Best-Known Buildings in Independence National Historical Park

Three Women to Be Given Honorary Degrees by College

REV. CHARLES A. PLATT, D.D.

DR. MARGARET C. DISERT

Dr. Margaret Criswell Disert, academic dean at Wilson College, Chambersburg, will give the address at the 11th annual Waynesburg College commencement Sunday at 2:30 o'clock. The graduation exercises will be held in front of Miller Hall, and in case of rain in the gymnasium.

The baccalaureate address will be given by Rev. Charles Alexander Platt, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Ridgewood, N. J. The baccalaureate will be at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, also in front of Miller Hall.

In addition to Dr. Disert, honorary degrees will also be conferred upon Mrs. Vera Inghram Heinz, Pittsburgh civic and religious leader, and Mrs. Constance Prosser Mellon of Pittsburgh, chairman of the board of trustees of the Richard King Mellon Foundation.

Dr. Disert will receive the degree of Doctor of Education. She will be presented by Mrs. C. A. Weaver of Waynesburg, a member of the board of trustees.

Dr. Disert received her A. B. degree from Wilson College in 1917, and her master's degree from Columbia University in 1920. After teaching mathematics in Waynesboro High School, she became an instructor in that subject at Wilson College. She served as registrar from 1928 to 1938, when she was appointed academic dean. Dr. Disert was granted a leave of absence in 1942, to serve with the Women's Reserve, U. S. Naval Reserve. She was the first Pennsylvania woman to enter the WAVES.

She returned to her work in Wilson College in 1946.

Mrs. Heinz, a native of Pittsburgh, wife of Stanton Clifford Heinz, will be presented by Mrs. D. D. Lessenberry, also of Pittsburgh.

In 1945, she has honored by the International Council of Religious Education as recipient of the Russell Colgate distinguished service citation. In two successive years, Mrs. Heinz was named Woman of the Year by three different organizations, in 1948 by the Pittsburgh Business and Professional Women's Club, and in 1949 by the Distinguished Daughters of Pennsylvania and the Federation of Music Clubs.

The Humanity Award of the Authors Club of Pittsburgh was presented in 1952, and in 1953, the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Incorporated, awarded the National Brotherhood Award.

In 1961, Mrs. Heinz was an interested spectator at the World Council of Churches, and as a vice president of the World Council of Christian Education, participated in the conference in New Delhi, India. She received the gold medal as service award from the World Council of Christian Education.

Mrs. Mellon, wife of General Richard King Mellon, will be presented by Mrs. Paul G. Benedum, also a civic leader in Pittsburgh.

She is a native of Englewood, N. J., and graduated from the Morrow School in Englewood, and Miss Bennett's School in Millbrook, N. Y.

Mrs. Mellon founded the Valley School at Ligonier, in 1947, and

High School Graduates To Hear Mr. Bradford

RALPH BRADFORD

Ralph Bradford of Washington, D. C., a native of Greene County, who for a number of years was executive vice president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will be the speaker at Waynesburg High School graduating exercises, Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock in the school auditorium.

There are 140 in the graduating class.

Mr. Bradford was born in Whiteley Township and moved with his family to East Waynesburg when it was a separate borough. He attended Waynesburg High School his freshman year, was gone for two years while the family lived in Texas, and then returned to become a member of the class of 1912 at Waynesburg. This was the first class to graduate after the four-year course was inaugurated.

He is internationally known as a speaker, writer and business executive. Before his retirement, Mr. Bradford served as executive vice president of the national Chamber of Commerce and of the international organization. He has studied economic and social conditions in thirty-seven countries.

Several years ago Mr. Bradford was named a Pennsylvania "ambassador" under a program promoted by the Department of Commerce and the state Chamber of Commerce.

Following is the program: Processional—Jennifer Grandon, organist.

Star Spangled Banner — Gerald Manolas, director.

Invocation — Rev. Henry A. Young.

Brass Quintet — "Prelude and Badinage," Earl D. Irons; Walter Dulaney, James Wood, Doniey Strope, James Gump, Gayle Voelker.

Introduction of Speaker — W. Walter Montgomery, supervising principal, Waynesburg public schools.

Address — Ralph Bradford, retired executive vice president, national and international Chamber of Commerce.

Waynettes — "Graduation Day"; Betsy Greenlee, Daphna Killen, Mary McCall, Diane Warnick.

Floyd H. Miller Dies, Editor of Messenger

Floyd H. Miller, 71 years, editor of the Democrat Messenger, died suddenly Sunday, May 27, 1962, in his home on East High street. He had been in failing health for several years.

Mr. Miller was the son of George E. and Essie Carroll Miller, and was born August 23, 1890, in Cameron, W. Va., and had resided in Waynesburg since 1899. He graduated from Waynesburg High School in 1908, and from Waynesburg College in 1912, where he was prominent in basketball and baseball.

Mr. Miller taught school four years before beginning his newspaper work in 1916, with the Waynesburg Independent. He joined the staff of the Democrat Messenger on August 20, 1917, and became editor on July 5, 1934. During his association the paper progressed from a weekly to a semi-weekly and then a daily.

He had served 12 years as borough auditor.

Mr. Miller was a member of Washington Street Methodist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Elizabeth Orndoff Miller, whom he married December 25, 1951; one son, Richard G. Miller of Parkersburg, W. Va.; three daughters, Virginia, wife of Michael Baker of Waynesburg; Mary, wife of C. H. Perrin, Jr., of Avella, and Harriett, wife of Charles L. Reed of Waynesburg; ten grandchildren, Richard, Lee and Barry Baker, all of Waynesburg; John and Daniel Miller of Parkersburg, W. Va.; Robert and John Perrin of Avella, and William, Jane Carroll, and Michael Donahoo Reed, all of Waynesburg, and one sister, Mrs. L. C. Stratton of Akron, Ohio.

Funeral services were held Wednesday in the Garrison Funeral Home, conducted by Rev. W. H. Miller and Rev. Benjamin F. Shue. Interment in Greene County Memorial Park.

Official Count Has Little Change in Primary Vote

Official count of votes cast in the May 15 primary election was completed Friday when 69 civilian absentee ballots and 40 military ballots were opened.

There was very little change from the unofficial count.

The absentee vote changed in only one case. James H. Helphenstine and Charles D. Parson, Jr., were tied for Democratic committeeman in Richhill Township. Helphenstine won by one absentee vote.

The vote was 2,781 yes, to 1,325 no votes on the school district merger of Waynesburg Borough, Perry, Washington, Wayne and Whiteley Townships.

Albert A. Sayers Honored by Local Economy League

Attorney Albert A. Sayers of Waynesburg, who is beginning his 11th year as president of the Greene County Branch of the Pennsylvania Economy League, was honored by the board at a dinner Thursday night in the Greene County Country Club.

Howard B. Stewart, director of the league's western division, expressed the thanks of the league for Mr. Sayers' many years of service, both as a chapter chairman and as a director of the western division.

Attorney W. C. Montgomery, who served as first league chairman when the Greene County Branch was established in 1949, reviewed league activities, and presented Mr. Sayers with a gift on behalf of the directors.

County Commissioner Herman Gugliotta expressed the gratitude of the commissioners for the many services the league has rendered to the county in its capacity as an independent, non-political research organization.

William R. G. Hopper, executive secretary of the branch, led a discussion on the new Curry Memorial Home addition which the county will construct to provide 108 beds for elderly persons.

Danger Signal: President Has Bit in His Teeth Again . . .

By HENRY J. TAYLOR
In The Pittsburgh Press

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, emerging from the White House, announced:

"I want to tell you the President has the bit in his teeth about medicare. He was kindly and soft-hearted on the steel price case compared with his determination to get action for his medicare program."

What kind of talk is this for the U. S. A.?

Men with the bit in their teeth have caused a great deal of trouble in this world. And I've lived through much of it abroad.

Invariably the broncos rationalize their runaway, kick aside any opposition as fit to be punished, and run the way they wish to run, come hell or high water.

They grow to feel that the end justifies the means. The American Government is intended to provide strong reins on the presidential horse for precisely that reason.

Thus the problem isn't a partisan matter involving Democrats or Republicans, party politics or President Kennedy's programs. It is a matter involving the ultimate freedoms of the nation. It is intolerable, unsafe and unsound for us to be governed here by the lightning flashing from anybody's brow, or even unduly governed by any one man.

Beware Our President

Senator Humphrey has served as a bugler, and even as a jockey, for several of the President's runaways, and in his medicare reference he follows the straight White House line, viz., beware our President, stamping mad with fury. He says, in effect, "You ain't seen nothing yet."

Attorney General Robert Kennedy, in turn, frequently employs and encourages this same technique as a political operating method. It promotes the idea that the President is easy to get along with if you go along with him, but if you cross him, look out; anything can happen.

Instead of regretting any possible vindictiveness in the President, they actually merchandise it. This plan is intimidation.

These are the tools of totalitarianism, utterly unsuitable here. When they are employed systematically the dangers to us become historic and enormous.

The President already has quite a few bits in his teeth, over and beyond the steel affair.

The savings bank and building loan associations were completely justified in advising their deeply concerned depositors about the reason for their opposition to the withholding tax proposal.

They are castigated by the President claiming they "mislead the public." How?

Again, their motives, like the motives of the steel advance, are held up for shame and contempt as if no debate with Mr. Kennedy's view could be honest.

Obviously, there is much to be said against this tax measure beyond what the President has said in favor of it. That fact is buried under scorn by a President who can dominate the headlines himself any moment he chooses. He puts them all in the black hole, and the effect falls straight on the tens of millions of small depositors.

Selish Men?

The 185,000 physicians who paid for TV time to debate Mr. Kennedy's contentions about the King-Anderson medicare bill are castigated. The President describes them, in effect, as selfish, greedy men and women who are ignoring the Hippocratic oath of medicine as the steel industry was violating "patriotism" and the banks are violating "the truth."

Tragically, the range of the incriminations seems ever widening, and the exploitation of the idea that Mr. Kennedy is a hard hater has literally become standard operating practice as a technique to which Senator Humphrey is merely conforming.

The President's great personal popularity is not pertinent to this issue. The question is not Mr. Kennedy's popularity but the use he makes of it.

There are enormously popular leaders in Nations the world over. Each has an attractive personality, widely responded to in the country where he resides, or he could seldom achieve the top spot.

This fact has no more to do with how they must be judged by us than it has here. Great personal popularity, in fact, is the indispensable ingredient in our danger now manifest.

For the infallibility of any one man, no matter how able, is a myth. And if the price of freedom in ordinary times is eternal vigilance—and the roaring resistance to intimidation—must be doubled.

One hundred and seventy-five years ago the Constitution was drawn up in Philadelphia. Now that city is . . .

Celebrating Constitution Year

Philadelphia
IN THE SUMMER of 1787, 55 men met in secret session in the State House (later renamed Independence Hall) in Philadelphia. Chosen by the legislatures of their respective states, they sat together with a single purpose but diverse opinions as how to achieve that purpose. Through four sweltering months they debated, argued, compromised. The success of their mission was often in doubt. But reason, good will, and awareness of the price of failure won out.

What emerged was a unique document, the framework for a new kind of government—the Constitution of the United States of America.

As the delegates signed the document at the close of the Convention, Benjamin Franklin pointed to the gilded half-sun on the back of the presiding officer's chair and said:

Influential Figures

"I have often and often in the course of Session, and the vicissitudes of my hopes and fears as to its issue, looked at that [sun] behind the President without being able to tell whether it was rising or setting: But now at length I have the happiness to know that it is a rising and not a setting Sun."

The occupant of the chair in question had been George Washington, often referred to as the chief factor in winning acceptance for the Constitution. Influential in shaping the finished document were James Madison as floor leader and James Wilson. Gouverneur Morris is credited with some of the final phrasing. Elder statesman Benjamin Franklin earned the title of peacemaker of the Convention.

Although the delegates approved the final draft unanimously, the Constitution was not effective until endorsed by at least 9 of the 13 states. Popularly elected conventions had to pass on the document. Several states ratified it promptly. By the following year 11 states had approved. But Rhode Island and North Carolina held out until after Washington had taken office as President of the United States.

States Honored

This year, the 175th anniversary of the framing of the Constitution, is being observed in Philadelphia as Constitution Year.

The commemoration extends throughout 1962. Weekly ceremonies at Independence Hall honor each of the 50 states in the order in which they ratified the Constitution or were admitted to the Union. Other activities which will serve to call the nation's attention to the Constitution include:

- A Boy Scout delegation will march to Washington in June, carrying a copy of the Constitution to be delivered to the national archives.

- The Pennsylvania Department of the American Legion will hold its convention in the city in July.
- Special observances will mark Constitution Week in September.

President to Speak

President Kennedy is expected to note the anniversary when he delivers the principal address at Independence Hall, July 4, bringing to a close the annual Freedom Week festivities. Among the honored guests on that occasion, who will also participate in the week's activities, will be most and perhaps all of the governors of the 50 states.

Extensive Freedom Week ceremonies in this Constitution Year will serve to emphasize the close relationship existing between this nation's two most significant political documents. The historical ties between the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence lie primarily in the principles which they embody and in the foundation which they jointly laid for the new nation and its pioneering system of government. Furthermore, the two documents trace their origins to the same city and the same building.

Daylight Time Dispute Still Goes On and On

WASHINGTON — Since the days of Benjamin Franklin, daylight saving time has provoked argument between slugabeds and those who rise with the lark. They may never see eye to eye.

Millions of Americans set their clocks ahead one hour on April 29 and will turn them back October 28. Some localities observe a shorter fast-time season. Many others resist any "tampering with the sun".

Franklin first proposed daylight saving time when he was United States Minister to France just after the American Revolution.

Franklin figured that in spring and summer Parisians unnecessarily burned candles for 1,281 hours. "It is impossible," he wrote, "that a wise people (make) use of unhealthy and expensive candles (when) they can have for nothing the beautiful and pure light of the sun". But Paris laughed him down.

In 1907, an Englishman, William Willett, wrote a pamphlet, "The Waste of Daylight," advocating that clocks be advanced 80 minutes in summer. "While daylight surrounds us, cheerfulness reigns, anxieties press less heavily, and courage is bred for the struggle of life," Mr. Willett argued.

"Sham time! Self-deception!" ridiculed opponents. "The only people who have shifty time are savages," wrote a respected astronomer. "It is now suggested that we join their ranks."

Mr. Willett's proposal was supported by a rising young statesman, Winston Churchill, who later wrote that Mr. Willett earned one of the finest compliments any man could win—"he gave more light to his countrymen."

Britain finally adopted fast time in World War I to conserve power and fuel. Now it is a permanent fixture.

Mr. Willett's counterpart in the United States was Robert Garland of Pittsburgh. Of all living things on earth, Mr. Garland argued, only man "is so stupid as to deprive himself of an extra hour of sun by sticking to a rigid system of time."

Mr. Garland also promoted the idea as a wartime measure, and Congress enacted daylight saving time in March, 1918. It lasted only two years.

Protests of farmers, who said their cows were giving milk an hour after milk trains passed by, brought repeal of the law over President Wilson's veto. Daylight time did not return to the nation as a whole until World War II.

Though "war time" was repealed in 1945, daylight saving time has spread to most large cities and over many entire states.

But fast time has not grown without struggle. Farmers arguing that they have to get up early enough anyway, remain the chief opponents. "Only playboys want daylight saving time," protested an indignant dairyman.

Proponents maintain that the hour of daylight shifted from morning to evening gives pleasure to millions, saves substantial amounts of power, and reduces incidence of traffic mishaps at dusk.

Participates In 'Aurora 7' Pickup

Stephen A. Hillman Jr., seaman, U. S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen A. Hillman of Nemaquin, is serving aboard the guided missile destroyer leader USS Farragut, which was the first vessel to reach Astronaut Navy Lieutenant Commander Malcolm Scott Carpenter and his "Aurora 7" space craft following his drop into the Atlantic Ocean after his three-orbit space flight on May 24.

The ship had not been designated in advance as one of the "Project Mercury" search group and was conducting exercises in the general vicinity.

While the Farragut proceeded at top speed to the recovery area, her crew began improvising the necessary hoisting rig should they be called on to recover the capsule.

Although another ship recovered the space craft, the Farragut did retrieve Astronaut Carpenter's life raft, which occupied a place of honor in the ship's galley while the crew enjoyed steak dinners for a job well done.

FUNDS FOR RESEARCH
WASHINGTON — The Federal Government has set aside $33,500,000 for research in 1962 specifically related to aging and diseases of old age. In 1960 such research cost $20 million.

As a result, visitors to Independence National Historical Park for years to come will find in Congress Hall a stirring reminder of the early days of the American Government and of the constitutional principles on which that government is founded. K. G.

Restoration Progress in Congress Hall

THE MORTAR had scarcely hardened between the bricks of the handsome new county courthouse when remodeling was ordered. Although the courthouse had been planned over a period of years, with funds provided in 1785 and construction carried out between 1787 and 1789, the structure was destined to house leaders of a higher order than county officials.

Alteration so soon after construction was required to accommodate the United States Congress, about to move from New York to Philadelphia until a permanent seat of government could be provided in the future city of Washington, D.C. With a few changes the courthouse would serve admirably as the home of the Senate and House of Representatives.

Not only was the building itself satisfactory, its location further commended it. Standing immediately to one side of the Pennsylvania State House (later Independence Hall), with the new city hall in formal balance to the other side, the courthouse was part of an attractive complex of buildings that met most of the federal government's housing needs.

Won New Name

Even though it later reverted to its intended purpose as a place of county business, a decade of service (1790-1800) as a federal building bestowed on the courthouse the more familiar name of Congress Hall.

Now part of Independence National Historical Park, Congress Hall is about to be reopened to the public after extensive restoration and modern improvement. Special ceremonies are scheduled for June 23. The oldest building still standing in which the United States Congress has met, Congress Hall was the scene of many an historic moment as the fledgling government withstood severe tests of its wisdom and courage. It was here that the threat of the Citizen Genet affair and other repercussions of the French Revolution were successfully dealt with.

Here, too, Jay's Treaty with England was debated and ratified. And here the First Bank of the United States and the Mint were established as part of Alexander Hamilton's comprehensive plan for bringing order to the precarious state of the government's finances.

Bill of Rights Adopted

Congress Hall's link to the Constitution is preserved through the formal adoption of the Bill of Rights—the first 10 amendments to the Constitution—by the Congress while sitting in the hall.

The changes made in converting the original building for the use of the Congress—principally the addition of a gallery and furnishings of mahogany tables and elbow chairs, carpeting, stoves, and venetian blinds—will be seen when Congress Hall reopens. More fundamental changes, though less evident, will protect and preserve the building for the benefit of future generations.

Unseen steel beams now gird up the building, to withstand the pounding to come from thousands of daily visitors. The most modern fire detection system known has been installed, as have "atmospheric controls" which maintain the proper level of temperature and humidity while also cleansing the air.

Meticulous care has gone into the restoration of the interior of the House of Representatives chamber on the first floor. Plaster, wood trim, and other intricate detail work have been painstakingly executed by expert craftsmen. Furnishings, too, are as accurate as documentary evidence and human ingenuity can make them.

As a result, visitors to Independence National Historical Park for years to come will find in Congress Hall a stirring reminder of the early days of the American Government and of the constitutional principles on which that government is founded. K. G.

Spotlighting Independence Hall

INDEPENDENCE HALL is to be spotlighted this Constitution Year, both figuratively and quite literally. Intense illumination is a key part of the "son et lumiere" spectacle (known commercially as lumadrama) to be installed beside the historic building this summer. Present plans call for it to be in operation by July.

The sound-and-light pageant will be the first such installation on this continent. The use of this system to dramatize historic structures and events associated with them originated in France, where it is in use at Versailles and at Napoleon's Tomb. It has also been installed at the Roman Forum, the Acropolis, Nelson's flagship, and the Egyptian pyramids.

Multiple-track electronic tape will control the special lighting effects, as well as the audio portions of the program. Thus the changing illumination will be synchronized with the narration, dialogue, music, and sound effects which, taken together, will "present an evocation of that moment in history when the Declaration of Independence was signed," its sponsors say.

Two Shows Nightly

The expectation is that the 40-minute spectacle will be presented twice each evening during the tourist season.

"This will be a production of the highest caliber throughout," John P. Robin, executive vice-president of the Old Philadelphia Development Corporation, declares. "This is not a gimmick. It is a way of interpreting Independence Hall through sound and light consistent in every respect with the dignity, character, beauty, and international significance of the historic structure."

Distinguished poet and playwright Archibald MacLeish is writing the script, with David Amram composing the musical

ELECTRIC SERVICE

'Round the house... 'round the clock ... your family's biggest value

Ever count the number of ways you put electricity to work? We bet you'd really be surprised!

What's more, your electric service is a better bargain today than it used to be—even if your electric bills are bigger. They're bigger because you're using so many more electric servants. You're getting much more electricity per dollar than your mother did—and living better, electrically, too!

And that's how it is all through the U. S. A. . . . for every one of the 140 million customers served by investor-owned electric light and power companies like this one.

MIXED

Remember the first stop lights? Sure you do! Remember how everyone wondered how those three little lights on an iron pole would be able to control the great, noisy surges of traffic that rolled by busy city corners and quiet country crossroads.

But they did. Red, yellow, green. One, two, three . . . All that you had to remember was this:—"Don't get your signals mixed."

Very few of us get our signals mixed on stop lights these days. They are too much a part of our daily life. Yet our lives are mixed up over so many other important things—things a stop light can't solve.

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.
Psalms 119-105

But your church can—if you give it a chance. For thousands of years there have been churches to help people keep their minds clear, their faith strong, their signals straight.

You know what to do at a crossroad. The traffic signal helps you. But do you know what to do at some of the other crossroads — the crossroads of your life?

Your church will help you there, if you will give it the chance and attend its services that are held for you.

Don't get your signals mixed. Let the church help you keep them straight.

Make Your Garden a Night-Time Fairyland

Time was when a floodlighted garden was found only on a large estate with a crew of gardeners to run the show.

For not only can garden lighting be installed simply these days without a major landscaping upheaval, it also can be done without a major upheaval in the budget.

Simple and beautiful effects can be achieved by the lighting of a well-shaped tree, or a piece of garden statuary, or a flower bed.

Not only does outside wiring give you another "room" to read, relax, and entertain in after dark, but you also have handy electricity for cooking hamburgers, brewing coffee, mowing the lawn, listening to your favorite program, as well as Christmas lighting.

Your guests, too, are not only treated to hidden beauty, they also are free from the hazards of unfamiliar paths and steps that can trip them up after dark.

On the safety score, remember to experiment with placing fixtures only in a dry garden, for dew or any other moisture must be guarded against in handling electrical equipment.

Waterproof cords and moisture-proof connections are a "must" for temporary and permanent installations alike.

Senator Scott Tells Moderates to Let Sparks Fly

WASHINGTON—Senator Hugh Scott, Republican of Pennsylvania, believes the Nation and the world need more moderates who are vigorous about their beliefs.

In an article written for Advance, a magazine published by a group of student Republicans at Harvard University, the Senator acknowledged that moderates often were misunderstood.

They have only themselves to blame, he suggested.

"Moderates in public life too seldom display the same zeal and passionate devotion to a cause as do their colleagues in the political wings. This is unfortunate," he said.

Funds Available For Student Aid

HARRISBURG — A new program of financial help for full-time college or university study in several professional fields will begin with the 1962 fall term.

The department will make funds available for study in clinical psychology, nursing education, occupational therapy, psychiatric nursing and social work.

Eligible for grants are employees of the department, including its institutions, county boards of assistance and county child welfare programs, and college graduates interested in professional careers in public welfare.

The two major requirements are acceptance by an accredited professional school within 350 miles of Harrisburg and agreement to accept one year of employment in the department for each year of training.

After training, the graduate will be given a regular position for which he qualifies. Appointments may be in department headquarters, department institutions, county boards of assistance or county child welfare agencies.

has served as its chairman since that date. She is also chairman of the board of trustees of the Richard King Mellon Foundation, and has long been active in many charitable organizations including the Cradle Society, Evanston, Ill.

The baccalaureate speaker, Dr. Platt, is a member of the Juvenile Conference Committee, established by the New Jersey Supreme Court to work with young people in co-operating with the Police Departments and the Juvenile Court.

The Alumni association banquet will be held Saturday night at 6:30, in Benedum Hall.

Roy E. Furman, class of 1922, former lieutenant governor, and a member of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, will be the speaker.

An oil portrait of Dr. Paul R. Stewart, now closing his 41st year as president, will be presented to the college by Stanton C. Crawford, dean and secretary of the faculties of the University of Pittsburgh.

The portrait, painted by Western Pennsylvania's noted artist, Malcolm Parcell, was presented to Dr. Stewart by the college's honorary alumni of the tri-state area at a dinner, May 7, in the Twentieth Century Club, Pittsburgh.

It was presented in recognition of "Dr. Stewart's long and distinguished service to higher education in the tri-state area."

Members of the 1962 graduating class will be guests of the Alumni Association at the banquet.

An alumni social hour at 5:30, also in Benedum Hall, will precede the banquet.

The board of trustees will meet at 10 o'clock Saturday morning in Benedum Hall where luncheon will be served at 12:30. Another meeting will be held at 1:45 o'clock.

burg, has been assigned by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court to preside at the Fletcher murder trial which will open June 13.

The assignment was made at the request of Judge J. I. Hook, who recently withdrew from the case.

Judge Hook disqualified himself from presiding at the trial because of a fixed belief on Fletcher's part that the Greene County jurist is prejudiced against him.

The defendant, James Morris Fletcher of Bobtown, will be retried for the 1954 shotgun slaying of Gerald Tanner of near Mapletown. He was found guilty of the crime when tried in 1954, but last year won a re-trial.

President's Parley of the organization.

Mrs. Dille was elected State Legion Auxiliary president in 1958.

Prior to her election, as president, Mrs. Dille had been executive secretary treasurer. She had served on the state department level as chairman of national defense, legislative, publications and coupons.

Mrs. Dille had attended nearly all the state conventions since joining the auxiliary, and had attended more than 15 national conventions.

As a director of the largest district in the state (Fayette, Allegheny, Washington and Greene Counties) she was awarded the Alpha M. Dressler trophy, given the director organizing the most new units with the most members in the department.

Mrs. Dille was also active in community affairs and for seven years had been secretary of the Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross. During World War II she was a member of Greene County Civil Defense Committee.

Mrs. Dille was a member of St. George's Episcopal Church. She was a past worthy matron of Emerald Chapter, 135, Order of the Eastern Star.

Surviving are her husband, and one daughter, Sarah Ann, at home.

Eastern Star memorial services were held Sunday night.

Funeral services were held Monday in the Garrison Funeral Home, conducted by Canon Edwin Shumaker of Christ Church, Brownsville. Interment in Greene County Memorial Park.

Bogus $20 Bills Found in W. Va.

BECKLEY — Three more counterfeit $20 bills have been uncovered in Beckley bank deposits, raising to seven the number of fake greenbacks turned up here in a week.

A Secret Service agent said the bogus bills carry a check letter "F" in the lower right hand corner and a number "113" on the face of the bill. On the back, in the lower left hand corner, there is a number "840".

How to Make a Salad

A successful salad, we'll all agree, is one that invites the eye, delights the taste and cheers the spirit. Fortunately, such salads, crisp, perky and tempting, are easy to come by. Here's the simple how:

- Wash greens thoroughly. Shake them and pat dry with towels . . . all with a gentle hand.
- Tear greens by hand into bite-size pieces. (Cutting turns the edges brown.)
- Cut celery on the bias, peppers in rings, tomatoes in wedges, fruit in balls or sections. (Do not cut or add tomatoes until just before serving. The juice runs out.)
- Chill everything, including the salad bowl.
- Then comes the gourmet touch that "makes" the salad . . . the dressing! The dressing is so all-important that only a really fine one will do such as, for instance, a Wish-Bone dressing, perfectly blended to meet the most discriminating tastes. There's variety also—among them Italian, French, Cheese and Russian. And for calorie counters, either Low Calorie Italian or Low Calorie French.
- Use just enough dressing to coat the greens and lend flavor . . . a scant one tablespoon per serving. Toss lightly.

Interesting Social Notes

Waynesburg High School Matmen Honored at Testimonial Banquet

Waynesburg's Sports Squads Boost Marks

Stock in athletics at Waynesburg College took a sharp swing upwards during the 1961-62 term. Yellow Jacket teams won 34 of 85 contests compared to 21 victories in 85 contests in 1960-61. That represents a percentage improvement of .153, rising to .400 from .247.

Raymond "Bucky" Murdock's wrestlers had the best mark among the college's eight inter-collegiate teams with an 8-2 record for a percentage of .800.

Right behind were Pete Mazzaferro's gridders at 6-2 or .750. A third winning season was turned in by Bill Hardisty's diamond team with a 6-5 record or .545.

Highest percentage improvement was achieved by the gridders who went from .000 in 1960 to .750 in 1961 for a jump of .750.

Bill Bowden's tennis team made the second best improvement coming from .000 in 1961 to .300 in 1962 for a boost of .300.

Rounding out the teams which improved were baseball (.145), basketball (.100), cross country (.068), and wrestling (.022).

Track stayed the same and golf took a dip.

"The quality which marks a true champion is competitive spirit," a veteran college wrestling coach told members of Waynesburg High School's undefeated wrestling team Saturday night.

The remark was the central theme in an address by Russell Houk, varsity wrestling coach at Bloomsburg State Teachers College, whose team this year recorded an undefeated season while winning the Pennsylvania State College Conference crown.

The testimonial banquet attended by some 150 persons, was held by the Waynesburg Veterans of Foreign Wars post to provide packets and patches for the high school team, which posted a 14-0 record during the past season.

"Adults know that life is one continuous obstacle after another," Houk said. "The best possible training in overcoming these obstacles can be obtained through athletics, and wrestling, where competition is on an individual basis, provides particularly valuable training."

He cited the case of one boy who had no more than average skill as a wrestler, but whose competitive spirit made him a state champion in high school and a national champion in college.

George McGary of Waynesburg, served as master of ceremonies, with the invocation being given by William Black, assistant wrestling coach.

Members of the wrestling team were introduced by Joseph Ayersman, also an assistant wrestling coach.

Speaking briefly were Ernest Closser, wrestling coach; Dave Clelland, Greenville High School wrestling coach and former Waynesburg High School mentor; Joseph Yourchik, Uniontown High School coach; Raymond Murdock, Waynesburg College coach; Frank Bonifield, Waynesburg High athletic director, and Dr. Edward B. Cordray, Waynesburg High School principal.

Vocal selections were sung by Jerry Manolas, high school music director.

The dinner was served by members of the post auxiliary.

Four Are Given Tennis Awards

WAYNESBURG—Four players lettered in tennis the past season at Waynesburg College, according to coach Bob Bowden.

Miss Linda Smith became the first girl in the college's history to win a letter for participation in an intercollegiate sport.

Winning their second letters were captain Rick Steeves and Ron Allen.

Letter winners were: Linda Smith, Kensington, Md., senior;

Rick Steeves, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Junior;

Ron Allen, Trenton, N. J., Sophomore, and

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

A Dream is Born

Whether the product of studied line-breeding ala King Ranch, a carefully chosen out-cross, a sentimental attachment to a certain stallion or that universal theory, "breed the best you have to the best you can afford" which produced last year's 3-year-old champion, Carry Back, each of some 13,000 foals arriving on some 2,000 breeding farms the country over this Spring, is meant to be good. Depending upon the optimism and faith of his breeder he is looked upon as a Derby winner, a stakes winner or at least a winner until he is tried and proved otherwise. The registered foals of 1959 which were 2-year-olds last year numbered 11,935. During 1961 a shade under 25 per cent of these young racers lived up to expectations wholly or partially. Of the registered crop, 2,904 proved to be winners; only 115 were stakes winners as 2-year-olds. A breeder need not be discouraged by such statistics, however. Of the 493 horses that won stakes races last year, 47 won their first big one at the age of four; 22 were 5-year-olds when they won their first stakes and one, Snoozie, had been racing for eight seasons but had not won a stakes until last year in the Ascot Gold Cup, he earned $10,500 and boosted his lifetime total to $104,020.

Jefferson-Morgan High School Releases Fall and Winter Sports Schedules

A fall and winter sports card which shows nine football contests, 20 basketball games, and 13 wrestling matches, has been released by Jefferson-Morgan High School. In addition to the above encounters, the Junior High football team will meet five opponents.

Hunters, Jumpers To Highlight Local Horse Show

Hunters and jumpers will add more than the usual number of thrills to the Waynesburg Horse show June 1, 2 and 3 at the Greene County Fair grounds.

Entries in these two divisions and in the pony class have been received from many places in West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania, including many horses which have been winners in some of the hunt country shows down in Virginia and others which have topped prizes at Harrisburg, Erie, Wheeling and other shows.

Bob Neff, former Waynesburg horseman who now has his own riding school and hunt at Smithfield, is bringing five hunters and jumpers. Bert Cence of Kingwood, formerly of Dunbar and a long time horseman, is bringing four head.

The famous Friendship Hill Farm at Geneva, which is owned and operated by the former Eleanor Thompson and her husband, will be represented in the show as will the Dale Shipley of Dunbar.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Falconi of Canonsburg will also have their horses here as will Anna Belle Mercer of Novelty, Ohio; Harriett Henderson of Wheeling, Beth Bonner of Reedsville, W. Va., John B. Harley of Morgantown, George Davisson of Vadis, W. Va., and Randolph Blaker of Waynesburg.

The show is again being staged by the Horsemen's Association of Greene County as a benefit for the Boy Scouts.

There will be an evening session the first day and afternoon and evening session the last two days.

Eleven Receive Baseball Letters

WAYNESBURG—Eleven players lettered in baseball the past season at Waynesburg College, according to Coach Bill Hardisty. Winning his third letter was team captain Herb Dodd.

Players receiving a second letter included Jim Cunningham, Wayne Ross, Ernie Chadderton, Ralph Dusman, and Ken Sheetz.

College Building Safe as Mine

HAMILTON—It's only slightly safer to work in a U. S. college or university than it is in a mine, Daniel Webster, of the U. S. National Safety Council reported recently.

He said statistics show that men and women maintaining university buildings get hurt almost as much as miners digging coal.

Greene County Track Club Officials Ask for Extension Recreation Aid

Greene County Track Club officials are not alone in their thinking that Extension Recreation is the best answer to Waynesburg's recreational problems.

Carroll V. Hill and Associates, planning consultants of Pittsburgh, voiced the same idea in Report Number Two of their "Comprehensive Plan for Waynesburg" prepared for the Waynesburg Borough Planning Commission.

"The local school districts should be called on to share in sponsoring the public recreation program so that a recreation director's salary can be partially paid for by state funds. The state aid for leadership is available from the Department of Extension Education and Recreation, but must be administered by the local school district," the Hill report states.

Officials of the Greene County Track Club, plagued by the absence of adequate competent supervision, has requested Waynesburg Borough School District to provide Extension Recreation supervision.

The request calls for the borough school district to provide supervision for an age-group track program for its young people this summer.

Club officials have offered to participate in the program with volunteer help as needed and with awards for the participants if the school board desired such help.

The Pennsylvania School Code provides funds — based on the reimbursement fraction of the school district — for supervision through the extension recreation program.

The Greene County Track Club sponsors age-group track, men's track, women's track, youth race walking, men's race walking, and cross country on a county-wide basis.

However, the request to the school board applies only to age-group track for youngsters residing in the district.

Beaver Cuts With Lower Jaw

When cutting down a tree, the beaver uses only his lower incisors as cutting tools. The upper teeth are used only to hold on to the tree.

The beaver must be assured of having a body of water at least two or three feet deep the year around as a refuge from its enemies, a highway to float food and lumber, and a cache for its food.

WALKS ACROSS WATER

The water shrew is able to walk across the surface of a pool of water by holding air bubbles in its feet.
