Low Income Housing Set for Waynesburg

County Schools Get $204,767 More Than Last Year

School districts of Greene County will receive $204,767 more from the State in the next fiscal year than in the current year, it has been reported to Governor William W. Scranton by the Department of Public Instruction.

Governor Scranton asked the department to estimate additional subsidies that will be paid to school districts as a result of his new program for education.

The biggest part of the increase would be in teaching subsidies, if the Legislature passes, as expected, the Governor's program to increase these by 30 million dollars State-wide.

School districts in Greene County are expected to receive an estimated $2,111,271 next year as compared to an estimated $1,906,504 this year.

These figures include all State subsidies to local school districts except additional payments which are made for school medical and dental examinations and school nursing services.

The Governor pointed out that the State subsidies are made possible by the sales tax, which brings in slightly less than the amount spent by the State for education.

"Some 49% of the General Fund Budget goes for education," the Governor said. "The State pays about half the cost of running the school districts. Without State aid, local taxes would have to be doubled to support education."

State-wide, Governor Scranton's program of increased subsidies for schools will amount to almost $46 million next year over the current year.

In addition to increased subsidies for local schools Governor Scranton has also proposed an education program which includes:

- Creation of a new State Board of Education with Councils of Basic Education and Higher Education.
- A new school district reorganization plan which will replace Act 561.
- The beginning of a program of community colleges and technical schools in various regions of the Commonwealth.
- Establishment of a State-wide educational TV network.
- A program of State-guaranteed lowest loans for worthy high school graduates who otherwise would not be able to afford college.
- Increased financial support for Pennsylvania State University and state-aided colleges and medical schools.

Water Color Display First of Series

H. Porter Rinehart, a member of the Westsylvania Chapter of the Pennsylvania Arts and Craft Guild, is the artist being recognized this month with a showing of water colors in the window of the First Federal Bank.

The artist's paintings show a very sensitive feeling for the medium, a refinement of color and a semi-abstract style in painting of his subject. This style enables the viewer to use his imagination also.

Mr. Rinehart's training background includes Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh; Columbia University, New York, and Julian Academy, Paris, France.

Mrs. Ruth Schenley will be recognized in July.

G. O. P. Women To Meet Friday

The Greene County Council of Republican Women will meet Friday evening at 7:30 in the home of Mrs. Patrick Donovan of the old Waynesburg road, Carmichaels. A good attendance is desired.

The Federal Public Housing Administration has given the Greene County Housing Authority approval to construct 80 dwelling units for low-income families in Waynesburg community.

Forty units are for elderly persons and the other 40 for non-elderly.

A survey indicated there would be sufficient demand to keep 80 units rented.

Under the program, the federal government will guarantee the bond issue required to finance the project.

Greene County Housing Authority will operate the project from the income from rentals, with any money remaining at the end of the year going toward payment of the bond issue.

In any year in which rentals do not furnish enough money to meet the bond issue payment, the balance is to be paid by the federal government.

The type of housing to be constructed and rent based on income of tenants is to be determined by the local authority.

Waynesburg Borough Council has already given approval for this project. Council is vitally interested in the light of the urban renewal program contemplated for Red Bird Hollow.

Attorney W. Robert Thompson of Waynesburg, is chairman of the County Authority. Other members are Roy E. Yanosh of Greensboro, Stephen McCann and Dr. Ernest P. DeHaas, both of Carmichaels, and Stephen E. Mitchell of Graysville.

85th Convention Of Greene County Sunday Schools

Greene County Sunday School Association will hold its 85th annual convention Thursday and Friday in the First Christian Church.

Sessions will be held at 7:30 both nights. A banquet will be held Friday night at 6:30 in the church dining room.

Dr. Paul Jones, pastor of the Christian Church at Hillsboro, Ohio, will speak Thursday night.

Dr. Jones is not only pastor of his church, but serves as superintendent of its Sunday School. The school has an attendance average of 700 men, women and children. The Thursday evening session will also feature selections by the Greene County church choir, directed by Donald C. Minor of Waynesburg.

B. McClain Cochrane, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association, will direct one of the four workshops which will follow the banquet Friday evening. His subject will be "What Are the Objectives of Christian Education in the Sunday School?"

Other workshops and their directors:

"Potential and Problems of a Sunday School Superintendent," William Wood, superintendent of the host church Sunday School.

"Christian Service in the Home," Rev. Kenneth J. Wilkinson, Hewitt Presbyterian Church, Rices Landing.

"Youth in Today's World," Rev. Fred Williams, Blacksville Baptist Church.

Each church in the county is urged to have at least two delegates at the convention. County reports will be given and association officers will be elected.

New Gateway Mine at Clarksville Has Longest Conveyor Belt Installed

The longest conveyor belt ever installed in a coal mine, is now in operation at the new Gateway Coal Mine, near Clarksville, formerly the Emerald Mine of the Hillman Coal and Coke Company.

A seven and a half million dollar improvement program has been completed at the mine, which has been leased by Hillman to three Pittsburgh steel companies and is being operated by the Jones and Laughlin Steel Company.

But We Can Sing

'God Bless America'

Millions of words have already been written or uttered since the Supreme Court Monday ruled unlawful the required reading of the Bible or recitation of the Lord's Prayer in public schools.

Several quotations from some of the great men who made it possible for the establishment of a free and God-fearing America have been used in refutation of the Court's decision. Such as:

John Quincy Adams: "The first and almost the only book deserving of universal distinction is the Bible. I speak as a man of the world to men of the world and I say to you, 'Search the Scriptures'."

Theodore Roosevelt: "Almost every man who has by his life's work added to the sum of human achievements of which the race is proud, almost every such man has based his life work largely on the teachings of the Bible."

Andrew Jackson: "That Book (the Bible) is the rock on which this Republic rests."

William Penn: "Men who are not governed by God will be ruled by tyrants."

Daniel Webster: "If we abide by the principles taught in the Bible our country will go on prospering, but if we and our posterity neglect its instruction and authority, no man can tell how sudden a catastrophe may overwhelm us and bury us and our glory in profound obscurity."

It is seldom we agree with the conclusions of the Supreme Court of these

United States, under whose recent rulings make these States not quite so United; however, a strict interpretation of the First Amendment, we believe, is well taken in its decision.

The First Amendment reads in part, "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

The word free, we believe, is the crux of the Court's decision.

If your parents are Methodist you would naturally go to a Methodist Sunday School; if your parents were Catholic, you would naturally go to a Catholic Sunday School; if your parents were Jewish you would naturally go to the Synagogue for your religious training. All of which is meet and fitting.

But, when the saying of a prayer or a reading of a verse from the Bible in our public schools is required by a state law or decree, then it ceases to be free, but compulsory, and you are forcing secular religion on children in the classroom representing every religious or non-religious faith.

There is nothing we can find in the Court's ruling against the Bible; against religion, or against its free exercise.

The daily repetition even of the Lord's Prayer, against a pupil's belief or wishes, becomes in time, a rote, a cant, a meaningless jargon of words.

It then becomes anything but "the free exercise thereof."

Democrats Spent More Than G. O. P. In '62 Election

WASHINGTON — Politicians spent $20,194,982 for radio and television time during the 1962 elections, with the Democrats outspending Republicans to air their views by 11 to 7.

A survey prepared for congressional committees showed that California, scene of the Nixon-Brown gubernatorial battle, led in expenditures for political broadcasts. Texas, New York and Pennsylvania followed in that order.

The survey, prepared by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), revealed the two major parties actually spent about one million dollars more during last year's general election fray than in the presidential election year of 1960.

The four one-hour "great debates" between then Senator John F. Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon were carried without charge by the networks in 1960.

The F. C. C. survey was released by Senator John O. Pastore, Rhode Island Democrat, chairman of the Senate Communications Subcommittee. Mr. Pastore said it would be discussed at hearings starting June 26 on legislation to repeal the "equal time" section of the Communications Act.

The section, requiring stations to provide equal air time to third or fringe party candidates, was suspended by action of Congress during the 1960 general election.

Of the $20,200,000 spent last year for both primary and general elections, the survey revealed, Democrats spent $11,981,754, Republicans $7,519,802, and other parties $693,426.

Democratic primary contests in the South accounted for the

Mrs. Shreiber Injured in Crash

Mrs. Harry F. Shreiber of Philadelphia, who recently visited friends here, was injured enroute home when her automobile was forced off the highway by a truck. It overturned and caught fire.

Mrs. Shreiber suffered a fractured arm, three broken ribs and multiple bruises. She was taken to a hospital near Philadelphia.

Hoover Shows Improvement

NEW YORK — Some improvement was reported Wednesday in the condition of former President Herbert Hoover, who is seriously ill of anemia.

A medical bulletin said the 88-year-old former Chief Executive is taking nourishment and enjoyed a short visit with his sons, Allen and Herbert Jr., the only visitors permitted to Hoover's Waldorf Towers suite.

Mr. Hoover's heart rhythm is now regular and his temperature is normal, the bulletin said.

The 31st President underwent an operation for cancer last August. He became ill 10 days ago and doctors described his ailment as "anemia, secondary to bleeding from the gastro-intestinal tract." The bleeding has since ceased.

Heart, Cancer Toll Up in State

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania death rate due to heart disease and cancer both showed increases last year, the Health Department reported Friday.

Deaths due to all causes totaled 122,989, a gain of 2,446 over the previous year.

Heart disease, with 52,751 victims, was the most frequent cause of death. This was an increase of 1,016 over 1961. Cancer was responsible for 20,003 deaths, up 10 over the previous year.

Carmichaels Bank President Is Honored

Richard L. Baily, president of the First National Bank of Carmichaels, one of several Pennsylvania Bankers to receive their 50-year pin at the P. B. A. convention at Atlantic City in May, was honored at a dinner in the Greene County Country Club, Saturday evening, June 15, by the staff of the bank.

Mr. Baily began his banking career in 1912, as a bookkeeper and assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Carmichaels. He became cashier and director in 1914, vice president and cashier in 1940, and president in 1953.

In addition to his banking activities, Mr. Baily has been a director of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Greene County since its inception in 1924, and became its president in 1961.

He has been unusually active in local and county affairs, and has for several years been a member of the board of trustees of Waynesburg College.

During the years of his banking career, Mr. Baily has seen many changes in the banking business. His banking vision and conservative policies were evident in the fact that the First National Bank came through the depression of the early 1930s as one of the strongest banks in the area.

When Mr. Baily joined the bank staff in 1912, capital and surplus were $58,000 and deposits $160,000. The institution has shown steady growth until the capital and surplus are now $600,000 and deposits $6,182,000. The bank's assets have grown from $235,000 to over seven million.

Fearful Castro Trims Cuba Militia

MIAMI—Fidel Castro has disarmed several militia units, apparently because he fears that his own army may turn against him, newly-arrived diplomatic refugees said Sunday.

One former army officer among 108 Cubans who arrived here yesterday said Castro is disarming his militia in Pinar del Rio because of desertions and increasing distrust of the "Peoples Army."

STALIN GRAVE UNKNOWN

MOSCOW — Government guides to Russian tourist attractions now tell visitors they do not know the way to Stalin's grave.

First Annual Regatta at Fredericktown Big Success; As Large Crowd Watches

The first annual Monongahela Regatta held Sunday afternoon, near Fredericktown, was a huge success.

The regatta was sponsored by the Washington-Greene Counties Tourist Promotion Agency and was sanctioned by the American Powerboat Association.

More than 50 powerboats were in races. The Triangle Water Ski Club of Pittsburgh and a utility boat race between Mike Levine, KDKA radio newsman, and Randy Hall of TV and radio, topped off the afternoon. Levine's craft was driven by Jim Brewster of Sheetsboro, Ohio.

Harry Sutherland, executive director of the Tourist Promotion Agency, was greatly pleased with the success of the regatta. Large crowds lined the river bank. He praised East Bethlehem Volunteer Fire Company and township work crews for their work in preparation for the affair.

Waynesburg Borough Council Tuesday night announced it will shortly advertise for bids for collection and disposal of refuse so that the proposed land-fill will be put into operation by fall.

The present open dump will then be closed and residents will be prevented from burning trash in yards.

Franklin Township will also use the land-fill for its garbage and trash disposal.

Under agreement with the township, residents of the borough and community sections of the township will have the option of either having refuse collected by a licensed collector or of taking it to the land fill themselves.

A nominal fee for use of the facility if residents transport refuse there.

At the request of the township, council approved an amendment to the agreement which will provide that with 90-day notice from either municipality, an ordinance may be enacted barring everyone but the licensed collector from using the land fill—thus forcing residents to use the services of the collector.

The amendment is a safety clause in order to prevent householders from dumping garbage along the roadside rather than paying the fee to use the land fill. If that should happen the ordinance will require everyone to have refuse hauled by a licensed collector.

The sewage systems to be constructed in West Waynesburg and Morrisville will use the borough's sewage treatment plant.

The finance committee is to determine financial agreements to be negotiated with the township officials.

New Dormitory Is Named For Joseph W. Ray

Joseph W. Ray Hall, new dormitory for men at Waynesburg College, named in honor of the president of the board of trustees, is expected to be ready for occupancy by September.

The $200,000 multi-colored building which occupies the triangular plot of ground east of the tennis courts and south of the cemetery will feature a striking innovation in building design.

Designed by Harding Thayer, Inc., the one-story dormitory will be the third one in the country built in this manner. The design, similar to that employed in Pittsburgh's Gateway Center buildings, consists of panels of four by nine sheets of steel separated by two and a half inches of insulation.

A rose beige porcelain-like material baked on the exterior surface will be complemented by red brick masonry. A virtually indestructible plastic surface will be baked on the inner walls in hues of blue, yellow, green, and tan. The two panels and insulation together provides the acoustical and thermal retaining properties of a 12-inch cement block wall.

The $200,000 cost of the dormitory which includes built-in and movable furniture for 60 students, accommodations for their residence counselor, plus a recreation lounge, is still cheaper than a comparable sized brick building.

This cost is approximately $1,000 cheaper per student in comparison with Denny Hall which approximately $4,000 per student.

Although the price of the steel panels is comparable to that of brick, the cost is reduced due to the fact that only two men are required to carry and bolt down the panels. This is in comparison to the large number of masons and laborers needed for a brick construction.

Construction will be completed in five months. August 15, is the date set to move in furniture. Students will be able to move in on September first.

The room fee for the new dormitory will be comparable to that of Denny and Thayer Halls.

Attend the Church of Your Choice Regularly

No—this is no relic. You're looking at something that scholars would call a "symbol of apostasy." In plain English, an apostate is one who has completely forsaken his faith. This church—one of thousands like it today in one country—stands at a dreary, broken monument to religious faith that has been lost.

This picture wasn't made from memory. It's authentic—drawn from a photograph. Within the lifespan, perhaps, of our generation, this church was once an essential keystone of its community where a man brought his problems and fears, and went out of those doors with new hope soaring in his soul.

If ye forsake the Lord, and serve strange gods, then He will turn and do you hurt, and consume you...
Joshua: 14-20

... Now the wind whistles through the decaying structure, and sweeps over a land that has lost faith in God.

Remember this church when you hear that freedom of worship is a non-essential freedom. Remember this church when you hear that religion is an outdated force. Remember this church when you hear that man's word is stronger than God's.

Think of how life must be lived in this Godless land. Bear in mind what we hear and read about conditions there. But, most of all, remember this church—and all that it fails to stand for today.

And you will thank God for your own!

'Thru-Wall' Installation Ideal for Room Air Conditioners

If room air conditioners figure in your plan for summer comfort, be sure to consider models that are installed permanently through the walls of a house.

Through-the-wall room air conditioners are similar to the familiar window units, but are designed to be mounted in special "sleeves" installed in outside walls.

This type of unit offers a wide choice of location since through-the-wall electric room air conditioners can be placed in any outside wall at virtually any height. Often they are placed high on a wall for the most efficient distribution of conditioned air.

This flexibility of location makes it easier to decorate a room and arrange furniture. Modern, through-the-wall units fit flush, or nearly flush, with both interior and exterior walls. Interior air conditioner panels have been designed to blend with a room's decor and some can be painted or prepared to match the walls. Operation is quiet, controls are convenient.

When separate room air conditioners are used throughout a house, units in areas not in use can be turned off to save operating costs. Those in crowded rooms can be regulated to provide maximum relief from heat and humidity.

Although through-the-wall electric room air conditioners may be installed at any time, they are particularly popular with families who add on a room or build a new house. During construction, metal sleeves are inserted in the walls of the house. Once installed, these sleeves make it easy to add room aid conditioners one at a time, as the budget permits, until the entire house is air conditioned.

To get maximum comfort at the lowest cost, many families have their new homes insulated at the same time the air conditioner sleeves are installed. A house that is properly insulated will be warmer in winter, cooler in summer. In addition to comfort, insulation will help reduce operating costs of both heating and cooling, and often reduces initial cost of equipment by making possible the use of smaller units.

AN APT DESCRIPTION

A few years ago, a former Secretary of State described a government bureau as "the nearest approach to eternal life to be found on earth."

Before the new budget was submitted to Congress, the people were told that total expenditures would be held below this year's level "while allowing for needed rises in defense, space and fixed interest charges."

Here's a look at some expenditures:
For the Executive Branch, there is a requested increase of six million dollars and 88 new employees.

For the Department of Commerce—an increase of 150 million dollars plus almost 3,500 new employees.

For the Department of Health, Education and Welfare—an increase of 694 million dollars and almost 6,000 new employees.

For the Department of Interior—an increase of 111 million dollars and almost 4,000 new employees.

For the Justice Department—an additional 20 million dollars and 765 new employees.

For the Labor Department—a 194 million dollar increase and almost 1,300 additional employees.

For the Treasury Department—an increase of 421 million dollars and almost 4,150 new employees.

For the General Services—a 62 million dollar increase and more than 3,000 new employees.

For the Agriculture Department—more than 500 new employees.

For the Federal Aviation Agency—a 10 million dollar increase and almost 680 new employees.

For the Post Office Department—nearly 10,000 new employees.

For the State Department—735 new employees.

Nearly 40,000 new government employees are requested, in addition to the 140,000 the government has already added to the public payroll in the last two years.

To pay for perpetuating a bureaucracy of nearly two and one-half million individuals on the federal payroll, each family in the United States paid $242 for the fiscal year ending last June. As recently as 1947, the per family cost stood at only $134. According to a Tax Foundation report, one out of every 28 employed persons in the United States now works for the federal government!

HISTORICAL FACTS

Sailing south toward Plattsburg, New York, in 1814, a British naval squadron of 16 ships had one objective—destruction of the American fleet under the command of Thomas Macdonough.

As the ships sailed Lake Champlain, the body of water separating New York and Vermont, a large force of British soldiers were poised to take Plattsburg by land.

The British had failed to take two things into consideration in their plan aimed at the capture of New York in the War of 1812; the naval genius of Macdonough and, oddly enough, the volatile nature of his men who could gather a fendish amount of fighting ability from the mere crowing of a sea-going rooster.

The stage for the battle was set as the British squadron came into view of Macdonough's fleet of 14 ships. Macdonough called his men together for a moment of prayer before the battle.

A shot from a British warship broke the silence. The ball struck a chicken coop on board the Saratoga, Macdonough's flagship. In the second of silence that followed, a rooster which had been confined in the coop, flapped his wings and crowed loudly. The men of the Saratoga cheered, taking the rooster's defiant attitude as a good omen. The cheers and laughter crossed the waters to the rest of the American squadron.

The Americans opened with withering, accurate fire, Macdonough, hit by fragments of falling rigging, was knocked unconscious, only to rise and fight again.

Within two hours the British were defeated. Macdonough, who had prayed before the battle, sent the following dispatch to Secretary of the Navy, Benjamin Crowninshield:

"The Almighty has been pleased to grant us a signal victory on Lake Champlain."

Said one British sailor of his ship:

"Our masts and yards were so shattered that they looked like bundles of matches, and our sails like bundles of rags."

The naval victory was enough to turn the tide for the Americans on land. As the Americans and British clashed on land at Plattsburg, an American on horseback raced to the lines to announce that the British had been defeated in the engagement on Lake Champlain. Soon the British were in retreat toward Canada.

For his great victory, Commander Macdonough was given a gold medal and an estate on Lake Champlain.

American Indian Grand Council
June 21-23; Will Be First in 208 Years

For the first time in history, the public is invited to attend an American Indian Grand Council which will be held June 21-23, the week end of the Big Thunder Moon, at Wyalusing, Pennsylvania.

Indians from more than 30 tribes will assemble at the Wyalusing Prayer Rocks, 500 feet above the Susquehanna River, in the Land of the Endless Mountains. Wyalusing is 45 miles northwest of Scranton.

The event will incorporate a Grand Spiritual and Temporal Council, the first to be held in 208 years, the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce reports. Prior to 1775 it was held periodically in conjunction with tournaments and games. The 1963 Council was arranged by Susquehannock and Tuscarora Indian chiefs.

Indian guests, spectators and tourists will be greeted from a "Welcome Pyramid." An Indian village will mushroom on the plateau above the Wyalusing Prayer Rocks. It will house several hundred Indian guests. Many will bring their own crafts and displays.

A Mohawk Indian dance team will perform traditional native dances. They will demonstrate and explain the Iroquois sign language. Former "Maid of the Mist," Indian beauty Miss Barbara Johnson, will tell the legend of the Maid of the Mist.

Lacrosse, an ancient Indian game, will be one of the featured sports. The American Indians were the first to play games in teams.

Soft steps of moccasins will once again walk the paths of the Endless Mountains. Thoughts will return of Wyoming, Susquehanna and Tioga. Smoke signals will rise at the Prayer Rocks of Wyalusing... "the place above the beautiful waters where is heard the Voice of the Thunder."

The Endless Mountains Association, Laceyville, Pennsylvania, will tell you how to get there, about accommodations and other information.

Social Security Tips
By EMERSON M. PERRINE

High school seniors entering on their work careers, and students seeking summer jobs are reminded the time has come to apply for their social security cards, if they haven't done so before, according to Emerson M. Perrine, district manager of the Washington Social Security Office.

"Most jobs, including temporary summer work, are covered by social security," Mr. Perrine said. "Since many employers won't let people start to work without first seeing their social security cards, and there is sometimes a delay before the cards can be issued, we advise the students to apply in advance."

Applications for the cards may be obtained at the social security district office at 365 Jefferson avenue, Washington, Pa. They are also available at all local post offices, where they can be completed and mailed to the nearest social security district office.

Mr. Perrine stressed that, in the event of the worker's death or disability, social security coverage may be as important to young people as it is to those nearing retirement age. "We see many cases involving younger workers where benefits could never have been paid to them and their families if the worker had not earned social security credit for summer jobs," he said. "Young workers are advised to get social security cards and show them to their employers. They are also advised to notify the social security office in the event of a lost card or change in name, and to ask for a statement of their earnings under social security every three years, to be sure all earnings have been credited. Earnings statements are available for all workers. Cards for this purpose are available at the social security district office."

Senators Ask
Delay of JFK
Europe Trip

WASHINGTON—Two Republican senators proposed Sunday that President Kennedy delay his scheduled European trip, but a White House aide and a German official said it should not be delayed.

Senators Barry Goldwater of Arizona, and Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, took the position that grave domestic problems, including civil rights, demand Kennedy's presence in Washington. They said, too, that the pending changes in government in Germany and Italy and the death of Pope John XXIII make his visits at this time largely pointless.

But McGeorge Bundy, Kennedy's special assistant on national security matters, said he does not feel the racial problem is grave enough to demand the President's continuing presence. He noted also that "he's never more than seven or eight hours from his desk" if an emergency arises.

Bundy acknowledged that events since the President's trip was first projected more than a year ago have complicated matters. But he said postponement or cancellation now would "have serious consequences with respect to American clarity of purpose, American decision, the President's own real commitment to an interest in Europe."

Senator Goldwater called the trip, now expected to start next Saturday and end about July 4, "a very grave mistake."

Former State Police Commissioner Frank G. McCartney, 55, of Lansford, $722.50 per month after 26 years, nine months of non-continuous service in state police and other state agencies.

Former Revenue Secretary Charles M. Dougherty, 58, of Philadelphia, $273 per month after 12 years state service.

Former Banking Secretary Robert L. Myers, Jr., 65, of Camp Hill, $269 per month after nine years, 11 months of non-continuous service.

Judge Election Ban Near Showdown; Battle on Nominating Committee

HARRISBURG—A plan to take selection of judges away from the voters and give it to special "nominating committees" is nearing a showdown in the Legislature.

Court officials from all parts of the State, armed with arguments for and against the plan, are prepared to fight it out at a public hearing to be held here soon.

One of the most outspoken critics of the plan is Justice Michael A. Musmanno of the State Supreme Court who branded the idea "radical, revolutionary and reckless."

The proposal is in the form of a bill—House Bill 995—which is now before the House Judiciary Committee.

It would, among other things, divide the State into judicial districts, abolish local courts and provide a new method for selecting judges.

Proponents of the plan say it would take the selection of jurists out of politics and streamline Pennsylvania's court system.

It is part of the Pennsylvania Bar Association's sweeping reform program to modernize the State's 89-year-old Constitution.

The bill would also revise the present method of naming the chief justice of the State Supreme Court. The judge with the most seniority on the bench now is automatically selected.

Instead, the bill would give a

Director of the General State Authority.

Two former Pittsburgh members of the General Assembly and two more from surrounding counties also were among those whose pensions had been established. They are:

Former Senator Joseph D. Ripp, 53, Allegheny Democrat, $78.59 per month for seven and a half years in the Senate.

Former Representative Thomas H. Cauley, 53, Allegheny Democrat, $32.21 per month for two years in the House.

Former Representative Clarence O. Williams, 59, Washington County Democrat, $247 per month after 18 years service.

Home Study
Grows In U. S.

WASHINGTON—Based on a recent correspondence school survey, some 3,500,000 Americans were home study students in 1962.

The number of students engaged in home study is nearing the total college and university enrollment of the nation, according to the National Home Study Council.

nominating committee of three lawyers and a judge the power to name the chief justice.

Judges would be selected under the same method — by a panel of seven persons. The committee would submit the names of three candidates to the Governor and he would select one to serve for two years.

After that, the judge would have to go before the voters for final approval for a full 10-year term.

The voters would not be electing a judge—they would just be passing judgment on whether the judge selected by the nominating committee should remain on the bench. There would be no opposition candidates on the ballot.

The same method would be used for selection of judges for the State's appellate courts, but their terms would be cut from 21 to 10 years.

Justice Musmanno scored the idea of having laymen helping to decide who should serve as chief justice.

The justice, who is next in line for the chief justiceship under the present system, said the bill is "irresponsible" for it would turn selection of chief judge into a game of chess "played on the board of factionalism, prejudices, personalities and private interests."

Chief Justice John C. Bell, Jr., is another strong opponent of the bill as it is now written.

He spoke out against it in meetings before the Pennsylvania Bar Association and the Philadelphia Bar Association.

Court officials in Allegheny County who got into the controversy were District Attorney Edward C. Boyle and President Judge Benjamin Lencher, of County Court.

Mr. Boyle is against the plan. "When you narrow down the number of people with the power to select judges, you increase the political overtones of the judicial process," Mr. Boyle said.

Judge Lencher favors the plan but wants officials to hold public hearings so the people would have a chance to suggest names of judicial candidates that would be named by the nominating committees.

'Be ye kind one to another'

THE smallest act of kindness will cheer the burdened one. A quiet word of understanding or a courteous gesture may brighten another's day. We should not be frugal in our dispensation of kindness when the opportunity arises.

Although the Apostle Paul was subjected to much that was unkind, he counsels (Eph. 4:32), "Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you." We are not here to hurt, hinder, or exploit one another. Man as the image and likeness of God, infinite Spirit, is spiritual. Therefore, he is loving, considerate, unselfish. It is the carnal, or mortal, mind, not man or malice, that wars, devastates, and devours.

Christ Jesus, during his betrayal, paused to heal the servant's ear which Simon Peter had cut off. And the Master commanded the offender (John 18:11), "Put up thy sword into the sheath." Such kindness, such compassion as expressed by Jesus at this trying hour was beyond that which the world could comprehend.

The Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, was on occasions opposed in her loving efforts to make the healing ministry of Christian Science known to the world. Her attitude in such instances was always one of kindness and patience. She presented her teachings, not as a new religion but as a revelation, explaining that the teachings of the Master are as potent today as they were in his time in their application to the needs of mankind, to the healing of the sick, the sorrowful, and the sinful.

For the benefit of her followers, Mrs. Eddy writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 444): "Students are advised by the author to be charitable and kind, not only towards differing forms of religion and medicine, but to those who hold these differing opinions. Let us be faithful in pointing the way through Christ, as we understand it, but let us also be careful always to 'judge righteous judgment,' and never to condemn rashly."

If one is really desirous of letting his light of brotherly love shine upon the path of those whom he meets, divine wisdom will furnish the occasion and direct his actions. One need not feel, however, that the practice of Christian virtues is confined to outward performances alone. To love silently those who seem not to love us is in obedience to the charge, "Be ye kind." To forgive another's wrongdoing which has touched or frustrated our own lives is loving-kindness; it is true forgiveness, because it is error, or mortal mind, not the man of God's creating, which is to be resisted or condemned. Not as mortals, but as spiritual identities, we are all divinely equipped to reflect Spirit. If we demonstrate this ability, our deeds of kindness and love, however great or small, will testify to the warmth that glows in our hearts.

The customs that promote kindness and goodwill belong to no particular period or class. Good as the only real power is universal. Therefore, the entire human family may bless and be blessed in helping a neighbor. Kindly acts embody cooperation, sincerity, compassion. When these are more widely exercised, when the matter of who shall be greatest carries less weight in the thoughts of men, the divine law of right will be recognized as the law of might, which is alone able to enlighten human thought and thus unburden the world—The Christian Science Monitor

Bureau Employs 375

WASHINGTON — The State Department's bureau of educational and cultural affairs employs 375 people and has a budget of nearly $50,000,000.

Mowing Patterns Important

The "he-men" who are the lawn maintenance men of most gardens can save themselves time and effort by knowing when to cut a lawn for the first time, how high to set the mower for the grass in the lawn, and the best mowing pattern.

Regardless of the type of grass seed used, new lawns should be mowed as soon as most of the grass plants reach 2 to 2½ inches in height. This cutting height should be maintained until such time as individual grass plants grow together to form a mat.

After the plants have matted into a lawn, the height of cut should be determined by the kind of grass in the lawn or the predominating grass in the seed mixture used to make the lawn.

Thus Kentucky bluegrasses, except Merion, should be kept 1½ inches long; Merion Kentucky 1 inch long. For the fine-leaved fescues like Illahee or Pennlawn, the mower should be set for 1¼ inches. The broadleaved fescues like Alta or Kentucky 31, used on play areas, should be cut 1½ inches high, which will make their leaves grow narrower.

All bent grasses except Highland Bent should be cut to stand from ¾ inch to 1 inch in height, while Highland Bent needs a cutting height of 1¼ inches to look well.

The old theory of increasing the cutting height during mid-summer is outmoded. The height should be left the same all during the cutting season.

More attention should be paid to mowing patterns which usually are chosen haphazardly. A distinct and unattractive track is left in the grass when a lawn is mowed the same way each time and any unevenness of the soil in the area is aggravated.

Overlapping the cut as much as 1/3 to 1/2 the width of the mower, reversing direction of the cut and changing the mowing pattern each time the lawn is cut are sound practices for the muscular male to follow.

This is the report of the state-controlled match industry. During 1962, 70 million matches were manufactured, the report said, bringing in 132 million francs (about $26 million).

Pocket Filly

Recent stories about a miniature breed of horses developed in Argentina bring to mind a tiny Thoroughbred filly foaled at Monmouth Park President, Amory L. Haskell's Woodland Farm a few years ago. She was one of twins, the other being a normal sized colt. "Most foals are on their feet and nursing almost immediately, but this little one couldn't get up," Mr. Haskell recalls. "And when she did, her feet were so weak she was hobbling on her ankles. Mrs. Edward Feakes, wife of my late Farm Manager, decided to try to save the filly. She fed it on a formula and fashioned splints for its weak ankles made of a doctor's wooden tongue depressors wrapped in cotton. 'Naturally' she was called Big Bertha. When I saw her, she still wore her splints, but she was able to run in and out of her mother's stall, under the webbing. She stood no higher than a large dog, and she loved to be petted by anyone who came to look at her. Her mother belonged to Tommy Heard, Jr. The last time I saw her, she was a yearling and with Mr. Heard's racing stable at Florida where she was on exhibition at the paddock. I asked Mr. Heard recently what had become of her, and it seems she's on a farm in Texas and though still small, Big Bertha has had two or three foals by Quarter Horse stallions."

Fishing for All Species Now Legal

HARRISBURG — Angling for all species of fish in the Commonwealth is now legal. Pennsylvania's bass fishing season on inland waters opened Saturday, June 15. This year the season for walleye, chain pickerel, northern pike and muskellunge on inland waters opened on May 11, and together with bass, will remain open until March 14, 1964.

Albert M. Day, executive director of the commission, said he has been advised by district fish wardens that fishing waters throughout the Commonwealth are in excellent condition. Nearly normal water levels and temperatures should make for good fishing in most areas, barring sudden storms which might roll the clear waters.

Regulations governing the inland water fishing include: bass (largemouth and smallmouth), minimum size—9 inches, daily limit—6 (combined species); pickerel and walleye, minimum size—15 inches, daily limit—6 (each species); muskellunge, minimum size—30 inches, daily limit—2; northern pike, minimum size—20 inches, daily limit—6. There is no season or size limit on panfish, including sunfish (all species), yellow perch, crappies, rock bass, catfish, suckers and eels. Possession limit on these is 50 of each or 50 combined.

Fishermen are reminded that the open season on frogs does not begin until July 2.

Mercury Flights Officially Over

Space Chief James E. Webb announced a few days ago there will be no additional flights.

Instead, Mr. Webb said, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration will move ahead with the program for the two-man Gemini spacecraft, which will practice the space-docking maneuvers that will be required later for Apollo flights to the moon.

Mr. Webb told the Senate Space Committee that the decision against another Mercury flight was reached Wednesday morning at a conference with Associate Director Robert Seamans, Jr., and Deputy Administrator Hugh Dryden.

Project Mercury directors and the seven original Mercury astronauts had urged that one more Mercury flight be attempted, this one of about 100 hours.

Your Health

Pennsylvania Medical Society

Four and a half million children are afflicted in some degree by hearing loss.

A common cause of hearing loss in children is infection and inflammation of the middle ear.

This is known as otitis media. Middle-ear infection may occur in cases of disease in which the nose or throat is infected.

The germs of disease travel from the throat to the ear.

When the middle ear is infected, fluid forms in it and causes pressure and pain.

A feeling of fullness in the ear indicates a swelling which tends to clog the passages and cause negative pressure within the middle ear.

The extension of infection to the mastoid cells behind the ear frequently becomes a surgical matter.

Hearing loss may also be caused by the gradual closing of the communicating aperture between the middle and inner ear.

This closing is due to a bony growth or otosclerosis, and surgery can sometimes reestablish the opening.

Nerve loss, a fault of the auditory nerve, affects the transmission of impulses from the inner ear to the brain due in some cases to a disease such as brain tumor, polio, meningitis, or to injury from violence.

Hearing loss today can be detected scientifically in infants as young as nine months of age, and many problems solved by prompt medical or surgical treatment.

In some cases, a child's difficulty with speech and school work is due to impaired hearing.

Loss of hearing can be a tragic handicap and parents should be alert to hearing problems in their children.

Athletics Slump In College Here

Stock in athletics at Waynesburg College took a sharp trend downward during the 1962-63 term.

Yellow Jacket teams won 21 out of 84 contests compared to 34 of 85 a year ago. That represents a percentage drop of .150, falling to .250 from .400.

It was slightly better than the 1960-61 record of 21 wins in 85 starts (.247).

Coach Raymond (Bucky) Murdock's wrestlers again had the best mark among the college's eight intercollegiate teams with a 7-3 record for a percentage of .700.

Murdock and his matmen also led the parade in 1960-61 with 7-2 (.778) and 1961-62 with 8-2 (.800).

Right behind were coach Pete Mazzaferro's gridgers at 5-3 or .625.

There were no other winning sports. Not a single sport showed any improvement as far as the number of wins or winning percentage was concerned.
