Assistant Professor In Biology Dept.

MISS MARY C. JACKSON

Miss Mary C. Conklin, Jacksonville, Ill., has been named an assistant professor of biology at Waynesburg College, according to Dr. Charles L. Bryner, chairman of the college's science department.

She will work in the fields of comparative anatomy, human anatomy, and physiology.

Local Boys At Camp Easter Seal

Camp Easter Seal at Somerset, one of four Easter Seal Camps in Pennsylvania, is open for another season. These camps are operated by the Pennsylvania Society for Crippled Children and Adults with which the Greene County Society is affiliated.

A staff member from this area who worked from June 21 through July 24, was Joseph Hartley, Box 154, Water Street Rices Landing, Joe, 17-year-old senior at Jefferson-Morgan High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hartley.

Joe, who plans to become a teacher after finishing high school, was manager of the basketball and baseball teams the past year at Jeffers-Morgan.

Since the first camp was started in 1941, hundreds of handicapped boys and girls have benefited from this outdoor living recreation experience. This season the Greene County Society sponsored a boy from this area who is attending Camp Easter Seal.

It takes a well trained staff of approximately 150 to operate the four camps over an eight week period. Support for this statewide camping program comes primarily from voluntary contributions to the annual Easter Seal Campaign and camp sponsorships from interested individuals and groups.

Open house will be held at Camp Easter Seal on August 4. A camper from this area looking forward to open house is Jimmy Marx of Waynesburg. His camping is being sponsored by the Waynesburg Lions Club.

Boy Trips, Finds 1812 Cannon Ball

MAUMEE, O. — Ricky Guvas, 15, appears to have stumbled, literally, over a relic of the War of 1812.

He stubbed his toe while playing along the banks of the Maumee River near his home. Looking down, he found a half-buried cannonball. The spot is across the river from the site of Fort Meigs, and Maumee historians think the shot may have been fired during a siege a century and a half ago.

Teacher Attends Arithmetic Confab

George L. Misher of Mather, principal of the Lippencott grade school, is attending a two-weeks arithmetic conference at the University of Wyoming in Laramie.

Thirty nine persons from 11 states are attending the conference to develop improved methods of teaching arithmetic.

Waynesburg and Franklin Township Civil Defense and Waynesburg Volunteer Fire Company will sponsor the United Nations Circus, Monday, August 5, afternoon and evening performances, 2 p. m. and 8 p. m., Greene County Fairground, one mile east of Waynesburg. The sponsors will receive 50 percent of the advanced ticket sales and a percentage of the gate.

The world-famed Cristiani family of acrobats and aerialists from Italy, appear in the spotlight as the headline attraction, daring and intrepid in high pyramids and thrilling somersaulting leaps over huge elephants and through hoops of fire.

Other features include Senor Daviso, Castilian equestrian's dressage number is a highlight, following the appearance of his stunning daughter, Antionette, in high school riding.

Added thrills will be provided by "Janie" from Patee, a rhapsody in motion way, way, up in the peak of the bigtop. She performs next to impossible feats, among them balancing on her head, as the trapeze bars swing back and forth in the center ring. Also on the bill are the flying Karolys from Hungary, who recently thrilled American TV audiences and Remo Loyal, youngest star of the tightwire. Former Ringling artists the "Trippolis" head-to-head balancing wizards, this act is so diversified it has universal appeal for any age.

Special guest stars are Announcer, Colonel Calvin (Curley) Miller with his daughter and his famous United Nations Liberty horses and the well-known TV series star, Annie Oakley in her familiar cowgirl outfit showing expert marksmanship.

The show also features a herd of performing elephants handled by the world's youngest elephant trainer, Captain Thomas Armstrong, ably assisted by his wife, Juanita. This is recognized in the circus industry as the fastest moving elephant act in the history of the bigtop.

Other animal offerings are "Goliath," the world's largest hippo, all 8,000 pounds of him and more horses and ponies than any other known circus.

There are many imported stars in the 100 minutes of fun and entertainment. The star-studded program is replete with endless processions of clowns and jesters.

The procession is topped by a big brass band, under the direction of Charles Sclarbaum.

Dillon On Budget Deficit

WASHINGTON — Secretary of the Treasury C. Douglas Dillon says a sharp increase of government-held mortgages was a major factor in decreasing the budget deficit for fiscal 1963.

President Kennedy has announced that the deficit for the year ending June 30 was $6.2 billion, about $2.6 billion below estimates made by the administration in January.

In a detailed report Thursday, Mr. Dillon and Budget Director Kermit Gordon said that sales of government-owned mortgages were $800 million more than had been anticipated.

Federal tax collections increased $900 million above the estimate, primarily because of an increase in business activity, and expenditures were $900 million below the anticipated figure. Mr. Dillon said budget receipts were $86.4 billion, compared to the January estimate of $85.5 billion. Expenditures were $92.6 billion compared to the estimate of $94.3 billion.

Individual income taxes were $47.6 billion, an increase of $296 million over the January estimate, and corporation income taxes produced $21.6 billion, a rise of $367 million above the estimate.

Compared to the previous year, total expenditures were up $4.8 billion, while income showed an increase of $5 billion.

The Gajewski Case

A Morality Call Is Sounded

Loren Gajewski's grandfather was a German immigrant who came to the United States in the late 1800's and became a homesteader in North Dakota. He, his son Otto and his two grandsons have been dutifully tilling the soil, mostly in the Badlands of this great country, for almost 100 years.

They made the land productive. They have made, mostly with their hands, their humble contribution to the growth of the United States.

Loren, although he never finished elementary school, has a profound grasp of the American heritage and is, by virtue of intense reading during the long North Dakota nights, a really great student of constitutional law.

Early in 1959 he learned from the Department of Agriculture that he had been overplanting wheat for five years. He received no penalty notices for the reason that the Department of Agriculture administratively lost the record of the farm and did not get around to assigning an allotment to the acreage.

When it assigned the allotment, it was done in 1959, retroactively, for the years 1954 to 1958. Actually it was his brother Mervin's farm that was lost, and when a criminal complaint had to be fabricated the charge against Loren was for "aiding his brother in overplanting."

As the basic fault was the carelessness of the Department of Agriculture in losing the record, one would have thought that the government would have forgotten the case. Instead, the underlings in the department have been pursuing Loren Gajewski with the remorselessness of hound dogs.

To date, arising from this simple and understandable occurrence, he has had three 2-year jail sentences imposed for "conspiring to defraud by impeding and defeating the AAA" and "giving false answers to the government."

There is a $19,000 Internal Revenue Service lien on the farm. He and his brother have been the objects of litigation to collect thousands of dollars in penalties. Now he is denied a marketing card without which he cannot sell the thousands of bushels of wheat he has harvested.

This North Dakota farmer, in the eyes of the government, is the enemy. He has resisted its inordinate ambition to control his actions. He is expendable.

This same government has given the bloody communist dictator Tito $3 billion.

Tito has shot down our flyers, imprisoned church leaders, including Cardinal Stepinac, executed General Draja Mihailovitch, the great war hero, and kept the Yugoslav people in chains.

This same government is now pressuring Congress to have us "peacefully co-exist" with the bloodsoaked communist tyrants of Budapest.

One might say that the law must be enforced and that Gajewski's penalties are necessary but regrettable. He might also say we must get along with dictators and realistically accept the sad state of the world as best we can.

Unless morality is to play a part in our affairs, the deterioration that is setting in around the world will inundate us all. Our code of morality tells us that we should help the Loren Gajewskis and deplore the Titos.

15,000 GIs Flying By Jet To Germany

WASHINGTON — The Defense Department is planning to fly an entire Army Division—about 15,000 troops—to Germany later this year in a dramatic demonstration of its jet age ability to "get there first with the most."

A major implication of the mass move is that it may point the way for America to reduce its permanent garrison in Germany at some future time and rely on high-speed airlifts for quick reinforcement in emergencies.

Joint Chiefs of Staff planners believe the massive airlift can be carried out in only three or

Ruling On Fletcher's Petition

Judge J. I. Hook ruled Monday on a writ of habeas corpus filed last week by James Morris Fletcher and Gerald Groves seeking reasons why detainers held on them by Greene County authorities should not be declared illegal.

Judge Hook directed that Clarence R. Wolfe, superintendent of the Allegheny County Workhouse, and Glenn R. Toothman, Greene County District Attorney, show cause why the court should not issue the writ.

Judge Hook also directed the Greene County Clerk of Courts to forward the following records to the petitioners: a copy of the informations, warrants, indictments, docket entries and notes of testimony.

Farm Loans In Area for Year Total $247,950

A total of $247,950 was loaned during the 1963 fiscal year to farmers and rural families served by the local office of the Farmers Home Administration at Washington, for Fayette, Greene, and Washington Counties, according to Robert J. Mcneely, County Supervisor.

Loans were made to 43 rural families after they were declared eligible to receive credit by the county committee. A total of 118 applications were reviewed by the committee during the year.

Operating loans accounted for 58 per cent of the total amount loaned. Operating loans are made

Rain Came for 77th Time in Waynesburg's "Rain Day"

Waynesburg's July 29 "Rain Day" tradition held firm despite the poetic doubts expressed by heavyweight boxer, Cassius Clay, and the predictions of Eleanor Schano and Paul Shannon, weather forecasters for WATE.

Rain fell in Waynesburg on July 29, for the 77th year of the 87 that records have been kept.

Reports of sprinkles began coming as early as eight o'clock in the morning.

However, just about three o'clock, the deluge began. Gutters were flooded and streams which had been practically dry all month began to swell. There was some let up after the first downpour but by four o'clock rain was again falling heavily and continued until six in the evening.

Supporting weather prophet John Daily, the town was in a gala mood. A National Championship A. A. U. walking race, sponsored by Waynesburg Junior Chamber of Commerce, was held on Saturday to initiate the unique "Rain Day" celebration.

Merchants along High Street displayed on Saturday and again on Monday, "Rain Day" sales specials in bins and on racks along the sidewalks.

Members of Zeta Epsilon Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity at Waynesburg College began a marathon bridge game on the Court House steps at Sunday evening, pledging to continue the play until the rain came.

Duquesne Light Locates New Mine

Walter V. Dulaney Celebrates 103rd Anniversary

WALTER V. DULANEY

Walter V. Dulaney, Greene County's oldest resident, celebrated his 103rd birthday Tuesday, July 30, in the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Gutberlet and his other daughter, Miss Mary Dulaney, all of Sixth street, Bonar Addition.

Mr. Dulaney still continues his walks in the neighborhood and also reads without glasses.

Mr. Dulaney is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dulaney and was born on Shannon Run in Perry Township, where he resided most of his life. Until his retirement he was a farmer, stock raiser and stock dealer.

He married the late Ida L. Headley, who died in 1947.

There are five sons and daughters, F. Ray Dulaney of New York; David H. Dulaney of Hemet, Calif.; Forney L. Dulaney of Spraggs, and Mary M. Dulaney and Mrs. Martha Gutberlet both of Waynesburg.

Among those present at the family party on Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hoge and daughter, Alice of Indianapolis, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. William Stahlman and sons, Billy and Donn of Milroy; Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Dulaney and son, Franklyn of Spraggs; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dulaney and children Terry, Larry and Carol; James Dulaney and children Beth, Quentin and Junior of Spraggs; Mrs. Emma Headlee, Lois Myers and Joann Dulaney, all of Waynesburg; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Gutberlet, Mary Dulaney and Mrs. Nancy Keeler of Waynesburg.

Hopper Accepts Post in Harrisburg

William R. G. Hopper, who has served as executive secretary of the Greene County Branch of the Pennsylvania Economy League, for three and a half years, has resigned effective August 15.

Mr. Hopper has accepted the position as administrator of the recently created Interdepartmental Clearing Council under the State Commerce Department in Harrisburg.

London Bridge Is Falling Down!

LONDON—The City of London Corporation is planning to replace Tower Bridge with a tunnel under the Thames, Transport Minister Ernest Marples has announced.

Mr. Marples said the Tower Bridge lifting spans are a serious obstruction to traffic and will have to go.

Duquesne Light Company has started the engineering and site preparation for a new $10 million coal mine, to be located near Greensboro, Greene County, which will ultimately provide 400 jobs, Philip A. Flegler, Chairman of the Board and President of the Company, has announced. He said that major construction will start in 1964, and that it is planned to begin operation early in 1965.

The proposed mine, which will cover 6,000 acres of the Sewickley seam containing approximately 40 million tons of coal, is located about 13 miles from Uniontown, Waynesburg, and Morgantown.

The new mine will be of the drift-entry type, where the coal seam is entered through the side of a hill, rather than by means of a deep shaft with elevators. An unusual feature provides for transporting the coal 4 1/2 miles overland from the new mine to Duquesne Light's existing Warwick Mine preparation and cleaning plant on the Monongahela River by a series of enclosed conveyor belts. The coal from the mine will be burned in the boilers of Duquesne Light's four power plants.

The new mine will provide additional employment that will help bolster the economy of the surrounding communities. During its construction stages, over 100 people will be required. When the mine first begins operating, it will employ approximately 100 people, increasing to about 400 when it reaches its peak operating capacity.

Former County Resident Killed

Paul Russell May, 32 years, of Chargin Falls, Ohio, formerly of Carmichaels, died Friday, July 26, 1963 in Georgia Community Hospital, Chargin Falls. Death was due to injuries sustained in an automobile accident early Friday evening.

He was a son of Harry May and Agnes Herbert May, and was born in Carmichaels, January 21, 1931. Mr. May attended Carmichaels High School and was a veteran of the Korean War. He had been employed in the Cleveland area for the past 12 years.

Surviving are his mother; his wife, Kathleen Metzger May and three children: Phyllis, aged 12, Susan, aged eight, and Russell, aged five; also two sisters, Olive, wife of Andrew Ewart of Carmichaels, and Mrs. Leora Minor of Baltimore, Maryland; three brothers, Harry May of Cleveland, and William and Albert May, both of Carmichaels. One brother, Earl, is deceased.

Funeral services were held Tuesday in the Paul Lesako Funeral Home, Carmichaels, conducted by Rev. George O. Elgin, Ja. Interment in Glades Cemetery.

Company C Open For Enlistments

Waynesburg's Company C, 429th Engineer Battalion (Construction), U. S. Army Reserve, is open for enlistments.

The 429th has a fine record in war and peace. Originally the 1880th Engineer Aviation Battalion, with active World War II service in the China-Burma-India Theater, it became in 1948 the 326th Engineer Construction Battalion and in 1961 was redesignated the 429th Engineer Battalion (Construction). Called to active duty during the Berlin Crisis, the Battalion gave a good account of itself at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, from October, 1961, to August, 1962.

Company C of the Battalion, commanded by Captain W. B. Sabolsky, is offering qualified men an opportunity to join its proud ranks.

Interested persons are invited to visit the Army Reserve Center at 51 North Morris Street in Waynesburg, or telephone 627-6252.

THE
Gift of Good Work

What's happened to America's spirit where pride in good workmanship is concerned?

On all sides, the careful attention to detail that once spelled "craftmanship" is dying out. Some blame it on modern production methods, others on the depression which lasted so long, still others on the recent war. All good reasons.

But no matter what the reason, the church recognizes that if pride of good workmanship is lost, an integral, vital part of America is lost with it. When a man cannot say, as Ruskin said, "I know what pleasure is, for I have done good work," he not only loses a part of his heritage—he is in grave danger of losing part of his soul.

God gave us a conscience that tells us when

That ye might walk worthy of the Lord, unto all pleasing, being fruitful in every good work.
—Col. 1:10

work is good or bad. Churches help to keep that conscience clear for all who heed the word of God. For any church knows that good workmanship is—in the highest sense—a part of the Golden Rule which says, "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

We are what our neighbors do for us. They are what we do for them. And the man who knows, in his conscience and heart, that his work, no matter what it may be, is the best that he can do is doing much more than satisfying his own inner craving for craftsmanship.

His gift of good work is, in all truth, a blessing to himself, a contribution to his community, and one of his highest tributes to his God.

Electric Heat Is Ideal For Older Homes, Too

Ceiling cable heat is invisible. Wires less than 1/8" thick are fastened to ceilings before plastering. Each room can have a thermostat.

Baseboard units heat by both radiation and convection. All surfaces are warmed evenly, and control is by individual room thermostat.

Wall panel heaters have heating coils behind a decorative grill. Small fans may be used with this thermostatically controlled unit.

Heat pump heats home in winter, cools it in summer. It's automatically reversible and maintains any desired year-round temperature.

Electric furnaces provide compact central heating systems which can be combined with central air conditioning for year-round use.

Today, house heating is an important subject. Modern living has brought about the desire among most folks to have a safe, clean, trouble-free heating system. And no wonder! Who wants to come home after a hard day's work and have to shovel coal, haul ashes, or put up with the discomfort of fuel-fired heating systems?

Some people who are dissatisfied with their fuel-fired furnaces are under the mistaken impression that modern electric heat is strictly for new homes. They couldn't be more wrong! Many older homes today are being converted from fuel heat to clean, convenient electric heating. The reason is simple—electric heating equipment usually costs no more to buy and is oftentimes easier to install than other systems.

Another reason electric heating is being installed in more and more existing homes is because of its flexibility. There are seven different types of electric heating systems available so families can select the one that's best for their home. For example, there are electric baseboards; radiant ceiling cable or panels; electric wall panels; electric furnaces, duct heaters, or heat pump for use with forced air systems; and the circulating hot water, or hydronic system. You can have any type—or combination of systems—in your home.

With good insulation, which also helps to keep a house cooler in summer, the cost of electric heat compares favorably with other home heating systems. And electric heating is odorless, smokeless, automatically controlled, safe, trouble-free, efficient, and comfortable. What more could one want?

Horo Months Got Names

The 12-month calendar used today is the Gregorian calendar devised almost 400 years ago by Pope Gregory XIII.

January was named after Janus, an ancient Italian deity that presided over gates, doors, and beginnings; February after a Roman festival of purification, Februa, held on the fifteenth day of the month; March after Mars, Roman God of War; April for the opening of buds, after the Latin word "aperire," to open; May after Maia, mother of Mercury June after Junus, a famed Roman family; and July and August after the two Caesars, Julius and Augustus.

September, October, November, and December were the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth months in the Roman calendar retained their Latin numerical names.

What's in a Name? In Africa native tribes beat the ground with clubs and utter bloodcurdling yells. Anthropologists call this primitive expression. Here, we call it golf.—The Crosssett (Ark.) Observer.

LOCAL CONTROL, A TRADITION

America has a deep-seated tradition of local control of education. Each community decides for itself how much to spend on its schools and, through its locally elected school board, decides on basic teaching and administrative policies.

This reflects a clear understanding that the mind of the student is a precious responsibility of each community.

Local control of education places heavy emphasis on the belief that in a free society no parent should surrender the minds of his children to any power structure or propaganda line outside his influence or control.

In recent years, as education has grown more expensive, there has been increasing agitation for the use of federal money to help pay the cost of education. Many Americans, eager to obtain the best education for their children that money can buy, have listened with favor to federal aid plans. But very few Americans want to see federal control of the education of their children. They have been assured repeatedly by the advocates of federal aid that such aid will bring no federal control of any kind.

An example of this kind of assurance was given when a United States Senator told representatives of a large and powerful special interest group in Washington that there must be federal aid to education, and that they should actively advocate it.

He added, "Congress must . . . rise above the sterile concept that federal aid means federal control." This statement is constantly repeated in the belief that the people will come to accept it.

The same approach was used when federal farm programs first began. Many assurances were given that the federal government would help the American farmer, not "control" him. But the controls came in a big way. Now the American farmer has very little say about what will be raised on his farms and in what amounts.

The "free money" line with regard to federal aid to education has had its effect, despite the fact that there is no such thing as "free money," especially when it comes from that great reservoir of handouts, the Federal Treasury. Federal money can be spent only under federal control.

A current example of this can be found in the program for aid to dependent children. By law, this program is set up and handled entirely by the states, with the federal government providing the money. When a State governor recently placed some limits on unemployed persons eligible for this aid, a government official struck down these limits because they failed to meet "federal standards." These standards apparently were the official's since none were provided in the law establishing the program.

If federal aid to education is ever written into law, The Office of Education of the Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare could become the overall supervisor of American education.

The Office of Education has already laid detailed plans for such supervision. Two years ago it issued a 56-page report, not intended for the public eye, but placed in the Congressional Record by an alert Congressman.

The report spelled out how the Office of Education would "render assistance in the development of public educational policy." This so-called assistance would include "reshaping" courses of study, working out new teaching methods, and "improving" teacher training and textbooks. All this was to be done "through the normal administrative processes within the Office and the Department." That meant administration by bureaucrats working wholly apart from the parents whose children's studies would be "reshaped."

We might hope that the Federal Office of Education and the Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare would not misuse their powers. However, our government was not set up to trust men who have vast authority, but to limit their powers as a protection against abuse. As long as there is any chance of abuse, of employing federal aid to education as a tool to control education and to indoctrinate our children, such aid should be rejected, and complete local control preserved.

A very disquieting document has turned up which shows that we have cause for grave concern about the motives and views of some who are pressing hardest for federal aid to education. A leading organization which is urging federal aid programs for education has published and sent all over the country a pamphlet called "The Root of Opposition to Federal Aid to Education." It is an incredible document.

Let's look at just a few phrases from this pamphlet: "The fight over federal aid to education," its author says, "is an economic battle . . . in the classic pattern of historic battles between the haves and the have-nots." The "elite," he says, "tremble—and with good reason—at what would happen to their wealth and position if the masses ever really could bring the vote of the majority into full play." The "masses," according to this author, are "transforming capitalism into some forms and stages of socialism," and "the first and greatest of these social problems . . . is the public school system."

He sums it up by saying that the argument over federal aid to education is "a fight between the people with the wealth and the people with the kids."

It has been a long time since the banner of class warfare has been raised so obviously. It has been a long time since so many Marxist terms, such as elite, masses, haves and have-nots, have been brought together as part of the debate on a major American political issue and given the sanction of a respected organization.

In another part of his pamphlet, the writer states:

"We are all brainwashed from childhood to pretend that the United States has no classes or masses, no sharp or fundamental disagreement between its have-minority and have-not majority."

Would the author launch a brainwashing program in the other direction—teaching our children to think of themselves as "have-nots" and ready to rise up against personal enterprise and democracy which he scornfully says we think were "devised by angels"?

The fact that there are men who think in these terms, and who demand federal aid to cast a new light on the dangers of that program.

We can be sure that no more than a handful of parents in all of America think of themselves as part of the "masses" fighting to the death against "the people with the wealth."

So long as American parents keep control of the schools where their children are taught, they can see to it that no one teaches such obviously mistaken ideas to their children.

Are Earth Minerals Absorbed?

In her controversial book "Silent Spring" Rachel Carson wisely did not challenge chemical fertilizers as contaminating food crops and making them unwholesome for animals and man. Much printers' ink has been spent in the past advocating organic fertilizer only, therefore stable manure, compost and the like, for the production of health-giving food crops, at the same time condemning chemicals used for fertilizer.

What would our American producer of individual farmer be like without commercial fertilizer? We would not have the worldwide reputation for production which we enjoy.

With the chemical age so relatively new, perhaps it is not surprising that some people have been dubious about the effectiveness of straight minerals like phosphates or iodides, or even chlorides like salt, being available to animals when consumed as such or when added to feed. They have thought that minerals needed to be in an organic combination as carried by starches, fats or protein to be absorbed.

In the thirties one medical writer argued that straight minerals could not be assimilated by man or beast. He would have lost his professional standing long ago had he persisted in this view down to date.

It is not so long ago and maybe even now there are advocates of organic iodine, as present in sea weed. True, there are slight differences in availability of minerals depending on their chemical combination, also on species of animal fed, even the age of the animal. But where standard iodized salt, for instance, has 100 percent elemental iodine, a mere fraction of that amount of iodine has prevented human goiter in Switzerland. In other words, a usual liberal proportion or margin of safety in formulation has amply taken care of differences in availability.

What applies to iodine applies to other minerals such as iron. Should iron in a mineral mixture be in the form of ferric iron which is used in red barn paint, or ferrous iron which is green vitriol? With most farm animals, as an experienced researcher stated: "Many studies with experimental animals—have indicated little, if any, superiority of one form of iron over the other on the basis of absorption."

We may place confidence in the availability of the earth form, or inorganic form, of minerals as we have them in trace mineral premixes including trace mineral salt which itself can be used as a premix in the formulation of feeds, or fed free choice, and readily accessible to farm animals.

Question: Is there a connection between low-salt rations and cannibalism in chickens?
Answer: At the Virginia Experiment Station broilers became progressively more sensitive to the lack of salt as they grew older. They became highly cannibalistic as they approached 6 weeks of age, and then were only one-half normal weight.

A "Souper" Sandwich For Picnics . . . Indoor or Out

A picnic . . . indoors . . . or a rainy day need not dampen anyone's spirits. It can be gay and enjoyable despite the weather. To keep everyone happy serve a hefty "souper" sandwich . . . with lots of filling. It's so easy, too. Split and toasted French rolls are spread with a zesty mixture of canned condensed bean with bacon soup, ketchup, and sweet pickle relish. Then, they're topped with cheese stuffed frankfurters and canned French fried onions. In a matter of minutes your sandwich is ready to be served hot and toasty from the broiler. Complete your indoor picnic menu with a big basket of potato chips and a pitcher of frosty cold milk.

Frank and Bean Long Boys
1 package (10 ounces) brown and serve French rolls
1 can (11 3/4 ounces) condensed bean with bacon soup
1/4 cup ketchup
1/4 cup water
2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish
6 frankfurters, split lengthwise and cut in half
2 slices sharp cheese cut into 1/4 inch strips (about 2 ounces)
1/2 cup French fried onions
Stuffed olives

Prepare rolls as directed on package; split and toast. Combine soup, ketchup, water, and pickle relish. Spread mixture evenly over bread surfaces; cover edges completely. Top with frankfurters, placing a slice of cheese in each. Broil 4 inches from heat for 8 minutes or until hot. Top with onion for last few minutes. Garnish with olives. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Reunions

The first Parry Reunion in 28 years was held Sunday, July 21,

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Edwards of Waynesburg, July 27, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Reggetts of Jefferson, July 28, a daughter.

at the JayCee Park, Waynesburg with 61 members present.

State Relief Down In June

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania's Public Assistance rolls dropped by 13,914 in June as compared with May, the Public Welfare Department reported Tuesday.

The number of people receiving public assistance in the state last month was 433,686—a drop of 3.1 per cent from May—the department said.

The department's report attributed the decline principally to increased employment income.

Public assistance expenditures for the month totaled $21,406,361, including $344,216 in county funds. This was a decrease of $1,696,852 from May.

Inventor Of Safety Pin

A New Yorker named Walter Hunt invented the safety pin in just a few hours one day in 1846, when he twisted a piece of wire into the familiar shape still used today. The people of Italy, however, are believed to have used similar devices as long ago as 2,000 B. C.

CHRIS MCCARTHY

RACE WALK
Chris McCarthy, national 50-kilometer race walking champion from the University of Chicago, won the senior event in the 40-kilometer National Championship A. A. U. race walk held in Waynesburg on Saturday, July 27. The second annual event was staged by the Waynesburg Junior Chamber of Commerce in observance of Waynesburg Rain Day.

Starting in front of the Greene County Court House, the race course was laid out over Route 18 paralleling the old Waynesburg and Washington narrow gauge railroad via Sycamore, Swarts, Deer Lick, West Union to Dunn Station and back to Waynesburg. McCarthy's time for the 25-mile course was three hours, 52 minutes and two-tenths seconds. He was closely followed by 31-year old Alex Oakley, a former Olympian. Oakley's time was 3:59.8. Third place was taken by John Blackburn of Columbus, Ohio, a former Ohio State University track star, in 4:08. Phil McDonald of the Milwaukee Track Club won the National Junior Title and placed fourth over the course with a timing of 4:43.44. John Harwick of Waynesburg, who was the winner of the 30-kilometer junior championship held here last year, placed seventh on Saturday.

Heat took a heavy toll of the competitors. Out of a field of 19, 10 finished the race. Other finishers were: fifth—Dale Aronld, Ohio Track Club from Dayton, Ohio; Sixth—George Shilling from the Pioneer Track Club of New York City; eighth—Kurt Steiner, a veteran marathoner also from the Pioneer Track Club; ninth—Dave Lakritz, 92nd Street Young Men's Hebrew Association of New York City; and tenth—John Abbate, Penn Athletic Club.

As a sporting event race walking is an ancient form of track competition, dating to the time of the Greek Olympic observances but was only recently begun to enjoy a new interest among sports enthusiasts. The rules of competition state that a racer must have one heel and one toe on the ground and a strong arm motion at all times. This gives the walkers their characteristic exaggerated motion.

During the brief pre-race ceremonies, Stan Romancik, University of West Virginia Track Coach, praised the Waynesburg Junior Chamber of Commerce for sponsoring the event, and John Harwick for his work in Waynesburg with Track and Race Walking groups. Jerry Yost, graduate of West Greene High School and West Virginia University football star and track team member expressed his appreciation for the opportunities he has gained from the sports program in Greene County.

Top Scorers In County Track Club's Meet

Eight-year-old Debby Scherich (74) and 10-year old John Buchanan (61) were the top scorers in the Greene County Track Club's age-group meet July 28 at College Field.

Rounding out the top ten among the girls were Barbara Tennant, 12, (56); Prissie Tennant, 8 (40); Joetta Scherich, one (32); Jeanie Shirk, five, (26); Kim Dukate, seven (25); Natalie Moore, three (22); and Patty Patton, four Tammy Scherich, five and Karen Sue Walters, six, (21 each).

Leading the boys was Floyd Barnhart, 12 (43); Bobby Harwick, seven and Bret Moore, four (34 each); Barry Harwick, eight, (33); Jeff Patton, three (32); Jerry Patton, six (28); Danny Humble, 10 (27); Jack Cain five (13); and Albertson, 11, (11).

There were meet records set, all in the girls division. Debby Scherich improved her softball mark for eight and nine-year-olds with a toss of 79.9½ and Kim Dukate ran the 80 yard dash in .12.1.

Your Health

Pennsylvania Medical Society

A hen's life is routinely well-ordered. She asks for little affection and attends strictly to business. This is good, for her mission in life is to produce eggs. Which is good for people.

Without eggs, the dietary would be lacking. Eggs are packed full of protective food.

Like meat, an egg is essentially a protein food. This protein is of excellent quality, rich in iron, phosphorus, fat, and vitamin A and G.

Eggs are easily digested and useful in the diet throughout almost the entire span of a person's life.

Egg yolk is one of the first foods added to the diet of infants, and this is to supply iron.

The yolk is richer in food elements than the white.

Eggs have been described as being perfectly packed by nature with their contents protected against outside contamination.

In this country, eggs produced by the domestic hen are the most commonly eaten type, while in other countries eggs from a variety of birds and fowl are used.

In tropical countries, the eggs of turtles are a delicacy.

Egg production in the United States totals almost 60 million annually.

Pennsylvania produces about 3½ billion eggs a year. Americans eat, on an average, 325 eggs a year.

Lay on, good hen, lay on!

Youngsters scoring triples by winning all three events in their age groups were Jeff Patton, Bret Moore, Jerry Patton, Bobby Harwick, Barry Harwick, Joetta Scherich, Pam Scherich, Debby Scherich and Barbara Tennant.

Gas Firms Give 59% of Refunds

WASHINGTON — The Federal Power Commission has reported that natural gas distributors in Pennsylvania have passed on to their customers 59 per cent of the FPC-ordered rate refunds they received from their interstate pipeline suppliers.

The 44 Pennsylvania distributors had received refunds totaling $6,842,574. The F. P. C. report said Equitable Gas Co., of Pittsburgh, retained 62 per cent of the $323,600 it received, and Peoples Natural Gas Co. 44 per cent of its $336,634; also, that Pennsylvania Gas Co., of Warren, retained all of the $301,702 refunded to it.

Ambridge Gas Company was one of the five that refunded all the money to customers.

The agency said most of the distributors which retained all or part of their refunds said they had absorbed all or part of higher wholesale gas costs rather than passing them on to their customers.

Kerr-Mills Care Expansion Is Signed

HARRISBURG — Legislation to expand the scope of the Kerr-Mills medical care program has been signed into law and will become effective in 60 days.

In signing the measure yesterday Governor William W. Scranton noted the State's medical aid to the aged program will now be "the best and most progressive in the nation."

The new law: Increase the income limit for eligibility to $2,400 for individuals and $3,840 for couples.

Allow the Public Welfare Department to qualify elderly persons for aid before they actually become ill.

Provide the aged up to 60 days in nursing homes after release from a hospital.

Relieve relatives of responsibility for sharing the costs if State funds are available.

Bar the Commonwealth from filing liens to recover funds from the estates of deceased welfare recipients.

Girls' Junior Olympics At College Field Saturday, August 3

U. S. Wheelchair Team Is Winner

STROKE MANDEVILLE, Eng.—The United States wheelchair team won first place Sunday at the 12th annual Para-Olympics, beating handicapped competitors from 20 other nations.

The American team scored a total of 382 points during the four-day meet, 241 by the men's team and 141 by the women's squad. Britain was second with 336 points and Italy third with 256.

Forty new international records were established, and every member of the United States team scored during the competition.

Two new events were approved for future competition after demonstrations by the American team. They are the 60-year dash and the shuttle relay.

The next Wheelchair Olympics will be held in Tokyo, Nov. 8-12, 1964, after the regular Olympics.

They See Winter Around Corner

WATERTOWN, N. Y. — Winter is never too far from mind in this Northern New York snow center—even when the temperature soars to a sizzling 90, as it did today.

This was demonstrated when a store put three snow-blowers on sale this morning and sold them soon after the store opened.

Last February 22, the store sold eight lawnmowers in a sale held when the temperature hit 11 below zero and snow lay in drifts of 10 or more feet high.

Every Player Scores

The Syracuse Chiefs came up with a 9-0 victory and a baseball oddity against Richmond in an International League contest at the latter's home park. Every Chief in the line-up scored one run.

Clayton Ketterling, head wrestling coach and assistant football coach at Waynesburg College, has been named meet director for the Allegheny Mountain Association's A. A. U. Girls' Junior Olympics.

The event, sponsored by the Waynesburg Lions Club, is scheduled for Saturday, August 2 at College Field in Waynesburg. Field events will start at 12:30 P. M. with running events to start at one p. m.

Events will be held in four age-groups: Midget Division (11 and under), Junior Division (12 and 13), Intermediate Division (14 and 15), and Senior Division (16 and 17).

Midget Division events are the 50-yard dash, broad jump, and softball throw.

Junior Division events are the broad jump, and softball throw. are the low hurdles, broad jump, softball throw, and 8-pound shot put.

Senior Division events are the 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, 50-yard low hurdles, broad jump, softball throw, and 8-pound shot put.

Medals will be awarded to the first three families in each event. Certificates will be awarded to all contestants.

Entry blanks are available from Miss Sue Taylor, A. A. U. Secretary, 507 Magee Building, Pittsburgh 22, Pa., or from Terry Murdock, Waynesburg Lions Club, 153½ East Greene street, Waynesburg.

Senator Gets Patent

A U. S. senator from Maine, who helped to improve the patent laws in 1836, received the first patent under the new system. That Senator John Ruggles was granted Patent No. 1 for his device "designed to give a multiplied tractive power to the locomotive and to prevent the evil of the sliding of the wheels."

Horse Plays Role Of Alert Fireman

NEWPORT, R. I.—Dogs which bark alarms to fires must now take a back seat to Henry Hudson, a horse which recently whinnied his owners to the scene of a fire.

Henry, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Marvelle, was grazing in the yard when he smelled smoke coming from an automobile parked in the garage.

Henry started to whinny. No response. He whinnied again and again.

Eventually Mrs. Marvelle and son "Robert" responded and doused the fire with a pail of water.

Faul Wins First Start

In his first major league start, Detroit Tiger rookie Bill Faul pitched a 3-hitter against Washington, winning, 5-1.

Man On The Go!

If you think a traveling salesman gets around, you should try keeping up with Spencer J. Drayton. In his capacity as executive vice president of Thoroughbred Racing Associations and head of the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau, which he organized for TRA in 1946, Drayton criss-crosses the country a dozen times a year. In between, he must attend meetings of the TRA Board held in various parts of the country, and represent TRA at special meetings of other groups in racing such as the National Association of State Racing Commissioners, The Jockey Club, Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, etc. At one time or another during the year, he must visit each of the TRA's 47 member tracks. Nor are these mere courtesy calls. Keeping in close contact with the individual members, Drayton is able to bring their thinking on racing matters to the Board of Directors' meetings. He also likes to maintain close personal contact with the TRPB agents at each track. Logging in the neighborhood of 200,000 air miles annually, it is no wonder that a "trip" has no recreational appeal to Drayton; he would rather hike around a golf course or dig around his garden at home on the rare occasions when he has a day off.

Grand Circuit Racing At The Meadows

If somebody passed a law prohibiting the famed Pennsylvania sires, Adios (owned by Del Miller) and Tar Heel (standing at L. B. Sheppard's Hanover Shoe Farm) from allowing their offspring to race in the colt and filly pacing divisions of the Hanover-Hempt Stakes this coming Grand Circuit Week at The Meadows, it would certainly cut the quantity and quality of the fields considerably.

Witness the opening gun in the eight-events-in-six night battle Monday night... the 2-year-old filly pace. Race secretary Joe DeFrank received entries for 17 of the fastest in the country and over half—nine to be exact—were sired by these two greats.

The 90-year-old Grand Circuit comes to fledgling harness race track, The Meadows, as an important segment of its season. During the full week of stakes for two-and-three-year-old trotting and pacing colts and fillies over $150,000 will be waiting the eager winners.

M. Joseph Lynch, General Manager of the plant, expects 125 of the best young horses in the land to be on hand for the week accompanied by 20 or more of the leading money-winning drivers in the business.

National attention will be focused on the performances of the three-year-olds, particular in the trotting divisions, as the Hambletonian eligibles will be going against each other on Thursday and Friday nights. Almost equal interest will be shown as the same age pacers will compete on Wednesday and Saturday evening.

Meanwhile, back to Monday night's two divisions, nine in the first, eight in the second, with class evenly distributed and a handicapper's nightmare impending.

Drawing the pole position in the first division is Eaton Ridge Farm's Charlotte Adios, with Donnie Miller sulky-sitting for recently shaken-up Frank Ervin. This Adios filly has already won over $8,000, and might be co-favored. Starting next in number two is Shenna Hanover, trained and driven by Clarence Martin for Jack Baugh of Charlotte, N. C., placing in four of the last six starts.

In the second session of the same stake another Adios doll, Beauty Hanover, fifth at Liberty Bell in the Breeders Filly Stake, leaves from the rail under the drive of John Simpson, Sr., for Mrs. Charlotte N. Sheppard of Hanover, Pa. Rona Belle, owned by the Belle Acton Stables of New Rochelle, N. Y., with Billy Haughton guiding, goes next.

Other first division starters include Lillian Linder, driven by Dick Williams; Tanglewood Lou with Jimmy Arthur; Adios Berne, piloted by Stan Dancer; Sharp Heels, aimed by Billy Haughton; Please Repeat, Johnny Patterson up; and Mitzzy Hanover, driven by John Simpson, leaving in that order.

Second Stanza goes are Mike Minardo's Yankee Madam; Delvin Miller's Meadow Dimples; Bill McClellan's (Lock Haven, Pa.) Sylvia Dream; another Tar Heel filly, Sand Tart; the Armstrong Brothers' Armbro Elaine; and the Gray Brothers' Christmas leaving from the spot nearest the crowd. Christmas Time

Farm Loans

Borrowers repaid a total of $143,824 on loans made in previous fiscal years. Several farmers repaid their loans in full to the Farmers Home Administration this year and now obtain the credit they need through local lenders.

The remaining 42 per cent was loaned for real estate loans. These loans are made to construct new dwellings, repair existing dwellings and farm buildings, refinance certain debts, and provide funds for basic soil treatment.

Disabilities, too, have been reduced, especially in the field of mental illnesses, the report stressed.

The report, entitled "Does Medical Research Pay Off? In Lives? In Dollars?" cited the major disease killers of 1944 and their comparative death rates in 1961.

These include: Tuberculosis and maternal deaths, each of which has declined 86 percent during that period; influenza, with a decline of 93 percent; syphilis, 79 percent; and pneumonia, 71 percent during those same years.

Polio's death rate decline was placed at 90 percent, and hypertensive heart disease, 38 percent, from 1951 to 1961. Acute rheu-

Medicine Saves 2,500,000 Lives

WASHINGTON — More than 2 1/2 million Americans are alive today who otherwise would have been dead were it not for medical advances since 1944.

The lifesaving and life-extending results of disease conquests since that year are disclosed in a new publication of the National Health Education Committee, Inc., of New York.

The report compares disease death rates and population in this country between 1944 and 1961, the last year for which full statistics are available. The salvage total cited is 2,674,144.

That is the number of Americans who would have died had the 1944 death rate prevailed through 1961.

The committee is a foundation financed, 28-member group of leaders in the health fields dedicated to the dissemination of factual information on American health. Its chairman, Mrs. Albert D. Lasker, is also president of the Albert and Mary Lasker Foundation.

four days, constituting a unique training exercise for the Army and Air Force. The schedule would call for a jet transport departure every 30 to 40 minutes.

Arriving with field packs and small arms, troops of the U. S.-based division would pick up stocks of tanks, artillery, trucks and other heavy equipment already stored on the continent and begin maneuvers at once.

Strategists preparing the exercise are fearful, however, that some of their plans may be sidetracked by defense budget cuts recently voted by the House.

A vigorous effort is being made to get the Senate to restore most of the funds when it acts on the defense appropriations bill. The House cut 114 million dollars from Pentagon requests for operations and maintenance, the category that includes training exercises.

The ability to carry out such a huge troop deployment by jets results from the Kennedy Administration's decision to make heavy purchases of troop transport versions of the Boeing 707 commercial jetliner.

matte fever deaths declined 83 percent from 1944 to 1959, the multi-graphed report showed.

Other diseases in which important declines in death rates were effected include: Whooping cough, 100 percent; dysentery, 86 percent; acute nephritis, 62 percent; and the anemias, 31 percent, all between 1951 and 1961, and appendicitis, which declined 81 percent from 1944 to 1961.

Disabilities, too, have been reduced, especially in the field of mental illnesses, the report stressed.
