Crackdown Ordered Relief Roll Chiselers

James D. Cole Heads Township Officials Here

James D. Cole of Cumberland Township, was elected president of the Greene County Association of Township Auditors at the 48th annual convention here Friday.

Mr. Cole is the first auditor to hold the office. He succeeds Herschel U. Bissett, Freeport Township supervisor.

Other officers elected were Floyd Dille, Morris Township supervisor, first vice president; Ralph O. Conklin, Freeport Township supervisor, second vice president, and Warren H. Roberts, of Greene Township, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Roberts was reflected to his 17th consecutive term as secretary-treasurer.

Herschel U. Bissett was named delegate to the state convention, with Guy Ross, Aleppo Township supervisor, named alternate delegate.

More than 100 were present and attended the banquet in the Waynesburg Post Home, Veterans of Foreign Wars, that evening.

Milton Delancey, executive secretary of the state organization, spoke at the morning and afternoon sessions. He stressed the responsibility of local officials performing their duties efficiently and economically.

"The criticism directed at township and borough auditors is that they are not auditing, but merely adding columns of figures and in too many cases the criticism is justified," he said.

"Their argument on tax collectors is that the same job could be done much more economically on the county level."

Mr. Delancey said the state association is "unalterably opposed" to the elimination of any township offices, feeling that the solution to the problem is to provide more efficient service rather than eliminate the offices involved.

District Attorney Toothman said that in his opinion the very foundation of democracy rests on local government, where officials are directly responsible to the people they serve.

Mr. McCann spoke primarily on the move for a new State constitution, stating that he favors a constitutional convention with delegates elected from all sections of the State.

Woolworth Skyscraper 50 Years Old

NEW YORK — America's first skyscraper, the Woolworth Building, is celebrating its 50th anniversary.

The 60-story building, rising 792 feet and one inch above the street, "is so tall," people said in 1913, "it gives you a crick in the neck to look up at it."

Today it is considered one of the country's architectural classics with its gothic lines, flying buttresses, gargoyles, a lace-in-stone exterior, and three-story vaulted entrance arcade.

The building is still headquarters of the F. W. Woolworth Co.

Eisenhower Spurs State Political Role

HARRISBURG — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said Wednesday he will not take an advisory role in Pennsylvania politics or government unless asked to do so by Governor Scranton.

The general, returning home after a four-month vacation in California, added that he did not recall a campaign statement made in his behalf last fall that he would be available to serve the Scranton administration in an advisory capacity.

"I'm staying out of politics and I don't plan to take an advisory role unless he (Scranton) asks me, but I would like to talk to him," Eisenhower said.

Governor William W. Scranton disclosed Wednesday night that he has ordered a "new and more thorough" investigation to drive chiselers off the State's relief rolls.

Scranton announced his policy to rout the chiselers as he said in the heart of every taxpayer or human being "there lurks a feeling of healthy revolt at the thought of being played for a sucker."

The Governor's plans were unfolded in a 30-minute statewide telecast, to acquaint the public with his need for $139 million in new revenue to balance the Administration's $1.121 billion budget for the fiscal period beginning next July 1. More than 10 radio stations also carried the Governor's talk.

Mr. Scranton originally proposed a 4½ percent sales tax extended to clothing and shoes to raise the revenue, but is ready to drop that in favor of a 5 percent tax with wearing apparel excluded. The present sales tax rate is 4 percent.

Asserting that State Government must depend on a "broad-based tax" because it is the only one which can provide sufficient revenue, Scranton said he preferred a sales tax levy over a State wage or income impost.

"I am opposed to a wage tax because it would be very unfair to the workingman and his family," the Governor declared.

He pointed out that the average family will pay about $140 yearly in sales taxes, including the increase he proposed, as compared to $330 in State government services each family receives annually.

As Mr. Scranton disclosed his plans, Secretary of Public Welfare Arlin M. Adams said that at the Governor's orders he was in the "midst of a substantial study" to determine how many chiselers are on the relief rolls, especially in the category of aid to dependent children.

Adams said he has also received a number of personal leads showing a situation that many persons are not entitled to public assistance.

Public assistance costs have been mounting steadily over the years.

Since 1950-51, total State and Federal exemptions for public assistance in Pennsylvania have risen from $125 million to an estimated $252 million for the current fiscal period ending June 30.

Total number of persons on the assistance rolls for the same period rose from 343,417 to 476,651 at the close of March of this year.

Mr. Scranton said that 12.6 cents of every dollar the State spends goes for public assistance payments and grants to the unfortunate and poverty-stricken.

Pennsylvania spends approximately $500 a year per family on public assistance, the Governor said, with the vast majority of the cases being "of real need."

In his presentation for the need for more money to run the Commonwealth's affairs, Mr. Scranton described the State government as a "hidden giant" with many persons completely unfamiliar with its fund outlays.

More than one-half of it, or 49 cents of every tax dollar, he said goes for education. Ten cents of each dollar, he added, is expended for mental health, 12.6 cents for welfare, 7½ cents for general health purposes, 3½ cents for law and order and 3 cents for the economic growth of the State.

At the same time, he emphasized that 7 cents of every dollar during the next year will be used to pay off a deficit inherited from the administration of his predecessor, former Democratic Governor David L. Lawrence.

Mr. Scranton emphasized that while he has initiated economies, including the abolition of 2500 State jobs, essential services could not be curbed.

The Governor said he didn't realize the extent of the State's poor fiscal condition when he took office, that the deficit, before he slashed it, was $35 million.

Executive Head Of Children's Aid To Retire In July

Miss Elizabeth Way Marlatt, executive secretary of the Children's Aid Society of Greene County, on Monday announced her resignation effective July first.

Miss Marlatt began her work in the county in 1954.

Under her direction, the work of the society has become an effective force in the care of delinquent and neglected children.

After she assumed her present position the care of children formerly taken to the Children's Home (which was then closed) was transferred to the foster home plan.

The society is now supervising the care of approximately four times the number of children formerly residing in the home at an additional cost of only about $7,000 per year over the former cost of $45,000.

The most recent count of children in the society's program was 179.

Under her direction, the staff of the society has increased from the executive secretary and an office secretary to include a medical worker, two case workers and a part-time bookkeeper.

Miss Marlatt served for 13 years as supervisor of home finding with the Children's Aid Society of Allegheny County before coming to Greene County. She was with the Allegheny County Juvenile Court as foster care consultant for six years.

A native of Sewickley, she attended Elmira College for two years and is a graduate of Mt. Union College at Alliance, Ohio. Miss Marlatt has not announced future plans.

Sycamore House Destroyed By Fire

Fire of unknown origin destroyed a four-room frame dwelling at Smith Acres, near Sycamore, about 9:45 Monday morning, and threatened the nearby home of Mrs. Thesie Smith Ray.

The house, which was destroyed, was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Thompson and daughter, Barbara.

Waynesburg Volunteer Firemen were able to prevent the blaze from spreading, but were hampered by lack of water and a strong wind.

Heat cracked glass in windows of Mrs. Ray's home and there was smoke damage.

Fire Chief "Flip" Tennant estimated damage at $5,000. Mr. Thompson was at work and the daughter was in school. Mrs. Thompson had just entered the Ray home, where she worked, when she saw her house in flames.

Sir Winston Ends Political Career

LONDON — Sir Winston Churchill, member of Parliament for Woodford, announced Wednesday with "sadness" that he will not seek re-election the next time Britons go to the polls.

Sir Winston, who will be 89 this year, has served the House of Commons—and all mankind—for 60 years and, but for the 1962 accident on the Riviera, might continue that service still.

His great contribution to his generation and all generations was at "Britain's finest hour" when he faced the most devastating assaults of modern war with an undying challenge:

"We shall fight on the seas and oceans, we shall fight with growing strength in the air, we shall defend our island, whatever the cost may be, we shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills; we shall never surrender."

And now, in his great age, Sir Winston still has not surrendered.

In leaving the political wars, he is only exercising the prerogatives of age and honor—to take his ease.

Oldest Bar Member O. R. Hughes Dies After Long Illness

Attorney Ollie R. Hughes, 83 years, a former District attorney, died Saturday, April 27, 1963, in his home in East Wayne street. He had been in failing health four years.

Mr. Hughes was a son of John L. and Sarah Ross Hughes, and was born March 1, 1880, in Jackson Township, near Bluff, where he resided during the early part of his life. He had lived in Waynesburg for 54 years.

Mr. Hughes attended Brownsville High School, and walked the 30-mile distance from his home on week ends. After attending Waynesburg College and California Normal School, he enrolled at the University of Valparaiso, Valparaiso, Ind., where he received his bachelor of science degree, and his law degree in 1907.

Mr. Hughes taught school for 12 years in western Greene County and was the first principal of Rogersville High School.

Mr. Hughes was the oldest member of the Greene County Bar Association, having been admitted to practice March 2, 1914. He served three four-year terms as district attorney in the 1920s.

Mr. Hughes was a member of Washington Street Methodist Church and of the Men's Bible Class. He also had taught a Sunday School class for a number of years.

Surviving are his wife, Ella Huffman Hughes, whom he married October 17, 1908; two daughters, Vivien, at home, and Marjorie, wife of John S. Holleran, of Waynesburg; two grandchildren, Karen and Kevin Holleran, and two sisters, Mrs. Clara White and Miss Gladys Hughes, both of Waynesburg.

Three brothers and four sisters are deceased.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, conducted by Dr. H. M. Eagleson and Dr. Paul P. Holden. Interment in Mt. Zion Cemetery, near Bluff.

Clark To Fight 'Corruption'

WASHINGTON — Charging that Pennsylvania for years has been "in the Jukes family of American politics" and is beset by corruption and bossism, Senator Joseph S. Clark, Democrat, of Pennsylvania, disclosed Wednesday what he intends to do about it between now and the May 21 Democratic primaries in the State.

Specifically, he will actively campaign for "good government" Democrats in Berks, Beaver and Washington counties, where a "realistic political appraisal" indicates they have the best chance of winning.

The Senator said that if his candidates won in the counties where he actively campaigned "we will have made a substantial step forward" toward eliminating alleged ties between Democratic officeholders and racketeering elements in some parts of the State.

Clark has been publicly deploring these links since his reelection in November. He has declared that unless the party's image was changed, Pennsylvania might be lost to President Kennedy in the 1964 election.

Church May Buy 10 Mine Hospitals

NEW YORK — The Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church U.S.A. authorized its executive officers on Friday to negotiate the purchase of 10 United Mine Workers hospitals in Kentucky, West Virginia and Virginia.

The action is contingent on whether negotiations can be carried out before union trustees enforce their July 1 deadline for closing four eastern Kentucky hospitals.

A two-year contract between West Penn Power Company and the Utility Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO, Local 102, was terminated by the union Tuesday night, April 30, at midnight.

Negotiations between the company and union bargaining committees have been in progress the past several weeks, but agreement has not yet been reached on a new contract.

The company will continue operations, with supervisory personnel if necessary, to supply electric service to its 395,000 customers in southwestern and north central Pennsylvania.

The union represents about 1300 lines, service, and production employees of the company. Employees represented by the union did not report Wednesday morning. About 30 union members in the Jefferson district are taking part in the strike. Total strikers are 1,300.

S. L. Drumm, president of the utility stated: West Penn Power operations throughout its 18-county service area were struck Tuesday night by the Utility Workers Union of America when negotiations broke down following union termination of the contract at midnight, Tuesday.

Discussions have reached an impasse because the union is demanding joint determination in areas which are a responsibility of management. Wages apparently are not a major issue.

When the union notified the company of its strike action, the company had offered an 18c per hour wage increase over a three-year period, plus liberalized vacation provisions, and several other fringe benefits.

The Federal and State Mediation Services have called for negotiations to resume at 10 a. m. Friday, May 3.

The company is maintaining operations with non-union employees including supervisors and management.

G.O.P. Swings Ten To 5% Tax Plan

HARRISBURG — House Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson, Republican, McKean, said Wednesday that 10 of the 22 Republican members who had opposed enactment of a 5 per cent sales tax exempting clothing and shoes had been converted to the proposal overnight.

With Republican House leaders acting to consolidate their forces behind the proposal to hike the sales tax from 4 to 5 per cent, Johnson hoped he could rally the 12 votes necessary to adopt the plan by next Monday.

The 5 per cent tax plan was accepted by Governor William W. Scranton on Tuesday after House and Senate leaders advised him they could not win approval of the Administration's revenue program to increase the tax to 4½ per cent and extend it to clothing and shoes.

Following a caucus of the House Republican majority bloc on Tuesday, Johnson indicated that at least 84 of the 106 votes necessary to pass the plan had been lined up for the 5 per cent proposal.

With Johnson claiming 10 more votes for the tax plan, he still needed 12 to push it through the House.

Subs Can't Travel Under South Pole

WASHINGTON — Both the U. S. and the Soviet Union have sent nuclear submarines to the North Pole. How about the South Pole?

Information supplied to the House by the Navy notes that nuclear submarine operations under the Antarctic ice shelves are "feasible" and would have "scientific, political and prestige value but little military value."

But the subs could not get very close to the pole; and for a very simple reason. Unlike the Arctic, Antarctica is mostly land — not ice-topped water.

Tasteful combination of striking but simple materials gives this modern setting elegance without undo upkeep. Like the painted brick, the hardboard paneling with a wood-grain finish is meant to take hard wear. The factory-finished surface, requiring no further treatment, is resistant to scuffs and stain, and most smudges wipe right off with a damp cloth or sponge. H-2

Pass The Sugar, And Good Luck

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia—Suitors are dealt with tactfully in parts of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The proposed suitor shows up and is wined and dined by the girl's family. All aspects of the prospective marriage are talked over, even finances. But the girl's family doesn't come out with any flat yes or no. Instead, at the end of the talking, they serve coffee. If it is sweet, the suitor knows he has been accepted. If sour — he'll better luck elsewhere.

The Source of Intelligence

A LARGE group of university undergraduates were chatting outside an examination hall. The writer, who was one of them, became aware of an atmosphere of fear and doubt among the students. Then the doors opened, and they filed in and took their places. For the writer, the examination was important, as it was one of two final papers in his major subject for his degree.

As he read through the examination paper, he had a great sense of inadequacy. Even though he had prepared conscientiously for the test, he did not feel he could do justice to enough questions to pass. Then, since he was a student of Christian Science, he looked away from the paper and turned to God in prayer. Immediately these words of the Apostle Paul came to him (II Tim. 1:7): "God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind."

In thinking about this statement, the word "us" stood out, and the writer realized that the truth in the Bible verse applied impartially to everyone in the examination hall, whether he was aware of it or not. To none had God given the spirit of fear, but to all he had given power, love, and a sound, or disciplined, mind. Refreshed, the writer turned back to the paper and began to answer the questions without difficulty. Later he found that he had obtained the highest possible rating.

How was it that Paul was able to speak so authoritatively of man's possession of "a sound mind"? It was because he was aware that God is the sole and total source of man's intelligence; whereas the human brain has never conceived or entertained a single thought. In his second Epistle to the Corinthians, Paul wrote (3:5), "Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as of ourselves; but our sufficiency is of God."

Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, which takes its authority from the teachings of Christ Jesus, looked to God for her inspiration and understanding. So clearly did she see the divine origin of true thought that she realized that God is Mind itself, as the Bible implies. Of man, the child of God, she writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 475), "He is the compound idea of God, including all right ideas; the generic term for all that reflects God's image and likeness; the conscious identity of being as found in Science, in which man is the reflection of God, or Mind, and therefore is eternal; that which has no separate mind from God; that which has not a single quality undivided from Deity; that which possesses no life, intelligence, nor creative power of his own, but reflects spiritually all that belongs to his Maker."

The man who "has no separate mind from God" is not sinning, material man; he is the only real man, the true spiritual concept of each one of us, spoken of in the first chapter of Genesis as being made in God's image and likeness. Any other concept of man is an illusion, a false claim about man, a false representation of the creator. Only by holding to the true concept of God and man can we eliminate the suggestion of an imperfect, sinful, ignorant, or undisciplined mind. God, divine Mind, cannot be separated from His manifestation, man, nor can man be separated from the ideas which are the thoughts of divine Mind, the only Mind man has or can have.

No one is outside infinite Mind; nothing is beyond its comprehension. It does not deteriorate with the passing of time, is never absent, never vague, never confused, never tired. This Mind is man's by reflection. — The Christian Science Monitor

Deaf Man Perfects Tiny Hearing Aid

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — A remarkably tiny hearing aid has been perfected by a man, who has been hard of hearing for nearly ten years.

This small device has no dangling cords or separate transmitting units and represents a new and unusual design idea in a product to restore natural hearing.

It was especially developed for those persons who can hear, but can't understand. This new hearing instrument provides "ear-level" hearing with the wearer picking up speech, sounds, television and radio at his ear.

Due to the use of transistors, the user cost is extremely low. The instrument weighs only 1/4 oz. It is about the size of a sewing machine thimble—hardly noticeable yet powerful.

FLAMELESS ELECTRIC HEAT ADDS TO THE JOY OF TOTAL ELECTRIC LIVING

Flameless electric heating systems are compact in size but big in performance. Electric baseboards (left) are simple to install, blend into the decor, and take up little space. Controlled by individual room thermostats, they gently provide a uniform degree of heat over a wide area. Radiant ceiling cable (center) is completely concealed by the plaster or plasterboard of the ceiling and only the individual wall thermostats are seen. It warms the occupants of the room with radiant heat waves, just as the sun warms the earth. Electric wall panels (right) use heating elements fused in glass or hidden behind a decorative grill. They are especially useful in bathrooms or dressing rooms where space is limited. Versatile electric heat, the heart of the total electric home, is also available in warm air and hot water systems, and the heat pump which heats and cools the house for year-round climate control.

Annual precipitation on the vast interior plateau is equivalent to only four inches of rain, merely two more than that of Death Valley, according to the National Geographic magazine. The continent's potential water — equal to all the world's rivers and lakes — is locked in snow and ice.

Your Health

Pennsylvania Medical Society

If you want to stand out in a crowd, stand up straight.

Good posture is relatively so rare that the man or woman who displays good posture is immediately noticed.

Good health to some extent depends on good posture.

The human body is an intricate machine and subject to mechanical laws and forces.

Much of our time is spent in standing or sitting, and the downward force of gravity exerts a profound effect on the body.

This power of gravity tends to displace various parts of the body or pull them out of alignment.

Such displacement of the human structure tends to cause inefficiency in motion, strain and damage to anatomical parts, lowered resistance to disease and delay in recovery from injury.

To insure maximum performance of the body, we must continually hold the body in a position to maintain proper function.

The correct position defines good posture.

Poise of body calls for properly balanced line without muscular tension or rigidity.

The weight of the body should be carried well forward and on the outer borders of the feet.

Good posture is as simple as this:

The abdomen should be pulled in, the back flat, the head up, the chin in.

Merely raising the chest by forcibly squaring the shoulders is not sufficient, and wastes considerable energy in trying to maintain a strained position.

Good posture is good policy.

Vegetables You've Never Tasted

This unusual-looking vegetable is a cross between cabbage and winter cauliflower. Its name is Caulicab and its flavor is mild, unlike that of either parent. Why not try to grow it?

To paraphrase a famous ditty, "I never saw a purple bean, I never hope to see one" yet there is a purple-podded snap bean now on the market. It's called Royalty for that royal purple hue. The pods turn green when they're cooked in boiling water for precisely two minutes, thus providing a built-in blanching indicator for home freezing.

Not only is there a purple bean, but there's a red celery. This is named Holiday and keeps its color when cooked. When the celery plants are young, stems are tinged pink. This color deepens as the plants mature. Use Holiday for a winter crop in the south, sowing seeds in August. Start seeds indoors in the north.

There are also, among the vegetables you've never tasted, two varieties of "salad" potatoes brought to this country by the first German settlers. Both of these have yellow flesh and are far superior for salad than any other type of potato.

One is named German Purple for its skin color. Round tubers average an inch and a half in diameter. The other, called Fingerlings, has tubers from two to four inches long and about an inch in diameter. Both skin and flesh are yellow.

Both varieties should be boiled with the skins on, then sliced for salad. Stock of seed is small, so order early.

Among the newest vegetables there's a spinach called Malabar that grows like a vine and thrives in hot weather when ordinary spinach varieties bolt to seed. Train it on a fence or similar support and use the large, bright green leaves for summer greens.

Have you ever tasted Caulicab, a cross between cabbage and winter cauliflower? Flavor is different from either parent and very mild.

Depending on when it is planted, this new vegetable acts differently. When planted in spring with early cabbage, it makes solid heads by fall, with large ribs running nearly to the tops of the heads.

When planted in late summer, heads form the next spring with an outer layer of leaves like cabbage but the inner portion filled with tightly folded sprouts and buds, amber in color.

If you'd like to know where to procure seeds for any of these new and unusual vegetables, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to this newspaper.

GARDEN SAFELY

Loisye Dinwiddle demonstrates how she pushes the tines of her rake into the soil of her garden plot so neither she nor another pupil gardening nearby can fall on them and be hurt.

When ten-year-old Loisye Dinwiddle walks down the broad center path of the Miles Standish school garden in Cleveland, Ohio to her own garden plot, she carries her child-size tools with their points down and their handles under her armpit. This she has been taught to do by the garden instructors because it is the safest way to transport tools.

She never runs while she is carrying tools because she realizes that to do so might invite a fall and that she might injure herself with the tools.

For the same reason, and because she also might injure other children working nearby, she places her tools, as soon as she reaches her own plot, with the blade of the hoe and the tines of the rake downward towards to soil.

In the accompanying picture she is shown stepping on the tines of the rake to push them into the ground where they stay safely until she is ready to use the tool. She never leaves tines pointing upwards so that someone, perhaps herself, can fall on them and be hurt.

These two tools, a rake and a hoe, plus a bucket make up the basic tools with which Loisye gardens. The bucket is used to transport weeds and leftovers away from the neat garden plot.

This neatness extends to the tools themselves, for, when she has finished gardening for the day, Loisye stops at the low sink in the garden house and rinses her tools "good" under the faucet so they keep shining and clean and don't rust. She also rinses out her bucket, having already dumped its load on the trash pile. Then she dries tools and bucket with paper towels before hanging them in their assigned places.

Even when Loisye uses such a "safe" tool as a trowel for transplanting tomato plants into her garden, she pushes the blade into the ground "not too hard or you may bend the blade". When ready to use the trowel she pulls it out again, but sticks the blade back again into the ground between uses, just to "play safe".

Walnut Salad Athena

There's real flavor elegance in Walnut Salad Athena, a new recipe from the Diamond Walnut Kitchen. It's perfect for entertaining whenever you want a different, tasty meatless main dish salad, and is ideal for family menus, too. Serve it very cold and crisp. You'll like the crunchy Diamond Walnuts combined with prawns or shrimp, interesting spices and a tangy lemon herb dressing. Serve Walnut Salad Athena with a soup beginner course, hot muffins and jam, and fruit pie for dessert.

Walnut Salad Athena

|--|--|
| 2 tablespoons butter   | Crisp salad greens                             |
| 1/2 teaspoon dried rosemary, finely crumbled                             | 6 radishes, whole or sliced                    |
| 1 cup Diamond Walnuts, large pieces or halves                            | 6 pitted ripe olives, whole or sliced          |
| Lemon Herb Dressing  | 6 pitted stuffed green olives, whole or slices |
| 2 cups cooked, cleaned prawns, or large shrimp (fresh, frozen or canned) | 1/2 cup small pickled onions                   |
| 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley                                      | 3 medium firm ripe tomatoes, cut in wedges     |
| 2 tablespoons finely chopped chives or green onion                       | 1/4 cup crumbled Feta or cubed Jack cheese     |

Melt butter with rosemary in heavy skillet; add walnuts. Heat, stirring now and then, over low heat until walnuts are lightly toasted, about 10 minutes. Remove and cool. Pour herb dressing over prawns or shrimp. Add parsley and chives or green onion; mix gently; cover and marinate in refrigerator an hour or longer. When ready to assemble salad, line chilled serving dish with crisp salad greens. Toss all remaining ingredients together with prawns and marinate until well mixed. Arrange on greens. Makes six servings.

Lemon Herb Dressing: Measure into a jar 1/2 cup olive oil, 1/4 cup lemon juice, 1 tablespoon granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon seasoned salt, 1/4 teaspoon seasoned pepper, 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder, 1/4 teaspoon dried oregano, 1/4 teaspoon dried marjoram. Cover and shake until well blended.

Kentucky Derby Kicks Off List Of Traditional Events

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — When May's special merry madness sweeps Kentucky, the kingdom of the horse, there's no other place like it on earth. Its joyous lunacy kindles Kentuckians everywhere and it explodes in a gay and carefree climax at the annual coronation on the first Saturday in May at the royal court of Churchill Downs.

All roads lead to Louisville then and they are thronged with pilgrims. So are the airlines and the private planes and the railroad trains and even the cruisers and steamboats on waterways that join the Ohio. They flock in from all directions like homing birds at sundown.

White plank fences and stone walls, rising and falling on rolling seas of bluegrass, point toward Louisville and historic Churchill Downs to which millions of eyes and ears are turned annually for the world's most thrilling two-minute suspense, the Kentucky Derby, run next Saturday.

Playful colts romp over the pastures, keeping company with some of the track's retired elite. These frisky potential champions are trained and cared for expertly by handlers on some 250 horse farms in the famed Kentucky Bluegrass region. Their day — and chance for glory — is coming.

In these very same fields racing greats of yesteryear once frolicked. In their heyday they loped over the rich pastures, building the strength, stamina and speed that carried them repeatedly to the winner's circle to be wreathed in garlands of flowers and applauded admiringly.

And here, too in their twilight years many of them have basked in the tender devotion due a champion. Great artists have captured their streamlined, quicksilver beauty in bronze and on canvas. Their bloodlines are treasured and their offspring are among the most cherished of all God's creations.

Horse-loving Kentuckians have always treated their thoroughbred heroes that way.

It is fitting then that Kentucky, celebrated throughout the world as the cradle of horsemanship, becomes a different place — especially around Louisville — at Derbytime.

Political big-wigs and television and movie celebrities rub elbows with collegians and stenographers. Justice relents. Carefree and boisterous merry-makers are smilingly tolerated.

Hawkers are out in force patrolling trees rigged in gaily-colored flags and bunting. Racing sheets, walking dolls, canes and a hundred other souvenirs are the order of the day as fanned thousands flood Kentucky's biggest city.

Night clubs import big name bands and top talent to entertain. A gala street dance and spectacular parade furnish more outlets for mounting excitement. Juleps flow.

It is a national fiesta, the crescendo for America's supreme racing event the first Saturday in May.

From a distance the picturesque twin spires of Churchill Downs stand like silent memorials to Kentuckybred champions of the past—Whirlaway, Citation, Twenty Grand, Man O'War, Gallant Fox, Pensive, Bubbling Over, Ponder, Bull Lea, Nashua and all the rest.

Sprawling grandstands, the green-trimmed white clubhouse and a colorful landscape greet racing fans who are turning out for the first time to see the fabled "Run for the Roses."

One of America's oldest race courses, the track itself has changed little since it was opened in 1875. Its one mile oval, surfaced with a cushion of loam, is now bordered by a white guard-rail.

But the infield, once the haunt of three card monte dealers, craphshooters and other drifters, is now part of the paid admission space and has its own pari-mutual windows and labyrinths of flowers and shrubs all rioting with the multi-hued blossoms of spring.

And the grandstand, now the biggest of any American race track, continues to grow as more Americans each year squeeze their way into it on the big day.

These vivid colors steal their freshness from the cool spray of fountains opposite the grandstands and in front of one of the huge "tote" boards that tip bettors on the latest odds.

In the winner's circle is a giant flower horseshoe of red roses. There each year the winner is saluted in that climatic moment of glory.

Shirt-sleeved humanity threatens to overflow the infield and spill onto the track. People arrive equipped with bright umbrellas, camp stools and picnic baskets. Ladies get that once-a-year chance, too, to show off to thousands their zaniest of spring hats.

In it all there is glamor; there is distinction; there is pride. Nowhere is that pride more evident than where there is a Kentuckian away from home. To him there is no more musical sound in the English language than Kentucky. He is proud of his state's traditions—long rifles, mountain feuds, belles in crinoline, coloneis and fine bourbon. Most of all he is proud of the Derby.

John Harwick, representing the Greene County Track Club, finished high in the Ohio State Championship and Open 50-Kilo (31 miles) Race Walk, Sunday, in Franklin Park, Columbus.

Harwick toured the 30-lap course in 6:07.07 to finish second in the open (out-of-state) division and third overall.

Chris McCarthy of the University of Chicago Track Club, was the winner while Jack Blackburn of the Ohio Track Club, was second, and the Ohio champ.

Steve Sendek of the G. C. T. C. took third in the open race and was sixth overall.

WASHINGTON — The National Prohibition Party will hold its presidential convention in St. Louis August 28-29.

The first open beaver trapping season in Pennsylvania during this century was March 1-April 10, 1934. Trappers took 6,455 beavers in 50 of the state's 67 counties.

ASTRONAUT JOHN GLENN IS EXPLORER LEADER.— "Most of the time I'm learning how to explore outer space," says Astronaut John Glenn, "but in my spare time I'm an associate Advisor of an Explorer post." Glenn, whose son Dave is an Eagle Scout, declares that "Scouting is All-OK."

Indian Corn Mill In Use 128 Years

TALHEQUAH, Okla. — The Cherokee Indians, who brought corn to be ground at the Biting Springs mill 128 years ago, might recognize it today.

The old mill, one of the few water-operated mills left in the Southwest still grinds corn between white granite grindstones, brought from France.

Production is small—less than a couple of hundred bushels a year — but the water-ground corn meal is packaged and sold throughout the country. The miller now is Mrs. Golda Unkefer, who bought the mill in 1950 and restored it.

The mill was established in 1838 to grind corn for Cherokee Indians. It got its name from Dr. Nichols Biting, a doctor and counselor to the Cherokees who lived on the site, in the Cookson Hills southeast of here.

AMERICA, Okla. —Oklahoma not only has a town named for this country, but it has three villages with names the same as national capitals — Berlin, Lima and Washington. It also has a Kremlin.

Infield Airstrip At Waterford Becoming More Popular Each Day

Waterford Park boasts the only landing strip in America, located directly in the infield of the track consisting of a smooth turf surface for private planes to land and take off.

The landing strip, within the turf racing course, has runways of 1300 feet in length with an air sock in the center of the field to instantly apprise pilots of the wind direction prior to landing and takeoff.

The Waterford landing strip has become so popular with private plane owners in the past few years that there have been as many as 31 planes lined up in front of the grandstand at one time.

The management has also granted free admission to club house for all pilots and guests who fly in for the races.

Post time at Waterford Park has been changed to 3:45 p. m. on weekdays and at 2:00 p. m. on Saturdays for the remainder of the Wheeling dates at Waterford Park.

Pirates Recall Vernon Law

Vernon Law is back with the Pirates.

The local team announced his recall Tuesday night after two pitching victories at Kinston, N. C., in the Carolina League.

He pitched a 14-0 shutout Monday night in the Class A League, and reported his arm felt better than it had in two years. This prompted his recall by the Bucs.

After both games for Kinston the Deacon reported he had no after-effect pain in his right shoulder, which put him out of commission in July of 1961.

During spring training he injured a knee, and suffered again from bone chips in his ankle, consequently not getting a chance to pitch in the Grapefruit League. He was left at Daytona Beach by the Bucs as they headed north and then optioned to Kinston when that team opened its season.

JFK Sets May 12 As Mothers Day

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy has proclaimed May 12 as Mothers Day and urged "the people of the United States to give expression on that day to their love and gratitude for their mothers."

Mr. Kennedy's proclamation cited a joint resolution of Congress approved May 8, 1914, designating the second Sunday in May of each year as Mothers' Day.

U. S. Sends Bees For British Hives

LONDON—The United States which helped Britain with lend-lease during the Second World War, inaugurated a lend-bees program today.

A consignment of 1.2 million bees, the vanguard of 8 million, arrived by plane from the United States to restock the hives of beekeepers hit by Britain's severe winter.

importance to patrons is repairing of the roads leading to the track from New Cumberland and Chester.

General Manager Harry R. Bell has announced that every Friday will be designated as Ladies Day at Waterford Park, starting May 3, they will be admitted free of charge to either grandstand or club house.

The ladies are invited to make plans for their clubs to have a party day at the races in a group whenever possible, and those who do so will be given a special reserved section for the day and the feature race will be named for them. Arrangements may be made through the Publicity Department at the track.
