Jacktown Fair Ready for 97th Annual Exhibit

It's only two weeks away—the opening of the 97th annual exhibition of the famous Jacktown Fair at Wind Ridge. The fair has never missed a year even during wars.

The dates are Wednesday through Saturday, August 1 through 4.

Final preparations are being rushed, buildings have been repainted and despite the drought entries of livestock and garden products are reported to be coming in well.

The Keystone State Shows will furnish rides and be in charge of the midway, which will be open for business on Tuesday.

For entertainment there will be an amateur show on Saturday evening, concerts by West Greene Band and the Citizens' Band of Waynesburg.

Thursday and Friday evenings will feature light and heavy-weight horse pulling and on Saturday night there will be a large display of fireworks.

The catalog and premium list for the fair was put out the first of this month.

The directors have scheduled more classes for 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America entries with attractive premiums.

Entries in all classes must be placed by noon on Wednesday.

Officers and directors of the Richhill Agricultural Society, sponsors of the Jacktown Fair are: Ross Burns, president; O. I. Dille, first vice president; J. E. Dinsmore, second vice president; Thomas M. Tharp, secretary and treasurer; O. I. Dille and Raymond McCracken, concessions and privileges; H. E. McNay, superintendent of gates and custodian; J. E. Dinsmore, superintendent of stock; Raymond McCracken and C. J. Behm, superintendents of horse pulling. Honorary directors are L. F. Engle, John B. Carter, John Gopen and Charles B. Orndoff.

Miss Maude Carter is general superintendent of the Ladies' Department. Her assistants are Alene Stickle, Regina Braddock and Miss Gertrude McNay.

British Not Blind To Handicapped

CHATHAM, England — About 1,000 blind telephone operators are employed in Britain and there are more jobs available than takers, Lord Fraser, vice president of the Royal National Institute for the Blind, said.

Fraser, also blind, said: "The blind telephone operator is better than a sighted one. Many firms discovered this and some big firms employ blind telephonists only."

"The reason," he explained, "is that they generally become permanent members of the staff and do not leave to get married. They also develop a pride in their work."

Agricultural Secretary Names Greene As One of 22 Counties to Get Aid

Greene County is one of the 22 drought-stricken counties in Pennsylvania to be allowed stock grazing and hay cutting off land retired under the conservation reserve, feed grain and wheat stabilization diverted acres.

Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman, late Friday, relaxed the program through August 21.

He acted as a result of the severe drought which has persisted in most farming areas in the state since May first.

Senator Joseph S. Clark, governor David L. Lawrence, and Congressman William W. Scranton, Republican candidate for governor, had joined in urging that relief be granted.

Mr. Freeman said farmers wishing to avail themselves of this privilege must first obtain the permission of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee in their home counties.

"Downward adjustments will be made in payments to farmers

The grand jury investigation of Philadelphia's City Hall corruption ordered Thursday by President Judge Eugene V. Alessandrini, of Common Pleas Court 5, looms as the hottest issue of the November 6 election for governor.

Democratic leaders, realizing the impact of an investigation on Pennsylvania voters, have become extremely worried over possible incriminating revelations in connection with their 11-year rule of City Hall, and the effect they may have on the chances of former Mayor Richardson Dilworth, their nominee for Governor.

Much of the probe will be concerned with the administration of Mr. Dilworth.

Republicans, on the other hand, were elated with Judge Alessandrini's order directing an investigation and were hopeful the probe would develop into their biggest political asset that would lead to victory in November.

Originally, Democratic leaders were of the opinion the threat of a scandals probe had been buried on July 25, 1961, when Judge Raymond Pace Alexander, a member of their party, denied a Republican petition for a grand jury investigation of Dilworth's administration. Judge Alessandrini is a Republican.

Now, the Democrats realize the corruption charges are no longer Republican oratorical outbursts, but the spearhead of an official inquiry where their party leaders can be subpoenaed and put under oath to testify about allegations of graft and political influence in the administration of public affairs.

Democratic chiefs, from Mr. Dilworth to those down in the organization ranks, who had battled vigorously against a grand jury probe last year, reversed their positions Thursday after realizing continued opposition to a probe would have a disastrous political effect during a state-wide election year. They asked that the probe begin at once.

The G. O. P. said it did not want to see "wrongdoers" given time to destroy evidence.

The judge, who has set the date for September 4, said he did not see how the machinery of the grand jury investigation could be assembled and put into motion on short notice. He cited the fact that the special prosecutor must be chosen and be given time to put his own affairs in order before taking on the assignment, as well as other "practical and material problems."

Judge Alessandrini had ordered the investigation at the request of the Republican Alliance, which specified charges of the sale of legislation through an alleged corrupt link between Philadelphia City Council and the Democratic City Committee.

FEWER FARMS IN OHIO

COLUMBUS—The number of farms in Ohio is estimated to have dropped about 10,000 in the period from 1959 to 1961, say Ohio State University economists. They believe this took about 400,000 acres in farmland out of production.

where these lands are grazed or from which hay is cut," Freeman said.

He added that the Agriculture Department's county and State disaster committees are considering drought conditions in counties other than the 22 covered by the order. "Action will be taken promptly on receipt of field recommendations and on-the-spot reports," Freeman said.

The following counties were covered by the order:

Northeastern Pennsylvania—Wayne, Susquehanna, Bradford, Sullivan, Wyoming, Lackawanna, Monroe and Carbon.

Central Pennsylvania—Dauphin, Centre, Snyder, Northumberland, Montour and Tioga.

Western Pennsylvania—Greene, Fayette, Somerset, Westmoreland, Armstrong, Fulton, Cambria and Washington.

Additional counties are being considered.

At Last: a Grand Jury

Following is an editorial from the Philadelphia Inquirer of July 13, concerning the coming grand jury investigation of corruption in City Hall made under the administration of Richardson Dilworth when he was mayor of the city:

In ordering a special grand jury investigation of charges of corruption at City Hall, Judge Eugene V. Alessandrini has pushed open a door that had been stubbornly blockaded by political forces for many months.

Ever since the payola scandals erupted into public view one year ago last spring, with Democratic officials and politicians deeply involved in them, it had been evident that the one effective way to get to the bottom of the mess was through the medium of a grand jury armed with the power to subpoena witnesses and to take their testimony under oath.

This newspaper editorially urged such a step as early as May 1961. Instead of taking the lead in urging a grand jury probe, as he should have, former Mayor Dilworth joined abjectly with Democratic City Chairman Bill Green in fighting such an investigation every inch of the way. Their desperate efforts to clamp the lid on the brimming mess at City Hall met success with Judge Raymond Pace Alexander's rejection of a petition for a grand jury probe.

The Inquirer stated then that this was not the last word on the subject: that "a grand jury probe is obviously required, and new court actions seeking it will continue to be pressed."

Judge Alessandrini's comprehensive and sharply worded order has been the result. Taking cognizance of charges involving City Council and the Democratic

City Committee, the Judge calls for grand jury investigation into allegations concerning the sale of legislation and "the existence of an illicit alliance between the Democratic City Committee and City Council."

It may be recalled that when the initial exposures of misconduct in the Dilworth Administration were made by Controller Hemphill, Chairman Green gave no appearance of being disturbed. It was only when members of City Council and tieups to the City Committee began to figure in unsavory accusations that the old lid came slamming down, and a concert of Democratic leadership joined battle against a grand jury.

Probably the gravest political mistake Richardson Dilworth ever made was his fight to prevent a grand jury probe a year ago. That error in judgment has haunted him ever since, and he is confronted now with the very investigation that he fought, and at the worst possible time for him—in the last weeks of his campaign for the Governorship.

For him to complain that Judge Alessandrini's order is political harassment comes with remarkably bad grace. He could have had the grand jury hearings over and done with long ago, if he had not so bitterly resisted them.

The shadow of suspected corruption and extortion, of misconduct in office, of betrayal of the public trust, hangs over City Hall. The taint can be removed only by extensive, nonpartisan and effective search for the truth. Under the circumstances, the most suitable means of ascertaining the truth and getting a wholesale clean-up under way is the long-delayed probe ordered by Judge Alessandrini.

Senate Kills Medicare Bill

The United States Senate voted Tuesday to table President Kennedy's Social Security health care plan for the aged in a shattering administration defeat.

The roll call was 52 to 48. Twenty-one Democrats joined Republicans to kill the proposal. It adopted a motion by Senator Robert S. Kerr, Democrat of Oklahoma, to table and thus kill the proposal.

The defeat means the Social Security plan is dead at least for this Congress.

It also throws a psychological pall over many other key Kennedy measures.

It was one of the most dramatic legislative showdowns of the session, and one laden with political ammunition for the fall election campaigns. All 100 senators showed up for the crucial vote.

The Senate decision dealt the death blow to a measure that already was in unhealthy condition in the House. There, the House Ways and Means Committee had refused to clear it for a floor vote. Together, the actions handed the President perhaps his most serious legislative defeat of the session.

Improvement Contract Let

Anderson's Black Rock, Inc., of Charleston, W. Va., submitted a low bid of $175,360 for resurfacing and widening of a section of Route 19, south of Waynesburg.

The 3.51 miles of road to be improved starts at the Whiteley-Perry Township line and ends at the north side of Bally's Hill.

This section of the highway will be widened from 18 to 22 feet and will be resurfaced, according to Charles Rohulich, Greene County maintenance superintendent of the Department of Highways.

Mr. Rohulich stated widening of the road should eliminate some of the hazards connected with the curve on Bally Hill and also should permit a few passing zones where none now exist.

Plans were also submitted for resurfacing of Route 19 south from Whiteley-Perry Township line to Mt. Morris. Widening will be on curves. This work will be done by local highway maintenance crews.

Both projects are scheduled for this summer and fall.

Just Thinking!

By JIM DENT

In Davey's press conference last Wednesday

he admitted something we have always claimed

Republicans are Business Men.

In answer to a question he stated:

"I brought two career-men 'in here, because I knew 'the basic thing wrong 'with Pennsylvania 'was its financial setup.

"I brought them in 'purposely from the 'Economy League, which 'as we all know, is a 'non-partisan organization 'basically and almost entirely 'supported by 'the business people 'of Pennsylvania."

and Mr. Kaminski of the Philadelphia Bulletin interjected

"who are 'mostly Republicans!'"

In other words

Davey admits Democrats are not Business People

so they must be Politicians

Passenger Came Years Too Late

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — "The General," the wood-burning locomotive of a historic Civil War chase, was one of the top attractions of the 1962 Cotton Carnival.

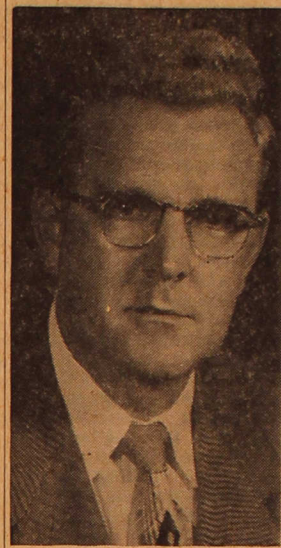

The ancient engine was wheezing up stream at the station for a run before Carnival crowds when an elderly man walked up and asked:

"Pardon me, but is this the train to Huntsville, Alabama?"

Jacobs Named G. O. P. County Chairman

E. BRYAN JACOBS

E. Bryan Jacobs of Waynesburg, was elected chairman of the Greene County Republican Committee, Monday night, to succeed John B. Carter, who had held the office four years, and who was not a candidate.

Mr. Jacobs defeated Edward L. Rice of Waynesburg R. D. 4. Eighty-eight of the 100 committeemen were present and seven were represented by proxies. Five were absent.

The vote was 68 to 27 in favor of Mr. Jacobs. Balloting was secret.

Other officers elected were Mrs. J. Russell Milliken of Waynesburg, vice chairman; Thomas S. Baily of Waynesburg, secretary; Mrs. Forney M. Gopen of Dilliner, assistant secretary, and Kenneth P. Milliken of Waynesburg, treasurer. All were unopposed.

An amendment to make officers and committeemen terms two years instead of four, was defeated.

Mr. Jacobs has been active in politics and eight years ago was a candidate for the General Assembly. He is the owner of the Jacobs Oil Company, and is active in church and civic work.

Attorney Albert A. Sayers of Waynesburg, candidate for General Assembly, stressed door-to-door contact in an effort for the party to win.

Mr. Sayers, a member of a family widely known in the legal profession, stated he feels his education and training fit him to hold the office of representative in the assembly. He also spoke of his work as a member of the school board and a trustee of Waynesburg College, and stated he expects to continue it on a state level.

Other candidates who spoke were Jerome Hahn of Washington, candidate for Congress, and Charles E. Bradshaw, candidate for State Senate.

Edward Sittler, former congressman and former mayor of Uniontown, also spoke.

All stated indications that the ticket headed by William W. Scranton for governor, and James E. Van Zandt for United States Senate, will carry the Republican party to victory on November 6.

Mr. Carter, who is also a county commissioner, was given a standing ovation for his work for the party in Greene County. Aside from serving as chairman, he acted as treasurer of the organization for 20 years.

Republican Women To Meet Friday

The Greene County Council of Republican Women will meet Friday night at 7:30 in the headquarters on South Washington street. The location is just below the McCollum Wallpaper Store. All members and interested persons are urged to be present. Plans for the coming campaign will be made.

Government Leases New Armory For Company C, 429th Engineers

Company C, 429 Engineer Construction Battalion, which has been on active duty at Fort Bragg, N. C., since last October, will return in August, and will move into an armory at the corner of North Morris street and Strawberry alley.

The federal government has leased the building from Russell McKee.

Before leaving for active service Company C had its armory in the basement of the First National Bank Building. The unit had been looking for more adequate facilities for several years.

The Austin Powder Company, which now occupies part of the building leased from Mr. McKee, will move to West Waynesburg. McKee's tire recapping plant will also be moved from the building, which was erected eight years ago.

The building has a large room which the company will use for assembly. There is also space for officers and classrooms. Company C will also have space for equipment and trucks.

The small building used by the Central Cab Company for a number of years, will be torn down. The taxi office will be moved to a building built for it on property on North Morris street owned by W. B. Stewart, owner of the cab company.

Company C will leave Fort Bragg on August 9. Members are allowed to choose their transportation, as they did when they were mobilized.

Assembly is scheduled for eight o'clock, Saturday, August 11 in the new armory. The company will be deactivated at midnight that night and will return to its regular weekly meetings.

When Company C left Waynesburg the roster showed six officers and 104 enlisted men, mostly from Greene County, Captain William Sabolsky of Scenery Hill, is commander.

There will be a "welcome home" ceremony. Loren Matthias, president of Waynesburg Jaycees, and Peter Jabour, a local Army Reserve officer, are co-chairmen of the committee.

It aids communities with loans to provide utilities for industrial sites, and it also aids in technical assistance and research to determine the economic value of natural resources.

Among those introduced were A. J. Dwyer, new field coordinator for A. R. A. in Western Pennsylvania; O. L. Johnston, assistant executive of the program in Pennsylvania; Allen Williams, field consultant at Harrisburg; Frank W. TAKE A NUMBER TO GO TO COLLEGE?

Could be!

In less than ten years the number of college applicants is expected to double.

But, some of our colleges are uncomfortably crowded now—today.

By 1971, unless this problem is met, two things can happen; first, at many colleges only a portion of the bright, responsive youngsters who apply will be admitted. Second, for those who do get in, the quality of education may be inferior.

For our children—for our country—watered-down education is something we simply cannot afford.

If we are to maintain the quality of higher education that has made us great—that has given us our great ideas, our discoverers, our pioneers of the mind—we must act now.

We must recruit and train additional thousands of competent and qualified instructors. We must provide libraries, classrooms, well-equipped laboratories. And, we must do this immediately.

Give the gift of knowledge. Give to the college of your choice . . . so that it can give to the future of America.

Learn the full meaning of this urgent college crisis. Write for your free booklet, "OPEN WIDE THE COLLEGE DOOR," Box 36, Times Square Station, New York 36, N. Y.

My Church and I

Sometimes I think all of us take our churches too much for granted, just as we take our American democracy so much for granted because we have grown up under its privileges, its protection, its guarantees of our freedom.

Yet just this morning as we walked down the street toward the clear ringing of the bells of our church, I thought, "What if all this were taken away? Would it make a difference in our lives?"

And I thought of my husband, who looks forward to attending church each Sunday—and of the inspiration, high ideals and abounding faith his church has given him that he may face life squarely and honestly.

I thought of my daughter—ready to do her part to bring peace and brotherhood to the world because her church has convinced her that life without either would be worthless and empty.

I thought of myself, and all that my church means to me: It makes me a part of something strong, clean and decent; it gives me courage to face life's temptations, and to do what I know is right; it builds my faith into an ever-present comfort in adversity; it illumines my life with love, and blesses it with happiness.

I thought of the millions upon millions who are my comrades and friends this morning all over the world, because they too, walked into the doors of their churches, for their hour with God.

These are reasons why my church exists. These are reasons for the bond that has grown strong between us.

These are reasons why you, too, should come to church regularly.

... Upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. Matt. 16-18

Steps to Successful Electric Heating

Electric heating works best and most economically in a home that's insulated for comfort. Good "tight" home insulation protects your home and family from cold, costly heat loss, and unhealthy drafts. It's the first step to a good heating installation. And your summers will be cooler, too.

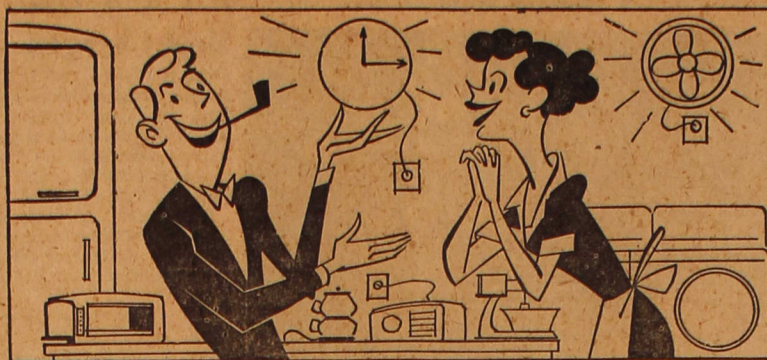

Good insulation means a thickness of at least six inches (or equivalent of insulation) in ceilings, four inches in exposed walls, and two inches in floors, plus storm sash or double glazing and doors.

To plan for electric heating in your home, consult your local electric heating dealer, says West Penn Power Company.

Longest Liner Not Largest

The liner France is the longest liner in the world. Its gross tons are exceeded only by the Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth among passenger ships.

Get the Most from Your Electric Appliances

Modern electric appliances are a blessing to everyone who owns them. But the addition of such appliances might entail a readjustment of the wiring facilities in your home.

Many homes in which modern electric appliances are constantly being added have wiring facilities that are obsolete and under capacity. With a new era of better living electrically on the way, today's modern home should have full housepower.

Full housepower simply means enough switches, outlets, and wires to efficiently distribute electricity to lights and appliances.

Outdated wiring does not mean that the electrician or electrical contractor originally wired your home incorrectly. It means that you have simply outgrown your original wiring system. Take a quick look around your home and count the number of electrical appliances and devices you have added in recent years and it's easy to see why.

Surveys indicate that approximately half of the homes in the United States were constructed before 1925, and the wiring systems were installed when few electric appliances were common in the home. Today, the average family enjoys many times that number of time-and-labor-saving appliances.

As a result, houses built as recently as five or ten years ago will not have the proper wiring to carry the added load. In fact, many of these homes are now suffering from electrical "low blood pressure."

If your house does not have full housepower, there are several irritating symptoms which should make it readily apparent to you. Among them are fuses that blow often or circuit breakers that trip frequently. Perhaps your lights flicker and dim when appliances are turned on.

Toasters, vacuum sweepers, and other appliances may operate too slowly. Radios and TV sets may click and sputter when switches are flipped or motors turned on.

"Octopus" outlets—those ugly conglomerations of wires and plugs where several appliances or lamps are connected to the same outlet—are still another indication of low housepower.

Much home wiring modernization has been going on in the last several months, and many homeowners have found that it is not such an expensive proposition. In fact, it adds much to the value of the home while the extra convenience it provides is beyond measure.

You don't have to know the difference between a watt and a volt to enjoy the benefits of full housepower. Your electrician or electrical contractor will know exactly what is required and will make a survey of your needs.

"We put up with coal—then gas heat—now we enjoy modern ELECTRIC HEATING and COOLING and our electric bill is only $19.28 a month."

... says Tom Hollowood, an electric heating dealer in California, Pa.

The Hollowoods' 20-year-old home was first heated by coal, then with a gas conversion burner, and later by a gas system. In 1959, Mr. Hollowood removed the gas furnace and installed an electric heat pump that heats in winter and cools in summer. "I believe the heat pump is the most efficient, most economical system today," he says. "Our electric bill for heating, cooling, cooking, lighting, washing dishes, washing and drying clothes averages only $19.28 a month, or $231.36 a year."

Ask your builder or heating contractor how economically you can convert to clean electric heat.

The first symptoms of appendicitis include pain, tenderness and spasm in the right lower abdomen, with usually some rise in temperature.

If appendicitis is suspected, it is important that nothing be given by mouth, and laxatives should never be given in such circumstances.

Treatment of acute appendicitis is surgical removal of the appendix as soon as possible.

When the infection is limited to the appendix, there should be practically no deaths from this operation.

The reduction in death from appendicitis with peritonitis has been due to careful postoperative treatment as well as to improvement in surgery.

Appendicitis now kills hundreds where it used to kill thousands.

P. I. A. A. Mat Meet Changed

The date for the 1963 P. I. A. A. wrestling championships at Penn State has been changed from March 23 to March 16, it was announced today by R. J. O'Connell, of Canon-McMillan High, wrestling committee chairman.

The change was necessary as Penn State will use its Recreation Hall, site of the mat meet, for commencement exercises on March 23.

That means the southwest regional tournament will be held March 9 and the four sectional tournaments must be completed by March 1 and 2, according to O'Connell.

Oneidas Get War Benefits

ONEIDA, Wisconsin—The 392 Oneida Indians of northeastern Wisconsin want the federal government to continue paying them a total of $1,800 a year for the aid their forefathers gave the country in the Revolutionary War.

The Oneida tribal council executive committee, which has the power to speak for the members of the tribe, has refused to accept a lump settlement of $60,000 for all claims against the government.

Instead, the council voted to continue to receive the $1,800 annually, which averages out to a little more than $4 for each member of the tribe.

The annual payments originally were made in calico cloth but in the past half century have been paid in cash.

The Department of Indian Affairs turned over $19,800 to the council recently. It represents payments due the tribe since 1951, which had not been made because the government had declined to make out individual checks for small amounts annually. The council committee had insisted on such payments but agreed to accept the amount and handle disbursement.

At the time of the Revolution, the Oneida Indians were members of the Iroquois Confederacy and sided with the colonists, splitting with other tribe loyal to the British.

Game Board Distributes Pheasants; Program Involves Nearly 204,000 Chicks

Shipment of 203,670 day-old pheasant chicks to farmer co-operators and sportsmen's clubs has been completed by the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

The young ringnecks, hatched on four game farms, will be reared to 12 weeks of age by co-operating groups and individuals, then released on public hunting areas throughout the state.

The commission's Western Game Farm at Cambridge Springs produced 89,610 chicks for distribution in Northwestern Pennsylvania.

The Southwest Game Farm at Distant, Armstrong County, shipped 31,865 day-old ringnecks to co-operators in Southwest Pennsylvania while the Loyalsock Game Farm at Montoursville distributed 45,485 chicks throughout northcentral, northeastern and southcentral Pennsylvania.

The Eastern Game Farm at Schwenksville, Berks County, shipped 36,710 day-old ringnecks to co-operating individuals and organizations in northeastern and southeastern Pennsylvania.

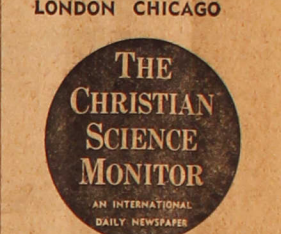

Under the commission's day-old chick program, co-operators are furnished five pounds of feed with each bird. When supplemented with grain, this is enough to rear the birds to 12 weeks of age.

Co-operators furnish brooders, pens and all other equipment needed to successfully rear ringnecks in captivity and must meet certain minimum requirements in pen space and mechanical equipment.

The day-old pheasant chick program was started by the commission in 1945 and has produced more than two million ringnecks for Pennsylvania sportsmen.

Last year 213,455 day-old pheasant chicks were shipped from commission game farms with co-operators reporting almost 90 per cent success in rearing the birds to maturity.

Bulbs Planted Now Can Provide Beauty in Gardens During Autumn

For unusual flowers in the autumn garden there are autumn-flowering bulbs which, if ordered about now, will be shipped in late July or early August for early August planting.

Best known of these is the autumn crocus, Colchicum or Meadow Saffron. It is a crocus-like flower, lavender, rose-purple, pink, or white. It blooms in September and October and is very lovely. But it is not a crocus. It is actually a member of the lily family. C. autumnale is the variety usually available.

If wanted in the garden, plant the bulbs as soon as they arrive, for they will bloom whether in soil or not. Many people set them in an attractive container on the window sill, or elsewhere in the house, and move them into the garden later. They will bloom without soil or water in the house, although the blooms will be better and the bulbs will deteriorate less if planted in peat moss for indoor flowering.

Hardy Amaryllis, or Lycoris, is an autumn-flowering bulb for the garden that bears a cluster of lavender-pink flowers on a tall, leafless stalk.

In the garden, choose a place where their delicate flowers can be enjoyed at close range—perhaps by the terrace or a gate. Ground cover to hide the dying foliage, which will appear next spring, is recommended. Vinca minor (myrtle) is excellent. The foliage must not be cut off. The flowers appear without foliage, and will last quite a while. The bulbs bloom year after year.

Shallow planting is essential. Prepare the soil to about 10 inches, enriching the upper six inches with plant food. Cover the bulbs with no more than three inches of soil.

Another autumn-flowering bulb—not so easy to get, but worth knowing—is Lycoris squamigera or Magic Lily. It is also called Hardy Amaryllis. It may be located by that name. It belongs to the Amaryllis family. The lily-like flowers, pink with a touch of lavender, are borne in clusters at the top of tall stalks during late August and September. The leaves appear in the spring and die down. The flower stalks emerge in August. The bulbs last for years if left undisturbed.

This interesting flower will not bloom this autumn, but, for blooms next autumn, must be planted this year. Bulbs shipped in August should be planted as soon as they arrive, covered with five inches of soil. They also are available for spring planting. Lycoris prefers partial shade and a rich soil. It is very handsome among ferns.

Sternbergia is yet another autumn-flowering bulb for the garden. This is often called Winter Daffodil, and is, like the Lycoris, a member of the Amaryllis family. The dark-green leaves come up in late August, and crocus-like blooms, a glowing orange-yellow, appear in September on stout stems four to seven inches high.

The bulbs should be planted as early in August as possible, about four inches deep, in a warm, sheltered position. Sternbergia is not hardy enough for zones 1 and 2, but with protection will winter over as far north as zone 3.

Coal Company Promises No More Stream Pollution

The Christopher Coal Company of Osage, W. Va., on Monday agreed to a program which will prevent future pollution of Dunkard Creek by dumping acid drainage water from its mine in West Virginia.

Meeting with officials of the coal company were Bert Euliano, fish warden for Greene and Washington Counties; Ralph Garrison of Waynesburg, field engineer for the Department of Health's Sanitary Water Board, and representatives of the West Virginia Department of Natural Resources.

Acid water was accidentally discharged on July 4, killing many fish near Mt. Morris and threatening drinking water in the Bobtown community.

The discharge of acid drainage water was due to a mechanical failure, the coal company stated and that pumping was stopped immediately when it was discovered.

Ernest P. Hall, research consultant for the Consolidation Coal Company, presented Mr. Euliano with a voluntary contribution to compensate Pennsylvania for fish destroyed by the acid water. The money will be used to restock the stream with game fish as soon as the water reaches a level where their survival will be assured.

The Christopher Coal Company has always been cooperative in the prevention of stream pollution, officials stated.

Do You Run Out of Hot Water?

Are you having company for the week end? Will you be able to say nonchalantly, "Take all the baths and showers you like — there's plenty of hot water?" You will have a quick recovery electric water heater. It can supply enough hot water for 100 showers a day!

Only with hot water on tap around the clock can you speed daily chores such as dishwashing, cleaning, and laundering the weekly wash. And the efficiency of such work-savers as the electric dishwasher and automatic washer depends on sufficient hot water.

With a quick recovery electric water heater, a plentiful, never-failing supply of hot water at the temperature you need, is certainly comfort at low cost. No matter how big your washing, how many or few baths your family take, how modern or how old your home and its equipment, it will take care of all your hot water needs dependably, safely, economically, and conveniently.

Only wiring and the water connection have to be considered in installing the modern quick recovery electric water heater. Since there is no flame, no flue or vent is needed. The electric heater can be put anywhere in the home.

Every child knows the reason Jack's beanstalk grew so fast. Magic. Simple, every-day magic.

But there's no magic in the growth here of the natural gas industry. There's no hocus-pocus about the 600 per cent increase in gas heating customers in this area since World War II.

This increase in customers—surpassing any gauge of business growth in the nation—can be attributed to one basic reason: Natural gas brings comfort and convenience into your home at a cost lower than any other fuel.

Jack's beanstalk is a good example of fairy-tale growth. But when it comes to sound, solid growth based on superior service at the lowest possible cost, then you're talking about natural gas.

EQUITABLE Gas COMPANY

Give them a Faith to live by

Worship with them this week

Naturally you want them to have all the good things in life . . . a happy home . . . a good education . . . plenty of chances to meet other nice young people. But be sure to give them the most precious gift of all . . . Faith.

The wonderful part is that faith is yours to give . . . no matter who you are, what you do for a living, how much money you have in the bank.

When you worship with your youngsters they see you—the biggest, smartest, most important people in their world—asking God for help, thanking Him for blessings. Then it's clear to them that here is where you find strength and consolation . . . and here they too can bring their problems.

Teacher Heads State Legion

PHILADELPHIA—Louis Greco, 44-year-old teacher from West Wyoming, Saturday was elected commander of the Pennsylvania Department of the American Legion.

Mr. Greco also is vice chairman of the Legion's National Americanism Committee.

The final day of the convention also featured a parade of 15,000 marchers through the heart of Philadelphia.

Representative James E. Van Zandt fears that other Federal agencies are trying to muscle in on the Veterans Administration (VA).

He pointed to the Budget Bureau and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (H. E. W.) in a speech here today at the Legion meeting.

The State Legion also elected vice commanders including John Garritano of Altoona, for the western district.

Revive Wheeling Creek Watershed Control Project

West Virginia authorities are again considering construction of the Wheeling Creek watershed flood control project as a means of preventing periodic flooding in the Wheeling, Elm Grove and Triadelphia area.

In January 1959, applications for approval of the project were submitted to Soil Conservation Commissions in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, but it was not pushed beyond that point.

The proposed 190,000-acre watershed flood control system would control flooding in Middle and Big Wheeling Creeks by the construction of about 50 dams on a myriad of small creeks which feed the two larger creeks.

More than 100,000 acres of the watershed lie in Greene and Washington Counties.

A network of lakes of 10 to 20 acres in size would be built and would be a recreational advantage to both counties.

The project, which would be financed by federal funds, has been under consideration since 1957. It is co-sponsored by the Soil Conservation Districts of Greene and Washington Counties and the Northern Panhandle Soil Conservation District in West Virginia, which embraces Ohio and Marshall Counties. It's a possible project to be completed under the Federal Watershed Protection Act.

Robert Wilson, district representative of the Soil Conservation Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, spoke at the West Virginia meeting several weeks ago and outlined the way in which the federal government would participate if the project, which already has been declared feasible were carried through.

The federal government would pay for engineering costs and would construct the dams, which cost from $10,000 to $50,000 each. Work would be done by local contractors.

Local sponsors would be responsible for maintaining the dams for a period of 50 years, and would also have to obtain the necessary rights-of way from landowners upon whose property the dams would be constructed.

The dams would become the property of the landowners to use as they see fit, as long as the original purpose of the dams was not defeated.

Cost of maintaining the lakes would probably amount to $8,000 per year, and would be shared by local county and state governments.

Gas Refunds Are Ordered

WASHINGTON—The Federal Power Commission Friday ordered the New York State Natural Gas Company, a wholesaler operating out of Pittsburgh, Pa., to refund $3,965,000 plus interest to 16 nonaffiliated customers and two affiliates.

The order will reduce the firm's rates about $1,540,000 a year. One affiliated company is Peoples Natural Gas Company Pittsburgh.

The order also requires Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Company, a wholesaler supplying some Ohio cities among others, to refund $38.5 million. And the order requires North Penn Gas Company, Port Allegany Pa., to refund $677,500.

The refunds arise from the practice of the Commission, which permits requests rates to go into effect, subject to later adjustment while hearings are in progress.

16th Century Village Site Unearthed

SANTA FE, N. M.—Artifacts possibly dating back to the 16th Century have been unearthed at the site of what is believed to be the oldest Spanish settlement in New Mexico.

Evidence indicates the settlement, San Fabrial del Yunque, was founded about 1598. The site of the old village is near San Juan Pueblo. (St. Augustine, Florida, was founded in 1565).

Archaeological students from the University of New Mexico have unearthed part of a 16th Century bronze candlestick, the top from a bronze vessel and a carving, apparently of bone, which may have been used as a decoration for a matchlock.

Bruce Ellis, director of the historical section of the Museum of New Mexico, said the carving depicts a medieval city.

Don Juan de Onate first settled the area in 1598, according to history of the area, first christening the village Caballeros.

Social Security Tips

By PAUL A. BENNETT

July marks the fifth anniversary of the payment of disability insurance benefits. Today more than a million persons, disabled workers and their dependents, are receiving monthly cash benefit payments of nearly 75 million dollars under the social security disability insurance program. Disability benefit payments became payable in July 1957 to severely disabled workers between the ages of 50-65. Amendments in 1958 made benefits payable to the dependents of these workers. Then in 1960, a further change in the law removed the 50-year age requirement. Benefits are now payable to disabled workers of any age and to their dependents.

On this fifth anniversary of the payment of monthly disability insurance benefits, I should like to invite workers who have been unable to work for six months or more because of a severe illness or injury to get in touch with the local social security district office to find out about their rights under the social security disability insurance program.

For more specific information regarding the disability provisions of the Social Security Act, feel free to contact the local office and as for Booklet No. 20.

J. Rex Morris Named To Farmers Group

J. Rex Morris, Greene County farmer, has been named to the Farmers Home Administration county committee, according to Robert J. Meneely, the agency's county supervisor. The appointment is for three years beginning July first.

The purpose of the county committee is to review applications for E. H. A. loans. Composed of three members, the committee is set up on a rotation basis with one new member appointed each year. Other members of the committee are Guy Smith, R. D. 1, Avella; and James A. Scott, R. D. 3, Burgettstown.

Mr. Morris operates a dairy farm and has been active in agricultural and community affairs for a number of years. He is well known to many Greene County farmers and businessmen.

ONE THEORY OF SALUTE

The presidential 21-gun salute reportedly commemorates the year of American freedom—1776: add one, seven, seven, and six.

Back in wartime 1942, Captain Eddie V. Rickenbacker, World War I flying ace, and seven others managed to scramble aboard life rafts when their military plane went down in a lonely stretch of the Pacific.

Now Captain Rickenbacker is returning for the first time to that lonely Pacific area where he credits his faith in God for his deliverance from an ordeal that lasted more than three weeks.

The eight had no water, and their only food consisted of four scrawny oranges.

For 23 days they prayed with a GI Bible and scanned the skies for rescue planes.

One man passed on. But the others grimly hung on in the broiling Pacific heat.

They caught two fish and also killed and ate a sea gull which landed on Captain Rickenbacker's head just after they had offered a prayer.

When it rained, they used their clothing to soak up water and put it in Captain Rickenbacker's life vest for rationing.

Finally, on the 24th day, they were sighted by two patrol planes and rescued.

After recovering from his ordeal Captain Rickenbacker was off again on his military mission and the adventurous career that has led him from automobile racing to war hero and finally to his present position as board chairman of Eastern Air Lines.

Captain Rickenbacker is currently on a lengthy business and vacation trip to the Orient. On his return by Pan American World Airways, he will take an indirect route that on July 30 will carry him from Samoa to Canton Island.

This is the barren stretch where he and the others drifted in their three small rafts.

Canton Island is the tiny speck of land his military plane overshoot, causing it to run out of gas.

He will remain on Canton a short while and then continue his trip back to the United States.

A source close to Captain Rickenbacker said he had wanted for a long time to see the island he never reached and also the Pacific area again where he spent those 23 long days.

SOUTH STILL RISING

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The state will erect 54 historical markers in the next three years at Civil War sites. The first, set up recently at Frankfort, commemorated the execution in 1864 of four Confederate prisoners in reprisal for the murder by guerrillas of a Union sympathizer.

SAFE DRIVING TIPS

KEEP PENNSYLVANIA "THE SAFE DRIVER STATE"

By Dimming Your Headlights

More accidents occur at night than during the daylight hours. Many of these accidents are caused by drivers who forget or refuse to dim their headlights, momentarily blinding another motorist, making him lose control of his car.

It is both courteous and sensible to dim your headlights when approaching a car that is coming toward you, or when overtaking a car ahead of you. Remember that the courteous driver is also a safe driver.

If every motorist had observed this sensible rule last year, 1,890 accidents, and 22 fatal accidents might have been prevented!

A Decision to be Ignored

When a law is passed, or a court decision made, which is repugnant to the majority of the American people, history shows that it is usually ignored. That is what we expect to happen in the case of the decision of the United State Supreme Court concerning the recital of prayers in schools.

Why the Supreme Court of the United States agreed to hear this case is beyond our understanding. The case was one of protest against the fact that the Board of Regents of New York State had recommended a non-denominational 22-word prayer which might be said in public schools.

But the fact that the Supreme Court did decide to hear the case, and did rule that it was against the Constitutional guarantees of religious freedom to permit prayers of any kind in public schools, brings up innumerable questions for the Court to answer.

If it is against the Constitution to say a prayer in schools (which we do and intend continuing to do here in Pennsylvania), or in any state assembly in order to enforce separation of Church and State; is it legal to have "In God We Trust" on Treasury coins; can Congress and the Supreme Court still be opened with prayer; should we continue to permit courts to "swear in" witnesses on Bibles; should we throw out our National Anthem, and had we better invalidate the Declaration of Independence which speaks of "a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence"?

Fortunately, however, as we were brought up to understand things, the majority of the people in this country are still the final arbiters of such matters, rather than the high court. So, a decision which is entirely unrespected by the 80 million praying people, will be impossible to enforce, until Government Storm Troopers break into the schools and drag pupils off to jail for reciting such anti-American lines as:

"Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and we beg Thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

This was the prayer that caused all the controversy.

Meanwhile, we suggest that increased public attention be given to the highest court in the land—"the nine old men"—who, one day, approves the distribution of obscene books, and then bans the recital of a simple prayer!

Self - Help The Best Help

"The American people will never knowingly vote for socialism, but under the guise of liberalism, they will adopt TVA, Social Security, federal aid to education, public housing, and compulsory health insurance. They will adopt every fragment of the socialist platform, until one day America will be socialist without knowing how it came about."

This is the prediction attributed to Norman Thomas, six-time candidate for president on the Socialist Party ticket. Even before Mr. Thomas' awesome prediction for the fate of America, Lord Chesterfield warned those who faced the problem of "creeping socialism" in these words, "Let us consider that arbitrary power has seldom or never been introduced into any country at once. It must be introduced by slow degrees, and, as it were, step by step, lest the people should see it approach."

For the first 150 years of our existence as a nation, the American people honored the universal truths embedded in our Constitution and built the most powerful, the most prosperous, the most freedom-conscious nation on earth. However, today, the centralization of government has taken government farther and farther away from the people. Government has become so remote that the American people no longer feel they own it—that government is their servant. This lessening of a sense of participation on the level of the people, on the level of the state, presents an open invitation to extravagance and waste, corruption and inefficiency. The removal of government from the direct contact of the citizen gives rise to apathy, discouragement, disgust and confusion among the people. This has created a dangerous climate in the United States—a climate in which the anti-freedom propaganda of the Mistaken flourishes.

When we examine the tactics of the Mistaken—those enemies of freedom who would impose upon a nation their own destructive philosophy—we find that they have first sought to break down self-government within that nation. The reason for this is simple. Where government power is dispersed, it is difficult to subjugate the people. Where government power is centralized, then there is only one seat of authority to be captured, only one army of bureaucrats to be enlisted or replaced. Therefore, a centralized, powerful bureaucracy is in itself a tremendous danger to liberty. And the greatest weapon in the bureaucrat's arsenal is "federal aid." Programs of federal aid tragically decrease the responsibilities of states and the individuals within the states. These programs offer to perform services for the states or local communities which either should not be performed at all, or should be performed by the states or local communities themselves. But let's face it. The temptation to pass the buck of responsibility on to someone else is a powerful one.

We complain about high taxes, and many times it is justifiable. But how can we reduce taxes when we are unwilling to do more for ourselves? The more we receive in benefits from government, the higher the cost and the more of our freedom is lost. As we hear constantly about the need of federal aid to education, medical care for the aged, and aid to practically every segment of our economy, we must realize that the more we shirk our responsibilities, the more help government gives us, the more power it has over our lives. Fortunately, not all people, not all communities suffer from the "gimmee" disease and lack of self-reliance.

For instance, Midland, a city of 30,000 people in central Michigan, needed an expensive sewage-treatment plant. Midland's City Council, evidently made up of people who know you can't get something for nothing, voted unanimously not to ask for a federal subsidy—Midland would do it itself. The same city's Board of Education voted to get out of the federal school-lunch program. The manager of the Midland Chamber of Commerce explained the reasons for all this: "Our whole thought on this is that we should stand on our own feet and pay our own way. Whatever you get from the federal government you get back at a reduced rate. Moreover, you can't get back from the government what it doesn't have. Whatever it provides it must get from the people. When you do it yourself without federal tax dollars, you make your own plans, dictate your own terms and get what you want."

Obviously, the Minnesota School Boards' Association knows this, too. At a meeting of some 1,800 members representing almost every school in the state, the Association voted overwhelmingly its opposition to any more federal handouts to education. The discussion showed that these school-board members found that federal help meant rising costs and controls. They declared that state and local governments should be responsible for support of public education.

Labor unions also realize their stake in our personal enterprise system. Production costs at a tire and rubber plant in Akron were so high that the company was faced with closing the plant and building a newer, more modern plant elsewhere. The only way the Akron plant could be saved was with modernization and increased production by the workers. The union, realizing that moving the plant would mean the loss of a thousand jobs, cooperated. So the company will soon complete a 12-million-dollar modernization project at the Akron plant.

If all communities, school officials, businesses, and unions all over the country would take example from these demonstrations of responsible citizenship and act accordingly, we need not worry about the future of America. But, as one Senator has aptly put it, "If we keep on, the day is not far off when the cities, the counties, and finally the states themselves will be so dependent on Federal money and the Federal administration that they will have become, for all practical purposes, mere subdivisions of the Federal Government."

G. Crago of Chautauqua, formerly of Waynesburg, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, June 30, in Hurlbut Memorial Church in Chautauqua.

Rev. Harry W. Rankin, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church of Houston, Pa., and Rev. Charles S. Aldrich, pastor of Hurlbut Memorial Church, performed the ceremony in the chancel, which was decorated with white gladioli, pink snapdragon, palms and candelabra. More than 400 guests were present.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her brother, William J. Caseber, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor-length gown of white silk organza. The bodice was trimmed with pearls and alencon lace. Her full skirt had jeweled lace appliques and ended in a chapel train. Her fingertip length veil fell from a crown of pearls and she carried a bouquet of white roses, daisies and ivy.

Mrs. George R. Paul of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, a college friend of the bride, was matron of honor. The attendants were Miss Elaine M. Miller of Sharon, Pa., and Mrs. John Meloy of Toledo, Ohio, also a college friend, and Jane Muncie of Washington, Pa., as junior bridesmaid. The attendants wore petal pink linen sheaths and bandeaus with circular veils. They carried baskets of white daisies and sweetheart roses. The flower girl, Kimberly Patsch, cousin of the groom, wore a white organdy dress with a pink sash. The ring bearer was William Penn, cousin of the bride.

William A. Patsch of Pittsburgh, the groom's cousin, was best man. Ushers were Charles A. Patsch of Chautauqua, cousin of the groom; Douglas McCallister of Chautauqua, and Thomas C. Timberlake of Chautauqua, cousin of the groom, as junior usher.

Mrs. Charles W. Cale, organist, played the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Horace D. Penn of Leaksville, N. C.

The bride's mother wore a turquoise chiffon gown with pink accessories. Her corsage was pink roses and white delphinium. Mrs. George Elliott of Chautauqua, aunt of the groom, wore a pale blue nylon gown appliqued with lace. Her accessories were pink and her corsage was pink roses and baby's breath. The groom's grandmother also wore a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

A reception followed in the Truesdale room of the church which was decorated with white daisies, pink snapdragon and chrysanthemums. Aides were Mrs. E. Dale Timberlake, Mrs. Hultz Muncie, Mrs. William A. Patsch, Mrs. Edson Eldridge, Mrs. Taylor Cheeseman, Mrs. Carl Dornan, Mrs. Wallace Campbell, Mrs. Wesley E. Wall, Nancy Cheeseman, Patricia Penn and Stephany Patsch.

Mrs. Hausman is a graduate of the music department of Westminster College, at New Wilmington. She was affiliated with Sigma Kappa sorority. She has been employed as elementary music supervisor in the schools of Hickory Township, near Sharon, Pa., and has directed the junior choir at the Sharon Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Hausman is a graduate of Rider College, Trenton, Ohio, and is employed as a claims representative of the Social Security Administration in their Warren, Ohio, office.

Prior to the wedding, the bride was entertained at a shower given by Mrs. Fulton McKay and her daughter, Mrs. John Meloy of Jamestown, New York; Mrs. T. Hultz Muncie and Mrs. Carl Dornan at Century Inn, Scenery Hill; Mrs. Wallace Campbell of Sharon; Mrs. George R. Paul, Mrs. Stillman Gates, and Miss Elaine Miller of Hubbard, Ohio.

Mrs. E. Dale Timberlake of Chautauqua, the groom's aunt, gave the rehearsal dinner and the wedding luncheon was held in the Chautauqua Country Club.

Out-of-town guests were from Greensboro and Leaksville, North Carolina; Lathrup Village, Michigan; St. Petersburg, Florida; Trenton, New Jersey; New York City; Martins Ferry, Ohio; Finleyville, Canonsburg, Houston, Washington, Sharon and Pittsburgh.

Following a southern trip, Mr. and Mrs. Hausman are at home at 895 Bedford road, Masury, Ohio.

Daughters of 1812 Luncheon Meeting In Denny Home

Albert Gallatin Chapter, United States Daughters of 1812, was entertained Wednesday, July 11, at luncheon in the home of Miss Josephine Denny and Mrs. Helen Denny Howard of West High street. They were assisted by chapter members from Waynesburg—Mrs. Furman Rinehart, Mrs. J. Russell Milliken and Mrs. Lee Frank. There were 22 members and three visitors present.

The luncheon was followed by a literary program with the president, Mrs. George P. Hoover, presiding. The chaplain, Mrs. Raymond P. Hansel, conducted the ritual.

Mrs. Springer M. White read the article on National Defense. She said this year as we celebrate the 186th anniversary of our independence we are greatly concerned over domestic and international problems, but would take courage if we would look back to the year 1776, and remember what the representatives of our colonies had to face—if they were defeated in their cause their lives were endangered, their fortunes and their honor. We, as their descendants have much greater material strength and should face the future with confidence and maintain the spirit of faith that our forefathers possessed.

Mrs. Milliken was leader of the program which consisted of a paper on "The Second War of Independence" given by Mrs. Howard. She stated that the war which began 150 years ago lacked a name. It is only known by a date. We have called it the War of 1812 which is treating it lightly. An older name "The Second War of Independence" should be revived for that, in fact, is what it was.

The American Revolution brought political independence from the mother country, but it did not end America's long involvement in rivalries, politics and wars of the Old World. Those rivalries began with the discovery and explorations of this continent. The young nation endeavored to maintain a neutral policy and to avoid foreign entanglements, but it subjected to orders mainly by Great Britain, which violated their rights and interest. American ships were harassed and hundreds confis-

The coyote, a popular trademark of the West almost as well known as cowboys and Indians, has been moving eastward in recent years. Several have been taken in Ohio, the most recent by Robert Edwards of Irwin, on the Madison-Union County line, according to word received by the National Wildlife Federation. OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

Hi-Fi Jockey

The retirement of Eddie Arcaro earlier this year was timely indeed if the dream of the editor of Radio Electronics Magazine comes to pass. The imaginative editor, a gentleman named Hugo Gernsback, foresees a day when a trainer, instead of "giving a leg up" to a Shoemaker, a Hartack or an Yeaza, will strap a wiry conglomerate of transistors, resistors and tubes on his horse, connect the reins thereto and retire to a point from which he will "ride" his own horse by remote control. The idea is that the robot jockey — which for tradition's sake we hope will be painted in the stable colors and wear a crash helmet on his audio reception tube — will react to voice commands from the trainer. The possibility of a rival stable "jamming" the frequency of one or more of the robot riders presents an interesting potential problem for the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau. On the other hand, a part of the Stewards' chores might be simplified by tape recorder monitoring of the "riding" instructions. Then too, there is the problem of the weight allowance for apprentice jockeys but perhaps that could be solved by giving a 5 pound allowance to robots having only a 10 watt amplifier.

John Deni, Famed Pittsburgh Athlete, Director of Race Walk Here Saturday

John Deni, internationally famous Pittsburgh race walk champion, will be honor guest and director of the National Junior 30 kilometer (18 mile) championship walk race Saturday in Waynesburg.

Besides having competed as a race walker in Olympic games, he has won 26 national walk race championships, has been featured in Ripley's "Believe It or Not" sports cartoon, and has been named to the famous Helm's Track and Field Hall of Fame in California.

Deni will be given a plaque commemorating his many achievements in walking and also designated as an honorary citizen of Greene County just before the walk race starts in Waynesburg Saturday at 1:30 p. m.

The race, unofficially designated as the Waynesburg Rain Day race, is being jointly sponsored by Waynesburg Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Greene County Track Club, as part of the JayCees' Rain Day festival and street fair.

Many of the nation's top flight junior walkers (those who have never won a national junior title) have mailed their entries here. They are coming from Chicago, New York City, Philadelphia, various places in New Jersey, Virginia and Ohio, and one from Toronto, Canada.

One of the entries will be Jim Deni, a nephew of John Deni, and who is considered America's best junior walker in competition today.

Local interest will be added by the appearance of John Harwick of Waynesburg, who organized the Greene County Track Club a year ago; also Dick Morris, Waynesburg high school student, who has competed in numerous races the past year.

Two other Waynesburg boys, John Caldwell and Francis Buckley, will compete in the special five mile race for those under seventeen.

For Deni, it will be his first visit to Waynesburg, and he says he is eager to come here because he has heard of Waynesburg's great sports heritage in football, and high school and college wrestling for more than a quarter of a century.

"It is a pleasure which I am looking forward to with great eagerness," the former Olympian said.

Deni, who is now 59, has been in sports since he was a child. He ran when he was in grade school and into high school, played football on high school and independent teams, played ice hockey and won the Pennsylvania state ice skating championship 17 consecutive times.

He was also a great track athlete and amateur bike rider before he started walking.

Deni, who seems able to master any skill he tries, has won 368 trophies, more than 600 medals, watches, skates and other awards, all of which he has kept.

He has been walking competitively since 1931, including a record making coast-to-coast walk in nine hours (made in Panama) while he was in service there.

In 1948, he was 12th in the Olympics in London against the world's best walkers.

Deni set a new record by walking from Toronto to Hamilton (in Canada) in six hours and 55 minutes. In 1951, when he was 50, he won the 30,000 meters walk at Elizabeth, N. J., in a time of two hours, 32 minutes and 15 seconds, which is the U. S. record for 18 3/4 miles.

Among many other accomplishments was his winning the 30,000 meter national A. A. U. race twice—in 1952 and 1953. In 1951, he took 12 national awards and in the past has often walked around the base paths at Forbes Field faster than the runners could run the bases.

Deni estimates he has walked the equivalent of five times around the world and emphasizes that "there's nothing like it to keep you fit."

In private life he works for the Pennsylvania Railroad and is also an usher at Forbes Field which may explain why there are times when the customers start wondering whether they've dropped into a baseball game or a track meet.

Saturday's race route in Greene County will start at the courthouse square and go west on Route 18 to Sycamore, turn right to a point one-half mile north of Deer Lick and return.

This will be Greene County's first "big time" race walk and it's all for free as the walkers may be followed every foot of the way—but literally—either on foot or in cars.

New Gun Stock Won't Shrink

A gunsmith can certify the accuracy of a rifle when it leaves his shop. But he can't certify how long it will maintain that accuracy because a gun stock can swell, shrink or warp.

Now the U. S. Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, Wisconsin, has developed gun stocks that will not shrink or swell under conditions ranging from the Mohave Desert to outright soaking.

About 1,000 experimental stocks, made from 10 different woods, have been treated and dried in various ways. The perfected methods are available in reports that may be obtained free from the laboratory.

CALCIUM SOURCE

Porcupines, squirrels, rabbits and mice gnaw at deer antlers after they are discarded, to satisfy their cravings for calcium and other minerals.

300,000 Drivers to Take Physicals to Prove Fitness

Three hundred thousand licensed Pennsylvania motor vehicle drivers will undergo examination during the remainder of this year to determine if they are physically fit to go on driving.

At the rate of 10,000 to 12,000 a week they must appear first before the State Police—for eye tests—and then before physicians of their own choice who will determine their fitness under health standards established by the State.

Here is the schedule of examinations according to operators plate number as set up for the next 11 weeks by O. D. Shipley, commissioner of traffic safety.

Operator, plate number and dates, follow:

- 2,156,301 to 2,189,600—July 23 to July 28.
- 3,137,601 to 3,163,500—July 30 to August 4.
- 4,098,501 to 4,117,300—August 6 to August 11.
- 5,117,101 to 5,138,600—August 13 to August 18.
- 6,120,501 to 6,151,600—August 20 to August 25.
- 7,132,001 to 7,142,600—August 27 to September 1.
- 8,120,601 to 8,142,300—September 4 to September 8.
- 9,076,201 to 9,088,900—September 10 to September 15.
- 10,085,401 to 10,102,700—September 17 to September 22.
- 11,064,901 to 11,076,900—September 24 to September 29.
- 12,080,301 to 12,085,700—October 1 to October 6.

The operator plate number appears below and to the left of the signature space on the blue operator's license card.

Upon completion of these examinations, the new list, to begin the week of October 8, will start at Plate Number 159,700 in the first million, at 1,183,900 in the second million, then pick up in each million where the presently scheduled examinations end—at 2,189,600 in the third million, for instance.

The number of drivers examined each week and in each million of the plates in the files of the Bureau of Traffic Safety, Department of Revenue, Harrisburg, will depend upon the number of plates that are "active."

Under the system now being used in selecting the persons who will be examined, only those in a certain million class will be called up each week. As an illustration, those persons whose plate numbers have only six digits—such as 159,700—will be called up the second week of October. Those in the second million, starting at 1,183,900, will come up the next week and so on down the line.

Pennsylvania Game Commission Sets Seasons and Bag Limits on Birds

Hunting seasons and bag limits on mourning doves, woodcock, Wilson's snipe, rails and gallinules have been announced by the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

Executive Director M. J. Golden reported the number of hunting days and the bag limits on these migratory game birds will be same this year as they were in 1961.

The 1962 hunting season on mourning doves will open at noon, Eastern Standard Time, September 1, and close at sunset November 9.

Hunters may bag no more than 12 birds daily, and, after the first day, may possess no more than 24 birds.

Woodcock may be hunted from October 13 to November 21 with a daily bag limit of four and a possession limit of eight.

Shooting hours will be from sunrise to sunset.

The open season on rails and gallinules will be September 1 to November 9, with daily bag limits of 15 and possession limits of 30. The one exception is the Sora rail, on which both the daily bag and possession limits are set at 25.

Shooting hours on these birds are sunrise to sunset.

The hunting season on Wilson's snipe will be October 1 to October 30, with a daily bag and possession limit of eight.

Golden pointed out that on October 27, the opening day of the 1962 small game season, no wild bird or animal may be hunted in Pennsylvania prior to 8 a. m. Eastern Standard Time.

A Federal migratory bird hunting stamp (duck stamp) is not required to hunt doves, snipe, woodcock, rails and gallinules.

Junior Athletes Prep for August 4

Greene track officials have indicated that those participating in their summer program of track and field are preparing for the Waynesburg-Lions Club-Sponsored Junior Olympics August 4 at College Field.

The Junior Olympics meet, which is the Allegheny Mountain Association's 1962 A. A. U. Championships, has events in four divisions for boys and girls: Midget (11 and under), Junior (12 and 13), intermediate, (14 and 15) and senior (16 and 17).

Age group includes running, broad jumping, and softball throwing for boys and girls, ages one through 15. Track club officials will permit 16 and 17 year-olds to compete in exhibition to help them prepare for the Junior Olympics.

Junior Olympics entry blanks are available from John Harwick, 268, South Morgan street, Waynesburg.

The 10 top age group scores follow:

Boys—John Buchanan, Dennis Dulaney, Jeff Tewell, Bob Harwick, Barry Harwick, Tom Cochran, Mike Buckley, Dave Johnson, Larry Phillips, and Mike Dulaney.

Girls—Beth Harwick, Lillian Buckley, Barbara Tennant, Diane Elza, Prissie Tennant, Renee Kerr, Candy Mankey, Ellen Albert, Janet Cosgray and Becky Wilson.

Freddie Shines In Deportment

TUSCALOOSA, Ala.—Freddie, a dog of dubious descent, was assigned a desk just like any other pupil when he began following his young master, Kenneth Fisher, to school.

When school was out, Freddie received a report card. It noted that he was a "true, faithful and quiet pupil" and "always follows rules and regulations."

And it said he passed the sixth grade.

Billion - Dollar Harvest

In many of the 21 states where tobacco is grown, farmers are getting ready to harvest the golden leaf on one and a quarter million acres. Last year's tobacco crop brought a record $1.3 billion to the nation's 800,000 tobacco farm families. The government, which limits tobacco acreage, increased acreage allotments for 1962, so this year's harvest should be even bigger.

Merely stepping off the curb can lead to disaster for a pedestrian. Last year, 26 pedestrians were killed when they tried to cross at corners with no traffic signals. Hundreds more were crippled, bruised or otherwise injured.

Watch your step! If there's no traffic signal at an intersection, look both ways, and be sure you have enough time to get across before traffic reaches you. Beware of that crucial step—the one off the curb.
