Gallatin Bank To Open Office In Waynesburg

The Comptroller of the Currency of the United States has granted approval for the Gallatin National Bank to open an office in Waynesburg.

Releasing the announcement Tuesday afternoon, Paul Malone, president of Gallatin National Bank, stated: "We are happy indeed to be able to come to Waynesburg, and shall do our utmost to serve the banking requirements of the people and business firms of this area. We will take an active part in all community affairs."

Mr. Malone also announced that Gallatin National intends to build a new, modern banking room with drive-up facilities. Provisions for free parking for customers is also planned.

The new bank is hopeful of opening temporary quarters on High street within sixty days, moving to the new building upon its completion.

The Waynesburg office will become the second office in Greene County for Gallatin National Bank. Since December 10, 1955, the bank has maintained an office in nearby Jefferson with assistant cashier Harry F. Enstrom as manager.

Gallatin National Bank also maintains offices in Uniontown, Brownsville, Connellsville, Dawson, Fayette City, Meyersdale, Mount Pleasant, New Salem, Perryopolis, Point Marion, Republic and Salisbury. The opening of the office in Waynesburg

Cuban Exiles Tell Of Red Buildup

MIAMI—Castro Cuba was depicted as a secret hotbed of Soviet-bloc troops and missile installations in a joint report by four major Cuban underground groups.

The 20-page statement released in Miami Friday said that more than 10,000 foreign troops have landed; large missile bases will be completed in 60 days; and Cuba thereafter will join the Warsaw Pact, the Communist counterpart of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Signing the report were leaders of the People's Revolutionary Movement, National Recovery Movement, Christian Democratic Movement, and Revolutionary Unity.

The exile leaders said that when troop landings in Cuba are completed, the island nation 90 miles from Florida will be garrisoned in the west by Chinese, in the central portion by Russians, Hungarians and Czechs, and on Isle of Pines by Africans. They said missile bases under construction in Cuba will have a striking range up to 400 miles.

Mint Sets Record For U. S. Coinage

WASHINGTON—The United States Mint established a new record for coinage during the 1962 fiscal year.

Eva Adams, director of the Mint, reported that for the 12 months ending June 30, 1962, the coinage mints at Philadelphia and Denver turned out 3,674,724, 142 coins, of which 3,460,524,142 pieces were domestic and 214, 200,000 were for foreign governments.

The value of the domestic coinage was $143,311,430, the highest on record.

Paging Senator! No, the Dog

PHOENIX, Ariz.—Some Arizona newcomers moved into a Phoenix foothills subdivision. On their first morning, their dog, named Barry, ran off.

When the woman's calls caught the ear of a neighbor, he asked if she was calling him. The neighbor was Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.).

HARRISBURG—With a vigor and spirit surprising to many political oldtimers Pennsylvania Republicans have plunged into the final seven weeks of the November election campaign.

The impetus for the final election drive came in a rip-roaring kickoff in the home town of the nominee for Governor, Congressman William W. Scranton, and is mounting as the five Republican State candidates carry their campaign into 19 counties, touching all four Pennsylvania boundaries.

Praising Scranton's record in public service as a soldier, as special assistant to the Secretary of State in the Eisenhower administration, and as a first-term congressman with a remarkable record of accomplishment, former President Eisenhower said Scranton's "knowledge, and his faith in the capacity and spirit of Americans, will transform and brighten the economic outlook of Pennsylvania from the moment he sits down at the Governor's desk."

Although most of his "kickoff" speech was devoted to a positive "Program for Progress" for Pennsylvania, Scranton also made rapier thrusts at the Democrats' record. He indicted the Lawrence administration in one word "failure." Describing the Democrats' candidate for Governor as Lawrence's handpicked choice, Scranton dubbed his opponent "the clown prince of failure."

"The record of the Democrats at Harrisburg," Scranton said, includes "failure" to fight against unemployment, build the school system, cleanse rivers and streams, conserve natural resources, "falling in law enforcement" and "falling us by overtaxing and underserving."

"Pennsylvania," Scranton said, "has slid backward in the last eight years while Democrat administrations in Harrisburg and in Philadelphia have peddled influence, protected corruption, sold licenses, and built a fantastic period of graft and civic dishonor."

The Democrats' "failures at Harrisburg," Scranton promised to cure when Governor. In addition he outlined in his "Program for Progress," these positive pledges: additional funds to education and to teachers' salaries; a "sensible" system of school reorganization; a modern State highway system; make "civil rights" more than a slogan; build in Pennsylvania "a good industrial climate;" cooperate with local governments; keep faith with older citizens; "pick up the pieces of the medical care plan" and "take Governor Lawrence's pauper's oath out of this act;" better treatment of farmers and a Milk Control Commission not "riddled with politics;" and "achieve real progress in such fields as conservation, mental health, public health, recreation, fields wholly or partly ignored by the present administration."

Nick George Flies In on His Mother

Mrs. Leo George of Morrisville, was happily surprised one day last week when she answered her door and there stood her son, Nick of Edenton, N. C. George, a pilot in the Marine Air Corps during World War II, was enroute home from Chicago where he had visited his brother, Bill George, linebacker on the Chicago Bears.

He was accompanied by Dr. Richard Hardin and Joseph Thor, and had gone to Chicago because Bill George's daughter, Cynda Sue, was to undergo surgery the next day.

They had made the trip in Dr. Hardin's Bonanza plane and had landed at the County Airport just a short distance from the George home. All returned home in the afternoon.

Nick George has the distinction of being the only pilot to ever land a bomber at the County Airport. The runway is considered too short for such a takeoff but needless to say he made it.

The Philadelphia Inquirer Says:

Dilworth Slurs State Court

It is appalling that Richardson Dilworth, speaking as the Democratic nominee for Governor of this Commonwealth, has denounced the Pennsylvania Supreme Court as "lousy."

This was a deplorable and inexcusable slur on the highest echelon of the State judiciary by a veteran campaigner who ought to know better.

Mr. Dilworth said, on Saturday at University Park: "Unless you have been a lawyer in Pennsylvania you don't realize how lousy the Supreme Court has been down through the ages."

That is not, in our opinion, the kind of language suitable for use by any aspirant to public office.

When you consider the dedicated people who, through the years, have served on the Pennsylvania Supreme Court with all their energy and their wisdom, the bald injustice of Mr. Dilworth's remark becomes apparent.

It has been our hope that Mr. Dil-worth, even though he has been unable to do so in previous campaigns, could control his sharp and unbridled tongue in this race for the Governorship. Evidently he cannot. Using the word "lousy"—a favorite term of his—to describe the Supreme Court must set a new low in campaign vernacular.

We do not imply that the Pennsylvania Supreme Court and other courts should be immune to criticism. There may well be valid grounds for criticizing the courts, now and in the past. But denouncing them by sweeping epithet is neither justified or prudent. Mr. Dilworth has brought discredit to himself rather than to the State Supreme Court.

It seems to us that Mr. Dilworth owes an apology to the Justices of the State Supreme Court to atone, insofar as is possible, for the insulting blow he has dealt not only to the present members of the Court but to the memory of the many illustrious men who have served before.

Dilworth Blast At Court Shocks Bar Leaders

PHILADELPHIA—The attack on the State courts by former Mayor Richardson Dilworth drew a shocked reaction Sunday from Ernest Scott, Chancellor of the Philadelphia Bar Association.

Scott said the Democratic gubernatorial nominee displayed "poor grace" in charging the courts were partisan Saturday in answering a question following a speech.

Another prominent figure in the Philadelphia bar, Laurence H. Eldredge, former chairman of the Bar Association's Board of Governors, called the Dilworth speech "outrageous" and urged that the association take steps to have the candidate "disciplined" by the State Supreme Court.

In an appearance before the Pennsylvania News Broadcasters Association in University Park, Pa., on Saturday, Dilworth said the Pennsylvania Supreme Court has been "lousy" in the past and that the State courts have "a long-time record of being completely partisan."

Dilworth also suggested that the special grand jury probe in Philadelphia—now under study by the State Supreme Court—had the look of a lynching.

Coal Pipeline Plan Approved; Railroads Protest

WASHINGTON—A proposed pipeline to transport coal from West Virginia to power plants on the eastern seaboard had the blessing of Interior Department experts Saturday.

In a report prepared for the President's panel on civilian technology, the experts declared that such a pipeline would be a boon to the entire coal industry. The report admitted that the mining industry in central Pennsylvania might lose a portion of its utility power market temporarily if the pipeline was built, but predicted that the increasing demands for energy would provide additional business to make up the deficit.

The report showed that West Virginia provided about 62 per cent of the 15,600,000 tons of coal used by eastern power plants during 1960 with the remainder coming from the central counties of Clearfield, Cambria, Clarion, Indiana and Somerset.

The experts said such a pipeline could handle about nine million tons of coal per year.

The study said that because of the low sulphur content of Pennsylvania coal, it might be feasible to build a spur pipeline into the central Pennsylvania area.

The low sulphur content reduces air pollution, an important consideration in the big eastern cities.

Eastern railroads had vigorously protested the plan saying they would lose business.

Open House for G.O.P. As Van Zandt Speaks

CONGRESSMAN VAN ZANDT

President Asks To Call Reserves In Double Crisis

President Kennedy has again asked Congress for power to call up the Army Reserves to meet a tense international situation.

He acted as a result of the Soviet build-up in Cuba and the mounting tension over Berlin—although they were not mentioned in the request Friday, and in the wake of mounting congressional concern that he was not being tough enough, particularly in regard to Cuba.

It was just over a year ago that President Kennedy asked for and received authority to call 250,000 reservists to meet the Berlin crisis Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev was then fostering.

It was only a month ago that these reservists and national guardsmen brought to duty then were sent home.

That the President only asked for power to call up 150,000 ready reserves does not mean the present international crisis is less serious than that of last fall. Since then the Army has established two new divisions and added to the strength of others.

Thus while the President is asking for a smaller manpower build-up, he is not thinking in terms of a smaller military machine.

Congress is expected to give the President authority for the call-up. Immediate congressional reaction was one of support for the President in his request.

Under that request he could not call these men up for more than 12 months, nor could he call up those involuntarily ordered to active duty last fall.

Among diplomatic quarters in Washington the President's action was seen as a psychological bid to impress Soviet Premier Khrushchev that the United States is determined to stand as firm on Cuba and Berlin this year as it was to resist threats to Berlin last fall.

That an act of such resolution appeared successful last year had much to do with persuading the President that similar forthright action might bring similar results this year.

High School Dropout Earns Less Money

CHICAGO—A youngster who quits high school loses on the average, $46,364 in lifetime earnings, a study of United States Labor Department figures shows.

Commerce Clearing House, a private organization which reports tax and business law, said official statistics show the average high school graduate earns $257,557 in his lifetime.

But those quitting high school earn only $211,193 in the same period—a 22 per cent reduction.

Named Supervisor In Jackson Township

Henry Robinson, Jr., of Holbrook, R. D. 1, was appointed Monday to complete the term of the late Carl R. Hughes as a member of the Jackson Township Board of Supervisors. The term will run through December 1967.

James E. Van Zandt of Altoona, Republican candidate for United States Senate, will address a Republican rally Wednesday night, September 24, at 8:00 in the Waynesburg Veterans of Foreign Wars Post Home on East Lincoln street.

Mr. Van Zandt, who has been a member of Congress from the 20th District of Pennsylvania for 20 years, is a veteran of both World Wars and the Korean Conflict. He joined the Navy as a raw recruit on April 29, 1917, and was assigned to duty on convoy service. During World War II, he was a commander and while in the Pacific was officially commended for his accomplishments as commander of LST Group 19. He was released with the rank of captain, U. S. Naval Reserve. During the Korean Conflict, Congressman Van Zandt served two months of combat duty in 1952. In 1960, he was placed on the retired list of the Naval Reserve with the rank of rear admiral.

Representative Van Zandt has served two terms as commander of the V. F. W. of Pennsylvania, and is the only man ever elected national commander of the organization three times.

Mr. Van Zandt's record in Congress shows that he has been present 97 per cent of the time, which is one of the best in the history of that body.

He has served on numerous standing, special and joint committees, which have identified him with Merchant Marine and Fisheries, Patents, Immigration and Naturalization, Veterans' Affairs, Armed Services and Atomic Energy. In addition to his committee work, Mr. Van Zandt has taken great interest in the fiscal problems of government and his Congressional District, and has been active in enactment of many public laws of far-reaching significance.

Congressman Van Zandt will fly here Wednesday afternoon and land at the County Airport. All are urged to attend this meeting.

Doctor Draft Considered

WASHINGTON—The Defense Department warned recently it may have to resort to the doctor draft again unless it gets enough volunteers to make up an expected shortage of about 1,000 general practice medical officers.

The shortage is forecast for the fiscal year starting next July 1. It cuts across all the armed services.

Last year the Pentagon drafted about 1,100 doctors and about 200 dentists. Most of these were needed to meet the suddenly increased requirements growing out of the Berlin crisis military build-up.

Before that, the Pentagon had not resorted to a doctor draft since 1957.

Republicans Gain In Registration

E. Bryan Jacobs, chairman of the Republican Committee of Greene County, said Wednesday that new registrations which ended Monday, September 17, indicated a change in the political thinking of the people of the county.

He noted that new registrations since the spring primaries are 350 Democrats to 194 Republicans. While this still gives the Democratic Party a heavy plurality, Mr. Jacobs points out that the ratio in new registrations is 1.8 to 1 as compared to 3.5 to 1 in the spring primary. In fact, in new registrations, the Democrats out-gained the Democrats in nine precincts, he stated.

Pine Tree Cones Worth $2.50 a Bushel

HARRISBURG—Find a squirrel that collects pine cones, and you could make yourself a bundle of money.

"For some time now the squirrels have been cutting down from trees white pine and Norway Spruce cones that will shortly open and deliver their seed.

"The seeds will be used in the production of millions of seedlings grown during the coming year."

State foresters hope to collect several thousand bushels of cones. Nurseries accepting cones are: Dague Nursery on Route 153 between Clearfield and Penfield, Clearfield County; Greenwood Furnace Nursery, Route 305 near Belleville, Huntingdon County; Mont Alto Nursery, at Mont Alto, Franklin County, and Penn Nursery on Route 322 near Potters Mills, Centre County.

'Good Business Climate' Platform Is Adopted for GOP Campaign

The Republicans are first in the field with a platform for the coming election campaign. The short platform with 23 points was adopted in Pittsburgh during the weekend.

The Democrats will present their platform in Harrisburg on Sept. 20 prior to the $100 per plate fund-raising dinner with President Kennedy as guest of honor.

Rep. Albert Johnston, of Smethport, was the chief architect of the Republican program for 1962.

The first point stressed under the heading of Industrial Development and Unemployment, was the creation of a "good business climate."

The provisions called for "fair and equitable tax policies in the cost of doing business in the state; a sound fiscal policy and reduction in the cost of government; fair treatment to all in legislation affecting labor management relations and administrative relations."

Other "planks" in brief: TAXES: "Unalterably opposed to State wage or income tax... improved tax collections and a better business climate under Republican administration will greatly increase revenues from existing taxes."

PAYROLL: "The State payroll has increased by 21,840 new workers to the staggering total of 82,000 persons. We believe that stern economies and the elimination of obsolete and overlapping functions will result in savings totalling millions of dollars."

LABOR: "One potential source of strife is the so-called Right to Work law and we oppose its enactment."

EDUCATION: "The hastily enacted school district organization law is unworkable... We will approach the problem from the direction of giving greater consideration to local desires subject to education, quality and needs."

HUMAN RELATIONS: The 113-member state committee approved a promise of strict enforcement of the Fair Employment Practices laws and the Fair Housing Act, and also to support the proposed amendment to the Constitution outlawing the poll-tax.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT: "The Republican Party opposes the trend toward concentration in the state and Federal governments. We will support laws which will increase the power of cities, boroughs and townships to govern their own affairs."

STRIP MINING: "We will support the strengthening of our present strip mine control act. We will require adequate and safe back-filling to contour and eliminate land blight and restore land use... Before granting any new permits to strip mines we will require the posting of a bond sufficient to protect the state and landowner fully against damage."

URBAN AFFAIRS: The GOP platform builders called for a new state department of community development to aid metropolitan areas with special attention to be given to mass transportation.

STATE GOVERNMENT: The state committee recommended a "fair and equitable redistricting of the state Senate and House based on the 1960 census."

ELECTRIC SERVICE

Nothing like it... for usefulness, for value

Who works hardest in your house? Chances are, Mother thinks she does... Dad thinks he does... Junior knows he does.

But what about your electric service? Ever count all the jobs it does? You'd probably be surprised, because most people have no idea how much good living electricity brings. Or how economically.

No doubt about it. Low-cost, dependable service is your biggest value. Just as it is for the 140 million customers the country over served by investor-owned electric light and power companies like this one.

My Church and I

Sometimes I think all of us take our churches too much for granted, just as we take our American democracy so much for granted because we have grown up under its privileges, its protection, it guarantees of our freedom.

Yet just this morning as we walked down the street toward the clear ringing of the bells of our church, I thought, "What if all this were taken away? Would it make a difference in our lives?"

And I thought of my husband, who looks forward to attending church each Sunday—and of the inspiration, high ideals and abounding faith his church has given him that he may face life squarely and honestly.

I thought of my daughter—ready to do her part to bring peace and brotherhood to the world because her church has convinced her that life without either would be worthless.

I thought of myself, and all that my church means to me. It makes me a part of something strong, clean and decent; it gives me courage to face life's temptations, and to do what I know is right; it builds my faith into an ever-present comfort in adversity; it illumines my life with love, and blesses it with happiness.

I thought of the millions upon millions who are my comrades and friends this morning all over the world, because they too, walked into the doors of their churches, for their hour with God.

These are reasons why my church exists. These are reasons for the bond that has grown strong between us. These are reasons why you, too, should come to church regularly.

Upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. Matt. 16:18

Haiti, only 10 miles from Cuba, is described by King as a "frightened land" with "voodoo drums, mahogany factories, lush little hotels with swimming pools and the lowest standard of living in the Western Hemisphere." Ruled by dictator Francois Duvalier, it is "seething with political chemistry."

"If Cuba does attack in the Caribbean," King observes, "Haiti would be a very logical target." He notes that to tourists, it is a happy land of cheap rum and bargains; to Cuba, an overripe plum; to the United States, a headache "as we attempt to keep in office through sizeable bequests a dictator who rules by terror" lest he turn to Russia for aid.

The Dominican Republic, 50 miles from Cuba, is classified by King as "the confused neighbor" operating in a vacuum since the death of dictator Rafael Trujillo 18 months ago. The phone book lists more political parties than night clubs, hotels or dentists, political signs and

KDKA's Ed King Reporting on 'Hot Backyard'

Ed King, KDKA radio personality who this month visited the Caribbean islands, is reporting on "The Hot Backyard" this week, from 5:05 to 5:10 p. m. on KDKA Radio.

King has made more than a dozen trips to the area and covered the Castro revolution and Cuba under Communism in recent years.

In his newest series, he is discussing the attitude of certain Latin American lands toward the United States and Castro and evaluating the place of each in the Cold War struggle.

Puerto Rico is benefitting financially from the out-of-bounds status of Cuba, King reports. "The playboys and girls who used to take the one-hour flight from Miami for a touch of foreign clime and action in Cuba now can make it to San Juan in two hours to the plush hotels, the restaurants, the casinos," he says.

Puerto Rico wants no part of Castro, but does not like being used as a launching pad by the Cuban exiles.

In its U. S. commonwealth status with no taxes and no vote in Congress, Puerto Rico is likened by King to "a big boy trying to earn his own money, trusted with his own latch key, but still living at home."

Trinidad, which achieved independence on August 31, "probably enjoys the best standard of living" in the Caribbean, according to King. If the former English possession joins the Organization of American States, "it could well tip the balance between the pro-American nations and the frightened don't-rock-the-boat neutrals," a strong bargaining point, according to slogans are painted everywhere, and the country is "bursting at the seams with political fervor." What King found there reminded him of "another scene, very similar, in Cuba: the fall of Batista." Cuban exiles train in the Dominican Republic, but Castro defenders also are there.

Most of the persons whom King talked to during his Caribbean visit, could not get excited about the Alliance for Progress, the program for economic growth and social improvement.

"They are polite," King says. "They think it is a noble experiment, but a generation too late."

In fact, Teodoro Moscoso, the alliance coordinator, has a sign over his desk reading: "State your business quickly. We are already 25 years late."

AN OPEN LETTER TO EVERY MOM AND DAD

It comes as a shock to most parents to know that the physical fitness of our youngsters has declined steadily in recent years.

It is a shock because statistics tell us that today's boys and girls are taller and heavier than those of a generation ago. But physical fitness isn't measured in pounds and inches. Rather, it's measured by strength, flexibility, agility and endurance—in which a large number of our youngsters are deficient. This has been confirmed by many studies.

Blame us, the parents—not the children. We, in our sedentary ways, haven't convinced them of the value of total fitness: sound minds in sound bodies.

We've made another mistake, too. We've seen to it that our school athletes—the ones who need it least—have the best of everything to develop their physical skills. But the vast majority of our children—the ones who need it most—have received scant attention in most communities.

It's time we made physical fitness a primary objective for all children as part of their educational development. Not for mere muscle-building or the training of more athletes, but simply for physical fitness and all values that go with it.

As Special Consultant to the President on Youth Fitness, I urge you to find out what your child's school is doing to develop physical fitness. At the very next meeting of your PTA, act in behalf of your child's physical fitness!

Waynesburg College Yellow Jackets will clash with Geneva Saturday night at 8:15, at College Field, in the opening game of the football season.

In the offensive line-up, as given by Coach Pete Mazzaferro, there will be a total of nine returning lettermen. They have a total of 19 letters earned.

"We feel that we have a good defense this year. Last year, the Geneva game was lost on defensive errors," stated the grid mentor.

Bob Pekarsky has been moved to tackle, and at the other tackle is a freshman, Harry Mills. Harry looks "very promising" in the words of Coach Mazzaferro.

In his outlook on the Geneva game, Waynesburg's home opener on Saturday, Coach Mazz feels that it will be "a real tough game and it could go either way."

However, Geneva Coach Byron Morgan has said that it is the most inexperienced team that he has coached. "But this is no sign. We must always respect them," replied the Waynesburg football coach.

This is a West Penn Conference game.

Overall Waynesburg has four stars returning. Fullback Paul Stanek, conference M.V.P. in 1961, heads the veterans. Honorable mention selections were guard Bob (Rock) Eckley, center Gene Arrigoni, and quarterback Jim Laurent.

Geneva has first-team Bill Dixon back in action.

Twelve games—divided up between five clubs—make up the 1962 West Penn Football Conference schedule.

Defending champion, Westminster, plays every opponent for a full five-game slate. Geneva, St. Vincent, and Waynesburg play four games and Grove City, three.

Two other conference members—Duquesne and St. Francis—do not field grid teams. Carnegie Tech has dropped from the conference this year, but Tech's games with WPC foes will count for its opponents.

League standings are based on points with two for a win and one for a tie. Three games are required for consideration in football.

Action starts with Geneva visiting Waynesburg on September 22. Final league games will be played November 3, with Geneva at Grove City and Westminster at St. Vincent.

Measles still cause from 500 to 600 deaths a year in this country.

One of the most contagious of infectious diseases, measles principally attacks children but may afflict persons of any age not previously attacked by the virus.

The disease is marked by a rash, inflammation of the eyes, and cough.

Following an incubation period of about eleven days, measles appear with fever, malaise, muscle pains and headache.

There is also sneezing, coughing, and nasal discharge.

In the preliminary stages, small bluish-white spots appear on the inner mucous membrane of the cheeks and lips.

These are known as Koplik's spots, tell-tale indications of measles and named after an American pediatrician, Dr. Henry Koplik, who first identified the spots with the disease.

The rash of measles follows the early stages in from four to seven days, first appearing behind the ears or on the face as a blotchy skin disorder.

After about five days the rash fades away.

The fever of measles, which frequently reaches 103 degrees, usually lasts for about six days.

The cough is often the last symptom to disappear.

Uncomplicated measles is seldom fatal and complete recovery is the rule.

Deaths from measles are almost always the result of pneumonia, occurring principally in children below the age of five; with heart failure a frequent cause of death in patients over fifty years of age.

While there is no specific treatment for measles, the administration of convalescent serum or gamma globulin during the period of incubation may prevent or modify the illness.

Game Commission Warns Hunters

An increase over last year in the number of non-fatal accidents involving woodchuck hunters during the summer months is causing concern among Game Commission officials.

According to John Behel, the Commission's Hunter Safety Training Co-ordinator, a total of 34 accidents have been reported so far in 1962, plus two fatal injuries.

Last year the total for the entire 12-month period was 20 non-fatal accidents and seven fatalities.

Behel pointed out that even though interest in woodchuck hunting wanes during September, there are still many Pennsylvania hunters afield for a last crack at the popular game animals before they go into hibernation.

He emphasized the severe penalties which can be imposed on hunters responsible for accidental shootings. Under the Game Law any hunter who shoots at a human being in mistake for game can be fined between $100 and $300.

In addition, his hunting license can be revoked for two years from the date of conviction. For wounding a human by mistake, the penalties involve a $200-$500 fine, a jail sentence of not less than one year nor more than three years, and a five-year license revocation.

Hunters, who kill another person in mistake for game, may be fined $500-$1,000, serve a two to five-year jail sentence, and have their hunting license revoked for ten years.

Most woodchuck hunting accidents are caused by hunters failing to properly identify their targets, even when using scope-equipped rifles. "Almost all accidents of this type could be avoided," Behel said, "if hunters would wear fluorescent, bright orange or red hunting caps and vests. We strongly urge all hunters to take a few additional seconds to make sure of their target, as well as a safe back-stop, before they fire. You can't recall a careless bullet."

dents are caused by hunters failing to properly identify their targets, even when using scope-equipped rifles. "Almost all accidents of this type could be avoided," Behel said, "if hunters would wear fluorescent, bright orange or red hunting caps and vests. We strongly urge all hunters to take a few additional seconds to make sure of their target, as well as a safe back-stop, before they fire. You can't recall a careless bullet."

Behel pointed out that even though interest in woodchuck hunting wanes during September, there are still many Pennsylvania hunters afield for a last crack at the popular game animals before they go into hibernation.

He emphasized the severe penalties which can be imposed on hunters responsible for accidental shootings. Under the Game Law any hunter who shoots at a human being in mistake for game can be fined between $100 and $300.

In addition, his hunting license can be revoked for two years from the date of conviction. For wounding a human by mistake, the penalties involve a $200-$500 fine, a jail sentence of not less than one year nor more than three years, and a five-year license revocation.

Hunters, who kill another person in mistake for game, may be fined $500-$1,000, serve a two to five-year jail sentence, and have their hunting license revoked for ten years.

Roman Reservoir Used in Jordan

WASHINGTON—Julius Caesar got full though belated credit Monday for helping to provide water for the thirsty people of modern Jordan.

The engineering skill of the ancient Roman conquerors turned up in foreign aid testimony before a House Appropriations Subcommittee.

As told by William S. Gaud, chief aid administrator in the Near East, American experts got the idea of reviving some of the old Roman cisterns and wells in the now arid land.

They started digging and excavating and came across an enormous Roman reservoir which will hold 30 million gallons of water, Gaud said.

The ancient cistern was in perfect condition, Gaud said "and for a total cost of $17,000, we got a little aid from Julius Caesar."

He told the subcommittee that the cistern is now in use, irrigating a large part of Jordan.

Alf Landon, 75 Has Busy Day

TOPEKA, Kan.—A six-mile horseback ride, telephone calls from friends and a family party kept former presidential nominee Alf M. Landon busy on his 75th birthday recently.

The voices and laughter of two daughters and 10 grand children filled the large white house near the Kansas River where Landon and his wife live.

Landon carried the Republican banner in the 1936 presidential election.

is another step in the growth of this old and well established financial institution, which has served the banking needs of Southwestern Pennsylvania for more than sixty-six years.

State G. O. P.

Senator Hugh Scott detailing Scranton's unusual first-term record in Congress, said personal contacts convince him the gubernatorial nominee "sees the problem, rallies the forces, and quickly reaches a solution," and as Governor can "serve the people of his State with even greater effectiveness than he has had in Washington."

Van Zandt contrasted his own 20 years in Congress and Senator Clark's less than six years, and derided his opponent's effort to "seize a mythical advantage" by claiming it important he be re-elected because of Senate seniority. "But the truth is," Van Zandt said, "that he is a freshman Senator with a thimbleful of seniority that doesn't amount to a hill of beans."

The intensified character of the Republican campaign is apparent in the 19-county itinerary of the State nominees this week. While Congressman Scranton was in Philadelphia Monday night for the campaign debate with his Democrat opponent over a statewide television and radio network, his four running mates opened the week's campaign in Luzerne County. Scranton and Mrs. Audrey R. Kelly, nominee for Secretary of Internal Affairs, appeared together at large regional conferences of women Tuesday in Easton, Wednesday in Lancaster, and Thursday in Hershey, with Van Zandt joining them Tuesday and Wednesday.
