Auto Checkers 'Watch Birdie'

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — When service station attendants check the water in Carleton Atkinson's automobile, they have to watch the birdie.

Atkinson said a family of six wrens built a nest beneath the left fender in a tiny niche between the radiator and the grill.

When he returns to his home from work, Atkinson said, the parent birds return to their home. Atkinson, who dismantled a nest in the same spot about three weeks ago, said he probably would leave this one—until the four baby wrens leave.

Greene is among the 22 drought stricken counties for which Governor David L. Lawrence on Tuesday asked aid from the United States Department of Agriculture.

The counties are Armstrong, Bradford, Cambria, Carbon, Centre, Dauphin, Fayette, Fulton, Greene, Lackawanna, Monroe, Montour, Northumberland, Somerset, Snyder, Sullivan, Susquehanna, Tioga, Washington, Wayne, Westmoreland and Wyoming.

The plea was made following an emergency meeting of the state disaster committee.

Congressman William W. Scranton of Scranton, Republican candidate for governor, on Monday had asked Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman to take emergency action to help the state's drought-stricken farmers. He also at the same time wired Governor Lawrence asking him to "move immediately to define the areas of the state affected, classifying them as disaster areas wherever the situation warrants."

Mr. Scranton pointed out that among the remedies which the Secretary of Agriculture may employ are:

- Low-priced sale of surplus feed grains to dairy producers.
- Emergency waiving of soil bank regulations to allow dairy herds to forage in hay fields, including soil bank lands, instead of allowing the hay to be cut and left to rot as required by law.
- Low interest loans to farmers.
- All possible assistance in planting of fast-growing emergency crops to help make up for hay shortages.

State officials said the Department of Agriculture will probably send investigators into areas, and will then decide whether to designate the counties as disaster areas.

Prolonged dry weather has plagued Pennsylvania farmers for more than nine straight weeks now, and the weather bureau offers no immediate hope for a let-up.

The five-day forecast issued Tuesday by the U. S. weather station in Harrisburg, calls for continued dry weather through Saturday with only light showers over the week end.

Everything from hay to wheat has been affected. Pastures are beginning to shrivel because of lack of water. Hardest hit have been the northern tier counties, center of the state's thriving dairy industry.

County Agent John D. Gopen said Monday that drought conditions in Greene County are as bad or worse than they were before the 24-hour rain which fell July 3.

"It was a good fall and provided a lot of temporary relief, but the week of hot dry weather which followed has again created a critical condition for farmers," Mr. Gopen said.

Sergeant Hughes Drowns in Texas

Master Sergeant Lloyd King Hughes, 39 years, son of Mrs. W. B. Hughes of Wind Ridge, and the late Mr. Hughes, drowned Sunday, July 8, 1962, while swimming at an Army base in El Paso, Texas.

He was born August 6, 1923, at Wind Ridge. Sergeant Hughes graduated from Richhill Township High School and attended college in Iowa.

He was a veteran of 15 years' service in the Army at the time of death. Sergeant Hughes had served four years in the South Pacific during World War II and returned in 1961 to continental United States after two years of service in Alaska.

Surviving are his mother; his wife, Eunice Gump Hughes; three children: Tonya, 11; Harold nine, and Tasse Sue, three; and a brother, William Hughes of Louisville Kentucky. His father died February 1, 1962.

Funeral services were held Wednesday in El Paso. Interment in the National Cemetery there.

Medical Care

The King-Anderson Bill

One of the hottest and least understood issues now being discussed in America is the proposal to put medical care for the aged under Social Security.

Before we go any farther, perhaps we should define the two proposals involved. First, there is the Kerr-Mills Act which is in force in Pennsylvania and 26 other states, giving each individual state the right to draw up medical-care programs for its aging people depending on need and based on their income per year. The state reports to the Federal Government how much is spent and is reimbursed by the Federal Government for anywhere from 50 to 80 per cent of the total cost. Anyone can qualify for medical assistance under this plan if he passes the "means" law set up in his state, regardless of age.

The second proposal, the King-Anderson Bill, now in House Committee, would utilize the Social Security mechanism of taxation and would be financed by compulsory payroll tax and equivalent taxes from employers. This medical care plan would cover only those under Social Security and, if put into effect, would pay most of the medical and hospital bills for everyone under Social Security over the age of 65, regardless of income and regardless of whether or not he could pay for it himself. The cost for this plan would be paid directly from our pocket-books in the form of Social Security deductions from each one of our paychecks.

Under the proposed King-Anderson Act each employe earning $5,200 a year would be assessed $27.50 extra per year and his employer would be required to match it. Suppose a small business man had 10 employes making the minimum amount, he would have to pay $275.00 in matching money.

If he had a hundred he would be taxed a sum of $2,750—and ad infinitum.

No one wants to see a person over 65 suffer from a lack of medical care. However, let us examine these facts: There are nearly 17 million people over 65 in the United States today. Those over 65 account for nine per cent of our total population, and despite the retirement majority, they still receive eight per cent of all personal income. Only 2.5 per cent of those individuals are admittedly indigent and they are on old-age assistance programs at this time. There are nine million, over half of the 17 million, who have some form of insurance which they have purchased, or had purchased for them. They made that choice because they felt this was a program which they individually needed. The number of those over 65 who have medical insurance is increasing rapidly.

Millions of people over 65 are safeguarded by their own wealth, the resources of their families and services of local welfare and church agencies. Still others are assured of present and future benefit plans, such as retired railroad workers plans, veterans' benefit plans, or the plan provided for employes of the Federal Government.

The total annual cost of the King-Anderson plan has been estimated to be from $1.5 billion to $2.5 billion at the start and rising in (Turn to Page Four)

Salk Vaccine 'Cut Polio in U. S. 97 Per Cent'

PHILADELPHIA—Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation, says Salk vaccine has reduced polio 97 per cent over the seven years it has been used in this country.

Mr. O'Connor, made the statement during an interview in which he commented on another report.

Dr. Bohdan Ganicky, chief of the health education department of the Czechoslovakian ministry of health, had told delegates to the conference earlier that experience in his country showed what he termed the superiority of the Sabin live virus vaccine.

Mr. Ganicky said since it was used on a nationwide basis in 1960, not one new case of polio has occurred. He said the Salk vaccine immunizes the person injected but allows him to remain as a host or carrier whereas the Sabin vaccine immunizes and destroys the polio virus.

Mr. O'Connor cited the 97 per cent reduction as what he called conclusive proof of the Salk vaccine effectiveness when it is used properly, as it has been in this country.

During this time he read law in the office of Judge James Inghram and was admitted to the Greene County Bar on October 10, 1910. In 1921, he became associated in practice with John Inghram Hook. Army Will Draft 5,000 Next Month

WASHINGTON — Five thousand men will be drafted in September for the Army.

The Defense Department asked Selective Service today to provide that many men. The number is the same as for July and August.

The Defense Department said the aim is to enroll 16,300 enlisted men in the Army in September, with about one-third coming from the draft.

As is usually the case, the Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force do not intend to draw on the draft in September.

Greene County Commissioners were informed by the Pennsylvania Department of Welfare, Tuesday, that plans to renovate and expand Curry Memorial Home, Waynesburg R. D. 2, have been approved.

Joseph F. Bontempo, Rochester architect, will now prepare final drawings for approval which the county will send with application for federal funds to aid in financing the program.

Two wings are to be built to increase the capacity from 34 to 108 beds.

Estimated cost is about one million dollars. This will include all furnishings, equipment and a $40,000 sewage treatment plant, but does not include a new water supply.

The county already has set aside $325,000 for the Curry Home project. It is anticipated that one-third of the total cost will come from the federal government in Hill-Burton funds.

The commissioners anticipate they will have to borrow about $400,000 to make up the balance required to finance the project.

The Curry Home was built more than thirty years ago partly through a bequest left to establish a home for elderly people and was first in operation in that manner. Later it became an institution to care for ill elderly persons and some were transferred from Greene Hills Farm to the Curry Home.

The commissioners are entering into a major program to provide the best care obtainable for elderly persons and have already contracted to take over the 28-bed north wing of Greene County Memorial Hospital to provide nursing care. The wing is to be renovated and the project will be put into operation soon. Some patients will then be transferred from the Curry Home to the hospital wing.

Completion of this project will allow the commissioners to close the more than 100-year-old Greene Hills Farm building which is adjacent to the Curry Home.

Ground Broken For Grange Hall

A ground breaking ceremony for the new Carmichaels Grange Hall was held Thursday, on the site on South street at Maple alley.

The ground was given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Flenniken, both grangers. Mr. Flenniken has been secretary of Carmichaels grange 45 years, and in that time has only missed four meetings.

The lot is 32 by 70 feet and a two-story building will be constructed. Plans are not yet completed.

Mrs. Homer Hartley, master, and Allan Kerr, chairman of the building committee, turned the first earth.

John H. Minor of Waynesburg, treasurer of the Pennsylvania Grange, spoke briefly about his "home town" Grange.

Albert M. Hathaway of Carmichaels, was the principal speaker and commented on the way the Grange has gone about working out plans for building a more suitable hall.

Miss Mary Longanecker, chaplain, offered prayer.

The Grange, with its 142 members, has been meeting in the Odd Fellows Hall, but the quarters have been inadequate.

Fort Necessity Becomes U. S. Park

Dr. Maurice K. Goddard has announced that nearby Fort Necessity will be turned over to the administration of the National Parks on July 15.

"This will mean," Dr. Goddard said, "that Western Pennsylvania will now have a national tourist attraction to match Independence Hall in Philadelphia and Gettysburg in the central part of the state."

The administrative takeover of the fort will assure that the historic landmark will receive national and world-wide publicity in literature prepared by the National Park system, he said.

Russians Ask Cold War Role

WASHINGTON—An organization of Russian immigrants living in the United States is trying to convince the Federal Government that it has available an untapped reservoir of talent to enlist in the cold war against world Communism.

The organization is the Russian Immigrants' Representative Association in America. Headquarters are in New York City. Sergi Belosselsky, a White Russian who was an officer in the Czar's army and came to the U. S. after the Communist revolution, is president.

On behalf of the association, Belosselsky has been attempting to persuade the State Department to use the skills and talents of Russians now living in the U. S. who are proved anti-Communists. He suggests that these immigrants could perform valuable services for the Government as translators, foreign language broadcasters, writers and expert consultants.

Pineapple - Strawberry Cheesecake

Here's an exciting party dessert.

Cheese cake has the well-earned reputation of being a classic in many lands. Elegant cheese cakes are also the specialties in many famous restaurants.

Here's a home-made version combining cottage cheese and cream cheese in a graham-cracker crust, topped with a luscious glaze of golden pineapple tidbits and ruby red strawberries.

PIEAPPLE-STRAWBERRY CHEESE CAKE

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups pineapple juice or syrup
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
- 1 cup fine-curd cottage cheese
- 1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1/2 cup whipping cream
- 1 #211 can (1 1/2 cups) pineapple tidbits

Graham-cracker crust: Mix 1 1/2 cups fine graham-cracker crumbs with 1/2 cup melted butter or margarine. Press into bottom and around sides 2-inches deep in 8-inch spring form. Bake 10 minutes at 350° F. Cool.

Mix gelatin, sugar, salt, pineapple juice and lemon rind in saucepan. Stir over low heat until gelatin is melted. Cool slightly. Force cottage cheese through sieve and mix with cream cheese. Work with a fork until soft then blend in a little of the melted gelatin. Gradually blend in all the gelatin and lemon juice, a small portion at a time. Beat until it is smooth and creamy. Set in freezer or refrigerator to quick-chill till it will mound but is not set. Whip cream until stiff but not dry. Drain pineapple and fold half the pineapple and whipped cream into gelatin. Spoon carefully into crumb crust. Chill several hours.

Pineapple-Strawberry Glaze: Slice 1 cup strawberries, sprinkle with 2 tablespoons sugar. Crush 1 cup strawberries and force through sieve. Blend 2 teaspoons gelatin and 1/4 cup sugar with crushed berries. Stir over low heat till melted. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Cool till syrupy. Arrange sliced berries and rest of pineapple tidbits on top of cheese cake in an attractive pattern. Spoon glaze over to cover. Chill till glaze sets. Makes 8 to 12 servings.

U. S. Purchase Of Japanese Trucks Reported

DETROIT — The Detroit Free Press says the United States Government bought trucks from Japan for use in Far East military operations at a cost of about $220,000,000 in the last five years.

The Free Press said in a dispatch from Washington that 78,000 trucks were purchased under an agreement reached in 1956 before the flow of gold from the United States had become a problem. A five-year purchase program now is complete, the Free Press said.

Officials of the Defense Department said American car manufacturers were informed of the original negotiations with Japanese manufacturers and made no objection, the Free Press story said. According to the Free Press, the government estimated it made a saving of about 50 per cent by buying the trucks from the Japanese firms instead of contracting with American firms.

One inch of joy surmounts of grief a span, because to laugh is proper to the man, wrote Rabelais some four hundred years ago.

As far back as four thousand years ago, laughter was a part of man.

In the language of medical science, laughing is a long inspiration followed by short expiration, usually according to a rhythm, with or without vocalization.

Laughter is a boon to mankind. Kings had their jesters to make them laugh.

The world's wisest man, King Solomon, recommended laughter. Shakespeare introduced into his tragedies a character or two for comic relief.

Abraham Lincoln relieved his agony of soul with a jest and a smile.

In conducting business as usual, the organization executive knows the value of telling or hearing a funny story.

Laughter stimulates the circulation of the blood.

It brings respiratory muscles into play, and quickens the action of the nerves.

It is contagious and spreads good humor, reflecting the sunshine in the heart.

There are cases where laughter is a hysterical manifestation, or it can be a reflex result of tickling.

There is a National Laugh Week, as there is a National Letter Writing Week, and a National Garden Week.

Humorists are important in their job, bringing laughter and good humor to the world.

A merry heart doeth good like a medicine, says Proverbs 17:22.

Why we call ourselves pipeliners of energy

Natural gas is too narrow a term to describe our business, even though it still accounts for more than three-fourths of our income. So is refined petroleum products—though we pump millions of barrels of motor fuels, fuel oils, and LPGases to the booming Midwest.

The right word is energy—energy to power and heat and light a growing America. As pipeliners of energy—we are always in search of new sources of energy, as well as new ways to move it, store it, supply it. Potential new forms of energy: liquid natural gas and gasified coal. TIPS

KEEP PENNSYLVANIA "THE SAFE DRIVER STATE"

By Protecting Your Vision

If you can't see properly, you can't drive safely. During the summer months, motorists are often momentarily blinded by sun glare, and accidents frequently result.

Good sunglasses are an inexpensive, lifesaving investment. Keep a pair in your glove compartment, and always wear them when you drive on sunny days. But remember—take them off at sundown, or when driving through tunnels.

If every motorist had observed this simple suggestion last year, 1,073 accidents, and 11 fatal accidents might have been prevented!

later years to $5 billion or more—as compared with $500 million maximum estimate under the plan presently in effect. It would multiply the tax collections and payments for medical care eight or ten-fold, to provide added funds to give to those who didn't need them. It would, in other words, set up a program that benefited eight or ten people for every one that needed help. It means that working men and women would pay taxes to cover medical expenses for those who can either afford their own medical expenses, have support from their families, have private medical insurance, or who can, in some way, pay their own bills by their own means. Furthermore, inauguration of this plan would double the Social Security bureaucracy, which now has 32,000 employees and an innumerable amount of electronic machines.

However, there are a lot of loopholes in the Bill as it now stands. Here are some of them subject to some limitations: Ninety days of hospitalization, 180 days of nursing home care, 240 home visits by nurses, home makers, therapists and similar personnel, and outpatient hospital diagnostic services, but no physician.

For this service the patient would have to pay $10 a day on the bill for the first nine days of his hospital stay (a minimum of $20), and he would have to pay the first $20 of the outpatient service bill. There would be an over-all limit for each benefit period of 150 "units of care." The unit is defined as one day in a hospital or two in a nursing home. A new benefit period would begin after 90 days in which the patient received no care. No doctors' bills would be paid, except to the extent that the services of interns, anesthetists and similar personnel might be reflected in hospital bills. No drugs, except those administered in hospitals, would be paid for.

This particular approach causes an intervention of the Federal Government in a relationship between the individual and those who are giving medical service. This relationship could suffer serious impairment when the individual physician is, in effect, working under contract for the system—in this case, the Federal Government—rather than the patient. And the patient will be looking to the system rather than to the physician.

Putting medical care for the aged under a mandatory Social Security program would be the beginning of the largest step we could take toward more centralized, more paternalistic government. If we want to preserve our personal pride, our sense of character and responsibility, and our freedom of choice, we should oppose this plan to the fullest. No one will suffer if the Social Security plan doesn't go into effect, because the machinery already in effect will take care of everyone who needs help at less cost to the taxpayer.

Health Service Cost Goes Up

LONDON—Britain's free National Health Service cost more than 2 1/4 billion last year, 11.5 per cent more than in 1960.

Health Minister Frederick Erroll presented the bill today for 809 million pounds, or $2,265,200,000, in his annual report on the socialized medical system.

He termed the increase unusually large and attributed the major part of it to higher salaries for doctors and an acceleration in the hospital building program.

FAMOUS AMERICAN TAVERNS

Duffy's Tavern in Boalsburg, Pa.

Since Stagecoach Days A Haven for Wayfarers

Duffy's Tavern, a haven for wayfarers since stagecoach days (1819), is an acknowledged monument of early American stone architecture. Even after it was partially destroyed by fire in 1934, the Historic American Buildings Survey described it "as possessing such historical and architectural interest as being worthy of careful preservation for the benefit of future generations and to this end a record of its present appearance and condition has been made and deposited in the Library of Congress for permanent record."

But Duffy's Tavern is likely to remain its own permanent record, for after the fire the owner had the building restored based on the careful, historical drawings of Architect Dean Kennedy. The work of reconstruction was done by Amish and Pennsylvania Dutch workmen using old time methods. It has been refurbished with articles made with the traditional craft of the region; the early nineteenth-century atmosphere has been carefully preserved. In the "big room" may be seen the old cash drawer beneath the cupboard on the bar from which foaming beer was dispensed. Another drawer beneath a window was possibly used for porch service in the interest of those who had time only to sip the wassail bowl, mount and ride away.

Boalsburg is a quiet old town, its streets shaded by ancient lofty elm trees. People pass in a leisurely manner, greeting the stranger with old-fashioned courtesy. The town is not far from Pennsylvania State College and Penn State Mountain Lodge and Ski Center.

Visitors come to Duffy's Tavern from all over the world to enjoy its steaks and seafood, its beers and ales and quiet surroundings. A specialty of the house is a kraut salad used as an appetizer before each meal. This famous delicacy is prepared by Mrs. Duffy from ingredients known only to herself.

Harwick Heads Junior Olympic Track Meet

John Harwick, publicity director at Waynesburg College, has been appointed to membership in the National A. A. U. Junior Olympics Committee, according to A. A. U. President Louis J. Fisher.

Harwick had earlier been named chairman of the Allegheny Mountain Association's A. A. U. Junior Olympics Committee. Carl Olson, president of the A. M. A. A. A. U., appointed him to the post which makes him responsible for the Junior Olympics in the A. M. A.

Boys and girls up to 17 years of age living in Western Pennsylvania, parts of Ohio, and parts of West Virginia, will be eligible to compete in the A. M. A.'s Junior Olympic Track Championships in August.

Harwick, former high school and college cross country and track coach, is the A. M. A.'s walking champion. He has competed in national race walks in Baltimore, Buffalo, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Norfolk, New York, and Columbus.

He graduated from Clymer (Pa.) High School in 1950 and from Indiana State College in 1954.

Harwick received his Master's Degree from Indiana in 1960 and is currently enrolled at West Virginia University.

Harwick is married to the former Mary Carolyn Myers of Brookville, and they are the parents of three children: Barry 7; Bobby, 6; and Beth, 5.

Gas Lights Way For Golf at Night

Gas will light the way to night-time golfing for district links enthusiasts beginning this week.

Golf under the lights will get underway officially this Thursday evening at the nine-hole Rohanna Golf Course on Route 19 just north of Waynesburg.

Powering the 90 light standards located strategically throughout the course will be a natural gas engine-driven electric set, which will be served by Equitable Gas Company. The natural gas engine generates the necessary electricity to operate the extensive lighting system on the 2,600 yard, par 33 course.

On hand for the opening night festivities will be Mike Pavella, golf pro at Nemaconin Country Club near Brownsville, who will conduct a golf clinic during the evening. Adding a touch of glamour to the occasion will be Equitable Gas Company's "Miss Flame," pretty Marilyn Wheeler, who will greet "first nighters" as they arrive at the course.

Guests for the opening will include Greene County Judge John Inghram Hook and the three county commissioners.

The opening of golf under the lights at Rohanna marks the first time that this has been done in this area. K. Rohanna, owner of the course, observed the success of similar setups in Florida during a recent visit and was so impressed with its potential that he brought the idea back north with him. Thursday night's opening will fulfill that dream.

As a result of its new lighting system, Rohanna will now remain open to 2 a. m. nightly, with the lights being turned on at 9 p. m.

The lighting system isn't the only thing new at the course. Under construction now are an additional nine holes, which will have a par of 37.

How Locomotives Are Packaged

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—Locomotives are shipped in protective wrapping these days, like candy bars.

A 118-ton locomotive built here by Alco Products, Incorporated, for the Hellenic State Railways of Greece, was encased in a sprayable, peelable, plastic-like cocoon to protect it from sun, wind and salt water damage during the voyage. On arrival, the covering is peeled off in strips.

Gideons Place Bibles Now Totalling Millions

CHICAGO—What kind of devoted work has it taken to place 50,000,000 Bibles and Testaments in hotels, motels and other secular spots?

The Gideons International, the organization which achieved this record distribution this year after more than a half century of effort, can give the answer.

It took only two Christian traveling salesmen to start the organization in 1898-99.

John H. Nicholson, who shared his room in the crowded Central Hotel at Boscobel, Wisconsin, on a September night in 1898, and Samuel E. Hill, the beneficiary of his hospitality, launched the world-encircling organization simply by talking over with each other the possibility of establishing a fellowship for those religious convictions and a desire to serve.

Joined by William J. Knights in a Janesville, Wisconsin, hotel the next summer, they founded The Gideons. Object: "to win men and women for Jesus Christ."

It was not until a decade later that this group was led to focus its work on the distribution of the King James version of the Bible and the New Testament. They believed that by placing the Book in public places it would come to the attention of persons who might not find their way into a church or who had drifted away from religion.

Their first step was to place 25 copies of the Bible in a Montana hotel. From that time on the work grew. This spring, at a conference of the organization's state presidents, Vernon Herndon, past president of the American Bible Association, received a token volume representing the 50,000,000th copy of the Scriptures placed by the Gideons. He received it from H. S. Armerding, Gideons president.

Writing of the event, the editor of the official magazine of the association reported: "Mr. Herndon gave assurance of hotel managers, the Word of God is an indispensable item in transient hotel and motel guest rooms."

A continual flow of letters of gratitude from persons helped by reading the Bibles provided by the Gideons serves to keep up enthusiasm for the work and win support. From their handsome new headquarters building in Chicago the Gideons publish a booklet called "Returns."

It contains testimonies from men and women who found themselves in desperate situations but were regenerated and strengthened by reading a Bible picked up in a hotel room, jail cell, hospital ward, or some other place where Gideon volunteers had been.

It is this fruitage which keeps the movement going steadily forward said Robert E. Swaney, associate editor of The Gideon. The organization conducts no fundraising campaigns. Members—Christian business and professional men—contribute generously and receive added support from Protestant churches.

Why the name Gideon?

The name came to the founders as a result of prayer. It refers to the story of Gideon (Judges 6, 7, and 8), a judge of Israel, who was willing to do the work God gave him to do, in God's own way.

MONTREAL — Although the United States leads the world in air travel by its residents, 80 percent of its population has never entered a commercial airliner, according to the International Air Transport Association.

New Smithsonian Institution Museum To Display U. S. History and Progress

WASHINGTON—A massive $36 million museum is rising here in the shadow of the Washington Monument. It will include just about everything showing American history and progress—including a kitchen sink.

When completed, the Smithsonian Institution's Museum of History and Technology will provide a panorama that will range from atom smashers to an old-fashioned ice cream parlor; from a Revolutionary War gunboat to the equipment used in developing penicillin; from products used by the pre-Columbus Norse Vikings to the now almost-forgotten American dollar watch.

An estimated five million tourists and visitors a year are expected to begin pouring through the museum when it opens next year. At the start, only 10 or 12 exhibition halls are expected to be finished in the giant five-story structure.

Three or four years later, 50 exhibition halls are expected to be open, creating a parade of American historical and scientific progress.

"We lay no claim to being the largest museum in the world," museum director Frank Taylor said. "But ours will cover the widest scope of any. Under one roof, we hope to show the combined history and technology of a great Nation."

At the heart of the museum will be four large halls symbolizing "The Growth of the United States." It will try to show in panorama how America was discovered, how it was settled, how the country grew.

A London pamphlet of 1622 listing necessities travelers should take to the New world will be shown. Types of dwellings, hunting and fishing gear, clothing, church pews and pulpits, covered wagons, food preserving and beverage-making devices will be seen. In other areas, there will be specialized displays. On a category-by-category basis, this is what is planned with a listing of some of the items to be on view:

Railroads: The Stourbridge Lion, the first commercially operated steam locomotive brought to this country from England in 1829; the Southern Railway's 188-tonner of 1926.

Automobile: An 1848 Concord stagecoach, a 1903 Winton and the Durycia brothers' horseless carriage of 1892-93.

Light Machinery: A tinfol record phonograph devised by Thomas Alva Edison; a wooden works clock; the development of the dollar watch.

Physics: early model computing machines; a simulated shop front of a New York instrument maker in the 1850s.

Medicine: A replica of an 18th century apothecary shop; original laboratory used by Sir Arthur Fleming in developing penicillin. General Manufacture: Machines used in manufacturing fastenings of various kinds, including the first zipper.

First Ladies: The display transferred from the old Smithsonian Building, showing the wives of Presidents from Martha Washington to Jacqueline Kennedy, wearing inaugural gowns.

Prominent Americans: Dressed figures representing such historic greats as Washington and Lincoln.

Political Campaigns: Exhibits tracing the progress of presidential campaigning from the whistle-stop train platforms through radio, with a section recalling the woman's suffrage fight.

In addition, displays of stamps, coins, ceramics and glass, early toys, musical instruments and farm instruments will be exhibited.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Temperature Up—Profit Down

Extremes of heat and cold are equally hard on farm animals and prevent profitable gains or production.

We are living in a country of continental size and in a latitude where extremely cold winters affect part of the country, but summer heat affects all of it.

Low Bryce, when ambassador to the United States, observed that the corn belt states of America during summer seasons had a tropical temperature, but that its citizens never seemed to realize it.

A few years ago when in early July I returned to Madison, Wisconsin, from a stay in Venezuela, I was more oppressed by the heat and humidity in Madison than I had been in a country thousands of miles nearer the equator.

I did realize the "tropic" temperature and could observe from condition and production that the farm animals felt the heat too.

What about comfort for dairy cows in hot weather? Many dairymen keep their cows in the barn during the hottest part of the day, from mid-forenoon to after milking toward evening. They are then permitted out all night.

When the cows are brought to the barn in the morning they have supplementary feed and plenty of salt and water readily accessible. The barn is darkened but ventilated and flies are controlled. In this way the cows are in far better condition to produce milk than they are when kept in the open under a blazing sun. Shade areas in the pasture are most helpful too. Where natural shade is lacking a simple pole type structure can provide artificial shade for cow comfort.

Relief from the heat helps hogs too. One of our southern state experiment stations found that hogs without a wallow in hot weather gained only 1.45 pounds daily per head, but with a sanitary wallow they gained 1.80 pounds daily. The saving in feed was 35 pounds for every 100 pounds gain—a decidedly worthwhile figure.

Similar observations of feed savings and greater efficiency can be applied to all other livestock, including beef cattle, sheep, horses and poultry. It is no wonder that there is increasing interest not only in the simple comfort arrangements mentioned, but even in mechanical air conditioning of farm animal quarters.

Question: We sometimes see summer safety tips suggesting salt tablets or extra salt for farm workers during the hot weather, how important is this?

Answer: Heavy work in hot weather means heavy sweating and loss of body salt. Replacing the salt is important to health. The recommendations you mention seem to trace to experiences in the construction of Hoover Dam in the Arizona-California desert. Some 80 men lost their lives in that construction, many or most of them because of severe salt loss due to sweating. The loss results in weakness and dizziness which is most dangerous when working on high scaffolding. After a scientific investigation salt tablets were suggested as a preventive.

Dr. Bohstedt

Short Rations Seen a Part Of Red Life

VIENNA — Eastern European countries face a grim fact of Communist life: there is not enough food.

Though not on the verge of starvation as in Red China, many people in the once foodrich Balkan countries seem worse off today than they did before Communism took over.

A survey shows that two factors are responsible: farm collectivization in general and this year's weather conditions.

With the exception of Poland—which has no collectivization—Communist governments throughout Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union have been compelled to admit agricultural failures.

A country-by-country rundown gives this picture:

Albania—Heavy rains delayed spring planting. In some areas, tractors could not be used for plowing and the government appealed to farmers to use oxen.

Bulgaria—The government announced a large-scale campaign to increase livestock production to remedy an acute meat shortage. Within three years some 750,000 acres of land are to be made arable to produce fodder grains. The regime admitted that this year's production of meat, milk, eggs and wool will be insufficient.

Czechoslovakia—President Antonin Novotny announced that large quantities of food have been imported from abroad while the country's agricultural resources have not been fully exploited despite nearly complete farm collectivization.

Alcatraz to Be Shut Down

WASHINGTON — The Bureau of Prisons will begin closing out Alcatraz next year by transferring prisoners to other penal institutions, Bureau Director James V. Bennett has announced.

The transfer will begin upon completion of the new Federal prison at Marion, Ill., scheduled to open next year. "Alcatraz will be phased out as Marion comes into operation," Bennett said. No deadline has been set for the complete discontinuance of Alcatraz as a Federal prison.

There are 269 prisoners at Alcatraz, the old institution on an island in San Francisco Bay. Federal authorities have long regarded it as obsolete.

"It would cost a lot of money to put it in tip-top shape," Mr. Bennett said.

Mr. Bennett said some of the Alcatraz prisoners would be sent to Marion and others to Federal prisons at Leavenworth, Kansas, Atlanta, Georgia, and perhaps other institutions.

U. S., Mexico Face-Lifting Plan Shows Evidence

MEXICO CITY — Effects of a plan to give a face-lifting to cities along Mexico's border with the United States have begun to be felt in Nogales, across from the Arizona city of the same name.

Work is under way on moving railroad and customs facilities away from the line dividing the two cities in order to relieve congestion.

The project will cost 24 million pesos—$1,920,000—and is the first step toward giving Nogales a new look, says Antonio J. Bernudez, director of the National Frontier program.

The Federal Government is footing the bill for all the work.

Projects also are under way in Juarez, across from El Paso Texas, and Matamoros, across from Brownsville, Texas.

Work is to start soon in Piedras Negras, across from Eagle Pass, Texas, and in Tijuana and Mexicali, which border California.

The idea is to make Mexico's 1,600-mile border with the United States a show window that will benefit both countries.

In Nogales, the first step is to move the railroad station, its warehouse and shops three miles from the border and well back from the town itself.

The customs station and its warehouse also will be moved to the same area. Only a customs checkpoint will be left at the border crossing point.

Plans also include construction of a new Central Avenue by filling in a canal. The new street will be called Sonora Avenue, after the state in which Nogales is located.

Bernudez says the Nogales projects should be completed in 15 months.

The frontier program has been in planning for a year and a half. Weeks ago, said he probably take three years to complete its first targets.

Little Word, Big Battle, 'An' Can Mean 2

The highest court in Pennsylvania has gotten itself embroiled over one of the smallest words in the dictionary, namely, "an."

In a majority opinion the State Supreme Court held that a realty agreement to erect "an office building" on a tract in Lower Merion Township, Montgomery County, does not limit construction to only one building.

Justice Michael A. Musmanno took an opposite tack. In his dissent, joined by Justice Benjamin R. Jones, he asked simply: "Can 'an' ever mean more than one?"

"No one would say," he said, "for instance:

"An apples
"An oranges
"An ants
"An albatrosses
"An Algerians
"An office buildings."

Except that it might date him, Justice Musmanno might have added "an McGuffey Readers."

"I don't see how 'an' can ever mean more than one," he said, "unless all the dictionaries are wrong, common usage is incorrect and the grammar books in this country are perpetrating a hoax on students of the English language."

The grammatical-go-round got under way in July, 1959, when Josephine Marx Luria bought from Mary E. McWilliams the 1.1 acre tract on the south side of Presidential boulevard, north.

The agreement provided among other things that:

"Buyers agree to improve the site with an office building; final plans and specifications for said building to be subject to the approval of the owner, which approval shall not be unreasonably withheld."

The office building subsequently was erected, and in 1961, the tract purchaser filed for a permit to erect a second building there and was promptly sued. The decision was in favor of the purchaser, Josephine Luria, and was upheld in the Supreme Court.

In its majority opinion the high court said:

"If the parties had intended to limit the land to one office building it would have been very easy to have used the word 'one.' The agreement contains no such restriction nor any affirmative promise by the buyer to build only one office building."

Justice Musmanno, however, maintained the plaintiffs should "have stood their ground, planted squarely on the dictionaries of the land."

"They should have demanded," he said, "that the defendant produce one instance, only one, where 'an' has ever meant more than one."

'Declaration' Writer Identified?

NEW YORK—Autograph dealer Charles Hamilton says he has just discovered who penned the Declaration of Independence.

Mr. Hamilton says the scribe was Timothy Matlack, a Pennsylvania Quaker, who was assistant to Charles Thompson, clerk of the Continental Congress.

Mr. Hamilton said he had compared the Declaration with another newly discovered document penned by Mr. Matlack. He said he has "not the slightest doubt" that Mr. Matlack penned both.

The document referred to by Mr. Hamilton is the engrossed parchment copy, signed by members of the Continental Congress, now on display in the National Archives Building.

The original draft written by Thomas Jefferson and edited by the Congress was lost after it had been sent to a printer, but there are several copies in Jefferson's handwriting in existence.

TREE FARM BENEFITS

WASHINGTON—The tree farm movement with its multiple-use benefits of wood, water, wildlife, recreation and soil stabilization has added a record 3 million acres of timberlands this year, the American Forest Products Industries reports.

WATCH YOUR STEP!

That step off the curb is a crucial step. Death could be waiting in the street. Last year, 112 pedestrians were killed when they tried to cross the street in the middle of the block. Hundreds more were injured, bruised or crippled.

Watch your step! Cross only at intersections or pedestrian crosswalks . . . and look both ways before you take that crucial step—the one off the curb.
