Four May Be Charged In Local Mine Disaster

Far East Expert To Speak Here In Opera House

DR. WALTER JUDD

Dr. Walter Judd, former congressman from Minnesota and member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, will speak at 11:00 a. m. Tuesday, April 3, in the Opera House as part of Waynesburg College's Visiting Artists.

He will speak on "Where in the World Are We Going?" Dr. Judd is an expert on Far Eastern affairs.

Dr. Judd was born in Rising City, Nebraska. He worked on a farm every summer until he graduated from high school; then worked his way through the University of Nebraska and its medical school by various jobs.

He enlisted as a private in the United States Army during World War I and was discharged a lieutenant in the Field Artillery.

In 1925, under the Foreign Mission Board of the Congregational Church, Dr. Judd served as a medical missionary to bandit and malaria-infested South China for six years.

After several months of speaking in churches and colleges warning about the menace of Communism and Japanese militarism as both were expanding in China, he received a Fellowship in Surgery in 1932, at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota; then in 1934 he returned to Asia, this time to North China, for four years. He and his staff brought the 125-bed hospital through Communist revolution and Japanese invasion, and at the same time improved its work from 33 to 83 per cent self-supporting.

In January 1941, Dr. Judd resumed medical practice in Minneapolis, still warning against Japan. After Pearl Harbor, many groups representing all segments of the community urged Dr. Judd to become a candidate for Congress. He was elected in 1942, and served in the House of Representatives for twenty years.

His major efforts have been in helping to develop the new and vital role America is compelled to play in today's dangerously divided world with its threats to the very survival of our free nation.

Holy Week Observances Scheduled

The Waynesburg Ministerium has scheduled Holy Week services beginning Monday, April 8, and continuing through Good Friday.

All services are at 7:30 except on Good Friday which is twelve noon through three o'clock.

On Monday night of Holy Week the service will be in the First Methodist Church, on Tuesday night in the First Christian, and on Wednesday in the First Presbyterian.

Each church will have their own communion service on Thursday night.

Good Friday services will be in the First Baptist Church. The services will be based on the Seven Words from the Cross, and worshippers may come and leave at intervals if they choose to do so.

The State Department of Mines has recommended the prosecution of a fourth official of the Robena mine where 37 were killed in an explosion December 6.

Charges have been drawn against Stanley Bosovich, mine electrician at Robena No. 3, on three counts of violating sections of the mine safety code on electrical equipment.

Three other recommendations for prosecution are against Michael Wydo, mine superintendent, Marion Misiak, mine forman, and Albert Dillow, assistant foreman.

Informations against the four have been forwarded to Greene County District Attorney Glenn R. Toothman for review by him. If Toothman approves of the form of prosecution, the formal charges will be filed by the four members of the commission.

Mr. Toothman state Wednesday charges will not be made before the first of next week.

Inclusion of Bosovich among those to be charged came as a surprise since the commission had not made a recommendation against him in the extensive report submitted by former Mines Secretary Lewis E. Evans.

"Under the law," said Dr. H. Beecher Charnbury, the present secretary of mines, "the electrician has the same degree of responsibility as the superintendent or foreman."

"If we are going to make charges of safety violations in the field of electrical equipment, he has to be included."

Wydo and Misiak are accused in the report of four counts of permitting the use of "deteriorated" electrical equipment. Bosovich will be charged with three, if the recommendation is accepted by Toothman.

Dillow, the assistant foreman, is accused of two counts of failure to report allegedly dangerous conditions involving mine gas.

In no instance does the report, or the charges which have been drawn, claim that the explosion resulted from a specific violation.

All Electric Homes Get Rate Cut

A rate reduction for all-electric home customers of West Penn Power Company will provide the lowest electric heating rate in the state, the utility has announced.

The Public Utility Commission has announced that West Penn has been authorized to place the new rate in effect for the first full month of service after April 20.

The new, lower all-electric home rate provides a 22 1/2 per cent reduction in the low block of the rate structure for that type of service. The actual reduction is from 1.55 cents to 1.2 cents per kilowatt-hour for monthly use in excess of 500 kilowatt-hours.

To the average all-electric home, this means a yearly reduction of about $50 in electricity costs, West Penn said.

The utility notes that the average all-electric home customer, based on the experience of its first 2,000 such customers, now pays $209.25 per year for home heating. The new rate, according to West Penn, will bring this average down to about $159.

This is the third reduction in the utility's house heating rate since 1959—a total of 40 per cent in four years.

For those West Penn customers who have taken advantage of the utility's total cost guarantee plan on electric home heating, the guaranteed maximum cost will be adjusted downward to reflect the lower rates.

Water, Water... But Frozen Solid

WASHINGTON—Ice-covered Antarctica is a waterless land. Annual precipitation on the vast interior plateau is equivalent to four inches of rain, two more than that of Death Valley, the National Geographic Magazine says.

The continent's potential water—equal to all the world's rivers and lakes—is locked in snow and ice.

Freedoms Crowning Hour

As citizens of America, all of us from time to time need to take a new look at ourselves. We need to re-evaluate our progress and reassess our potential. We need to determine whether we are serving the well-being of our people and assuming our individual responsibility in our best efforts to preserve this Republic and our constitutional form of government.

Some time ago a former Secretary of the Army, the Honorable Wilber M. Brucker, made a classic address on the true greatness of our country, entitled "What Kind of America Do You Want?" This subject should be dear to the hearts of all who love freedom.

"I want an America so constant to its ideals and principles, so resolute in honoring its commitments and so true to its full

"I want an America which stands tall in the world, not by virtue of its military might nor its material achievements, but because it is the incarnation of human liberty, the rights and dignity of man, of justice and honor and of faith in the wisdom and power of God.

"I want an America whose light will shine toward the world, that will illumine the pathway of all the millions who seek to rise out of the valley of tyranny and adversity and reach the peak of man's loftiest aspirations.

responsibilities for Free World leadership that our friends throughout the world will never have to regret the trust they place in us.

"I want an America whose citizens understand the true meaning of freedom. The freedom we cherish is not pressure freedom from something—from want or fear or trouble or injustice—but dynamic indivisible freedom for something: freedom to work out our own destiny according to the pattern of our own minds and the strength of our own dedication; freedom to help build a better world. America was created by men and women who valued opportunity more than security. They were eager to stand on their own feet in order to enjoy the full rewards of their own enterprise. The Declaration of Independence did not proclaim the right to happiness, but only the right to the pursuit of happiness—the right to roll up their sleeves and work and fight for happiness.

"I want an America ever ready to meet any challenge with high courage, moral resolution, and constancy of purpose.

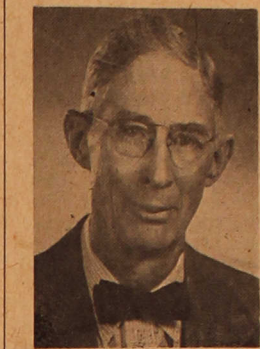

"I want an America in which may be heard echoed with conviction on countless tongues these noble words which still ring down the years with the sound of trumpets: 'I have just begun to fight'; 'I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country'; 'Give me liberty or give me death'; 'Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty'; 'Right makes might'.

"I want an America whose citizens recognize that the true greatness of our nation does not lie in its high standard of living, but rather in its high standard of life—the high standard of life which has been handed down to us by generations of Americans who controlled their wealth not in terms of what they had but in terms of what they were. They were more concerned with the spiritual values which they were able to pass on to posterity. It is freedom—and these spiritual values which are the sustaining power of freedom—which constitute our most priceless heritage.

"I want an America whose citizens have raised their eyes from the horizon of their daily tasks to view their present danger... who un- (Turn to Page Four)

U. S. Foreign Aid Nears $100 Billion

WASHINGTON—Total United States foreign aid since World War II will climb above the $100 billion mark this year.

How well the giant overseas assistance program promotes United States security—and how it could be refashioned to do a better job—is the subject of a controversial report by a presidential advisory committee headed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

Aides said in a final version of the Clay report has been made available to President Kennedy. The report is expected to be made public this weekend.

Figures furnished by the Agency for International Development (AID), which administers United States aid list and economic help to 111 countries and foreign groups from July 1 1945, through mid-1962.

France, with $9.4 billion, and Britain, with $8.7 billion, still rank one and two as the largest total receivers of postwar American aid.

College Holds 114th Charter Day Convocation

The Rev. Joseph Clark Dana, chaplain at Blackburn College, Carlinville, Illinois, used "The Present Was the Future" as his topic for an address at the 114th annual Charter Day Convocation Monday, at Waynesburg College.

Rev. Dana was granted an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree by Dr. Paul R. Stewart, president of the college. Rev. Dana was presented by the Rev. Paul F. Bauer, vice president of personnel services.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Harry E. Gardner, chairman of the college's Religion and Philosophy department, and the benediction was by Rev. Bauer.

Vote Is In The Bag For This Measure

PHOENIX, Ariz. — The nine women of the Arizona House of Representatives are on the warpath.

The top of the speaker's rostrum was covered with handbags of all shapes and sizes. A sign on the rostrum read: "House Memorial 3 on the debate calendar or else."

It was signed, "The Women." House Memorial 3 urges Congress to repeal the luxury tax on the sale of handbags. The women claim handbags are the same as pockets in a man's trousers and thus a necessity, not a luxury.

Campaigns at 12 Kennedy Girl Woos Votes

LONDON — The Express said Sunday Attorney General Robert Kennedy's 12-year-old daughter Kathleen recently told her younger brother his behavior was costing votes.

The Express quoted David Prior-Palmer, 22-year-old son of a Conservative member of Parliament, as saying he spotted the Attorney General's children in a store at Aspen, Colo.

He said Kathleen implored her 10-year-old brother, Joey, to "remember his age, manners and Boston accent" because of the large number of persons in the store.

But Joey remained obstreperous and uncooperative, the paper said, and in a final effort to halt the scene, Miss Kennedy invoked the ultimate deterrent.

"Joe, do be quiet! You are losing votes like this," Prior-Palmer quoted Kathleen as saying.

U. N. Cost To U. S. 75 Cents A Citizen

UNITED NATIONS — Total United States support for the United Nations for all purposes in the 17 years of its operation has been the equivalent of 75 cents a year for each American citizen, according to computations by Sen. Hubert Humphrey (Democrat, Minnesota).

The grand total of all U. S. support for the world organization since its founding in 1945 has been less than the American foreign aid sent to South Vietnam, alone, according to the Senator.

The United States currently is spending more in Vietnam on its military operation, apart from foreign aid, each year than it has spent in any one year for all work of the United Nations and its related agencies.

Humphrey made the statements at a meeting of a Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee called to hear testimony by U. S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson. The testimony was released here Monday by the U. S. mission.

The Senator based his figures on a State Department report showing that the United States has given the United Nations and its agencies $1.9 billion since 1945.

U. S. Not Sure If Soviet Fighters Have Left Cuba

WASHINGTON — The United States has no firm evidence as yet that Russia has removed any of its estimated 5,000 combat troops from Cuba, officials said today.

Some may have been among the "approximately 3,000 Russian troops" which President Kennedy reported last Thursday had been evacuated since February 18, they said.

On the other hand, those pulled out may have been drawn entirely from among the 12,000 military technicians and training personnel which Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had in the islands up to a month ago.

Officials said aerial reconnaissance shows that all installations the four-battalion combat force has been using are still intact.

It also reveals that none of their heavy equipment has been removed.

They cautioned, however, that aerial intelligence would have to be supplemented by other information coming in by slower means.

The difficulty in identifying Russians leaving Cuba is that all of them, regardless of their function, have been put into sports shirts and slacks.

State Gives 75% Grant To Welfare For The Elderly

Greene County has received a state grant of $4,875 which will pay 75 per cent of the salary of a welfare worker specializing in problems of the aging.

Greene is one of the four counties entering the program for the first time this year, with seven new services for the elderly. The city of Philadelphia is also entering the program.

The state also pays up to 50 per cent of the cost of other services.

The check was presented to County Commissioner Herman Gugliotta by Welfare Secretary Arlin M. Adams in his office in Harrisburg. William M. Meighen, chief clerk to the county commissioners accompanied Mr. Gugliotta.

Your Health

Pennsylvania Medical Society

George Washington has been portrayed as a man of great strength and endurance.

His strength and endurance were assailed time and again by attacks of serious physical illness, and on at least two occasions his physicians despaired of his life.

At the age of seventeen he was forced to take to his bed because of exhaustion from ague (malaria).

Four years later on the island of Barbados, where his half-brother was seeking relief from pulmonary tuberculosis, George Washington was stricken with smallpox.

When he emerged from isolation after six weeks, Washington's face was deeply and permanently pock-marked.

He continually suffered from fevers and pains. His teeth fell out, and the crude artificial sets were always a cruel torture to him.

Shortly after he was inaugurated as the first president, Washington suffered great pain from a serious carbuncle of a staphylococci type, and narrowly missed death.

A little later, pneumonia prostrated him and again he was close to death.

In 1789 he was stricken by influenza and in 1798 he had another bout with malaria.

In December, 1799, Washington developed a cold with sore throat.

His physicians were uncertain as to just what the illness was—laryngeal diphtheria (membranous croup) or streptococcus infection.

The latter disease is generally accepted as the cause of his death.

George Washington lived to be 67 years of age, a fairly good record inasmuch as the average life expectancy in that era was but 25 years.

NATURAL GAS HELPS MAKE YOUR SPRING NICER

Spring is, as a poet said, "the boyhood of the year." And like a boy, it is unpredictable. Most every Spring, cold weather returns for a brief, unwanted encore. In other days, this brought back the tenseness of winter. Worry about the fuel supply in the basement. A house in morning as "cold as an icebox."

Now, these relapses of Spring pass almost unnoticed. Reliable natural gas service provides a steady flow of pleasant warmth in your home . . . with no worries of supply or of changes in outside temperature.

Yes, Spring is a grand time of the year. And, if we may say so, natural gas makes it a little bit nicer . . . at a cost, in this area, less than any other source of energy.

"MY COUNTRY 'TIS OF THEE
SWEET LAND OF LIBERTY

Of Thee I Sing

These words of a familiar anthem stand for many things. They stand for mighty cities rising out of the mists of the morning... a rain-washed turn of the road in the Smokies... wheat rippling in the Kansas winds... the moonlit crest of breakers on the Great Lakes... the sagebrush and silence of Southwestern plains. They stand for simple things: Monday's wash flapping merrily on the backyard line... church bells on Sunday morning... the handclasp of a trusted friend. They stand for America — the land where freedom rings. The churches of this community—themselves great testimonials to freedom of religion—know that a priceless guarantee of our freedom is founded upon the Biblical belief in a man's right to possess and develop his own soul. As that soul develops, so does the man. Aiding in that development is perhaps the most important task of the church today. We cannot afford to take either our freedom or our churches lightly. We must do our part to make certain that both continue to flourish and grow. Sharing in the life of your church is your best guarantee that Americans shall continue to achieve their own destiny in the land where freedom rings.

"And they sang praises with gladness, and they bowed their heads and worshipped."
—II Chr. 29:30

derstand the true meaning of the mortal struggle in which we are engaged . . . the struggle between our cherished ideals of freedom under God and the degrading philosophy of atheistic communism which seeks by every means to reduce humanity to the level of the beast.

"I want an America made up of people who recognize that the security of the nation is the responsibility of each individual citizen—not just in some figurative sense, but in actual, grim reality. In order to preserve our freedom, we must prove that a free people can, through voluntary effort, continue to accomplish even more than the regimented society of the Soviet Union. The Soviet system requires people who can be managed. In contrast, a free society requires people who are capable of managing for themselves. We must not allow the desire for comfort or convenience, in any aspect of life, to assume greater influence in our plans and activities than the desire to broaden our way of life faithfully and well.

"I want an America whose citizens possess good, old-fashioned moral courage. It is not only necessary to have convictions, but one must also have the courage to defend such convictions. The moral coward's motto is: 'Don't stick your chin out.' The courageous person—the person who really counts for America—when convinced of the righteousness of a cause, stands firm, no matter what the cost. We must be a nation of tough-minded people with the hardy moral fiber that will not give an inch to the provocation of international gangsterism. We fervently hope that growth of fruition of ideals in the hearts of men will bring the day when accepted standards of national morality will prevail in the communist world. But . . . until that day dawns, our only salvation is to be ready and willing to confront force with force under any circumstances. We must recognize the necessity to stand without compromise on principles which have made America great. We must develop the invincible spirit that will not falter in the face of the blackest threat and a real capacity for moral indignation—a spirit that will inspire us into action at any time or place where evil, injustice or corruption appears in any form.

"In short, I want an America in which every man and woman measures up to the high marks of character, courage, and dedication to the tenets of our American faiths which were established so long ago by our Founding Fathers. Not only the very life of America and the perpetuation of our cherished free institutions, but the liberty of all mankind depend upon what we, individually, do or fail to do."

Trend Is To Electrically Heated Homes Whether They Are New Or Remodeled

Most people don't realize how many homes are heated electrically. And it's no wonder! The trend to electric home heating has all happened in just the past few years. Actually, there are more than a million families all over the United States who live in electrically heated homes.

About 72 per cent of these families bought new houses in which builders had installed electric heating, or they specified this modern heating system in custom-built homes. But, amazingly, 28 per cent of the families converted their existing homes from old-fashioned heat to electric.

What do owners of electrically heated homes say about their heating system? "It's clean!" That's the first thing they all mention — especially the women. Electric heat cuts down on their housework — makes spring cleaning a breeze.

With electric heat, there's no flame so there's no smoke, soot, or greasy film to collect on walls or windows. And, of course, there's no fuel delivery or storage problems. Electricity comes through a wire — that's all you need to run electric heating equipment.

Another benefit most families mention is the "evenness" of electric heat. You can sit anywhere in a room, they report, and the temperature is the same with no overheated spots or chilly areas.

Men appreciate the simplicity and efficiency of an electric heating system. It's quiet and needs little or no attention. There's no burner to adjust or clean, and no heat is wasted up the flue.

One more advantage: Remember that ever since people first started to heat houses, they have tried to contain and control a flame in the fireplace, stove, or furnace. But now electricity has brought house heating into the space age. You can have a home perfectly heated without a flame burning anywhere in it.

There are seven different systems of electric home heating that can be installed either in new or existing homes.

Namely, these systems are: (1) radiant heating cable or panels in the ceiling; (2) individual baseboards; (3) recessed wall panels; (4) electric forced-air furnace; (5) Forced-air duct heaters; (6) electric "heat pump" — also used in a forced air system — not only heats in winter but cools in summer automatically; and (7) circulating hot water, or hydronic system. Your heating dealer can advise you as to what type would be best for your home.

Facts About Insulation
In the interests of comfort, economy, and common sense, the many benefits of electric heating and air conditioning can be realized by installing insulation. Better insulation can save you a lot of money in the long run. In fact, in just a few years, good insulation pays for itself through savings on heating and cooling operating costs. After that, savings are annual bonuses. To correctly insulate a home for electric heating, specify insulating batts, blankets, or "blow-in" wool applied in prescribed amounts in ceiling, walls, and floor. Generally speaking, the minimum thickness of insulation should be — ceiling, 6-inches; walls and floors, 4-inches. To reduce heat loss and drafts even further, storm doors and windows are recommended.

County Granges Urged to Compete In Community Development Contest

Aleppo, Harvey's and Carmichaels Granges are urged to enter the 1963 Pennsylvania Development Contest by officials of the West Penn Power Company.

April first is the deadline for entries. Cash awards which are won by local communities are matched by West Penn and in most cases by local financial institutions.

West Penn Power Company representatives at the meeting included J. C. Millin, community service supervisor, who is state chairman of the 1963 Community Development Contest; Clement Lausbert, area development representative, and William E. Layton, community representative.

Representatives of the Pennsylvania Department of Health also attended the meeting to suggest that Granges might be interested in a program designed to improve drinking water in rural areas.

Frank Krizner, a department sanitarian, said that tests showed that more than 45 per cent of samples of well water checked in Greene County were contaminated, pointing up the need for such a program.

He suggested the Granges might adopt a well-improvement project as part of their work in the community development contest, pointing out that the major hurdle to be overcome was in making rural residents aware of the danger of improperly constructed wells.

W. H. B. Lewis, also Department of Health sanitarian, pointed out that with the increasing financial importance of the dairy industry in Greene County should make farmers interested in having safe water, since it affects the quality of the milk.

Luther Renner, a third sanitarian, also spoke.

Frank Jacobs of Aleppo Township, master of Greene County

Pomona Grange; Patty Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McCracken and Mrs. Frank Jacobs, Aleppo Township Grange; Mrs. Homer Hartley, Mrs. Mary Sharpnack, William Goodwin, Allan Kerr and Eugene Everly, Carmichaels Grange, and Samuel Thomas, Harvey Grange, were present at the meeting.

Bike Riders Are Warned On Traffic Laws

Traffic laws apply to bicyclists as well as to motorists, the Pittsburgh Motor Club advised parents today.

"Bicyclists are forbidden by law to hitch on to other vehicles, carry a passenger on the handlebars or any other part of the bike, or engage in any fancy riding on highways," warned James A. Morrow, secretary-manager of the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

Noting the increase in bicycle riding because of the spring weather, he said that bike riders should obey all traffic signals and signs, use proper hand signals for turns, ride on the right side of the road and close to the curb, and stop while trolley and bus passengers alight from vehicles.

Keeping bicycles in good operating condition is also an important safety factor, he added.

"It's important that parents make certain their sons and daughters realize that when riding bikes in traffic they are just as responsible for their own safety and that of others as motorists are," he concluded.

Chadderton To Lead Local College Cagers

Ernie Chadderton, a three-year letterman from Pitcairn, has been elected captain of the 1962-63 basketball team at Waynesburg College, according to head coach Pete Mazzaferro.

The 19-year-old 5-8½ 137-pound guard led the Yellow Jackets in scoring the past campaign with 246 points for a 12.3 game average. He also paced the team in free throws made (60), free throws attempted (79), and free throw percentage (75.9).

The history major was tied for most field goals attempted and was second on the squad in field goals made (93) and field goal percentage (39.9).

Ernie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Chadderton, 505 6th Street, Pitcairn, Pa. He is a 1960 graduate of Gateway Senior High School, Pitcairn.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day 'Bug Boys' Don't Ride 'Beetles'

Cheap and inconsistent race horses are sometimes referred to as "beetles" but it doesn't follow that a "bug boy" rides only beetles. Ronald George Ferraro proved this last year when he rode off with the Jockey Championship. Ronnie Ferraro was a bug boy, but he rode more winners than any other jockey during 1962. Until last December 12, Ferraro was an apprentice, and therefore carried a "bug", printers' talk for an "aside" his name. As an apprentice, the horses he rode were given 5 pounds off their assigned weight. As a particularly capable apprentice, young Ferraro was in great demand. He rode in 1,755 races last year, won 352, was second on 253 occasions and third 226 times. Ferraro once divulged that algebra was his best subject in high school, which may be a clue to his success. Algebra is productive of an orderly mind, and young Ferraro demonstrates this not only in his cool riding, but with "homework". He keeps a voluminous notebook in which he records his impressions of each horse he rides. A native of Cornwall Heights, Bucks County, Pa., Ferraro's introduction to racing came about accidentally. Six years ago, his father ran a motel near Gulfstream Park in Florida where Ferraro met Jockey Karl Korte. Ferraro developed a case of hero worship. He reluctantly returned to school for five years, but never gave up his dream of becoming a race-rider.

Savings And Loan Associations Show Greatest Increase In Decade

KENNETH G. HEISLER

In terms of total assets, the national savings and loan business has increased its size more than ten times since 1945. Current assets of more than $93 billion are approximately double those of the mutual savings bank system, according to Kenneth G. Heisler, managing director of the National League of Insured Savings Association.

The United States today is on the threshold of a new era in housing — a period when families will find it easier to own better, more comfortable homes at a more attractive price.

Already there are unmistakable signs that the home buyer of the 1960s will be on the receiving end of a better housing package than his counterpart in the decade just past:

For instance: In most areas of the nation, home mortgage money is more readily available to home buyers and at lower rates than the nation's insured savings and loan associations. Mortgage funds are so ample that a return to the "tight money" conditions of the 1950s is unlikely in the foreseeable future.

On the construction front, builders have discovered that today's home buyers are more selective and require a better house. With home construction operating at less than peak levels, builders are catering to the demands of the cost-conscious, quality-minded home buyers of the 1960s.

In both cases, competition is the reason.

Financial institutions and builders find themselves competing more vigorously to serve a somewhat smaller number of home buyers than was the case just a few years ago. Then, the demands for credit — including home financing funds — were so great that mortgage rates rose and some buyers were unable to secure the financing they sought.

Today, credit demands of the nation are less. As a result, home financing funds are more ample and interest rates have declined in response to the conditions of the market. Many experts expect this situation to continue over the next several years.

Just as financial institutions have reduced mortgage rates to attract home mortgage borrowers, so, too, builders are shaving their costs to stimulate sales — meaning, of course, that today's

Engineers Losing Technology Race

CHICAGO — Dr. E. Paul Torda, Illinois Institute of Technology professor of mechanical engineering, says a conference to deal with the obsolescence of engineering skills will be held on the campus.

"We're running out of competent engineers in this area, not simply because they move to other parts of the country or because our universities aren't producing enough graduates, but because technology is advancing so rapidly," he said.

How Wet Is Really A Wet Climate

Londoners sometimes complain that they seem to get more than their share of rainy days, but most people in that part of the world don't realize how wet a really wet climate can be.

The British climate is what the weathermen call "variable" — which means that there may be showers at any time of year. So there seems to be more rain than there actually is.

In fact, London has quite a modest rainfall—about 24 inches a year. But because rain never falls evenly, some parts of Greater London may get as little as 21 inches and others 26.

Cape Town, South Africa, has about the same average rainfall as London. But while London's rain is spread, rather annoyingly, over 160 days in the year, Cape Town has only about 100 rainy days.

But just how wet is a wet climate? In the tropical countries it really rains. Bombay, India, gets between 70 and 80 inches — all during the 75 days of the monsoon.

"Monsoon" comes from an Arabic word meaning season. But to the hundreds of millions of people who live in monsoon climates it means rain — and lots of it!

Yet Bombay's rains are nothing to what nature can do in other places. Records kept for 20 years show that Mount Waialeale in Hawaii gets an average of 460 inches a year. Mount Waialeale and Cherapunji, in Assam, India, are probably the two wettest spots on earth. One year, 499 inches fell at Cherapunji.

There are many other parts of the world almost as wet. However, it isn't easy to measure rainfall accurately. Even when large numbers of rain gauges are used, there are often big differences between one gauge and the next.

For anyone who doesn't like rain, Cairo, Egypt, has the perfect climate — slightly more than one inch of rain a year.

There are even drier places than Cairo. Northern Chile probably has the driest climate on earth.

Jackson Pictured On 1-Cent Stamps

NEW YORK — Those green, one-cent stamps you buy soon will bear the picture of Andrew Jackson instead of George Washington.

The new stamps went on sale for the first time Friday in a ceremony at the fifth annual International Philatelic Exhibition. They will be available throughout the country starting Saturday.

Stanley J. Hodziewicz, chief of the Post Office Department's philatelic staff, said the present supplies of the George Washington one-cent stamps will be sold.

The change was made necessary when Washington's picture was placed on the new five-cent stamps.

Still Pays Off Indian Treaty

A bookshop paid $4750 Wednesday for a yellowed piece of parchment bearing the signatures and marks of 46 Indians and 38 white men. It was the 134-year-old treaty that gave the United States what now is northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin.

The treaty with the Winnebago Indians was the most expensive document at a rare manuscript auction. It was purchased by the Carnegie Bookshop of New York.

The treaty was signed in 1829. It provided that the United States pay the Indians $18,000 annually for 30 years (a total of $540,000) and settle claims against them of $23,532 for the region from Rock Island to the Wisconsin river on the north, and to Lake Michigan on the east.

Lt. Col. Zachary Taylor, later to become president, was one of the signers.

Women's Jobs Nearly Double

NEW YORK — The number of women in this country employed outside the home has nearly doubled since 1940, statisticians of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company report. The number rose from 11,178,000 to 21,172,000 in 1960.

The largest rise was 3,900,000 in clerical and kindred occupations. By 1960 there were more than 6,290,000 women, 30 percent of all female workers, in such positions. One of every employed woman was a secretary, stenographer, or typist, the statisticians said.

In the service occupations, which include waitresses, cooks, beauticians, and practical nurses, women workers not in private households increased to 2,846,000 or 2 1/2 times the number ten years earlier.

1,300 Physicians To Be Drafted

WASHINGTON—The Selective Service System has advised state directors that it expects a July draft call for some 1,300 to 1,400 doctors, which probably will be primarily filled with men just completing their one-year internship.

A spokesman pointed out that during recent congressional hearings on extension of the draft law Defense Department witnesses said a call for about that many doctors was expected soon.
