Scranton Scores Foe As 'Dealer' in Politics

Keith Lynch Killed In Tractor Upset While Mowing

Keith W. Lynch, 39 years, of Morgantown, W. Va., a native of Greene County, was killed sometime Monday night at the family farm in Dunkard Township, two miles north of Davistown. He had been mowing grass with a tractor using a cutter bar along a narrow creek bank. The tractor overturned pinning him against the bank.

The accident was discovered about noon Tuesday, by a friend, John Wanto of Bobtown. Not finding Mr. Lynch at the house, Mr. Wanto started for the location of a putting green they were constructing together, and discovered the accident.

Dr. Robert Gray, deputy coroner, stated the accident probably occurred about eight o'clock Monday night.

His wife, Betty Orhood Lynch, was visiting in Florida.

Mr. Lynch was born July 15, 1923, near Jefferson, but had resided most of his life in the Mt. Morris - Davistown area. His mother, Clovia Livengood Lynch, died in 1959.

He graduated from Mt. Morris High School in 1943, where he was a star athlete. Mr. Lynch was well known in sports circles, and was a sports announcer for a Morgantown radio station. He was the owner of the Old Mill Club near Morgantown, and also owned a night club in Miami, Florida.

Mr. Lynch was a veteran of World War II.

He was a past commander of James T. Maxon Post 992, American Legion at Mt. Morris; a member of the Morgantown Veterans of Foreign Wars Post; Morgantown Elks Lodge, and the Morgantown Lions Club and United Commercial Travelers.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 11 o'clock in the Jenkins Funeral Home, Morgantown, conducted by Rev. Stacy Grose-up. Interment in Garards Fort Cemetery, Garards Fort.

Good Year for Republicans

Commenting on the election campaign for governor the Philadelphia Inquirer on Tuesday said:

"Mr. Dilworth of course, has been having his troubles and it would appear that at this stage of the campaign he is on the defensive. His failure during the height of the City Hall payola scandals to press for a Grand Jury investigation, and the bad taste left in the mouths of many suburbanites by the attempt to include portions of Bucks and Delaware counties in Philadelphia Congressional districts, continue to plague him.

The fact that his victory or defeat in November may hinge upon the margin rolled up for him in this city by William Green's Democratic Organization must be a constant worry. And the continuing enmity of Controller Hemphill, whose behavior toward Dilworth has had all the characteristics of the Chinese drip-drip water-torture treatment, may have a cumulative effect.

"Mr. Scranton is, however, in the much happier position of having an unquestionably solid party support behind him.

"The Republican party has now the best chance in seven and a half years."

Cancer Deaths Set State Mark

HARRISBURG—Pennsylvania's cancer death rate last year was the highest in the State's history, the Health Department announced Wednesday.

The cancer death rate of 173.8 deaths per 100,000 population exceeded the previous high of 173.3 in 1960. The third highest rate was 170.8 in 1957.

The disease claimed 19,993 lives in 1961 and continues as the second leading cause of death in the Commonwealth. Heart disease is the leading cause of death.

William W. Scranton, Republican candidate for governor, has made his first swing into Western Pennsylvania, firing heavy siege guns at Democrat candidate Richardson Dilworth.

In a scathingly worded address, Mr. Scranton aroused 1,200 party faithful at a dinner rally Monday night at Twin Coaches near Belle Vernon.

"We want progress, not pay-offs. We want action, not alibis. We want good, sound, decent government, not high-handed politics," he told the Republicans from Westmoreland, Fayette, Washington and Greene Counties.

"I will go to Harrisburg as a free and independent governor, pledged to no special interests or persons, but only to the best interest of all our citizens," promised Mr. Scranton.

Meanwhile, he said his opponent has resorted to "the biggest series of open and secret deals with special interests in the history of Pennsylvania politics."

The candidate charged Mr. Dilworth at one time did not have the support of any of the Democratic bigwigs like Governor David Lawrence, Pittsburgh Mayor Joseph Barr, Representative William Green of Philadelphia, and Commissioner William D. McClelland and Prothonotary David Roberts, of Allegheny County.

"What did he promise them? What deal has he made?" Mr. Scranton asked.

Mr. Scranton further accused the Democrats of bungling among many things, the State Mental Health program.

Mr. Scranton blamed the Democrats for the "degradation" of the Pennsylvania State Police by allowing politics to become involved

Boyd Re-elected Democratic Chairman

Thomas H. Boyd was re-elected chairman of the Greene County Democratic Committee, Saturday night, at a meeting in the headquarters. This is his second term.

Boyd defeated Harold Dulaney of Waynesburg, and Steve Yarish of Carmichaels, in a lethargic election, which seemed to have been cut and dried before the meeting.

Eighty-seven of the 102 committeemen were present. Fifteen voted by proxy and two did not vote.

Yarish, who wanted to be a compromise candidate, failed to get a vote.

Albert Darnay, a Cumberland Township committeeman, was named by Boyd to preside during the election.

Boyd's name was placed in nomination by Assemblyman Stephen McCann of Carmichaels, who attended as proxy for Ross A. Allison, a Cumberland Township committeeman.

John Bradley, Washington Township committeeman, nominated Dulaney. Yarish's name was placed in nomination by Paula Gustavich of Morgan Township.

The election was by oral vote. A motion to amend the by-laws to allow a secret vote, failed.

S. J. (Ted) Peccoon of Carmichaels was unanimously re-elected treasurer as was also Samuel Thomas of Rogersville, secretary.

Coal's Future Called Bright

BALTIMORE, Md.—The future of coal looks bright in "many new potentially useful and exciting areas," according to a report made at a recent meeting of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

Among new uses for coal, the report forecasts: as a solid propellant for missiles and rockets; in a package piston pump as a substitute for gas in natural gas production; as an agent to melt ice and snow to produce more fresh water and prevent flooding; as a fertilizer and soil conditioner and as structural material.

Washington Runs the Country!

Government by Bureaucracy

Americans may well view with alarm the steady and enormous growth in power during the past 30 or 40 years of our Federal Government and the powerful bureaucracy which threatens our individual freedom. Look about you and see what has already happened, and what continues to happen. Federal subsidies are flowing in ever increasing streams to business, industry, private finance, agriculture, transportation, electric power, housing, health, education, and to the individual and once-sovereign states, to localities, and to individuals.

Washington runs the country—and the 2,500 bureaus, agencies and commissions run Washington. When a bureau gets more power, it takes away from Congress the job of passing laws; it takes away from courts the power of litigating your grievances. A bureau can become lawmaker, judge and enforcer unless it is checked by safeguards and unless our courts remain jealous of their jurisdiction.

More and more, the cities and states are giving up their constitutional rights to the power of centralized government. During the period from 1950 to 1960 our average rate of yearly economic growth was a mere three per cent, as compared with 8.5 per cent in Japan, 5.9 per cent in Austria and 4.6 per cent in France, to name just a few ahead of us. Our political leaders refuse to admit that this has been caused by an excess of government programs; instead, they are calling for more and more of the same.

Every day we hear about more federal aid to education, more federal aid for the aged, more federal aid for almost every phase of our daily life. As the individual releases his responsibilities as a citizen, and cities, counties and states continue the freedom-killing habit of "looking to Washington," our bureaus grow larger and larger. As the power to tax becomes centered in one place, the power to control our tax money must also become centered in the same place.

By continuing to "give in" to the rule of the bureaucrats (who use federal aid as their chief weapon) we are traveling farther and farther down the road toward socialism—a socialism that surely paves the way toward falling right into the hands of the Mistaken.

Khrushchev said, during a visit to these shores, that in fifteen years there will be no more cold war. Why? Because, he said, the United States is going socialist so quickly that in just fifteen years there will be no further reason for conflict between communist Russia and the United States.

We Americans must start now to mend our ways. We must assume individual responsibility, for responsibility is our only key to freedom. We must stop looking to Washington for handouts. We must realize that the more we receive in benefits from government, the cost to us in taxes is far higher than if we did the same things for ourselves—to say nothing of the additional power the bureaucrats have over our lives.

We need less control in regulating business, labor and agriculture by government planners. What we do need is to allow the productive community—through its own creativeness—to operate on those legitimate profit motives that will attract new capital, develop new markets, create new jobs, and thus serve the real needs of the people. While the spirit of risking much to gain much built this country, the something-for-nothing attitude is destroying the traditional American spirit of initiative and aggressiveness.

We must insist upon the return to the basic fundamentals of our constitutional system of government and throw off the yoke of paternalism which has been built up during recent years. If we really want to remain free, we must return to such basic principles as honesty, individual initiative, self-reliance, willingness to work, constructive production, free competition, progressive development and sound financing.

The alternative is state socialism—the twin brother of communism.

Two Methodist Conferences Unite

The historic jointure of 846 churches of the Pittsburgh and Erie Conferences into the new Western Pennsylvania Conference of the Methodist Church will be consummated this week at the meeting which began Wednesday at Grove City College.

The new conference of 380 churches of the 127-year-old Erie Conference and the 466 churches of the 136-year-old Pittsburgh Conference will make it the fifth largest of the 110 conferences of the ten million member Methodist Church.

Bishop W. Vernon Middleton of Pittsburgh, will head the new conference, which together with the Central Pennsylvania Conference will constitute the Western Pennsylvania Area of 400,000 members of 14,450 Methodist churches.

Scranton Led Dilworth by 86,093 in State

HARRISBURG—Representative William W. Scranton, Republican nominee for Governor, outpolled former Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth, Democratic candidate by 86,093 votes at the May 15 primary election when both were nominated by their respective parties.

Scranton rolled up 743,783 votes while Dilworth tallied 650,692, according to the official count released by the State Elections Bureau.

Meanwhile, Republicans rolled up 61,078 more votes than the Democrats did in the primary balloting for Governor.

The Republicans polled 953,029 and the Democrats, 891,951, and included the votes registered for opponents who faced Scranton and Dilworth.

Scranton's opponent, J. Collins McSparran polled 209,041, while Dilworth's adversaries, Harvey F. Johnston, McKees Rocks realtor, and Charles J. Schmitt, of Erie, recorded 143,150 and 96,834, respectively.

The official vote in other State-wide contests, in which all candidates were unopposed follows: U. S. Senator — U. S. Senator Joseph S. Clark, Democrat, 832,892; Representative James E. Van Zandt, Republican, 842,424.

Lieutenant Governor — State Representative Stephen McCann, Democrat, 718,867; State Senator Raymond P. Shafer, Republican, 815,044.

Secretary of Internal Affairs—Genevieve Blatt, Democratic incumbent, 770,309; Mrs. Audrey R. Kelly, Republican, 790,981.

Miners Will Begin Vacations June 30

Fire Chief Protests Location of Carnival

Murder Jury Visits Scene of Crime Near Mapletown

The jury for the re-trial of James Morris Fletcher, 44 years, of Bobtown, in the alleged shotgun slaying of Gerald Tanner, 30 years, of Mapletown, on June 12, 1954, was taken to the scene at Cabbage Flats, near Mapletown, Wednesday afternoon.

Judge W. C. Shelly of Gettysburg, was appointed by the State Court to preside at the trial, after Judge J. I. Hook of the Greene County Court, removed himself in order to speed the proceeding.

Selection of the jury was completed by noon Wednesday. The jury consists of seven women and five men, with one woman as the first alternate, and one man as the second.

The jury is: Donald Lemley of Waynesburg R. D. 5; Ruth R. Morris of Greensboro Star Route, Waynesburg; Stanley Hennen of Sycamore R. D. 1; Frances Webb of Mather; Martha Reel of Mt. Morris; Nell Hartley of Greensboro R. D. 1; Chester Muhar of Greensboro; Andrew Menhart of Cumberland Village, Carmichaels; Ellen Donley of Greensboro R. D. 1; Ethel Lako of Greensboro; John Enci of Cumberland Village, Carmichaels; Betty Shimek of Tegarden Village, Clarksville; first alternate, Viola Donovan of Carmichaels, and second alternate, Neil Edgar of Rogersville.

The panel of one hundred was exhausted late Tuesday afternoon, and a panel of twenty-five was brought in by Sheriff Mark

After hearing a protest by Fire Chief Lawrence Tennant, Waynesburg Borough Council will reconsider its decision to allow High street closed for a few blocks for a street carnival during the Waynesburg Junior Chamber of Commerce Rain Day Festival, July 23-28.

Mr. Tennant argued at the meeting Tuesday night, that should a fire occur on High street during the festival, the situation would be such that many persons, especially children, might be injured when firemen were hampered in their work by the carnival.

Council president Robert Stephenson named councilmen Roy Cummings, Russell McKee and Elmer Everett to meet with officers of the Jay Cees, the chief of police, the fire chief and the mayor. The committee was authorized to make the final decision.

Mr. Tennant indicated that the Jay Cees had not consulted him. A space at least twenty feet wide is necessary to get equipment into position and lay hose, not to mention additional space required should more apparatus be required.

Council accepted the recommendation of Police Chief Charles L. Hunnell that no speed trap be set on High and Greene streets, but that borough police work with State Police in patrolling the two one-way streets to cut down reckless driving. Mr. Hunnell stated that past experience had proved speed traps to be ineffective.

Mrs. Bureleigh Wright of 148 West Franklin street, and Attorney Lloyd E. Pollock of 207 North West street, appeared before the council to ask for action in improving certain alleys and in repairing street holes. Their requests were referred to the street committee.

Bids for resurfacing several streets will be opened on Monday, July 2. Oiling of unimproved streets and alleys was discussed.

Parking on Park avenue between West and Huffman streets, will be limited to the north side in order not to damage the park on the south side.

It was announced that the borough has sufficient borrowing power to pay its share of the cost of a new bridge to replace the covered bridge over Purman Run, on North East street. The county will pay for construction of the bridge. The borough will build the approaches and pay for a slight street re-location.

Udall Foresees Coal Pipelines

PITTSBURGH — Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall told coal industry leaders Tuesday the American economy and natural resources are closely tied to advances in coal research.

Mr. Udall said a big boost to the coal industry may come from "the development of methods to prepare, transport by pipe, and use pulverized ultra fine coal."

"The ready accessibility of coal at economic costs is necessary for the continued development and security of the nation," Mr. Udall said.

He spoke at the dedication of a new laboratory for bituminous coal research in suburban Monroeville. It was part of the activities on the last day of a convention of the National Coal Association.

Stem Extremists, Mrs. Luce Warns

NEW YORK — Former Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce warned Tuesday that doing away with the House Committee on Un-American Activities might aid anti-Communist extremists.

"I am inclined to believe that if the committee did not exist," she said, "America would be full of misguided extremist anti-Communist groups and organizations similar to the John Birch Society."

Women Teachers Pass 15 Million

WASHINGTON — There were more than 1,500,000 elementary and secondary school teachers in the United States in 1960, the Census Bureau said.

Seven in 10 of the school teachers were women. The census also reported 40,800,000 children and youths of elementary and high school age.

Electric Ranges Offer Homemakers New Conveniences

Even in the early days of electric cooking, electric ranges had special advantage such as controlled heat, completely insulated ovens, deep well cookers, and automatic timers. Improvements and new designs over the years have given us ever-increased efficiency.

As modern as electric ranges have been, however, manufacturers continue to add amazing features with truly wondrous results. Today's modern electric ranges have many advanced conveniences that make cooking easier, more dependable, and more fun.

Surface units, for instance, as well as electric ranges ovens, give automatic cooking performance. All you do is set the control to the proper position, then the unit automatically turns the heat on and off to maintain cooking temperatures in the food. Even if you forget the cooking, the electric control won't, and the food will not burn or scorch.

You can bake and broil at the same time with a double-oven electric range. And you can do a roast precisely the way your family likes it by using an electric meat thermometer. This is inserted in the roast and a sound signal tells when it's done, or the oven will shut off automatically. Another popular accessory is the built-in electric rotisserie which fits into the oven for indoor barbecuing.

These and more exciting features are yours in the sparkling new electric ranges, both conventional types and built-ins, available in a wide choice of models smart decorator colors. And regardless of the model you select, an electric range gives you clean, cool, automatic, flameless cooking. It's the first step toward your all-electric kitchen, thus making your daily chores easier.

SAFE DRIVING TIPS

KEEP PENNSYLVANIA "THE SAFE DRIVER STATE"

By Watching Your Speed

Exceeding the legal speed limit is one of the greatest single causes of accidents and deaths. Driving too slow, however, is also dangerous, for it often prompts other drivers to take foolish risks attempting to pass the slowpoke.

Always observe the posted speed limit. Never exceed it, and don't drive more than 10 mph below it, except when bad weather conditions demand slower speeds for safety.

If every motorist had observed this vital rule last year, 5,523 accidents and 245 fatal accidents might have been prevented!

it's two o'clock in the morning...

Sometime in the next hour, the first of several sets of worried parents may lose a son. Is he racing down a highway? Or just about to turn safely into the driveway?

As a parent, have you ever wakened, focused sleepily on the clock, looked into your child's room, noticed the empty bed? It's a problem that's part of having children . . . and having them grow up.

But it makes you wonder if something's been left out in your guidance.

Perhaps it is Faith—strong religious Faith. Your example and your training should give your child the strength he needs to face the perplexing experiences all growing youngsters meet. Goodness requires strength. Strength needs Faith. Faith grows through worship.

Hold Up Start Of Science Hall

Following a recommendation of the science hall committee the board of trustees of Waynesburg College has agreed to postpone the start of construction of the Paul R. Stewart Science Hall. The action was taken in light of possible congressional action of the education aid bill now in joint committee.

The House version and Senate version of the bill are not in total agreement as to whether grants or loans, or both, should be offered to colleges for construction of academic buildings. The bill is now in the hands of a joint conference committee and college officials have been given reason to believe that a compromise bill will be forthcoming in a short time. The college was advised to wait awhile before starting construction because of the possibility that the bill, when finally approved may prohibit the granting of funds to those colleges with buildings already under way.

If a bill is passed Waynesburg College has a good chance of being among the first to participate. The plans of the science building are complete, so it would necessitate only governmental approval of an application for bids to be advertised. In the meantime, concerted effort will be put forth to raise the amount of the science hall building fund so that as little as possible will be needed from government sources.

License Tags To Stay on Autos Three More Years

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania motorists, who have been using their auto license tags for five years, will have to use them for three more years.

This move, rather than putting out new tags next year, will save the taxpayers nearly $3,500,000, State officials said.

When the present plates were issued in 1958, it was planned to use them for five years, and have motorists use a decal sticker each year to bring them up to date.

But a survey by the Department of Revenue has disclosed that most of the plates, despite five years of use, are still in good condition and officials saw no reason to order a general replacement next year as originally planned.

The tags are made of an aluminum alloy and are painted with special enamels. They have stood up much better than had been expected.

The present tags bear the date "1958." When new tags are put out in 1966, there will be no date. Instead, there will be an indented space in the upper left-hand corner where the stickers may be pasted each year.

The savings come about because a license plate costs 18.65 cents, plus six cents postage to mail it to the motorist, while a sticker costs 3.1 cents and the postage is only 2½ cents.

Since about five million vehicles are licensed in Pennsylvania, the saving will run to around $1,110,000 a year.

The Department of Corrections is looking into the fact that convict labor in Pittsburgh will be idled by extension of the present tags.

Thus, the next issue of plates, in 1966, probably will be made by a smaller force of convicts over a two or three-year period, with the other inmates normally used to produce them being assigned to other jobs.

For many years, Pennsylvania license tags have been made by prison industries.

I. T. U. Moves Into New Home

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO. —The International Typographical Union, one of the oldest of American labor organizations, has for many years had its headquarters in Indianapolis. Now it is moving here.

For 70 years it has maintained the Union Printers' Home for retired members on a large and beautiful site in this city overlooking Pikes Peak and the Continental Divide.

Several years ago the union decided to move its operations wholly to Colorado Springs, beginning with the installation of a $1,000,000 technological center to train members in all the newest processes in printing and the allied arts.

Its president, Elmer Brown, describes this new center, now complete and which has been turning out classes for some time, as the world's finest such installation in the graphic arts.

It has a faculty of 20 and can accommodate more than 100 students at a time.

The union's goal is to keep abreast of and even welcome and imitate new processes in the printing and publishing industry.

Specific courses take up to six weeks, and trainees may remain for more than one term if they wish.

The I. T. U.'s new $1,000,000 national headquarters is also under construction, and will be completed early this autumn.

Much of the staff has already removed from Indianapolis. Mr. Brown says that the union's activities are already centered here save for the secretary-treasurer's department which will come to Colorado Springs this fall.

The printers' home has 275 residents, and a staff of 190. The headquarters staff will consist of more than 100 persons besides the 20 faculty members and the maintenance staff of the training center.

Formal opening of the latter, during the first week in May, signaled also the 110th anniversary of the union itself, and the 70th anniversary of the printers' home.

At the time, the United States and Britain had locked horns over the Pacific Northwest. A minor incident—the shooting of a Hudson's Bay Company pig by an American—brought the two nations to the brink of war.

BOASTS BIG BASE

WASHINGTON—The National Geographic Society says that Monks Mound, a prehistoric Indian earthwork near East St. Louis, Ill., has a larger base than the Great Pyramid in Egypt. It covers 16 acres.

THE BOY WHO BROUGHT HOME A LOG EVERY DAY OF THE YEAR

Once upon a time, when this part of the country was mostly farmland, a boy named Ezra Tanter had the wintertime chore of supplying logs for the huge fireplace in his home. Often, when it was very cold and there was a great deal of snow, he had a hard time locating enough logs. At times his father had to buy firewood from nearby farms.

So Ezra developed a plan. Every day—even in the summer when he was on his way back from fishing—he would bring a log in from the woods and store it outside the house. The way the log pile grew was amazing. When winter came, Ezra had no trouble keeping the fireplace supplied. And everyone, especially his father, was very happy.

—and in a way helps save you money. Every day of the year, it purchases natural gas from the transmission pipeline companies in the same amounts. This is true, even on the warmest days. This gas is stored underground in depleted production fields and withdrawn as needed.

The extensive development in this area of these huge storage fields—the largest in the world—enables your gas company to contract for regular daily deliveries from the transmission companies. This keeps the pipelines busy all year and not just in cold weather. This lowers the purchase price. These savings in turn are passed on to you—making possible gas rates that are among the lowest in the nation.

Robert V. Jones

Robert Verne (Teddy) Jones, 51 years, of Clymer, died Thursday, June 14, 1962, in the home of his mother, Mrs. J. G. Jones of Aleppo. He was a son of J. G. Jones, deceased, and Lusia McCracken Jones of Aleppo, and was born May 25, 1911, at Aleppo. He was a graduate of Fairmont Teachers College. Mr. Jones had taught school for 24 years, and was a teacher at Penn's Manor at the time of his death. He was a veteran of World War II and had served in the South Pacific theater. Surviving are his mother; his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Howard Jones; a son, Thomas Zane Jones, at home; four brothers, Harry of Cameron, W. Va., and Clyde, Howard and Charles, all of Aleppo; two sisters, Mrs. Howard Simms of Aleppo, and Mrs. Paul Longstreth of Morgantown, W. Va. A brother, Carl, died in March of this year. Funeral services were held Sunday in the Anderson Funeral Home, Cameron, W. Va., conducted by Rev. Wayne Baker. Interment in Centennial Cemetery, Aleppo.

Mrs. James E. Cain

Mrs. Pexie W. Cain, 63 years, wife of James E. Cain of Cameron, W. Va., died Friday, June 15, 1962, in Ohio Valley General Hospital. Mrs. Cain was a daughter of Jesse and Metta Moss Bane, and was born March 26, 1899, at Cameron. She was a member of Cameron Presbyterian Church. Surviving are her husband, and two brothers, Earl and Burdette Bane, both of Sharon. Funeral services were held Monday in the Anderson Funeral Home, conducted by Rev. John Foester. Interment in Highland Cemetery.

Clarence (Brud) Earnest

Clarence (Brud) Earnest, 64 years, who had made serving in the Pennsylvania National Guard a career, died Saturday, June 16, 1962, in the U. S. Veterans' Hospital, Oakland, Pittsburgh. He had been in failing health for some time and hospitalized since last fall. He was the son of Charles W. and Alice Wells Earnest, and was born April 30, 1898, at Blacksburg, W. Va. Mr. Earnest spent his youth in Waynesburg where his father taught in grade school. He graduated from Waynesburg High School, and shortly after enlisted in K Company, 110th Infantry, when the unit was being recruited to full strength in 1917. Due to fine penmanship, Mr. Earnest was appointed company clerk. During the service of the 28th Division in France he served in the battalion headquarters of the then Major Edward Martin, moving to regimental headquarters when Major Martin became the regimental commander. After returning home from France at the end of the war, Mr. Earnest enlisted in the re-organized National Guard. He had become an expert in the Army paper work and for a number of years was at the regimental headquarters in Washington under command of Colonel John Aiken. Mr. Earnest was out of service for a time, but when World War II broke out, he again enlisted in K Company. He served in France again, but had been transferred to another unit. Mr. Earnest remained in service during the re-organization of the National Guard, but resigned due to falling health. He was a member of Blacksburg Methodist Church, of James Farrell Post No. 330 of the American Legion at Waynesburg, Waynesburg Post No. 4793, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and of Blacksburg Lodge No. 133, at Blacksburg. Mr. Earnest never married. A sister, Miss Florence Earnest, died more than a year ago. Funeral services were held Tuesday in the Mariner and Milliken Funeral Service Home, conducted by Rev. H. W. Burnside, Jr. Interment in Greene County Memorial Park. Military rites in charge of James Farrell Post, American Legion.

William Horner

William Horner, 83 years, died Saturday, June 16, 1962, in his home at Clarksville. He had been ill a long time. Mr. Horner was born April 16, 1879, at Clarksville, where he had spent most of his life. He was a retired farmer. His wife, Elizabeth Jane Horner, died October 14, 1960. Mr. Horner was a member of Clarksville Christian Church, and had served as an elder. Surviving are three sons, Dr. Howard Horner of Freemont, Calif.; Ralph G. Horner of Huron, Ohio, and Byron K. Horner of Lewes, Delaware; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Funeral services were held Monday in Clarksville Christian Church, conducted by Rev. Charles E. Boswell. Interment in Greene County Memorial Park.

Mrs. Vern Hull

Mrs. Marguerite Estella Hull, 64 years, wife of Vern Hull of Waynesburg R. D. 3, died Sunday, June 17, 1962, in her home. She had been ill a long time. Mrs. Hull was a daughter of Walter A. and Minnie Jones Teagarden, and was born December 27, 1907, in Washington County. She was a member of Fairall Methodist Church. Surviving is her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Jackson C. Webster of Finleyville; a sister, Mrs. Jacob Shoup of Dunns Station R. D. 2, and four grandchildren, John William, Claudia, Stephen and Renee Webster.

Helen Jean Keller

Helen Jean Keller, 57 years, died suddenly Sunday, June 17, 1962, in her home at Ruff Creek, Waynesburg R. D. 1. She was a daughter of Edward B. Keller, deceased, and Mary Jane Strauser Stevens, and was born July 29, 1905, at Mt. Pleasant. Miss

Polio Pioneers Blazing New Trail

In April, 1954, six-year-old Randy Kerr received the first shot launching the giant nationwide field trials of the Salk polio vaccine. Eight years later Randy presents a Salk Institute lapel button to Crystal Brown, 18, a March of Dimes Teen Age Program leader and delegate from Warwick, R. I. at the 32nd National 4-H Conference in Washington, D. C.

Young Randall Kerr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor H. Kerr, Oakton, Va., is growing up to the title he has held for eight years—the nation's No. 1 Polio Pioneer.

In April, 1954, he was the first of millions of young school children who participated in the giant March of Dimes-financed field trials which helped prove the safety and effectiveness of the Salk vaccine.

Now going on-15, Randy is the official leader of today's teen-age Polio Pioneers who are out to build a laboratory wing of the Salk Institute for Biological Studies in San Diego, Calif. To be constructed with funds raised by teenagers representing many schools and youth organizations across the country, the laboratory wing will be an enduring tribute to the youth of America and the historic success of their partnership with science against polio.

"We were just kids when we first got our Polio Pioneer pins," says the mature Randy Kerr. "But now we're old enough to realize how much the protection they represented has meant to us and to children everywhere."

A top-notch student majoring in chemistry and math, Randy is completing his sophomore year at the Flint Hill School in Oakton. Like most teenagers, he is far more aware of the giant strides of modern science than many adults.

"Dr. Salk's idea of a center where great scientists can work together for better understanding of the processes of life makes sense," Randy says with youthful positiveness. "Things like heredity and all sorts of disease are complicated. They have to be studied from a lot of different viewpoints if we're going to get the scientific knowledge we need."

The Salk Institute for Biological Studies, scheduled to open in 1963, will be directed by Dr. Jonas Salk. He will be joined by many world-eminent scientists in biology, chemistry, virology, immunology and genetics, as well as others from such fields as physics and mathematics, to concentrate on finding answers to basic biological questions affecting life, health and disease.

As the No. 1 Polio Pioneer, Randy Kerr will help his teenage cohorts make plans for fund-raising events to support the $15 million Salk Institute Building Fund. The fund is sponsored nationally by The National Foundation-March of Dimes, through which the American people totally supported Dr. Salk's polio research.

The starting date for the Salk Institute Building Fund campaign—June 1—coincides with Randy's fifteenth birthday. "I can't think of a better way to celebrate," he says, "than by joining all the rest of the country's Polio Pioneers to thank Dr. Salk in this concrete way for the protection we've enjoyed. As tomorrow's adults, we can look forward to big dividends from our shares in the Salk Institute."

Stidger Lohr Heads S. S. Association

I. Stidger Lohr of Spraggs, was elected president of the Greene County Sunday School Association at the 84th annual convention held Friday and Saturday in Washington Street Methodist Church.

Mr. Lohr succeeds Paul Rutan of Waynesburg, who has served three years.

Officers elected in addition to Lohr, who had held the position of vice president, were Donald C. Minor of Waynesburg, first vice president; Max B. McMillen of Wind Ridge, second vice president; Mrs. Lucy Broadwater of Mather, secretary, and James T. Phillips of Holbrook, R. D. 1, treasurer.

Zone chairmen are Robert Murphy, Western Zone; William C. Wood, South Central Zone; William B. Shriver, West Central Zone, and Walter Atalski, Eastern Zone.

Attorney R. Wallace Maxwell, was chairman of the convention planning committee. He installed the new officers and paid tribute to Mr. Rutan for work during his three years as president.

The concluding session followed a convention banquet.

R. Wallace Maxwell was toastmaster for the banquet, with group singing led by Donald C. Minor and Mrs. Peggy Parker, accompanist.

Mrs. Parker led the District One Men's Chorus, accompanied by Miss Paulette Zaverack.

Nomina si nescis cognitio rerum.

Translation: the knowledge of things depends upon the knowledge of their names.

This is especially true of medical nomenclature.

The language of medicine can be confusing, made up of materials contributed by people of various countries over a period of 2,000 years.

Such a large and unrelated mass of words results in something of a puzzlement for medical students and compilers of medical dictionaries.

Doctor comes from the Latin docere, to teach, and actually means the teacher and the learned man.

The origin of the word physician is the Greek physis, meaning nature, and conveys the thought that the physician or healer aims to restore or keep humans in their natural state.

The word medicine is from the Latin medicina, the verb root of which is mederi, to heal.

The word surgeon was originally a chururgeon from the Greek cheir meaning hand, and ergon meaning work, hence a worker with the hands.

Certain parts of the body have names that describe their function or shape or structure.

Lungs is from the Teutonic word lunge meaning light and refers to the light weight of this organ.

The word light is still used to describe the lungs of animals.

Stomach is derived from the Latin stomachus and the Greek stomachos.

The earliest meaning of this word had to do with liking, and we still hear the expression, "I can't stomach him!"

The pylorus, that opening of the stomach into the duodenum, derives from the Greek pyle and ouros, keeper of the gate.

DO YOU KNOW?

In India there is one doctor for every 5,000 inhabitants and in Afghanistan there is one doctor for every 58,000 inhabitants.

Chemistry Instructor Publishes Article

An article entitled "A Quantitative Ozone Test", written by Charles Schaeff, assistant professor of chemistry at Waynesburg College, has been published in the journal "Rubber World", according to Dr. Charles Bryner, head of the Natural Science Department.

Published in February, the article has received international attention. Requests for reprints have been received from major United States and European research institutions, including the Fine Chemical Institute of Moscow, where a large portion of the U. S. S. R.'s polymer research program is carried out. Most of the work described in the publication was done while Mr. Schaeff was a member of the B. F. Goodrich Research Center in Brecksville, Ohio.

Peoples Gas Co. Hits New Well Near West Newton

The Peoples Natural Gas Company has brought in a natural gas well on the John Peto farm one and a half miles west of West Newton in Rostraver Township.

The shallow well, which has an indicated open flow of two and a half million cubic feet of gas per day, was discovered at a 1,600 foot depth in the Big Injun formation. Present plans call for Peoples to continue exploration in this area of its Southern Division service territory.

McClure contractors of Waynesburg, drilled the wholly-owned Peoples' well.

Due to the erratic nature of area gas flow, the company has drilled a number of smaller wells and dry holes prior to bringing in this producer. Cable tool drilling, which began about two months ago, was used on the 112-acre farm. Extensive exploration has been undertaken in this area since 1956 when the first producing well was established.

Peoples' supervisor at the drilling site is Glenn W. Eisiminger, operation and maintenance superintendent.

Food Stamp Plan Renewed in Fayette County

HARRISBURG—The State has put its stamp of approval on a relief food stamp program in Fayette County and it will be continued for another year.

Public Welfare Secretary Ruth Grigg Horting reported that in the first year of trial operation, $5,135,190 worth of food stamps were issued to needy families.

The people paid $3,121,904 for the stamps and got $2,103,286 worth free.

The stamps were redeemed by grocers, dairies and other concerns which serve the public.

Mrs. Horting said nearly 25,000 people, comprising more than 5,000 families, were eligible for the stamps. About two thirds of the participating families were on relief.

The other one third was made up of low income families getting some money from unemployment compensation, social security, part time jobs or other sources.

The food stamp plan was started in Fayette County on June 1, 1961, by the Administration of President Kennedy, with Pennsylvania's cooperation. Seven other parts of the nation have similar programs.

The main object was to improve the diets of low income families and to spur the economy of the area by channeling more trade through existing outlets.

Smugglers Lured By Silver Coins

SYDNEY — Australian silver coins minted before 1947 have become a lucrative smuggling item for Chinese seamen operating between Australia and Far Eastern ports. The coins are worth about 50 percent more when melted down and sold than they are as currency.

Australian Treasury officials have no way of telling how many silver coins have left the country, because many millions of the pre-1947 mintings are still in circulation. Their withdrawal by the Reserve Bank now has been speeded up.

One of the early indications that the coins were being systematically collected by Chinese seamen was noted by private banks. They gradually became aware of the large number of Chinese who presented several hundred pounds in notes at a time, asking that they be converted into silver. Other Chinese requested large amounts of silver coinage converted to notes.

Special Fruited Turnovers

A big plateful of these plump, little turnovers can make a coffee break quite an occasion. They look tender and inviting—and are. But the real fun comes when you pick one up and bite into its luscious filling.

You find a zippy blend of plumped prunes, tart-sweet and winey, chopped, canned apple slices and candied fruits flashed with grated orange rind, lemon juice and spices. The turnovers are great going for nibblers any time, and they're a real prize to serve either warm or cool—with coffee, tea or a glass of milk.

They are fun to make, too. In a few minutes you can make a plateful. Once the family discovers them, however, they'll likely last just minutes. Maybe you'd better bake two platefuls while you're at it.

SPICED FRUITED TURNOVERS

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|---------------------|
| 1½ cups plumped* pitted prunes | 1 cup sugar |
| 1½ cups canned, sliced apples | 1 teaspoon cinnamon |
| ½ cup diced, candied fruits and peels | ½ teaspoon nutmeg |
| 1 tablespoon grated orange rind | ¼ teaspoon allspice |
| 3 tablespoons lemon juice | Few grains salt |
| Flaky pastry (enough for 2-crust pie) | 2 tablespoons flour |

Chop* prunes; combine with apples, candied fruits and peels, orange rind and lemon juice; mix well. Combine sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg, allspice, salt and flour; mix well. Add to fruits; mix thoroughly. Roll pastry to ¼" thickness; cut into 5" or 6" circles. Place fruit filling on one side of each round; moisten edge of circle with water. Fold pastry over filling; press edges together with tines of fork. Place on baking sheet; make a slit in top of each to allow steam to escape. Bake in moderately hot oven, 425 degrees, 15 to 20 minutes, or until golden brown. Makes 12 to 14.

- * To plump prunes, cover 1 pound of prunes with 1 quart of water and let stand overnight.
-  The simple way to chop prunes is to cut meat from pit with kitchen shears.

Recent Marriages

REED-BATESON

Miss Joetta Jane Bateson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wylie D. Bateson of Waynesburg R. D. 5, and James H. Reed, son of Rev. and Mrs. James K. Reed of Waynesburg, will be married at an open church wedding at 7:30 o'clock Friday, June 22, in Oak Forest Methodist Church. Friends and relatives of the couple are invited. A reception in the bride's home will follow the ceremony.

Arts and Crafts Guild Exhibit

Miss Vivian Hughes of East Wayne street, was the winner of four awards Thursday at the annual exhibition of the Westsylvania Chapter, Pennsylvania Guild of Crafts, held in the basement of the First Presbyterian Church.

Other winners included Orville Dayton, H. Porter Rinehart and Martha M. Patterson, all of Waynesburg, and Charles Battaglini of Fredericktown.

Robert Innes, art instructor at Waynesburg College, acted as judge.

Miss Hughes' prizes included the guild award, first place; purchase award, first place in painting, a $50 cash award given by the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Waynesburg, and a special award for the best exhibit of the show given by the Waynesburg Home and Gas Company. She also won the guild award for third place in painting.

Her painting titled "Vessels" was a group of wine bottles, a clay jug and a mortar and pestle.

Martha M. Patterson won the guild award with a painting of a barn and silo called "Monument of the Past."

H. Porter Rinehart won a purchase award of $25, and Charles Battaglini won a purchase award given by the Wayne Lumber Company. His entry was an African statue. He also won second prize in wood work, a highly polished hardwood chair. The prize was given by the First National Bank and Trust Company of Waynesburg. Mr. Dayton was also the recipient of the third place award of $10 in painting. The category was sponsored by the Waynesburg Milling Company.

Orville Dayton is an industrial arts teacher at Waynesburg High School. Mr. Dayton won purchase awards of $25 and $10 in the ceramics class. He also won the $10 purchase award in wood work for a pair of Swedish candlesticks.

Honorable mention went to Ruth S. Shenley for her Manzanita Tree and to Mrs. Belle Keener of Brave, for her collection of Uncle Tom rag dolls.

When the popular vote was tabulated at the close of the exhibit on Sunday, the public chose Mrs. Patterson's painting for first place.

Mr. Battaglini's "Study in Green," was second, and Miss Hughes' "Vessels" was third.

"Bridge at Eastview," by Belle Heft, was fourth, and her "Lippincott Bridge," was fifth in the popular vote.

Winners are on display in a window of the First Federal Savings and Loan.

Soviet Union Brewing Shockers for United States Track and Field Squad

NEW YORK—The Russians obviously are cooking up some shockers for American track and field forces in their big dual meet coming up July 21-22 at Palo Alto, California.

Within a week's time, Soviet aces have been credited with two new world records in Yank specialties — the discus and the broad jump—as the Russians put together the team they'll bring over for the fourth meeting of the world's two great track powers.

Valadimir Trusenev spun the discus 202 feet, 2 1/2 inches on June 4 and on Sunday Igor Tre-Ovanesyan leaped 27 feet, 3 inches in the broad jump.

"Whew!" groaned U. S. Discus Champ Al Oerter, two-time Olympic winner, "I never expected Trusenev to go that much."

The official world record is 199 2-1/2 set by Jay Silvester of the U. S. last summer but Oerter had a pending mark of 200 5-1/2.

And chances are official Ralph Boston broad jump record holder of Tennessee State (27-1 3/4), didn't really expect Igor to go 27-3, either, though Ralph professed it was no surprise.

The Soviet-U. S. duel meet already had been noted as potentially close by Coach John Oelkers of Tulane, who'll handle the Yanks. But two of the events he was counting on for the home side were the broad jump and discus.

What other surprises the Russians have in store can only be guessed at but they're progressing rapidly in all the men's events where Americans have been romping off with a harvest of points.

Last summer at Moscow Americans won the men's division by a score of 124-111, winning 13 of the 22 events. They had similar margins at Philadelphia in 1959 and at Moscow in '58. There was no dual meet in 1960 because of the Rome Olympics.

The world broad jump record has been American property since Jesse Owens grabbed it at 26-8 3/4 on a spectacular performance in 1935 when he set three world marks and tied another in the big 10 championships.

Oerter, starting with the 1956 Olympics, has been the world's top discus performer ever since with the exception of a brief spell last year when Silvester was winning the titles and setting the records.

That was the sort of rivalry Oerter needed, so he went back to work with renewed interest and broke Silvester's new record only to have it topped by the Russian, Trusenev.

At Moscow last summer, Frank Budd won both sprints for the U. S., Ullis Williams won the 400 meters, Jerry Siebert won the 800, Jim Beatty the 1,500 while the two hurdle races went to Hayes Jones and Cliff Cushman. The U. S. also won a pair of relays.

In field events, John Uelses won the pole vault, Boston the broad jump with his world record leap, Silvester the discus and Gary Gubner the shot put.

Russians, however, won the distance events, the high jump (Valeri Brumel), the decathlon, hammer, javelin, hop-step-and-jump.

As of now, this year's meet figures even closer. Still, the Yanks are two or three weeks away from their expected peaks and may have a few surprises of their own. They could use 'em.

Many Lineup Changes Appear Likely For Major League All-Star Squads

NEW YORK—Another big shakeup apparently is due in the starting lineups for the major league All-Star games this summer.

All but a handful of last year's starters are being out-hit or out-headed by their rivals and there's precious little time to make amends. The ball players "go to the polls" on June 22 to list their choices.

A year ago, Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle of the Yankees, Willie Mays of the Giants, and Eddie Mathews of the Braves, were the only repeaters from the 1960 starters.

This year, Mantle was going great until an injury felled him and his All-Star spot may go up for grabs. Mathews has been hitting only .250, far below Jim Davenport of the Giants (.333), and Ken Boyer of the Cardinals (.291), his National League rivals at third base.

Mays figures to make it in center and Maris may take Mickey's place in center for the American League or make it again in his regular spot in right field on his home run reputation.

236 Pelts Net $540 for State

The Pennsylvania Game Commission recently sold 236 wild animal pelts to high bidders for $540. The pelts were confiscated from persons who had possessed them illegally.

The list included 14 bears, 43 deer, one elk, 18 beavers, 34 mink, 37 muskrats, six otter, 55 red foxes and 28 gray foxes.

Earlier in the year, the commission had sold 229 deer hides for $4,771.20. These were hides game protectors had collected through the fall and winter in the normal performance of their official duties.

The money from these sales will help finance Pennsylvania's wildlife management program.

Malaya Boasts Oldest Jungles

Conditions for Ducks Improve

A report from Ducks Unlimited of Canada shows that habitat conditions for wildfowl are improved on the northern prairies and in the parklands of Western Canada, but across the southern prairies the situation is not as favorable.

General Manager Angus Gavin reveals that, while winter snowfall was at least normal on the northern prairies and parklands, the runoff potential was not achieved.

A prolonged late spring permitted maximum seepage into the powder-dry soil, hence a runoff reduction.

The report stresses that conditions are particularly good in the Peace River area of West-Central Alberta.

On the southern prairies, the situation could be serious. There are more sloughs and potholes containing water than last year but this water is extremely temporary and water areas which will last through the brood season may be scarce.

"The key to waterfowl production from the southern prairies in 1962 will be a cool summer and abundant rain," Gavin said.

Gavin strikes a hopeful note in concluding: "Despite the hazards, and given anything like a normal summer, duck production from the northern prairies and parklands should be improved over last year."

Crow Shoot Set for June 23

The Pennsylvania Game Commission will stage its third annual crow shoot Saturday, June 23, in Somerset County.

Only requirements are a proper license and that the crows be killed on the day of the shoot and turned in to headquarters, Reel's Corner Restaurant, at junction of U. S. Routes 30 and 160, near Central City, by 5 p. m. Prizes will be awarded.

Waterford Park Names Official Family; 55-Day Meeting to Open Monday, July 2

James F. Edwards, president of Waterford Park and operator of Wheeling Downs, has announced the official family at Waterford Park for the coming meeting which opens on July 2 for 55 days.

Harry R. Bell, long time resident manager, will resume the reins of racing secretary; Carlyle Johnson returns as steward for his seventh straight season; Vincent Mara, Jr., a regular official at Waterford, comes back for the second meeting as assistant racing secretary and placing judge; George Bulcroft, connected in an official capacity in the Tri-State area for several years, has been named paddock and patrol judge, and Pete Bonamy, director of publicity at both Waterford and Wheeling Downs, will also act as placing judge.

Harry Scheinder was named clerk of scales; James DeWitt, timer and identifier; Dea Woods returns as starter; Jay Mathews takes over again as mutual manager, and Gene Dunaway will handle the admissions department for the seventh season.

Track superintendent and maintenance department head is Howard Conner, who has been a resident official at Waterford Park since its purchase in 1958 by the present owners; Dr. A. L. Turner returns as medical director; Ken Kadar will again be heard over the public address system, and Howard Graham has been appointed to the post of comptroller.

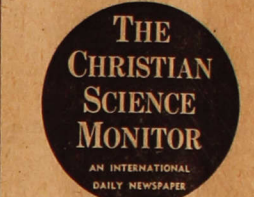

Adam "Scotty" Frain, the former jockey, will again be patrol judge, and Ronald Fisher, who handles the jock's room at Wheeling Downs, will return as custodian of the jockey's room here.

Racing patrons at Waterford

Park will see many improvements to the plant on opening day. These include an automatic elevator from the paddock area to the main line of the grandstand and the press box and a complete closed circuit television system for the benefit of those who prefer to see the races and odds board from inside the grandstand, mezzanine or club house.

Post time for the entire meeting has been set at 4:15 p. m. and at 2:00 p. m. on Saturdays, except on Independence Day and Labor Day when a twin-bill will be presented with the morning program starting at 10:30 and the afternoon card at 2:30 p. m.

Benjamin Franklin's Will Aid to Doctors

WASHINGTON—Senior medical students and young doctors in the Boston area soon will be eligible for loans to help finance their training—all because Benjamin Franklin willed $4,444 to "inhabitants of the Town of Boston" 172 years ago.

Franklin required that the money be invested for 100 years, after which part was to be spent for public works and the remainder re-invested for a second century.

In 1890, at the end of the first 100 years, the Franklin Foundation fund had grown to $383,000.

Accordingly, the trustees voted to spend $290,000 on a city-run educational institution, now called Franklin Technical Institute. The remainder $93,000 was re-invested.

Today, with 28 years remaining in the fund's 200-year life, the $93,000 has grown to about $1,500,000—evidence of Franklin's understanding how money can grow through reinvestment of income.

According to Noel Morss of Boston, one of the Foundation's attorneys, the money in recent years has been invested "in conventional securities of trust-fund caliber, with emphasis on the conservative side." He provided this breakdown:

- U. S. Government bonds—17.2 per cent.
- Other bonds—44.4 per cent.
- Massachusetts Hospital Life Fund—15.8 per cent.
- Common stocks—21.8 per cent.
- Cash—8 per cent.

In March, the Foundation's board of managers (three ministers, the mayor of Boston and eight appointed members) obtained court permission, Mr. Morss said, "authorizing investment of the fund in loans to medical students and young doctors during their hospital training."

"These programs will radically change the investment. (But) we hope the program will be of some help in relieving the financial problems of young doctors."

In his will, Franklin directed that the "one thousand pounds sterling" (equal to $4,444) be loaned at 5 per cent interest to "young married artificers"—skilled craftsmen, that is—of age 25 or older. Trustees made 255 such loans between 1791 and 1836, in amounts from $70 to $266.

Trouble was, repayments weren't very good, and it wasn't until 1896 that the last loan was paid off.

From 1840 to 1931, virtually the whole fund was invested in Massachusetts Hospital Life Insurance Company. Thereafter, the money was shifted into bonds and stocks.

Curiously, the rates of interest haven't gone up since Franklin's day. He set the 5 per cent interest rate on "loans to artificers" and today's Foundation managers have pegged interest on the new medical loans at the same rate.

Army to Draft 5,000 in August

WASHINGTON—The Army will take in 5,000 men from the draft in August the Defense Department has announced.

The new draft call is the same as the quota for July and 1,500 below allocation for this month.

The 5,000 to be drafted in August represent about one-third of the Army's new manpower requirements for that month.

Army officials said the remainder of the 16,100 men to be enrolled in August will come through enlistment.

Murder Jury Visits Scene of Crime

Shultz Wednesday morning. The last juror and the two alternates were selected from this panel. Fletcher was tried in December 1954, and found guilty in the first degree. He was sentenced to life imprisonment. Through technicalities, and after numerous appeals had been denied, he finally won a new trial in 1961 on the grounds that one of the original trial jurors could have been prejudiced.

The Commonwealth has subpoenaed more than 30 witnesses including Elsie Mahoney Folk, who worked in the dairy bar which was operated by Fletcher. It has been the contention of the prosecution that Tanner was ambushed and shot as the result of an argument with the defendant over the divorcee, Elsie Connor Mahoney. She has since remarried and resides at Cleveland, Tenn.

The defense has also subpoenaed about 30 witnesses. District Attorney Glenn R. Toothman is appearing for the Commonwealth, and Attorneys Floyd King and John E. Bally were appointed by the court to defend Fletcher.

West Virginia Opens Centennial

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va.—An address by former President Harry F. Truman, a "flypast" by West Virginia Air National Guard planes, and the introduction of a 99-year-old West Virginian highlighted a program Wednesday marking the beginning of this state's 100th year in the union.

The occasion was used by Governor W. W. Barron and members of the West Virginia Centennial Commission to launch a statewide campaign to raise more than $500,000 to help finance the centennial celebration next year.

The 99-year-old senior citizen was Harmon S. Hammrick, who was born in 1863 during the Civil War, the same year West Virginia became a state.

Virus Infected Seed 'Run-Outs'

One reason why fruit trees and vegetable varieties "run out" is because available planting stock or seed becomes virus infected from parent plants, J. S. Boyle, virologist at the Agricultural Experiment Station at the Pennsylvania State University, believes. A plant disease may be caused by more than one virus. Likewise, the same virus may attack more than one crop. The virus which causes mosaic of tobacco also causes internal browning of tomatoes if the plants are exposed (inoculated) at the right time. Dr. Boyle has found. The disease of peppers shown above (A)—healthy fruit, B—diseased) was caused by a late infection of tobacco mosaic. His discovery that plants must be infected with virus at a certain stage of maturity to contract disease promises to be very important in virus disease control.

G. O. P. Primary Cost $102,790

HARRISBURG—State Republicans spent $102,790 to have U. S. Representatives William W. Scranton and James E. Van Zandt nominated in the recent primary campaign.

The expenditure was listed in reports filed Friday with the State Election Bureau.

Endorsed as candidates for governor and senator, respectively, the Scranton-Van Zandt team reportedly received $105,765 in contributions and still has unpaid bills amounting to $17,243.

Among major gifts to the Scranton-Van Zandt Primary Campaign Committee was $12,000 from Philadelphia's Pew family.

On the Democratic ledger, the Dilworth Campaign Committee reported laying out $31,731 and receiving contributions of $33,484.

Richardson Dilworth, endorsed Democratic gubernatorial hopeful, listed personal receipts of $10,452 and an expenditure of $9,000, of which one-third went to his campaign committee.

J. Collins McSparran, defeated in his independent bid to capture the Republican nod over Mr. Scranton, said he spent $28,497 and took in $41,751. Much of his income came from $5 dinners—$8,131—and the sale of campaign buttons at $2 each—$8,147.

in the organization, sapping the morale of state policemen. Raymond Shafer of Crawford County, nominee for lieutenant-governor, spoke briefly and said "1962 is the year of decision, not only for Republicans, but all Pennsylvanians."

Referring to the past administration of George Leader and the present administration of Governor Lawrence, Mr. Shafer said: "We cannot stand seven and a half more years of corruption and deception in Harrisburg. We need men interested in giving a dollar's worth of service for every dollar of taxation."

Former Republican Governor Edward Martin also spoke and heartily endorsed the ticket. General Martin said it was the finest state ticket he had seen in 50 years.

To Attend August Arizona Conference

Dr. Robert J. Drummond, chairman of the department of psychology and education at Waynesburg College, has been awarded a stipend by the National Science Foundation to attend a conference at the University of Arizona, August 6 to August 24, according to Dr. Paul D. Walter, vice president for Academic Affairs.

The three weeks' conference will emphasize the development of new materials to be used in the training of elementary teachers. The major objective of this meeting will be to introduce the participants to the subject matter of the new approaches in the field of mathematics for the elementary grades.

IS YOUR CHILD FIT

????????????????

Q. Is it true that there's been a decline in the physical fitness of our children?

A. Yes, and the decline is now a matter of the most urgent concern. Studies prove that far too many of our boys and girls aren't strong or agile enough to pass minimum tests of physical achievement.

Q. What's the reason for our youngsters' physical softness?

A. For one thing, our sedentary way of life—too much sitting, not enough doing. For another, our activity programs have been lopsided. We've gone all-out for the physically-gifted. We've provided them with the best of facilities and training for varsity sports. But we haven't paid anywhere near enough attention to the rest of our boys and girls—the vast majority of our school population.

Q. If a school has no program emphasizing physical fitness, what does it need to start one?

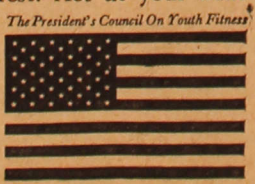

A. It can start right now with what it has. A minimum program for improving physical fitness of boys and girls has been developed. It is adaptable to any school situation. It costs very little. It isn't an ideal program, but it works. It can produce dramatic improvement in the physical status of children.

Q. Just what does this program call for?

A. A physical examination, a physical-achievement screening test to identify physically underdeveloped children, a minimum of 15 minutes of vigorous activity every day—for every boy and girl—as a part of the daily physical education period and a continuing comprehensive testing program.

Q. Is it up to parents to get this program started?

A. Yes, in cooperation with your school board and school administrators who will appreciate your interest. Act at your next PTA meeting! What you do about your child's fitness today will determine his well-being tomorrow and the future strength of our country. Remember these answers for your child's sake.
