Robena Mine Hearing Recessed Until Friday

Named Director Of First National

CHARLES R. BALLY

Charles R. Bally, well known Waynesburg insurance agent, was elected a director of the First National Bank and Trust Company, Tuesday at the annual shareholders' meeting.

All directors and officers were reelected.

Mr. Bally is a partner in the Bally Insurance Agency, and is a member of a county banking family. He is a graduate of Massanutten Military Academy, and after serving for three years in the U. S. Navy, he attended Waynesburg College. He has been active in many civic and fraternal organizations.

During the meeting the president, Judge J. I. Hook, emphasized the growth of the banking institution and stated that the bank will continue its policy since inception of remaining strong, conservative and safe.

Harry E. Mertz, executive vice president, reported on the highlights for the past year. His remarks included that total resources increased by $643,917 for the year; loans increased $342,000; deposits, $559,000 and reserves, $42,000. It was also pointed out that the past year has been the best year of growth, and that the bank on October 15, 1962, reached an all-time high in resources of $12,104,543. In addition, the loan income of the bank showed a substantial growth.

Judge Hook emphasized the fact that the modernization of the bank had been completed and received favorable acceptance from the community. Also, that the employees have been increased from 30 to 35 during the year.

Weaver Appointed By Commissioners

Greene County Commissioners on Tuesday reappointed Samuel P. Weaver of Waynesburg to a five-year term on the Greene County Municipal Recreation Authority. Other members are Attorney William P. Thomas and Miss Mary E. Collins of Waynesburg, and William J. Cutler and George A. Walters of Nemaquin.

The Recreation Authority operates the swimming pools at Waynesburg and Nemaquin.

J. Claude Smith of Carmichaels, was re-appointed to the Greene County Municipal Authority for a five-year term and Norman Pennington of Dilliner, was appointed to serve the unexpired portion of the term of J. Howard Bally of Carmichaels, who died recently.

Other members are E. Bryan Jacobs, and John R. Conklin, both of Waynesburg, and S. J. Pecon of Carmichaels.

The Municipal Authority, at the present time, has no active project under way.

The commissioners also have established the 1963 holiday schedule for county employees. Holidays will include Good Friday, April 12; Memorial Day, Thursday, May 30; Independence Day, Thursday, July 4; Labor Day, Monday, September 2; Veterans Day, Monday, November 11; the municipal election, Tuesday, November 28, and Christmas, Wednesday, December 25.

Following Tuesday's testimony the probe into the Robena No. 3 mine disaster of December 6, the hearing recessed until Friday. Lewis Evans, outgoing state secretary of mines, who is conducting the hearing, explained that he must return to Harrisburg briefly to clear up business before he leaves office.

A long list of witnesses who had worked the shift just before the one in which an explosion killed 37 men in the U. S. Steel Corporation's mine, testified that everything was all right in the mine during their shift.

Seven maintenance men, testifying in the fifth day of a public hearing into the explosion, said they found nothing wrong and had not heard any reports of methane gas in the mine, despite earlier testimony that gas had been found by the previous shift and that safety precautions had been neglected. The mine was properly rock-dusted, they said.

Shuttle-car operator William Epps testified that when he came to work the evening before the December 6 blast proper safety conditions were in effect—the mine roadway was damp and the walls and roof were rock-dusted. His testimony clashed with

Gifts to College During Holidays

President Paul R. Stewart has just announced a record holiday season in the support Waynesburg College has received from alumni, friends, and foundations. From the last of November to a few days past New Year's the college has received over $104,000—and all time record for this time of year.

A large share of these gifts has been to the Science Hall Fund, probably stimulated by the fact that ground will be broken for this building in the spring. Another large share of these gifts has been for the building expansion in Uniontown where an enthusiastic campaign is being carried on.

President Stewart commented: "From Thanksgiving to the present date, Waynesburg College has enjoyed a continuous thanksgiving spirit toward these many friends."

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Kentucky is one of the few States where 18-year-olds are allowed to vote. They have been voting since the May primaries of 1956.

An Intolerable Lust...

Desire for Power

The voice of the American people can be a mighty voice, and it can be heard in Washington and in the local community.

Lately, the people are not only saying they have had enough, but that they have had too much; too much interference by government in their affairs; too much meddling; and too much planning of their everyday lives.

We do not need specialists or bureaucrats to plan our lives. What we do need is less government in Washington and more responsibility by the people. We need fewer something-for-nothing ideas and more of the do-it-yourself approach.

More than a thousand years ago, Augustine wrote:

"The desire for power over our equals is an intolerable lust of the human soul."

That truth uncovers not only the motivation of communism but the explanation of much that goes on in the involved realm of American politics.

The lust for power will drive people to great lengths to reach the high places from which power over their fellowmen can be exercised. The policy of government by secrecy and intrigue continues to grow like an ever-darkening shadow, gradually engulfing one freedom after another.

Our Founding Fathers verified the historical fact that government, although useful and necessary, is perpetually dangerous and the most difficult force on earth to harness and control. In an understandable spirit of fear, they cut American government into pieces and nailed each part down with positive restraints.

They understood what Woodrow Wilson said more than 100 years later.

"The history of liberty is the history of limitation of governmental power."

Every line of every state and federal constitution made by the Founding Fathers was a limitation—a strong restraining chain upon the power of some part of American government.

Today's self-styled "planners" are advocating more government spending and taxes, and more government direction and control of labor and business. They insist that the steady expansion of the size, power and cost of federal government is needed for the good of the country.

The idea that growth is only possible when planned, controlled, and directed by a central government is as old and as false as recorded history.

Centralism is a perilous path for the American people to follow, and it can only lead to frustration and national weakness. In fact, this concentration of power is the very essence of totalitarianism. Advocates of centralism use the nation's need for faster economic growth to justify more spending and control by the government. It is now an admitted fact that many high officials in government desire "controlled socialism," which simply means subjection of the people to the planning of a few.

Today we desperately need more public officials who provide real leadership with the backing of people interested in preserving our freedom and independence. Perhaps our first (Turn to Page Four)

Increase in Salary Move for Congress Backed by J. F. K.

WASHINGTON—Members of Congress are laying secret plans to vote themselves a big pay raise this year.

The figure most members are discussing is an increase of $7500, which would raise the annual salaries of Senators and representatives to $30,000.

This would be a 33 1/2 per cent increase in their present pay of $22,500 a year.

Congressional leaders, it was learned today, already have extracted a promise that President Kennedy will name a commission of "public-spirited citizens" to recommend the pay action.

They believe this will take some of the sting out of expected unfavorable reaction of voters and taxpayers to the congressional pay increase. They also hope such a commission will be generous as well as public-spirited.

The President is expected to act quickly, so the pay increase can be pushed through Congress early this year—as far as possible in advance of the 1964 election.

Mr. Kennedy, in asking Congress last year to raise the pay of Government employees, offered to cooperate to determine what pay raise would be "appropriate" for members of Congress and Government executives. But Congress shied away from such a move in an election year.

In addition to raising its own pay, Congress is expected to vote raises for the cabinet, Federal judges and top department and agency officials. Their pay levels customarily parallel those of Congress.

Many members of Congress are sensitive about voting raises for themselves. While they want—and believe they deserve—more pay, they fear an outburst of objections and even ridicule from voters.

Older members still recall the "bundles for Congress" campaign that greeted passage of a congressional bill during World War II. Congress repealed the bill within six weeks.

If the pay increase plan kicks up too much fuss, some members would be willing to settle for a raise to $25,000 or $27,500 a year.

Chairman of Boy Scout Drive

JOHN R. THROCKMORTON

John R. Throckmorton of Waynesburg, vice president of Gallatin National Bank, has been appointed Greene County district chairman of the Boy Scout Development Campaign.

Mr. Throckmorton was a member of the first Scout Troop in Greene County, which was organized by former U. S. Senator Edward Martin.

Mr. Throckmorton has been in banking since March 5, 1915, serving with Gallatin since November 15, 1962. Prior to that time he was associated with the Citizens National Bank and the First National Bank and Trust Company of Waynesburg.

Medicare Hopes Slim In House

WASHINGTON—Democratic leaders Tuesday predicted Senate passage of President Kennedy's controversial medicare program this year but said chances for House action in 1963 are slim.

Shaping up is another dramatic showdown in the Senate on the issue of financing a basic package of health benefits for the nation's 17 million elderly citizens through higher Social Security taxes.

By a 52 to 48 vote, the Senate rejected the proposal last year in one of the most tense roll calls of the 87th Congress. The outcome was in doubt almost until the last vote was cast.

England, Wales Cut Polio Rate

LONDON—Only 325 cases of polio were recorded in England and Wales last year, the lowest number in almost 50 years, the Health Ministry, announced, in 1955, before the vaccination campaign, there were more than 6,000 cases.

Council Plans Renewal For Redbird Hollow

Polio Chapter Honors Mrs. Jones

MRS. GERALD JONES

Mrs. Gerald Jones of Waynesburg, who has served as Greene County chairman for the March of Dimes for three years, was honored Friday night at a meeting of the executive committee.

Mrs. Jones resigned as chairman at the close of the 1962 campaign.

She was honored as having shown the greatest percentage of gain in Pennsylvania during the 1962 campaign.

John Wydro, chairman of the Western Pennsylvania campaign, was present, as were Attorney Ewing B. Pollock, chairman of the county chapter, and Attorney James Hook, chairman of the 1963 March of Dimes.

Postmaster at Pine Bank Retires

Minter E. Beall, who has served as postmaster at Pine Bank since 1947, has retired, effective as of last December 31.

Mr. Beall, who operated the general store in which the fourth class postoffice is located, has sold his store to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bunch of Pine Bank, who have been operating it since the first of December. Mr. Beall purchased the store from the John Meighen estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Beall are natives of Davistown. As a young man, Mr. Beall taught school and for three years served as postmaster at Davistown. Following World War I, he moved to Waynesburg as an employee of the American National Bank and remained with the institution when it was merged with the Union National Bank and Trust Company.

Jacob C. Huffman, carrier at Pine Bank, will remain in the position.

Eisenhower Asks Tax, Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said Monday he would like to see "a very substantial" cut in income taxes, but one accompanied by a reduction in Federal spending "right across the board."

Mr. Eisenhower said all Government spending was "going up too fast" and should be reduced, particularly on non-defense items.

The former President made his remarks in a copyrighted interview with U. S. News and World Report in which he also said the Cuban situation is "far from being solved" as long as Premier Fidel Castro remains in power.

England, Wales Cut Polio Rate

LONDON—Only 325 cases of polio were recorded in England and Wales last year, the lowest number in almost 50 years, the Health Ministry, announced, in 1955, before the vaccination campaign, there were more than 6,000 cases.

Waynesburg Borough Council at Monday night's meeting voted the sum of $3,000 in the 1963 budget to begin a long range renewal program of Redbird Hollow.

A survey will be made in preparation of application for federal funds to aid in the renewal plan.

It is proposed to purchase land in the hollow and clear it of sub-standard housing. Franklin street would be improved and new sewer lines laid to make the purchased land more desirable for resale.

Loren Matthias of the Waynesburg Planning Commission, said if the project is approved, the federal government would pay 75 percent and the state and borough 25 percent.

The borough would be allowed to substitute non-cash credits from its expenditures for public facilities that would benefit the renewal area. This would include construction of streets and construction of the new Purman Run Bridge which is now under way.

An ordinance creating the position of borough manager passed on second reading. The position will be advertised locally and in the state.

Council approved a special

Robena Idle; Assured More Jobless Pay

Robena miners will be paid unemployment compensation as long as they refuse to enter the mine for fear of their safety.

An Allen Sulcove, state secretary of labor and industry, has issued that instruction to the Bureau of Employment Security.

"It is not the policy of this Administration to force workers to return to employment that they have reason to consider unsafe," he said.

Some 1000 Robena miners refused to enter the pits January 2, and again Monday, ignoring work schedules posted by the U. S. Steel Corporation.

Their union leaders said they wanted further guarantees that the explosion which claimed 37 lives in Robena No. 3, December 6, will not be repeated.

Mr. Sulcove issued his "instruction" with the approval of Gov. David L. Lawrence and in the face of certification from the State Department of Mines that Robena No. 3 is safe to operate.

Mr. Sulcove said he used the informal "instruction" rather than issuing a formal decision to leave the door open for an informal protest if employers who support the unemployment compensation fund want to make one.

Since most of the miners are eligible for the maximum $40 weekly benefit, the fund will be paying out about $40,000 a week at Robena.

Mr. Sulcove said his instruction "bears no relationship to the preliminary findings on the conditions of the mine or the hearings now being conducted."

"The recent disaster . . . makes it clear that we must not bring pressure on the men to return to work by denying them unemployment compensation," he said.

"They must be sure in their own minds that the place of operations is safe."

Deplores High Cost Of Campaigns

The high cost of political campaigns threatens to make the office of the President out of reach to all but millionaires, according to Senator William Proxmire.

Campaign spending is almost a national scandal, the Wisconsin Democrat said in Washington.

Mr. Proxmire said Congress should require detailed reports, including a full identification of contributors, from all candidates.

Is there an adolescent in the house?

If you're a parent, there are times when nothing in the world seems more unhappy than the trials of adolescence. And if you're a young person, the desire to be "all grown up" fights with the feelings of love and respect that you've always held for your parents.

Where's the common ground that can ease this difficult period in life? Often it's at the place where you worship.

Faith does move mountains—of misunderstanding, anger, frustration. It helps parents to see, understand, and have tolerance for their youngsters' problems. It helps young people have a sense of worth about themselves now—and about the adulthood they'll soon assume.

Worship—together—this week . . . and add new, true values to your life!

Electric Range Helps Make Cook An Artist

Of all the modern electric appliances on the market today, what does the homemaker like best?

Survey after survey shows that she gets the most enjoyment out of cooking. Why? Because it is creative work.

Of course, even something that's basically "creative" can be tedious if the proper tools are not available. The grand masters who splashed oil paints on taut canvas would have become a trifle bored if held down to crayons and scratch-paper.

So, to bring out the artist in your wife, why not buy her a modern electric range? Every cooking operation becomes easier because automatic features assure carefree kitchen work to suit the homemaker's schedule.

There's no need to watch and wait at the oven door while the food cooks. Just pop the food in the electric oven, set the controls, and go about your business.

There is never any guesswork because electric cooking is accurate. Just the turn of a control, or push of a button, and you have the exact heat required every time.

An electric range also provides clean cooking. There's nothing about its operation to cause dirt or grime. Kitchen walls, decoration, and curtains stay clean and new looking. Cooking utensils stay bright and shiny too, saving hours of tiresome scouring.

There is a fine selection of electric ranges now on the market. For big meals in little kitchens, there's the single oven model or the popular double-oven range.

Many homemakers prefer the modern electric built-in range which gives the kitchen a distinctive custom look. The built-in oven is installed at waist level with the controls arranged so that they are easy to see and reach.

The matching surface units, also mounted at convenient working level, can be installed at any location in the kitchen the homemaker desires.

So, for the job most women like best, buy your wife the best tool available—a modern, automatic electric range.

Eisenhower and His Cabinet Met More Frequently Than Kennedy's

WASHINGTON—According to the White House, President Kennedy's cabinet has met 23 times since he took office. This works out nearly to once a month.

In contrast, former President Eisenhower and his cabinet officers got together for high-level national and international discussions roughly four times as often.

Eisenhower held his cabinet meeting weekly whenever possible, and even during his periods of protracted illness the meetings went on with former Vice President Nixon in the chair.

Beyond the stipulation that the President may require, in writing, the opinion of the principal officer of each executive department upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, the constitution says nothing about the relations of the President with his cabinet.

Being a military man, Eisenhower was a great believer in the staff conferences of the leaders of his "team." He liked to hash things over with his area commanders before reaching his decisions.

He once told a national Young Republican Conference that the cabinet is whatever the President wants it to be.

"It can, on one hand, be a score of heads that do nothing but nod, in neat array—a kind of agreeable approval of everything proposed by the President," he said.

"It can be in the other extreme, a babble of discordant voices in which the prize of decision belongs to the loudest voice."

His own cabinet members, he went on, were a real team, giving "advice candidly and thoughtfully, speaking their several minds freely and lucidly to but one purpose—to offer the best, the wisest programs within their power . . ."

President Kennedy is not operating within the same framework. There is no evidence that any of his administration's major decisions ever has been hammered out at a gathering of his cabinet.

His cabinet meetings are described as briefing sessions in which the President reports on the current state of affairs and each cabinet member brings his mates up-to-date on what goes on in his balliwick.

This doesn't mean that Kennedy is out of touch with his cabinet officers. He definitely is in more frequent contact with them than was Eisenhower.

He prefers the personal touch and his favorite avenue of communication is the telephone. If he has a question to ask or a suggestion to volunteer, he does it immediately in person rather than wait to bring it up in the stuffy formality of a cabinet meeting.

With the exception of his brother, Robert, who seems to act more as an assistant president than attorney general, and Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon, the President is not personally close to any members of his cabinet. His eyes and ears are the mem-

Cardiac Clinic For Children Opens Wednesday

Dr. Joseph F. Bayer, chairman of the Cardiac Clinic Committee of the Southwestern Pennsylvania Heart Association and chief of the newly established Children's Cardiac Clinic, has announced the clinic opened Wednesday, January 9, from 10:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon in the out-patient department of the Washington Hospital.

The clinic was established by the Southwestern Pennsylvania Heart Association in cooperation with the Washington Hospital. The clinic will be available to physician referred cardiac patients from birth to 21 years, residents of Washington and Greene Counties.

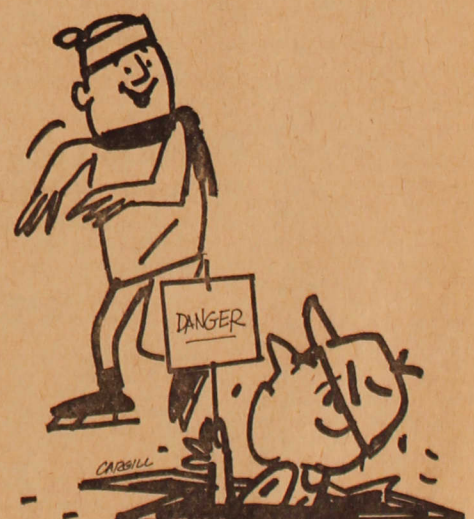

Dr. Bayer said, "this will be the only clinic in this area to which physicians may refer their patients for further diagnostic evaluation of heart ailments."

Dr. Bayer defined the following functions of the clinic: It will make available the best current knowledge and techniques in diagnostic treatment for the patients; it will provide diagnostic or therapeutic consultant service to other clinics, to physicians, and to other health agencies in the community; and it will provide continuity of care by appropriate follow-up measures.

Nobody thought of calling in the cabinet.

Desire for Power

goal should be to redeem our moral values according to the intent of the Constitution.

We must recognize that greater government spending cannot correct all human ills and that it is not the answer to the problems facing us.

If we are to build well for the world of tomorrow, it is important to continue our scientific and technical development. It is equally important to continue the development of our defense establishment to preserve our freedom from those who would build a world of tomorrow devoid of freedom.

Of even greater importance is the moral and spiritual development of man. This is the most challenging of all.

There are many hazards of all-powerful government, and they are dangerously multiplied when agencies are given excess funds, manpower and authority. We have allowed and sometimes encouraged government to erect complex structures of regulations and controls, plus subsidies, gifts, grants, loans, and benefits. Government has been given a great deal more power than it should have.

A member of the United States Congress said:

"I believe that exploitation of human needs and problems for the purpose of completely centralizing and federalizing our governmental activities in this country represents a cure that is far deadlier than the existing ills."

We need men in government who believe firmly in the fundamental basis of American freedom and who practice it. The American people must have statesmen, not mere politicians, if our nation is to survive. We hope members of the 88th Congress of the United States will unite in striving to save the personal freedom of America, and concern themselves with what is best for America instead of what is best for their party.

FAMOUS AMERICAN TAVERNS

The Nachusa House in Dixon, Illinois

Lincoln and Douglas Talked Across the Way

More history is packed into the small city of Dixon (present population 19,000) than in almost any other spot in the mid-west. Abraham Lincoln and Stephen Douglas engaged in talks on the courthouse lawn directly across from the Nachusa House, oldest hotel in the middle west under continuous operation. It has never been closed at any time, in more than a century.

John Dixon founded the community on the Rock River approximately 100 miles west of Chicago. The location was originally the river crossing point for the Galena Trail, which extended from Peoria to the Galena, Illinois, lead mines. The town was incorporated in 1853.

The Dixon Evening Telegraph and the Nachusa House are the city's oldest enterprises. The newspaper was founded in 1851 and the hotel had its first foundation laid in 1837, though financial difficulties prevented its completion until 1853. It is fitting that the newspaper now owns the hotel and that the late publisher of the Telegraph, Mrs. Mabel S. Shaw, should have been responsible for the resort's fine restoration.

The architecture of the Nachusa House reflects various periods in its additions and improvements, from the Mansard fourth story added in 1867, the three story annex built in 1915 to the new wing and complete renovation of 1953-1955. The architecture of the older parts of the building has been carefully maintained.

Of principal interest are the 65 rooms within which both early American and modern motifs may be found. Many of the rooms are named after the famous people who have stayed at the Nachusa. The Abraham Lincoln Room with the bed he slept in and the desk he wrote at, has been completely restored to its original atmosphere. Other "name" rooms include Henry Ward Beecher, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jefferson Davis, Stephen A. Douglas, U. S. Grant, Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft.

Notable among the public rooms is the "1837 Room," which harks back to the pioneer days of the Nachusa's founding. But there is nothing primitive about its excellent cuisine and its bar which dispenses the finest beers, ales and other beverages. The Nachusa is not only a museum of early Americana, but the most modern up-to-date resort.

Dr. Clovis Gives Fine Collection Of Arrowheads

A collection of arrowheads, defined as one of the most outstanding in the United States, has been presented to Dr. Paul R. Stewart, president of Waynesburg College, by Dr. Oscar Clovis, a prominent physician of Canton, Ohio. Dr. Clovis is a 1913 graduate of the college.

The collection was mainly discovered in Central Ohio. These arrowheads were used by the Adena and Hopewell cultures of Central Ohio during the period about the time of the birth of Christ.

Included in this collection is a felsoid point which is dated at approximately 5000 B. C. Projectiles of this type were used in pre-historic times during the Moundbuilders' era. Some of the mammoths of pre-historic years have been found with arrowheads of this type thrust into the bone of the rear legs. The point was so fashioned to let blood drain, thus killing the animal.

The Adena culture is exemplified by the mounds situated at Moundsville, West Virginia. The Hopewell civilization is illustrated by the earthworks located in Newark, Ohio, 30 miles east of Columbus, Ohio.

The material for these arrowheads comes from a deposit of flint just north of Brownsville, Ohio, known as Flint Ridge. Flint Ridge is now a state park.

This fine collection of arrowheads made addition to the collection of Dr. Stewart's which is now on display in the College Museum.

Two Bad Fires In Waynesburg On Friday

Fire early Friday morning destroyed the six-room frame dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Albert and four children at Morningside, Waynesburg R. D. 3. The family were in Philadelphia. Damage was estimated at $9,000.

The fire was not discovered until the house was beyond saving. Waynesburg volunteer firemen concentrated their efforts on saving a vacant house standing about 20 feet away and a house trailer 50 feet to the rear of the Alberts' home.

Mr. Albert operates a trailer court at the rear of his home. Firemen said the blaze apparently started in the living room. By the time the company arrived the front of the house had fallen in. Nothing was saved.

About 10:15 Friday night fire broke out in the McCollum Wallpaper Store on South Washington street.

Only quick action by the firemen saved the entire block from being destroyed. The property is owned by Attorney Albert A. Sayers and his sister, Miss Catherine Sayers, both of Waynesburg, and their brother, Attorney James E. Sayers of Pittsburgh.

The upstairs apartments were occupied by Mrs. William R. Gross, Miss Lulu Cox, and a college student, Robert Brennan. They escaped without injury.

Firemen were able to confine the blaze to the wallpaper store. Smoke seeped in to the Railway Express office and to the Republican Headquarters.

The fire was discovered by Sheriff Mark G. Shultz and deputies Harold A. Russell and George Clelland, who noticed the neighborhood was full of smoke.

Exchange Student Group Elects New Officers

Waynesburg Chapter of the American Field Service reorganized for 1963-64 at a meeting Sunday evening in the home of the President, Mrs. R. Wallace Maxwell of Bridge street.

The A. F. S. is the organization which has placed an exchange student in Waynesburg High School for the past five years. It also makes it possible for a local student to spend a summer in the home of a European family.

Mrs. James Fritz was elected president to succeed Mrs. Maxwell. Mrs. Samuel Milliken was named chairman of the student home committee; Mrs. Albert Sayers, chairman of the Americans Abroad committee; Raymond Murdock, high school faculty representative; Miss Anna Meighen, Student Council faculty advisor representative, and Robert Fox, school board representative. In addition, the student who will be president of the high school Student Council next year is a member of the board.

Members of the student home committee, in addition to Mrs. Milliken, are Mrs. Ernest Warrick, Mrs. William P. Thomas, Mrs. John Raver, Mrs. James Goodwin, Mrs. D. Paul Greenlee, Mrs. Bryan Blair and Mrs. Maurice Pincus.

Other members of the Americans Aboard committee are Mrs. James Hook, Mrs. Jack Williams, Miss Catherine Sayers and Mrs. Samuel P. Weaver Jr.

Miss Meighen announced that Student Council already has raised the $700 needed to bring an exchange student to Waynesburg next year. This was done through the sale of milk and magazine subscriptions.

The current need is to find a home in which the student can reside while attending school here in 1963-64.

Boys and girls who come to the United States of A. F. S. scholarships are selected from among many applicants from many schools in Europe. Selection is based on qualities of character, leadership, scholarship, a knowledge of the English language and a desire to know democracy as it is lived in the United States.

The students are enrolled as seniors at Waynesburg High School under the program. They reside in carefully selected homes on the same basis as other children in the home. The host family receives no remuneration.

The first exchange student was Jean Pierre (Johnny) Dietz of Luxembourg, who was here in 1957-58. Others were Dieter Ortman of Germany, in 1958-59; Miss Marte Sorvig of Norway, in 1959-60; Antonio Croci of Italy, in 1960-61, and Miss Sara Abadie of Uruguay, in 1961-62.

Miss Esin Ahi, a 17-year-old Turkish girl, is spending this year with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Warrick, whose daughter, Diane, is a high school senior.

Yellow Jackets Take Easy Victory From Wheeling College, 67-53

Coal Company Aims to Avoid Stream Pollution

The Consolidation Coal Company assured sportsmen and conservationists Saturday that every effort was being made to avoid pollution of Dunkard Creek in Greene County by mine acid water.

Ernest Hall, water and air pollution control expert for the company, said both the water being pumped from its mine just over the West Virginia line and the stream were being checked constantly to prevent pollution from occurring.

"Not only is the company checking the mine discharge and the creek, but also officials from Pennsylvania and West Virginia are doing so," Mr. Hall said.

He said the pumping operations at the Purselove No. 15 mine near Mt. Morris, may eventually result in removal of the acid water threat completely.

Complaints about acid discharge from the mine had been raised by members of the Mt. Morris Sportsmen's Club and Deputy Game Warden J. Keith Harvey.

Water from the mine is being discharged into Wades Run, which flows into Dunkard Creek.

"Some of the acid water from Wades Run may hug the bank of the creek for a short distance but its effect is quickly dissipated," Mr. Hall said.

He explained that the mine, operated by the Christopher Coal Company had discharged alkaline water until last summer when a pump failure allowed water to accumulate underground. When the pumping was resumed, the discharge pouring into Dunkard Creek was found to be acid, partly because of the low level of the creek.

The pumping then was stopped and resumed when the water level rose. The spokesman said the level now is high enough to permit around-the-clock pumping. He said that about three months of steady pumping may rid the workings of the acid and permit the alkalinity to return.

State Allotted Wildlife Funds

Stewart L. Udall, Secretary of the Interior, has notified the Pennsylvania Game Commission of a supplemental allocation of $156,032.11 Federal Aid in Wildlife Funds for the current Federal fiscal year.

The commission previously has received an allocation of $384,068.75 in April. The final allotment brings the fiscal year total to $540,100.86.

Federal aid funds are derived from an excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition under terms of the Pittman-Robertson Act. Distribution of the funds is based upon the number of licensed sportsmen and land area in each state.

State to Buy County Land For Hunting

The Pennsylvania Game Commission has authorized the purchase of 228 acres in Dunkard and Greene Townships for public hunting areas.

The authorization is part of a state-wide go ahead to purchase 2,814 acres in the state for public hunting.

The 228 acres will be added to State Game Land No. 223, which lies between Davistown and Gardards Fort.

State Game Protector Ted Vesloski of Carmichaels, said the additional land would bring the Dunkard-Greene Township tract to 2,345 acres.

Game Protector Vesloski said the purchase of the land is part of the State Game Commission's program to increase and round out existing game land areas.

Vesloski said 592 acres were purchased for the same game land tract on June 7, 1962.

He said the 228 acres will be stocked with wildlife and feed and cover areas will be constructed.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service which approves and coordinates research, land management and acquisition projects established by the states. Conservation Departments are reimbursed 75 per cent of the cost on approved projects.

Pennsylvania's allotment this year was the fourth highest in the nation. Alaska and Texas each got $695,100. California was third with $631,036.34.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day Guest Appearance

As Jaipur and Ridan crossed the finish line in the Travers Stakes at Saratoga last Summer, an urbane but not cynical turf writer turned to his typewriter with the comment: "A horse named Number 4 'win' it." While it is true that most horses lack an identity until they appear in the paddock with a number on their bridle, or on the track with a saddle cloth number and a jockey up, there have been notable exceptions to the rule. While the huge New York racing audience is generally labelled the most unsentimental of racing throngs, it was at old Jamaica that Stymlie drew applause as he was walked down the stretch toward the paddock. Stymlie was a popular hero to his fans who recognized him without benefit of silks or saddle number. The fans who crowd the saddling area and the perimeter of the winners circle give the lie to the cynical belief that people are interested only in the program number by which they buy their pari-mutuel "Share" in the horse's ultimate performance. This summer at Thistle-down, in Cleveland, Carry Back made a guest appearance, not to race but to gallop down the stretch. Attendance that Saturday was up more than 33 percent and on the following day, 15,000 men, women and children came out to see him in his stall and to talk to Owner, Katherine Price and Trainer, Jack Price who stayed at the barn all day and collected some 6,000 signatures in Carry Back's guest book.

The person with a character quirk may do the right thing, at the right time for the wrong reason or at the wrong time for the right reason.

The really mixed-up psycho does the wrong thing at the wrong time for the wrong reason.

Some people find solutions to their personal problems and adapt themselves to changed situations.

They may develop defenses against their emotional conflicts which takes them out of the highly accident-prone group.

Accident-proneness may not be constant and it may occur only for limited periods when physical or emotional conditions are acute.

Physicians are studying accident-proneness in the home, in industry and on the highways in an effort to reduce the catastrophic loss of life through accident.

State Wins Award For Safety Program

Pennsylvania's hunter safety training program has been selected for a special citation from the National Rifle Association. Franklin L. Orth, executive vice-president of the association, recently notified the Pennsylvania Game Commission that a committee of the International Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissioners had selected the Pennsylvania program, along with those in none other states and one Canadian Province to receive citations for outstanding contributions to hunter safety during 1962.

More than 50,000 Pennsylvanians, most of them youngsters, have been trained since the Game Commission put its present program into effect in 1958. Commission field officers have placed special emphasis on training volunteer instructors for the four-hour course and during the past four years have certified over 4,000 persons as qualified to teach hunter safety classes.

Recreation Loans For Enterprises On Farms Available

Farms Home Administration is now accepting loan applications from family farmers for the development of recreation enterprises on their farms, Robert J. Meneely, county supervisor of the agency for Washington and Greene Counties has announced.

Loans also are available to non-profit associations of farmers and others living in rural communities to cover the cost of shifting land to different uses, including recreation.

On family farms, funds may be used to develop land and water, construct buildings and to purchase land, equipment, livestock and other related recreational items. Recreational enterprises which may be financed include camping grounds, swimming facilities, tennis courts, riding stables, vacation cottages and lodges, lakes and ponds for boating and fishing, docks, nature trails, picnic grounds and hunting preserves.

Associations may use Farmers Home Administration loans to develop a large recreation area, such as a park or lake shore, golf course or skiing facility; to convert land now being cropped into a grazing or forested area; and to establish a wildlife refuge, among other enterprises.

Mr. Meneely said that his agency will use its regular lending programs to finance the new recreation loans. The maximum amount of intermediate credit farmers can obtain to cover operating costs of a recreation project is $35,000. Under the real estate loan program they can borrow a maximum of $60,000 to develop land and buildings for recreation. However, it is expected that the average loan nationally for on-farm recreation activities will be considerably less than these top amounts.

Intermediate-term loans run a maximum of seven years, real estate loans, a maximum of 40 years. In both cases the interest rate is five percent.

To qualify for a recreation loan, a farmer must have the background needed to be successful in the proposed farm and recreation enterprise. After the loan is made, he must continue to receive a substantial part of his income from farming.

Recreation loans are aimed at helping family farmers supplement their incomes, Mr. Meneely said. His office will assist borrowers in working out a plan for operating the recreation projects to make the best use of all their farm resources.

Nonprofit associations or rural residents may borrow up to $1 million to finance changes in present land use. The maximum interest rate is five percent. These loans may be made up to 40 years.

Examples of associations that might be eligible for one of these loans, said Mr. Meneely, are non-profit corporations, soil conservation districts, local recreation associations; small towns and other public agencies in rural areas.

To qualify for a recreation loan, individual farmers and associations must supply proof they

Watch Out for Skids

There's no sure way to prevent dangerous skidding, but the good driver attempts to avoid them, and knows what to do if his car does go into a skid.

BRIDGE FREEZES BEFORE ROAD SURFACE

SLOW-ICY CONDITION AHEAD

CAUTION SLOW DOWN

SLIPPERY WHEN WET

When driving on ice or snow, slow down! Remember that a bridge freezes before the road surface around it. If you skid, don't hit your brake. Ease up on the gas pedal and steer in the same direction as the skid.

If every motorist had observed these safety suggestions last year, 25,184 accidents, and 295 fatal accidents might have been avoided!

that of Joseph Baron, another shuttle-car operator, who worked in the explosion-ripped section. He said Monday that safety conditions such as sprinkling and rock-dusting were neglected except when inspections were due, that he repeatedly had trouble obtaining repairs on a shuttle-wagon and that safety checkups were "nothing but a big joke."

Epps testified that his "buggy" shuttle-wagon was in "pretty good" condition and he had never experienced any delays in obtaining repairs while working in the section where the explosion took place. In other sections, he said repairs sometimes took from a day to a week.

Epps also corroborated previous testimony that methane gas had been found in the mine the evening before the explosion—another disputed point.

Fred Spoljarich, a continuous mining machine operator, had testified that he found gas and reported it. He said Assistant Foreman Albert H. Dillow was right behind him and also detected gas.

But Dillow testified that he had not found any gas and did not recall such a report.

Baron said he heard Spoljarich tell Dillow "the place is full of gas." He said he was ordered by Dillow to improve the ventilation.

Val Ostrosky, a bratticeman and tubeman, said he, too, was told by Dillow to improve the ventilation.

"I heard Spoljarich tell Dillow that there was gas in the area," he testified. "Dillow then told me that the air was sluggish and to correct it."

Assistant Foreman George Parish, in charge of an incoming maintenance crew, testified Tuesday, however, that Dillow told him before leaving that everything was all right except for one shuttle-buggy tagged for repair. Parish said he made a two-hour-ten-minute inspection of the eight-lift section, checking the entries and the air-deflecting stoppings.

committee recommendation that a private contractor be hired to collect garbage and trash and to operate the proposed landfill which will replace the present open dump.

Rates which the contractor will charge will be controlled by Council. It has been estimated the new service will cost borough residents between $1.50 and $2 a month.

Council voted to establish a Blue Shield program and set up funds to finance it in the 1963 budget. All regular, full-time borough employes will be covered.

The ordinance that requires sidewalks be cleaned within 24 hours after a snowfall ceases, will be strictly enforced.

Police were also directed to be on the alert for new construction in the borough to make sure that proper building permits have been obtained.

Teacher Placement Service Expanded

Expansion of Pennsylvania State Employment Service's Teacher Placement Service to include junior colleges and private academies was announced Wednesday by Paul Corder, manager of the Waynesburg office.

Mr. Corder stated that private academies include preparatory schools and military schools. He pointed out that the Teacher Placement Service now officially has been extended to include administrative posts in the public school system.

Teacher Placement Service efforts since the program was inaugurated February 1, 1962, were concentrated on teaching jobs in the Commonwealth's public school system. However, applications for work or orders for employes in the administrative fields and for positions at the college level had been accepted.

Mr. Corder said that of the 1,670 vacancies listed in fields of education to date, 63 were received from out of state while the remainder came from 400 school districts in Pennsylvania.

Urging both teachers and school districts in this area to participate in the special placement service, Mr. Corder said that the Harrisburg office has both a list of applicants seeking jobs and a list of vacancies which need to be filled in February and in September, when new school terms start. Vacancies mostly are in Pennsylvania but several openings have been listed by other states.
