Churchill Voted Citizen by House; Now Up to Senate

WASHINGTON — With speeches of praise for Sir Winston Churchill, the House voted Tuesday to grant him honorary U. S. citizenship.

If the Senate approves—and it is expected to do so—it would be the first time in American history that Congress has awarded the honor.

The House vote was 377 to 21, with five members answering only "present" when their names were called.

Those who opposed the move spoke of the sacredness of American citizenship.

Sir Winston, the 88-year-old British statesman, has let it be known that he "would be deeply moved by the honor." But a spokesman has said he would not be able to travel to this country for a ceremony.

Once before, in 1958, when Congress was talking about the honor for Churchill, he declined it. At that time, referring to his American mother, he said he was half American by blood and added: "I feel that I would prefer to leave the matter thus rather than have an official seal put on the affection and high regard in which I hold your country."

At that time, relations between the United States and Britain were strained over the Suez.

The measure approved by the House would empower the President to proclaim Sir Winston an honorary citizen. President Kennedy has said he favors it. The Senate has a similar resolution which must be approved by the Judiciary Committee before it comes up for a floor vote.

Scranton Names Collections Chief

HARRISBURG — Governor Scranton named William R. Atkins of Harrisburg as director of county collections in the Department of Revenue, effective Friday.

Atkins, 37, succeeds Joseph P. Shettig at the $9,450-a-year post. Atkins served as secretary of the board of arbitration under former auditor general Charles Smith from January 20, 1958 to November 17, 1961.

Greene County Commissioners have announced that the present 11 mills real estate tax will stand for another year.

Commissioners A. R. Varner, Herman Gugliotta and John B. Carter are now working on the budget for the current fiscal year, but the financial status of the county will not require any change.

The major item in the budget and an item which is still indefinite — involves allocating funds to begin construction of additions to the Curry Memorial Home.

The project is part of an overall program to improve care given elderly persons who are dependent upon the county. It also involves the establishment of a nursing home wing at Greene County Memorial Hospital, where construction is now under way, and eventual abandonment of the antiquated Greene Hills Farm Home, across Route 31 from the Curry Memorial Home.

The Curry Home project will involve the addition of two large wings to the existing building, which will increase the capacity of the institution from 34 to 102 beds. The existing building will be completely renovated.

The estimated cost of the project is $1,350,000, with one third of the cost to come from the federal government. In addition, the county already has about $325,000 set aside for the project from the proceeds of sale to the state of the former Children's Home property.

If the cost estimate of $1,350,000 is carried out in the bids, this would leave approximately $600,000 still to be financed by the county.

The commissioners said that while plans are to seek construction bids sometime this spring, arrangements for financing the project are still indefinite. It is known, however, that some form of indebtedness will be required which would be repaid over a period of years.

4 'Generations' of Odd Fellows Here

Four "generations" of grand masters of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will attend the annual roll call night meeting of Waynesburg Lodge No. 469 in the Waynesburg lodge hall on Tuesday, March 19.

In June 1949, James H. Ely, a member of Waynesburg Lodge, was installed as grand master and appointed as a member of his staff, William L. Neal of National Lodge No. 81, Washington.

Neal was elected and installed as grand master in June 1953. He appointed Kenneth M. Daugherty of Finleyville to his staff. In June 1958, Daugherty was installed as grand master and appointed Carl V. Reedy, Lititz, Lancaster County, to the state staff.

Last June, Reedy was installed as head of the Odd Fellows in Pennsylvania. In announcing his plans to visit Waynesburg Lodge, Reedy said "I will be meeting with my father, grandfather and great grandfather in the Odd Fellows' family tree."

Scranton Asked to Appoint Members

HARRISBURG — Three Democratic legislators called on Governor Scranton to name six citizen members to the State Air Pollution Commission in the immediate future.

In a joint statement issued by Representatives Stanley A. Meholchick, Ashley; Joseph G. Wargo, Olyphant, and Michael J. Needham, Scranton, in the name of the office of House minority leader, the legislators said:

"Failure to act on the appointment of citizen members has forced the state air pollution commission to cancel its January meeting and it threatens to force cancellation of a March 26 meeting. The commission is without a quorum to act on vital matters."

Some Facts About Debt and Deficit

That Should Be Faced

With the national debt soaring beyond the 300 billion dollar mark, some Americans are still saying that such an obligation doesn't really matter "because we only owe it to ourselves."

Such a belief is faulty because it refuses to face the fact that deficit spending by the government will eventually lead to national disaster.

This fact must be faced.

Apply some logic. If a man transfers his own money from his right pocket to his left, the transaction leaves him neither richer nor poorer. There certainly would be no point in a person borrowing from himself; but, if for some obscure reason he did so, his individual net worth would not be affected, and the size of the debt he owed himself wouldn't matter.

If a man buys extensively on credit, his creditors do not believe that he "owes it to himself." They know that the size of the man's debt makes a big difference when the bills fall due.

Proceeding along this line, a government could own or control all property and issue money or bonds as a bookkeeping device to keep track of its spending. In such a situation, the government would be dealing only with itself, and individuals would have neither property nor rights.

But in a non-socialized society, individuals have rights and own property. Thus, if the government borrows money from Citizen A, it is obligated to repay that debt to Citizen A; not to B or C or D. But Citizen A is also a taxpayer and liable in part for the taxes the government must collect in order to redeem his bond. And Citizens B and C and D are also liable as taxpayers. Clearly the size of the national debt does make a real difference to everyone.

Government debt signifies that government has made certain claims upon private property over and above the due processes of authorized taxation. The semblance of private property has to be maintained in order for the government to find owners from whom to borrow and taxpayers upon whom to draw when the debt falls due.

But in a very real sense, the government debt is an existing claim against private property in the same way as an unpaid tax bill. As the debt grows larger, individual equity in private property grows smaller.

The size of the debt is important because it measures the amount that taxpayers and property owners owe; not to themselves, but to a government over which they have lost control to the precise extent that it now owns and controls them.

The growing size of the government debt should be a matter of real concern to every creditor and especially to every taxpayer with any interest whatever in private property and personal freedom.

A large part of the mountain-high debt has been piled up as a result of government competition with private companies. The cost of this competition has been estimated at nearly 40 billion dollars a year. If the federal government would sell shares of stock in government-owned corporations to the American people a long step away from (turn to page four)

Walter C. Montgomery Dies After Long Illness

WALTER C. MONTGOMERY

Walter C. Montgomery, 82 years, prominent Waynesburg attorney, died Saturday, March 9, 1963, in Greene County Memorial Hospital. He had been in failing health for two years.

Mr. Montgomery was a son of Thomas Hoge Montgomery and Emma Gordon Montgomery, and was born September 3, 1879, in Washington Township.

Mr. Montgomery graduated from Waynesburg College in 1903, and from Pennsylvania University Law School in 1906. He was admitted to the Greene County Bar in 1908.

As a youth he had enlisted in K Company, Pennsylvania National Guard, and during the Mexican border incident, Mr. Montgomery served as captain. He also served when the company was ordered sent overseas, but was transferred in May 1918 to the Second Army Corps as Assistant G-3 to the General Staff.

Mr. Montgomery had been associated with the late Colonel Thomas S. Crago in the practice of law, and later with Attorney W. Robert Thompson.

Mr. Montgomery was interested in civic and church affairs. A member of the First Baptist Church, he had served as president of the state Baptist convention. He had served as president of the Greene County Selective Service Board; president of Greene County Hospital Board, and a director of Greene County Chamber of Commerce.

On June 25, 1908, Mr. Montgomery married Miss Grace Sayers.

Fraternally, Mr. Montgomery was affiliated with Waynesburg Lodge, F. and A. M. 153 and was master of the Lodge in 1910-11; a member of the Pittsburgh Consistory; a 32nd degree Mason; and a member of Syria Temple Shrine and Washington Royal Arch Chapter 150.

He was also a charter member and director of the Greene County Country Club; a past exalted ruler of Waynesburg Lodge 757, B. P. O. Elks; a charter member of James Farrell Post 330, American Legion, Waynesburg; a charter member of the Fort Jackson Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution; a past chancellor commander of the Waynesburg Knights of Pythias Lodge; a charter member and past president of the former Waynesburg Kivans Club and current Rotary Club and a member and director of the Washington County Motor Club.

Surviving are his wife; two sons, Ford Montgomery of Baytown, Texas, and Walter, Jr., of Boulder City, Nevada. Also surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Earl Murdock of Waynesburg, and Mrs. Florence Murdock and Mrs. Pauline Warne, both of Pittsburgh. Two brothers are deceased.

Funeral services were held Tuesday in the First Baptist Church, conducted by Rev. Henry A. Young. Interment in Greene County Memorial Cemetery.

$164 Million Paid In Auto Deaths

NEW YORK — A record total of $164 million in life insurance benefits was paid last year to families of policyholders killed in automobile accidents, the Institute of Life Insurance said recently. It said the total, surpassing the 1961 total of $136 million, resulted from another record: an estimated 41,000 persons were killed in 1962 automobile accidents, more than in any other year.

Three Officials Charged With Robena Blast

Prosecution of three men charged with violating safety regulations at Robena No. 3 mine, where 37 were killed in an explosion last December, has been recommended by the commission which investigated the disaster.

Governor William W. Scranton Wednesday made public the findings of the commission, which was headed by Lewis E. Evans of Ebensburg, former secretary of mines.

While the report did not identify the three men, all employees of United States Steel Corporation, Evans said they are:

Michael Wydo, superintendent of Robena No. 3.

Marion Mislak, a mine foreman.

Albert Dillow, an assistant mine foreman.

Governor Scranton said that "it is important to emphasize that the three men are not charged with any offense which caused or contributed to the explosion which claimed 37 lives."

Scott on Spot Over Judges

GREENSBURG — The Westmoreland Bar Association Tuesday asked U. S. Senator Hugh Scott, R-Pa., to state that he doesn't question the integrity of any Westmoreland County judges.

A resolution, approved by association members at a meeting in the courthouse, mentioned "recent remarks publicly made on a television program" by Scott.

This apparently was a reference to Scott's recently televised comment that there are certain "crooked" judges in Westmoreland County.

Scott did not name any judges or counties, but he later said he did not have Allegheny County in mind.

Attorney A. Frank Steiner, secretary of the Westmoreland Bar Association, said that in the resolution the bar association members express "their confidence in the integrity of the judges of the several courts of this county, whose disposition of causes coming before them has been consistently fair and impartial."

New York Hails Mercy Vessel

NEW YORK — S. S. Hope, the world-touring hospital ship supported by donations from Americans, received a fireboat spray and whistle reception Monday on her first visit to New York.

The mercy vessel, staffed with volunteers, returned to the United States from a 10-month medical mission to Peru. Mayor Robert F. Wagner, extended an official welcome.

Thousands are Homeless in Recent Floods

Rain-swollen streams swirled out of the southeastern mountains Tuesday, leaving thousands homeless and causing untold millions of dollars in property damage in a 20-county area.

The floods, which struck severely in West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Virginia, came in the wake of tornadoes that left a trail of death and destruction in parts of Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee.

Six deaths attributed to floods were added to five tornado fatalities. And six others were feared drowned, including a Tennessee family of five.

The Guyandotte River, after sweeping a messy, costly path of destruction through dozens of southern West Virginia coal mining towns, crested in flood-wrecked Logan Tuesday at 31.7 feet. This was 11.7 feet above flood stage and a record depth.

Logan itself remained isolated, a scene of desolation. The main streets of the town of 4,100 were covered with eight to 10 feet of debris-ridden, muddy water.

Disaster relief stations were feeding, housing and clothing the hundreds of homeless there and elsewhere in the flood zone embracing Logan, Mingo, Greenbrier, Raleigh, Wyoming and McDowell counties.

May Draft Quota Set; Army to Get 10,000

WASHINGTON — The Defense Department has issued a draft call for 10,000 men in May. All will serve in the Army.

The May quota is the same as that announced for April and compares with 9,000 for March.

Auto Sticker Deadline Extension Is Unlikely

HARRISBURG — Extension of the March 31 deadline for 1963 license plate stickers appeared unlikely Tuesday despite early delays in the mailing of renewal applications.

State Revenue Secretary Theodore B. Smith said the Bureau of Motor Vehicles hopes to have the last 500,000 applications in the mail by Wednesday.

"If all are returned immediately, there should be nothing to worry about," Smith said, expressing confidence that the deadline would not have to be advanced.

His assurance came just 24 hours after legislation was introduced in the State Senate that would permit county treasurers to issue motor vehicle license registrations.

Smith blamed the delays in mailing on a number of reasons, including some confusion during the change of administrations when Scranton took over as governor.

"The applications had been signed by my predecessor, Charles Dougherty (secretary of revenue under the Lawrence administration)," Smith explained. "His name had to be blocked out and my name inserted. This was a time-consuming process."

Another reason cited by Smith was that the Bureau of Motor Vehicles selected low digit numbers for the initial mailings.

More Democrats Announce Their Candidacies

Attorney W. Bertram Waychoff of Waynesburg, announced a few days ago, that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for district attorney in the May primary.

Mr. Waychoff previously served two terms as district attorney from January 1948 through December 1953. He did not run for re-election, but was a candidate for judge.

He also stated that he again would be a candidate for judge two years hence.

Attorney James Hook of Waynesburg, had also announced previously.

Attorney R. Stanley Smith of Waynesburg, has also announced as a Democratic candidate for county commissioner.

Installation Is A Simple Matter With An Electric Dryer

Easy installation is one reason why more people buy flameless electric clothes dryers. Two out of every three dryers sold last year were electric.

Installation is a simple matter because an electric dryer requires only one connection to the source of energy. And since electric clothes drying is flameless, it doesn't produce any of the usual by-products of combustion. This eliminates the need to install a flue, and gives the homemaker greater flexibility in choosing a convenient location for the dryer. The appliance dealer's statement, "Dry your clothes on the day of delivery," is not an empty promise.

An electric dryer offers homemakers many other benefits, too. Clothes dry soft and fluffy, without any worry about soot or odors clinging to them. It dries clothes quickly, eliminating time-consuming trips to the clothesline with heavy, back-breaking loads of wet wash. And it certainly provides more leisure time for the busy housewife. She can complete her laundry work quickly in a convenient, small space in her home. Then she can go about other chores or go to town while her clothes dry automatically.

What other appliance can save so much time and work? See the wide variety of electric clothes dryers on display at your dealer's.

PRUNE CHEESE CAKE

Here is a layered cheese cake frankly rich and sumptuous. Below, it's all winery fruitiness set on a crunchy crust; above, velvety cheese creaminess with more of the crust as a top-off. The fruity part is prunes, tart-sweet and meaty, blended with sugar and grated lemon rind. The crunchy crust is toasted oat cereal, nut-like in taste. And the cheese layer has been frothed with eggs, cream, lemon rind and such.

Bottom Crust:

2 tablespoons butter or margarine | Pinch salt
8 marshmallows (2 ounces) | 2 cups toasted oat cereal

Combine butter or margarine, marshmallows and salt. Stir over low heat until melted and smooth. Stir in cereal. Press mixture in even layer on bottom of greased 8-inch spring form pan.

Prune Layer:

2 cups pitted prunes, chopped | 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
1/2 cup sugar | 1/2 cup water

Pinch salt

Combine ingredients and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thick. Cool, then smoothly spread over cereal layer.

Cheese Filling:

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin | 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 cup sugar | 2 cups creamy cottage cheese
1/4 teaspoon salt | 1 8-ounce package cream cheese
3 eggs, separated | 1 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 cup milk | 1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Topping:

3/4 cup toasted oat cereal | 2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon | 1 tablespoon melted butter

In top section of double boiler, mix gelatin, sugar, and salt; stir in slightly beaten yolks and milk. Cook over simmering water until mixture is a thick, smooth custard. Cool, then chill a few minutes until mixture mounds when lifted with a spoon. Beat cottage cheese and cream cheese together to blend thoroughly. Beat in cooled custard and vanilla. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and whipped cream. Pour cheese filling over prune layer. Combine topping ingredients. Sprinkle over cheese layer. Garnish with whole prunes. Chill about 3 hours or until firm enough to cut. Makes 8-10 servings.

Attend the Church of Your Choice Regularly

a Nation of Families

One hundred years ago England's great novelist Charles Dickens, wrote a very honest sentence. Said Charles Dickens, "In love of home, the country has its rise."

Charles Dickens, who loved his country and knew the human heart, knew that a nation can only be as great as its family units are content and happy. Without the growth and solidity of its families, nations cannot survive.

So that while your church gives close attention and support to the efforts of every honest peace-maker in his work of building a "family of nations," your church is also concerned with another vital mission. That mission is this: to reestablish America as a "nation of families."

It is not an easy job. Divorce rates are high.

And in thee shall all the families of the earth be blessed. Gen. 12:3

There are tensions, unrest, dissension in our land. Juvenile delinquency plagues almost every city. The war we fought and won is now exacting its tribute—and we cannot allow that tribute to engulf the families of America.

That is why your church is on crusade, and why you are asked to join that crusade. It is your family your church is fighting to preserve; it is your family that your church wishes to hold together.

By going to church, by combining your efforts with the aid of the church in attacking a problem that threatens the fibre of America itself, America will continue to prove itself as the world's strongest force for world peace—because the American family is together.

Federal Savings and Loan Associations Show Rapid Growth in Last Decade

A particularly striking outgrowth of the demand for specialized skills in recent years has been the vast growth of savings and loan associations across the country. Within a decade and a half these institutions have risen from relative obscurity to become an important part of the total economy. At present, the total assets of the national savings and loan business are second only to those of the commercial bank system, and the growth rate of associations during this period has been substantially greater than that of the commercial banks.

The rapid development of savings and loan associations into a major national financial system has been primarily based in the public's need for an ample and constant source of home mortgage credit.

During World War II the private housing market had virtually died out due to an acute shortage of construction materials and the absence of any substantial demand for private housing. Moreover, the war had been immediately preceded by more than ten years of economic depression. During most of this period, there was relatively little capital to finance home buying and few families with sufficient income to make such a purchase.

We came out of the war, therefore, with a very serious housing shortage which was further intensified by the return of millions of war veterans to their families, a sudden upsurge in new family formations and the general prosperity stimulated by the war-time economy.

No other nation in history had ever built private housing before on such a grand scale, and to do so depended upon finding a way to reach the mass market of average income families. A new concept of home financing was needed, and the savings and loan associations, which had specialized in financing homes for more than a hundred years, were the only institutions that had developed a lending plan suitable for the great majority of American families.

Throughout the late 1940s and all of the 1950s, the demand for housing seemed inexhaustible. In 1944, private non-farm housing starts had dwindled to 138,700; starts passed the one million mark for the first time, and more than one million homes have been built in each succeeding year through 1959 when a record 1,494,600 starts were reported. Since then, between 1.2 and 1.4 million starts have contributed greatly to the trend toward lower down payments and longer maturities, but throughout this great housing but by 1950 annual new home boom the savings and loan business was obviously the pace-maker in providing the vast amounts of credit needed to support the rising levels of home building and home buying.

The total annual mortgage lending volume of associations increased from under $2 billion nationally in 1945 to $5.2 billion in 1950, reached $11.3 billion in 1955 and will exceed $20 billion for the first year on record in 1962.

During this period, the savings and loan business increased its share of under $20,000 non-farm mortgage recordings from 31 percent in 1950 to 37 percent in 1955 and presently is responsible for 45 percent of the total market.

Savings and loan associations now clearly dominate the home mortgage field. Their nearest competitors are the commercial banks which contributed 16 percent of the non-farm recordings during 1961. Individuals were responsible for 11.7 percent of the market that year, and mutual savings banks for 5.6 per cent. Other mortgagees shared 19.2 per cent of the market.

Of course, associations could only grow as fast as they attracted new savings from the public, but the great demand for savings and loan home mortgage funds enabled the majority of these institutions to offer a higher return on savings than any of their competitors.

This competitive advantage had the maximum effect during a period in which the average family's income was rapidly drawing away from the minimum cost of living. The figures show that by far the greatest portion of the new funds available for savings went to the savings and loan business.

At the end of World War II, associations held $7.4 billion in total savings; in 1950, savings had increased to $14 billion; in 1955, to $32.2 billion and at the end of 1962, the total savings held by associations will exceed 80 billion dollars.

Mutual savings banks, the nearest competitor to associations among the thrift institutions, held $15.3 billion in savings at the end of 1945, $20 billion in 1950, $28 billion in 1955, and will hold slightly more than $40 billion at the end of 1962.

Total savings deposits held by the nation's commercial banks in 1945 were nearly four times as great as the savings held by associations, somewhat more than twice as great in 1950, only 50 per cent greater in 1955 and today commercial bank savings deposits exceed savings and loan savings funds by only about $10 billion, and their totals include a substantial sum of corporate deposits not available to the associations in large amounts.

Jeb Stuart Returns To Richmond Area

FORT LEE, Va. — Jeb Stuart is back in the Richmond area where a valiant Confederate force held the Southern capital against a Yankee thrust in 1864.

But this time it's Lt. J. E. B. Stuart IV of Manassas, N. Y., great-grandson of the Confederate general who won fame at Manassas, Chancellorsville, and Gettysburg.

Young Stuart is an ordnance ammunition officer in the 2d Logistical Command at this Army post named for General Stuart's commanding officer, Robert E. Lee.

Lieutenant Stuart — naturally nicknamed Jeb — explains his feelings about being a great-grandson of the Confederate general this way:

"I guess I have two major reactions. First, I feel intense pride. Second, I hope I can be half the soldier he was."

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Faux and son, Bobby of Washington, visited Mr. and Mrs. Albert DeVito and family.

Mrs. Lottie Martin of Uniontown, is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Martin and other relatives and friends here.

Frank Craft has returned home after spending two months with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Braddy and sons, Stephen and Gary of Jackson, Mississippi.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kinsell and daughter, Marlene of Spring Valley, N. Y., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Trbovich.

Mrs. Donald Whoolery of Hopwood, and Mrs. Ida Clemmer of Smithfield, were guests of Mrs. Kathryn Murray.

Blennerhasset Island in Ohio May Become U. S. History Shrine

MARIETTA, Ohio — Famous Blennerhasset Island, in the Ohio River, 14 miles south of here, at last may be headed for development as a shrine of American history.

Scene of some of the plotting of Aaron Burr, one-time vice president of the United States, in his treasonable quest of empire over a century and a half ago, the island has been optioned for purchase by a group which hopes to obtain Federal aid for its restoration.

Mrs. Fred Peterson, organizer of the group, says that a Richmond firm that worked on the restoration of historic Williamsburg has been authorized to make a feasibility survey of the island project.

An option on the historic place, where one of Burr's co-conspirators, Harman Blennerhasset, took his girl bride—his sister's daughter—after fleeing Europe in fear and disgrace, expired February 22 but reportedly will be renewed with a substantial payment on the undisclosed purchase price.

S. Durwood Hoag, owner-manager of the Hotel Lafayette here, and chairman of the Marietta Area Chamber of Commerce Industrial Development Committee, disclosed this latest effort in what has been more or less a dream idea in these parts for three quarters of a century.

Mr. Hoag said the island is now owned by General Harry J. Sands Jr., who is stationed at Cape Canaveral, Florida.

A brother of General Sands, who lives in Marietta, James E. Sands, for some time has been operating a private game preserve and an exclusive hunting area for sportsmen on the island.

Last summer a boat dock was installed on the lower end, where picnickers could land from boats, buy refreshments and dance on a concrete slab.

George Washington is perhaps the first person to make a report on Blennerhasset Island. Then it was a group of four islands, later to become one through silt deposits.

Harman Blennerhasset brought romance to it in 1796. Mystery and intrigue came with Aaron Burr in 1805.

The romance of Harman and Margaret Agnew was a whirlwind affair. Just out of college himself, Harman was visiting a sister Kathryn, wife of Captain Robert Agnew, lieutenant governor of the Isle of Man, at Christmas time in 1795. He was asked by Kathryn to go to France and accompany her 18-year-old daughter, a student, back home for the holiday.

She was his bride when he brought her home. Fourteen years younger, and his niece, Margaret was disinherited and disowned by her family.

In the bitter family argument that followed on both sides, the marriage was kept secret because it was considered a disgrace. Harman Blennerhasset sold all his interests in his family's fortunes and the couple fled to America.

Soon they were headed overland from Philadelphia for Marietta, then considered the gateway to the new Northwest Territory. Harman learned of the island in the Ohio below Marietta, a place where he thought he and his wife would be safe from prying eyes and gossip.

He bought what is now the upper end of the island, acquired 25 slaves, started to clear the land and build a home which eventually became one of the finest west of the Allegheny Mountains.

Aaron Burr came to the island in 1805, politically dead, the object of a storm of wrath over his killing of Alexander Hamilton in a duel at Weehawken, N. J.

Burr's visit was in the hope of financing his plan to set up a new empire under his domination. He saw only Margaret —Harman was away looking after his own finances — and there was plenty of tongue wagging about his overnight visit.

Later he went back, talked Harman into parting with some money and promising more.

Both were arrested, tried for treason and acquitted.

But the Blennerhasset fortunes were gone. Fire destroyed the island mansion in 1811. Harman and Margaret eventually took residence on the Isle of Jersey, where Harman died in 1831.

Margaret came back to America later to wage a fight before Congress for damages done to

Underground Sites Of Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG—There are 272 known caves and caverns in this state. About a dozen are open to the public. Franklin County alone has 29 caves.

One mile west of Birmingham, in Blair County, are caves that produced lead and zinc ore during the Revolutionary War. A list of caves and caverns open to the public is available from the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, Harrisburgh 1, Pa.

Make A Perfect Perfection Salad

Basic to classic American cookery is perfection salad, that refreshing combination of shredded cabbage, celery, green pepper and pimiento served with a dollop of real mayonnaise. Although the recipe and mayonnaise remain the same, there is news of a new mayonnaise jar. After extensive research to determine homemaker preferences, the makers of Hellmann's real mayonnaise have adopted a new 1-quart size jar. The container, described as the easy scoop jar, has a volume identical with the old one, yet it is a shorter jar with a funnel form upper section designed to make it easy to run a kitchen knife or rubber spatula round the inside of the jar in order to remove the last of the mayonnaise. Like the old jar the new one takes the standard canning lids and therefore is reusable for canning.

Just as perfection salad made news at the turn of the century, the new easy scoop mayonnaise jar is destined to make news.

PERFECTION SALAD

- 1 envelope gelatin
 - 2 tablespoon cold water
 - 1 cup boiling water
 - 1/2 cup vinegar
 - 1/2 cup light corn syrup
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 2 tablespoon chopped green pepper
 - 1 cup shredded cabbage
 - 1/2 cup thinly sliced celery
 - 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
 - Real mayonnaise
- Soften gelatin in cold water. Add boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add vinegar, corn syrup and salt. Cool. When mixture begins to thicken fold in remaining ingredients. Pour into 1-quart or 5 to 6 individual molds; chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with crisp salad greens. Dress with Hellmann's real mayonnaise.

U. S. MOVING HABITS

The typical American family lives in the same house for six years and seven months, a national study made by a moving firm shows.

Tips On Your Social Security

By PAUL A. BENNETT

Eighteen million social security checks are mailed each month to retired or disabled men and women, their dependent spouses, children, and to widows, widowers, and surviving dependent parents. If you are one of these people, you probably depend on that check being delivered on time each month. But sometimes, things happen and you don't get your check on time. This article tells how you can help to eliminate the risk of having your check delayed.

First, if you move, try to give the Social Security Administration about three weeks' advance notice of your new address. Also, promptly notify the post office of your new address. The social security checks are prepared by the Treasury Department of the United States about the middle of each month, allowing timely delivery by the post office to you early next month. If a change of address is received in the social security payment center after the middle of the month, it may not be possible to make the change that month, so you wait for that check to be forwarded to you by the post office.

To report any change in your status, it is best to use the post-card form furnished you when you filed your application for benefits. Your claim number should always appear on the report, along with your full name and correct address.

Occasionally, a social security check, like other mail, may be stolen. You should see your local social security office if your check is not delivered to you within four days of its normal delivery date. The people there will wire to see what happened. If the check was mailed properly, then a stop-payment order is made out, and the case is referred to the U. S. Treasury Department for investigation and necessary prosecution if the check was stolen. A substitute check is issued later if the original cannot be recovered.

To prevent unauthorized persons from cashing your check, make a habit of cashing it at a place where you are known, and never endorse it until you are there, ready to exchange it for cash or deposit. Remember, the sooner you cash your check, the better your chances that it will not be lost or stolen.

Sometimes dishonest people claim to work for social security and will come to your house to try to collect a fee for helping you to get more money, or will have some proposition that may sound good. But anyone actually from the social security office will not accept any remuneration for anything he does for you. If you are ever in doubt as to a caller's identity, insist on seeing his official identification, or telephone the local social security office and ask if the person was sent to see you, but never pay him anything for his services.

These suggestions will help you protect your social security check:

1. Make sure you have a theft-proof mailbox.
2. Try to meet your mail carrier on the day your check usually arrives. (The longer your check stays in the mailbox, the greater the chances are for it to be stolen).

3. Do not endorse your check until you are in the presence of the person who will cash it for you.
4. Try to cash your checks in the same place every month, to make identification easier.
5. Report a change of your address promptly to social security and to the post office.

John Corby Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will meet Saturday at one o'clock in the Fort Jackson Hotel. Fred Gillogly will be the guest speaker.

The 13th anniversary of the Waynesburg Business and Professional Women's Club was celebrated at a dinner Monday evening in the Fort Jackson Hotel. Officers of the club were in charge of the arrangements. The tables were beautifully arranged in the club's colors of gold and green carnations. The president, Mrs. Pearl Landon presented the president with nosegray corsages and pens. The charter members were given tulips and pens. A Waynesburg High School senior, Miss Kay Gooden, who will represent the club as "Girl-of-the-Year," at a tea in Uniontown, was introduced by Mrs. Ruth Fuller, chairman of the Personal Development Committee. Miss Gooden was presented a gift from the club and responded with words of thanks.

Mrs. Kenneth Willison will entertain the Library Club, Thursday, March 21.

One inch of joy surmounts of grief a span, because to laugh is proper to man.

Francis Rabelais wrote those words and he should know for this 16th century French satirist and humorist was also a physician.

Laughter soothes the troubled mind and refreshes the weary. Laughter is the language of peace, sympathy and good will. Laughter adds to man's supply of oxygen.

Laughter is good exercise for the digestive organs. The abdominal muscles get a good shaking and massage during a loud guffaw, definitely increasing digestive activity.

Laughter is to the human body what sunshine is to vegetation.

In humor we laugh at the shattered dreams so that we need not cry, says a prominent psychiatrist.

Forms of the comic, the witty and the humorous, he adds, may be viewed as ways by which the growing human asserts his omnipotence.

When a youngster falls, another child laughs to show his own omnipotent perfection in pointing to the fallen child's deficiency.

When the older child becomes aware of his imperfections and realizes that he shares his frailty with parents whom he once thought all-powerful, he laughs at shared shortcomings.

The aged person's humor is seasoned by time, he can laugh at remembered frustrations and bitter experience.

Laughter whether raucous, sweet, or wry, gives accent to the flavor of experience.

Do You Know?

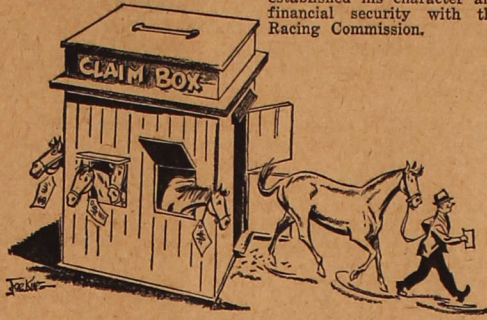

On the Island of Sardinia grows an herb believed to make those who eat it die of laughter and from this legend comes the expression Sardonian laughter.

Surprise Package

In 1962, the various yearling auctions saw 2,244 young Thoroughbreds sold for a total of $12,544,300. An even busier, though less publicized market for race horses is the claim box in the racing secretary's office. The purpose of the claiming race is not to market horses, however. It is a method of grading the hoi polloi of horsehood. The owner, in effect, puts a price on his horse and risks losing him. Among older horses one can be fairly certain that a horse entered to be claimed for $2,500 is worth just about that. Some rare bargains do come out of the claim box however. Two years ago, at Agua Caliente, Mrs. Paula Hunt took a fancy to a 3-year-old maiden named Crazy Kid and claimed him for $2,750. Crazy Kid went on to win five straight races for his new owner, and last summer at Del Mar, California, he moved into stakes competition and set a new world record in winning a division of the Bing Crosby Handicap, named for one of the founders of Del Mar. In all, Crazy Kid has won 10 races for Mrs. Hunt and earned $71,600. At the present time, only an owner who has started a horse at the meeting may make a claim, but The National Association of State Racing Commissioners is considering a proposal, made at the 1962 Annual meeting of Thoroughbred Racing Associations, which would permit anyone to make a claim, once he had established his character and financial security with the Racing Commission.

Joe Simons of Waynesburg College Is Runner-Up In 4-I Tournament

Waynesburg College's Joe Simons finished in the runner-up position in the annual 4-I Tournament held in Cleveland, Ohio, Friday and Saturday after losing 3-1, to Jeff Wilkenson of Cortland Teachers, in the finals.

This was the second straight year in the number two position for Simons who lost a 3-2 decision in the finals last year. Wilkenson used riding time and a reversal to win. Two other Jacket entries, Tony Gusic, 130, and Gene Arrigoni, 167 were eliminated Friday.

Stiff competition caused 10 schools to be represented in the 10 championship weight divisions of the tourney. Floyd Marshall, two time WPIAL champion of Burgettstown, won the 157 pound title for Findley Bob Douglas of West Liberty, was a runnerup in the 130 pound division, while Gary Moyer of Fairmont, was second in the 167 pound division.

Worry Warts

Living is so complicated these days, folks don't even worry right. For instance:

We worry about the Russians, then get run over by a neighbor's car.

We worry about radio, active fallout, then get poisoned by nicotine or by spraying the flowers.

We worry about the youngsters running in front of cars, then drag them across the street against the warning of the red light.

We worry about crashing in an airplane, then fall off a ladder painting the house.

We worry about getting enough exercise, then drive two blocks for a cup of coffee.

We worry about getting the car greased every thousand miles, then never get a medical checkup.

We worry about retirement, then go about carelessly to keep from lasting that long.

We worry about H-bombs, then blow our heads off by smoking around gasoline.

We worry about polio, then get crippled by running into a power lawn mower.

We worry about tornadoes, then get liquidated in a traffic accident.

Ancient Caskets Found Near Rome

ROME—Workmen bulldozing a basement for a building six miles north of Rome have uncovered two perfectly preserved Roman marble caskets dating back to about 300 A. D.

A spokesman for Rome's Superintendency of Art and Antiquities said the find was of remarkable value. One casket is 8½ feet long. The other is a little shorter. The larger casket was carved with an elaborate relief depicting some of the feats of Hercules.

Waterford Park Set for Opening Next Saturday

CHESTER, W. Va.—Thoroughbred racing returns to the area next Saturday at Waterford Park, West Virginia's only one mile race course, where one of the most varied schedules will be staged. President James F. Edwards is offering 175 days of the sport during 1963.

When the bugle blows for the first race on March 16 it will be followed in the fall with another 37 days, starting November 2.

Upwards of 700 horses are already on the grounds and by opening day every available stall will be filled for a total of 980 thoroughbreds. General Manager Harry R. Bell states that it appears likely the overflow may be sent to Wheeling Downs from here.

Many new stables will be seen in action with the addition of such outfits as those handled by Walter Fugate, leading trainer at Sunshine Park, who has brought 32 head belonging to Carroll P. Poland, St. Louis stockyard broker; and the father and son combination of William Jacques Sr. & Jr. of Roundup, Montana.

Among the veterans to this area are Herb Jolley, Jack Wilson, Charles Doolittle, Dr. E. E. Watson, Ralph Wilkinson, R. E. Jackson and many others, all of whom operate extensive public stables.

The 48 hour entry closing rule will continue to be in effect as Saturday's entries will be taken on Thursday of this week and Monday's on Friday, etc.

Post time for the entire year has been set at 1 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

There will be nine races daily and ten on Saturdays with twin-bills in store for Memorial Day, Independence Day and Labor Day.

The perfecta form of wagering will be continued on the fifth and last races as well as the usual daily double on the first and second.

Some Facts That Should Be Faced

socialism would be taken. Capitalists are needed if the personal enterprise system is to be maintained, and this plan would create vast numbers of capitalists in one stroke.

Along with deficit spending, the subject of a tax-cut is being hotly debated. Taxes and spending should be cut. The federal government is operating at a deficit during the current fiscal year, and there is no likelihood that it will escape another deficit next year, unless federal spending is drastically reduced.

Two groups are interested in cutting back spending. One group is small, the other is large. The small group is made up of statesmen—public officials who look out for the future welfare of the United States. The large group is the American people who have suffered too long from a round of spending, followed by a round of taxes, followed by new spending, followed by another round of taxes, each one larger than the other.

There are some very specific reasons why it is imperative that Congress cut spending in the year 1963. For one thing, spending is not a remedy for any of our economic troubles.

Heavy spending has an impact on economic problems, of course. But is a good impact? Has government spending cured any economic problems yet? Will it ever cure any? No, to all three questions.

Even when so-called emergency spending to meet economic problems has a temporarily soothing and lulling effect, it is followed a year or so later by distortions in the economic system—ample evidence that the cure is worse than the illness.

Congress should cut federal spending because the Paytrotic Planners have often shown they lack the ability to manage the programs they initiate.

Two examples:
• The scandals which periodically result from public welfare programs.

• The foreign aid program which has been enormously costly while falling short of its goals.

A third reason to reduce government spending is found in an old rule: every dollar given to the Paytrotic Planners will be craftily used to gain support for continued spending.

The Paytrotic Planners are behind the propaganda which cries out that this is not the right time to cut spending. The truth is that it will never be easy to stop spending.

Foreign aid should be diminished, and a goal should be set to end it within a short time. Spending by the numerous welfare agencies has gone beyond reason and should be slashed. The Agriculture Department, the business control bureaus and agencies, federal aid to education—all these and many others offer fertile fields for cutting expenditures.

We are losing more than money by the big deficit and big debt policies we have pursued. We are losing our freedoms.

The Violin Tree

CHILDREN known to the writer were told the legend that to ensure delicate strength in the instruments which he made, Antonio Stradivari, the great violin maker, used wood from a pine which grew on a hillside near the town in which he lived. The reason for his choice was that trees long exposed to storm and to the fury of the ages are said to produce strong and firm wood.

A tall pine stands erect on the hill behind the house where these children play. They like to think that the tree is of the same variety from which Stradivari made his violins, and they call this stately pine the violin tree.

Just as the children's violin tree and other pines develop strength and usefulness in standing firm through wind and storm, so mankind, standing firm in adversity, gains courage and dominion.

The lesson taught by the pine is the lesson which the Apostle Paul taught. In his letter to the Corinthians he said (II Cor. 4:8, 9), "We are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not in despair; persecuted, but not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed." Paul's words have a practical application in daily living today. Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 426), "The struggle for Truth makes one strong instead of weak, resting instead of wearying one."

As the stalwart pine resists the storms and tempests, so can each individual learn to stand fast against the tempests of evil, confusion, doubt, bewilderment, and misery by understanding that God, good, is All and by relying on His protection in the daily proving of His power and goodness. Circumstances which challenge the growth of a tree give opportunity for greater strength. Drenching rains, which wash earth from the roots, and the pull of the swaying tree tend to make those roots grow deeper. Trials are not obstacles to hinder progress. They are opportunities to prove the Father's loving protection. Christ Jesus triumphed over misunderstanding, persecution, and the cross. He attained a higher sense of victory as each obstacle was overcome. Mrs. Eddy writes (ibid., p. 419), "Meet every adverse circumstance as its master." And further in the same paragraph she adds, "Think less of material conditions and more of spiritual."

A student of Christian Science found it necessary to prove the availability of daily supply when her children were growing up. At the time, she was tempted to resent the recurrence of financial problems rather than to see them as blessings in disguise. But in later years she found strength and encouragement in these helpful experiences. Today the struggle and victory of those years are daily reminders that as a child of God she is heir to infinite resources of good.

These resources are available to all through an understanding of God as infinite Spirit, omnipresent good, perfect Principle. Through such understanding, one is able to meet all adverse circumstances. God created man in His own image; therefore, God's man is unfallen, perfect, and complete. This real man in God's likeness reflects and expresses Him and has dominion. When one is tempted to give in to the storms of error, it is helpful to remember the violin tree standing straight and strong on the windswept hillside. — The Christian Science Monitor

at less cost than other energy

March weather, it has been said, comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb. Or vice-versa. Mostly, it seems, March starts and ends like a lion... with very slim pickings for the lamb in between.

When it comes to heating your home that old blustery lion weather gets short shrift. Reliable natural gas service provides a steady flow of heat that keeps your home as cozy and warm as a lamb—with no worries of supply or of changes in outside temperature.

And natural gas provides this lamb-like comfort at a cost lower than any other source of energy. Less than coal. Less than oil. And at less than one-third of the lion-sized cost of electricity.
