yoders Construction Company of Uniontown.

Mr. Six was a son of William Six and the late Mary Roberts Six, and was born March 15, 1910, near Jollytown, where he lived until coming to Waynesburg 10 years ago. He had been employed by the Yoder Company five years.

He was a veteran of World War II, having served overseas, and was a member of James Farrell Post No. 330, American Legion, Waynesburg.

Tour Robena Coal Washer

Steel makers from U. S. Steel's National Works, whose proud boast is that they manufacture the world's finest pipe, saw one of the principal reasons for the high quality of their product at the Robena Coal Preparation plant Thursday.

They travelled over every level of the huge ten-story structure at Greensboro to see Robena coal stripped of its impurities until its analysis is just right for conversion to premium quality coke for National Works' blast furnaces.

At the top of the huge washing plant they saw the coal crushed and introduced into huge cones containing a magnetite water solution, the specific gravity of which is sufficient to float the coal while heavier impurities sink to the bottom. Then as they descended from level to level they saw the coal flow in water solution across large shaker tables with ribbed rubber surfaces to trap fine impurities called pyrites. After the cleaning process they followed the course of coal via large rubber conveyor belts to storage bins and from there to the tipples for loading into barges for shipment to the coke plant of U. S. Steel's Clairton Works.

John Durfee, superintendent of the coal washing plant, explained how the washer prepares coal of the coking qualities required by National Works blast furnaces.

Fort Sumter Excavated

—Charleston, S. C.—
The National Park Service has begun another excavation at historic Fort Sumter. It was the attack on Fort Sumter April 12, 1861, that launched the Civil War.

The present excavation is being undertaken to completely uncover the ruins of the men's barracks. A previous excavation several years ago went to a depth of only 10 feet. The present digging will continue to the original depth of 15 feet.

Army engineers covered the barracks after the Civil War to provide added protection against newer methods of warfare, particularly larger artillery shells.

New Veterans' Honor Roll To Be Built

Plans to replace the veterans' honor roll at Waynesburg High School with a stone and bronze structure have been announced by the school board and the student council. It will replace the present wood and glass honor roll which was dedicated May 27, 1945.

Victor Cello, principal of the school, stated that the present memorial needs repair, and that the list of names, more than 1,000 is not complete since it does not include Korean veterans.

Work will begin as soon as materials are available. Plans were drawn by Harold Jacobs, well known Waynesburg architect.

The new memorial will be erected on the site of the present one at the corner of Lincoln and Morgan streets. It will consist of a speaker's rostrum of field stone, on top of which will rest an open bronze book. The pages will carry an inscription honoring students and faculty members.

Behind the rostrum will be a 40-foot aluminum flag pole, hinged at the base so it can be lowered for repairs.

Encircling the rostrum will be a flagstone terrace constructed on two levels. On it will be two stone benches.

Student council funds were made possible through a student scrap drive during World War II. The drive netted enough money to buy a $1,000 Savings Bond which has now matured, and the fund was originally put aside for this purpose.

The expenditure of the fund was approved last spring by the Student Council headed by Robert Wiley. The present council president is Kenneth Emmerling.

Buckwheat Queen Picked for Festival

—Kingwood, W. Va.—
Miss Alicia Finn, Arthur Dale High School senior, will reign as Queen Ceres XIV at the 14th annual Buckwheat festival here September 29 to October 1.

More than 50,000 persons are estimated to have attended the Greene County Free Fair last week, making it one of the most successful ever held here.

Lists of prize winning exhibitors are to be found on other pages of the Republican.

Carmichaels Grange won first prize for its exhibit on "The Good All Round Farm." The display was based on a wheel of progress and a miniature comparison of rural life with modern rural home arrangement as central exhibits.

Second place in the large booth class went to East Franklin Grange, while Harveys Grange was third.

Pictures of Oliver Hudson Kelley, father of the Grange, and the seven Grange founders were used by the East Franklin members as the core of their exhibit, which accented the Grange victories, all of which helped to make the "Good All Round Farm."

First place in the small booth class went to Dunkard Township with its wide variety of usable farm products arranged about the theme, "Only By Laboring With God Can We Reap A Bountiful Harvest."

Second place in the small booth class was won by Aleppo Township Grange, with a farm-influenced "Do It Yourself" exhibit.

Hoover Run Grange won third honors with an impressive exhibit on the Home-Grange-School-Church theme.

Fourth place in the smaller Grange class went to Kirby Grange with an arrangement based on "Good Farm Practices, Improved Homes and Homesteads, Enlightened Family Life and Spiritual Well Being."

On Thursday, Bob Prince, radio and television voice of the Pittsburgh Pirates, collected on his Waynesburg rain day bet which he won from rain prophet John Dally, because it failed to rain in Waynesburg on July 29.

Dally paid off in a ceremony at the "big day" of the fair as Prince put on the Davy Crockett hat he won with the tail hanging down over his face. "I'm so used to watching a tail end ball club, it seems natural to have one dangling in my face," Prince quipped.

On Saturday the first aid team of Robena Slope Mine of the U. S. Steel Corporation, won first place in the Southwestern Pennsylvania Safety Association contest.

The seven-man teams were assigned problems of treating dummy casualties for specified injuries and judged on how well and how fast they did their work.

The Robena team scored 99.6 out of a possible 100 points.

In succeeding order came the Westland Mine of Pittsburgh Coal Company, Palmer Mine of U. S. Steel, Mathias Mine of Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, Warwick Mine of Duquesne Light Company, Mather Mine of Pickands-Mather Collieries, and Leisenring Mine No. 3 of U. S. Steel.

The first five teams will compete in a state contest September 10 at Carmichaels.

The Pioneer History of Greene County, Penna.

The old building is still in seemingly perfect condition, not the slightest crack appearing anywhere in the brick walls. Through the generosity of Rev. William Hanna of Canonsburg, Penna., it received a new slate roof in the summer of 1896. Though but a humble building, being 75x50 feet, three stories, it was well planned, and at the time of its erection numerous colleges had buildings not more capacious nor more imposing. There is no reason why it may not stand for hundreds of years, and it should be sacredly preserved as significant of the humble beginning of the institution, and a memento of high half a century of splendid educational work done within its walls.

The ecclesiastical relation of the college is of easy explanation. The founders were themselves Cumberland Presbyterians. Besides, the Presbyterians of the region had already one college too many; the disciples had one at Bethany; the Methodists one at Meadville; and thus in the case of our college it was the union of a church without a school and a school without a church. In its spirit and in its internal management and work the college is, however, practically unsectarian, neither the faculty nor the trustees being at any time composed wholly of Cumberland Presbyterians; and the patronage has represented all the Christian churches of the region, not excepting the Catholic; and it is certainly a credit to the management of the college that during the more than fifty years of its actual work, not a simple difficulty, certainly not any worthy of mention, has risen out of the mingling of students of religious affiliations so numerous and in some cases, so diverse.

In the course of time the Synod deemed it better to commit to a separate board the management of whatever of endowment had been secured, as also the business of raising more, and hence was chartered the Board of Trust of the Pennsylvania Synod of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, with power to receive, hold, and invest the funds of the Synod designed for education purposes generally and for the endowment of Waynesburg College; and this board now consists of Dr. J. T. Ullom, president; J. A. F. Randolph, treasurer; W. T. Hays, secretary; R. L. Parkinson, and R. F. Downey. This board is not subject to annual election, as are trustees. It holds as part of the endowment, the lot of ground of about three acres lying north of the college buildings, and a total endowment of property, money and pledges supposed reliable, about $50,000. The interest realized on invested endowment goes to support the faculty.

The important relation of this Board of Trust to the general welfare of the college is too obvious to need explanation, and it is due to note in passing that the board seems to execute its trust and transact its business with a degree of care and fidelity which are a guarantee of a shrewd guardianship and application of funds in accordance with the design of the donors.

Ecclesiastically, Waynesburg College is, then, the child of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, and the Pennsylvania Synod of that body is the guiding fostering mother. The denomination began its work in Pennsylvania in the early part of the century, and very early in its work began to plan for the establishment of an institution of learning. Madison College at Uniontown, Penna., was its first educational venture; but lack of means and hurtful dissensions soon brought that effort to an end, the college itself soon becoming extinct. The next endeavor was at Beverly, Ohio, to which point the president of Madison College and the attention of the Synod was transferred, that territory being then a part of the Pennsylvania Synod. But this endeavor had less continuance and more inglorious failure than the former, the president forsaking it to warn the people of the near approach of the "end of the world," as the Millerites of the forties would have it. The attention of the denomination was then concentrated on Greene Academy with Rev. Joshua Loughman, a C. P. minister, as its principal; and from the academy the church transferred into Waynesburg College both its attention and the principal of the now extinct academy.

The following bit of local history may be suitably introduced here:

In May or June Rev. Leroy Woods and Rev. Milton Bird were holding a meeting at Ten Mile, Washington County, Penna., when an invitation was extended to them to come to Waynesburg and hold a meeting. At the close of the Waynesburg meeting, on request of Mrs. Isaac Beeson (a sister of Mr. Henry L. Pennock, who was a convert of the meeting), then visiting in Waynesburg, the two ministers next visited Uniontown, and there held a meeting. On request of General Alex McClelland of Smithfield, Penna., they next held a meeting in McClelland's academy. At the close of the Waynesburg meeting, funds being solicited for the purpose by the woman well known to Waynesburg as Aunt Maria Harvey, a new suit was presented to each of the ministers. The contributions for the two suits proving liberal beyond what was needed, Miss Harvey said, "Now let us purchase for each a horse, saddle and bridle," which also was done. The ministers declared the Waynesburg people the most liberal they had met, and on their own steeds, they made their way to Uniontown. The circumstances related furnish a striking illustration of the fact that from beginnings very humble may come results of great proportions and permanent value. Waynesburg College and all the work it has done are but a part of the fruits of the labors of those two and a few other earnest ministers.

The first building was finished in the autumn of 1851, and on the first Monday in November the work of instruction began in it. Coming from my home near Brownsville, and bringing with me two students, I reached Waynesburg the opening day of the term, to act in the double capacity of student and a teacher in the preparatory department. Mr. Frank Patterson, who was a student, being my associate in the preparatory instruction. I found here as the faculty of the college, Rev. Joshua Loughran, president; Rev. R. M. Fish, professor of mathematics, and Miss Margaret K. Bell. These met the requirement of the charter, that the building was to be placed "under the control of the Pennsylvania Presbytery of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church of the United States upon the condition that a college shall be started in which at least three professorships shall be sustained by the said Presbytery"; and this "condition" has at all times been complied with by the Church (the Synod, to which the chartered rights and obligations were transferred by action of the Presbytery, a corresponding amendment to the charter being made).

At the close of the year 1852 three young ladies were graduated: Misses Martha Bayard, Caroline Hook and Elizabeth Crawford. The first class of young men graduated in September 1852, consisting of James R. Rinehart, William E. Gapen, Clark Hackney and A. B. Miller. Several young ladies were graduated at this commencement, and the college has every subsequent year graduated a class. During our civil war the class of 1862 consisted of but one graduate.

On the day of my graduation I was nominated by the Synod (then in session in Waynesburg) to the professorship of mathematics, Professor Fish having resigned on account of inadequate salary. A year of harmonious work brought us to the commencement of 1854, when a still larger class received diplomas. At this stage President Loughran tendered his resignation, and it was accepted. While there were some criticisms on his management of the college, the main reason for Mr. Loughran's resignation was lack of support, as he himself told me, declaring at the same time that he thought me "foolish in remaining with the college" when the outlook was so discouraging.

The Synod's meeting that year not occurring until after the opening of the fall term, the college work went forward for a few weeks without a president, but in October the Synod selected Rev. J. P. Weethes, who had been president of the (then) defunct Madison College and afterward at the head of the fruitless effort at Beverly, Ohio. During Mr. Weethes's term there was much discussion in regard to what should be the complexion of the institution; whether a college and female seminary, or simply a college admitting both sexes. As a kind of compromise arrangement, the trustees decided that it was a college with a "female department," the said department to have its own principal. But usage has long disregarded the proposed arrangement, and the college admits students regardless of sex, as being all alike under the one administration. The college was certainly one of the first to admit both sexes—I know of but one that preceded it in this respect.

Texas Eastern helps take the slip out of scatter rugs

TEXAS EASTERN SERVES THE COMPANIES THAT SERVE YOU
Latex backing, after being applied, is dried and cured in gas-fired ovens. Gas is supplied Aldon Rug Mills in Lenni, Pennsylvania, by the Philadelphia Electric Company, a customer of Texas Eastern.

Natural gas transported by Texas Eastern aids Aldon Rug Mills in adding a safety factor to modern scatter rugs. Aldon makes a new and popular tufted rug with a non-skid latex rubber backing. To cure and dry this latex backing and keep up with fast production schedules was a tough heating problem. A special gas-fired oven with four different and critical temperature ranges solved the problem. Aldon chose gas because it is clean, flexible and provides instant heat.

TEXAS EASTERN
Transmission Corporation
SHREVEPORT LOUISIANA
natural gas PIPELINES oil products

Texas Eastern's natural gas pipelines serve the Midwestern, Appalachian and Eastern areas. Soon the Company's oil product pipelines will transport refined oils and liquefied petroleum products from the Gulf Coast to Midwestern markets.

Cracklin' Corn Bread Favorite Of All Davys

No wonder Cracklin' Corn Bread was a favorite of the original Davy Crockett! Just try it on your own young lad. There'll be no need to use the famous hero to put it over... its own delicious flavor will make it HIS favorite, too, and you'll find that the whole family joins him in his enthusiasm. This modern recipe is a favorite with busy housewives for it is so simple to prepare, keeps well and tastes just as good when reheated for second meals. Best way to serve it is piping hot, with a good helping of butter or margarine, preserves or syrup. Try it once and you'll make a double recipe next time around, for sure!

Davy Crockett Cracklin' Bread
2 cups corn meal
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
6 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 1/2 cups sweet or diluted evaporated milk
1/2 cup bacon drippings, melted and cooled
1 cup cracklings*

Sift flour with baking powder, salt, and sugar. Add corn meal and mix well. Combine egg and liquids and add to dry ingredients, stirring gently during addition. Stir just until ingredients are mixed. Fold two-thirds of the cracklings into the batter. Pour mixture into well-greased square (8 x 8 x 2-inch) baking pan. Sprinkle top with remaining cracklings. Bake in hot (400° F.) oven until done, about 25 minutes. Serves 6. *To fry cracklings, place small pieces of bacon in a heavy fry pan and cook over low heat until bacon is crisp and brown. Stir as needed to brown evenly. Drain on paper towels.

Dog Lives Pilot's Life

—Hancock Field, N. Y.—
"Major Fritz," canine mascot of the Air National Guard's 146th Fighter Squadron, probably would be classified as a bird dog, except that he's a big German shepherd.

He's a dog that leads a pilot's life.

It totals more than 400 hours and is increasing almost daily during the Pittsburgh jet fighter squadron's annual two-week gunnery training at Hancock Field.

Major Fritz flew up from Pittsburgh in a C-46 transport. But he considers that just a routine hop in view of his other flying experiences.

He served a two-year hitch in Korea and even bailed-out twice in special parachute harness in emergencies there. One of his most exciting flights was from Mexico to Pittsburgh in a special-rigged wing-tank on an F-51 fighter.

Fritz took up flying in Japan in 1949.

That was when his master, First Lieutenant Lynn A. McKinney of 4805 Clover Lane, West Mifflin, bought him while stationed there.

When Lieutenant McKinney was sent to Korea after the war outbreak, Fritz went with him with the rank of major.

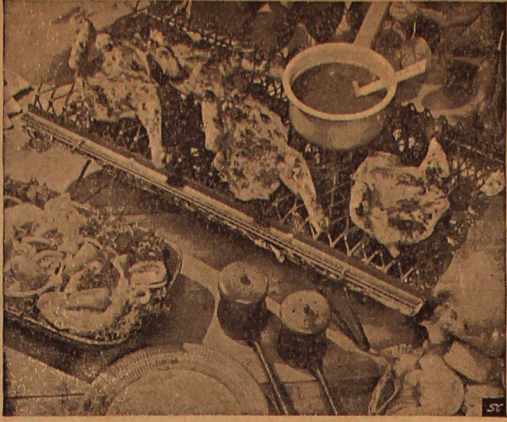

Although he wasn't listed as such, Fritz became a war casualty.

An Army half-track ran him down. He won't talk much about it in modesty, but he still carries two silver pins in his hind legs, which were broken.

When not on duty with his master's jet fighter outfit, Fritz leads a normal life playing pal to McKinney's 11-month-old son, Todd.

McKinney, 29, flew 203 missions during the Korean war and was shot down twice by ground fire while "spotting" for artillery. He is an engineer for the U. S. Steel Corporation in Homestead.

Barbecued Chicken—Savory, Succulent!

For healthy appetites, sharpened by whiffs of tantalizing aroma, comes Spry's "Outdoor Barbecued Chicken," sizzling from glowing coals, dripping with deliciously-spiced barbecue sauce.

This succulent fare is just one of the many suggestions for informal outdoor eating included in a new recipe leaflet, "Easy Barbecues for Easy Summer Living," developed by home economists in the Lever Test Kitchens.

Outdoor Barbecued Chicken
To barbecue chicken on a grill over charcoal, brush two 2-1/2 lb. broiler-fryers, cut in half, liberally with melted Spry. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. To keep birds flat during grilling, break the hip, knee, and wing joints. When coals are glowing, arrange chickens, with skin sides up, on the grill. Grill slowly about 45 min., or until tender, turning often and brushing with Barbecue Basting Sauce. Makes 4 servings.

To barbecue chickens in range broiler, prepare broiler-fryers as for Outdoor Barbecued Chicken, then arrange on preheated broiler rack.

Broiler can be covered with aluminum foil to catch drippings. Broil slowly 45 min., or until tender, turning often and brushing with Barbecue Basting Sauce.

Barbecue Basting Sauce
(For chicken, lamb, chops, etc.)
1-1/2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 bay leaf
1/4 cup vinegar
1 tablespoon brown sugar
3 cloves garlic, very finely chopped
Combine all ingredients in saucepan and boil gently 15 minutes, or until slightly thickened. Makes about 1-1/2 cups.

New Work Provisions In Social Security

"A person receiving social security benefits will be able to earn up to $1,200 during 1955 without having any of his social security benefit checks suspended," Ivar E. Strand, Acting Manager of the Washington district Social Security office said.

In discussing this change in the Social Security Act, Mr. Strand pointed out that this liberalization of the retirement test affects both the retired wage earner and the person who was self-employed, but that the biggest change will be in the way it works for the wage earner.

"In the past, and up until the end of 1954," Strand said, "the retirement test for a wage earner was applied on a monthly basis. If a retired worker earned over $75 in any month in a job covered by the Social Security Act, his benefit check for that month had to be suspended. For example, if he earned $150 a month for six months, he could not receive his benefit checks for those six months. Starting this year he can earn up to $1,200 during the year, whether he earns it in one month or twelve, and still be eligible to receive all of his benefit checks. However, this new limit applies to all earnings from work, whether the work is covered by social security or not. In the past, only wages in a job covered by social security were considered in applying for the retirement test.

"This means," Mr. Strand said, "that some beneficiaries who had been earning over the limit in work not covered by social security have been able to receive benefits. Under the new law, some of their checks will have to be suspended if they earn over $1,200 during the year."

Lost Church Bell Found in Alley

—Detroit—
Police found a 500-pound church bell in an alley. The Rev. Richard I. Kundsen, a Lutheran pastor, claimed it. He explained it had been taken from a garage where it was stored to await completion of a new church. Neighbors told puzzled police they had seen a group of boys struggling mightily with the big bell: four feet high; three and one-half feet in diameter.

Economy League On State Support of Public Education

elementary school pupils in average daily membership.

The local effort is measured by applying 4 mills to the market value of taxable real property per teaching unit.

These three basic factors are used in computing a school districts' reimbursement function.

As an illustration, assume that school district Z has five teaching units and a market value of $400,000. The reimbursement fraction for the school year 1955-56 would be computed as follows:

1. The market value of $400,000 divided by the five district teaching units equals $80,000 market value per district teaching unit.
2. The $80,000 market value per teaching unit times the four mills local effort rate equals $320 per teaching unit to be financed by local effort.
3. Subtract the $320 local effort per teaching unit from the maximum subsidy per teaching unit, which for 1955-56 is $4,900. Thus the amount of State subsidy per teaching unit would be $4,580.
4. The $4,580 State subsidy per teaching unit divided by the maximum subsidy of $4,900 produces the standard reimbursement fraction of .9346 for School District Z.

In 1947, the General Assembly established a schedule of teacher salaries, with increments of $200 a year over a ten year period.

To offset this legislated salary increase, the maximum State Subsidy for instruction is to be increased by $200 per teaching unit each year through 1957-58.

Many school districts are constructing or planning to construct new school facilities.

The State reimbursement for building purposes is as follows: If the district's standard reimbursement fraction is greater than .5999, the State will reimburse the district the equivalent of its reimbursement fraction squared. For example, if a district's reimbursement fraction is .6532, the State will reimburse the district 42.67 per cent of its rental cost to the building authority.

If the district's standard reimbursement fraction is less than .5999, the State will reimburse the district one half of its standard reimbursement fraction. For example, if the district's standard reimbursement fraction is .4520, the State will reimburse 22.60 per cent of the annual approved rental cost to the building authority. (Local or State School Building Authority).
