The Philadelphia Inquirer Says:

But How Many Democrats?

By JOHN M. CUMMINGS
Reprinted by Special Permission

In view of Bill Green's recent assurance that President Kennedy will deliver a campaign speech in Philadelphia it is pertinent to ask:

How many Democratic members are necessary to provide the Administration with a working majority in Congress?

It is not an irrelevant question, nor is it asked in any spirit of flippancy. Take a look:

In the Senate at this moment there are 64 Democrats and 36 Republicans, a Democratic majority of 28.

The House roster shows 262 Democrats, 174 Republicans, a Democratic majority of 88.

Yet you find the President declaring publicly that to save the bills comprising the Administration's legislative program "we need more Democrats elected to secure their passage." He made this statement to a welcoming group at the Harrisburg-York airfield when he arrived there recently to address a Democratic fund-raising rally.

In any two-chamber legislative body, the party with a 28 vote majority in the Senate and 88 in the House could be expected to subscribe to the program and principles laid down in its platform.

Since President Kennedy and the Democrats in Congress were elected on a platform adopted by the Democratic National Convention two years ago, you are constrained to wonder at the plea of the President for "more Democrats."

And the wonder grows when you recall the oft-repeated boast that the Democrats have the only all-American party. The Republicans, you are told, have no worthwhile strength in the South and in the North they are sometimes divided on ideological issues.

The fact of the matter is that the South, with all its Democrats and the almost unanimous Democratic delegation this section sends to Congress, is the sore thumb of the party. No doubt it is the reason President Kennedy is appealing for more Democrats in Washington. He wants them to come from Northern, not Southern States.

Whether they come from the North or the South the 64 members of the majority party in the Senate and the 262 in the House are Democrats. They were elected as Democrats, and the Southern members by reason of the seniority that comes from long service, are chairmen of the most important committees in each chamber.

If the Democratic President can't do business with a Congress overwhelmingly Democratic, how many Democrats does he think necessary to attain his desired end? Would he settle for a Congress 80 percent Democratic in both chambers, or would he insist on a completely one-party legislative body?

Frank E. Radovich, 43 years, Fairbank, second victim of Tuesday night's explosion in Robena Mine No. 2, died Wednesday night in Uniontown Hospital.

J. L. Dunham, 61 years, of Leckrone and a foreman in the mine was killed instantly Tuesday evening after suffering severe burns over most of his body. Dunham had been an employe of the company since 1929.

Radovich suffered third degree burns of the chest, face, legs and arms. Two other men injured in the blast, Charles Miller, 46, of Carmichaels and George McKenzie, 48, of Edenborn are both still listed in critical condition at the hospital.

The explosion, believed caused by an accumulation of methane gas touched off by a cutting machine, occurred in the new Long Shaft located about five miles west of Carmichaels. It was the cause of the first fatal accident at the mine since it opened in 1946.

There were no other injuries although a fifth man had just walked away when the explosion rocked the area. Several hundred miners following tradition ceased work for the remainder of the shift. Robena employes some 1,100 men in three different shifts.

Van Zandt Hailed As Red Battler

HUNTINGDON — Representative James E. Van Zandt was described Saturday as a leading fighter against communism.

This came from William Tepsic of Brentwood, Western Pennsylvania chairman of the Veterans for Van Zandt-Scranton Committee.

Addressing a rally here, Mr. Tepsic charged that Mr. Van Zandt's opponent, Sen. Joseph S. Clark, "has a long record of appeasement."

"He has voted for assistance for countries which aid communism, voted against loyalty oaths and voted to give the President discretionary power to provide economic aid for any Communist-dominated country other than the Soviet Union," said Mr. Tepsic.

"These votes indicate to me," said Mr. Tepsic, "that he holds in low esteem those who have fought for their country."

Flu Warning Is Renewed

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Health Department renewed its warning today about the possibility of an influenza outbreak this winter.

The cycle of recent outbreaks points to the winter of 1962-63 for another epidemic, Secretary Charles L. Wilbar Jr. said.

Recent epidemics were in 1957-58 and 1960.

Based on that pattern, Wilbar said, the state is overdue for another outbreak.

He advised immunization for persons of all ages suffering from debilitating diseases of the heart and lungs.

"The disease is more apt to be serious in those persons over 45 and pregnant women," he added.

U. S. Rates High In Unemployment

WASHINGTON—Any way you figure it the United States has a high unemployment rate compared to other major industrial nations.

This is the conclusion of a six-member presidential committee appointed to study employment statistics.

The findings, released today, set to rest reports that the U. S. employment picture might look better if judged by the yardstick used in other countries.

The committee, headed by Dr. Robert A. Gordon, professor of economics at the University of California, made the first comprehensive international study of employment statistics in the process of trying to find out what's wrong with the U. S. figures.

The most recent Labor Department report put the U. S. unemployment rate at 5.8 per cent. The committee noted that the unemployment rate in France is about 1.1 per cent.

Midwest Display Treasures Of Versailles In Chicago

Marie Antoinette and King Louis XVI, mother and father of these beautiful children, were beheaded in the French Revolution. Their home, the magnificent palace at Versailles, near Paris, is now a world-famous tourist attraction and museum of history.

For the first time the French government has allowed a priceless collection of paintings and furnishings to leave Versailles for foreign shores. One hundred eighty-four pieces, insured for more than three million dollars, will go on display in The Art Institute of Chicago on Oct. 6.

The exhibition recalls 200 years of French history from the glittering court of Louis XVI to the reign of Louis Philippe, "Citizen King." Courtiers, priests, generals, architects, writers and the women behind the Bourbon kings seem to breathe again in life-size portraits. Immense paintings record the conquests of Napoleon and glories of his empire.

The famed wealth of Versailles is dramatically recovered with Gobelin tapestries, Savonnerie carpets, inlaid cabinets, and chairs created by the famed Jacob family. Two apartments of queens will be reconstructed with furniture, carpets, paintings and objects of art and decorated wood paneling that has been in storage for a hundred years.

The exhibition in Chicago (October 6 through December 2) inaugurates the Art Institute's new Morton Wing. The wing completes a ten million dollar construction and rejuvenation program carried on in the past six years.

Following the eight weeks' showing in Chicago's Art Institute, the exhibition will travel to the Toledo Museum of Art, the Los Angeles County Museum, and the California Palace of The Legion of Honor, San Francisco.

Where is the schoolboy who, according to Shakespeare, "crept like a snail unwillingly to school"?

Why, that individual now rides swiftly along in a smooth-rolling bus that carries him right to the door.

It is a warm bus, a comfortable bus.

It is prepared to be a safe bus. The school bus driver has two main responsibilities.

He must drive carefully.

He must maintain discipline.

In selecting the driver of a school bus, the basis is his qualification as to dependability, good habits, knowledge of road rules, etc.

Parents and teachers can help make the bus safe by insisting that children observe certain rules of conduct.

They should not pester the driver with needless questioning and chatter.

They should not extend arms or heads out of the windows.

They should not get on or off the bus while it is in motion.

Motorists are warned to drive carefully when a school bus is in front of them.

When a school bus has stopped, with flashing signals, to load or unload children, ALL traffic must stop.

People should remember that children often run in front of the school bus to hurry across the road.

All school buses are painted bright orange, the better for all to see and know them.

Everyone should help to keep the school bus service safe.

West Penn Wins Safety Awards

West Penn Power Company received two safety awards at the Pennsylvania Electric Association annual meeting last week in Pittsburgh. In addition, the local utility figured prominently through presentation of the meeting's keynote address by president S. L. Drumm, and the election of vice president Raymond W. Hurd as second vice president of the association, membership in which includes 20 investor-owned electric companies in the state.

One safety certificate award came to West Penn as the result of a 43.4 percent improvement in safety performance for the year ending June 30, 1962, as compared with the preceding year.

West Penn also received a certificate for a period of more than 1,700,000 man-hours without a lost-time accident.

Statewide, a new all-time safety record made by Pennsylvania Electric Association companies resulted in an accident frequency rate that was more than 50 percent better than the total rate for all utilities in the nation during the past year.

How Many Democrats?

get answers to these questions when he comes to town in response to an urgent call from Bill Green. It should be kept in mind that Green, as the party chieftain in Philadelphia, is fearful a pronouncement he made last winter may come to pass on Election day: "Dilworth can't win."

Over the objection of Green and due almost entirely to the influence of Governor Lawrence, former Mayor Dilworth was nominated for Governor. Registrationwise, the party is dominant in Pennsylvania. Yet there is the mortal fear that Dilworth, because of his unsavory record in handling the graft and corruption charges, or what is more popularly known as the City Hall Scandals, will go down to defeat and carry the rest of the ticket with him.

It was suggested then that the President of the United States should be properly briefed on what's been going on in Philadelphia. If and when he comes here he may, of course, meet up with some of the more or less Decent Dukes, bankers, investment brokers, industrialist and the like, who, due to apparent impairment of their senses of smell, sight and hearing seemingly are unfamiliar with the Dilworth effort to prevent a grand jury investigation of the scandals.

If the President meets up with the dukes he had better be prepared to raise his in self-defense.

Westminster and Grove City—the two teams that have not seen league action yet this fall—clash Saturday at New Wilmington.

Both teams beat State College opponents last week. Westminster (1-0) beat Indiana, 7-6, and Grove City (1-1) beat Clarion, 12-7.

Waynesburg remained unbeaten (2-0) by topping Ferris Institute, 19-14, and Carnegie Tech stayed winless (0-2) and scoreless by losing to Denison, 39-0.

The Yellow Jackets will meet Carnegie Tech Saturday night in Pittsburgh.

In defeating Ferris Saturday night, the Jackets led in first downs 10 to 4. They also out-gained the Bulldogs on the ground 176 to 53, but Ferris led in yards gained in passing 62 to 15.

Paul Stanek, senior from Ellsworth, tallied a pair of markers for the Orange and Black, and Gerald (George) Washington, sophomore from Ronco, counted for another touchdown.

Stanek scored once in the first period and again in the third stanza. The second marker gave the Jackets a 12-14 deficit. Washington's TD, made on a pass interception, pushed the Jackets in to the lead.

FISHING TIPS

Donald Nee of Charlestown, Mass., brought in a 66½ pound striped bass off Martha's Vineyard, this summer, to account for the third largest striped ever caught on rod and reel. His catch has become one of the leading entries in the 16th Annual R. J. Schaefer Salt Water Fishing Contest. Mr. Nee was trolling with ruses and using 45 lb. test line with wire in front, when the big one hit.

The record striped catch dates back to 1913, when Mr. C. B. Church caught a 73 pounder in Vineyard Sound, Mass. Second heaviest was caught by Ralph Gray on a trolled swimming plug at Cape Cod in 1958 and scaled 68½ pounds.

Some tips on catching record strippers from a boat are offered by Mr. Nee: Fish between 10:00 P.M. and 2:00 A.M. For plugs, use deep running swimmers on wire and lead line for late night fishing. Live or rigged eel is one of the best. Correctly set drag, otherwise your hook can be straightened and pulled out. Remember to keep moving, watch for birds and bait jumping near the shore. Look for openings in the sandbars, as this will indicate deep water and a good area to work.

Master Gland Key to Health

Why can some persons quickly and easily throw off every infection while others constantly wage a losing battle against one germ after another?

Why do most individuals react with overwhelming success to a vaccine, while it has very little effect on other persons?

Is there perhaps a master gland that triggers the immune reactions?

"Yes, it's the thymus gland," says Dr. Robert A. Good, research professor of pediatrics at the University of Minnesota, and March of Dimes grantee.

Dr. Good recently won the annual award medal of the American Society for Experimental Pathology, much of his work being done with National Foundation financial support.

Dr. Good presented new evidence greatly strengthening this theory about the thymus gland in a paper he delivered before the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology at Atlantic City.

He detailed the results of experiments carried out in collaboration with other scientists which, he said, provide evidence that the thymus is a key organ in the body's endless struggle to protect itself against harmful substances. The thymus is located behind the breastbone in humans.

Much of Dr. Good's study was based on observation of 125 patients with agammaglobulinemia, a rare disease occurring most often in children whose bodies fail to produce gamma globulin, the substance in the blood which forms antibodies to fight off invasion by germs and other foreign substances.

Further study showed the association of other diseases with agammaglobulinemia, including a high incidence of rheumatoid arthritis and related diseases; leukemia and Hodgkin's disease (cancer of the lymph glands), and other disabilities suspected to result from malfunction of the immune system.

This led Dr. Good and his associates to the thymus as the important organ of immunity. The theory was tested by removing the thymus of rabbits less than five days old.

In his Minneapolis laboratory, Dr. Robert A. Good, March of Dimes research grantee in arthritis at University of Minnesota School of Medicine, checks an X-ray film.

They proved later to be unable to form antibodies in any way and thus could not throw off disease.

Secondly, Dr. Good found that these same animals would accept skin grafts from other rabbits. Normally, skin can be transplanted only between identical twins. By this means the doctor was able to show how the natural barriers to tissue transplantation can be knocked down merely by removal of the thymus in the newborn. This phenomenon, the Minnesota pediatrician believes, has a human parallel, namely agammaglobulinemia, where antibodies are usually absent. For example, one of the children with this disease now under study by Dr. Good's group has been carrying an intact skin graft for more than seven years—even though the skin had been taken from an unrelated donor.

Studies of this sort, Dr. Good pointed out, have been possible only during the last decade since modern treatment has enabled the survival of children with immunologic deficiency diseases, and new laboratory techniques made possible the accurate analysis of blood and tissue components.

"We are gradually getting much closer to understanding the whole process of immunity and its relation to disease," Dr. Good said. "We now can see a real possibility of learning how to manipulate and overcome the natural barriers to transplantation of human organs, such as the kidney, as well as other tissues.

"It's tempting to speculate that someday we may have thymus gland banks just as we now have blood banks and bone banks, in order to supply thymus tissues for persons whose immune response is below par. This may also provide us with a means of altering an individual's immunologic pattern by implanting foreign thymus cells when the need arises."

The March of Dimes-supported scientist pointed out that further studies of animals artificially deprived of the ability to produce antibodies are urgently needed to provide insight into rheumatoid arthritis and other diseases which occur in patients with agammaglobulinemia.

Fundamental research aimed at unraveling these disease mysteries is already under way with March of Dimes support at medical centers throughout the country, including Dr. Good's laboratory.

Blood Bank To Be At College

Mrs. J. Russell Milliken, chairman of the Greene County Chapter of the American Red Cross, and Leslie Shriver, chairman of the Greene County Blood Bank Program, were guest speakers at the recent Waynesburg College Convocation.

Mrs. Milliken gave a brief history of the Red Cross. She pointed out that there are 3,600 chapters in the United States.

Mr. Shriver praised the college for its contribution before the Blood Bank was formed. He said that for the past 12 years college students had given at least 50 pints of blood a year to Greene County Memorial Hospital in emergencies.

The Blood Bank program will be at Waynesburg College from 10 a. m. until 4 p. m. on November 7. Students, age 18, and over will be eligible to give blood. Those students aged 18, 19, and 20 must have their parents permission.

The program is being organized on the campus by the Waynesburg College Student Council under the direction of president James Lowe. Officials are hoping for 194 volunteers in an effort to meet a quota of 120.

Senate Okays Postal Hike

WASHINGTON — The Senate passed Wednesday by voice vote the compromise bill raising postal rates $605 million a year, including a penny hike on letters and airmail, and raising pay of 1.6 million Federal employees.

The measure, agreed to quickly by Senate-House conferees Wednesday, now goes to the House. That branch is expected to send it on to President Kennedy tomorrow.

The 5-cent stamp for letters and the other penny increases in first class mail will take effect Jan. 7, 1963.

The $1.05 billion pay raise will be granted in two steps—one later this month in the first pay period after Kennedy signs the bill and the other in January, 1964.

Waynesburg Grad Named to Post

Richard L. Wegemer, a 1951 graduate of Waynesburg College, has been named a committee chairman of the Society of Exploration Geophysicists, in Canada, according to Dr. Paul R. Stewart, president of Waynesburg College.

Mr. Wegemer of the British American Oil Company is serving as Publications and Program Editor and he served in this capacity for the 32nd annual international meeting of the Society September 16-20 in Calgary, Alberta.

The meeting was quite successful with 1,009 delegates, eleven students, and 435 wives.

Mr. Wegemer's suggestion of "Expanding Fields in Geophysics" was used as the official theme for the meeting.

How Shall I Vote?

EACH year many individuals vote for the first time. Because of the unusual conditions facing the world at this period of stress, those who seek public office in the United States and elsewhere are, in their own way, opening their thoughts to the divine guidance that is always at hand. Human wisdom and sagacity are of themselves inadequate to solve the problems confronting the world today.

In like manner, those who have the privilege of choosing fellow citizens to fill certain offices recognize the need for seeking divine guidance not only at election time but afterward, prayerfully supporting the office whether his preferred candidate is elected or not.

It was under divine guidance that Mary Baker Eddy discovered and founded Christian Science through a spiritual sense of the teachings and demonstrations of Christ Jesus. She writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 106), "Man is properly self-governed only when he is guided rightly and governed by his Maker, divine Truth and Love."

Self-government, then, implies obedience to divine government. It results from correctly interpreting the divine will and bringing human experience into conformity with it. Divine will is impartial, ever available, adaptable to every human need or situation. One has only to bring his own human outlining into accord with the divine purpose to be properly self-governed.

The Declaration of Independence says that there are certain "unalienable rights" with which men are divinely endowed and that to secure these rights "Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

Before casting one's ballot, one will find it helpful to give due consideration to what makes this method of government possible and to the distinct value of this idea of government, raising, as it does, human regulation above selfish designs and lifting it into the free moral atmosphere of individual responsibility. One who goes to the polls with this prayer of the Psalmist on his lips will fulfill both the spirit and the letter of voting: "Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer" (Ps. 19: 14). — The Christian Science Monitor

Tamburitizens To Be Here Oct. 30

The internationally famous Duquesne University Tamburitza Orchestra will be presented Tuesday night, October 30, in Waynesburg High School, sponsored by Waynesburg Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The JayCees are trying to raise money with which to preserve the old Purman Run bridge which will be located in the new recreation park being built by them near the Central swimming pool.

The bridge will be removed shortly from its location on N. East street and sometime later will be placed in an appropriate location in the new recreation park.

The Tamburitza orchestra is a unique musical organization. It presents a fascinating program of songs, dances and instrumental numbers of the Slavic and other central European countries, presented in the costumes of the nations represented.

The group has appeared in every major city in the United States and last summer toured the principal European countries.

The allocations, Mrs. Horting explained, are not final. Each grant is dependent on the development of an approvable project and final acceptance by the United States Public Health Service.

The individual projects, it was pointed out, will be developed by Commissioner Ira J. Mills of the Office of General and Special Hospitals as soon as the successful applicants submit the required additional information.

Proof of financial responsibility to provide the sponsors share of the cost and preliminary plans for each project must be submitted to the Department of Public Welfare by December 12, 1962, and final plans by September 12, 1963. The sponsor finances approximately two-thirds of each project.
