LUCY HOGE REESE

Mrs. A. B. Reese Dies In Wooster

Lucy Hoge Reese, 93 years, widow of Albert B. Reese, died Thursday evening March 28, 1963, in her home in Wooster, Ohio. She had been ill a short time.

Mrs. Reese was a daughter of George Hoge, Jr., and Abigail Woods Hoge and was born January 5, 1870, at the family homestead on Smith Creek, three miles south of Waynesburg, near the White Barn. The family later moved to Oak Forest.

Mrs. Reese attended the local schools and Edinboro, Pa., State Teachers College. She then taught school for 10 years in Waynesburg.

On September 8, 1897, she was united in marriage with Albert B. Reese of Waynesburg, who was engaged in oil and gas operation in Greene County.

In 1910, Mr. and Mrs. Reese and their three children moved to Clarksburg, W. Va., where Mr. Reese was a contractor for the Hope Natural Gas Company. They moved to Wooster, Ohio, in 1915. Until his death in 1938, Mr. Reese was president of the Reese Drilling Company of Tulsa, Oklahoma.

While living in Waynesburg, Mrs. Reese was a member of the original board of the Children's Aid Society of Greene County. She was also a charter member of the Library Club.

Mrs. Reese was a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Wooster; an active and later an associate member of the Thursday Club; an active and honorary member of Wooster Garden Study Club; a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and of the Women's Association of her church.

Among many interests she developed, late in life, her talent for painting in oils and water colors.

Surviving are three children: Elizabeth, wife of Daniel Funk of Wooster; Frances Hoge Reese, of Wooster, head mistress of Louisville, Ky., Collegiate School for Girls; and Albert B. Reese, Jr., of Fort Worth, Texas; six grandchildren and nine great grandchildren; also two sisters, Mrs. Thomas S. Crago and Mrs. Walter R. Hawkins, both of Waynesburg.

Two brothers, Edward R. Hoge and Hiram L. Hoge, both of Waynesburg are deceased.

Funeral services were held Monday in the McConnell Funeral Home, conducted by Rev. Harry W. Eberts. Interment in Wooster.

Allen K. Milliken of Waynesburg, has been appointed superintendent of the State Department of Highways in Greene County, effective April 18.

Roy E. Clovis of Waynesburg, has been named inheritance tax investigation and appraiser for the county.

The appointments were announced Monday by E. Bryan Jacobs, Greene County Republican chairman. They are the first changes since the Scranton administration took over in January.

Mr. Milliken served as assistant superintendent in the highway department in Greene County prior to eight years ago, when the Democrats took over the state administration under Governor George Leader.

He was first employed by the highway department in 1929, and worked as a member of the surveying corps until 1934. After being out of the department for five years, he returned in 1939, and was with the surveying corps until 1945, when he was named assistant superintendent, a position he held until 1955.

Since 1956, Mr. Milliken has been employed by Alden Stilson and Associates, a firm of consulting engineers in Wheeling, W. Va.

He will receive $6,071 per year. Mr. Milliken replaces William H. Webster of Waynesburg, R. D. 3, who has been superintendent since September. He has been in the highway department 14 years.

Mr. Clovis, a former assemblyman, and Republican state committeeman, will replace Frank F. Bryan of Waynesburg, who has held the inheritance tax position for eight years.

State Warning On Burning Trash

Secretary Maurice K. Goddard, Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, issued a word of caution today to the residents of Pennsylvania to be careful with trash and debris fires. "Each spring the State Forest Service is confronted with a rash of 'cleanup' fires in all parts of the Commonwealth. These fires, while innocent enough in themselves, can spread from their container or confined area, ignite nearby grass or brush and destroy adjacent forest land. This is an unnecessary loss and can be avoided by practicing caution."

For most residents of the Commonwealth, weary from battling one of the severest winters in history, the thought of the warm weather and dry winds of spring will be a welcome relief.

However, this combination of warm spring weather, dry warm winds and the urge to "cleanup" after the hard winter can be a source of trouble for Pennsylvania's 3,800 volunteer Forest Fire Wardens.

All burning during the spring cleanup should be confined to the early morning or late afternoon hours. There are two reasons for this: (1) Chances of the fire burning out of control are minimized; and (2) If the fire does happen to get away, help to control it is usually available.

Each spring much available time is lost when volunteers are called to leave their jobs to assist in suppressing a wildfire. This, in addition to the loss to our natural resources, are definite economic losses to any community.

Wednesday night in the First Presbyterian Church, Dr. H. M. Eagleson of Washington Street Methodist Church, will bring the message.

Each church will observe the sacrament of Holy Communion on Thursday night.

Good Friday services will be held in the First Baptist Church. Worshipers may come and go at the end of each interim which is based on the Seven Words from the Cross.

We Can Lose . . .

More Than Money

The American taxpayers' struggle with the Big Spenders is not a battle involving only money.

Money to pay for the grandiose programs of the Patriots is important, for it will be taken from you. It will either be collected now or will be placed on the bill to be paid later. Its expenditure will either call for a bigger Federal budget or will result in an unbalanced budget and an even greater national debt. The added spending will foster continued inflation and lower the value of our currency. It will weaken the United States in trade with other countries. It will leave us vulnerable to subtle attack through manipulation of gold balances and other economic pressures.

That is only a partial list of the evils growing out of unchecked government spending. These evils have to do with money, but much more is involved. The battle to reduce government spending is primarily concerned with preserving the design of our nation's life.

If the many enticingly new programs offering more Federal aid to the States are implemented, the greatest evil will be injury to the independence of our States and to individual liberties.

The basic premise of American freedom is the conception of a Federal government empowered to do only what cannot be done by the individual, community, or the State.

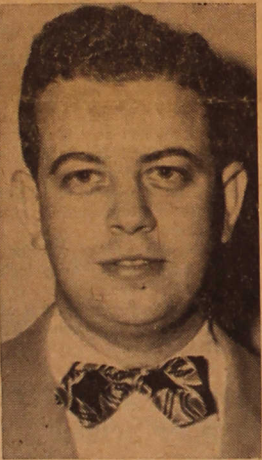

There is still another compelling reason why the sovereign freedom of your State is important to you and your family. It is the means chosen by the Founding Fathers to make certain that governmental power is divided.

That is the first axiom of American freedom. The makers of the Constitution set out to insure the division of governmental power. They accomplished what they considered to be the most important task by placing strict limitations on the power of the central government. This did not happen by accident.

In the sovereign independence of the States, Americans have a political design as artfully fitted together and as carefully balanced as a finely made watch. Both require care if they are to operate correctly. Bribery of the States, using the guise of financial aid, is the most effective method of destroying the harmony of our Federal-State system. Should such bribery continue?

We can save our freedom from monopoly government. We can insist that our sovereign States do their own work, and local units of government do their own work, with no bribes from Washington requested or accepted. Or we can do nothing. If we choose to do nothing, we will be helping to destroy the effective design for balanced power which the Constitution entrusted to us and our posterity.

STANDING ON THE RIM

Council Seeks Federal Grant for West Street Sewer

Waynesburg Borough Council at the meeting Monday night decided to submit an application for a federal grant to pay 50 per cent of the proposed storm sewer for West street. The public works law provides construction funds to municipalities in economically depressed areas such as Greene County.

Borough engineer Frank Church stated that when plans were considered in the 1940s, the estimate was $50,000, but that it would probably be much higher now.

West street and adjoining sections are flooded in heavy rainfalls.

Council instructed solicitor Robert Keener to draw up an ordinance setting the salary of the mayor "at the highest possible amount permitted by state law, as set forth in the borough code."

The action will cut the salary of Mayor Roy Shultz from $840 to $700 a year.

It was brought out that the mayor is being paid the $840 under an ordinance which was adopted in 1934, and that this amount is greater than the present borough code permits.

Under the code, the mayor may be paid a maximum wage equal to two and one-half times the number of registered voters in the borough, computed to the nearest $100, which, for Waynesburg, figures out at $700.

Mr. Shultz expressed the opinion that Council was motivated by his action in January in vetoing the borough manager ordinance, which subsequently was adopted over his veto. Council denied the allegation.

Council authorized the purchase of 12 "no parking on this side" signs to replace signs which have been stolen from various streets.

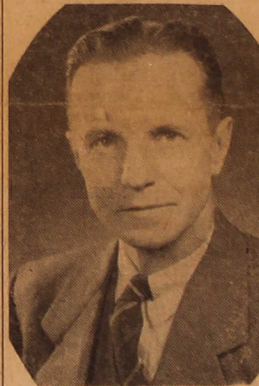

Street Commissioner Earl Mitchell stated when signs were bolted to steel posts in an effort to prevent their theft, the posts were stolen along with the signs. He said the signs cost $2.50 each and the posts $2.80.

Mayor Shultz was asked to have borough police warn the Crump Construction Company digging the foundation for the new Waynesburg College science hall, against allowing trucks to carry mud out into the streets on their wheels.

Four Charged In Robena Mine Blast; Hearings Waived

The state filed charges Tuesday against the superintendent and three employees of Robena No. 3 coal mine where a gigantic explosion killed 37 miners. The four were accused of violating sections of the state mining code, but the charges were not directly linked to the December 6 explosion.

Named in the charges were mine Superintendent Michael Wydo, mine Foreman Marion Misiak, Assistant Mine Foreman Albert H. Dillow and mine Electrician Stanley Boskovich.

They waived hearing before Justice of the Peace John L. Daily of Waynesburg, and were released on $500 bond each pending action by the Greene County grand jury in June.

A state report said an accumulation of methane gas and coal dust led to the explosion.

Wydo and Misiak were accused of permitting "deteriorated" electrical equipment to be used in the mine. Dillow was charged with failure to report a dangerous condition involving gas.

The three were named in the state report, but Boskovich, who was not mentioned, was accused on the same charge as Wydo and Misiak.

H. Beecher Charnbury, states mines secretary, said after the report was released that Boskovich had the same responsibility as the superintendent or foreman.

Violation of the mining code is a misdemeanor. Conviction could result in a six-month jail sentence, a fine of up to $200, or both.

U. S. Steel Corporation, owner of the big mine near Carmichaels, made no comment on the charges. A spokesman for the corporation said, "We'll stand on what we said before."

The state report recommended legal action against Wydo, Misiak and Dillow. When the report was released on March 13, U. S. Steel protested the recommendation for legal action, saying:

"... the filing of informations could link them (the three mine employees) unfairly with the tragedy, and could result in untold and unwarranted damage to their reputations and unjustified personal suffering."

This was revealed here today during hearings on the program of the Office of Coal Research before a House Interior subcommittee.

The project would be a pilot plant located at Cresap, W. Va.,

Greene County's famed K Company, later known as Company C, has now been changed to Company A, Captain Danny Edgar has announced.

The change was effective as of April first.

The unit was designated as Company C, First Battle Group, 110th Infantry, and was merged with sections of Company H in Washington, another rifle unit.

Under the new setup, the Washington half of Company C is divorced from the Waynesburg unit, which now has been merged with a unit based at Monongahela.

Captain Edgar will be commanding officer of Company A Headquarters Company and a rifle platoon will be located in the armory at Waynesburg. At Monongahela, Lt. Matthew McCoy will command a rifle platoon and a weapons platoon.

Captain Edgar said Lt. Carl J. Maurer, of Washington, has been assigned to Waynesburg as commanding officer of the rifle platoon. Captain Edgar had been the only commissioned officer in Waynesburg.

The company will be equipped with modern weapons. Those in use now are of the World War II variety. A field radar set, to be operated by a three-man ground crew will be supplied.

Company A will be authorized 13 men in the Headquarters Company and 44 men in the rifle platoon, with a five-man battalion mess team being attached to the Waynesburg unit.

Rifle squads will be reduced from 11 to 10 men, while the weapons squad will be strengthened from nine to 11 men.

The rifle platoon will be equipped with M-14 (7.62 millimeters) to replace the M-1 rifle.

Consolidation To Make Gasoline From Coal for Interior Department

search to private firms. Its score to date: One project complete, 13 under contract, others being evaluated for possible contract. OCR wants $5 million for operations in fiscal 1964 starting July 1.

The pilot plant for Consolidation Coal Company, however, does not need to wait upon fiscal 1964 funds. There is money available in 1963 funds to start the construction. Interior Department men said the contract will probably be signed with Consolidation in a few days.

The chronology is this: Consolidation has been conducting research with its own funds for about nine years and has perfected and patented a process which it believes has commercial possibilities.

Consolidation now wants OCR to finance the cost of a pilot plant the total cost of which over perhaps 10 years would be about $10 million. Of this total, $4 million would build the plant at Cresap; $4.5 million would operate it for the period of research, probably 10 years; and $1.5 million would be the cost of testing at least four other kinds of coal from other parts of the United States.

Consolidation has built its process around the coal obtained from its Ireland mine at Cresap. But coal varies widely in chemical content and the cost of transporting it is too high to be commercially sound, it would still be necessary to locate conversion plants of the future at various coal mines around the country. This would mean using coal of varying chemical analyses. Hence the $1.5 million of research on other coal types at Cresap.

Interior Department men point out 13.6 cent gasoline at the mine

U. S. Sub Defense Is Called Best

MELBOURNE, Australia — Russia has four times as many submarines as the United States, but America is 40 years ahead in anti-submarine techniques, a senior American naval officer said Sunday.

Vice-Adm. J. S. Thach, commander of the United States anti-submarine forces in the Pacific, told this to reporters when he arrived here for six days of talks with defense officials and an inspection of naval establishments.

Spike Heels Spiked

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa — The Knysna Town Council plans to ask the government to ban manufacture of women's spike heels. The town of Graaf Reinet banned them in its Town Hall after spending $2,100 for a new floor.

mouth would not be competitive in Houston, for instance, where the price of natural petroleum is low. Nor would it be competitive in Philadelphia where cheap imported residual fuel oil is available.

But it probably would be competitive in Pittsburgh, especially if its transportation from Cresap would be conducted by pipeline.

The 13.6 cent figure was provided to OCR by the Ralph M. Parsons Engineering Company which OCR used as researcher, after Consolidation presented its proposition for a pilot plant. Parsons reports the process is sound, the price locally competitive.

The questioning brought out that Consolidation has taken out 43 patents on various processes and devices perfected during its nine years of research. Under the law creating OCR, any patents arrived at through research financed by federal funds, must be available free to the public.

Interior Department men said that Consolidation's privately-financed research, will be available free to the government's agencies if they are needed, or at a reasonable royalty to the general public.

Standard Oil Company of Ohio will co-operate with Consolidation on the gasoline, the testimony revealed.

Electric Heat Is Ideal For Older Homes, Too

Ceiling cable heat is invisible. Wires less than 1/8" thick are fastened to ceilings before plastering. Each room can have a thermostat.

Baseboard units heat by both radiation and convection. All surfaces are warmed evenly, and control is by individual room thermostat.

Wall panel heaters have heating coils behind a decorative grill. Small fans may be used with this thermostatically controlled unit.

Heat pump heats home in winter, cools it in summer. It's automatically reversible and maintains any desired year-round temperature.

Electric furnaces provide compact central heating systems which can be combined with central air conditioning for year-round use.

Today, house heating is an important subject. Modern living has brought about the desire among most folks to have a safe, clean, trouble-free heating system. And no wonder! Who wants to come home after a hard day's work and have to shovel coal, haul ashes, or put up with the discomfort of fuel-fired heating?

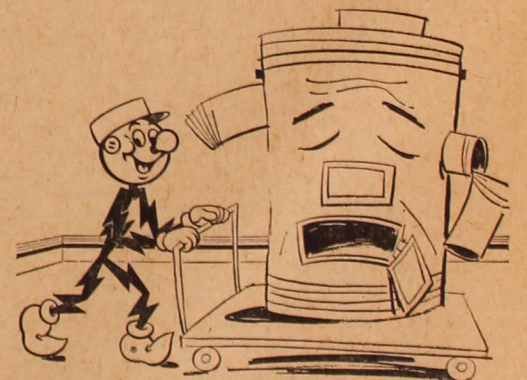

Some people who are not happy with their fuel-fired furnaces are under the mistaken impression that modern electric heat is strictly for new homes. They couldn't be more wrong! Many older homes today are being converted from fuel heat to clean, convenient electric heating. The reason is simple — electric heating equipment usually costs no more to buy and it's often-times easier to install than other systems.

Another reason electric heating is being installed in more and more existing homes is because of its flexibility. There are seven different types of electric heating systems available so families can select the one that's best for their home. For example, there are electric baseboards; radiant ceiling cable or panels; electric wall panels; electric furnaces, duct heaters, or heat pump for use with forced air systems; and the circulating hot water, or hydronic system. You can have any type — or combination of systems — in your home.

With good insulation, which also helps to keep a house cooler in summer, the cost of electric heat compares favorably with other home heating systems. And electric heating is odorless, smokeless, automatically controlled, safe, trouble-free, efficient, and comfortable. What more could one want?

Where do you go from here? The retirement years should represent years of happy leisure, but often they're accompanied by boredom and restlessness. Sometimes they are years fraught with fear, or loneliness.

Yet they can become wonderfully fulfilling and golden when faith abides. Your church or synagogue not only offers spiritual nourishment that is needed by healthy people of all ages. It also can offer stimulating companionship, and a sense of real purpose.

Strength, courage, happiness are the gifts of deep religious faith. Worship together this week at your church or synagogue.

Heavy-duty hangers will bear the weight of bulky lawn and garden tools and equipment. The grooved panels, with a factory applied finish, come in man-sized 4-by-8 sheets, and can be nailed directly to studs. H-3

Boy's room employs prefinished panels, decoratively designed to provide handsome and practical working walls within the home. Other designs and patterns of perforated hardboard are available, some with random spacing, tracery designs, and even with square holes. In a child's room, or a utility room, an added feature is that the surfaces wipe clean with just a damp cloth.

Your Health

Pennsylvania Medical Society

Nutritional quackery costs the 10,000,000 food faddists in this country approximately half a billion dollars a year.

The money spent is not the most important loss.

False promises about curing various ills with vitamins and special food products frequently delay proper medical treatment until it is too late.

No one food is either reducing or fattening, for it is total calories consumed in the daily diet that controls loss or gain in body weight.

Many people have food idiosyncrasies which they lavishly follow.

Some will not use acid as in oranges and grapefruit because they think it would cause acidosis.

When a person is physically normal and eating an adequate mixed diet, the body is not likely to form excess acid.

Milk, fruits, and vegetables actually put an alkaline reserve in the blood which helps to neutralize the acids formed from the metabolism of cereals, breads meat and fish.

Failure to drink milk indicates an unsatisfactory intake of calcium.

Without meat, there is a lack of protein, iron and vitamin B. There are people who have actual food-allergies, and therefore cannot eat certain substances.

In such cases, an appropriate diet is recommended with supplementary vitamins as prescribed.

Faulty diets can be the cause rather than the cure, of ill health and disability.

Leaf Analysis Shows Fertilizer Needs

Almost indestructible platinum dishes, valued around $90 each, allow no contamination of dried leaf samples which Barbara Hyde, laboratory technician, is weighing for plant food analysis. Whole leaves usually are used in this exacting preparation for spectrometric analysis of uptake of phosphorus, potassium, calcium, and lesser soil-born nutrients. Up to 11 elements may be measured simultaneously, Cyril B. Smith, plant nutritionist at the Pennsylvania State University Agricultural Experiment Station, explains. The tremendous labor-saving allowed by this process over wet chemical analysis, he says, is establishing exact needs of crops for fertilizers. Excesses and imbalances, in his opinion, may harm plants as much as lack of nutrients.

Weevil Honored As Progress Bug

ENTERPRISE, Ala. — This is one southern city that doesn't have a monument of a Confederate soldier standing in the town square.

Its monument to the boll weevil is said to be the only monument in the world which perpetuates the memory of an insect.

Funds for the monument were raised in 1919 without solicitation because the City Council felt the coming of the Mexican boll weevil in 1915 had been a blessing in disguise for south Alabama farmers. Cotton had been king, but the insects' ravages brought about crop diversification.

Haven For Needy Youngsters

ALBION, Mich. — Fifty years ago a man named Floyd Starr purchased 40 acres of land, a burned-out homestead, and a ramshackle barn west of Albion, Mich., and set out to help needy boys.

Starr's first charges were two homeless boys who shared the barn with him until a new house was built. He called this haven for needy youngsters. "Starr Commonwealth for Boys."

On February 17th, Starr Commonwealth began celebrating its golden anniversary. Since its humble beginning a half-century ago, it has expanded to meet the ever-increasing need for such a school. Today, the school covers more than 2,000 acres with a complex of modern school buildings and living quarters. It accommodates 220 boys who are in serious need of guidance.

School officials are quick to point out that Starr Commonwealth is not a reform school or a penal institution. Enrollment is voluntary, and boys are referred by parents, courts, schools, and social agencies.

According to school officials, nine out of ten boys who receive training at this school become responsible citizens. Among the 220 boys receiving this guidance are 34 who are now living at the Van Wert, Ohio branch, which was established 11 years ago.

A feature of the anniversary celebration is the dedication of the "old barn", the Starr Commonwealth's original home and school. The dedication is scheduled for late summer.

Chairman Alex Gordon said, "One pole to a fisherman is adequate."

Laugh's Cure Tired Spouse

COLUMBUS—Ladies, have you ever wondered what to do with a grouchy husband who's had a bad day at work?

Make him laugh. That's the prescription of Dr. A. Dixon Weatherhead, chief of the Department of Psychiatry of the Cleveland Clinic Foundation. Speaking at the Ohio Hospital Convention here, Weatherhead said diversional entertainment that provided laughter could also relieve mental fatigue.

The first rule for relieving mental fatigue, he said, was to plan diversional activities that were as remote as possible from a person's occupational duties.

Weatherhead spoke at a meeting of the Ohio Association of Medical Record Librarians, one of 12 affiliated groups meeting in connection with the convention.

Another suggestion the Cleveland psychiatrist offered for combating mental fatigue was for an individual to get adequate rest and to live in a restful and peaceful environment.

"It is difficult to relax when there is constant chatter from children and sound from television, radio, pets and other sources," he continued. "It may seem trite to mention, but sometimes it is not easy to obtain a peaceful environment."

The movable metal dome of the Civic Arena will be the "big tent" for Syria Shrine Circus for five big days beginning April 30.

Reserve seats for the 16th annual edition of the "Circus With a Heart for Crippled Children" will go on sale April 1 at Gimbels, Horne's and McKennan Pharmacy.

Commenting on the "superlative facilities of the Civic Arena", James B. Allan, Syria Temple's "Mr. Circus", promised the "best circus yet in the world's best show place."

Mr. Allan said a cast of 500, including the famed uniformed marching units of Syria Temple, will be seen in the opening "Oriental Splendor and Fantasy."

He said the 100-man Syria Brass Band, the kilted Highlanders, the Oriental Band, the Drum and Bugle Corps and the Chanters will provide the music as the Legion of Honor, the Arab Patrol and other Syria units sweep around the arena preceding the regular circus parade.

Proceeds of the circus will go as usual to the Shriners' Hospitals for Crippled Children and other Syria Temple charities and activities.

St. Francis Has Wrestler Champ

Henry Garanin, 157-pounder from St. Francis College, led the West Penn Wrestling Conference with a perfect 3-0 record.

Tied for the runnerup spot were a pair of grapplers from Grove City's unbeaten co-champs — Jim Bashaw (hwt.) and Harry Ruprecht (137) — with 2-0 marks.

Two wrestlers from St. Vincent's co-champs tied with Garanin for the most wins. They were Francis Fulcher (130) and Tom Skoloda (123) who were 3-1. Grove City's Jim Bashaw and St. Vincent's Jim Wasicki tied for the league leadership in pins with two each.

Nineteen of the WPC grapplers posted undefeated seasons in league competition.

Eight were from Waynesburg, seven from Grove City, and four from St. Francis.

Waynesburg's entire team was unbeaten as the Yellow Jackets scored a near-perfect 34-0 win over St. Vincent's co-champs in their lone conference outing.

Fifty-one wrestlers saw West Penn action the past season.

Lock Haven Coach Speaker At Dinner For "Bucky" Murdock's Retirement

HUBERT H. JACK

Hubert H. Jack, football coach at Lock Haven State and former wrestling mentor of the Bald Eagles, will be the main speaker at the testimonial dinner for Raymond (Bucky) Murdock, Saturday, in Benedum Hall.

Murdock, mat coach of the Yellow Jackets for the past 16 years, retired at the close of the past campaign.

Mr. Jack is a native of Grove City and graduated from Grove City High School in 1921. He received his B. S. degree from Slippery Rock State in 1930 and his M. A. from the University of Pittsburgh in 1933.

He has done additional graduate study at Penn State University and the University of West Virginia.

Jack started his coaching career at Grove City High School from 1926 to 1937, as head man in wrestling, track, and gymnastics and an assistant in football.

In wrestling his Grove City team was 29-7 with no losses to District 10 foes. He produced one western Pennsylvania mat champion, Jack's Grove City thincads won a District 10 title and won two individual P. I. A. A. crowns.

Jack's next coaching stop was at DuBois High School from 1937 to 1943. He was head coach in wrestling and football at DuBois.

In the mat sport his clubs posted a 46-6 record and his gridders were 44-15-1.

His grapplers won the District 6-9 championship once and Jack saw four of his matmen win P. I. A. A. crowns. They were Bob Bader (1939), Jack Sullivan (1941), John Bernardo (1939), and Maylon Kirkwood (1942).

Bader went on to an N.C.A.A. fourth place at Kent State and Sullivan won the E.I.W.A. and took fourth in the N.C.A.A. for the University of Pennsylvania.

Another Jack product from DuBois — Grant Dixon — won the E.I.W.A. for Penn State.

Jack served as head wrestling coach at Lock Haven from 1943 until 1962, and continues as head man in football, since taking over in 1943.

He has compiled a sensational record in the mat sport at the Lock Haven School.

Jack's Bald Eagle grapplers won 151 and lost only 33. He had undefeated teams in 1947 and 1949. His team was undefeated in Pennsylvania State College Conference competition for 10 seasons.

Lock Haven won the P.S.C.C. mat tournaments in 1947, 1948, 1950, 1952, and 1956. Fifty of coach Jack's matmen won individual P.S.C.C. crowns.

Lock Haven, under Jack's leadership, won a pair of Cleveland 4-I Tournament crowns and ten individual 4-I champions.

Four of the Bald Eagles aces have placed in the N.C.A.A. tournament during Jack's career, as coach. They are Tony Verga (third in 1948), Steve DeAugustino (fourth in 1948), Gus DeAugustino (first in 1953), and Elliot Gray Simons (first in 1960, 61, and 62).

Gus DeAugustino was a member of the U. S. Olympic squad in 1952 and Simons placed fifth in the Olympics at Rome at 115 pounds.

Six individual N.A.I.A. titles have been won by Lock Haven wrestlers during coach Jack's regime.

Simons, in four years, won 91 collegiate victories and earned an unbroken string of 85 wins. His record includes four P.S.C.C. crowns, four N.A.I.A. titles, and three N.C.A.A. championships.

Jack's Lock Haven gridders have won 84, lost 58, and tied five. The Bald Eagles were P.S.C.C. co-champions in 1957 and western division champs in 1960.

Deadline April 30 On Auto Tags

HARRISBURG — The state Revenue Department has set April 30 as the deadline for 1963 license plate stickers. The deadline, postponed indefinitely earlier in the week, had been midnight Sunday.

Revenue Secretary Theodore B. Smith said the delay was neither the fault of the present or previous Administration.

"The accumulated work load was too much for the department to process in the allotted time," Smith said.

He added that 4.4 million tag applications have been sent out.

Savings & Loan Associations, Affiliates Promote Many Thrift Opportunities

The savings and loan industry according to Joseph P. McMurray, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, of Washington, D. C., dedicated to promoting thrift and opportunity for home ownership by the average citizen, has become the country's fastest growing major savings medium and its greatest single source of private mortgage credit. He estimates that, at the close of 1962, member institutions of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation reached over $90,000,000,000 in assets, nearly $76,000,000,000 in mortgage loans held, and close to $77,000,000,000 in accumulated savings capital. By the end of 1963, FSLIC-insured institutions should constitute a $104,000,000,000 industry with mortgage holdings of nearly $86,000,000,000 and savings capital of more than $87,000,000,000.

JOSEPH P. McMURRAY

This has been a great success story, but that does not mean that savings and loan associations can rest on their laurels. If they do, they will lose the vitality that brought them such distinction in the financial world. Now, more than ever before, they owe to their community, State and Nation expanded services directed to the still unmet areas of housing need.

In addition, all home mortgages lending institutions face the serious problem of a relatively stable housing market. No further home building starts is expected before the late 1960s, and meanwhile the savings inflow into all institutions is at a record level. This means more money with less outlets in the home mortgage market, and it certainly will tend to keep interest rates down in the next few years.

However, there are many new opportunities which savings and loan associations are just beginning to explore. Among the most promising outlets for larger savings and loan investments in the future are the booming apartment construction field, privately financed urban renewal and housing for the aging projects and land acquisition and development. Recent legislation and regulatory changes have increased the lending powers of associations in all these areas. It also does not seem improbable that savings and loan institutions in the future will begin to lend funds for the purchase of items intrinsically associated with housing such as furniture and appliances as well as to increase their present activities in home improvement and modernization loans.

With ample funds and broadened authority to lend them, savings and loan associations are now better equipped than ever to provide a wide variety of financing, from site purchase and development loans to construction loans for a home, an apartment, a store, or a shopping center. Additional authority to lend and participate in loans on large apartment houses is provided in the recently enacted H. R. 13044. A broad regulation now in the proposal stage would permit Federal savings and loan associations to lend an additional 5 percent of assets for construction or improvement of housing facilities for aging persons, including rest homes and nursing homes. Nearing the stage of presentation that would authorize Federal savings and loan associations to invest in certificates of beneficial interest issued by urban renewal trusts.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board intends to do everything that is practicable and that meets with Administration approval to facilitate the job of financing that needs to be done. For example, new legislative authority will be sought to enable Federal associations to make a limited entry into consumer financing for the purchase of furnishings and appliances for the home. In addition, the Board is giving consideration to a regulation that would increase the loan-to-value ratio on certain types of loans for purposes, such as modern hospital and medical facilities, that directly benefit the community and tend to raise the general level of real estate values.

THE COSTLY SEARCH FOR ENERGY

AN AVERAGE OIL OR GAS WELL REACHES ABOUT 4,000 FEET INTO THE EARTH AND COSTS MORE THAN $62,000 TO DRILL. IN LESS ACCESSIBLE AREAS, COSTS GO HIGHER. A TYPICAL OFFSHORE WELL, FOR INSTANCE, COSTS NEARLY $400,000.

YET REGARDLESS OF THE COST, REGARDLESS OF THE DEPTH (WELLS OF 15,000 FEET ARE NOT UNCOMMON) THERE'S NO GUARANTEE OF FINDING OIL OR GAS. IN FACT THE DEEPEST WELL EVER DRILLED IN THE UNITED STATES COST AN ESTIMATED $3,000,000 AND EXCEEDED 25,000 FEET, NEARLY 5 MILES. AND IT WAS A DRY HOLE!

DESPITE SUCH RISKS, THE SEARCH FOR OIL AND GAS MUST GO ON TO MEET AMERICA'S GROWING THIRST FOR LOW COST ENERGY.
