John H. Baily Dies, Carmichaels Business Man

John Howard Baily, 71 years, well known Carmichaels business man, died Monday night, June 11, 1962, in Greene County Memorial Hospital. He had been in failing health several months.

Mr. Baily was a son of John Ewing Baily and Dora Mitchiner Baily, and was born July 18, 1890, at Carmichaels.

He had operated an automobile agency in Carmichaels twenty years and had also been a partner in a Waynesburg bakery.

Mr. Baily was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Carmichaels, Carmichaels Rotary Club, Carmichaels Chamber of Commerce, Lodge 757, B. P. O. Elks, Waynesburg, and was an honorary member of the Carmichaels and Cumberland Township Volunteer Fire Company. He was also interested in the King Koal Little League.

School Directors Convention, July 22

Greene County School Directors Association will hold its annual convention Friday, June 22, in Waynesburg High School.

The business session will be held Friday at 1:30.

The evening session will be given over to discussion of Greene County's future under Act 561, the controversial school district reorganization bill passed by the last session of the legislature.

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy was reported Monday ready to give ground on some details of his health care for the aged program in an effort to get it moving. But he was pictured as standing firm on his insistence that it be made a part of the Social Security system.

Secretary of Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff conferred behind closed doors with the House Ways and Means Committee and Congressional sources reported afterward that the Administration was inviting proposals for a compromise.

Ribicoff was understood to have told the committee, which has had the President's bill boxed in for more than a year, that Mr. Kennedy is adamant on only one point—that the program be financed by an increase in the Social Security payroll tax.

The bill would boost the Social Security payroll tax one-fourth of 1 percent, on both employer and employee, to finance hospital, nursing home and outpatient care for persons 65 and older. It also would increase the payroll base on which the tax is applied from $4800 to $5200, but it would not pay doctors' bills.

There was no discussion of specific compromise possibilities, it was understood, but mention was made of two aspects of the bill that have drawn special criticism.

One is a proposal that all hospitals and similar institutions taking part in the plan be required to sign contracts with the Government. Critics contend this might lead to excessive Government control.

The other envisages direct payment by the Government of hospital and related costs. There have been proposals for an alternative system under which a retired person might receive a special Social Security payment which he could apply to premiums on a private health insurance plan.

Republicans Claim Top-Secret Panic in State

HARRISBURG — Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom said Saturday, "urgent, top-secret orders" have been issued to State government agencies for a new austerity program until the end of June to "save Governor David L. Lawrence's reputation as a budget balancer."

"The failure of State revenues to measure up to estimates has caused panic in the Governor's entourage," Mr. Bloom said.

"At stake is the Governor's claim that he was the first governor in 14 years to balance the budget."

Mr. Bloom said the claim has been false from the start as every Republican governor since World War II, with the single exception of the last two years of the Fine Administration, not only balanced the general fund budget but had a substantial surplus at the end of each two-year fiscal period.

"Due to the Democratic campaign against the State's first one cent sales tax back in 1954 and a business recession the same year, Governor Fine left a deficit of $52,300,000 which his successor, Governor Leader, despite huge increases in State taxes," Mr. Bloom said, "and Governor Lawrence also had a deficit of $33,200,000 in his first two years in office."

Today is Flag Day

'I Pledge Allegiance . . .'

What does it cost us to raise the flag today? A few moments of time, and infinitesimal effort. The price to us is little because, on blazing battle fronts across the world, others have paid so much for us.

Think of it when you see the bold, bright banners lined along your street today. And make the resolution every good American must make — to protect it in every way open to you. It's not a job to be done on Flag Day alone. It's a lifetime job, to be done with the ballots you cast on Election Day, the letters you write to your congressman, the tolerance you teach your children, the dollars you give to support good American government and the generosity with which you help ease the burden of other human beings throughout the world.

It's more than just a job. It's the real, the worthwhile price we must pay for a mighty privilege of raising a brave little flag in freedom in our hometown streets today.

The various addresses and the program will be built around the general theme, "In Christ We Grow."

Officers of the association are Paul R. Rutan of Waynesburg, president; Stidger Lohr of Spraggs, and R. Wallace Maxwell of Waynesburg, vice presidents; Mrs. Edgar Kiger of Waynesburg, R. D. 4, secretary, and James T. Phillips of Waynesburg, treasurer.

James Farrell Post To Elect Officers

Penn State Univ. Suggests Library Plan for State

HARRISBURG — State Librarian Ralph Blasingame, Jr., has released a Pennsylvania State University report recommending a system of district library centers for Pennsylvania.

The report, prepared by the University's Institute of Public Administration under the direction of Dr. Kenneth E. Beasley, recommends 29 districts and district library centers to serve local libraries.

Mr. Blasingame said Dr. Beasley's study was substantially a continuation and refinement of the Pennsylvania Library Service survey published by the State Library in 1958.

The 1958 proposals were incorporated in the State library code passed by the 1962 General Assembly which is the authorizing legislation for the district center system.

The study, Mr. Blasingame said, "was to determine how to divide the State in order to provide the best possible library service for the most Pennsylvanians."

Dr. Beasley separated the State into seven general regions based primarily on population and library facilities available, and then each region into districts on the same basis.

The regions are: southwest, west and northwest, southcentral, central, northeast, northcentral and east and southeast.

Dr. Beasley said an effort was made to draw district boundaries so that at least 75 per cent of the population was within 25 miles of the district center.

Greene County would come in the Washington District. The Citizen's Free Library in Washington would be the center.

Dr. Dusenberry Publishes Article

Dr. William Dusenberry, professor of History at Waynesburg College, has published an article in the April issue of "The Journal of Inter-American Studies," according to Dr. Paul D. Walter, academic vice president at Waynesburg.

The title of the article is "Urquiza's Account of the Battle of Pavon."

This was the most decisive battle in Argentine history, for it signaled an end of the long struggle between Buenos Aires and the back country provinces and bought about the unification of all 14 of the provinces of Argentina.

The battle took place near the town of Santa Fe, some 300 miles up the Parana River, on September 17, 1861.

The back country forces, made up mostly of provincial armies and led by General Jose de Urquiza, were pitted against a better-organized army of Buenos Aires led by General Bartolome Mitre.

During the battle General Urquiza, seeing that his defeat was at hand, fled to his ranch in Entre Rios Province on the east side of the Parana River, where he wrote his description of the battle and attempted to explain why he had lost.

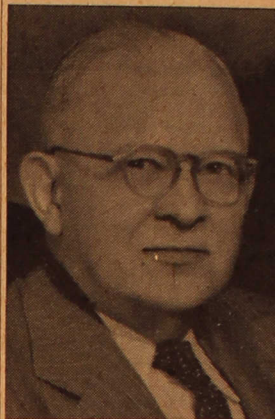

Dr. Dusenberry discovered a contemporary copy of Urquiza's document, wrote appropriate introduction to it, and submitted it for publication.

It throws light on the most decisive appeals to arms in Argentine history.

Historians generally agree that the battle of Pavon signaled the beginning of Argentine as a nation.

State 'Parks' 3,035 Drivers

HARRISBURG — The Bureau of Traffic Safety reported Saturday that 3,035 Pennsylvania drivers have their licenses suspended for failure to complete mandated physical re-examinations.

The bureau reported that 394, 910 re-examination notices have been sent out under the plan initiated in November, 1960, as part of the Lawrence administration Highways Safety Program.

Officials said the bureau would continue to suspend the licenses of any drivers who fail to comply with the instructions contained in the notice.

The program requires that drivers submit themselves to an eye examination at their local state police barracks and then to a physical examination by their personal physician.

The recently merged school district comprised of Waynesburg Borough, Franklin, Whiteley, Washington, Wayne and Perry Townships will be known as the Central Greene School District. The decision was made at a meeting of all the boards Tuesday night at Mt. Morris.

The possibility of bringing Mt. Morris High School students to attend Waynesburg High School this fall was discussed. There

Mundell Home, One Of County's Oldest, Destroyed by Fire

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mundell of Carmichaels, R. D. 1, part of which was built in 1814, was destroyed by fire early Thursday morning. Loss is estimated at $15,000.

Firemen were badly hampered by lack of water.

The house was a seven-room frame dwelling and was located on Route 21, one mile north of Faisley.

An addition to the house was built in 1840, by William Hewitt, who lived there for a number of years.

The Mundells had moved to the property 18 years ago, and had recently completed renovating it.

Mr. Mundell, who is a teacher in the elementary school at Nemacolin, said he lost $400 worth of guns in the blaze. His collection included a muzzle-loading rifle which had been made by his grandfather.

A few of the couple's personal property and household items were saved by neighbors and by firemen, including some of Mr. Mundell's guns.

Paintings made by Mr. Mundell, who teaches art, and many antiques owned by the couple were destroyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Mundell were visiting their daughter in Canonsburg at the time of the fire.

Joseph Betchey, who lives about 100 yards from the Mundell home, turned in the alarm. He and a companion noticed flames coming from the house when they came home from work at the Robena mine.

Firemen remained on the scene until 4 a. m. Thursday to make sure the blaze did not spread to the garage building. They were called back at 10 a. m. when flames again broke out.

Live Better... Electrically Outdoors

You needn't leave home for a vacation this summer! Enjoy yourself outdoors with the comfort, conveniences, and leisure of electrical living.

Perhaps it's the remnants of our hardy pioneering American spirit, this trend for "garden living rooms"—for patio and terrace dining and just plain backyard barbecues.

But if your pioneering spirit stops at primitive cooking, and you like the civilized ease and cleanliness of the electric way—take it outdoors with you. There are so many portable electric cooking devices—spits, table grills, waffle irons, skillets, broilers, drink blenders, and coffee-makers that just plug in for easy cooking. All you need is a table set up in your favorite spot, a couple of weather-proof convenience outlets, and you're in business.

Let dad don the chef's cap and be the outdoor cook... let the teenagers take over with a stack of hamburgers from the freezer... and the fun is on.

Relax, and when the cool dusk comes, turn on the lights and let the feast go on.

Whether you have a simple yard, or a formal garden, you can install inexpensive lighting equipment that will give your garden a special enchantment after dark. With a strategically placed spot or floodlight, you can finish that game of horseshoes or shuffleboard... or even cut the rest of the grass when the sun goes down. Light welcomes friends... makes paths and steps safer... scares away intruders.

Why not consult your electrician on how to enjoy outdoor living this summer? He'll be glad to help you LIVE BETTER... Electrically—OUTDOORS.

A Takeoff on Medicare

The John Burp Society

Reprinted from Bulletin of the Sangamon County (Ill.) Medical Society

Norman came to my door without forward late in the evening. His eyes glowed with the light of the ancient prophets. He was in a lather of excitement. He had driven in from Topeka (where he practices) in one sitting, allowing only for two coffee stops. Norman had been a classmate of mine in medical school and even then was given to magnificent flights of enthusiasm. Norman said, "My friend, what I have to tell you is bigger than both of us!"

"I'm listening," I said, not even trying to guess what it might be this time. "I'm heading for Washington to lobby for socialized groceries," he said without preamble but with such deliberate measure to the announcement that I could not mistake the seriousness of his intent.

"I'm astonished," I said, and I really was. "I didn't think you were for socialized anything. I always thought you were too much of an individualist for that. What is this, a joke?"

"Quite the contrary. I'm in dead earnest. I have been selected by the John Burp Society to represent it in Washington."

"You mean John Birch!" I said wondering how Norm could fit into the Birch group.

"I mean John Burp Society. The name was chosen for its symbolism. It suggests improper diet and it is against the indigestible fact that a significant segment of our population in this country is suffering an unfair hardship because of the high cost of groceries!"

"What group is that?" I asked, becoming interested.

"Our children, of course," Norm said. It's quite obvious. From infancy till the age of 18, growth is fastest, metabolism is highest. More food is required than during any other phase of life. Many of our children are not getting it because of the high cost of groceries. The John Burp Society means to right this injustice during this critical period of the individual's life by financing groceries through Social Security."

"But children aren't on Social Security."

"Enough of their parents are to justify a bureau that will make the Secretary of Agriculture smile in his sleep and the Secretary of H. E. W. green with envy."

"I don't get it," I objected. "There are plenty of agencies that provide for food for the needy now. I haven't seen any children starving on the streets in this country."

"I haven't seen any old people dying in the gutters from want of medical attention either."

"Socialized groceries is more logical than socialized medicine. Surely you can see that. Parents during the child bearing years can least afford the high cost of groceries. They have not yet reached their greatest income producing years. Children of the aged are relatively well established and can better afford to pay for medical care for their old parents than young, struggling parents can stand the high cost of groceries to feed their ravenous offspring."

"You have a point," I said, beginning to succumb to the inexorable logic that always characterized Norm's noblest thoughts.

"Wait!" he said. "There are several important points held by the John Burp Society that I haven't touched on. First, people eat all the time and they are not sick all the time. First things first—why not attack the more important problem first? Second, there is a surplus of food in this country and a shortage of doctors. Why lose the natural advantage of this fact? Third, if groceries were socialized, the saving to the consumer would be so great that in old age he could afford to pay for his medical care and still take a trip around the world! In short, socializing medicine would never solve the grocery problem, but socializing groceries would immediately solve the medical problem. Now I ask you, is there any question in your mind about what we should do?"

"I just don't know what to say," I said.

"Think it over. I have and so I'm on my way to Washington to establish the priority of socialized groceries over socialized medicine."

"What exactly is the John Burp Society?"

"Well," Norm said, "it started when I was visiting my great Uncle John Dalton in Ogden, which is about 100 miles north of Topeka in Williams County. Uncle John is the village sage. He used to be a harness maker but for the last 40 years he just whittles and rocks and thinks. His motto is first-things-first. On my visit I started talking about medical care for the aged through Social Security to see how he felt about it since he is such a sharp old man. When I finished, quick witted as ever, he saw that the first thing that needed socializing was groceries. 'If a man don't have proper groceries,' he said, 'he don't have the strength to get sick.' Those were his very words. That was the birth of the idea. We developed interest in the concept, refined it, got a following, and rented a hall. Great Uncle John spoke at the first meeting. So we named the society John to honor him and Burp because of the indigestible fact that the children of this noble land of ours are suffering an unfair hardship. The grocers aren't doing anything about it. So the government has got to. At least that's the way the John Burps see it."

"Have you run into any opposition yet?"

"We expected the American Grocers Association to be up in arms. But we were surprised to be denounced by the Bartenders Union, the Druggists Association, the Beauticians, the United Hardware Dealers, and the National Association of Manufacturers. This stems from the fact that in a big supermarket you can buy bobby pins; pipe wrenches, tooth paste, furniture polish, pajamas, a new set of tires, and a case of booze. When groceries become socialized it will take a whole bureau of the top legal minds just to define exactly what groceries are."

"It sounds like a losing proposition."

"No, my boy," Norm said fervently, "not when you're right. And not when the other side is using the most transparent kind of clichés instead of facts. Let the rich merchants who traffic in profit on food at the cost of underfed children cry 'Free Choice of Grocer' to their heart's content! No one will listen—not when they can get a free hand-out."

"Will there be Free Choice of Grocer in the Burp system?"

"Of course there will be—if all the grocers sign up and take the customers assigned to them. The grocers who balk will be dead ducks and the customers that won't cooperate damn well deserve to starve to death. Whether one choice is free choice is a metaphysical question that is of no practical value. If it is of little importance who your doctor is, then it is of no importance who your grocer is."

"But if the government subsidizes groceries till age 18, won't it be just a matter of time before the whole population will be fed on the taxpayer's money?"

"Of course. This is just the first step. By then I expect to be head of the Bureau. The possibilities are fascinating. There will be a Division of Calories, a Division of Burp Stamps, a Division of Collection, a Division of Distribution, just to name a few, and ten or twenty subdivisions under each of these, all under the Bureau of Groceries."

"I'm not so sure the situation is as bad as you paint it," I said. "It seems to me that the children in this country look pretty big and healthy."

"You would be nearer correct if you said that the aged of this country get excellent medical care. The John Burp Society has made a preliminary nutritional study and has found that the unfortunate children of this great land of ours exist largely on a diet of hamburgers and cokes. Why? Simply because their parents cannot afford the high rate of their metabolism, the high speed of their growth, and the high cost of adequate groceries to support this unique phase of their lives. Socializing groceries is the only answer. The John Burp Society will see to it that the voters realize the necessity of proper legislation to this effect."

Just Thinking!

By JIM DENT

Just a short time after the 1929 crash

I went south of the "Smith and Wesson" Line

to visit my grandmother

She died on February 8 (Had she lived 4 more days

(Abe Lincoln's birthday)

She would have been 95.

She was bemoaning the hardships of the people

Banks closed, assets frozen, and otherwise respectable people searching garbage pails for sustenance.

"Grämda," I said, "I have an idea, which, if adopted by Congress, would forever eliminate 'a repetition of today's conditions.'"

"What is it, son," she asked.

"You know by experience, (having raised 12 children that by the time "a family is educated and finally married "or secured a job,

"the parents are "middle aged before they "can start to save up "money for their old days."

"How true," she said, "But how are you "Going to change it?"

"Very simple," I said

"Just suppose all children "were born 21 years old, "and educated,

"they could immediately "start earning a living

"Then at age 46— "kill 'em all off "so the next generation "could take their place.

"Then there never would be "another depression "Because the new generation "would immediately take over."

"I can see," she said, "How you could "kill them off

"But how're you going to "have them born 21 years old "and educated?"

"That," I said, "Is up to Congress."

Makes as much sense as J. F. K.'s (Just For Kinfolks) medicare program.

Don't you think?

HOW MUCH CHEATING SHOULD YOU TEACH YOUR CHILDREN?

What's the difference between a little white lie . . . and a big vicious one? If it's all right to fib out of a parking ticket, what's wrong about a fib in school? And does our national record on income tax day entitle us to look in horror at the epidemic of college cheating? Most of us learned once what's right. We learned the firm principles held by our families and our Faith. Now it's a question of how well we're teaching our children. Here is a place where your Church or Synagogue can help strengthen the character you are molding. It's a question of building Faith . . . and you have the answer.

Monks' Chapel In Use Since 1083

Museum Gets Fifth Century Tableware

BURGH, Eng.—Elegant tableware from a wealthy household at the end of the Roman period in Britain is included in an important collection of late Roman vessels, recently loaned to the British Museum and found during excavations in the Roman fort at the castle here.

The collection has been deposited in the British Museum on indefinite loan by the landowner, R. L. L. Macleod.

The find is of importance in that it provides a link in the development of the glass industry in the Dark Ages from that of Roman times.

Burgh Castle is one of the Saxon Shore forts built by the Romans during the fourth century to protect the coasts of southeastern Britain against barbarian raiders from Europe. The glass vessels were found in a bronze bowl in a pit which had been cut through a fourth-century floor and was in turn sealed by a floor of the early Saxon period.

The find may be dated to the late fourth or early fifth century on the basis of its position in the ground and the types of vessel included.

These may be compared to related forms found in Europe.

Glass vessels of this period are very rare, and there are no other examples in the British Museum of the forms found at Burgh Castle.

Your Health

Pennsylvania Medical Society

Heat exhaustion is due to a breakdown of the heat-regulating apparatus of the body.

Heat stroke is due to a breakdown of the sweating mechanism of the body.

Heat cramps are due to the depletion of salt in the body.

These are three threatening dangers when the temperature is high.

Heat exhaustion results usually from physical exertion in a hot environment.

A person who collapses in the heat and is perspiring freely most likely has heat exhaustion and not heat stroke.

Heat exhaustion is generally a non-fatal disturbance unless complicated by other ailment or disease.

Heat stroke is usually a medical emergency and calls for heroic measures.

The chief aim in caring for a heat stroke victim is to reduce the body temperature to a safe degree as soon as possible.

The most efficient way of reducing the temperature is by submersion in an ice bath or in water as cold as possible.

Accompanying this cooling of body, there should be vigorous massaging of the arms and legs to assure rapid transfer of heat.

Untreated victims of heat stroke usually die, although probably all would recover if the heat stroke was recognized immediately and given prompt and alert treatment.

Heat cramps are painful contractions of muscles seen in manual workers in hot environments whose body fluids have been depleted of salt by heavy losses in sweat.

Heat cramps are relieved by the replacement of salt and water.

Prevention of heat cramps is made possible by taking salt tablets, and many industrial plants add salt to the workers' drinking water.

DO YOU KNOW?

An effective exercise to prevent overweight consists in moving the head slowly from side to side when asked if you will have a second helping of food.

U. S. TO AID BOY SCOUTS

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy has signed a bill allowing the Defense Department to lend equipment to the Boy Scouts of America for use during next year's world Boy Scout Jamboree in Greece.

Eisenhower to Host Governors at Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower agreed today to host the nation's governors at his battlefield farm July 1.

The Gettysburg trip will be part of the annual national Governor's Conference at Hershey, Pa., June 30 to July 4. Hershey is about 50 miles from Gettysburg.

The July 1 date marks the 99th anniversary of the opening of the classic battle between Union and Confederate forces, July 1-3, 1863.

Eisenhower's office indicated the former President would entertain the governors at his farm, a few miles south of the town on the western edge of the battlefield, but probably would not conduct one of his celebrated tours of the historic field.

In addition to the trip to Gettysburg, the governors will visit York and Philadelphia, where President Kennedy will address the closing session of the meeting July 4.

Eskimos Train As Army's 'Eyes'

FORT RICHARDSON, Alaska—Nineteen young Eskimo members of the Alaska Army National Guard are learning to send and receive radio messages in Morse code to act as the eyes and ears of the Regular Army in the Far North.

Substituting earphones and radio sets for hunting rifles and trapping gear, they are spending six weeks on active duty training at the United States Army Signal School at Fort Richardson.

When they return home to their villages, strung along Alaska's lonely coastline, these men will act as "listening posts" for the U. S. Army in Alaska, sending daily reports to headquarters on any unusual activity in their area. This will include anything from strange footprints on the beach or debris washed ashore to vapor trails caused by high flying aircraft and periodic reports on weather conditions.

Oil is Causing Friction in Cuba

HAVANA—Cuban motorists no longer may drive in for an oil change and lubrication when they feel like it. Managers of the nationalized filling stations have been made responsible for servicing only cars that need it, the Interior Trade Ministry announced.

No one really knows where the word "Yankee" comes from, but it was popularized in the 1700s by a Massachusetts farmer named Jonathan Hastings. Hastings used the word to express the idea of excellence, speaking of a "Yankee good horse," or "Yankee cider."

A Delightful Twist for Seafoods

As seen in Better Homes & Gardens Magazine

Your grocer will be featuring special values on seafoods during the Lenten season; a point to remember if you're watching your food budget. Here are a few ideas to put some spark and life in seafood dishes. Do it with some delightful sauces. These ideas will turn even the simplest seafood into a culinary creation to the joy of all and will make every housewife a kind of miracle worker.

In each of the following recipes there is one common ingredient besides the seafood element. It's horseradish. This time-honored condiment adds that little something extra in the flavor of each dish to provide the spark and freshness you want.

TARTAR SAUCE

- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped onions or juice
- 1 tablespoon chopped sweet pickle
- 1 tablespoon chopped olives
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 3-4 tablespoons prepared horseradish

QUICK SEAFOOD SAUCE

- 1/2 cup chili sauce
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- Blend ingredients together. 1 cup.
- 3-4 tablespoons prepared horseradish

A ONE DISH SEAFOOD DINNER

For a one dish dinner, here's a seafood casserole that will serve six to eight.

SALMON CASSEROLE

- 1 1/2 cups water
- 1/2 cup uncooked white rice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 teaspoons more salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups milk
- 2 tablespoons prepared horseradish
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 1-lb. can salmon, flaked
- 2 whole canned pimentos, chopped
- 1 cup cooked, seasoned green peas
- 1/2 cup cracker crumbs
- 2 more tablespoons butter, this time melted

Put water, rice and 1 teaspoon salt in 2-quart saucepan. Bring to vigorous boil, then turn heat as low as possible. Cover and leave over this low heat 14 minutes. While rice cooks, melt 2 tablespoons butter in saucepan. Add onion and cook until tender and yellow. Stir in flour, the 2 teaspoons salt and the pepper. Gradually blend in milk, stirring constantly. Cook until mixture thickens. Remove from heat and stir in prepared horseradish, Worcestershire sauce, salmon, pimentos, peas and rice. Pour into well oiled 2-quart casserole. Sprinkle cracker crumbs over top and pour melted butter over crumbs. Bake in 350 deg. oven 40 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Greene County Walk Team Victors; Caldwell Paces Win Over Indiana

John Caldwell, age 15-year-old, paced the Greene County Track Club's youth walking team to a 9.12 win over the Indiana County Track Club's youth team in a dual meet Sunday at College Field in Indiana.

Caldwell won the three-mile event in 30:03 as he scored a 220-yard victory over Indiana's Drew Nance who covered the distance in 31:43.

Coach John Harwick's Greene County squad is now undefeated in four dual outings in the past two campaigns. Caldwell has been first for the local squad in each race.

Tom Cochran, 13, took third for the winners, while Dick Morris, 16, captured the fifth spot after a tough battle with Indiana's Frank Naus, John Repine and George Flanjack.

Naus finished fourth, but Morris nosed out Repine and Flanjack to assure the win for the Greene County squad.

Thirty youths—25 from Indiana and five from Greene County—competed.

Both clubs are preparing for the five-mile National Youth Race Walk July 4, in Pittsburgh. Nance was sixth in 1960, and Caldwell was ninth in 1961.

Morris and Caldwell finished one-two last week in the Allegheny Mountain Association's A. A. U. Junior one mile race walk championship at Penn Hills.

Four Sports Will be Cut In Olympics

MOSCOW — Four of the 22 Summer Olympic sports will be cut from the program of the 1968 Olympic Games, a top official of the International Olympic Committee said Thursday.

Otto Mayer, IOC chancellor, told a news conference that the committee had passed a resolution limiting the program for future games to not less than 15 and not more than 18 sports.

Asked what sports were likely to be eliminated, Mayer said he personally thought "professional sports should go."

He gave soccer, cycling and basketball as examples.

"What we want is not to have the games grow bigger and bigger," Mayer said. "We want to keep them clean."

He said that in Western countries sports like basketball and cycling are really professional sports. In basketball, he said "there is not one amateur in all of America."

Referring to state-supported sports in the Communist countries, he said "there is not one ice hockey player on the other side of the 'silk curtain' who is not paid."

Which four sports are to be eliminated will be decided at a meeting of the world's national Olympic committees in Nairobi, Kenya, next year, Mayer said.

Also to be decided at the meeting is the site of the 1968 Games. The cities of Moscow; Lyons, France; Lausanne, Switzerland; Manila and Los Angeles are among the bidders.

Many Legal Size Fish Are Destroyed By Explosives in Greene County Stream

The most contemptible of all game and fish violators, the "fish dynamiters," have been at it again in Greene County, although this time they apparently did not use dynamite.

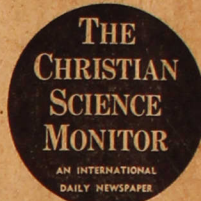

However, evidences of a heavy charge of some explosive—thought to have been carbide—have been found in a section of Ten Mile Creek about three miles east of Waynesburg.

An angler who noted some of the dead fish floating in the stream immediately notified authorities and an investigation was started. State Fish Commission member Attorney R. Stanley Smith of Waynesburg, was notified of the incident and accompanied the investigators on a visit to the site.

Particularly distressing was the fact that a number of good sized muskies and pike which had been placed in the stream a few years ago on an experimental basis were among those which were found to have been killed. Their sizes varied but most had reached maturity and well past the minimum legal size for catching.

Some of the fish were placed in deep freeze as specimens to be sent to state laboratories for pathological tests in an effort to learn the type of explosives used. Exhaustive tests showed no chemical impurities in the stream of a nature which would have made the fish die.

Issue Five Wildlife Conservation Stamps

Five kinds of migratory waterfowl are featured in the current series of wildlife conservation stamps being distributed across the country by the National Wildlife Federation. This year's emphasis on waterfowl and wetlands ties in with other education activities, including the National Wildlife Week theme designed to preserve waterfowl habitat to help assure abundant waterfowl populations for the present and future.

Painted in four colors the stamps feature paintings of the common goldeneye, black duck Canada goose, American widgeon and mallard. Arranged in sheets of 50, the stamps were painted from real-life settings and can be used as mounted decorations and album collections, as well as on correspondence and place cards.

Contributions received from the wildlife conservation stamps help finance education programs of the Wildlife Federation. The Federation is the nation's largest conservation organization, having two million members in affiliated organizations which are active in every state.

Musial Driving for NL Batting Title; May be Oldest Player to Reach Goal

NEW YORK—At 41 years of age and only one point behind the batting leader with two months of the season in the books, Stan Musial is in position to become the oldest major leaguer in history to win a batting championship.

A 12-game hitting streak during which he has collected 20 hits in 44 tries has lifted Musial's average from .300 to .347. The St. Louis Cardinals' star already owns seven National League batting crowns.

Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox was the oldest to capture a big league batting championship. Ted was 40 when he finished on top in the American League with a .328 mark in 1958.

Musial appears to be improving with age. After 44 games, he has 50 hits, seven home runs and 30 runs batted in. His totals after 44 games last season were 40 hits, six homers and 25 RBI. He wound up with a .288 average in 1961, his third consecutive season under .300.

Stan the Man would be the No. 1 batsman if San Francisco's Felipe Alou hadn't enjoyed a productive week. The Giants' outfielder moved into first place with a 9-for-22 performance that boosted his average eight points to .348.

Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs, the pace-setter a week ago, dropped to third.

In the American League, Rich Rollins of the Minnesota Twins wrested the batting lead from Kansas City's Manny Jimenez. Rollins, streaking from fourth position, hit at a .500 pace last week with 14 hits in 28 times at bat. The surge lifted his average 21 with .336.

Al Kaline of Detroit, sidelined with a fractured shoulder, is third with .336.

Jim Gentile of Baltimore, Norm Cash of Detroit and Leon Wagner, Los Angeles are tied for the home run lead with 15 while Wagner and Chicago's Floyd Robinson are deadlocked for the most runs batted in, 44.

Wild Turkeys Survived Winter With Little Loss

Pennsylvania's wild turkey population again last winter displayed its ability to survive deep snows and low temperatures without appreciable loss. Despite an apparent shortage of such standard foods as beechnuts, acorns and cherry pits this hardy game bird came through the winter in excellent physical condition.

Given a break in the weather during the critical nesting and brooding season this spring, the Game Commission anticipates a good supply of these birds for the 1962 hunting season.

The failure of such mast-producing trees as oak, beech and wild black cherries does not necessarily indicate a complete lack of natural winter food for wild turkeys. This resourceful bird will and does almost anything in the line of seeds and fruits, green vegetation and insect life. Even during the coldest weather and deepest snows, non-freezing springs and spring runs provide turkeys with an abundance of succulent roots and tubers. Also, turkeys find animal foods, including aquatic insects and their larvae, crayfish, snails and earthworms, in these open wet areas.

Due to this ability of wild turkeys to take care of themselves and find winter food under most normal weather conditions, extensive well-designed winter feeding programs are justifiable only during prolonged periods of deep-crusting snow or severe ice storms and extremely low temperatures.

A message from the Treasury of a free people

How to invest in freedom on the installment plan

You can't buy freedom. For cash or installments or any other way. It's not for sale.

You can make a sound investment in freedom, though, by investing in U.S. Savings Bonds. Just $4.33 a week on payroll savings where you work will buy a $25.00 Bond each month.

As your savings grow, built up by 3 1/2% interest, you get closer to financial freedom—a desirable state for each of us if America is to be financially strong.

At the same time, your dollars go to work for another kind of freedom... the kind you'll find fully described in a document conceived nearly two centuries ago at Independence Hall.

Start buying Bonds where you work now. When you do, you'll be joining 8 million Americans who have signed up for a regular share of freedom each month.

U.S. Savings Bonds

Keep freedom in your future will. The U.S. Government does not pay for this advertisement. The Treasury Department thanks The Advertising Council and this newspaper for their patriotic support.

Many Grouse Lost To Highway Vehicles

The slower pace of the horse-and-buggy days favored grouse survival, say two game protectors. Levi Whippo, Lycoming County, reports that twelve grouse were road killed on the few miles of highway between Loyalsook and Barbour during April. Dean Rockwell, Carbon County, reports: "Vehicular traffic has taken a heavy toll of grouse and rabbits in my district this spring. I've never seen so many grouse killed on the highway."

State Bass Season To Open June 16

HARRISBURG—The State Fish Commission reported Thursday that stream conditions appear excellent for the opening of the bass season June 16.

The unusually low level of most bass fishing streams and higher than seasonal temperatures should make for good fishing in most areas, barring sudden storms which might roll the exceptionally clear waters, the commission said.

Reserve infielder Billy Consolo of the Los Angeles Angels is an off-season barber in Los Angeles.

Another Duck Takes Long Flight

Report of the Game Commission raised duck that flew the greatest distance eastward from its liberation point in Pennsylvania, recently was received in Harrisburg. This duck, a mallard wearing leg band No. 92658, was shot last season in the vicinity of Fortune Bay, Newfoundland. It was released in McKean County on June 21, 1961 by Game Protector John Putnam.

Ducks making the longest flights in other directions were as follows: to the west, a mallard band recovery from Washington State; to the north, many ducks reported from Canadian provinces; to the south, a blue-wing teal raised at the State Wild Waterfowl Farm in Crawford County and bagged on the island of Jamaica in the British West Indies.

Corn is Tested For Strontium

UNIVERSITY PARK—Pennsylvania State University scientists are conducting research on the absorption of strontium by various strains of corn. The study is being carried out under a $44,866 grant from the Atomic Energy Commission.

It is believed that one of the principal avenues for ingestion of strontium by humans is from milk from cows that have eaten corn-ensilage.

EAGLES RETURN

FULFORD—Bird watchers report the bald eagle population appears to be growing around this Salt Spring Island community. They are feeding on a plentiful fish population and leaving available ducks alone.

VIBRATION 'HEARING'

Snakes and fish have ears but these ears have no outside openings. They "hear" mostly through vibrations in the ground or water.
