Orientation Week At College Runs September 6 to 10

A five-day Orientation Week program—designed for new students—will be conducted from September 6 to September 10, at Waynesburg College, according to Dr. Paul F. Bauer, vice president of Student Personnel Services.

"The purpose of the program," Dr. Bauer stated, "is to enable new students to become acquainted with the college, its physical layout, and the manner in which the college seeks to counsel and aid students during their college days.

"In addition to providing time for placement tests, the program helps new students to become acquainted with classmates, and to gain some insight into collegiate life."

The Orientation Week program is for students attending classes either on the campus or Uniontown Center of Waynesburg College.

Freshman registration begins September 6, and new students will be assigned guides who will take them to dormitories. That evening there will be a dinner in Benedum Hall. Dr. Paul R. Stewart, president, will welcome students. In the evening there will be a movie in Madison Hall.

Placement tests will be given on September 7, and there will be campus tours. All new students and faculty members will be guests of the president at a picnic supper on the campus that evening.

On September 8, students will meet major advisors and there will be demonstration classes. A reception for freshmen and new students in Benedum and Denny Halls.

On Sunday, September 9, a band concert under the direction of James Randolph, will be given on the commons in front of the college.

Local ministers will be guests at supper in Benedum Hall that night and students will meet later in church groups.

On September 10, the student council will hold a welcome with James Lowe, president, in charge.

Extend Grazing Land Privileges

The Greene County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office in Waynesburg, has been notified by the U. S. Secretary of Agriculture that haying and grazing privileges have been extended to November 15, in the 51 drought stricken counties of the state.

The land will have been put under government control again the first of September.

Downward adjustments will be made in payments to farmers where these lands are grazed or from which hay is cut.

Greene was one of the counties declared a distressed area due to the drought several weeks ago.

About two inches of rain fell in July and there were two showers late Sunday night, but several days of soaking rain are needed to bring relief.

Local Man Ends West Penn Service

John H. Taylor, a veteran Waynesburg area employe of West Penn Power Company, retires this week after nearly 40 years' service with the local electric firm.

Mr. Taylor, who resides on Cherry street, joined West Penn on January 2, 1923, in Washington. He worked with a line crew there until 1933, when he transferred to Waynesburg as a foreman. Since 1947, he has been a serviceman, working the last two years out of the new Jefferson district headquarters building.

A member of the Waynesburg Odd Fellows Lodge, and the First Christian Church, he is looking forward to an active retirement with emphasis on hunting, fishing and gardening, his main interests.

Evidence of a state-wide political shakedown scandal from which the Democrats hope to collect in excess of one million dollars has been released by Congressman William W. Scranton, the Republican candidate for Governor.

Scranton made his charges and announced details of the Democrat conspiracy in a speech delivered Saturday night at "Republican Day" of the Centre County Grange Fair.

He charged that Governor Lawrence's administration has issued orders that each of the more than 17,000 employes of the State Highway Department is to contribute two-weeks' pay to the Democrat campaign war chest.

At this rate the total take would be in excess of one million dollars.

Mr. Scranton released details of what he called a "shocking conspiracy" including a schedule of seven meetings of highway superintendents from all over the state at Democrat State Headquarters, 510 North Third Street, Harrisburg.

He demanded that the Attorney General's Office begin an immediate investigation. But, he added, "If Governor Lawrence's white wash squad closes its eyes to this conspiracy, as it has closed its eyes to so many other Solvency or Insolvency?

Our National Debt

The tragedy of our national debt situation today is that our political leaders, our government planners, and many of our thinkers are spreading the idea that government owes its citizens a living and complete security. No thought seems to be given to cost. No mention is made that our children and our grandchildren will be saddled with payments on our national debt—a debt largely brought about to afford us a measure of security which we should be willing to earn for ourselves and on our own. Billions of dollars have also been wasted in a vain attempt to buy the friendship of nations in every quarter of the globe. Foolish and poorly administered programs of aid have brought us not friendship but ridicule. Sound-thinking leaders of many nations believe Uncle Sam to be the most gullible of characters to be found anywhere, completely without judgment in the handling of his money.

It should be noted here that the dollar as a basic medium of exchange no longer has the confidence of financial leaders throughout the world which it once merited.

There are really only three alternatives for this nation to follow. Burdened as it is by an astronomical debt, it will be hard no matter which course is chosen.

The government can continue—God forbid—to offer more and more welfare programs and security programs. If this is done, the ultimate result will be a complete takeover by the government of all means of production and we will have legislated ourselves into state socialism. The planners are moving toward the time when mounting taxes and increased government restrictions will so hamstring private enterprise that it cannot function successfully. Then, in the name of public welfare, the government will step in and operate business and means of production. That would, indeed, be a tragic end for this land of freedom.

The second alternative is no less dangerous. Faced by a mountain of debt and the inability of our leaders to balance the budget as statesmen should, the government can ultimately repudiate its debt and go into bankruptcy. When any individual repudiates his debts it immediately casts doubt either upon his honesty or upon his ability to manage his affairs. The same would be true of our nation.

The communists have predicted that we will spend ourselves into insolvency, and fall into their hands without a struggle. We may be on that very road to destruction today.

The third alternative—hard but necessary if freedom is to survive—is for our government to realize the path down which our politicians are leading us and put a stop to the growth of welfare statism, to irresponsible foreign aid, and to the continued growth of big government.

If we are to survive as a free nation, we must balance the budget and begin the long and arduous task of paying off the mountain of debt already facing us. It will take the tightening of belts and genuine statesmanship. It will require courage and sacrifice on the part of both people and leaders, but it will maintain our national honor and respectability. Above all, it will return to us a measure of individual freedom.

To pursue any other course is to betray the heritage of our children. It would play into the hands of our communist enemies. It would be immoral.

To put it bluntly, following any other path than that of financial responsibility would be completely un-American.

Dilworth Deplores Negro Quality; Hamilton Replies

Former Mayor Richardson Dilworth, Democratic nominee for governor, Monday criticized the leaders of both political parties in Philadelphia for advancing unqualified candidates for offices in Negro areas.

"The caliber of some of the candidates advanced by both parties in these areas has not been a credit to either party and was an insult to the Negro people," Dilworth asserted.

Dilworth, during a luncheon meeting at the Bellevue - Stratford, designed to organize Negro civic and business leaders behind his candidacy, said however, that as registration of voters of that racial group increases, the level of candidates in their areas will improve.

Republican City Chairman William H. Hamilton of Philadelphia, on Tuesday accused former Mayor Richardson Dilworth of publicly insulting Negro candidates for public office.

He called upon Dilworth to make a "public apology" to those candidates in Negro areas.

The Republican leader, in a letter to Dilworth, said the remarks of the Democratic nominee for governor "were unfortunate" and that nothing could be "further from the truth when you say that the colored Republican nominees for Congress, State Senate and State Legislature are unqualified to represent citizens of their respective districts."

"Each and every candidate on our ticket was chosen by Republican voters in a primary election," said Hamilton, "therefore your insulting remark is even offensive to the voters."

Better Fluoride Is Developed

The U. S. Navy has developed a fluoride compound that is four times as effective in fighting tooth decay as compounds now on the market, says Dr. Robert E. Morrow of Spokane.

Dr. Morrow, president of the Washington State Society of Dentistry for Children, was speaking at the Pacific Northwest Conference on Dentistry for Children.

He said the new fluoride compound will be released soon to dentists for application to children's teeth. Dr. Morrow said 700 children were treated with the Navy development more than three years and 90 per cent developed no new cavities.

U. S. Food Bill To Average $398

WASHINGTON—The average American will spend $398 for food this year, compared with $392 in 1961, according to government figures.

The higher food bill will reflect more marketing services such as packaging and pre-cooking and slightly higher prices paid to farmers.

Waves of Protest Hit Gift of Yacht To Haile Selassie

WASHINGTON—Several members of a House Appropriations subcommittee are worried these days—ever since the United States gave Emperor Haile Selassie what some of them call a "yacht," complete with air conditioning and gold-colored wallpaper in his stateroom.

The ship actually is a converted seaplane tender, which the Navy took out of mothballs. It cost the taxpayers three million, one hundred thousand dollars to remodel the vessel and train a group of Norwegian mercenaries as sailors to man her.

In closed-door testimony made public Sunday, Representative Otto E. Passman, Democrat of Louisiana, chairman of the House Foreign Aid Appropriations subcommittee, described the ship as a "floating palace."

One thing that's worrying the lawmakers was voiced by Representative John J. Rhodes, Republican of Arizona, at the same hearings.

"Are we going to have to furnish a flagship for every ruler around the world now?" asked Rhodes. "This gets to be a matter of pride."

Foreign aid officials said they hadn't gotten any more requests yet. But they conceded the ship was given to Ethiopia as a "political consideration."

Representative Silvio O. Conte, Republican of Massachusetts, said he was concerned why the United States apparently was spending so much money on a ruler instead of little people.

"How do you think these people feel about the emperor and his government being given

WASHINGTON—For radio hams with ideas of tuning in on Telstar's signal, the word from Washington is "Don't try it!"

In its journey from the communications satellite to the ground, the signal diminishes from 2½ watts to about one-trillionth of a watt. Only the most powerful receivers can hear it.

Air Conditioner Offers Weather Control

Just a few years ago, most everyone would have chuckled heartily at the idea that humans one day would be able to control weather at the push of a button or the flick of a switch.

Today that's just what a modern electric room air conditioner provides — fingertip weather control all summer long. All the laughing now is being done by happy families enjoying complete comfort in rooms equipped with air conditioning units.

Electric room air conditioners do more than just cool the air. Here are some of the other im-portant benefits they offer:

Room air is scientifically de-humidified, doing away with damp discomfort, and the an-oyance of clinging clothes.

Room air passes through filters that remove dust, dirt, soot, smoke, pollen and lint. Al-lergy sufferers feel better, and walls, furniture, floors, curtains, and draperies stay cleaner longer, resulting in less house-work.

Today's room air conditioning units are designed to permit air flow to be shifted in any di-rection, resulting in complete com-fort control in any portion of the room.

With a room air conditioner in operation, windows are kept closed against outside noises—ideal for older people, invalids and children who nap in the afternoon. Dispositions are bet-ter throughout the entire family when nerve-jangling noises are blocked out. Today's room air conditioners contribute to the quiet and relaxation by opera-ting almost silently.

On cooler days the unit can be operated without cooling. Air is filtered, freshened, and circulated throughout the room. This is an especially valuable feature at parties.

Summer appetites perk up magically when a home is equipped with room air condi-tioners. Children feel like eat-ing the food so necessary to their health and good growth, and adults are less inclined to turn up their noses at foods they need to maintain health and energy.

Nationwide Ring Of Counterfeiters Hunted By U. S.

WASHINGTON — Secret Ser-vice Chief James J. Rowley re-ported Saturday that a nation-wide crime ring has moved into counterfeiting.

He said it is passing bogus money through a clever, far-reaching and fast-moving distri-bution system.

Increases in arrests by Secret Service agents for counterfeiting, theft of Government bonds and forgery of Government checks is part of "the rising tide of law-lessness reflected in the general crime picture throughout the country," Mr. Rowley said in an annual report to Treasury Secre-tary C. Douglas Dillon.

"The growth of cooperation between all levels of law en-forcement agencies has been the one bright beacon in the other-wise dark crime picture," he said.

Mr. Rowley linked "a group with nationwide connections" to a million dollars in counterfeit $10 notes seized in New York City last February 8.

It was the largest domestic seizure in the 97-year history of the Secret Service.

He said the same group was behind six other issues of phony $10 bills passed along the East-ern Seaboard.

The Secret Service's primary responsibility is protecting the President and his family, and the Vice President. Mr. Rowley said these duties were executed in the fiscal year ended June 30 "with-out significant incidents."

Archaeologists Find Abraham's Altar In Excavation of Old Testament City

AMMAN, Jordan — American archaeologists have unearthed remains of the ancient biblical city of Shechem, a religious cen-ter dating back nearly 2,000 years before Christ, the Jordan Antiquities Department an-nounced Sunday.

The department said the team —from the American School of Oriental Research at Jerusalem —had ended seven week's ex-cavation at the site, near Nablus, about 45 miles northwest of Amman.

Shechem is mentioned in Judges, Chapter Nine, as having been destroyed by Abimelech.

The excavators reportedly found a great processional road leading from the lower city to the earliest temples . . . and a massive altar topped by a huge flat stone.

One part of the building was believed to be a shrine at which the patriarch Abraham wor-shipped.

Under the floor of a "magnifi-cent building, almost certainly the palace of the city," the ex-cavators found the grave of a small child buried in a pottery jar, wearing a bead necklace and surrounded by funeral offerings in delicate pottery vessels.

The department said Shechem was an "important adminis-trative center of the northern Israelite kingdom."

Four levels of houses dating from the Tenth Century before Christ provided a vivid picture of daily life in the biblical city, with drainage and terraces.

Among finds was a small tablet inscribed in the cuneiform (wedge-shaped) writing of the late Assyrian period. It bore a list of royal titles of an Assyrian deity, probably the sun god Shamash.

The department announced that archaeologists from the Re-search School and from the Uni-versity of Pennsylvania had made other finds in the village of Gebeon, near Jerusalem.

They included dwellings, a water well with pottery jars, and plates and spears in ancient graves, all dating to the Bronze Age.

Optimist or realist?

Someone once said that the world has two big kinds of people—the optimists and the realists. The optimist is the chap who's so busy looking for the end of the rainbow that he splashes in all the puddles along the road. The realist, who avoids the puddles, can't see the rainbow because he's never looking forward more than a few steps at a time.

But we think there's another type of person active today. He's a good person. He's realistic enough to miss the puddles. Yet his vision passes far beyond the rainbow and the bounds of the earth. For he has the vision of immortality. This man is the church member.

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me hath everlasting life.
St. John: 6-47

Your neighborhood and community churches are developing this man. They are proving to him that religion offers a practical way of life that can be lived and enjoyed in any lifetime. And they are also presenting the full promise of the Bible that touches life with splendor, meaning and hope.

That is the promise of everlasting life. Are you trying to become such a man? If so, you'll find that your regular church services offer a guide for purposeful living based on the simple precepts and teachings of an understanding God. Not only optimist. Not only realist. Your church will make you both . . .

A Three to One Majority

Two lovely girls and the proud mother of one of them would seem to be enough subject matter for one photo, but here a beaming father has gotten in the act. He is State Senator Raymond P. Shafer of Meadville, Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor, and he doesn't mind in the least being outnumbered here, saying it is when votes are counted on November 6, that he wants to have a plurality in his favor. At left is Crystale Lee Martin of Milton, Miss Pennsylvania of 1962, who is admiring a Republican campaign dress worn by Diane Shafer, 19, the candidate's oldest daughter. Mrs. Shafer is at right.

Sycamore Resident Celebrates 80th Anniversary

Mrs. Thesie Smith Ray of Smith Acres, Sycamore, was honored at an open house Sunday afternoon, August 26, in celebration of her 80th birthday anniversary. Eighty-five friends and relatives attended. The serving table was centered with a tiered birthday cake topped with a vase of miniature pink rosebuds. She received many flowers, gifts, cards and telegrams.

Mrs. Ray was born at the Smith homestead where she now resides. The quiet manner of living which she now enjoys belies the active and exciting years that she remembers. A graduate of Waynesburg College Department of Music in piano and organ in 1903, she taught piano in various Greene County communities, travelling by buggy, dog cart, or on horseback, depending on the depth of the mud.

After her marriage to Ward L. Ray in 1910, she and her husband lived for one year in Germany, where Dr. Ray attained his Ph.D. in chemistry at the University of Berlin, and Mrs. Ray continued her study of piano. They also travelled extensively throughout Europe. Then ensued 40 years of campus life in which, as wife of a college professor, Mrs. Ray lent her talents and energy to musical, educational and community activities.

Since the death of Dr. Ray in 1950, in Waukesha, Wisconsin, where he was head of the chemistry department of Carroll College for many years, Mrs. Ray has divided her time between her Sycamore home and her residence in Florida.

To insure the continuation of their devotion in the fields of education and music, Mrs. Ray has endowed the Ward L. Ray Chair of Chemistry at Waynesburg College, and also provided a substantial endowment to the college for "The Service of Music."

Mrs. Ray is a member of Bates Fork Baptist Church, the Society of Mayflower Descendants, the Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Order of the Eastern Star.

Hostesses at the birthday reception were Mrs. W. N. Everly, Mrs. Albert Goslane, Mrs. Raymond Thompson, Mrs. John Grim, Mrs. Raymond Nuss, Mrs. Clyde Smith, Mrs. John Throckmorton, and Mrs. Wayne Miller.

WHEELING, West Virginia—Wheeling Downs, scheduled to open on Friday, September 7, and run through Saturday, October 20, for 32 nights of thoroughbred racing, will be dark on Monday nights throughout the entire meeting, it was announced here.

James F. Edwards, president of Waterford Park, and operator of Wheeling Downs, stated that the decision to close on Monday nights came about out of respect to Wheeling businessmen, who for years have kept their establishments open until 9 p. m. on Mondays.

Post time for the entire meeting has been set at 8 p. m. every night and there will be eight races on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights, and 10 on Fridays and Saturdays.

Plans are also being formulated to hold an Appreciation Day at Wheeling Downs toward the end of the meeting.

It has also been announced that the Wheeling Downs stable area will remain open throughout the winter, starting with the opening of the fall meeting and continuing until spring when Waterford Park opens for its 1963 sessions.

Racing returns to Waterford Park on Saturday, October 27, one week after the closing at Wheeling, and will continue through Saturday, December 8. Post time for the Waterford fall meet has been set at 1:30 p. m. daily and Saturday.

A winter meet is being planned for Wheeling Downs, starting around the end of December and running through the entire month of January. The grandstand and club house are being completely winterized for the comfort and convenience of the patrons during the cold season.

The summer meeting, now in progress at Waterford Park, will continue through Labor Day. Post time is 4:15 p. m. daily except Saturday when a 2 p. m. post is in effect.

Plans are also being formulated to hold an Appreciation Day at Wheeling Downs toward the end of the meeting.

Be Sure You Get Official Game Digest

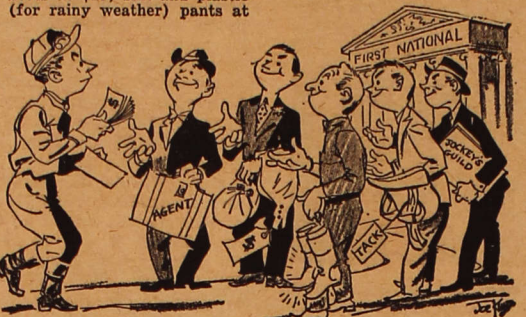

Every person who purchases a license to hunt or trap in Pennsylvania this year will receive an "Official Digest of Pennsylvania Hunting and Trapping Laws and Regulations." Printed in dark blue ink, this pocket-size folder contains answers to most questions asked about firearms, bow and arrow hunting, possession and transportation of game, bounty payments, licenses, and current hunting seasons and bag limits. The new size for this official digest was adopted last year so that it can be kept right with your hunting license tag.

Be sure you get your copy of this "Official Digest" when you purchase your license from the issuing agent. The list of hunting seasons and bag limits are not printed on your license tag—but they can be found in the pocket folder "Digest".

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day A "Rewarding" Career

As one jockey put it: "It beats driving an elevator or toting luggage", but it is not so that a race rider spends his out-of-the-saddle time at the deposit teller's window at the bank. The jockey too has some expenses. First, he pays his agent, the man who gets his mounts, $7 for a winner and $4 for a mount. In stakes, he usually has a percentage arrangement. The jockey also pays his valet, the man who takes care of his "tack", usually $2 a mount and $4 a winner. The jockey also buys his riding equipment; everything except the silk jacket provided by the owner. This includes saddles at $100 or more each; several pairs of boots at $25; silk and plastic (for rainy weather) pants at $15 to $20 each; whips, several at $15; lead pads, in which slabs of lead are inserted to bring the jockey's weight up to that assigned the horse, $20; girth and surcingle, each set $22.50. Even so, race-riding provides a potentially lucrative profession for a man who otherwise might be handicapped job-wise because of his size. The modern-day jockey has insurance coverage paid for by the race tracks and the Jockey's Guild, and the Guild is currently working on a retirement program. The young man with courage, ability, integrity and the will to work hard for several years before donning silks, will find it a rewarding career.

Duck Season to Open on October 20; Bag Limits, Hours Set for Pennsylvania

The 1962 hunting season for ducks and coots in Pennsylvania will open October 20, and close December 8.

The season for geese and brant will start October 10, and end December 8, except in Crawford County where the geese and brant season will run concurrently with the duck season.

On the controlled shooting section of the Pymatuning Goose Management Area in Crawford County, the waterfowl shooting season will begin Monday, October 22.

The shooting hours on October 20 for all waterfowl will be 12 noon, Eastern Standard Time, to sunset, and on October 27, opening day of the small game season, 8 a. m., E. S. T., to sunset. On all other days of the waterfowl season the shooting hours are sunrise to sunset.

On October 20, all hunting, except for archery for deer, is unlawful prior to 12 noon, E. S. T.

The daily bag limit for ducks is two and the possession limit after the first day is four, except that the daily bag and possession limit may include one hooded merganser. In excess of the above limits, two additional scaup ducks are allowed in the daily limit and four additional scaup ducks in the possession limit.

Again in 1962 there is no open season on canvasback and red-head ducks as in the previous two years. The daily bag and possession limit of coots is six.

American and red-breasted mergansers are not included in the bag limits for other ducks. They have a separate bag limit of five a day or 10 in possession, either singly or in the aggregate.

The daily bag limit for geese (except snow geese) is two, except in Crawford County where the Canada Goose daily bag limit is one and the possession limit after the first day is four. The daily bag and possession limit for brant is six.

In addition of a 1962 Pennsylvania hunting license, a Federal Migratory Bird Hunting Stamp is required to hunt waterfowl. The $3.00 "duck stamp" is sold at most Post Offices. This stamp is not required to hunt migratory birds other than waterfowl—doves, rails, gallinules, snipe and woodcock.

Shooting dates, hours and limits for migratory birds are set within the framework established by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Because of the continued drought in the primary duck production areas and lower duck populations as compared to some previous years, the 1962 season, shooting hours and bag limits for ducks are comparable to 1961.

Your Health Pennsylvania Medical Society

The eye is vulnerable, particularly if struck by a well-aimed fist.

Such an injury often results in contusion of the soft parts around the eyeball, known as a black eye.

Ordinarily a black eye is not serious.

The discoloration can be limited by applying cold water or a cloth dipped in cold water and rung out.

If there is any loss of vision from a blow to the eye, whether or not the eye becomes discolored, medical aid should be sought.

Detachment of the retina is a more serious involvement of injury to the eye and frequently results in blindness.

Chemicals damage the eye by injuring the eyelids, conjunctiva, and cornea.

The extent of damage depends on the nature of the chemical and the length of time the substance is allowed to remain in contact with the eye.

Immediate washing with water or other non-irritating fluid is important.

Lacerations of the eyelid, which do not involve the eyeball or injuries to adjacent parts of the eye, are sutured as soon as possible.

Laceration involving the eyeball itself is more serious and presents problems.

The injured eye in such cases is immobilized immediately to prevent, as far as possible, future complications.

The possibility of a foreign body in the eye is present in all cases of eye injury.

Proper emergency treatment in severe eye injuries should not be delayed.

The general practitioner usually is the first to professionally observe an injury, and he directs his efforts toward preventing further damage until the patient is seen by an ophthalmologist.

Olympic Site Rising In Forgotten Valley

INNSBRUCK, Austria—A narrow, nearly forgotten valley deep in the Austrian Tyrol is rapidly taking shape as the site of the alpine events of the 1964 Winter Olympics.

Scores of workers and bulldozers are busy building a modern highway to connect the "Hoadi"—small heath—with this Tyrolean capital. It is expected to be finished in December.

The Hoadi was discovered two years ago by Friedl Wolfgang, secretary general of the 1964 Olympic organizing committee. It was then accessible only by a narrow path from the village of Axamus.

Already a new ski jump on Berg Isel has had its first test. Another rehearsal is scheduled for December 30 during the annual Austria-German jumping tournament.

The organizers also are trying to get the 1963 world bobsled championships which have been awarded to West Germany. The Germans may approve the change of venue.

Stars Growling Over 162 Ball Games; Red Schoendienst Defends Schedule

NEW YORK—There's plenty of growling among the players about the current 162-game schedule in effect in both major leagues and the cockeyed travel required to make playing dates on time.

The New York Mets have had several such, as have most of the other clubs.

Some critics of the 162-game schedule, as opposed to the 154-game chart in effect when both leagues had only eight clubs, insist the extra duty, extra travel, night games, twi-nighters and make-up doubleheaders are putting too much of a physical strain on all the athletes.

Just as certain players couldn't sleep on trains, so there must be plenty who have trouble sleeping in daylight after an all-night plane ride.

Club owners indicate they're not about to slash their schedule to 153 games, a workable deal with 10 clubs providing a few days off to catch up on rest.

You can't blame the owners entirely for wanting to keep the extra games on the schedule, expenses being what they are. But if it is going to reduce the effectiveness of the players—and perhaps shorten their careers—it doesn't make sense.

It's a fight that's only beginning.

But, says Red Schoendienst of the Cardinals, the old days weren't much better.

"Remember those trains? Some guys never could get used to sleeping on them. At least now you're flying you can get some sleep in a regular bed.

"We pulled into New York the other morning at seven after a night game at Houston and went right to bed. We had a night game scheduled that night so there was plenty of time for a good rest."

At 39, Schoendienst no longer is a regular who has to drag his bones through that 162-game schedule at nine innings per game but he does make the trips and has to stay sharp as a pinch-hitter deluxe.

Red, you may recall, was kayoed by tuberculosis while playing for the Braves. Shortly after the end of the 1958 season, the disease was detected and he was out of uniform until September of 1959. He never made it all the way back with the Braves and returned to his original club, the Cards, in 1961.

Schoendienst went to camp this spring as a coach but showed such great form he was placed on the active list on the eve of the official league opener.

Most players, however, don't share Red's view of the hodge-podge travel that turns days into night.

The Yankees' for instance, had a nifty one last week end. After a game at Los Angeles, Thursday, they headed for Baltimore and arrived at 6 a. m. They faced a twi-night doubleheader Friday, a doubleheader Saturday and a single game Sunday. The Orioles won all five contests.

Scranton Charges Democrat Party With 'Shakedown' of Highway Employees

The decision to make this completely illegal drive is a measure of the desperation of the Lawrence Administration in this campaign. It cannot permit control of the Commonwealth's government to pass from its hands, and Lawrence will go to the limit to prevent it."

Mr. Scranton explained that Dauphin County has jurisdiction since the meetings to set up the illegal conspiracy were called for Harrisburg, the Dauphin County seat.

In the seven meetings of district highway superintendents at Democrat headquarters, he charged that every county in the state, except Philadelphia, has been involved.

"Boss Green (Congressman William Green, Democrat chairman of Philadelphia) is evidently demanding the right to handle the Philadelphia shakedowns on his own," Mr. Scranton said.

The Republican candidate announced the names of Democrat officials whom he said told the highway superintendents at an August 14, meeting that every employe of the department must kick back two-weeks' pay. He said they included Democrat State Chairman Otis Morse; Secretary of Highways, Park Martin; Governor Lawrence's patronage chief, Robert H. (Pop) Jones, and Secretary of Property and Supplies Andrew Bradley.

Mr. Scranton charged that "the wholesale use of illegal shakedowns to finance my opponent's campaign is further proof that if he were ever elected governor, the graft and corruption and scandal he allowed in his Philadelphia administration would be transferred to Harrisburg."

In describing the operation of the shakedown conspiracy, Mr. Scranton said:

"Orders have been issued by Governor Lawrence's administration that every state highway employe, whether or not he is covered by the Hatch Act, must give two-weeks' pay to the Democrat war chest.

"The actual collection of the money has been placed in the hands of the state highway superintendents in every one of the 67 counties, except Philadelphia. In each district, specific highway department employes have been ordered to pick up the collections and deliver them personally to the Democrat State committee headquarters in Harrisburg, Democrat county chairmen are being passed by as unreliable.

"These shakedowns are not only a violation of state law, they also violate the Federal Hatch Act, since the Department of Highways receives each year millions of dollars in Federal funds that are spent for highway administration and construction.

"The plan was decided upon three weeks ago out of desperation after the usual 'voluntary' political collection system had broken down.

"Word has been spreading through the Department of Highways that my opponent's campaign has begun to fall apart. All over the state, people are saying, 'It's time for a change.' Many highway workers, particularly those with civil service status, have refused point blank to put their money behind the cause of the protector of graft.

"An overwhelming number of the career employes of the Highway Department are genuinely concerned about what will happen to Pennsylvania, if the Philadelphia system of shakedowns is transferred to Harrisburg. They want no part of it. Neither do thousands of other sincere state employes, regardless of political party.

"The decision to make this completely illegal drive is a measure of the desperation of the Lawrence Administration in this campaign. It cannot permit control of the Commonwealth's government to pass from its hands, and Lawrence will go to the limit to prevent it."

Highway Lifesaver

The head-on collision, deadliest of all automobile accidents, is being steadily eliminated on highways protected with tough steel median guard rails which separate traffic moving in opposite directions. The celebrated Pennsylvania Turnpike, shown above, has just passed the halfway point in a program to install median guard rails over its entire length.
