State First Aid Contest Won by Sonman Mine

The Sonman Mine first aid team of Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates in Portage, Cambria County, won first place in the 13th annual Pennsylvania Bituminous First Aid contest held at Carmichaels Saturday during the second annual Bituminous Coal Festival.

Teams which placed first, second and third, earned the right to compete in the National First Aid contest to be held at Knoxville, Tenn., October 11, 12 and 13.

More than 1,000 witnessed the four problems in which 18 teams competed.

Judge J. I. Hook of the Greene County Court, welcomed the teams.

The Sonman team received the Mine Safety Appliance trophy and a $350 cash award. George H. Deike, president, made the presentation. Only three-tenths of one per cent separated the first and second teams.

Second place, with a score of 99.200, went to the Mathias mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, near Monongahela. Charles Ferguson, director of the Safety Division of the United Mine Workers, presented the second place team with the UMWA trophy and a cash award of $175.

The Cardiff mine of the Imperial Coal Company, also located in the central part of the state, won third place money of $140, with a score of 99.1502. This team received the National Coal Association plaque, presented by Maurice Cooper, director of the association's educational department.

Fourth place went to Greene County's Mather mine on a score of 99.1501. The team received a cash award of $105 and flame safety lamps from the Pennsylvania Department of Mines.

The department also awarded flashlights to the fifth place team, the Palmer mine of the U. S. Steel Company. Palmer's cash award was $35, the same amount as went to all teams competing. D. J. Keenan, director and general chairman of the state meet—held for the first time in Greene County—served as master of ceremonies and introduced the various speakers.

Lewis E. Evans, president of the State First Aid Association, was in charge. William J. Hynes, president of District 4, U. M. W. A., spoke of the fine cooperation of labor and management. Morris D. Cooper, director of education of the National Coal Association, spoke on the intensive program of safety being given to miners.

Pike's Year Total Set New Record

—Harrisburg— A record breaking collection of $23,729,403 in tolls for the fiscal year ended May 31, was reported Saturday by the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

The commission said this was eight per cent above the previous year and included seven months' collections from the Delaware River extension.

—Harrisburg— The Senate has voted 39 to 4, to conduct a searching bipartisan investigation of the Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza and called upon the House to join promptly in the action.

It is expected that the House will concur in the resolution, sponsored by Democratic Senators Elmer J. Holland of Pittsburgh, and William J. Lane of Washington and Greene Counties, before it recesses this week's sessions.

"I have been told by the leaders over there," said Senator Lane, "that they are in favor of it."

"When it gets over to the House I hope they will not lose any time in getting it out and voting it through," said Senate Majority Leader Rowland B. Mahany, Titusville Republican. "We should start the investigation at the earliest possible time."

If the House approves the resolution in the same form that was adopted by the Senate, the investigating committee will be made up of two Republicans and two Democratic senators and two Republican and two Democratic representatives. President pro tempore M. Harvey Taylor will name the Senate members, and Speaker Hiram G. Andrews will select the House members.

It is expected that Senator Lane will be the chairman. The Senate adopted the resolution over the severe protests of Senator Theodore H. Schmidt, Pittsburgh Democrat, who charged that Morganza will become a political football as the result of it.

"You do not have to go to Morganza to find accidental deaths," Senator Schmidt said. "You find them in homes of people who live in very fine circumstances and good surroundings where accidents happen."

"I, myself, do not know what was behind the death of James O'Dell, what caused it, whether there was negligence, whether there were criminal acts upon the part of others," Schmidt continued.

Senator Schmidt was joined in his negative vote by Democratic Senators Miles R. Derk of Jersey Shore; Harry E. Seyler of York, and Martin Silvert of Philadelphia.

"Regardless of how much money they might have for a staff that would not necessarily stop the beating of inmates out there," Senator Mahany declared. "What we want to find out is why this guard beat up this young lady and why Secretary Shapiro (Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro) did not call him in or call up the superintendent of Morganza and find out what is going on out there relative to this particular guard."

"Has this man been fired?" Mahany demanded. "Has he been talked to so that tomorrow this same thing might not happen again?"

Mahany referred to the belt whipping by a guard, of 15-year-old Judy Ward, an inmate from Washington who, according to Secretary Shapiro, was caught while attempting to run away from the institution. Shapiro said the guard lost his temper when he sprained his ankle pursuing the girl.

Secretary Shapiro also said that it was the "third or fourth" attempted escape since her commitment about six weeks ago.

Mahany said also that it appears that George W. Miles has given inadequate information to Washington County Coroner James Gray in the death last Friday of James O'Dell of Clearfield County, from a fractured skull.

Indian Wins Essay on Soil

—Quemado, N. M.— State Senator I. N. Curtis came up with an essay which he said won a contest on soil conservation for an Indian:

"White man crazy. Cut down tree. Make big teepee. Blow hill. Water wash. Wind blow soil. Grass gone. Door gone. Windows gone. Whole place gone. Buck gone. Papoose gone. Squaw, too. No corn. No plow. No hay. No pony.

"Indian no plow corn. Keep grass. Buffalo eat grass. Indian eat buffalo. Hide make teepee. Make moccasins. Indian no make terrace. No build dam. All time eat. No hunt job. No hitch hike. No ask relief. No shoot pig. Great Spirit make grass. Indian no waste anything. Indian no work. White man loco."

The Pioneer History of Greene County, Penna.

By L. K. EVANS

Lawrence was formed in 1849. Many of the men of the county had participated in Perry's famous battle on Lake Erie. The name of Perry's flagship, the Lawrence, gave rise to the name of the county. This ship had been named in honor of Captain James Lawrence, the hero of the Chesapeake.

Lebanon derived its name from the far-famed Lebanon of the Bible.

Lehigh is derived from the Indian word Lechau, meaning the forks. The name was first applied to the river Lehigh, a branch of the Delaware.

Luzerne, one of our most historic counties, is named for Chevalier de la Luzerne, ambassador from France to the United States. Luzerne forms a part of the territory which in the early history of Pennsylvania was settled and claimed by Connecticut. These "invaders" organized a county which they called Westmoreland and which was attached to Litchfield County, Connecticut.

Lycoming is an Indian name which signified the place of a sandy lick.

McKean County was organized in 1804. Thomas McKean, who was born in Chester County, was then governor of the State, the county bears his name. Prior to his election to the governorship, McKean was for twenty-two years chief justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. He was a Scotch-Irishman and knew how to behave like one when the occasion demanded. One of the stories preserved concerning him was that while he was presiding in court at Harrisburg, a mob outside disturbed him, and he ordered the sheriff to disperse them. The sheriff replied that he was not able to do so. "Then why do you not summon your posse?" ordered the judge. "I have summoned them, but they are ineffectual," said the sheriff. "Then why do you not summon me?" asked McKean. "I do summon you," said the trembling officer. Not waiting to discard the robes of his office the chief justice rushed out, seized a couple of rioters by the throat and the rest beat a retreat.

Mercer County is named for a Revolutionary hero, General Hugh Mercer, who was born in Scotland. He was with Braddock in the expedition against the Indians in Pennsylvania. He commanded a brigade in the Revolution and was mortally wounded at the battle of Princeton. Mercer County, New Jersey, is also named in his honor.

Mifflin County also perpetuates the name of a Revolutionary general, Thomas Mifflin, who was of Quaker parentage and was born in Philadelphia. He was long prominent in the political affairs of Pennsylvania and was the first governor under the Constitution of 1790.

Monroe, is of course, named for James Monroe, the fifth president of the United States.

Montgomery County is claimed by some authorities to have been named for General Richard Montgomery, who died at Quebec. Others assert the county was named for General John Montgomery, who commanded the Pennsylvania militia at Brandywine and Germantown.

Montour is a name that figures largely in the Indian affairs of Pennsylvania. One writer of reputation says the county was named for "Madam" Montour, widow of Roland Montour, a Seneca Indian chief. Another version has it that the county bears the name of Andrew Montour, who was partly of Indian blood.

Northampton was named after Northampton, England. Northumberland also took its name from an English county of shire.

Perry County was named in tribute to Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, the hero of the naval exploit on Lake Erie.

Philadelphia is a Bible name meaning "Brotherly Love."

Pike commemorates the name of General Zebulon Pike, who led various exploring expeditions for the United States government. On one of these he discovered Pike's Peak in the Rocky Mountains. He was killed in the War of 1812.

Potter, formerly noted for its forests and now gaining recognition for its production of potatoes, is the namesake of General James Potter, who was commended by Washington for his "activity and vigilance."

Schuykill, noted for its coal and for many other reasons, took its name from the river Schuykill, which is of Dutch origin, meaning hidden creek or channel.

Snyder was so christened in honor of Simon Snyder, who was governor of Pennsylvania from 1808 to 1817. He was the first of the so-called Pennsylvania Dutch governors.

Somerset comes from the English county of the same name.

Sullivan is another county that was named for a Revolutionary hero, General John Sullivan, who was born in Maine and was judge of a United States District Court in New Hampshire at the time of his death, which occurred in 1795. Washington commissioned him to lead the famous expedition against the Indians after the massacre of Wyoming.

Susquehanna is an Indian name, which according to the best authorities, is taken from Assiskuhanna, meaning a dark and roly river.

Tioga is a corruption of the Iroquois word or name Diahoga, meaning the forks, as of two streams.

Union has reference to our Union of States.

Venango derived its name from an ancient Indian village which stood at the junction of French Creek and the Allegheny River. Washington was among the first to spell the name as at present. Various explanations have been made as to its meaning. Dr. George Doneho, the present state librarian, who is an acknowledged authority on Indian lore, says the name comes from the Indian Onenge, meaning a mink.

Warren County was named for General Joseph Warren, who was killed at the Battle of Bunker Hill. He was a medical doctor in private life and he took a leading part in the events that led to the Revolution. He died at the age of thirty-four.

Washington was named in honor of the "Father of his Country," who had many early adventures in that section of Pennsylvania, which was then claimed by Virginia.

Wayne County was named for General Anthony Wayne of Revolutionary fame, who was a native of Chester County, Pennsylvania. His capture of Stony Point, where he was wounded, was one of his many exploits. General Wayne commanded a division in the Continental Army known as the Pennsylvania Line, which he led in many campaigns. This division was rated as one of the best in the service. It saved the day for Washington at Monmouth. Wayne's last great public service was rendered in his successful campaign against the Indians in Ohio after two other expeditions under less competent leadership had met with disaster. It was at Presque Isle, now Erie, in 1796, that General Wayne, of whom the Indians said that he never slept, slept at last. His death occurred during his fifty-second year.

Westmoreland, part of the territory claimed by Virginia, was organized in 1773. It was christened after the English county of that name.

Wyoming comes from Meschawoming, which in the language of the Delawareans meant "great plains." The English poet, Campbell, who never visited this country, immortalized the name by his poem, "Gertrude of Wyoming."

York County, which formed a part of Lancaster until 1749, is one of our most productive agricultural districts. It was named for the English county of York.

There have been no new counties organized in Pennsylvania since 1878, when Lackawanna was carved out of the territory of Luzerne. Several strong efforts have been made, however, to form a new county out of the southern portion of Luzerne and parts of Carbon and Schuylkill. A bill with this intent passed the legislature during the governorship of Daniel H. Hastings during the nineties. To facilitate its passage, the proposed county was called Quay, that gentleman then being the most potent political leader in the State.

But to the chagrin of the new county boosters, Governor Hastings vetoed the measure. He was hanged in effigy on the streets of Hazleton, which would have been the seat of justice of the new county if Hastings had approved the bill.—L. K. EVANS

Loss in Taxes Held Untrue

—Harrisburg—

House Republican Floor Leader Charles C. Smith of Philadelphia, has dashed cold water on a Revenue Department official's claim that close to $100,000,000 in corporation taxes went uncollected under the GOP administration.

At a Democratic budget hearing last Wednesday Charles S. Sellman, head of the Corporation Tax Bureau, said between $80,000,000 and $90,000,000 in corporation taxes was lost over the past five years.

Smith declared: "The governor, when he submitted his budget to the Legislature last April, estimated that regular corporation taxes would bring in only $5,000,000 more than they did in the last fiscal period in spite of the fact that we are in the midst of the greatest peacetime prosperity our country has ever known."

"If there is even the semblance of truth in this claim, which we doubt, then the governor should immediately direct the Department of Revenue to increase the estimates for revenue from these same taxes in the next two years by $25,000,000."

Sellman said taxes for the last two years could still be collected from corporations.

Carmichaels Man Buys District Ranch

Robert Hall, automobile dealer in Carmichaels, has purchased the 230-acre Lazy Hour Ranch near Dunbar, and plans to make it a showplace for Fayette County.

The ranch was purchased from Bertram C. Cence, whose family had owned it since the turn of the century. The land was part of a 5,000-acre grant to Captain George Paull by Pennsylvania for his service in colonial days.

Mr. Hall said he intends to establish a riding academy and a golf course on the property and convert an artificial lake into a swimming pool.

West Penn Power Company Providing Service Entrances For Electric Dryers

Announcement has been made by West Penn Power Company of a new service entrance policy for the electric clothes dryer.

According to J. B. Aiken, district manager, West Penn will provide adequate service entrance capacity at no cost for electric dryer installations.

"All customers on West Penn Power lines, living in single-family dwellings with overhead service, are eligible for this new, liberal wiring installation offer," the district manager said. "Those living in multi-family dwellings can also qualify under certain conditions," he added.

"This same practice has long been in effect for electric ranges and water heaters. However, it has just been made available for electric clothes dryers. The electric service entrance which customers get at no cost includes the wires from the pole, cable into the meter, cable to the combination switch and fuse box, and the switch, itself."

The necessary wiring circuit for a standard electric dryer will only cost $19.50 when installed by West Penn Power. This circuit includes the materials needed to permit a choice of location for the dryer.

"With the new 'bargain' wiring plan," Mr. Aiken points out, "it's now easier than ever for families to enjoy the wonderful convenience of flameless, fumeless, sootless, safe electric clothes drying. Only one single installation is required since there are no pipes or flues needed for an electric dryer."

West Penn believes the new wiring plan is particularly timely because a recent survey showed that the clothes dryer was the number one appliance on home-makers' lists of planned purchases. Now they can have this equipment with assurance that their service entrance will be made adequate where needed at no cost.

"There are other benefits, too," Mr. Aiken added. "When customers take advantage of the new bargain wiring plan, they are taking a definite step toward modernization of their home wiring, so that they can enjoy more of the time-saving, work-saving benefits of electrical living. Actually about seven out of 10 homes in the area served by West Penn already have wiring which permits the addition of a dryer merely by adding a circuit."

"Appliance dealers in this area are thoroughly familiar with the new dryer wiring policy and are enthusiastic about its advantages. They will be glad to advise prospective buyers—or we'll be happy to explain details and answer question," Mr. Aiken concluded.

University Of California Astronomer Witness To Formation Of New Stars

A California astronomer says he thinks he has seen the birth of a star. In fact, he may have seen the birth of two of them. Never before in history has an earthbound observer been "in" on the actual formation of a new star. Now it is only a matter of gathering additional evidence solidly to confirm the event.

The astronomer is Dr. George H. Herbig of the University of California's Lick Observatory. The occasion, the meeting of the International Astronomical Union at Dublin, where Dr. Herbig may have made astronomical history. Actually the new stars first appeared in space some 1,600 years ago. But, because of their distance, the first glimmers of their new-born light have begun to reach this planet only recently. This, of course, raises the question of where stars come from in the first place. The best of modern theories says they are formed by the gradual coalescence of masses of dust and gas in space.

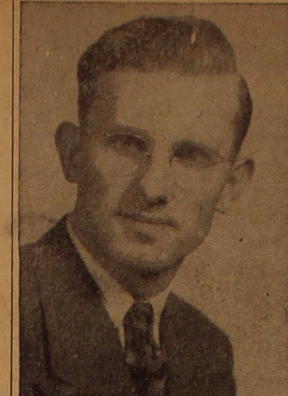

Dr. Herbig subscribes to this theory. He explained that he thinks the two new stars were formed in that way. So do Drs. Louis Henyey, Karl-Helz Boehm, Robert Le Levier, and Richard Levee, all of the University of California. They outlined in the meeting some additional new information they have developed on this subject. These California astronomers and physicists are combining laboratory experiments with studies of Sirius, the "Dog Star." Sirius, they find, is somewhat less than 100,000,000 years old and thus much younger than the earth whose age has been estimated at between 2,000,000,000 and 5,000,000,000 years.

Thus Sirius, not as advanced in age as the sun and its planets, has proved a convenient stellar model for researchers to check their ideas against at least to the extent possible with remote observation. At the moment, Sirius has 2.3 times the mass of the sun, 40 times its intrinsic brightness, 10 times its volume, and twice its surface temperature. But 100,000,000 years ago, when it first took on definite shape from its primordial dust-gas cloud, the star is believed to have had only half its present surface temperature and 150 times its present size. It was, however, probably as bright as it is today, with a yellowish light rather than its present white hue.

Starting from this presumed state and using physical processes tested in the laboratory, the California natural scientists have traced the star's history to its present state and extended its course somewhat into the future. It is a story of alternating contractions and expansions under the basic forces of gravity and atomic fusion, the process that powers the hydrogen bomb. Gravity first pulls such a star into a recognizable entity by drawing together some of the loose dust and gases in space. When these are compressed enough, the inner temperature runs high enough for some of the atoms to fuse in a reaction like that of the hydrogen bomb, releasing energies that add greatly to those generated by the compression.

This makes the star expand slowly until, the atomic reaction dying down, gravity again takes over causing the star to begin contracting once more, and so on and on until the atomic fuel is burned out. Sirius, at the moment, is in its "first thermonuclear phase" where, having been initially pulled together by gravity, it is now expanding under the energies of fusing atoms. Dr. Herbig's two new stars, on the other hand, are probably only in the beginning of their "first gravitational phase" where they have been compressed enough by gravity to shine brightly but are still contracting.

Missionary Speaker At Local Convention

CLAYTON WEEKS

Clayton Weeks, educator and evangelist serving as a missionary at Wema, Belgian Congo, will speak Friday evening in the First Christian Church. First Christian is host to District Four convention of Christian churches comprising Greene and Washington Counties. He is a missionary of the Christian Church and is supported through the United Christian Missionary Society, with offices in Indianapolis. Commissioned to foreign service in 1946, Mr. Weeks and his wife have been stationed at Wema, 250 miles east of Coquilhatville, which is in one of the most primitive areas of the Congo. It was opened as a mission station in 1926 and now has over 4,500 Christians and more than 60 churches.

Mr. Weeks supervises the school system at Wema, which enrolls some 500 pupils each year. He was raised on a farm near Clinton, North Carolina, and received his bachelor of arts degree in 1940, from Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, N. C., and his bachelor of divinity degree at Vanderbilt University of Nashville, Tennessee. He has served in pastorates in North Carolina, Kentucky and Illinois. For a year following his first term in the Congo he took special colonial orientation in Brussels, Belgium, as required by that government for missionaries to its colony.

Dr. Herbig said that he found the stars by comparing photographs taken over the past eight years. These are pictures of a dark cloud of dust and gas illuminated here and there by stars embedded in it. A photograph taken in 1947 shows three stars in this cloud. A comparable one taken in 1954 shows five stars. Also, the three original stars show a brightening in their magnitude.

Added to this, Dr. Herbig said, is mounting evidence that all five stars belong to a species very recently formed. Dr. Herbig carefully pointed out that none of the evidence is conclusive and solid confirmation has yet to be made. "Our understanding of what is taking place could hardly be more incomplete," he explained. But, he added that he is inclined to believe his observatory is witnessing "the opening phase of an episode in stellar evolution" in which new stars are condensing their fire from the cobwebs of space.

You Be the Judge

By BOB THOMPSON

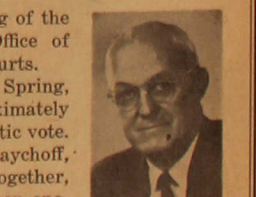

We announce the opening of the Fall Campaign for the Office of Judge of Greene County Courts.

In the Primary this Spring, Judge Hook received approximately fifty percent of the Democratic vote. The opposition to him, Waychoff, Rinehart and Thompson, together, had the support of the other one-half of the Democrats voting.

On the Republican side of the Primary two-tenths of one percent wrote in Judge Hook's name and the other ninety-nine percent voting, cast their ballots for me.

It is clear, therefore, that there is considerable opposition even in his own party to Judge Hook having a second term in Greene County's highest office.

We trust that the persons who voted those sentiments in the Spring will continue them this Fall. Our platform is the same this Election as it was this Spring and always will be. We shall write of the issues involved from time to time.

W. Robert Thompson for Judge

Pack Lunches That Please Your Young'un

"Oh boy... tomato soup!" Is that your Teddy talking... that cute little tyke who's getting such a "kick" out of his lunchbox? Tomato soup, garnished with sausages, Cheese sandwiches, Carrot sticks, poked through olives, A bunch of grapes, And marshmallow cereal candy to satisfy his sweet tooth! No wonder he's so happy! Yes, indeed, Mom, you can put a smile on your son's face even when you're miles away! Fill up his lunchbox with body-building foods, fixed so he'll find them appealing. Hot soups, tasty and nourishing.

Made with milk, they put dairy into his day. And there are literally dozens of condensed soups to choose from. Mixing and matching opens up more exciting possibilities. Soup-mate suggestions:

- cream of chicken and green pea chicken gumbo and cream of asparagus
- cream of mushroom and onion
- beef and beef noodle
- vegetarian vegetable and bouillon
- pepper pot and consommé

Let your imagination "run wild" in the sandwich department. Choose from a galaxy of breadstuffs... whole wheat, white, rye, raisin, pumpernickle, date-nut, honeybread, fruit roll, frankfurter bun, and poppyseed roll.

Fillings range from the salad types... eggs, tuna fish, chicken and ham, to cooked meat... roast beef, minced ham, bologna, salami, meat loaf, and others. In between come "kid favorites," such as peanut butter, cheese spread... even scrambled egg!

When lunch foods are assembled, tuck in something to surprise your young'un. Like a decorated napkin. Cheerful greeting scribbled on the shell of a hard-cooked egg. Colorful printed waxed paper wrapping for his sandwich. Shiny new pencil. Or a lollipop. And don't be surprised if your Teddy turns out to be the happiest kid in the class!

Rev. J. W. Kaufman Convocation Speaker

Rev. Jay W. Kaufman, pastor of the Ben Avon Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, will speak at the opening convocation at Waynesburg College at 10 o'clock September 20. His subject will be, "Courage."

The convocation will mark the opening of the 1955-56 academic year and will follow the conclusion of the freshman orientation period, September 15 to 19.

In anticipation of considerable increase in enrollment over that of the 1954-55 academic year, a number of new faculty members have joined the staff at Waynesburg College.

Freshmen will register September 15, starting at 9 o'clock and continuing until noon. A series of orientation lectures, aptitude and placement tests, student-faculty conferences and social evenings will follow during the remainder of the orientation period.

Upperclassmen will register Monday, September 19, starting at 9 o'clock and continuing through 3:30.

Rev. Kaufman, the convocation speaker, is a graduate of Lafayette College and Princeton Theological Seminary, and has held pastorates at Newton, Paradise and Drexel Hill, all in eastern Pennsylvania.

He is one of the few clergymen who have held wartime assignments as line officers, having commanded an infantry company, an infantry battalion and served as assistant G-1 officer of the China-Burma-India Theater of Operations. From 1946 to 1953 he was chief personnel officer of Pennsylvania's reserve division—the 79th. He now holds the rank of Lieutenant Colonel of Infantry. Rev. Kaufman has represented the Presbyterian Church before congressional committees on numerous occasions, presenting the viewpoint of the denomination on pending legislation.

Before going to Ben Avon, he spent seven years in development of a new church in Philadelphia.

Veterans Protected By Social Security

An amendment to the social security law of importance to men and women in the Armed Services was enacted by a recent session of Congress, Henry Harper, district manager of the Washington, Pa., social security office, points out.

Under this amendment social security wage credits for active service in any of the Armed Forces is extended to April 1956. Under the old law, the period when $160 a month social security wage credits could be earned while in active service ended on July 1 of this year. These military wage credits can count toward old-age and survivors insurance payments just as if the serviceman or servicewoman had been employed in a job covered by social security for wages of $160 per month, Harper declared.

As heretofore, at least 90 days of service are required, except for those who die in service or are discharged because of service-connected disability. These military wage credits are not added to social security records year after year like earnings in civilian employment or self-employment.

Fifty-Year History of Greene County Sports

By GEORGE N. THOMAS

SWIMMING

The use of Greene County's waterways for swimming has closely paralleled the use of the same streams for fishing.

In the earliest days, settlers not only found the clean, unadulterated streams a source for food in form of fish, but also as a source of cleanliness and recreation in summer and winter.

And there were times when bodies such as the Ten Mile Creek, served as escape routes—or nearly so.

One young lady in 1898, for instance, was seen being chased by a shouting gentleman toward the stream.

Apparently out of breath and about to be caught, she flung herself into the creek, fully clothed, and swam vigorously toward the other side.

The gentleman, who appeared to be no gentleman at all to passersby, dove in, too.

Rescuers witnessing the dilemma and noticing the lady was drowning, salvaged both of them from the water.

Grateful to be alive, the lady gladly returned the $65 she had stolen from the gentleman and he went on his way.

Not all swimming in Ten Mile and other county streams was filled with such drama, however. Most of the time it was for just plain pleasure by children and grownups.

But, as it happened in many American communities at the turn of the century, the insurgence of industry, the discovery of oil, and installation of modern sewage systems not only wiped out the fish in the heretofore clean streams but also polluted the waters to make them unhealthy for swimming.

It didn't happen overnight. It was a slow process, and although it met citizen opposition, it was inevitable.

Before the streams were made altogether useless, many athletes and average citizens made good use of them, and learned fundamentals of swimming and ice skating.

One such person was T. H. Laidley, who in 1900, had advanced to manager of the D. C. and A. C. Water Polo team and swimmers of Pittsburgh.

Laidley was an all-around athlete who not only was an excellent swimmer, but was adept enough to play baseball on ice skates in Duquesne Gardens and other places.

And he first swam and skated in on Muddy Creek.

In 1911, Alfred Keegan, a native of Waynesburg, won several medals for swimming at the Pittsburgh Natatorium. He was competing for the Irish American Aquatic Club of that city and possessed much speed, consequently was the toast of several dinners.

After World War I, one of the most popular swimming areas in the county, Collick Beach at Sandy Bottom, closed due to pollution.

The last generation of this half century had little choice for swimming holes.

Among the best, though not so clean, were "the tressle" in West Waynesburg; back of the Tin Mill, not far downstream; Garner's farm and Highbanks on Route 18.

Of course, there were others not popular and not advertised by those fortunate enough to find them.

At the tressle, as many as 180 boys and girls have been in the water at once. The water usually is muddy and the bottom is lined with sunken boulders, planks, bottles and mud.

But those matters weighed little in the kids' minds who frequented the hole.

They liked to play the game called "spooney," a sort of water tag that required the endurance of a mountain goat and the courage of a den of lions.

Until two swimming pools—one in Waynesburg, the other in Nemaocolin—were constructed as the half century ended, swimmers braved the county's polluted streams or drove at least 20 miles for the nearest pool.

ICE SKATING

Before ice skates were introduced, the only advantage of frozen streams in wintertime to citizenry was that it wasn't necessary to cross via the bridges.

As early as 1896, 600 to 800 skaters gathered at Waynesburg Dam, Ross Creek Dam and Smith Creek Bridge for fun and games.

In the county, the best skaters came from Waynesburg, Carmichaels and Rices Landing.

Waynesburgers depended upon the dam and Ten Mile for ice; Carmichaels' folks went to the small dam north of town on Muddy Creek, and the Rices Landing crowd rarely had the advantage of the Monongahela River when it froze.

One of the best authorities on ice skating in the county was the late A. L. Moredock, who in 1898, recalled skating on South Ten Mile Creek all the way from Waynesburg to Jefferson because the weather was so cold that even the rifles had frozen.

He lamented as he grew old (and occasionally skated for 70 consecutive years) that winters were becoming milder and fewer people skated.

For those who once followed the interesting sport, skating in the 20th century had become a lost art.

During the severe winters of 50 years ago, Carmichaels and Waynesburg organized ice hockey teams and challenged each other.

One of the most interesting games took place in 1901, when the county-seaters just edged the visitors "from down stream," 1-0.

Old and young skated then. Age was no barrier if you could stand on the blades. And occasionally, some broke through the ice.

Naturally that led to several heroic rescues, some of which were widely recognized.

John and Clarence Wilson collaborated in what probably was the most remembered. That was in 1907.

They pulled out a nine-year-old lad from under the ice in Ten Mile Creek and were nominated for the Carnegie medal.

John won it, too, along with $1,000 reward.

When the ice was good and solid, oldsters gathered around to watch games of "shinney," a poor man's ice hockey.

The young set used a ball of yarn or a dangerous tin can as a puck, and played with no set rules so that anyone could join the game anytime, play on any side he chose and just help make it a topsy-turvy, carefree, reckless game.

For four decades ice skating in quantity and quality dwindled. In 1941, Waynesburg officials dammed up and flooded the East End playground with about a foot of water. It froze much easier than the moving streams

A PICTURE OF PROGRESS

THE FIRST TRANSPORTATION OF OIL WAS MADE BY FLATCARS OR RAFTS ONTO WHICH WERE LOADED OAK BARRELS OF CRUDE OIL. THE FIRST TANKER BARGE, WITH A CAPACITY OF 400 BARRELS, WAS DEVELOPED IN 1862. THERE ARE 405 VESSELS IN TODAY'S PRIVATELY OWNED TANKER FLEET, AND 2,150 BARGES OPERATING ON DOMESTIC WATERWAYS.

RAILROADS CAME INTO THE OIL TRANSPORTATION PICTURE IN 1860. AT FIRST, BARRELS WERE LOADED ON FLATCARS, BUT BY 1865, TWO WOODEN TANKS, HOLDING 40 TO 50 BARRELS EACH, WERE PLACED UPRIGHT ON THE CARS. MOST MODERN TANK CARS, OF WHICH THERE ARE 115,339, CARRY EITHER 8000 OR 10,000 GALLONS EACH.

THE FIRST FIVE-MILE PIPE LINE, BUILT IN THIS IS A FAIR COPY FROM THE 186,723 MILES OF PIPE LINE IN USE TODAY. THE FIRST LONG LINE WAS FINISHED IN 1879 AND COVERED A DISTANCE OF 109 MILES. LAST YEAR, 682,444,000 BARRELS OF MAJOR REFINED PRODUCTS MOVED THROUGH THE COUNTRY'S PIPE LINES.

FORERUNNERS OF TODAY'S 30,073 TRUCK TRUCKS WERE THE HORSE-DRAWN KEROSENE WAGONS OF THE 1900'S.

THE STORY OF PROGRESS IN PETROLEUM TRANSPORTATION IS A STORY OF ADVANCEMENT IN OPERATIONAL TECHNIQUES, SAFETY DEVICES, AND PROCEDURES. THE RESULT IS SERVICE TO THE CONSUMER AT ALL TIMES. PETROLEUM TRANSPORTATION SEES TO THAT.

Claysville Defeats Mt. Morris, 7-0

Claysville High School's football squad handed the gridders of Mt. Morris High a 7-0 defeat Friday night in the opening game of the season for both schools. The loss dropped the Greene County eleven from the race for WPIAL Class B honors.

Team captain Ron Mankey ran 23 yards to paydirt in the second quarter for the only score of the game, after left end Dick DeBolt recovered a Mt. Morris fumble on the visitors' 30 to set up the scoring drive. Earl Tustin moved the ball to the 23 on a seven-yard run and Mankey scored from there. Poland added the extra point.

Late in the final period Mt. Morris made a determined bid to score and drove to the Claysville 20 where Wolfe pounced on a Black Hawk fumble to preserve the win for the Panthers.

Score by quarters:
Claysville 0 7 0 0-7
Mt. Morris 0 0 0 0-0

Wagering Increases At Wheeling Downs

Wagering for the first 42 days of the 55-day summer meet at Wheeling Downs totaled $8,066,663, a daily average of $192,111, Auditor Henry B. Wessel, Jr., announced this week.

Betting was off the first month of the meeting due to the prolonged heat wave, which affected all tracks in the country, but a smashing $443,000 handle on Labor Day was the third largest in the 75-year history of the Downs.

Attendance has held up fairly well, Wessel said, with 167,040 passing through the turnstiles during the 42-day period with the crowds averaging 3,977 daily. The meet closes September 24.

Features for this week include The Greene County (Pa.) Purse on Friday, and The Senator M. M. Neely Purse on Saturday.

Olympic Village To Open Early

Melbourne, Australia—Melbourne's Olympic Village at Heidelberg will be opened October 23, 1956—24 days before the classic is scheduled to begin—Brigadier General William Bridgford, chief executive officer for the games, announced Sunday.

The Australian Olympic Organizing Committee will cater to any teams arriving early for the purpose of acclimatization. As each team arrives, its national flag will be raised over the village.

But the old days of skating parties and "shinney" were disappearing from the Greene County scene.

Seeing is Believing

DID YOU ever stop to think, for a moment, what part the words look and see play in your own religious faith?

Some people, for example, only "look" at a sunset. But those who "see" the sunset in all its glory know that no mortal could have placed those majestic colors there.

Seeing—for them—is believing in God. Others look up only occasionally at the stars. But over the grave of a great American astronomer and his wife are these words of touching faith: "We have loved the stars too fondly to be fearful of the night."

Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed.
 —John 20:29.

Seeing, for them, was believing. Isn't this true of our churches as well? We may look at them as beautiful buildings. But most of us see in churches man's expression of his faith in his God.

On entering any church door, we sense that faith.

And when we worship within any church, we know that our faith is real.

Yes, there's more to living than just looking. When we see the wonders of nature and man for the real meaning they hold, then "seeing is believing"—in God.
