LEROY H. MINOR

Named Treasurer of State Association

Leroy H. Minor, prothonotary of Greene County, has been appointed treasurer of the Pennsylvania Prothonotaries and Clerks of Courts Association.

Mr. Minor, a past president of the organization, was named to fill the office due to the death of Edward McGovern of Northampton County.

Five Sentenced For Rock Throwing; Must Pay Damage

Guy S. Riggi, 17, of Waynesburg, R. D. 2; Charles M. Steenburgh, 17, of Waynesburg, R. D. 4; Fred Wilson of Waynesburg, R. D. 4; and Richard Cook of Cherry street, were sentenced by Judge Roy I. Carson, on Saturday, to pay for all damage they caused by throwing rocks and destroying property at nine private business establishments and homes, and also damaging an automobile.

All were placed on parole for one year and instructed that they must make restitution within that year.

Cook's sentence was deferred pending his enlistment into the service, but Judge Carson specified that he must help pay for the damages.

The fifth rock thrower not involved in the nine cases, was David P. Roberts, 19, of 65½ North Porter street, Waynesburg. He is accused of breaking windows in the Lippencott vicinity and was also put on parole for one year and ordered to pay costs of damages.

This May Coldest Since 1927

PITTSBURGH — The month just ended was the coldest May in this area since 1927.

Luella Maxwell of the U. S. Weather Bureau, said Monday temperatures during the month averaged 56.7 degrees, three degrees below normal.

The month also produced two record low temperatures and nearly two inches of snow in one day.

Highlights were:
May 1, 1.8 inches of snow.
May 2, record low of 26 degrees.

May 12, record-tying low of 33 degrees.
May 23, record 32 degrees.

Don Knotts Visits Relatives Here

Don Knotts, TV star of the Andy Griffith show where he portrays Barney Fife, deputy sheriff of the town of Mayberry, visited his uncle, W. F. Moore of East High street.

A native of Morgantown, W. Va., Mr. Knotts was honored there Saturday in a celebration designated "Don Knotts Day." He is a graduate of West Virginia University.

Mr. Knotts also visited his aunt, Mrs. Belle Lemley of Washington.

He was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Elsie Knotts of Morgantown, and his brother, Willis of Arizona.

$100,000 Gift By Mellons For New Science Hall

A class of 176 received degrees Sunday at the 112th annual commencement of Waynesburg College. Three honorary degrees were conferred.

Dr. Paul R. Stewart, who will become chancellor the first of July after serving as president 42 years, presided.

Prior to introducing the speaker, Dr. Paul C. Cross, president of Mellon Institute, J. A. Hughes attorney for the Richard King Mellon Charitable Trust Fund, presented a check for $100,000 from the trust fund, to Dr. Stewart to be used in building the new science hall named in honor of Dr. Stewart.

Dr. Cross told the graduates they must continue to learn in order to obtain the key to success. "You must have the desire to be educated," he declared.

"The emphasis should now be on learning—not teaching," Dr. Cross pointed out.

Dr. Stewart conferred honorary degrees upon Rev. J. E. Victor Carlson, vice president of planning and development at the college; Dr. Cross, and Dr. Donald G. Miller, president of Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, the baccalaureate speaker. Rev. Carlson received Doctor of Divinity, Dr. Cross, Doctor of Science, and Dr. Miller, Doctor of Law.

A summary of degrees shows 69 receiving Bachelor of Arts, 44 receiving Bachelor of Science, 32 receiving Bachelor of Education, and 32 receiving Bachelor of Science in Business Administration.

Members of the class who were awarded magna cum laude were, Janet Sue Simms Beddle, Lois Bonita Bruno, Gerald Wallace Fowler, David Stanley Fullerton, Sara E. Fodor, Ruth Warne Watson, Peggy Ann Stagers and Lee W. Henderson, who also was cited as having the highest scholastic average in the graduating class.

Cum laude graduates were Carol F. Crawford, Elizabeth Ann Funk, Diane Pauline Fedak, Blaine P. Meider, Lawrence E. Moston, Larry M. Farrar and James Leroy Sherbondy.

Dr. Carlson and Rev. Donald E. Shamble offered prayer. Mrs. Harry Anderson was organist. Others who participated were Dr. Harry E. Gardner, Rev. Robert J. Bowden, Rev. C. Warren Van Camp and Rev. A. D. Sowers.

County School Directors to Meet Here Friday

Greene County School Directors' Association will meet Friday in Waynesburg High School with afternoon and evening sessions.

E. J. Patterson, Greene County supervisor of special education, will speak on the various phases of his work at the afternoon session. George Ellison of the Department of Instruction, and Vernon Crawford, director of the area technical school at Uniontown, will also be on the afternoon program.

An area technical school for Greene County has been discussed for some time.

In the evening, Assemblyman Russell E. Headlee of Garards Fort, and State Senator Jack E. McGregor of Allegheny County, will discuss pending legislation in regard to education.

Heat and Humidity Put Strain On Heart

NEW YORK—Dr. George E. Burch, editor of the American Heart Journal, reports that studies of cardiac patients show heat and high humidity put an added burden on the heart.

Dr. Burch, of Tulane University School of Medicine, does the reporting in a new film, "The Air Around Us."

CATHERINE A. SAYERS

Double Fourth Generation Grad

Miss Catherine Allison Sayers, daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Albert A. Sayers of Waynesburg, was cited at Waynesburg College commencement on June 2, as the first fourth generation graduate of both maternal and paternal families.

Miss Sayers' parents both graduated in the class of 1924.

Her grandfather was Judge A. H. Sayers, and her great-grandfather, Captain James Sayers, also a prominent attorney in Waynesburg. Her great-grandfather, Ezra M. Sayers, an early-day attorney here, was a member of the first board of trustees of the college. He also gave several tracts of land to the institution.

Miss Sayers' grandmother was Madge Miller Scott, wife of Wayne A. Scott. Her great-grandfather, Dr. Albert Miller, was a graduate of the college in 1853, and became one of the most highly respected presidents of Waynesburg College.

Miss Sayers was a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority and served as editor of the Yellow Jacket, the college paper.

Summer School Begins June 10

Fifty-eight courses, plus two special programs, will be offered this summer by Waynesburg College, according to Donald E. Shamble, director of admissions and summer school.

Two five-week sessions, June 10-July 12 and July 15-August 16, will be held on the campus in Waynesburg and at the Center in Uniontown.

Thirty-four courses will be offered the first session and 24 the second session. The special programs will be in English Composition (July 15-August 16) and Geology (July 29-August 23).

There is a morning and evening program on campus and an evening program at Uniontown. Classes meet for periods of 95 minutes, five days a week. Courses may be taken on the campus or in Uniontown, or both.

State Employment Up 37,500 Jobs

HARRISBURG — The State Department of Labor and Industry has reported an employment gain of 37,500 jobs in Pennsylvania from mid-March to mid-April.

Most of the increase in work was in non-manufacturing employment. The job gain in manufacturing was only 7,000.

Secretary of Labor and Industry William P. Young held that the gain was more than seasonal, and that even the manufacturing increase was greater than seasonal.

The rise in employment cut the statewide unemployment percentage from 8.4 in mid-March to 7.2 in mid-April.

Nevertheless there were 34,900 fewer employed than there were in mid-April of 1962, of which 29,200 were in manufacturing.

State Local Taxes $39 Billion In '61

NEW YORK—State and local taxes reached almost 39 billion dollars during 1961 or an average of about $211 per person, according to the National Industrial Conference Board.

Rest in Peace

Pope John XXIII

Through the long days and nights the Pope lay dying, and a grieving world held vigil. Benumbed crowds in St. Peter's Square watched a shuttered window, and the light that shone dimly from it. The life of John XXIII was ebbing away like a spent candle.

In his death that has come at last to end his torment, men and women everywhere, whatever their faith, will share a feeling of deep personal loss and sorrow.

Venerated as the able and zealous head of a great Church, he was held in warm affection by Catholics and non-Catholics alike for his qualities of humanity and humility, of gentleness and compassion.

A farmhand's son, he never lost the common touch as he ascended from one ecclesiastical dignity to another to find himself finally on the throne of St. Peter. He liked people; he liked to be among them. He quickly discarded the unwritten laws that the Pope should eat alone, should take his walks alone, should never leave the Vatican.

Taking on the exhausting burdens of Pope at an age when most men seek ease and retirement, he adhered to a working schedule that would have daunted much younger men.

When Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli became head of the Roman Catholic Church on October 28, 1958, there were many, outside the Conclave that had chosen him, who assumed that his advanced age would make a vigorous pontificate unlikely, that he would probably serve as a sort of "stop-gap" pending the election of a younger successor.

It was conjectured, too, that the College of Cardinals may have considered it appropriate to have a "diplomatic" Pope in the person of Pius XII, followed by one who would concentrate quietly on purely "pastoral" duties.

It became apparent soon after the coronation of John XXIII, however, that he would not be placed in any inactive category.

His historic convening of the first Ecumenical Council in nearly a century has been the crowning achievement of his administration of the Church. This event served to emphasize his passion for Christian unity, his belief in the brotherhood of man under God.

His masterly encyclical, Pacem in Terris, has been hailed as one of the great contributions of our times to the cause of world peace.

Cardinal Roncalli had brought to his eminent post a knowledge and competence sharpened by diplomatic and administrative labors in France, Turkey, Greece and the Balkans and as Patriarch of Venice.

His sturdy peasant frame has been another "Rock" upon which his Church, and religious faith generally, have been sustained in the age-old struggle against the powers of darkness.

Roy Minor Wins; Recount Ordered For Treasurer

Absentee ballots cast in the May 21 primary election were counted Friday by the Greene County Election Board and the Democratic nomination for prothonotary was given to Leroy H. Minor, incumbent, over Charles Hoy; and Donald Yarish was declared winner over T. William Barnes in the race for the Democratic nomination for county treasurer.

However, on Monday, Judge J. I. Hook ordered that the ballot box in Precinct 4, Cumberland Township be opened for recount of votes cast for County Treasurer only, which will take place Saturday at 10 o'clock in the court room.

Three petitioners who requested the act are, Mildred Alexander, William Alexander and Margaret Clez. They stated, "Upon information which your petitioners consider reliable, they believe that fraud or error not manifested on general returns of votes was committed."

They state 40 votes were allegedly cast in the contest for county treasurer, but did not appear on the final count.

Only 86 of the 109 absentee ballots were counted after the Election Board voided 22 civilian ballots and one military ballot for various reasons including the lack of a signature, postmark or reason for having the ballot, all of which are necessary for the vote to be counted.

A petition to validate the 22 ballots thrown out for various reasons will be heard by the court Saturday morning.

Mr. Minor went into the absentee votes count leading Mr. Hoy by eight votes, 3,743 to 3,735. When the count wound up he led 3,768 to 3,759, upping his margin by one.

Since Mr. Minor also won the Republican nomination for prothonotary on write-in votes, he will have no opposition in the November election.

Many Alumni Honor Dr. Stewart; Given Awards

Six hundred, the largest crowd ever to attend a Waynesburg College Alumni Association banquet, honored Dr. Paul R. Stewart, who will become chancellor July first, after serving as president 42 years.

The dinner was held in Benedum Hall.

The first Distinguished Alumnus Award was presented to Dr. Stewart by Ralph Garrison, president of the association "... for his life-long devotion to and sacrifice for Waynesburg College. Affectionately called Prexy by generations of his students, Dr. Stewart has opened wide the door of educational opportunity to thousands of young men and women. As a humanitarian, educator, churchman and scientist, he has recognition and respect; but as President of Waynesburg College and servant of that institution, he has undying love and gratitude of her alumni."

Dr. Stewart was presented with a citation from Dr. Charles H. Boehm, superintendent of Public Instruction for Pennsylvania, by W. Walter Montgomery, supervising principal of the Central Greene School District. Mrs. Amy Mundell Johnson gave Dr. Stewart a scrapbook and composite picture entitled "May Queen Memories."

Dr. J. Stanley Harker, president of Grove City College, presented Dr. Stewart with an award from the Western Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

J. E. Victor Carlson, vice president for public relations, plans, and development, introduced five guest speakers. Dr. William G. Rusch of the United Presbyterian Church; Dr. Arthur M. Mintier, the college faculty; Mrs. C. A. Weaver, community; Attorney Joseph W. Ray, Jr., the trustees; and General Edward Martin, alumni.

Indict Four In Blast At Robena No. 3 Mine

POLICE CHIEF HUNNELL

Police Chief Injured by Colt

Police Chief Charles L. (Lew) Hunnell suffered a chipped ankle bone on Memorial Day when a colt he was attempting to break stepped on his right ankle after it had thrown him.

The injury required a cast which Mr. Hunnell will have to wear for three or four weeks.

Boy Drowns While Fishing In Dunkard Creek

James Menear, 16 years, of Bobtown, drowned Friday afternoon, May 31, about three o'clock, in Dunkard Creek, near Davistown, while he and his brother, William, and five friends, none of whom could swim, were fishing. The youth apparently lost his footing and developed cramps in the chilly water.

William and a nearby fisherman, Elmer Fox, who also could not swim, attempted to save the lad.

Ted Glod of Bobtown, one of several Shannopin coal miners who stopped on their way to work, pulled the youth from the water. Miners Artie Wilson, Charles Caldwell, Mike Novak, Ralph Barzanti, and Edward Sribonich, also members of the Bobtown Fire Company, all tried mouth-to-mouth and the Shaffer method of artificial respiration.

He was pronounced dead at the scene by a local physician. James Menear was a son of James E. and Matilda Zuebrl Menear of Dilliner, R. D. 1, Bobtown, and was born October 17, 1946, in the Philippine Islands.

He was an honor student in Mapletown High School and would have entered his senior year in the fall. Young Menear had played junior varsity basketball and baseball and was an outstanding track star.

He was a member of the Church of Christ at Paisley.

Surviving are his parents; three brothers, William, Richard and David, at home; one sister, Iva Jean, at home; paternal grandparents, William D. and Iva Menear, of Waynesburg, R. D. 2; maternal grandmother in the Philippines, and three aunts and an uncle.

Funeral services were held in the Lesako Funeral Home, Carmichaels, conducted by Evangelist Dan Smith. Interment in Monongahela Hill Cemetery, Greensboro.

August Draft Call Largest for 1963

WASHINGTON — The Army has asked for draft of 12,000 men in August, the largest levy for any month so far this year.

It compares with a 4,000 quota for June and 7,000 for July. The highest monthly quota previously in 1963 was 10,000 in each of the months of April and May.

The increase from July to August presumably reflects a need for replacements for the men who were drafted in the big quotas resulting from the Berlin crisis in 1961 and whose services will begin to terminate in September.

The August quota will bring the total of draftees since September, 1950, to 2,833,450.

Buterbaugh Held For Murder In Death of Wife

The June grand jury finished its work Wednesday morning returning indictments against a superintendent and three employees of U. S. Steel's Robena No. 3 mine, near Carmichaels where 37 men lost their lives in an explosion on December 6, and also against Franklin L. Buterbaugh of Mt. Morris, R. D., in the death of his wife, Mary Jane Buterbaugh, on April 28.

The grand jury also returned 12 other true bills and ignored two cases.

Those indicted in the Robena explosion case were, Superintendent Michael Wydo, Mine Foreman Marian Mislak, Assistant Mine Foreman Albert H. Dillow and Electrician Stanley Boskovich.

The charges against Boskovich, Mislak, and Wydo are connected with permitting deteriorated electrical equipment to be used in the mine. Dillow is accused of failing to report a dangerous gas condition in the mine.

The charges against the men are not linked directly to the blast which the state said was caused by an accumulation of coal dust and methane gas. District Attorney Glenn R. Toothman stated the charges stem from the state investigation into the blast.

Meanwhile, Coroner Frank J. Behm stated he will probably file a reply sometime next week to legal action requesting a coroner's inquest. The request was filed by attorneys representing dependents and widows of 30 of the men killed in the explosion.

Mr. Behm said his office has 30 days to file a reply.

Frank L. Buterbaugh is charged with the murder of his wife, Mary Jane Buterbaugh, on April 28. It is alleged that he struck her as she walked along the Shannon Run road to the home of his parents. It is alleged the couple had been quarreling and that Buterbaugh was drinking. They were expecting their first child this summer. Richard J. Craig is prosecutor.

Other indictments: Arthur Leroy Patterson, driving while intoxicated; Charles D. Sincavage, prosecutor.

James Kniseley, fornication and bastardy; Ann Barnhart, prosecutrix.

Dale Harshman, fornication and bastardy; Georgia Bihun, prosecutrix.

Floyd Christopher, fraudulent pretense; Dawn Reposky and Andrew J. Reposky.

George W. Dorsey, adultery and bastardy; Carol Ann Scott, prosecutrix.

Francis Lee Hepner, assault and battery; Homer D. Bennett, prosecutor.

Marvin Lee Watson, rape; John W. Cumpson, prosecutor.

James Barry Harshman, fornication and bastardy; Grace Haywood, prosecutrix.

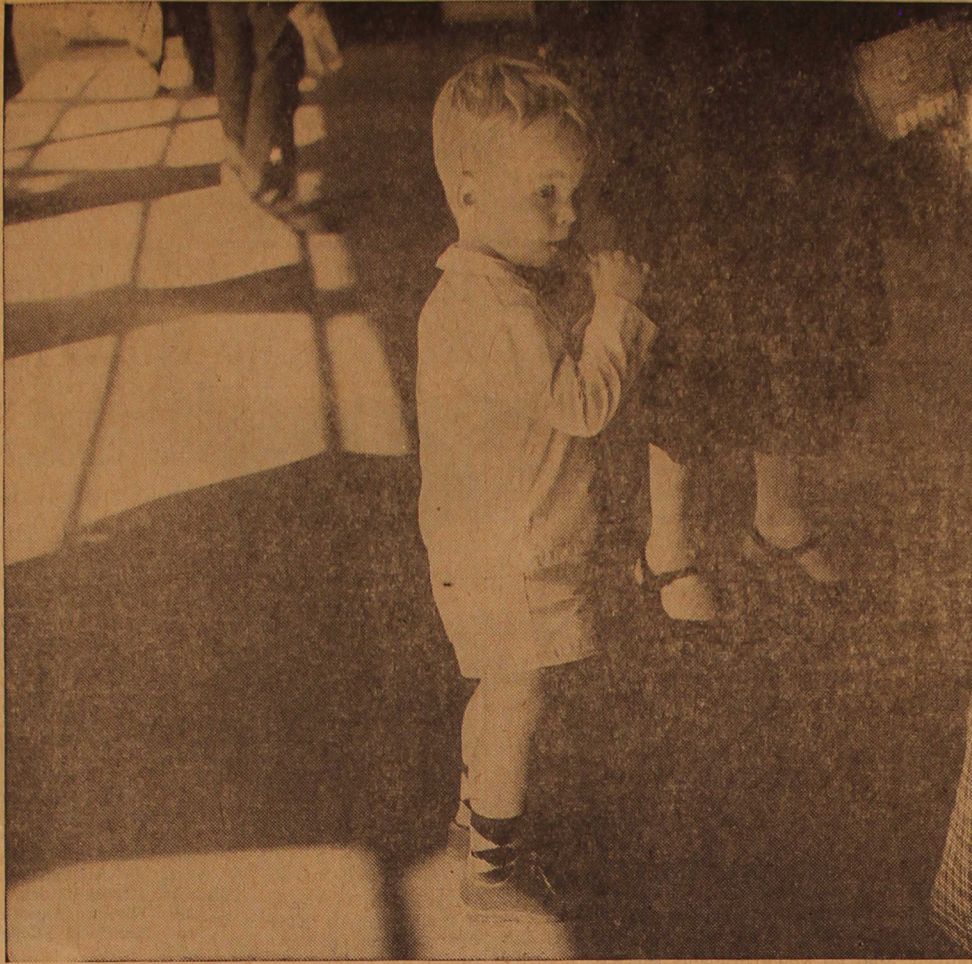

Ralph Mullenaux, assault and battery; H. C. Hewitt, prosecutrix.

John Paul Chambers, burglary and larceny; Harold A. Russell, prosecutrix.

John J. Lawrence, non-support of bastard child; Hazel Swan, prosecutrix.

Steve Morris, public nuisance; Harold A. Russell, prosecutrix.

State Senate Okays Historical Site
HARRISBURG—A new Senate bill would authorize the Commonwealth to purchase the Thomas Hughes house in Jefferson, Greene County, as a historical site.
Senator William J. Lane, Democrat, of Washington, submitted the bill. It would appropriate $20,000 for purchase and restoration of the house, situated on four acres of land. The property would be turned over to the Greene County Historical Society.

He's got a long way to grow—guide him carefully

Who says it's a small world?

Not a little fellow. To him it looks awfully big. And how he grows to face it depends on you.

Teach him well. Teach him Love. Love of God and of his fellow man. Let him see it in your daily life. And he will grow—loving and loved.

Teach him Respect. Live in such a way that he can respect you. Then teach him to respect others and that which belongs to others. And he will grow—seeking not to destroy but to build. And he himself will be respected.

But above all, teach him Faith. And he will gain a strength that will not fail him. Teach him Faith and it will add to his happiness. Teach him Faith . . . and he will never be alone.

Give him this legacy . . . Love, Respect, Faith. And he will grow in strength to be a man.

Find the strength for your life . . . worship together this week

Inca's Flowers

The annual known to botanists as Tithonia has the common names of Inca's flower or Golden Flower of the Incas or Mexican sunflower—take your choice. If you like scarlet-orange flowers, daisy-like in shape, and can use fairly tall plants in your garden, why not try this unusual annual this year?

Buy seeds of a variety the height you'd like. The older Speciosa tithonia grows 12 feet high but doesn't begin to flower until late in summer. To give it a longer growing season, it is best to start seeds indoors.

Avalon variety is the earliest to bloom, starting in June and continuing until frost. This grows 8 feet high. The 4-foot variety Torch is small enough for any garden and has the advantage of coming into flower much earlier than Speciosa though later than Avalon.

The brilliant blooms of tithonia are borne on straight, stiff stems, making them ideal for cutting for use indoors. The leaves are good size and, since the plants have many branches, it is possible to use tithonia as a screen planting if you need one. Tithonia also is excellent for planting at the back or a border.

If you're looking for a plant to combine with it, plant tall white snapdragons in front of Torch and observe the combination with a smile of satisfaction.

Device Tests Water's Purity

PHILADELPHIA—Water that goes into complex mechanisms linked to aerospace efforts must be pure. A detective-style device finds impurities that are only a tiny fraction of one part in one million.

The instrument works on the principle of the resistance of water to electricity and measures the electrical conductance of the sample.

Car Thefts Up At 900 A Day

CHICAGO—Auto Thievery is the fastest growing criminal activity in the nation, says Chicago Police Superintendent O. W. Wilson.

More than 300,000 cars are stolen annually in the United States and the amount is increasing, he said.

Some 900 cars are stolen each day, or more than one every two minutes.

Outdoor Lighting Extends Daytime Activities Into 'Night Life'

A wide variety of outdoor lighting equipment is adding new dimensions to the leisure-time living of millions of families. Available to suit all occasions, uses, tastes, and pocketbooks, outdoor lighting equipment enables the family to enjoy virtually all types of outdoor activities after dark.

Floodlights are the most common type of outdoor lighting and can serve overall illumination in specific locations for sports, outdoor cooking and other activities requiring maximum visibility. Lights can be permanently mounted on adjustable standards and poles, fences, walls, sides of buildings or in trees. Portable floodlights also are available and come equipped with clamp-on holders. These can be clamped to spikes for ground placement or directly attached to fences and trees.

Outdoor lighting for sports and games provides a wonderful opportunity for a family to play together. For lawn and court games, six floodlights mounted on two telescopic poles (trees or buildings also can be used) give ample light to the playing area. An archery range would require three floodlamps on a pole lo-ated behind the archer to illuminate the full range and target. A single floodlamp behind the target will aid in the search for stray arrows.

Night lighting also is geared to aid the gardener or hobbyist. Worklights clamped to movable stakes or pipes give the worker the run of the garden to transplant, snip, and trim. Do-it-yourself carpentry projects can be enjoyed outdoors in the cool of evenings. The man of the house can pursue "weekend" hobbies on a nightly basis.

"Mushroom" lighting units—domeshaped lamps mounted on stems—are popular for lighting walks and steps, flowers, plants, and shrubs. Several different styles are on the market. A variation of the mushroom unit is a portable floor lamp designed for outdoor use. It resembles indoor floor lamps in appearance and performance, but has a weather-resistant finish and a heavy base for sturdy support when winds come up.

Light shields simulating flowers or rocks are also available, and they make for a subtle means of illuminating flower beds, plants, and rock gardens. Christmas lights are as jolly in July as they are in December, and many people string a row of multi-colored bulbs along terrace beams or eave as a touch of decoration.

Most outdoor lighting equipment comes with up to 12 feet of weather-proof cord—permitting the home owner to experiment with light placement to create special effects. Lighting can be relocated to spotlight flowers or plants or to focus attention on a handsome tree or piece of statuary. It can be made to emphasize the nature of an occasion; creating a festive party atmosphere or a feeling of shadowed beauty and relaxation.

The wide range and versatile performance of outdoor lighting equipment permits every family to set the stage for better living electrically . . . outdoors!

The 'Vanishing Breed'

In our one hundred and thirtieth year of continuous publication (a statement no other weekly in the Commonwealth can make) we were surprised a few days ago, to find an editorial in your columns to the effect that more weekly newspapers had gone out of business in the past decade, than had dailies since the turn of the century.

A check of the N. W. Ayer Directory of Periodicals, for any given year would have proved the fallacy of the Editorial.

The "Vanishing Breed" is reproduced from the latest issue of The American Press.

"There are only 2,000 country newspapers left in America . . ."

That was the rather startling information supplied by television researchers and broadcast over the American Broadcasting Company's national network in a recent program called "A Vanishing Breed: Portrait of a Country Editor."

To check the accuracy of the TV figures, we checked the newest edition of the N. W. Ayer Directory of Periodicals. This shows 9,319 non-daily newspapers in the 50 states. A breakdown of that list shows possibly 2,500 newspapers which might conceivably be classified as "suburban" instead of "country."

That still leaves 6,819 non-daily newspapers which, so far as we can determine, could fit nowhere except in the "country newspaper" category. In addition, there are almost 1,200 dailies published in towns of under 25,000 population, the majority of which would fit into the same category.

As for a "vanishing breed"—there are, as the TV program pointed out, some farm towns which are not doing so well . . . that are losing population. But there are other country towns which have found industry to replace dwindling farm income and there are still plenty who are still thriving in farm territory.

Wanting to emphasize their "vanishing breed" theme, the TV program concluded with an awesome dirge: "This week 2,000 publishers—next week less—next week less and less . . ."

It all sounded very dramatic and we might have shared our tears with those of the announcer had we not had the Ayer statistics to fall back on. In 1961 Ayer showed 9,325 non-daily newspapers—in 1963 the total was 9,319—a total loss of six newspapers in two years.

Perhaps the TV boys were miffed because, as they reported, Landon Wills of Calhoun, Kentucky, who was picked as their example of "the vanishing breed", doesn't believe in television and doesn't even have a TV set.

Mr. Wills did a fine job on the program. He gave us the feeling that if he is an example of today's country editor we need have no fears about the future of the country newspaper. For the next "vanishing breed" program, we suggest ABC examine the so-called reporters and announcers who ignore facts in order to create atmosphere.—The American Press.

Georgia's Right-To-Work Law

By JIM MONTGOMERY

Georgia's so-called "right-to-work" law may be crippling the state's economic progress.

If so, its repeal is long overdue.

Casting serious doubt on the alleged blessings of "right-to-work" legislation is a new study published this month in a respected national economic affairs magazine.

Georgians might have ignored such a study a few years ago.

But this one happens along with the emergence of a

Grow Your Own Seasoning

It has been said that if you can name the herb, too much of it has been used for seasoning. Only a tiny pinch of fresh or dried leaves or seeds need be added to a dish to give it that special something.

Herbs that are so commonly used that no one remembers they are herbs are parsley, chives, mint, sage, thyme, dill and caraway. What would creamed potatoes be without parsley, Cottage cheese without chives, lamb without mint, poultry stuffing without sage and thyme, pickles without dill and rye bread without caraway seeds? See how important herbs are in your food?

All of these herbs and many more may be grown in pots to use on a terrace or patio where they make quite a conversation piece. Or, you might grow them in a special small herb garden. Practically all herbs are easy to grow in full sun, in rather poor soil. A very few demand better soil and a bit of care.

Chives, curled cress, basil, marjoram and savory are easily grown from seeds. Parsley is too, if you realize that it takes 3 weeks for seeds to sprout. Just plant these as you would vegetable seeds of similar size. Seeds of other herbs should be planted in a specially made bed in a mixture of soil, sand and granulated peat moss in equal parts. After planting, cover seeds with a piece of burlap sacking and water through it so seeds don't wash away.

Continue watering in this way, keeping the seedbed moist, until the seeds sprout. Then remove the burlap. When seedlings are 2 inches high, select a cloudy day to transplant them to pots or rows and water well after this operation.

Anise, curled cress, sweet basil, borage, chervil, coriander, marjoram, savory and fennel are annual herbs, setting seeds at the end of the growing season. Caraway is a biennial, while chives, sage, tarragon, rosemary and garden thyme are perennials and, once planted, last for years. Rosemary is tender to winter cold so should be pot grown and wintered indoors in the north.

new atmosphere which finds more and more Georgians becoming fed up with poverty and unsympathetic with laws which threaten to prolong the state's economic subservience.

Witness the repeal in 1960 of the school-closing laws, the scuttling this year of the factory-estranging 3 per cent sales-use tax on production machinery.

Both loomed as strong threats to economic progress.

Now suspect as a barrier to the more rapid growth and diffusion of prosperity in Georgia is the "right-to-work" law.

But circumstantial evidence against this law is, at the very least, strong enough to warrant an immediate and exhaustive legislative re-examination of its economic impact.

And some may regard the new evidence alone as sufficient grounds for outright repeal.

Consider the carefully documented indictment of "right-to-work" laws in the April issue of Challenge, a periodical published by the Institute of Economic Affairs, New York University.

The author is Milton J. Nadworny, professor of commerce and economics at the University of Vermont.

He minces no words in his conclusions:

"Right-to-work legislation aims to weaken the bargaining and organizing strength of unions and reduce pressures for wage increases.

" . . . we must conclude that such statutes have widened the wage and income gap between right-to-work states and the nation as a whole."

And his contention that "right-to-work" legislation "is certainly aimed at limiting wage increases" rests on ample statistical verification.

He shows that in the 19 states, including Georgia, which adopted "right-to-work" laws between 1947 (when first permitted under the then new Taft-Hartley Act) and 1958 both hourly manufacturing wages and per capita personal income have been falling farther and farther behind the national averages.

In 1950, hourly manufacturing wages in these 19 states averaged $1.26, or 21 cents below the U. S. average of $1.47; in 1962 the 19 states averaged $2.10, but despite the increase lagged 29 cents behind last year's U. S. average of $2.39.

The per capita income story is the same. In the 19 "right-to-work" states it fell from $281 below the national average in 1950 to $379 below by 1961. And the number of these 19 states trailing the U. S. average increased from 15 in 1947 to 18 last year.

Georgia's experience is apparently representative.

Its so-called "right-to-work" law, a type of legislation which prohibits the union shop and most other forms of union security, has been in effect since 1947.

Georgia's average hourly manufacturing wage of $1.08 in 1950 was 39 cents below the national average of $1.47. Last year, Georgia factory workers averaged $1.77 an hour, which was 62 cents below the national average of $2.39.

In 1950, Georgia's per capita income of $1,017 was $474 under the U. S. average of $1,491. But the state's 1962 per capita income of $1,714 trailed the U. S. average of $2,357 by a margin of $634, the widest gap in at least 13 years.

That's progress?

Or is it simply a revelation of the severe impact on Georgia of a so-called "right-to-work" law designed to limit wage (and, therefore, income) increases?

And just imagine how much worse Georgia would show up in comparison with U. S. averages excluding the "right-to-work" states.

Arguments that "right-to-work" laws somehow stimulate economic growth, that such legislation is advantageous in competing for new industry, just don't hold water.

True, Georgia and other "right-to-work" states annually record millions of dollars of capital investment by manufacturers on new plant and equipment.

But it is also true that most "right-to-work" states, Georgia among them, are still dominated by low-wage industries.

And when it comes to capital investment in new manufacturing plant and equipment, the "right-to-work" states are on the whole strictly minor league.

Take 1961, when capital spending in Georgia by manufacturers totaled $148 million.

Twenty other states were higher.

At the top of the heap, as usual, were Pennsylvania, Ohio, California, New York and Illinois, none of which have ever had "right-to-work" laws and all of which are prosperous beyond the dreams of "right-to-work" states in terms of wages and incomes.

Each of these five states was in the $680-million-to-$730-million bracket in capital spending last year. Together they accounted for more than one-third of the national total.

And along with four other nonright-to-work states—Michigan, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Wisconsin—they somehow managed to attract well over half of the $9.4 billion plowed into new manufacturing plant and equipment during 1961 throughout the nation.

Nor was that year an exception for them. These same nine nonright-to-work states likewise came up with 62 per cent of the nearly $90 billion so spent in the entire 1951-61 period.

Admittedly, all of this evidence is circumstantial.

No one can prove any more conclusively right now that Georgians would have higher wages and incomes or more industry today of the state hadn't adopted a "right-to-work" law 16 years ago.

But neither can anyone prove that this law has stimulated the state's economic growth or benefitted most Georgians.

So why keep it?

Gettysburg Centennial
June 23-July 4

Ceremonies tied in to the Civil War campaign will take place June 23 through July 4 of this year, the centennial of the Gettysburg battle, in and around that Pennsylvania city.

There will be no veterans of the battle present, of course. The last of them, Walter Williams, a Confederate, died just four years ago at the age of 117.

In 1913, 50th anniversary of the Gettysburg battle, 40,000 Union and Confederate veterans made their ways to the fields to hear President Woodrow Wilson speak.

When President Franklin D. Roosevelt spoke on the 75th anniversary, the Blue and Gray men present had dwindled to 2,000.

This will give an idea of the ceremonies planned this year:

Jewish War Veterans will have a ceremony at the Pennsylvania Monument on the battlefield June 23.

Carlisle will have a commemorative service June 23 on the city's square, historical exhibits opening June 25, a pag-ean "Thunder in the Sky" June 26-28, a parade and fireworks June 29.

Columbia, Pa., has open house June 23 and a pageant "The Drummer Boy of Shiloh" June 24-29.

Wrightsville, Pa., will reenact the burning of the Wrightsville Bridge, with 500 taking part, June 23 the General, a Civil War locomotive of "chase" fame will arrive in Gettysburg to be on show through July 4.

The capture of Gettysburg by 1,000 costumed troops will be staged June 27. Westminster will mark a cavalry battle June 29 with Delaware officials joining city residents in the affair.

Alumni of Notre Dame on June 29, will hold a field mass. Cardinal Spellman will give the sermon.

Fighting in Waynesboro will be re-enacted June 29. The Battle of Hanover, with 3,000 costumed men will take place June 30.

June Is Popular Month for Weddings; Origin of Many of Our Wedding Customs

There'll be about one and a half million weddings in the United States this year and, as usual, June is the most popular month for the altar-bound.

Why June has become the traditional month of weddings and roses probably relates to the transportation difficulties in early America . . . too much snow in the winter to get to a wedding celebration. Spring and fall were bad times, too, because folks were busy with planting or harvesting.

Another influencing factor may have been that June is named after the Roman goddess, Juno. The Greeks had a different name for this dame—Hera. Anyway, the point is that Juno (or Hera) was the goddess of womanhood, of marriage and of maternity. She was usually represented as a matronly type, but nonetheless beautiful. The peacock, the cuckoo and the pomegranate were sacred to her. Homer spoke of her as the "white-armed goddess" and the "ox-eyed queen"—all of which adds up to the kind of deity every prospective bride ought to have on her side.

Here are other origins of wedding customs:

For instance, the engagement ring represents the very old custom of a gift to a girl desired in marriage. The diamond ring originated in Italy where the diamond was believed to be a "flame of love." In ancient Egypt, the ring was a symbol of eternity. It also symbolized the "captive bride" whose hands were tied to prevent her from escaping. Anglo-Saxons wore the ring on the right hand until the wedding when it was transferred to the left.

Another custom credited to ancient Egypt is throwing old shoes or tying them to the bridal car. In the land of the pyramids, the father handed the bride's sandals to the groom, symbolizing a transfer of authority.

Mohammedans, back in the middle ages, used orange blossoms in their ceremonies, as the orange was their most prolific fruit. Today orange blossoms symbolize the hope that the wedded couple will be blessed with children. Throwing rice carries the same wish, but in ancient times it was also a way to "protect" the marriage from evil gods.

Since the sun was a god in many early societies, it was believed that if a bride-to-be gazed on the sun she would be certain to have children. This may explain the old saying, "Happy is the bride the sun shines on."

Even though her wedding day is her happiest day, the bride is "supposed" to cry, symbolizing the dismay of the bride of olden times captured by force. The capture is also reflected in the custom of the groom carrying the bride over the threshold of their new home.

Centuries ago in France, the bride threw her garter and the girl who caught it was believed to be the next bride. Today the bride is somewhat more subdued and throws her bouquet, but the bridesmaids still scramble to make the catch.

In ancient times, the date of the wedding was often chosen at some phase of the moon when the gods were presumed to be favorable. This practice, with the custom of eating honey at the marriage feast, may be the origin of the word honeymoon.

Sometimes the marriage ceremony involved guarantees. The veil over the bride's face may have indicated that she had been secluded from men, and her white robe was a warrant of her purity. Even now it is thought bad luck for the groom to see the bride before the ceremony on their wedding day.

Another widespread custom is for the bride to wear "something old, something new, something borrowed, and something blue." In ancient Israel, the bride's robe had a blue border signifying purity, fidelity and love. High-caste Brahmans in India believe a girl should marry at puberty. Usually the child bride remains with her family until she is 15 or 16. Marriage celebrations in India are so elaborate, that "the expense of the affair and of the bride's dowry frequently drives the father to the moneylender." Many American fathers can testify that this turn of events is not exclusive with India.

Japanese tradition requires the bride to wear a veil over her elaborate hairdo called a "horn coverer." Jealousy is thought to vanish when it is removed.

Spicy Rhubarb Cobbler

The spicy goodness of cinnamon sparks tart rhubarb in delicious and budget-wise Spicy Rhubarb Cobbler. Your family will love the pink 'n' pretty cobbler served warm "as is" or topped with "pour" or ice cream.

It takes only about 45 minutes from mixing bowl to cooling rack to prepare and bake Spicy Rhubarb Cobbler—a blessing on busy days. While the rhubarb filling simmers, stir together the ingredients for the rich drop biscuit topping. Preparation time for making the biscuit topping is especially short for there are no time-consuming kneading, rolling out and cutting steps. An unseen blessing in Spicy Rhubarb Cobbler is its nutritional contribution to your daily meal plan. The enriched flour you use to prepare the biscuit topping has had three essential B-vitamins and the mineral iron added by the miller—who gives the valuable nutritional bonus to you at no increase in cost.

SPICY RHUBARB COBBLER
1 quart fresh rhubarb, cut in 1-inch pieces (1½ pounds)
1 tablespoon water
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons enriched flour
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
Cobbler Topping

Combine rhubarb, water and ¼ cup sugar in saucepan. Cook, stirring frequently, until rhubarb is almost tender, about 5 minutes. Mix flour, remaining sugar, cinnamon and a small amount of hot rhubarb juice to make a sauce. Stir sauce into rhubarb and cook until thickened, about 1 minute. Pour into buttered 1½-quart casserole baking dish. Drop spoonfuls of Cobbler Topping over fruit. Bake in hot oven (400°F.) 25 to 30 minutes or until topping is golden brown.

All-Comers Women's Track Meet Saturday Afternoon at College Field

Miss Gayle Voelker is among the early entries for the third annual All-Comers Women's Track Meet set for one o'clock, Saturday at College Field.

She is the only athlete in the 14 and over class to have won her event in both the 1961 and 1962 meets, Gayle, a 1962 graduate of Waynesburg High School and now a student at Hanna Harrison School of Nursing, Washington, D. C., captured the shot put in 1961 (29-5) and 1962 (31-7).

She holds the Greene County Track Club record in the shot with her 31-7 effort in last season's All-Comers Meet and the club career scoring mark with 116 1/2 points.

Miss Voelker won the Allegheny Mountain Association title in the shot put in 1961 and 1962, and now has a string of nine straight wins.

She was captain of the Greene County Track Club's women's team in 1961, and served as chairman of the sport in 1962. Her appearance in the All-Comers meet will be her first of the season.

Greene County Track Club is sponsoring the meet, sanctioned by the Allegheny Mountain Association of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Applications for A. A. U. registration and entry blanks for the meet are available from Miss Sue Taylor, A. M. A. Secretary, 507 Magee Building, Pittsburgh 22, or Tom Park, G. C. T. C. Democrat - Messenger Building, Waynesburg.

There will be three divisions in the meet: 14 and over, 12-13, and 10-11.

Events are as follows: 14 and over—Low hurdles, 100, 220, 440, 880, high jump, broad jump shot put and softball throw.

12-13—75 broad jump, and softball throw.

10-11—50, broad jump, and softball throw.

Growers Pare Scotch Pine Tree Plantings

HARRISBURG—A May first survey of commercial Christmas tree growers shows new plantings in 1963 were seven per cent less than 1962, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

Scotch Pine, which represents about 75 per cent of the total Christmas trees grown in the state, accounted entirely for the overall reduction. Scotch Pine plantings were estimated at 2,576,000 trees, down 26 per cent.

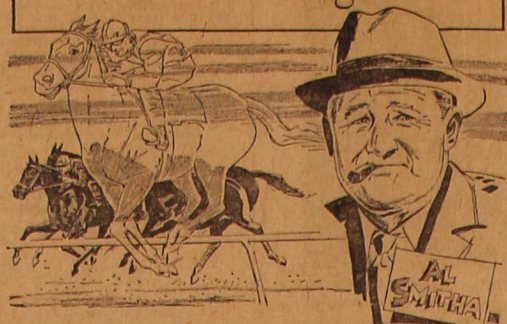

Plantings of other species showed an increase over 1962. Fir plantings increased 16 per cent, and spruce 14 per cent.

Game Census

HARRISBURG — Spring surveys of game bird populations have been started by all field officers of the Pennsylvania Game Commission. According to Harvey A. Roberts, Chief of Research, game protectors, field biologists and other observers will report the number and size of broods observed throughout the nesting and rearing season from May until September.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

"...But Not Forgotten"

Anyone unfamiliar with the story might think the South Dakota Handicap an odd name for a race run at River Downs in Cincinnati, Ohio. The race is not a tribute to the coyote state, however, but honors a horse that some years back thrilled fans in the Ohio circuit with his speed and endurance. For the past several seasons, River Downs president, Leon Slavin, staged a gala South Dakota Day and the 21-year-old horse and his 74-year-old owner, Al Smitha journeyed from "their" farm at Lexington, Kentucky, to receive the homage of the fans. South Dakota won't be making the trip this year. He was killed instantly by a lightning bolt last August. South Dakota was a son of the late William Woodward's Triple Crown winner of 1935, Omaha. You won't find his name in the equine hall of fame, but if they had such a roster in Ohio, South Dakota would be right there with another Ohio favorite, the "Coal Black Lady", Imp. During seven seasons of racing, South Dakota won 34 races and $72,000. He might have been much better known, and his earnings far more, had his owner chosen to race at richer tracks. He did venture into Chicago on one occasion and set two track records on the turf. He smashed nine other track records at distances up to 2 miles and it was at River Downs that he established a world record for a mile and 70 yards which stood until 1958.

Frankie Gustine Opens Little League Season Here; Rain Postpones Game

Frankie Gustine, former Pirate star, and also basketball coach at Waynesburg College, was the speaker at the opening of Waynesburg Little League's season, Monday night, at Emerald Park in West Waynesburg.

An all-day drizzle delayed the ceremony and caused the opening game to be postponed until Saturday afternoon at four o'clock.

Gustine urged the lads to work hard at baseball and through this and striving for other accomplishments they reach success.

Gustine spoke of his own career with the Pirates. His roommate was Ralph Kiner, famous homerun hitter. He declared Kiner became great because he was a hard worker and he continued to do so when he was at his peak.

Gustine stated baseball is a challenge for youth which helps them in later life.

The Hub and the Lions played one inning before the game was called.

Officials of the league were introduced and Mayor Roy (Buck) Shultz tossed out the first ball.

1963 State Plowing Contest Date August 15

HARRISBURG — The 1963 Pennsylvania State Plowing Contest today was set for August 15, on the Joseph Hooker farm, Bernville, R. D. 2, Berks county, with State Agriculture Secretary Leland H. Bull as honorary chairman.

Charles W. Passmore, Lancaster, contest chairman, said both level land and contour plowmen will compete at 10 a. m. and that special entertainment in the early afternoon will complete the day's program.

Winners of this year's state contest will be eligible to compete in the 1963 Nationals on September 19, 20, and 21 at Vandalla, Ill.

Issues Warning On Forest Tree Damage

HARRISBURG—Secretary of Forests and Waters Maurice K. Goddard has issued a warning to all persons who will soon be taking advantage of camping, picnic and park sites in the Commonwealth regarding the injuring and cutting of certain plants, trees and shrubs.

The law, he said, prohibits the cutting or injuring of trees in state forests. Such cutting, chopping down or other mutilation can lead to a fine of $25 and costs of prosecution for each tree or shrub damaged or cut down. In default of paying the fine, the Secretary said the person can be imprisoned in the county jail for one day for each dollar of fine and costs unpaid.

Bad Feet Plagued President Lincoln; Had Bunions

WASHINGTON — If you've got bunions, you're walking in historic company. Abraham Lincoln also had them.

Moreover, the Civil War president also had hammer toes, crooked insteps and flat feet.

This diagnosis, 97 years after the patient's death, was made today by a Chicago surgeon who has studied sketches Lincoln made of his feet to order a pair of boots by mail.

Dr. Irwin M. Siegel said it is obvious, from these "podograms", that Lincoln was afflicted with bilateral hallux valgus, metatarsus primus varus, short first metatarsals, hammer toes, obliterated long arches and relaxed metatarsal arches.

Such being the case, Dr. Siegel said, a bunion exostectomy, a metatarsal ostomy and an adductor tendon release should have been performed to give Lincoln some relief.

But, alas! this type of surgery wasn't available then, Dr. Siegel said. So Lincoln couldn't get his bunions cut off nor his foot tendons rearranged to eliminate the hammer toes.

In the journal, Surgery, Gynecology and Obstetrics, Dr. Siegel noted these foot troubles were the reason Lincoln "walked like an Indian with even tread" and showed "no spring in his step." It's also why he "had difficulty finding boots which fitted properly."

In fact, the doctor said, "this situation was not uncommon at the time." He pointed out that shoes were identical before the Civil War and when "rights" and "lefts" were first offered to troops such shoes were "ridiculed because they were not interchangeable."

Dr. Siegel said Lincoln's foot woes were no secret. He cites a Civil War editorial in a New York paper which observed:

"The president has been greatly blamed for not resisting the demands of the radicals. But how could the president put his foot down firmly when he was troubled with corns?"

1748 Tax-Indicted

WASHINGTON—The Internal Revenue Service screened 129,000 tax-violation tips last year; made 3,466 full investigations, and provided data for 1,784 tax-fraud indictments of individuals.

6.9 Million Cars in '62

DETROIT — U. S. car production in 1962 exceeded 6,900,000 vehicles while about a million and a quarter trucks also came off the assembly lines.

Senior League Players Named At Waynesburg

Officials of the Waynesburg Senior League have completed the assignment of players to the four teams which will compete in the league this year.

The league, for boys from 13 through 15, will open June 10 with a game between the First National Bank team and City Finance team. Other teams in the league are First Federal and Coca Cola.

Games will be played at College Field starting at 6 p. m. Coaches for each team and the players assigned:

Harness Revenue Estimate Is Made

HARRISBURG — Governor Scranton's fiscal experts have forecast that pari mutual harness racing in Pennsylvania—to begin this month—will produce $2,518,500 in state revenue its first year.

The estimate was included in special fund budgets presented by Governor Scranton to the legislature.

The administration estimated that $2,513,500 would be collected from the state admission tax of 5 per cent at tracks and the 5 per cent levy on the amount wagered each day at a track. The remaining $5,000 is expected to come from licenses and fees.

Annual Waynesburg Horse Show This Weekend at County Fairground

The annual Waynesburg Horse Show will be held Friday night, Saturday and Sunday afternoons and evenings at the Greene County Fairgrounds, east of Waynesburg.

There will be five sessions and every type of horsemanship will be seen. About 150 entries have been received and more are expected before the opening.

There are a number of classes for three and five-gaited animals, also several harness classes as well as pleasure and walking classes.

Still more variety will be seen in the prancing ponies and nimble colts along with the stirring western horses and their competitive antics such as rescue rides.

Waynesburg Junior Chamber of Commerce is cooperating with the Horsemen's Association of Greene County as co-sponsor for the show. Proceeds will be used for completing the community park started last year by the JayCees in Franklin Township, across from the fairground.

Financial Aid To Hi School Grads By Local Bureau

High school graduates of 1963 were advised to consider their job future carefully by Paul Corder, manager of the Waynesburg Local Office of Pennsylvania's Bureau of Employment Security.

Corder stated that in this jet-propelled, automated age of electro-mechanical marvels the high school diploma is not always a passport into the better jobs in a highly competitive labor market.

He invited those desiring summer employment, to assist them in financing their further education, to make early contact with the Waynesburg Local Office of the Bureau of Employment Security, located at 598 E. High Street.

This past year, according to Manager Corder, the Waynesburg Office found jobs for 52 high school graduates.

The employment official urged high school graduates not planning to continue with higher education to utilize the counseling, testing, and placement services available in the Waynesburg Local Office.

He called upon employers throughout the area to provide on-the-job training opportunities, including apprenticeship, wherever possible for high school graduates entering the labor market.

According to Corder, the importance of occupations, other than professional, and the dignity of the work involved cannot be overstressed. He stated that though the need for professional people and supporting technicians is great, it is equally important that we produce workers with adequate training to carry out the many occupational tasks which are necessary in today's complex society.

Results of W. P. Track Conference

Exactly half of the unbeaten marks carried into the West Penn Track Conference meet came through unbroken.

Fourteen thinclads (two of them in a pair of events) boasted undefeated records in their events after the dual season.

Seven of the athletes (one of them in two events) won in the conference meet to close the campaigning unbeaten in both dual and conference action.

Distance ace Sam Williams of Westminster, led the parade as he won two races at conference to push his season's mark in the mile to 5-0 and the 2-mile to 4-0.

Teammate Bill McKnight was the only other athlete with a perfect 5-0 mark as he won the pole vault in the conference.

Grove City's mile relay team stretched its record to 5-0 with a win at Conference.

Two athletes, who carried 4-0 marks prior to the conference, failed to win at conference.

Grove City sprinter Denny Reynolds was runnerup in the 100 and 220 to close the campaign with four wins and a second in each event. Shot-putter Ken Mikulski of St. Francis, did not compete in the conference meet.

Four athletes won at conference to finish the campaign undefeated. They were Grove City's Jeff Osman (4-0 in the high jump), Westminster's Joe Stewart (3-0 in the 440), Grove City's Bill Shockey (3-0 in the 880), and Grove City's Jim Bradley (2-0 in the 330-intermediate hurdles).

Grove City's Bill Thompson and Waynesburg's Jim Lowe were 3-0 each in the hop-step-and-jump before conference, but fell to St. Vincent's Pete Warner who was making his first start. Lowe was second and Thompson fourth.

Javelin throwers Nelson Young (3-0) of Geneva and Ted Ankeney (2-0) of Waynesburg lost to Westminster's Hovis. Ankeney was second and Young fifth.

School Honors Earl Zook, Coach

Earl Zook, Waynesburg High School football and basketball coach in the 1920s, was honored at a dinner Monday night at Woodward Preparatory School, Washington, D. C., where he has been head sports coach and athletic director for the past 16 years.

The affair was arranged spontaneously by the boys in the school, who hold Mr. Zook in high esteem for his competence not only as a coach but also as a teacher and advisor. The school sends many of its graduates to service schools or to large eastern colleges and universities.

Henry, William and Martin Denbo, who attended Waynesburg High School when Zook was coach, attended the dinner.

Issues Warning On Forest Tree Damage

HARRISBURG—Secretary of Forests and Waters Maurice K. Goddard has issued a warning to all persons who will soon be taking advantage of camping, picnic and park sites in the Commonwealth regarding the injuring and cutting of certain plants, trees and shrubs.

The law, he said, prohibits the cutting or injuring of trees in state forests. Such cutting, chopping down or other mutilation can lead to a fine of $25 and costs of prosecution for each tree or shrub damaged or cut down. In default of paying the fine, the Secretary said the person can be imprisoned in the county jail for one day for each dollar of fine and costs unpaid.
