Congress May Upset President's Legislation

Henry Cole Dies; Former Auditor Of Greene County

William Henry Cole, 84 years, of Spraggs, former Greene County auditor, died Wednesday, December 26, 1962, in Greene County Memorial Hospital.

He was a son of George and Catherine Kniseley Cole, and was born October 12, 1878, in Wayne Township, where he had resided all his life.

Mr. Cole had served two terms as a county auditor from 1948 to 1956, and at the time of his death was a court tip-staff.

He was a member of Spraggs Methodist Church and had been a member of the Greene County Sunday School Association more than 50 years.

Mr. Cole was a member of Independent Order of Odd Fellows, having joined Kuhnstown Lodge on July 21, 1906. He became a member of Waynesburg Lodge 469, when the two were joined a number of years ago. Mr. Cole was also a member of Sunset Rebekah Lodge 418, at Kuhnstown.

As a youth, Mr. Cole was a well known baseball player having played on church and sandlot teams in the county.

Surviving are his wife, Rosa Phillips Cole, whom he married September 10, 1904; one daughter, Mary, wife of William McClelland of Cleveland, Ohio; one son, Carl Cole of Spraggs; nine grandchildren; 14 great-children, and one brother, Albert Cole of West Middleton. Two sisters and one brother are deceased.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at one o'clock in the Mariner and Milliken Funeral Home, conducted by Rev. Gene Hasson. Interment in Greene County Memorial Park.

D. J. Williamson Dies in Hospital

Donald G. Williamson, 58 years, of West Franklin street, well known school teacher, died Thursday, December 20, 1962, in Greene County Memorial Hospital. He had been in failing health for a month and seriously ill for two weeks.

Mr. Williamson was a son of Jasper H. and Nellie Lynch Williamson, and was born September 29, 1904, in Jefferson Township.

He had spent his early life in the Garards Fort and Carmichaels area and resided in Waynesburg for the past several years.

Mr. Williamson graduated from Cumberland Township High School in 1924, and for two years after that taught in Greene Township. He entered Waynesburg College in 1927, and in 1930, entered California State Teachers College.

For a number of years he was in private business, including some time spent as a salesman for the West Penn Power Company in the 1940s. Mrs. Williamson re-entered the teaching profession in Perry Township from 1950 until 1953, when he accepted a position with the Franklin Township School District as a teacher in the West Waynesburg School. He was president of the Franklin Township Teachers' Association.

Nationalist China Buys U. N. Bond

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Nationalist China has purchased a $500,000 U. N. bond. A statement from its U. N. mission said the purchase, made despite China's own pressing needs, reflects "confidence and support for the United Nations."

WASHINGTON — The 88th Congress appears likely to be born in controversy, struggle through months of frustrations and produce considerably less legislation than President Kennedy asks.

All signs point to flareups in both houses at the January 9 beginning of what could be a lengthy session.

The spectacle of venerable members from opposite sides of the Capitol vying for prestige sugarplums seems certain to be re-enacted. It delayed action on regular Government money bills for months in the final session of the 87th Congress.

In the House, President Kennedy has picked a fight with the conservative coalition of Southern Democrats and Republicans in an effort to retain even a shaky margin for his legislative proposals in the powerful Rules Committee, where they could be bottled up.

Southerners, looking over their shoulders at the angry protest votes lodged against some of their Dixie colleagues in November, are primed to filibuster a proposed change in Senate rules which would make it easier to cut off prolonged debate — usually directed against civil rights measures.

Unless leaders can reach a gentleman's agreement, a filibuster could disrupt the swearing in of new Senate members. It even could foul up the timing of President Kennedy's State-of-the-Union Message.

With acrimony seemingly the order of the day, party chieftains are wary about making any predictions on the outcome of the legislative battles that lie ahead.

The have only to look at such hard-core problems as federal aid to education, tax revision, health care for the elderly, creation of a Department of Urban Affairs, the farm program, foreign aid, mass transportation and a $99-billion budget—with a lousy deficit—to know there is trouble ahead.

House action on a great many of these issues obviously will turn largely on what happens in the Rules Committee fight. Mr. Kennedy has said in effect, "we're through if we lose" the battle to keep the committee from being returned to conservative coalition control.

In the Senate, the election netted the Democrats three additional votes, bringing their total of 67 to the Republicans' 33. Whether this is a significant change is a matter of dispute.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, said he thinks the Senate will be somewhat disposed to go along with the President's proposals.

Four Cabinet Posts Remain To Be Filled by Governor-Elect

Four top posts remain to be filled by Governor-elect William W. Scranton, whose inauguration is only 18 days away.

On Wednesday, Mr. Scranton named Arlin M. Adams of Philadelphia, 40-year-old attorney who is interested in physical rehabilitation, to become secretary of welfare.

Mr. Adams is the fourth Philadelphia named to the Scranton cabinet.

Others are Walter Alessandroni, attorney general; Theodore B. Smith, revenue secretary; Colonel Thomas R. White, Jr., adjutant general.

Two other cabinet choices—highways secretary Henry D. Harral and health secretary Charles L. Wilbar—are former Philadelphia residents. Dr. Wilbar is a hold over appointment.

Mrs. Audrey Kelly, a Montrose County attorney, who was

The Coming New Year

The advent of a new year might well give rise to such skeptical and unexpected remarks as "Why should we celebrate with such fervor and excitement? In order for a new year to be born, an old year must die!"

The old year will be viewed in retrospect—the good events, overshadowing the bad—but few will mourn its passing.

All attention and hope is centered on the new year, which brings with it a fresh supply of hours, days, weeks, and months. This new reservoir of time is looked upon as an opportunity for new hopes, new plans, a fresh, clean start, with old failures erased.

Indeed, time is coin of our mortal realm; an equal possession for all people. Each person is free to spend the time in whatever manner he pleases, and he alone reaps the rewards for the time spent, sold, wasted, or given away.

Although 1963 marks just another milestone along life's brief journey, it is gaily welcomed as a giver of a magical fresh supply of time.

This sparse handful of Life—this New Year 1963—can, with our unified determination and effort, be recorded as a year of achievement in man's hopeful quest for truth, understanding, and World Peace.

May the end of the year 1963 find all Nations and all Peoples living together in harmony. Each producing and consuming, in co-existence, according to his own abilities and by his own efforts.

In order to consummate our goal to its fullest extent, we must constantly remember that we are "our brothers keepers." Let's keep them alive, this coming weekend so that they, too, may share in our dreams and our desires.

Millions Aids Counties Aged

HARRISBURG — Secretary of Public Welfare Ruth Grigg Hortington reported that Pennsylvania counties received about $2,500,000 this year in Federal funds as reimbursement for half the cost of care for the aging in county nursing homes.

This program administered by the Department of Public Welfare, is the first with Federal-county sharing of responsibility for the aged.

The counties are expected to improve their facilities and services to aged people with the additional money.

College to Offer Degree in Dance

LYNCHBURG, Va.—Randolph-Macon Women's College said Wednesday it will offer a program next year leading to a degree in dance.

The college said its aim was to "teach dance as an integral part of liberal education and to lay a sound basis for graduate or professional work. Modern dance is a contemporary art form comparable to modern music and modern painting."

DR. WILLIAM DUSENBERRY

To Serve on National Society Committee

Dr. William Dusenberry, professor of history and acting chairman of the Department of Social Sciences at Waynesburg College, has been appointed to the membership committee of the Agricultural History Society of the United States.

This committee works on a nation-wide basis and it also gives information to individuals and institutions of learning concerning the nature and functions of the society. Dr. Dusenberry will represent the society in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Diehl Named To D. P. A. Board

Louis Diehl, well-known Mt. Morris resident, has been appointed to the Greene County Board of Assistance by Governor David L. Lawrence.

He will succeed Mrs. Brenda Donley, former Mt. Morris resident who served her maximum number of years on the board.

Mr. Diehl has resided at Mt. Morris for the past 25 years and served as Burgess of Mt. Morris before it was incorporated into Perry Township. He is a member and former commander of James T. Maxon Post 992, American Legion, Mt. Morris. He has been post adjutant for the past seven years and is also a member of Greene County Voiture 1020, Forty and Eight.

The appointment is subject to the approval of the state's 1963 Legislature.

U. S. Personal Income Rises

WASHINGTON — The Commerce Department has announced that personal income in the United States rose to an annual rate of 447 billion in November—up $1.75 billion from October and $19 billion higher than in November, 1961.

It also reported November retail sales were the best of the year, but released no statistics other than for automobiles, and said profits after taxes remained at $26.1 billion in the third quarter of the year.

This was the same as in the preceding three months at a seasonally adjusted annual rate but was about $2.5 billion above the total for all of 1961.

Roman Highways Ran 53,658 Miles

ROME — The superhighway network of ancient Rome extended 53,658 miles from Scotland deep into Asia and Africa and cost more than $300,000 a mile to build.

By comparison, the 41,000-mile Interstate Highway System in the United States is costing $350,000 to several million dollars a mile.

State Seeks Erie Command Papers Of Perry's Squadron, War of 1812

A hunt for unpublished logbooks, letters, diaries and other papers dealing with the Erie command during the War of 1812 has been launched by the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission.

Among "missing" documents are the logbooks of Perry's squadron which defeated the British fleet in the famed Battle of Lake Erie on September 10, 1813, many muster rolls of the crews and troops stationed at Erie before and after the American ships were built there, and an unknown quantity of written orders directed to the various commanders.

Doctor S. K. Stevens, commission director, said many historians regard Perry's victory of September 10, as the turning point of the war for American forces. Perry's spirited message, "We have met the enemy and

Social Security Taxes Go Up January First

Don't look now but that man in the striped suit has his hand in your pocket again.

Come January 1, he'll be extracting an additional $2 from the average monthly paycheck.

This is the result of a Social Security tax rate increase which becomes effective automatically on New Year's Day.

It means another setback for the family budget already reeling from the Christmas splurge.

Employers, of course, must match the increased outlay according to the law.

For the self-employed, the Social Security tax rate jumps from 4.7 to 5.4 per cent for a maximum annual increase of $33.60.

Since workers now pay Social Security taxes on the first $4800 of income only, the current maximum is $150 — or $225.60 for the self employed. These will jump to $174 and $259.20 respectively under the new increase.

Under the Social Security Amendments of 1961 which called for the tax raise, benefits were increased, the amount of work needed to collect benefits was reduced and retired men were permitted to file Social Security claims at age 62 instead of waiting until their 65th birthday.

The new tax increase is geared to offset these added disbursements and build up an adequate reserve in the Old Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund. Future increases already have been written into law and will go into effect periodically.

In 1966, employes and employes each will pay 4 1/2 per cent and the self-employed 6.2 per cent.

In 1968, these respective rates will ascend to 4 3/4 per cent and 6.9 per cent.

Office Flowers Increase 300 Pct.

NEW YORK — Since the new look in modern metropolitan commercial buildings is to have masses of living plants in windows, foyers and other public areas, the time may have come when a janitor without a "green thumb" will be hard put to find a job.

The trend toward extensive business use of foliage flowered during the 1950's and "business beautification" has risen by as much as 300 percent in New York and other large United States cities since 1945, according to a study made by the National Clay Pot Manufacturers Association.

Fire, which is believed to have started from an electric putty softener, caused about $15,000 to a storage building in the Acklin Lumber Yard on South Morgan street, about 11:30 Wednesday morning.

Waynesburg Volunteer Fire Company performed very efficient work in preventing the flames from spreading to other parts of the yard which runs quite a distance along First street.

The fire was discovered when the inter-communication system began to buzz.

The owners, Paul Acklin and George Bercyk, were eating lunch in the office. Mr. Bercyk, believing that children were playing in the yard, looked out of the window and saw flames shooting up out of the concrete glazing building.

Ross Shipman, an employe, tried to use a fire extinguisher and was badly burned on a finger. He was treated at the scene. Sixty to eighty gallons of roofing materials, rolls of plastic and partially filled cans of paint fed the fire, which was brought under control only after the roof collapsed.

Mr. Acklin estimated that contents of the building were worth "at least $10,000." Included were all types of aluminum and steel roofing, spouting, copper, a large supply of glass, furnace parts, three floor sanding machines, two edgers, and all types of rough hardware.

More than $1,200 worth of bolts were stored in the building. The large planing mill at the plant was separated from the glazing shed by a concrete block wall, and was not damaged, due to quick work of firemen.

Nine years ago in December 16, 1953, the yard was damaged by a fire estimated to have caused $75,000 damage.

Bloodmobile At Carmichaels

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit Carmichaels, Wednesday, January 9, from 12:30 to 6:30, and will be located at the Fire Hall.

The Rotary and Lions Clubs, Chamber of Commerce and Carmichaels Cumberland Township Fire Company are now signing donors.

Al Darnay and Bud Baily are representing the fire company; Ted Peacock, the Chamber of Commerce; Charles Donley, the Rotary Club, and Rayfield Honsaker, the Lions.

Persons not otherwise contacted and desiring to be donors may contact any of these men or members of their organizations or the pastors of their churches. The Bloodmobile has already visited Waynesburg twice, Jefferson and Waynesburg College campus. Later it will visit the Graysville community.

President Kennedy Presented Flag

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy has been presented with an Army flag draped with 145 campaign streamers marking battles back to 1775.

Mr. Kennedy will keep the $1,000 red, white, and blue standard in the White House but will be free to take it with him when he leaves office.

First Steamboat Plied Ohio River in 1811

The first steamboat on the Ohio River was the New Orleans which moved down the Ohio and Mississippi in 1811 and stayed in New Orleans.

The first to navigate up the Ohio to Louisville was the Enterprise, in 1815.

March of Dimes Helps Save Boy

Here's Johnny at age one after first operation . . . and today, leading a normal life at age four.

At his fourth birthday party, Johnny Wilson's big blue eyes sparkled as his mother carried in the most magnificent cake he had ever seen.

It was shaped like a huge boat plowing its way through mountainous waves of whipped cream and icing. Johnny's winsome smile beamed at friends and he gave out kisses all around.

It was a happy affair. Yet at one time, Johnny's parents had little hope he would live to celebrate even his first birthday. For he was born with the often fatal birth defect of water on the brain, or hydrocephalus.

Surgical treatment saved Johnny's life when he was three months old. At that time, doctors performed what is known as a shunt operation. They inserted in Johnny's head a plastic tube which allowed excess fluid from the brain to be harmlessly absorbed by the youngster's body.

Without the operation, fluid within the brain is prevented from taking its normal course, and causes the head to swell enormously. This is what had happened to Johnny. (If shunt surgery is not performed in time, mental retardation and blindness may ensue, even death, in certain cases.)

Since 1958, doctors have performed two other shunt operations and have treated Johnny for gastroenteritis and septicemia.

Today, Johnny leads a relatively healthy, happy and care-free life. Like any other little boy who lives on a farm, he loves to hug lambs, chase cows and tease chicks on the family's 100 acres near Columbus, Ohio.

He is a good example of thousands of afflicted children being helped to live nearly normal lives through a unique medical care program financed by The National Foundation-March of Dimes.

Babies with birth defects are born every other minute in the United States, 250,000 of them each year, almost 700 each day.

Johnny goes regularly to a special Birth Defects Clinical Study Center at Children's Hospital, Columbus, supported by March of Dimes funds. It is one of more than 30 similar centers across the nation set up for the study and treatment of birth defects.

At the center, trained specialists work together to help children with many kinds of birth defects. They include a neurosurgeon, orthopedic surgeon, internist, psychiatrist, physical therapist and medical social worker. They have put their skilled hands and minds to work on Johnny's behalf.

Every four months, Johnny's mother drives him to the center for his check-up. A doctor always measures his head to make sure there is no change in size. Since 1959, his head size has remained relatively constant.

Johnny is growing up to be an impish, energetic and friendly little boy who likes to do everything and go everywhere. Especially, he likes to wheedle rides on a pony at the next farm. He'll settle, though, for a tour on the tractor with his mother or father, Julia and John Wilson.

Like Johnny, other afflicted children who receive proper treatment may live to enjoy shooting cap pistols, watching television, singing songs or playing a toy banjo—with the best of four-year-olds.

We sincerely hope that 1963 will be a wonderful bell-ringing year for each and every one of you!

Real Dixie Sets South Straight

LONDON—Practically on the spot where King Richard 3rd cried, "My Kingdom for a horse!" Sir Wolstan Dixie announced Tuesday he has no objection to the use of his family name by the South of the United States.

"All I want," said the jovial baronet, "is recognition of our contribution to American life. Dammit, sir, not everybody puts his name to so large and marvelous a part of the world."

Sir Wolstan was moved to speak because he expects to go to the United States in 1965—the centennial of the end of the Civil War. He wants to retrace footsteps of his jolly forebear John Dixie who, he alleges, was such a good man to work for that slaves used to sigh:

"I wish I were on Dixie's land."

"That," said Sir Wolstan, eyes twinkling, "is the real origin of the words 'Dixie' and 'Dixieland.' I'm not asking for our plantations back, mind you, though believe me we could use them these days of high taxation."

Sir Wolstan is proud of his family. He can trace his antecedents back to the year 1100 when they were already large landowners. He now lives on part of the same land—Market Bosworth in Leicestershire where King Richard lost his crown.

We join Mr. and Mrs. Snowman in extending wishes for a year full of the best of everything. Have a grand time, everyone! We also wish to thank you for your patronage in past years. We're looking forward to you in '63!

REPORT TO OUR REPUBLIC

The Republican Report

U. S. SENATOR EVERETT MCKINLEY DIRKSEN
OF ILLINOIS

Minority Leader for the SECOND SESSION, 87th CONGRESS

DOCUMENT NO. 161

Office and the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare on questions relating to drug patents and insures greater Government supervision of drug production.

Largely as a result of the tragic thalidomide episode, the act authorizes withdrawal of ineffective drugs from the market, strengthens the authority to withdraw unsafe drugs from the market, and adds to the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare's authority to issue regulations to control the testing of new drugs before they are placed on the general market. The new legislation gives the Secretary specific authority to require records and reports as to data obtained as the result of investigation use of, and clinical experience with, both new drugs and antibiotics.

It is hoped that this new legislation will provide a framework under which industry and Government, working together, can continue to make available improved medicines within the system of incentives which has made the U. S. drug industry the most productive and inventive in the world. In the case of drugs already in the market, they must give the name of the product prominently showing quantitatively each ingredient and "such other information in brief summary relating to side effects, contraindications, and effectiveness as shall be required in regulations which shall be issued by the Secretary."

Welfare

Many of the rehabilitation and vocational training measures were broadened. Some programs were made permanent, such as provisions for Federal financial assistance to the aged, blind, and disabled.

Other laws were amended, such as one earmarking certain funds for local programs for day care of children of working mothers; extending of Federal sharing in assistance payments to both parents of a needy child when both are residing with the child; increasing the Federal assistance to the States to maintain community work and training projects for unemployed persons receiving welfare benefits; and other laws bearing on the problems of needy children and those receiving welfare benefits.

Not enacted were bills which would have prohibited the States from making residence requirements for welfare assistance longer than 1 year and amending the Social Security Act to provide a small increase in assistance funds to States removing residence requirements in any of their federally aided welfare programs.

The public welfare legislation which was approved had as its principal purpose the encouragement of States to expand the rehabilitation of persons on the relief rolls, increasing services to children, establishing of community work and training projects, guarding against misuse of welfare funds paid for the benefit of dependent children, and the strengthening and improvement of welfare administration.

Conclusion

In general Republicans voted against big government and big spending.

For instance, on an amendment to exempt from controls feed grain fed to stock on farms where they are grown, Senate Republicans voted 29 to 1 in favor of it; Democrats defeated it.

On a motion to kill an amendment similar to the feed grain fed to home-grown stock, Senate Republicans opposed the motion 31 to 1; Democrats succeeded in killing the proposal.

On passage of the administration's Freemanized farm bill—later defeated in the House—Senate Republicans voted against it, 30 to 1. The 2 to 1 Democratic majority in the Senate approved the revolutionary proposals for extraordinary Government farm powers.

On final agreement to the conference report of the manpower retraining bill—S. 1991, H. R. 1416—Republicans in the Senate and Republicans in the House shouted their approval of the measure. When Mr. Kennedy signed the bill March 15 he termed it "perhaps the most significant legislation in the area of employment" since 1946. This was a nice compliment to Republicans, for while the New Frontier may try to claim it as its legislation, this bill is essentially a Republican measure and would never have become a law without Republican revision.

On an amendment to give the President unusual standby authority on public works, Republicans in the Senate voted overwhelmingly against it, 29 to 1.

On the foreign aid amendment to bar aid to any nation which exported to the Soviet bloc any strategic materials, Republicans voted approval, 28 to 5. A majority of Democrats defeated it.

On the tax revision measure in the House, Republicans voted 162 to 1 against such a so-called revision.

On two amendments distinctly favoring civil rights, Republicans in the Senate favored them by wide margins, but Democrats defeated both.

The only two tax bills of the present session that had become law by July 20 were Republican measures. They were measures for storm tax relief and the Du Pont stock "breakup" bill. Here are examples of a Republican humanitarian measure and a Republican "widows and orphans" bill, the latter so termed because of the numerous letters from persons who owned just one or two shares of stock and did not think they should innocently be subjected to possible double taxation.

Then there are Republican revisions to the extension of the Export Control Act, strengthening its use of economic power to fight communism. Republicans voted overwhelmingly in favor of this.

On final passage of the Export Control Act, with Republican revisions, Republicans voted unanimously in the Senate.

Senate Republicans forced equal treatment for farm commodity exports when the Senate amended section 204 of the Agricultural Act of 1956.

On the vote on final passage of the Sugar Act Amendments of 1962, Republicans in the Senate voted unanimous approval; Democrats did not.

On limiting the public debt ceiling to $306 billion, Republicans in the Senate voted 28 to 4, while the Democrats rejected it, 48 to 9.

On the nomination of Matthew H. McCloskey to be Ambassador to Ireland, Republicans voted 30 to 1 in the Senate to recommit the nomination to committee.

On an amendment to establish a program of medical care for the aged so as to provide a voluntary, three-option choice of benefits, Republicans in the Senate voted approval, 27 to 4.

On an amendment to provide the elderly up to $9 per month for the purchase of private health insurance, Republicans in the Senate voted approval, 25 to 3. Democrats voted "antiprivate enterprise," 50 to 2, with 11 more Democrats, who did not vote, paired the same way as the other 50.

On the motion to kill the so-called compromise Kennedy medicare plan, Republicans in the Senate voted 31 to 5 in approval, while the Democrats were badly split, 43 to 21, thus killing the New Frontier's plan.

On the aid for higher education measure—substituting language of S. 1241—Senate Republicans voted 24 to 7.

On the New Frontier's urban affairs plan, Senate Republicans opposed it 32 to 4, while the split Democratic vote was 38 to 26 against it.

On the final passage on the important civil rights measure dealing with a constitutional amendment re the poll tax, Senate Republicans voted 30 to 1 in favor.

New Year's Day Superstitions

Superstitions play their part in New Year's Day customs and celebrations. Through the centuries, each generation has passed on some belief to succeeding generations, and many of these are still believed today.

Some southerners believe that if black-eyed peas are served for New Year's dinner, the coming year will bring prosperity.

The early New England settlers considered it bad luck to leave their house on New Year's Day before someone had entered.

Sharing a lighted match with someone else on New Year's morning is an ill omen to the people of England.

At the stroke of midnight English and Scotch maidens rush to the well. The first to have a taste of the water will have the best luck during the ensuing year.

discrimination amendment, Republican Senators voted for the amendment, 31 to 1, while the Democrats, who propagated their supposed antidiscrimination views voted for killing the amendment 42 to 9.

On a Democrat-sponsored attempt to eliminate funds for the New York World's Fair—although funds were appropriated for the Seattle Fair and others—Senate Republicans supported the New York Fair by voting 27 to 1.

There are numerous examples of unified Republican attempts to reduce New Frontier spending proposals.

These are just a few examples of Republican Party responsibility and unity this session. And Republicans in the Senate also have caused the New Frontier to change its mind at the very instant such legislation is being considered on the Senate floor, for example:

On April 16, during debate on the second supplemental appropriations bill, Republicans offered an amendment to void the administration's ruling—by the Democrat-controlled Civil Service Commission—that Government employees could "explain"—lobby—the plans of the New Frontier.

In an effort to forestall a record vote to void this outrageous ruling, the Kennedy administration actually telephoned to Republicans on the Senate floor to promise that the civil service ruling was being withdrawn at once. Republicans were asked "Please not to bring the amendment to a vote."

It is interesting, indeed, to hear administration spokesmen complain that so much more could be done if it were not for the Republicans in Congress. We must always bear in mind that today Democrats outnumber the Republicans almost 2 to 1 in the Senate and 3 to 2 in the House of Representatives.

It seems, then, that the administration program is not popular with the American people and not popular with the Congress.

Big talk and small action—that is the true record of the Kennedy administration in the 87th Congress.

Peace Corps

The Peace Corps, for which $30 million was appropriated for the current year, received $63.7 million for fiscal year 1963.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee, in approving the bill, said that at the end of the first year of its operations:

"It is too soon to evaluate the performance of the Peace Corps in terms of tangible accomplishment."

The committee stated that as yet there are only 698 volunteers in six countries, of which 136 are still in training. This $60-odd million appropriation is to enable the Corps to have 6,700 men and women in service or in training by June 30, 1963.

Transportation

The Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1962, recommended by the President, was nothing more than a Federal subsidization of local and commuter services—in other words, more spending and greater concentration of power in the Federal Government.

In some areas local transit and commuter services are admittedly in trouble. The transit problems of major concern, however, are not those of small, weak, or impoverished cities but those of major, wealthy, industrialized communities which have know-how and resources to cope with the problem.

This bill would have authorized $500 million in Federal grants to States and public bodies to assist in financing purchase, construction, and improvement of mass transportation facilities and equipment and made permanent the present $50 million loan fund established in the Housing Act of last year for local transit operations. The bill would require submission of areawide transportation plans; authorize interstate compacts; allocate some funds to research, development, and demonstration projects; provide relocation assistance to families and businesses displaced by the transit program—and a further sweetener was added to place the responsibility in local hands. Communities would contribute one-third of the cost over a 3-year period. The bill failed of action.

Education

The President's proposals for farflung Federal aid to education fell largely by the wayside.

Action was not completed on the administration's college loan proposal to assist colleges in the building of academic facilities. Action was completed on legislation providing for matching Federal grants with the States to aid in the construction of State or other nonprofit educational television stations.

Legislation was enacted to provide scholarships for students seeking assistance in higher education.

The School Lunch Act of 1946, amending the State allotment formula apportioning the cash assistance funds to the States, was approved, as was the continuation of the impacted area grants.

The administration's bill to combat adult illiteracy did not gain approval. There also fell by the wayside in this Democrat-controlled Congress many other aids to education recommendations, such as those providing 4-year scholarships and cost-of-education grants for one-fourth of entering students in each medical and dental school in the Nation, and appropriations for various fellowships.

In the first session of the 87th Congress the President's proposals for grants for school construction and teachers' salaries, approved by the Senate, failed of approval in the House mainly on the issue of paying teachers' salaries and grants to parochial schools.

West Penn Power Looks Forward To Bright 1963

Announcement of West Penn Power Company participation in a "bold and imaginative" construction program of national significance—involving $350,000,000 and 17 other investor-owned electric utilities—highlighted 1962 activities of the electric utility firm.

In addition, a number of other accomplishments were noted by West Penn in 1962, and further plans for 1963 are tailored to the company's objective of providing adequate and dependable electric service in its southwestern and north central Pennsylvania service area.

At year's end, West Penn reports these 1962 features and future plans:

- Construction is near completion on a 270,000-kilowatt generating addition to Mitchell power station, near Monongahela, scheduled to be placed in service in late June of 1963;
• Continued, aggressive area development promotion attracted new industry and business in the effort to improve the economy of the Western Pennsylvania area;
• Average unit cost of electric service continued to decline as residential customers paid an all-time low of 2.50 cents per kilowatt-hour during 1962;

• Construction of more than $24,000,000 in expanded and revamped operating facilities is planned during 1963, with local improvements in most communities and areas.

Jefferson district manager R. G. Lindquist reported that several major improvements in the district's electric service facilities were made during 1962. West Penn's Jefferson district serves the Brownsville-California-Waynesburg area.

Modern mercury vapor street lighting was installed in downtown Brownsville and in parts of Franklin Township near Waynesburg.

The capacity of distribution lines providing the power in the Brier Hill area are doubled. Construction was begun on a new substation adjacent to Luzerne Park, which will ultimately replace the present Brownsville substation on Market Street at Albany road.

A number of lines were relocated to make way for U. S. Route 40 construction between Malden and the new Brownsville bridge.

New substation and high-voltage lines to serve the new Gateway Coal Company were started in '62 and will be completed in '63.

Congress May

In the 87th Congress the Senate—but not the House—passed aid to education bills which Mansfield said he is confident can get the new Senate's approval. He predicted the body will go along also on creation of an Urban Affairs Department.

Moreover, the Democrat leader voiced the opinion that there is just enough change in the vote to clear a bill which was killed this year—Mr. Kennedy's proposal for Social Security-financing for health care of the elderly.

Registration Open For 2nd Semester

Prospective students may now register for second semester classes at Waynesburg College in Waynesburg or Uniontown, according to Registrar M. K. Talpas.

Classes will start in both the day and evening school on January 24. The evening school is only in Uniontown.

Waynesburg College will admit any high school graduate, who is 21 years of age or older, to non-degree status.

Any such person will be eligible to take the basic courses offered in Waynesburg College and to qualify for advanced placement.

Any such person may apply for admission to degree candidacy on the basis of his academic work at Waynesburg College following the completion of a minimum of 20 semester hours. To be admitted the person must achieve a 2,000 (C) average in all work taken.

Persons interested in seeking admittance for degree or non-degree work should contact Donald E. Shamble, director of admissions and special education services. Mr. Shamble may be contacted a 627-6151 in Waynesburg, or at Geneva 7-2706 in Uniontown.

As the old year departs and the new one comes in, may we wish you and yours a most rewarding 1963, full of good health and happiness... truly a great year all around!

We look forward to again serving you!

First Thanksgiving In Old Virginia; Kennedy Admits 'New England Bias'

RICHMOND, Va.—The White House, pleading "an unconquerable New England bias," has conceded that America's first Thanksgiving observance was held in Virginia, and not in Massachusetts.

Furthermore, regarding President Kennedy's Thanksgiving proclamation on November 8, in which he credited the Pilgrims with the first Thanksgiving observance, a top Presidential aide has given assurance that such an "error will not be repeated in the future."

The concession was made in a letter from the President's special assistant, Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., to John J. Wicker, Jr., honorary chairman of the Richmond Thanksgiving Festival.

Wicker, proudly displaying the letter, which crowned with victory his four-year battle with Massachusetts and the White House, commented, "This is the finest Christmas present of all" for Virginians.

The letter was in response to a telegram Wicker fired off to President Kennedy the day after the President's Thanksgiving proclamation.

Wicker said the first Thanksgiving was actually celebrated in Virginia in 1619—more than a year before the Pilgrims landed, and nearly two years before they celebrated their Thanksgiving at Plymouth Rock.

The Virginia service was held upon the arrival of Capt. John Woodliffe and 38 settlers at Berkeley Plantation on December 14, 1619.

Wicker concluded his telegram to President Kennedy with: "as a matter of fairness, please issue an appropriate correction."

Three weeks later, he received the Schlesinger letter, which he released Sunday after consulting with Governor Albert S. Harrison, Jr.

Harrison hailed the Wicker-Schlesinger exchange as "an extremely valuable contribution to historic truth."

The text of Schlesinger's letter follows: "The President has asked me to reply to your telegram about the Thanksgiving proclamation statement. You are quite right; and I can only plead an unconquerable New England bias on the part of the White House staff."

"We are grateful to you for reminding us of the Berkeley Hundred Thanksgiving; and I can assure you that the error will not be repeated in the future."

Wicker presented a framed copy of his telegram and the Schlesinger letter to Governor Harrison as a Christmas gift.

Two Heads Are Better Than One

PADUCAH, Ky.—A 7-year-old boy was trying to persuade his grandfather to help him with an arithmetic problem.

"I could add it up for you but it wouldn't be right," the grandfather said.

"Well," said the youngster, "go ahead and try anyway."

HELEN FRANCIS O'BRIEN

Mr. and Mrs. A. Gordon O'Brien of Village road, New Providence, Bahamas, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Helen Frances, to John de Nyssen Wermecke, son of Mrs. K. de Nyssen Wermecke and the late Mr. Wermecke of Waynesburg.

Miss O'Brien attended Queen's College in Nassau, Bahamas, and graduated from Smith College, Northampton, Mass., in 1960, with a bachelor of arts degree in history.

Mr. Wermecke graduated with honors from Waynesburg High School and holds a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Rochester, Rochester, N. Y. He is presently a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy. No wedding date has been set.

Marriage

WILSON—MCCRACKEN

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Carol Sue McCracken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex T. McCracken, Cameron, W. Va., R. D. 1, and Delbert Joe Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wilson, Waynesburg, R. D. 3, which took place Monday, December 3, in the chapel of the First Baptist Church, Winchester, Va. Rev. E. T. Clark performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a white wool sheath dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride is a 1960 graduate of West Greene High School and is employed by Greenway Manufacturing Company, Waynesburg.

"Meet Randy" and "Search" are the films available. "Meet Randy" shows the camp experiences of a crippled child while "Search" deals with prevention, case finding, diagnosis and evaluation, and treatment.

State Seeks Erie Command Papers Of Perry's Squadron, War of 1812

related records, and in making copies of the manuscripts for the study of historians.

Letters and diaries written by crew members and shore troops have great value to the overall study, Mr. Stevens said. He also pointed out that the Erie story is much more extensive than the three hours the two fleets battled.

"It took most of a year to build the ships for Perry's fleet, and this was done in Erie under constant threat of British attack. There were skirmishes on land and water, and the men who were both building and guarding the vessels were very aware of British hopes to destroy the American squadron before it could be launched and engage the British fleet then in command of the lake."

Doctor Stevens noted that despite Perry's victory, Erie remained a strategic war front until the Treaty of Ghent ended hostilities early in 1815. During this period, the controversial American raid on Long Point, viewed as an atrocity by the British, was launched from Erie, and eventually resulted in British retaliation by the burning of Washington, D. C., the historian said.

Accordingly, letters and diaries written after Perry's victory also are pertinent, Doctor Stevens said.

Anyone having knowledge of such records is urged to write the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, State Museum Building, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

In the judgment of generations, these words of William Shakespeare's are the finest tribute to man's conscience that have ever been penned.

Yet there are those today who argue that there is no such quality as conscience. "Can you prove that it's there?" they ask.

For the sake of argument, we could just as well ask them for proof that it is not there. Actually, these critics refuse to face the facts. How can they argue about the lack of conscience when a world rises up in arms because certain men have denied others the right of free will—the right of conscience? What else makes a person

And herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offense toward God, and toward men.
Acts: 24-16

shun temptation for a life that he knows in his conscience to be right?

Our churches teach us that to deny conscience is to deny God. For we are made in God's image. "To thine own self be true" is but another way of saying, "To thine own God be true."

Follow the judgment of your church, and its weekly message. Then we cannot be false to ourselves, or to our fellow-men, during the coming New Year and all the New Years to come.

For we are then following our best guide—our conscience—which transmits to us the personal Word of a loving God.

Westminster, Geneva Cagers Tied In West Penn Conference

College Football Captains Named

Wayne Fullerton, Gene Arrigoni, and Bill Hogan have been elected tri-captains of the 1963 Waynesburg College football squad.

Fullerton, a 22-year-old, six-foot junior, is majoring in history. Wayne played his high school ball at Midway. Last season, (1962), as Waynesburg had a 5-3 record, Wayne was a stalwart on defense and was second in Yellow Jacket scoring with 25 points. He has been described by his coaches as "outstanding in all respects. His ability to think through a situation, and his good knowledge of football makes him an ideal selection for captain."

Gene Arrigoni, 1962 center for the Waynesburg College team, is 20 years old, weighs 185. Gene is majoring in education. He played his high school ball at Canonsburg. Head coach Pete Mazzaferro calls Gene a "hard-nosed, 100%-all-the-way player."

Bill Hogan, a transfer from Annapolis, came to Waynesburg for his first year in 1962, and gained a first string berth on the Yellow Jacket squad. Bill, a 21-year-old, 195 pound junior, has been praised by his line coach, Bill Nedde, as "probably one of the most outstanding players I have worked with." Bill is often criticized because of his intensity in playing.

Arrigoni has been named to the West Penn Conference All-Star first team, the Geneva All-Opponent team, and N. A. I. A. All-State, All-College Honorable Mention, and N. A. I. A. All-District first team.

Fullerton gained recognition by being named to the Geneva All-Opponent team.

Hogan was honored by being selected to the Conference All-Star first team.

History of Flag Being Prepared

WASHINGTON—Two retired naval officers, Adm. William R. Furlong and Commodore Byron McCandless, are writing a new history of the American Flag under a $25,000 Ford Foundation grant to the Smithsonian Institution.

The book is expected to be the first definite history of the Flag to be published in 80 years. It will contain hitherto unpublished material about the development of the design and will be illustrated with color plates and drawings of rejected patterns.

There's Always One In Every Department

WASHINGTON—Office doors in Government buildings were decorated with colored paper and the usual Christmas greetings today—with one notable exception.

The entrance to the Office of Southwest Pacific Affairs at the State Department carried this message in large, frosted script: Bah! Humbug!"

Defending champion Westminster and Geneva are currently tied for first place in the West Penn Basketball Conference.

The Titans are 3-0 while Geneva is 3-1 having lost to Westminster (87-39) at New Wilmington.

The Beaver Falls five will need to upset the Titans in the return game Feb. 6 to have the two clubs end the campaign in a deadlock.

That's provided both teams remain unbeaten against the rest of the league teams. Both Westminster and Geneva have ten circuit contests.

Coach Buzz Ridl's Titans are rated the top small college quintet in the nation.

St. Francis has scored the one-game high in the league this winter so far with a 104-64 win over Grove City.

Westminster has the best one-game defense with the 87-39 win over Geneva.

Student Education Chapter Formed

Dr. Robert J. Drummond, head of the Department of Psychology and Education at Waynesburg College, has announced establishment of a Student Pennsylvania Education Association chapter at the college. A charter dinner was held in Benedum Hall December 12.

Waynesburg College Chapter is the newest in the western region and the first since 1950, at which time the University of Pittsburgh was chartered. It is the fifth college in the western region and the 54th to affiliate in the state.

Miss Lucy A. Valero, state consultant, presented the charter. Miss Joyce Ann Law, state president, and a senior from Pennsylvania State University, spoke on student organization. Mrs. Audrey S. Graham, the president of the state association, was also an honored guest and speaker.

Dr. Paul D. Walter, academic vice president, presented greetings and best wishes. Mrs. John Adamson was an honor guest. Dr. Drummond read several of the many telegrams and letters from the state committees, other chapters and national groups. Ninety students of the college are charter members.

CAN YOU STOP IN TIME?

Here are National Safety Council Test Facts

These drivers see stop sign and cars crossing intersection. They apply brakes at same instant on glare ice at 30 miles per hour. What happens?

THIS DRIVER HAS REINFORCED TIRE CHAINS

STOPS IN 173 FEET
WITH ROOM TO SPARE

THIS DRIVER HAS SNOW TIRES

STOPS IN 392 FEET
TOO LATE TO AVOID COLLISION

THIS DRIVER HAS REGULAR TIRES

STOPS IN 439 FEET
TOO LATE TO AVOID COLLISION

MORE FACTS FOR SAFER WINTER DRIVING

Always carry a pair of reinforced tire chains. In deep snow or on ice they enable you to go and stop more safely.

ABOVE CHART, provided by the Safe Winter Driving League, illustrates test results by National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards. For each "braking distance" above you should add 33 feet, which is distance traveled during average "reaction time," needed to think and get your foot on brake after seeing a reason to stop. Skidding and reduced visibility are major added hazards of winter.

Every winter the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards studies the effects of snow and ice, and how to drive safely under the worst conditions. Figures above and below are based on results of their tests.

Packed snow also makes stopping difficult. Regular tires at 30 miles an hour will stop you in 135 feet, snow tires in 117, and reinforced tire chains in 86.

Reduced visibility is also a major winter driving hazard. Do your windshield wipers give clear, streak-free visibility? If rubber is dead, get live rubber refills. Also check wiper arm tension. It should exert one ounce of pressure for each inch of blade length. If arms are weak, blades smear around rain or road muck, and soon ride over snow or sleet—even with new blades. Make sure defroster works.

Rising temperature makes ice more slippery. At 30 miles an hour on ice at 0° a car with regular tires requires 256 feet to stop. At 30° this distance increases to 530 feet.

Also significant is the great effect of speed on braking distances. At only ten miles slower, all of these figures are reduced more than half. At ten miles faster, look out! To cite one example, the average braking distance for regular tires on glare ice is 780 feet at 40 m.p.h.

CAN YOU SEE AND STOP IN TIME?

Garage Repairs Barking Engine

RUFFIN, S. C. — Mrs. Marion Smyly drove into service station to complain about her car's engine. It wasn't knocking—it was barking.

Sure enough, a large dog was wedged between the radiator and the grille. When the attendant removed both headlights and the grille, the dog disappeared without pausing to thank Mrs. Smyly for the ride.

"Mission 66" "Mission 66," a program to improve the National Park System, takes its name from its target date for completion: 1966.

January 1 Date Fairly Modern

The first calendar to succeed in achieving world unity in time was the Gregorian calendar, in popular usage for about one hundred years.

However, the modern calendar has not met with complete acceptance. New ones are constantly being proposed.

One such proposal was offered during World War I by a young school boy, Willard E. Edwards. His calendar, entitled the Edward Perpetual Calendar, received serious consideration for several years. In 1945, Edward's calendar was put before Congress, where it received much support. China and Great Britain showed heavy signs of interest.

The Edward's calendar offers striking revisions of the Gregorian calendar. New Year's Day is not attached to any month, but precedes Monday, January 1. Each week starts with Monday; Saturday and Sunday came at the end of each week, where it would seem a weekend belongs.

Each quarter contains 91 days; the first three months are thirty days in length, the fourth thirty-one. Christmas, holidays, birthdays, etc. would always fall on the same day of the week each year. Even the superstitions would be appeased—never again would there be a Friday, the 13th.

To please the girls, leap year day would be a distinct 24-hour period between June and July, during weather more conducive to romance.

West Greene Wins Over McGuffey

West Greene's cagers took a 66-50 victory over McGuffey Joint High School Thursday night at Rogersville.

It was the Pioneer's second victory. For the second time in three days, Rick Sonneborn registered a 44 point evening. He hit on 15 field goals and 14 foul conversions to rack up an output of 120 points.

He scored 44 against Hundred, 32 against Clay Battelle Thursday night and 44 in Thursday night game. The Pioneer team hit a remarkable 20 for 24 from the foul line.

At the halfway mark, West Greene had built a convincing 40-11 lead. The Pioneers will be idle until the first of the year.

Damage to Wheeling Downs More Than Million

WHEELING, W. Va. — A fire which was believed to have started in an area where a new furnace had been installed caused more than a million dollars damage at the Wheeling Downs Race Track late Thursday night.

Pete Bonamy, track public relations director, made the estimate.

Bonamy said he and James Edwards, the track owner, were inspecting renovations at the track when they smelled smoke. They saw the flames start up from the north end of the grandstand where the furnace was located.

It was the second fire at the oval within a month. On November 26, flames swept a stable area, causing $100,000 damage and killing 13 horses.

The track cancelled a winter meeting scheduled to open the day after Christmas.

The latest fire destroyed the grandstand and damaged the track administration building. The adjacent clubhouse suffered some water and smoke damage.

Workmen recently completed renovations at the track, including glassing in of the spectators' area for winter racing.

In 1960, hurricanes accounted for $96 million dollars in damages in the U. S.

High Scorers For College

Junior Ernie Chadderton (49) and sophomore Bill Stohl (44) are leading the Waynesburg College basketball team in scoring after three games.

The Yellow Jackets are 1-2 with a win over Thiel and losses to Carnegie Tech and St. Vincent. Both Chadderton and Stohl have had 19-point efforts, Stohl against St. Vincent and Chadderton against Thiel.

Chadderton paces the team in field goal shooting with 57 per cent on 16 of 28 and in free throw shooting with 89 per cent on 17 of 19.

Overall, Waynesburg is shooting 41.6 from the field and 70.5 from the charity line. The team is averaging 62 points-per-game.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day An Horatio Alger Hero

In 1934 there was reason to suspect that this was no longer a land of opportunity. At least opportunity wasn't going around knocking even the proverbial "once" in those days. That was the year Harry Hopkins announced that 4,700,000 American families were "on relief". Adding to economic woes, Spring droughts resulted in severe dust storms in the Midwest and created the country's "dust bowl". It was also the year a young cowboy with a dream drove into Lexington in a second hand truck with a "stake" of $1,000 saved by his brother and himself to buy a few horses. Rex C. Ellsworth headed back West that Fall with several elderly broodmares in foal and so began a success story the likes of which even Horatio Alger would have hesitated to write. Rex Ellsworth's stable this year became the third in history to win over $1,000,000 in a single season. (Calumet Farm has done it seven times and C. V. Whitney, once.) In 1934 the late Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane was the leading owner with earnings of $251,138. Just one of Ellsworth's horses, Prove It, has earned over $340,000 this year. Oddy enough, while the Ellsworth colorbearers have been consistently successful this is the first time he has led the money-winning list.

Area Methodists To Observe 'Aldersgate Year'

Many of the 800 Methodist churches of the Western Pennsylvania Conference will start their observance of 1963 as "Aldersgate Year" the minute the new year begins.

New Year's Eve watch night services have been planned so that as the clock strikes midnight Methodists will be at worship, and then prayer vigils will be held around the clock on New Year's Day.

Bishop W. Vernon Middleton of Pittsburgh, head of the Western Pennsylvania Area of the denomination, described Aldersgate Year as "a time of special emphasis on Christian experience and evangelism by The Methodist Church." It was so named to commemorate the important turning point in the life of John Wesley, founder of Methodism, that took place in a meeting on Aldersgate Street in London, May 24, 1738, he said.

Aldersgate Year is scheduled 225 years after Wesley's experience in which he said he "felt his heart strangely warmed," while hearing a reading of Martin Luther's preface to the Bible's Book of Romans.

During Aldersgate Year, "soul-searching study" of the Book of Romans is requested of each of the 40,000 Methodist churches in the United States.

Power Failure Halts A-Ship

HONOLULU, — The nuclear powered merchant ship Savannah stopped dead twice from failure of the electrical system while en route from Los Angeles to Honolulu, it was learned Tuesday.

In each case the sealed off nuclear reactor powering the ship was working perfectly but had to shut down until the trouble was found.

Failures of the electrical system described as of a routine nature, caused a "scram" light to flash on the ship's instrument control panel in the engine room.

The Savannah lay dead in the water more than two hours each time.

Probable G. O. P. Legislative Goals Are Listed

BUTLER, Pa.—State Senator Albert R. Pechan, Republican majority whip, has outlined the probable legislation the administration of Governor-elect William Scranton will push for.

The list:
Civil Service protection for more state employees, particularly professional people.

Creation of a labor-management council to improve the state's industrial climate.

A job retraining council.

Broader authority for the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority.

Reapportionment to cut down the size of big senatorial districts.

The shelving of the school district reorganization law for one year instead of an amendment to the law.

A boost in teachers' salaries and the payments the state makes to school districts.

More community colleges offering two years of instruction.

Increased state support for state colleges and scholarship loans.

Revision of the 1863 state constitution.

A strong strip mining law.

Improvements in the state medical care law for persons over 65.

Pechan, who has served in the Senate during the administrations of four governors, said none of the four brought to the governorship the experience in organization that Scranton has.

Wrights Honored At Kitty Hawk

KITTY HAWK, N. C.—Man's conquest of the air was celebrated here recently at the site of the first powered flight 50 years ago.

Jet power, in a flyover of Air Force and Navy planes, joined in the salute to Wilbur and Orville Wright, pioneers of the space age.

A. Clark Stratton, assistant director of the National Park Service, told a crowd attending ceremonies at the Wright Memorial that construction of an air strip here should be completed in time for the 60th flight anniversary next year.

JOHN GLENN CALLS BOY SCOUTING "FUN"—Reviewing the Boy Scout Handbook, astronaut John Glenn tells a Boy Scout, "You'll find that Scouting gives you a chance to learn and do many exciting things. Scouting is fun." The Boy Scouts of America is now conducting its "Go" roundup for new members.

Both Parties Favor Chicago Convention

WASHINGTON — Democrats and Republicans have begun to look for sites for their 1964 National conventions with the odds indicating both parties will select Chicago.

The cities, however, have indicated to Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey and G. O. P. National Chairman William E. Miller they are interested in submitting bids for one or both conventions.

They are Atlantic City, Chicago, Detroit, Houston, Los Angeles, Miami Beach, New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Seattle.

The 12 - member Democratic site committee will hear presentations from the competing cities at a meeting here January 17, preceding the party's fund-raising celebration honoring President Kennedy.

Republicans named a six-member site committee, headed by Mr. Miller, at a meeting of the party's national committee here earlier this month.

Party officials here say it is much too early to predict which city or cities will bag the huge quadrennial meetings but agree that indications point to Chicago because of three of the most important factors—central location, hotel capacity and convention facilities.

Both parties had a fling at taking their conventions to the Pacific Coast in the past six years—the Republicans at San Francisco in 1956 and the Democrats at Los Angeles in 1960.

Although both candidates nominated at those western gatherings later were elected, both conventions were followed by complaints of high travel costs, shortage of hotel space and the effect of the time zone gap in the televising of proceedings to the Midwest and East.

Lean pocketbooks are influencing both party organizations to agree on the same convention city in 1964, as they have done in four of the last seven presidential election years.

Selection of the same city saves substantial amounts in duplication of facilities, decorations and arrangements, an important factor since both parties are trying now to liquidate past indebtedness in time to raise 1964 campaign funds.

Paving Material 'Heals' Itself

URBANA, Ill.—A paving material which 'heals' itself when fractured is being studied at the University of Illinois. The material is a lime-pozzolan, which is becoming increasingly popular for secondary roads, parking lots and similar uses.

The healing phenomenon, according to H. L. Ahlberg, of the Illinois Department of Civil Engineering, results from chemical action continuing slowly inside the material long after it hardens. This allows rebounding across a fracture if the parts are in close contact, with sufficient moisture and without intrusion of other materials.

"Repair of damage due to rupture at early ages makes healing an important engineering property of a lime-pozzolan aggregate mixture worthy of further investigation," says the official report.

U. S. to Probe Relief Chiseling; $1.3 Billion Cost

WASHINGTON — The U. S. Government next month will launch a nationwide investigation of relief chiseling.

The probe will be aimed at uncovering the extent of cheating prevalent among the 925,000 families drawing help through the "aid to dependent children" program — also known as "mothers' assistance."

About 45,000 of these cases will be spot-checked during 1963 to determine:

- What percentage of the recipients are collecting such assistance illegally.
- How well the various states are policing their own relief rolls.

The investigation was demanded more than five months ago by the Senate Appropriations Committee after a Senate probe of such relief recipients in the District of Columbia revealed three-fifths of those checked were ineligible.

Latest figures show 925,179 families — representing 3,633,155 persons, including 2,810,053 children — are getting more than 114 million dollars a month in this type of relief.

The average monthly payments to such families range from $35.81 in Mississippi to $198.12 in Illinois.

About 21,000 cases will be investigated before April 11. Another 24,000 will be checked during the rest of the year.

Mr. Ball indicated investigators will make surprise visits to homes of relievers — including calls during evening hours and over week ends—to ferret out chiseling.

About 60 federal and 450 state and local welfare workers will team up to carry out the year-long investigation. It is expected to cost two million to $2,500,000.

No state or local employe will be permitted to investigate a case he or she happens to be handling for a relief agency.

As added insurance of impartiality, federal investigators will double-check one of every 20 cases reviewed by state and local authorities.

Tri-state families receiving aid and the number to be investigated include:

Pennsylvania, 2415 out of 62,027; Ohio, 1221 of 35,578; West Virginia, 1080 of 30,442.

25 States Are Core Of Barley Belt

LEXINGTON, Ky.—The barley tobacco sales belt is listed as an eight-state area, but only 11 of the 61 sales centers are located outside Kentucky and Tennessee. Virginia and North Carolina have three each, Indiana has two, and West Virginia, Ohio and Missouri, one each.

Your Health Pennsylvania Medical Society

It is a frightening and critical moment when some member of the family becomes suddenly seriously ill.

Unconsciousness in the case of sudden illness is alarming to the onlooker.

As long as the stricken person is able to talk he does not appear to relatives and friends to be in immediate danger.

Common medical emergencies in which unconsciousness is a symptom of complication are cerebral hemorrhage (stroke or apoplexy), epilepsy, electric shock, uremic coma, drowning, or diabetic coma.

Another group of emergencies includes conditions involving stomach, intestinal tract, heart and lungs.

Gastric or duodenal hemorrhage is an emergency, and is involved with the stomach and upper part of the small intestines.

Hemorrhage frequently occurs when an ulcer perforates a large blood vessel with resultant vomiting of blood.

An emergency called heart attack is frequently associated with coronary heart disease.

Coronary heart disease results from interference with the blood supply to the heart muscle, either partially or completely blocking the vessels.

There are emergencies from poisoning and most poisons have a particular antidote about which the physician will either know at the moment, or he can get information from a poison control center.

A medical emergency is a crisis for the ill person and also for others present.

Those in attendance have need to think clearly and act helpfully, until a physician arrives.

Nina Towed In, 470 Years Late, Slower Than 1492

SAN SALVADOR, Bahamas—The Nina II arrived here under tow early Wednesday, completing its re-enactment of Christopher Columbus' 470-year-old voyage of discovery.

The tiny, round-bottomed square-rigger, a replica of Columbus' smallest ship, overshot San Salvador in the darkness of Christmas Eve and was unable to make its way back against unseasonably strong winds.

An inter-island airliner sighted the 40-foot ship, 16 miles west of San Salvador, trying to make headway upwind. In response to a signal requesting assistance, the U. S. Navy sent a 26-foot launch to tow the Nina in.

Even under tow, the ship could make no better speed than a crawling two knots against the wind.

Commissioner Neville E. Bostfield said it apparently was the unusually strong east wind that caused the Nina to miss its landfall at San Salvador, where Columbus first set foot in the new world.

The new Nina's transatlantic voyage took three times as long as the original vessel's crossing in 1492. At latest reports, all of its crew of nine were well.

In an effort to duplicate Columbus' feat as closely as possible, the Nina carried no radio or other modern navigational aids. For a time the ship was feared lost in the stormy Atlantic, but a search plane sighted it some weeks ago.

$28 Painting Bared As An Old Master

BIRMINGHAM, England — An art-loving factory worker who bought a painting for $28, unaware that it was an old master, sold it recently for $12,320.

Norman Crompton bought the painting in 1947 and stored it in his bedroom until recently when he took it to the Birmingham Art Gallery to be cleaned.

Beneath the layers of dirt and old varnish was a brilliant sunrise seascape, "The Embarkation of St. Paul," by Claude Lorraine, the most celebrated French landscape painter of the 17th century.

State Physicals Keep 27,776 From Driving

HARRISBURG — Traffic Safety Commissioner O. D. Shipley has reported that 27,776 drivers have been disqualified for physical or mental defect since the state's physical re-examination program went into effect June 1, 1960.

"Public acceptance of and support for the physical examination program has grown steadily," he added, in a statement summarizing the first 30 months of the program (to last Nov. 30).

"Most motorists have come to realize that the physical condition of the man behind the wheel is at least as important to increased highway safety as the mechanical condition of the vehicle being driven."

Shipley said more than 1.3 million persons have been examined through the program. The 27,776 disqualified represent 2.1 per cent.

Of the total disqualified 11,703 actually were checked while the remaining 16,073 did not comply with the examination requirement because of known physical disabilities. Shipley reported.

The reasons for disqualification among those who took the test showed 3,995 cases of extreme neuropsychiatric or mental disorder, 861 of uncontrolled epilepsy and 777 for chronic alcoholism.

At the same time, over 131,000 licensed drivers were found in need of corrective lenses before being allowed to continue to drive.

Retroactive Income Tax Slash Backed

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said Tuesday he believes President Kennedy still wants next year's proposed tax cuts made retroactive to January 1 and declared his own view that most of the reduction should be in the personal income tax.

Hodges said the individual income tax savings would have a quicker stimulative effect than corporate rate cuts, getting the extra buying power more quickly "into the main stream of the economy."

Mr. Hodges stated that national output now has topped the $560 billion-a-year rate and predicted that production gains will continue to set new records in 1963.

"But the pace is not satisfactory," Mr. Hodges said, and tax reduction is needed to stimulate the rate of business expansion "over the long pull."

Although Mr. Kennedy, in his speech last week to the New York Economic Club, did not mention January 1, 1963, as the target date for tax reduction to take effect, Mr. Hodges stated:

"I think the President does want the reduction retroactive to January 1; I think that is what the President recommended."
