Martin Urges Passage of Ike's Road Plan

—Reading, Pa.—

U. S. Senator Edward Martin said Saturday night that he hopes the next session of Congress will start work on an interstate highway system as proposed by President Eisenhower.

Martin, in an address commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Parish Pressed Steel Company here, said the proposed system "when completed . . . will bring our people closer together and provide the means for a better understanding of our great country."

Martin said, "The big decision we must make is how they (the roads) shall be financed," adding: "Personally I feel the President's plan for a bond issue is sound. I do believe, however, that serious consideration should be given to the question of tolls."

Landy Made Navy Ensign

The Secretary of the Navy has overruled a special review board and ordered that a reserve commission as ensign be granted to Eugene Landy, whose mother was once a Communist.

Secretary Charles Thomas held there was no indication that the 21-year-old honor graduate of the Merchant Marine Academy had ever been influenced by his mother in a subversive way. He said the youth's association with his mother was the "natural relationship of mother and son and not a sympathetic association with her political beliefs."

Mrs. Deborah Landy of Bradley Beach, N. J., the mother, had admitted to ten years' membership in the Communist Party. She said she left it in 1947 at the urging of her son.

Last August, the Navy withheld the ensign's reserve commission for which young Landy had worked at the academy at Kings Point, N. Y.

Four sons gained prominence in football through their varsity playing at Waynesburg College.

John and Asa, Jr., both coached football for Waynesburg College. Asa Wiley then went to Greensburg High to coach, while John played professional football for five years for the Pittsburgh Steelers. His position was tackle.

He is now assistant coach to John Michelosen in the University of Pittsburgh.

Captain Robert Wiley also coached county high school teams before being called into service in February 1941, when the 110th Pennsylvania Regiment was federalized by the government. He served as captain of K Company for several years, and was killed in action near Paris, France, as Allied Forces were about to take the French capital from the Germans.

The fourth son, William Wiley, is a metallurgist for Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation in Aliquippa.

Surviving are his wife, three sons, and three daughters, Irene, wife of Morris Burns of Wind Ridge; Mary, wife of A. Just Thinking!

By JIM DENT

HEADLESS SPORTS ITEM

"Aging" (37) Phil Rizzuto, given a "day" by New York Yankee fans, did not take the luxury automobile originally planned for him. At his request, the money for it will go, instead, into a fund for helping worthy kids through college.

Could never grasp the reversed psychology which prompts the "bleacherite" who, most generally has to count pennies to dig up the price of admission to promote "days" for high-priced ballplayers who make more in one day than the fan makes in a month.

Maybe I'm wrong

But no amount of argument or logic will change my mind.

Had the "Scooter" accepted the "day" it would have been emblazoned on every Sport Page in the country.

In refusing and in making a noble gesture for the benefit of the kids

It's passed up as a headless unimportant news item.

"Scooter" your team lost the World Series but we assure you you have won the everlasting admiration of this old curmudgeon

You're a World Champion in our book!

Just Thinkin'

Newspapermen Honored by Elks

Waynesburg B. P. O. Elks, No. 757, entertained the staffs of Waynesburg's newspapers at their annual luncheon Wednesday in the Fort Jackson Hotel, in celebration of National Newspaper Week.

In the absence of Thomas H. Morris, the exalted ruler, S. Carl Greenlee presided. The chaplain, John Bergman offered the invocation.

Following introduction of members of the staffs of the Waynesburg Republican, Democrat Messenger, Washington Observer's Waynesburg office, and the Brownsville Telegraph, James M. Dent of the Republican, on behalf of the papers, thanked the Elks Lodge for their hospitality.

Attorney Albert A. Sayers gave the address of welcome. He stated that newspapers are the guardians of freedom in our nation. The first act of dictators is to suppress newspapers.

Items which are routine to newspapers such as church announcements, benefits for charities and other organization notices are greatly appreciated by the public. Newspapers probably do not realize the service rendered in doing such things, Mr. Sayers stated.

Newspapers are, of course, recorders of the history of their communities and for this reason they will never be supplanted by radio or television, Mr. Sayers declared.

Realizing this service to the public the National Elks Lodge about six years ago began celebrating National Newspaper Week by having local lodges entertain the staffs of the newspapers in their communities.

The committee in charge was S. Carl Greenlee, Harry McNay and Robert Moniger.

Newspaper Week Being Celebrated Throughout Nation

This week National Newspaper Week is being celebrated.

All newspapers from metropolitan dailies to the smallest weeklies are thinking more about their job and their readers are asked to think a little more about the importance of newspapers in the life of the nation.

This year's slogan is "Your Newspaper—It Fights for Your Right to Know."

A salute to the members of America's press corps has been dictated by President Eisenhower before he became ill 12 days ago. The President's message, in part: "Our belief in freedom of information stems from our belief in the individual; in his right to have access to fact, in his competence to form sound judgments based on what he knows."

"Historically, the winning of this freedom has demanded the conviction and eloquence and day-to-day labors of men and women of the Fourth Estate who, from the early days of journalism, have been willing to incur censure and to risk personal danger in the pursuit of their occupation."

"Those who today work in the tradition of a free press have the responsibility to uphold this freedom and to remain worthy of it by reporting with accuracy and candor what they believe to be the truth."

Governor Leader in a message to the newspapers of Pennsylvania said:

"The Twentieth Century has witnessed many dramatic transformations of the media of public communication. Nevertheless, the newspaper remains in the consideration of the average man and woman the most creditable source of his understanding of the issues confronting the community."

The center of National Newspaper Week celebrations this year is in Hartford, Conn., where the founding of the Hartford Courant, one of the nation's oldest papers, is being spotlighted.

Navy Accepts Giant Carrier

—Portsmouth, Virginia—
The Navy took the giant carrier Forrestal into its fleet Saturday with the declaration that here was the kind of a ship able to fight any kind of a war or to discourage atomic conflict before it begins.

This keynote on versatility—in operation and in mission—was sounded in addresses prepared for the Forrestal's commissioning ceremony by Secretary of the Navy Thomas and Assistant Secretary James Smith.

The Forrestal is the first of five big carriers on the way and its commissioning marks a new era in the Navy's air power role.

Smith said the Forrestal is the first element of a "mobile nuclear reprisal force" of flatops which can send atom bomb-carrying planes deep into an enemy land.

Said Smith: "The Forrestal is more than a deterrent against nuclear war. This ship symbolizes our country's determination to defend the free world by discouraging, in the planning stage, any effort to achieve ultimate victory by piecemeal aggression . . ."

Washington's Ancestral Home Reclaimed

By PETER LYNE
Staff Correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

—Washington, England—
A new historic link was forged September 28, 1955, between the United States and England. On this day United States Ambassador in London, Winthrop Aldrich, opened newly restored Washington Old Hall, home for two centuries of the Washington family from whom the first President of the United States was descended.

For long years, Sulgrave Manor in the English county of Northamptonshire, has been the foremost George Washington memorial in Britain. But Washington Old Hall in County Durham holds a far bigger place in Washington family history.

Sulgrave Manor was occupied by the Washingtons for only 70 years from 1539, and was little more than a stopping place for the famous family which later settled in Virginia.

Washington Old Hall is the earliest traceable home of the Washingtons, dating back to 1183. It is called the cradle of the family and the origin of the United States flag, because the Washington coat of arms of those far-off days was none other than three stars and two stripes. And the family crest was an eagle with outstretched pinions looking not unlike the famous symbol of modern America.

It is no wonder, then, that this day of celebration for the preservation of Washington Old Hall is a notable occasion. A guard of honor for the United States Ambassador was provided by a troop of the Washington Grays—part of the New York National Guard.

Colonel Carlos G. Webster represented Governor Averall Harriman. Prominent names in the cause of Anglo-American friendship were present to take part in a lunch party afterward for more than 100 guests at nearby Durham Castle.

Like this correspondent, who has just spent a fascinating day roaming the old manor and its environs, the guests at Washington will doubtless feel the great weight of antiquity all around them.

And what an amazing contrast there is between this Washington, C. D., and Washington, D. C., capital of the United States. Washington, C. D., is at least 800 years older than its famous namesake. The village is mentioned in a Royal Saxon charter of the year 973.

Its name appears to have come from a Saxon chieftain, Wassa. Later it became Wessington. In 1183 a feudal tenant of the Bishop of Durham named William exchanged his manor of Wessington and took the name of William de Wessington, which later became Washington.

In 1376, the Washington family sold Washington Old Hall and moved to various estates in the nearby counties of Westmoreland and Lancashire. And so, through further moves and vicissitudes, the family continued to Colonel John Washington of Maldon, Essex, who sailed for Virginia in 1656 and whose great-grandson became first President of the United States.

Now that Washington Old Hall has been restored and will be the responsibility of Britain's National Trust, the village of Washington will undoubtedly become a more important pilgrimage center for Americans and Britons alike.

It can hardly be described as being set in one of England's beauty spots. There is nothing of the cozy Anne Hathaway cottage atmosphere about it. The village lies between the great industrial cities of Newcastle-union-Tyne and Sunderland. All around, the countryside is deeply scarred by smoking coal-mine slag heaps and by uniform rows of red brick miners' homes.

It is a shock when the motor-bus from Sunderland drops one in the middle of Washington High street, typical of the least attractive industrial towns.

But this is new Washington, and another bus takes the visitor the three-quarter-mile to the old village of Washington. One passes the last towering slag heap and there, around a bend, is a gray stone village which, but for the heavy motor traffic which roars through it, might be nestling back in history.

What first caught my eye were the quaint names. There was "Spout Lane," with the wash hanging out beside the cottages. There was a typical old English village store by the name of "Currants."

And then there was an almost unbelievable little pet shop selling bird cages and dog collars and kept by Mrs. E. Hind. In the window were displayed personal advertisements. "I Baby's Pink Bath, price 10/." There was a gas cooker, a kitchen fireplace, and a single bed going cheap. And for 12/6 there was an odd lot collection consisting of 1 aquarium, 2 goldfish bowls, 3 gold fish, and a quarter of stone (3 1/2 pounds) of sand and coral mixed.

Church to the foot of the newly renovated gray stone steps leading to the cradle of the Washington family.

The Hall itself has much of the severity of a Scottish manse or an old English vicarage. Externally, it is a typical example of the domestic architecture of the early 17th century, having been remodeled by Bishop James in 1613.

By 1936, it had fallen into a derelict state and was condemned as unfit for habitation. But a small group of patriotic Britons and Americans formed a committee to preserve it from demolition. Some 7,500 pounds had been collected so far and spent on restoration. But there is still more which could be done to improve this fine memorial. And the subscription list is still open to donations.

The committee carried out some first aid repairs before World War II intervened, and reconditioning was not restarted until 1951.

At first it was thought that little was left of the old Washington home, as a result of the 1613 rebuilding. But closer examination showed that a considerable amount of the old structure remained, including the lower parts of the main walls, almost castle-like in their thickness, as well as parts of original arches and windows.

Also it was found that the old materials had been used in rebuilding so that a considerable proportion of William de Washington's medieval home still exists.

In the spacious hall there is a deep 14th century window and a narrow aperture on the right is thought to date back to the 12th century. Another feature of the hall is part of a 14th century doorway which has been restored.

A huge 16th century fireplace is the main feature of another of the three large downstairs rooms. Above the fireplace is a strange old mechanical turning spit for roasting meat. With great care the old wooden staircase has been saved, though its delicately carved banisters look frail compared with the massive oak ceiling beams which are the main interior structural supports.

The upstairs rooms are impressive examples of Tudor manor house style, with whitewashed walls showing off the oak beams. It is expected they may be used in future as a community center for the village of Washington. But this has yet to be decided. Meanwhile the Washington Urban Council has agreed to take over the hall on a 99-year lease from the National Trust, with the council undertaking to do any necessary repairs. The great hall is expected to serve as a George Washington museum.

Just over the stone wall of Washington Old Hall is the parish church where the Washington family used to worship and were interred. The church was rebuilt in 1832. The font, which is said to be of Saxon origin and in which members of the Washington family were baptized, was lost in the rebuilding. It was discovered 40 years later being used on a nearby farm as a cattle drinking trough.

Today the font is back in its place in the church and beside it on the walls are pictures of George Washington, with the Stars and Stripes hanging over him. In 1933 there was an exchange of flags between school children of Washington, C. D., and Washington, D. C., which is commemorated in the church wall display.

To achieve this new Anglo-American link through Washington Old Hall, a small group of patriots on both sides of the Atlantic have not only given money but also much time.

On my visit I was most helpfully taken care of by Theodore Nicholson, an eminent legalman of Sunderland, who is honorary secretary of the committee for the preservation of Washington Old Hall.

The assignment to visit Washington Old Hall and write this story gave this reporter special personal pleasure. My wife, Heather, is a direct descendant of George Washington's brother, Samuel. A picture of George Washington himself is one of the best prized adornments of the sitting room of our 500-year-old farm cottage in Surrey.

An appeal from the association includes these stirring words:

"We in America share the cultural heritage of England, the language of Shakespeare and the English Bible, and more: we share the liberties of the Common Law and the long, hard-won tradition of English liberty.

"The personal tie that binds us to the source of our common freedom is George Washington, typical of the great character of the people of Northumbria. Whatever weakens the Anglo-American tie is subversive of this common freedom; whatever strengthens it also strengthens our own American liberty. We are, in a homely phrase, 'in this together,' and the name and ancestry of the father of our country is a vivid symbol of our togetherness."

Sheet Aluminum Mulch for Vegetables

Aluminum foil served as well as more common mulches in vegetable growing at the Pennsylvania State University Agricultural Experiment Station this summer. Mulches tend to keep weeds down and conserve moisture. The usefulness of aluminum foil is being studied because the supply of common mulch materials, such as straw, leaves, sawdust, or grass clippings, is very limited. Satisfactory methods of application have yet to be worked out as well as the possibility of reclaiming the foil for use the second time, according to M. L. Ocland and R. K. Pearson, research vegetable gardeners.

Timber Rafting Days On Susquehanna Recalled By State Folklore President

—Harrisburg—
Henry W. Shoemaker, Pennsylvania Folklore Chief, related his memories of the days when the West Branch of the Susquehanna River ran full of timber rafts, most of which were headed for Marietta in Lancaster County, where they were sold by the foot to timber buyers.

"As late as 1905, when it looked as if rafting would be done I had the privilege of riding on several timber rafts between my home in Clinton County and Williamsport," Shoemaker said.

"There was an old retired raftman and boatman, James Miller, who lived at Throne's Eddy, formerly a raftmen's headquarters, who ran a boat ferry when McClosky's Rope Ferry was not running and people wanted to get across the river in a hurry.

"One afternoon when I saw a magnificent timber raft coming down the river I was seized with a desire to have a ride on it.

"I asked Mr. Miller to row me out to the raft which he willingly did and when we came beside it I asked the pilot if I could have a ride to Williamsport to which he smiled, assented, and I spent several hours, most pleasantly, talking with the pilot, Ed Bean, and meeting his crew which consisted of the steersman and the cook.

"Bean said he had made trips annually for the past 10 years and predicted that in 10 years more rafting would end. In fact, James L. McGonigal's timber raft which spent several days at Lock Haven in 1911, was one of the last that went down the river, six years after I had ridden with Mr. Bean.

"Bean was going down in the June flood at a time when fewer rafts ran but he expected to get to Marietta in safety and market his logs which had come from Deer Creek in Clearfield County.

"The next afternoon I was again by the riverside talking with old Mr. Miller, when another raft came in sight and I was again seized with a desire to ride on it. Old Jim, as he was called, rowed me out, introduced me to the pilot, whom he knew personally, and got me on the craft.

"This time the pilot was a French-Canadian from Trois Rivières, a big, powerful man with a dark mustache. His name was Fred Rougeau and he had run dog rafts on the Canadian Rivers before coming to Pennsylvania in 1890. He said that the Canadian Rivers were much more rocky and harder to run than Pennsylvania, consequently dog rafts were the only thing that could be gotten to market and not the big rafts 100 feet long like he was running that day.

"He introduced me to the steersman and cook and said that three was all that was required at that time as if there were enough on board to get their feet wet there was always danger of a break-up of some kind. He was a cheerful, middle-aged man who sadly predicted that rafting was coming to an end.

"On a third day, I was again by the river bank in Mr. Miller's company when a third raft appeared around the bend below the Great Island and he gladly rowed me out to it and again introduced me to the pilot whom he knew personally, a Pennsylvania Dutchman, Abe Werninger, who had been born 60 years before in West Virginia, but had come to Pennsylvania in 1885, because of the greater possibilities for running big rafts. He was a small, determined looking man and claimed he had never had a wreck in his 40 years of piloting. He stated that all three rafts I had been on had originated at the mouth of Deer Creek where the last original White Pines were being taken out.

"Like Bean and Rougeau he predicted the end of rafting speedily but said if forest fires had been kept out and trees allowed to grow it could be kept a permanent industry like it was in Germany and that I agreed as I had ridden on some timber rafts on the upper Rhine the year before and the old men in charge said they were the third or fourth generation of pilots. He also introduced me to his cook and steersman, veterans like himself of Pennsylvania Dutch origin."

Ed Schaughency KDKA Feature For 23 Years

About ten years ago a KDKA announcer was stopped on the street by a middle-aged woman asking for his autograph. After he had obliged, the woman looked up at him in disdain and said: "Oh I thought you were Paul Whiteman."

Today, it's quite possible that Paul Whiteman might be mistaken for Ed Schaughency.

Ed is one of the best-known radio personalities in the area. He's a veteran of Pittsburgh radio. In fact, a whole generation has grown up with the guy.

Letters from listeners marked Ed Sh???, Ed Shantz, Ed Shawsnessey and a score of variations on the name never fail to get Ed's personal attention.

Ed believes listeners deserve his complete attention if they're willing to give him theirs.

Schaughency (pronounced Shaunsy) puts in ten to 12 hours daily at KDKA. His on-the-air schedule includes three morning newscasts, plus three more on his "Afternoon With Schaughency" record show, 12:15 to 3:00 p. m., Monday through Friday.

Consistently rated among the top radio newsmen of the area, he won the Guide Post Award in 1954 for news broadcasting.

Ed was first introduced to radio-listeners in 1932 as a member of the KDKA Kiddies Club.

In 1935 he was given his own show, "The Musical Clock." The same year Ed began his early morning newscasts and introduced a new service to KDKA's listeners, "The Esso Reporter." In 1936 he placed second in the H. P. Davis Memorial Announcer's Award.

Schaughency was assigned to KDKA's famous children's show, "Starlets On Parade," in 1941.

In September 1954, when KDKA's program schedules were revised, Schaughency entered a new field. He dropped the Musical Clock and Starlets On Parade

'Kind-Faced' Heifer Wins Artist's Favor

—Carthage, Tenn.—

A painter and writer who calls New York and Paris his homes got carried away at Senator Albert Gore's first production sale of Black Angus cows and bought a heifer he has no place to put.

Ludwig Bemelmans bought "Miss Burgess of Marwood" for $1,250 and then explained: "She had such a kind face I couldn't keep from buying her. I also liked the idea of keeping her for a pet, not raising her for slaughter.

Mr. Bemelmans owns a dairy farm in Austria, but he never attended a beef cattle sale before. He plans to leave "Miss Burgess" at Senator Gore's farm until he can buy a Virginia farm.

ED SCHAUGHENCY

shows to start "Afternoon With Schaughency."

Born in Ingram, Ed moved to Beaver with his parents while he was a child. He was educated in public schools there, and attended Geneva College before leaving the campus for the entertainment field.

Ed married Gertrude Smith in 1936. They live with their three children, Diana, 14; David, 11, and Debbie, 2, in Ross Township.

Slightly reticent on vital statistics, Ed admits he's between 35 and 45 years old and weighs more than 175 but less than 250 pounds. He's five feet, 11 inches tall and smiles continually.

That famous smile and sense of humor have helped him over a few radio boners.

One time his sense of humor betrayed him—he "broke up" over a news announcement about a congresswoman who had "lost her seat in the house."

German 'Lost Army' Makes Toy Comeback

The State Department has ordered the repatriation of 50,000 tin soldiers "captured" in a German museum during World War II.

But first the toys must be found. A battalion of 423 of them has turned up in the National Gallery of Art here. The whereabouts of the rest is not known.

Miss Ardelia Hall of the State Department's arts and monuments division has a theory that the tin soldiers were seized by the United States Army originally under the demilitarization and denazification program.

Here's a farm pond that provides both recreation and fire protection.

Utah Farm Has Novel Pond

Looks Like Resort Swimming Pool, But It Protects Against Fire Too

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

Farm business is growing into big business. And, as agriculture grows so does its manpower problems. The stock phrase—"down on the farm" is assuming new significance in many cases, because it often means just that: "down" and not "up" on the farm.

Thus, employe relations—the job of keeping employes happy and proud that they are farm workers—becomes more and more important. And, that goes for farm youngsters as well. City jobs appeal strongest to those who do not feel that agriculture is an industry in which they would like to spend a life time.

Even a simple—and practical—thing like a pond can be turned to good account in a farmer's battle for efficient workmen and "stay-at-home" boys and girls. A Utah farm family discovered this fact when they converted a typical pond into a swimming pool—country club style.

Complete with bath house, spring board, striped umbrellas and picnic tables, the pool looks for all the world like the center of an expensive resort. Then, the visitor spots a big dairy barn in the background and comes back to earth—the good earth of a "big business" farm. Employees use the pool whenever convenient, and so do the neighbors, and family.

The pool, of course, offers more than recreation. It is the farm's ever-ready reservoir if fire should strike. Ponds also have other uses, not the least of which is supplying water for irrigation systems. The size and use made of them depends on a farmer's ideas and ingenuity. They may be large or small; elaborate or not, as desired. But they can be more than just a hole in the ground for water with a little advance planning.

Neubauer's Flowers, Inc., will hold open house Sunday from 1 to 5 o'clock at their greenhouses on the Aleppo-Cameron road.

The firm was established on March 20, 1921, by Mr. and Mrs.
John Neubauer in Cameron. In 1932, a retail outlet was opened in Moundsville, and in 1951, in Waynesburg.

With increase in business, the territory expanded until Neubauer's offer service by their own trucks to seven counties in three states.

In addition to supplying their own needs, Neubauer's furnish a continuous supply of flowers and plants to the Pittsburgh flower market.

To meet this business expansion, Neubauer's have recently completed a $25,000 remodeling program at their greenhouses.
Their truck needs have grown to seven with additional hired units at holiday time.

In 1947, Neubauer's erected a $90,000 building in Moundsville to house their floral needs. This is considered one of the most beautiful flower stores in the tri-state area.

The three sons of Mr. and Mrs.
Neubauer are also associated with them in business. Joseph is in Moundsville, Robert in Cameron, and Richard in Waynesburg.

The firm also employs 20 per-

You Be the Judge

By BOB THOMPSON

There has been several misunderstandings about the salary that the Judge of the Greene County Courts receives and about his retirement fund.

During Judge Hook's present term of ten years there have been two salary increases so that the total compensation paid him for this term is $119,000.00 Dollars. Since the present salary is $14,000.00 dollars annually, a second ten years would pay him $140,000.00 Dollars, or a total for twenty years of $259,000.00. The second sum would be paid to him while he was between the ages of 67 and 77 years.

All of this salary is paid by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and not by the County of Greene. The same is true of any retirement pay that he would receive in the event that he is not re-elected. During his term in office he is assessed an amount based on his pay which is paid into the State Employees Retirement Fund just as a School Teacher or other employee pays. Then, depending on his age and amount paid in, he receives a pension from the State for the rest of his life. This would be in addition to any Social Security benefits under which he would be entitled by reason of other positions that he now holds.

Do you think that he should again seek the highest office in the County which, if he attains this time, will pay him over one-quarter of a million dollars?

Where's the smart place to put your savings?

Today millions of Americans will tell you that the smart place to save your money is an insured Savings and Loan Association. They'll give you three good reasons why this is so...

1. You're smart to put your money where it brings you excellent returns. Insured Savings and Loan Associations can invest most of their funds in sound, steady-paying home mortgages. They really make your money work hard for you.
2. You're smart to put your money where you know it's safe. In these Associations, it's protected by good management and substantial reserves. And the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation—an agency of the U. S. Government—insures your savings up to $10,000.
3. You're smart to deal with friendly, experienced people. People who really know their communities. People who are right on the spot when you need them.

So it's hardly surprising that Americans are now putting more of their hard-earned savings account dollars into insured Savings and Loan Associations than they put anywhere else.

And here's another important point: When you're thinking of buying a home, remember that these Associations are the nation's largest single source of home mortgage loans! They make liberal loans. They see to it that you get the money quickly—and at moderate rates.

Shouldn't you get to know an insured Savings and Loan Association in your community? You'll find it's a mighty good place to do business!

Fifty-Year History of Greene County Sports

By GEORGE N. THOMAS

Although advocates of soccer attempted hopefully to popularize the sport in Greene County and the rest of the nation throughout the first half century, their efforts were in vain.

In the mid-1920s a group at Mather headed by James (Pop) Sowden, Ernest Charlton, Herb Evans, Ed McKee and his dad approached officials of the Mather Collieries asking for funds to support a team.

The company thought it would be only fair that since it had contributed to a baseball team, that it help the soccer players.

Inspiration for the team to represent Mather came from middle-aged Charlton, an ex-soccer player; the Sowdens who moved into the community from Dunlevy, Joe Haywood and the Paterline family.

The team actually wasn't altogether from Mather, which name it bore. Players came from three counties for the privilege of playing under the Charltons and Sowdens.

After many tryouts, they lined up this way for the 1926-27 season: goal tender, Ernest Charlton; right fullback, Butch Lorenzi; left fullback, Jim Charlton; center halfback, Danny Paterline; left halfback, Fred Paterline; right halfback, Allen Fowkes; (alternate, Kie Sowden); outside right, James Sowden; inside right, Joe Haywood; center forward, Huey Lyons; inside left, Charles Lyons; outside left, Bobby Charles or Charles Sowden.

Their very first year afield, these stalwarts proved rugged to sustain the 45 minute halves and they won the Western Pennsylvania Junior Cup championship.

The junior cup signified they were amateur, not professional. Rules read that teams need not win any league or conference to enter the year-end playoffs. They merely pay an entry fee.

But in Mather's case, they had plenty of confidence for the boys had won the Monongahela and Youghiogheny League beating out Monongahela City, Sunny Side, Bradstown, Vestaburg, Dunlevy and Marianna.

And down before Mather's accurate booters went the former champs from Bridgeville, 6 to 4. In spite of their excellent playing, crowds stayed away from the games. People didn't understand the game.

Attendance generally was confined to those who remembered the game from Europe and a few curious individuals. Some Waynesburgers wandered to Mather once they learned the rules.

Winning the Western Pennsylvania trophy was by far the greatest accomplishment of the team. It came the hard way. In the semi-final, playing Curry on Curry's home field, the teams played the regulation 90 minutes (two halves of 45 minutes each) without a score.

In the first 15 minute overtime, each scored once. The second overtime period produced the same result and the score stood 2-2.

At this point everybody on both teams was out of wind and about to collapse. Only eight or nine men were able to continue play. Mather's Kie Sowden was K. O.'d from exhaustion.

Officials called the game. The playoff then was moved to Mather on a later date, and the Greene Counties whipped Curry easily, 7-0.

Dunlevy was picked as the site of the finale between Mather and Bridgeville.

In 1928, Mather advanced two games into the playoffs before bowing out.

For the next 10 years, they fielded fair teams and took home only one cup—that was for being a runnerup.

In the 1930s, Mather came up with some pretty good individual stars in Bill, Joe and Emmett Haywood, Walter Kiwaro, Kie Dunseath, Frank Burich, Munchy Fowler, Terry Dorricot, Jimmie Marshall and Eddie Bupcheck.

Mather competed in the Washington-Greene County League in this period.

They won it during the 1930-31 season, and they repeated as Mon-Yough League champions 1930 through 1932.

When the call came for all-star nominees in exhibition games, Mather contributed substantially with Dave, William and James Sowden, Jr., Allen Fowles, the Haywoods, Burich and others.

Soccer held its own until 1934, when interest died down among the younger boys as the pioneers began feeling their years.

Those who wanted to continue playing and felt that the sport would return one day to the district, farmed themselves out and played with various area teams.

Other teams in the Greene-Washington League continued play so teams such as Marianna, Clarksville, Vestaburg and Cokeburg picked up Mather's orphans.

But they all came home in 1940, when Mather revived soccer.

They were ready to roll over district opposition and what a lineup they had:

GT, Emmett Haywood or Jackie Sowden; LT, Joe Pushey; LF, Al Folkes or Joe Haywood; CH, Chuck Haywood; LH, Red Burich; RH, Joe Yakovich; OR, William Sowden; IR, James (Buz) Sowden; CR, Bill Haywood; IL, Charles Sowden, and OL, Dave Sowden.

Their center half, Chuck Haywood, who came from that great family of soccer players, was a "must" on all-star teams and later tried out for the American Olympic squad.

Anyway, this great squad was just beginning to make itself known when the Japs swooped down on Pearl Harbor and the team broke up.

Most of them came back in 1946, and picked up where they left off. That season they battled Avella right down to the wire for the Greene-Washington trophy, only to lose it 1-0 in the finals.

Incidentally, a score such as that indicates a finely played contest in soccer.

Within two years so many teams entered the league that it had to split into two sections of 10 teams each.

Mather, in the thick of the playoff tussle, lost out to Dunlevy.

The Sunday afternoon games became sadder in 1948 when the best players left the community. Many of them turned up on Lincoln Hill's team.

There was no Mather team in 1949, but as the second half century began, Manager Joe Haywood, with the backing of the Filer-Sadler American Legion Post of Jefferson in support, felt that his Blue and Gold booters would usher in another fine era of good soccer in Greene County.

In 1940, Branch Rickey, then vice president of the St. Louis Cardinal Baseball Club, told a convention in Nebraska:

"Fifty years from now, soccer will supplant football as it is now played in our colleges."

Mather's soccer enthusiasts would like to see it.

L. F. (Dad) Engle Representative of County Hall Fame

L. F. Engle, All-American football star from Penn State, who retired three years ago after 33 years' service as farm agent of Greene County, has been named representative of the county on the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame.

Mr. Engle, who is a candidate for County Commissioner, will head a membership drive in the national organization which actively and enthusiastically supports football.

Football is of great importance to American business since it provides leadership stamina and courage.

President of the national organization is Admiral John H. Brown, retired, who played on the Navy team which clashed with Penn State in 1913, when "Dad" Engle was one of the stalwarts of the team.

The Hall of Fame is to be erected in Brunswick, N. J.

Fred Smith Wins Individual Rifle League Crown

Fred Smith of Waynesburg, a member of the Dunkard Valley Rifle Club of Brave, shot an average of 399.25 to capture the individual shooting championship of the Monon Valley Rifle League according to figures released by league officials.

The league wound up its season last week with Dunkard Valley winning the championship.

Behind Smith in competition for individual honors was teammate Thelma Jones, also of Waynesburg, who averaged 399.16 points per match. In the third spot was Andy Gonda of the Mason Dixon team, Morgantown, W. Va., with an average of 399.

Smith's achievement in posting the high average during season competition will win him a trophy. All others capturing honors will be given medals.

Masontown Tops Mapletown 18-6

Masontown High School halfback Dick Smith ran for three touchdowns to lead his team to an 18-6 victory over the Mapletown High School eleven in a contest at Mapletown Friday night.

Smith scored from two yards out in the first quarter, ran 36 yards in the third period, and later in the same period rambled 50 yards for another score.

Mapletown scored in the final quarter on a 24-yard pass from Don Wilson to Berzanti.

First downs favored the winners 12 to eight.

Score by quarters:
Masontown 6 0 12 0-18
Mapletown 0 0 0 6-6

In a contest much closer than the score indicates, the gridders of Bethlehem Joint High defeated the Red Raiders of Waynesburg High 21-6 at College Field Friday night.

Marty Nivert went 51 yards and 21 yards for TDs to pace Beth Joint to their win. John Greskovich added the third score on a four-yard plunge.

Waynesburg, showing a lot of spirit and never letting up, scored in the final frame on a four yard plunge by McClure.

For their first TD, Beth Joint drove from their own 49 to the Waynesburg 21 in three plays from where Nivert went over.

The second scoring drive started on the Beth Joint 21 and after driving to their own 49, Nivert took off on his long run. The final Bethlehem scoring drive started on the Waynesburg 44 and ended 12 plays later when Greskovich went over.

Waynesburg scored after taking the kickoff. A pass from McClure to Bernaducci carried to the Beth Joint one-foot line, and after two tries lost yardage, McClure cracked over for the TD.

First downs were 10 to five in favor of the winners.

Score by quarters:
Beth Joint 7 7 0 7-21
Waynesburg 0 0 0 6-6

Archie Smith scored first for the Mikes on a four-yard plunge.

The second Carmichaels score came on a two-yard smack by Bill Rohland.

The final Carmichaels tally came on a seven-yard run by Don Whlpey.

Score by quarters:
Carmichaels 0 7 7 6-20

Continue to show improvement with our picking of football results coming up with 23 right, 10 wrong and four ties last week. That makes the season mark 86 right, 39 wrong and 10 ties for a percentage of 688. Hoping to continue our slow, but sure, climb to the top, here's how we see results for this week:

District fans should feel mighty proud of the way in which they chipped in to help the Junior Athletic League put their tag day over last Saturday. A total of $510 was collected which is very much appreciated by officials of the league. Your contributions should not end with money, however. Why not donate a little of your time to teaching the small fry fine points of the game. Those in charge of the program would be happy to have you.

Watching Duke Snyder perform in the World Series, (via TV), it's not hard to realize why he is held in such high esteem by the Brooklyn fans. He's quite a ball player. In our opinion the best centerfielder in baseball today, and when his playing days are over, he can't help but be ranked with the best of them.

Fans who have been following the fortunes of the Red Raiders of Waynesburg High School are quite impressed with the improvement being shown by the squad. Lately they have been displaying a lot of spirit and with the rough part of the schedule behind them a win streak could be in the making. Let's hope so. That's what the team and the fans need to bring them closer together.

Local fans will be given their first opportunity of the year to watch the Waynesburg College gridders in action when they entertain Wooster College at College Field Saturday afternoon. Both squads are undefeated to date and quite a battle is anticipated.

An explosive 80-yard gallop by Parnell started the German Township High School football squad off to a one-sided 45-0 victory over the gridders of West Greene High School in a game at McClellandtown Friday night.

The visiting Greene Counties started off in an impressive fashion Parnell got off on his heart-breaking run.

In monotonous succession, German piled up six more TDs, including a 34 yard jaunt by Ruthland, and a 15-yard dash by Nichols.

First downs favored German Township 14 to four.

Score by quarters:
German 13 7 20 6-46
West Greene 0 0 0 0-0

Waynesburg College Edges Geneva 8-7 For Second Victory of 1955 Season

A touchdown by Chuck Williams, former Trinity High star, and an automatic safety gave Waynesburg College an 8-7 victory over their ancient rivals, the Geneva Covenanters, at Beaver Falls Saturday night.

It was one of the closest games in the long series and one in which each team put on a superb demonstration of defensive ball. From the Geneva standpoint, it was a heartbreaker as the Covie followers had their hopes high that this was to be the year to stop the Yellow Jackets.

From the Waynesburg angle it was one of the finest triumphs in many a day as it gave the Jackets a second leg on the unofficial district minor title and kept their slate clean at two wins in as many starts.

Williams punched over for his score from one yard out to top a drive of 31 yards following a series of punts in which Waynesburg twice threatened to cross the Covenanter goal, but was checked by fumbles.

A booming punt of 70 yards by Joe Zychowski, Waynesburg quarterback, set the stage for the two-point safety which gave the Yellow Jackets their one point win.

The ball finally stopped on the one yard line and on the first play with the Geneva defenders back in their end zone, the pass from center rolled through the quarterback's legs for an automatic safety.

Karas went over for Geneva's score after the Jackets gave up the ball on their own four yard line when a punt was blocked. He also added the extra point.

Both lines played a great game and Waynesburg's freshman halfback, Gounder, again displayed good form as a running back.

First downs were eight to four in favor of Waynesburg. Waynesburg will host the gridders of Wooster College on Saturday afternoon in the annual Homecoming tilt.

Score by quarters:
Waynesburg 2 0 0 6-8
Geneva 0 7 0 0-7

Jefferson Eleven Bowls Over Chartiers 41-19

Coach Steve Yourchick's well-balanced Jefferson-Morgan grid machine removed another obstacle in its path leading to the WPIAL Class B title by defeating Chartiers High School's football squad 41-19 at Chartiers Friday night.

The Rockets now post a clean slate of four wins and no losses for the season to date.

Gene Virgili, speedy Jefferson halfback, paced the winners with three touchdowns runs, two of them in the first quarter and one in the second period. Virgili rambled 56, 85, and 36 yards to rack up his scores.

Bob Knight added another Jefferson score in the second period on a seven-yard run.

Roosevelt Price tacked on two more tallies for the Rockets in the third quarter, both on short plunges.

Big gun for Chartiers was Russo who scored on a 30-yard run. Norwood Young and Lou Shuba also tallied for Chartiers.

Jefferson held a commanding 15-9 edge in first downs.

Score by quarters:
Jefferson 14 13 14 0-41
Chartiers 0 6 0 13-19

Hickory High Edges Mt. Morris 12-6

Hickory High School's grid machine scored a TD late in the final quarter to break a 6-6 tie and defeat the gridders of Mt. Morris High School 12-6 at Hickory Friday night.

The winners took a short-lived lead early in the third period with a 50-yard march, Warren Schwab going through center for the final two yards. Mt. Morris came right back, scoring on the first play after the kickoff when John Long circled right end and rolled 80 yards for six points.

Hickory's winning six points came on a one-foot plunge by Ulanich after a pass play which covered 40 yards put the ball deep in Black Hawk territory.

Hickory held a big edge in first downs making 10 while holding Mt. Morris to two.

Score by quarters:
Hickory 0 0 6 6-12
Mt. Morris 0 0 6 0-6

Deposit to my Account

Five hundred years ago, no one would have understood the meaning of the phrase, "Deposit to my account. . ."

Now, in banks all over the world, these words are repeated thousands of times a day. There's no mystery about them at all.

They mean simply that a person is depositing a share of his earnings in a bank, knowing that at any time afterwards he can withdraw any amount that he puts in—with interest.

"Deposit to my account. . ."

Four words that are a part of our modern life today.

But seek ye first the kingdom of God . . . and all these things shall be added unto you
—MAT. 6:33

Joining a Church is something like this: we are depositing our faith and our trust in God.

All of that faith, all of that trust, come back to us. But there's this difference. The interest rate cannot be calculated—because God does not measure the benefits He gives us in terms of percentage. To the small amount of time we give to God and His Church, He adds countless hours of love and devotion to our lives.

"Deposit to my account. . ."

In banking, that means security through savings. But in our religious life, it stand for enriching happiness for us all.

All Church Notices must be in The Republican Office not later than 12 o'clock noon, Tuesdays of each week to insure publication.
