Waychoff Heads County Project 70

W. BERTRAM WAYCHOFF

Attorney W. Bertram Waychoff of Waynesburg has been appointed Greene County chairman of "Project 70", a state proposal to expend $70 million by 1970 for acquisition of land and water sites for recreation, business and industry.

The project includes the development of regional state parks, open space and local parks, fish and wildlife conservation, reservoir construction and further development of resorts and vacation areas.

Project would require the consent of Pennsylvania voters for the expenditure of $70 million in bond funds. Governor William Scranton has already endorsed the project.

The governor in a special letter to the projects sponsors said, "Project 70, as I have analyzed it, is one important means of giving proper direction to urban growth. It will preserve for the enjoyment of all much of the natural Pennsylvania land which we so highly value."

The project would develop a series of state aid local parks and provide new fish and wildlife projects.

Former Sheriff Dies Suddenly

Former Greene County sheriff Emil W. Fox, 62 years, died suddenly Sunday, September 22, 1963, in his home on East Lincoln street.

Mr. Fox was a son of John H. and Lucinda Ritter Fox, and was born March 21, 1901, at Core, W. Va. He spent his early life in the Mt. Morris community. For a time, Mr. Fox was associated with his three brothers in the Fox Motor Company on East High street, Waynesburg.

Mr. Fox served as a deputy sheriff under Walter Glennen from 1942 until 1954, when he was elected to his first term as sheriff. He was reelected in 1950 for another four-year term. At the time of his death, Mr. Fox was supervisor of Surplus Food for Greene County and was a Democratic committeeman.

Surviving are his wife, Ruth Dille Fox; two daughters, Lois Fox Leathers of Waynesburg, and Shirley, wife of James McDougal of Waynesburg; six grandchildren, Ben Keyes Leathers, Michael Fox Leathers, Gregory Clay Leathers, John Wayne McDougal, Cinda Sue McDougal and Peggy Jean McDougal; three sisters, Marie, widow of L. L. Long of Waynesburg; Leanna, wife of Floyd Haines of Mt. Morris, and Miss Erma Fox of Warren, Ohio, and three brothers, Raymond L. Fox of Mt. Morris, and Ollie J. Fox and Willis E. Fox, both of Waynesburg.

A sister, Mae, is deceased. Funeral services were held Wednesday conducted by Rev. W. H. Eagleson. Interment in Greene County Memorial Park.

VETS INVITE KENNEDY
WASHINGTON — President Kennedy received an invitation Tuesday to address the American Legion National Convention in Dallas, Texas, September 18 to 20 next year.

After a recent meeting with the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency, Greene County Commissioners have decided to apply for just improvement at the County Fairground and to let application for work on the jail at a later time.

The Commissioners were advised it is better to apply for one at a time.

It was pointed out that until the projects have been designed and planned, cost estimates—on which applications for construction funds must be based—would be at best rough approximations.

Indications are they will resubmit a new application for an advance to finance planning of the fairgrounds project and follow it up at a later date with an application for construction funds.

The planning advance, if granted, would be subject to repayment if and when the county carried the project through.

The cost of planning, however, would be included in the total construction grant, so that the county would be subject to repayment of half of the planning advance rather than the entire amount.

Picnic To Honor Lieut.-Governor At Fairgrounds

According to a release from E. Bryan Jacobs, chairman of the Greene County Republican Committee, Lieutenant-Governor Raymond P. Shafer will be in Waynesburg October 12, to dedicate the new fire hall of the the Waynesburg Volunteer Fire Company.

Festivities arranged jointly by the Greene County Republican Committee, the Young Republican Club, and the Greene County Council of Republican Women, include a parade, preceding the dedication of the new Fire Hall, and a picnic dinner at the Fairgrounds, beginning at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The picnic will be held in the exhibit hall of the fairgrounds, precluding the possibility of inclement weather interfering.

During the dinner Mr. Shafer will address the group informally outlining the accomplishments of the Scranton administration and a preview of the aims and objectives of the administration in the future.

While the dinner is free to everyone attending, a donation of five dollars is asked to defray the expenses incurred in having Mr. Shafer here for the dedication.

U. S. Issues Flu Warning

WASHINGTON — The Public Health Service said Friday that "high risk" groups of the population should get vaccinated now against influenza.

But it added that the 1963-64 winter season is not expected to produce widespread flu outbreaks such as were experienced last year.

The Health Service said influenza is particularly dangerous to persons suffering from chronic ailments, such as cardiovascular, pulmonary, kidney and metabolic disorders, and to pregnant women. Persons over 45, and particularly those over 65, should also be immunized.

Canadian Wheat Deal Shows How U. S. Export Policy Hurts Business

WASHINGTON — Arthur Kronk, in Saturday's edition of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, says, a very large and conspicuous ingredient was missing in the formula President Kennedy pronounced this week to businessmen in the export trade whereby they could benefit themselves and at the same time ease the growing danger to the stability of the nation's currency that is created by the continuing adverse balance between the dollars flowing out of and into the United States. This factor, which went unmentioned, is the official limitation on our surplus food sales to the Communist nations. But the announcement of Canada's half-billion dollar wheat transaction with the Soviet Union dramatically illuminated the cost and inconsistency of this official policy just before Kennedy urged the exporters to do what they are always trying to do anyhow—increase their business volume. The cost and inconsistency are inherent in the facts that, although official policy omits food from the list of strategic materials for a military

Municipal 'Garbage'

There is an old saying that "you can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink!" How true this is.

Our City Fathers can pass laws until judgment day but they cannot legislate what is in one's heart—neither can they change the feeling that has lain there, down deep—for nearly four decades.

We are talking about the garbage collection hassle and its resultant ramifications.

The contract was taken from Walter Bruce, who has served the municipality—householders and business establishments—for some 37 years, because he would charge the ever-suffering taxpayer twenty-five cents per month more than his competitive bidder.

Almost at the same time the City asked the Federal government—at a cost to the taxpayers of a 50 per cent premium—for funds to erect several tax-free housing units for low-income families and additional units for elderly and indigent couples.

The basic reason why Waynesburg is gradually dying of dry-rot is the mounting costs of government, both Municipal and County (forgetting for the moment, Federal), and the increasing number of properties becoming tax-free. Thus placing the extra burden on an ever-diminishing number of taxpayers.

If the authorities of the City of Waynesburg are really concerned in savings to the taxpayers, why not declare the Municipality's income-bearing property and pay taxes on it? Why not declare the income-bearing offices of the County Office Building and declare a tax assessment? (See P. L. 707, as amended August 14, 1959).

Why not make our educational institutions pay taxes on any number of pieces of property taken off the tax list, but are rented out to individuals who pay a handsome amount in monthly rentals?

If the Municipality is really concerned about saving the taxpayers—not twenty-five cents a month but thousands of dollars a year—why not correct these tax-evading evils?

Some smart guy once remarked: "Consistency, thou art a Jewel!"

General Edward Martin Dedicates 'Ray Hall' Dormitory Last Sunday

Following is the text of the address of General Edward Martin at the dedication of Ray Hall, Waynesburg College, on September 22. General Martin, Major General of the United States Army, retired, and former United States Senator of Pennsylvania, is an alumnus and long-time friend of the college.

Ray Hall is a new dormitory for men, which will house 60 persons, and is named in honor of the late Joseph W. Ray, class of 1874, and his son, Joseph W. Ray Jr., class of 1910, of Uniontown. Mr. Ray is now serving as president of the board of trustees.

General Martin said: President Rich, Chancellor Stewart, Joe Ray, and my fellow Americans:

It is a privilege to have a part in a program honoring stalwart Americans who have greatly helped to build this wonderful nation. It adds to that honor when we are dedicating a building which will strengthen a historical educational institution, which, for over a century, has taught the ideals of the real America.

This dormitory, which we dedicate today, honors a great pioneer family, and will be known as Ray Hall.

The Ray family record is most interesting. Joseph Warren Ray was a member of the Class of 1874. He was an able lawyer and one of the best known orators of Western Pennsylvania. He was elected in 1888 to Congress, where he had a distinguished record of service. He was elected Judge of Greene County in 1915 and was a most able and celebrated jurist.

The Honorable Joseph Warren Ray was made a member of the Board of Trustees in 1895; secretary of the Board from 1902 to 1916; president in 1927, until his death in September 1928.

Time with him was never too precious to give to his family, his country, his church and the college.

Five of his children attended this institution and three are graduates.

The Alumni News of Waynesburg College, November 1928, said: "Judge Ray died at 10 o'clock p. m., September 15, 1928. His funeral was one of the largest ever held in Waynesburg. Faculty, students and trustees attended in a body. It is with deep feeling that we dedicate this issue to this most highly honored son of Waynesburg College."

Joseph W. Ray, Jr., followed in his father's footsteps and graduated from this college in 1910.

As a young man in Waynesburg, he took part in all the things that develop a strong, straight-thinking American. He played football, took part in the development of the town for many years, and was a hard working member of historic Company K, 10th Pennsylvania Infantry. This community hated to lose this promising young man.

He received his law degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1913, and was admitted to the Pennsylvania Bar the same year. He began practice of his profession in Uniontown, where he soon became one of its leaders. There, he also took part in

State Bar Board Issues Statement On Modernizing State Constitution

In a message to President McTigue delivered to him as he was about to call to order a meeting of the Board of Governors of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, last Saturday morning, Governor Scranton said:

"The course of Pennsylvania, economically, socially and governmentally, depends on modernizing our State Constitution with a minimum of delay and a maximum of devotion to principle and tradition. As you know, I have shared the Pennsylvania Bar Association's hope for constitutional revision, regard-

State Police to Accept Benedicts For First Time

Between 80 and 100 men will be selected for Pennsylvania State Police training at Hershey, by competitive examinations on November 23, State Police Commissioner E. Wilson Purdy, has announced.

Mr. Purdy stated that for the first time membership in this fine force will be open to married men. College students and graduates will be given opportunity to continue or complete academic studies at a higher level.

Candidates selected for cadet training live at the Academy during the four-month period. Upon successful completion of training, cadets are promoted to the rank of trooper and assigned to a State Police installation. As troopers they earn approximately $3,400 annually including subsistence. Uniforms and equipment are provided without cost.

In addition to other benefits, State Police work a five-day week, and are entitled to three weeks' paid vacation and three weeks' sick leave annually. A liberal pension program is provided after 25 years of service or upon reaching 50 years of age.

Cadet training is open to Pennsylvania residents of at least one year who are high school graduates, between 21 and 30 years of age, married or unmarried, licensed drivers, and in top physical condition.

Physical standards require men to be between 5 feet 8 inches and 6 feet 4 inches in height, weigh between 150 and 200 pounds, with height and weight in proportion.

Application forms may be obtained from the local State Police Headquarters or by writing to the Commissioner, Pennsylvania State Police, Regimental Headquarters, Harrisburg.

The deadline for applications is November 9.

Royal Relative Enters Stanford

SAN FRANCISCO — Prince William of Gloucester, has arrived from London to enroll as a graduate student at Stanford University.

Prince William is Queen Elizabeth II's first cousin and seventh in line of succession to the British throne. He will be the first member of the royal family so close to the throne to study at an American university. His field of study is economics.

Republican State Chairman Craig Truax was the principal speaker at the seven-county meeting of the Republican Women's Council Tuesday in the Greene County Country Club. A capacity crowd filled the club's dining room.

Mr. Truax urged women "that the way to show everyone that the Republicans are coming back is to support and elect our party candidates at county level."

Mr. Truax praised the Scranton Administration, stating that unemployment was over 10 percent of the total working population when it took office and that in the period that the G. O. P. has been in Harrisburg the number has decreased to six per cent.

He stated that, "State and nationally, I feel that the party is better guided than it ever has been in the past and we must show the people of Pennsylvania that Republicans are not to take a back seat to anyone when it comes to politics."

Other speakers included Senator Zehnder H. Confair of Lycoming County, who reviewed the 1963 session of the General Assembly; Judge Harold L. Ervin, jurist on the Superior Court from Delaware County; Judge J. Colvin Wright, jurist from Bedford; and representative Lee Donaldson Jr., an attorney from Allegheny County.

Mrs. Dan McCoy is president of the Greene County Council, and Mrs. J. Russell Milliken is vice chairman of the county party. Mrs. McCoy is a candidate for county treasurer, and Mrs. Milliken for clerk of courts, at the November election.

Also present were, Mrs. Russell Dixon, national committee member, Mrs. Samuel Veitch, president of the state council; Mrs. Katherine S. Kier, regional activities chairman; Mrs. R. G. Pennell, secretary of the legislative advisory committee, and Mrs. R. M. Chandler, state treasurer.

Colonel Scott Dies In Enid, Oklahoma

Colonel Winfield Scott, a native of Greene County, died September 18, 1963, in Enid, Oklahoma. He had been ill a short time.

The early part of his life was spent in the Rogersville and Waynesburg area and he was one of a group of 26 Waynesburg College students who enlisted in the Pennsylvania Tenth Infantry to fight in the Philippine campaign during the Spanish-American War. This group included former U. S. Senator Edward Martin of Washington, who later became major general in command of the 28th Division, Pennsylvania National Guard.

Colonel Scott was a retired judge of Garfield County, Okla.

His first wife, Etta Smith of Rutan, and his second wife, Margaret Naylor of Pittsburgh, are both deceased.

Surviving are one son, John of New Philadelphia, Ohio; and three daughters, Vivian, Eleanor and Juanita, addresses unknown, and one brother, L. I. Scott of Pittsburgh. Other Greene County relatives include Mrs. Hart Church of Rogersville, who is an aunt; Frank Church, Mrs. Zura Thompson, Mrs. Gail Helphensine and Ivey Church.

One son, Wayne Scott, is believed to have died in the Bataan death march during World War Two.

Funeral services were held Sunday in Enid.

Doctor, Nurse Reverse Roles

ST. JOSEPH, Mo.—A doctor and a nurse were married here Friday.

But, in this case, the doctor is a woman and the nurse a man.

Max Burk, a nurse on the staff of the St. Joseph State Hospital as head of the training service, married Dr. Ingeborg A. Hellwig, a member of the medical staff here.

They are moving to Wilmington, Del.

Goals

Not so many years ago, a Swiss mountaineer died—a man who considered he had failed.

For years, he had been trying to scale one of the highest mountains of the Alps. Many times he came close to the top. But something always made him turn back—treacherous ice, stinging winds, or snow which made progress impossible.

At his death, he had not achieved one of his goals. But he had reached greater heights, and seen greater sights, than any other man in his village.

And the shaft the villagers erected over his

Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? —Psalms 24:3

grave carried three magnificent words, "He died climbing."

All men do not aim at the same goal. Not everyone can climb the same mountain.

But your church knows this to be true: in all men's hearts are good goals, worthwhile goals, that can best be attained through participation in church membership. The church bestows the spiritual assistance that all men need in their drive to the top.

With the help of God's strong hand, you will climb the heights together.

Convert Your Home To Flameless Electric Heating

New electric range with a built-in look has a terraced top so rear cooking units are on higher level than front. It has removable door, lift-up surface units for easy cleaning.

Perhaps you've wondered about installing electric heat in your home, but thought the change-over might be too difficult or costly. Actually, it's easier and less expensive than you may think. Practically any house—large or small, old or modern—can be converted to electric heating quickly and easily, without upsetting normal family living.

Some types of flameless electric heating cost less and are easier to install than conventional heating systems. Proper insulation, storm doors and windows, which are so essential to any good heating system, go hand in hand with electric heating and pay off in added comfort, both in winter and in summer.

With flameless electric heating, you have a choice of many systems—not just one or two. Your heating dealer will help you select the one, or combination of methods, that's best for your home and family. He will also give you accurate cost figures for converting to electric heat.

Most folks who have electric heating rate comfort as the most important advantage. Drafts and cold spots are completely eliminated; more even temperatures in all areas give sunshine comfort. Another advantage that particularly appeals to homemakers is cleanliness. With electric heating, there's nothing to create smoke, soot, or odors. It's safe because there are no flames or fumes.

Why put up with a heating system that's inadequate, inconvenient and inefficient when you can have flameless electric heating at surprisingly low cost? With West Penn Power's latest rate reduction that cuts electric house heating costs 22½ per cent, you can enjoy the comfort of clean, safe, electric home heating at a lower cost than ever before. Don't wait until you buy or build a home.

BUREAUCRAT INTERVIEWED

According to Mr. Joe Western of the Wall Street Journal, federal bureaucrats try to be helpful, but they don't know what to say in the absence of instruction. This results in talking rings around the question.

Based on actual notes, a recent interview between Mr. Western and a bureaucrat went something like this:

Q. Just what new goals do you think your division ought to work toward under the new setup?

A. It's far too early to tell the eventual size and scope of the government's role in this field. We are, naturally, operating within the guidelines set down by the Congress when the public need for federal action first became apparent.

Q. You mean you have no new plans; that you will continue as in the past?

A. Not exactly. You see, we are keeping the whole operation under continuous review with the aim of making desirable changes that will more efficiently utilize the management skills we have built up within the agency over the years.

Q. What would you say is the problem needing greatest attention currently?

A. You must realize that we cannot and have not neglected any phase of planning which in the national interest must embrace the whole spectrum of problem-solving methods to carry out our mission.

Q. If it's a bit too early to focus on policy changes, how about a few basic facts? For a starter, how many employees are now assigned to work in your agency?

A. We are in the midst of a complete restudy of our manpower needs, which in terms of man-years are not yet clear. We would hope that our studies will, within a very few weeks, give us some hard answers on this.

Q. I understand you have a staggering backlog of casework. How many people do you have available now to operate your programs?

A. Yes, we do have a big caseload. But through our staff-planning research and policy review procedures we feel we will be able to prevent bottlenecks from developing.

Q. Well, then, how many employees should you have?

A. Most of our people are stationed far from Washington in county offices in the field; and of course, states contribute, according to various formulas provided by law and regulations in helping maintain adequate supervision of ongoing projects.

Q. The budget estimates sent to Congress by the President for this agency show you, or somebody, intended to add 175 employees in the coming fiscal year. What comparable employment figures would these be in addition to? And what will these extra people be doing primarily?

A. We are in the process of setting up a task force to determine this very important matter. We would hope that in two or three months, if no hitches develop, that a survey of all available data can be completed so that some preliminary decisions can be made on just how to start planning to utilize these additional staff positions.

Q. After the task force makes its report what is the next step? Do you think new legislation might be needed to help you do the work?

A. We would expect—not for quote, please, that an inter-agency committee would review the findings, working in close cooperation with this office and coordinating its study with those going forward in related agencies throughout the Federal Government. Hopefully, this committee would then prepare a preliminary set of recommendations affecting our future actions.

Q. This would be aimed at recruiting the experts you want?

A. If budgetary considerations do not present now-unforeseen obstacles, the preliminary recommendations will be reviewed and hardened into action policies. They would be aggressively put into effect once the appropriate Executive orders from the White House were issued and detailed regulations implementing them are written, published and circulated among our people and interested members of the public.

Q. If all this happens, how many people do you think you'll end up with in the agency?

A. It's far too early to tell just yet.

GROWING GOVERNMENT

The government of the United States is growing by leaps and bounds. This growth has been so spectacular that comprehension of its size is difficult.

Here are some examples of the size of our government (remember, we, the taxpayers, are footing the bill):

Federal aid to states, localities and individuals in 1930 was less than 150 million dollars. Now it is approximately 10 billion dollars a year.

In 1920, the government owned five per cent of the electric power generated in the United States; today, 25 per cent.

One out of every six employed Americans is on a government—national, state or local—payroll.

The shipping industry is heavily subsidized by the government.

Through Tennessee Valley Authority and other government projects, whole areas are in a real sense dependent upon the government.

The federal debt when Franklin Delano Roosevelt took office was 22 billion 500 million dollars. Now it stands at 305 billion dollars. This is the debt. However, the national obligation is one trillion, two hundred and fifty billion dollars. This is an obligation of $5,000 for every man, woman and child in this country.

The government can grow bigger, and enter many areas it shouldn't. But it cannot legislate self-reliance, strength of character and nobility of purpose. In all the history of nations, it has been proved that government grows of itself until checked by the people who allow that government to exist.

Government is not freedom; it is the means by which freedom is allowed or disallowed.

Faced with the dangers of big government, welfare statism and the erosion of our freedoms, we must reverse the trend toward government encroachment on individual rights.

Our leaders must be told that the citizens can depend upon himself and that he wants the opportunity to achieve.

We must elect leaders who will call a halt to welfare give-aways and who will call upon the people to make sacrifices in the name of freedom—not in the name of unchecked government growth.

AN UNQUALIFIED 'YES'

There are few of us who can answer with an unqualified "yes" to the question: "Am I doing my very best in understanding and explaining freedom?"

Most Americans will admit their efforts are somewhat minimal regarding this most important patriotic goal.

On the other hand, there are those who are aware of the danger to freedom. These patriots must give unremitting attention to the problem of what can be done to awaken those who are unaware, and must understand that many good Americans have no particular thought about their freedom. They are continuing to take it for granted.

The first task is to cause these dormant patriots to think about freedom. Cajolery or scolding will not help. Instead, a spirit of inquiry should be awakened.

Millions of Americans are unconsciously waiting for their minds to be stirred about their patriotic duties.

It is the patriot's duty to help others realize the importance of each individual in shaping his country's destiny. We have, at this time, more or less to say about our representation in Congress, but unless we are ever on the alert, it won't be long before we have regimentation for representation!

ROUTE OR ROUT?

Negotiations are being conducted between the United States and the USSR to establish direct air service between New York and Moscow.

Representative Craig Hosmer said there is little, if any, economic justification for such a route insofar as U. S. airlines are concerned.

In bringing the matter to the attention of the House of Representatives, Rep. Hosmer said he had received a letter on the subject from an unexpected source—an employee of the United Nations.

He published the correspondence in the September 3rd Congressional Record, deleting the name of the employee "for understandable reasons."

The UN employee said he is in contact with Russians in the United Nations who make it plain that the air route would be "extremely important" to them. They know that classified material would be much easier to move out of the United States.

In closing, the employee said successful negotiations on the matter would be a "tragedy" and would prove "disastrous for our country."

IT WAS LIKE MOWING YOUR LAWN 210 TIMES A YEAR

Suppose grass grew madly around here seven months a year. That's about 210 days. And suppose it grew so fast that you had to cut it every day. Well . . . a few weeks of that routine and you'd scream: "No mow, for me."

Such a daily grass cutting chore would put a huge dent in your leisure time. And yet less than a generation ago, most families in this area were using about that much time every day during the seven-month heating season—getting some warmth out of their old-fashioned furnace. You remember—shake it, bank it, load it, empty it . . . oops, it went out.

Natural gas changed all that. Today . . . gas heating provides your comfort automatically. It's the biggest convenience in your home. Really big.

And best of all . . . natural gas brings you this comfort and convenience at a cost much less than any other source of energy.

College Student Returns from Europe

Janet Kinick, a senior majoring in mathematics at Waynesburg College, has recently returned from Europe where she spent the summer after being awarded the Vira Heinz Scholarship this past spring.

Her first impression of Europeans in general was that they are much more relaxed and fun-loving than Americans. "The pursuit of material things does not seem quite so important to them," she remarked.

One of Miss Kinick's favorite countries was England. She said that the people there appeared to be quite prosperous and well educated, were friendly and helpful, and had a certain dignity about them. The weather was changeable, alternating between rain and sunshine several times a day, but Miss Kinick enjoyed this, feeling that this variety lent atmosphere to England.

In contrast, however, it was sunny Italy where people were carefree and gay. Life seemed to go on at an extraordinarily easy pace. To Miss Kinick's surprise, many of the people spoke "American" English fluently, practically eliminating language difficulties. One exception was Genoa, where the people do not come in contact with many tourists.

Miss Kinick was fortunate to arrive in Rome on the day the Pope was chosen. A group of American newspapermen had invited her to sit in their press box and while she was there, the white smoke curled out of the chimney announcing to the world that a new Pope was chosen.

During Miss Kinick's travels in France, she visited the Riviera, which she felt was probably the most beautiful place she had ever seen. During her stay, she studied at the University of Grenoble situated in the Alps. The French students were on summer vacation but there were roses, the bridesmaids carried crescent bouquets of red roses with centers of blue fuji mums. Miss Pamela Morlock and Miss Barbara Wilson were taper lighters.

Daniel Ripley served as master of ceremonies. Daniel L. Wysong was best man and ushers were William Thomas Donally, John Alfred Brothers, all of Huntington; James Akins of Richmond, Va.; James Gorrell of Hampton, Va.; D. Keith Baugher of Harrisonburg, Va.; and Doug Hubbell of Norfolk, Va.

The mother of the bride wore an orchid pink sheath with matching accessories and a cymbidium corsage. The groom's mother chose a beige shantung outfit with matching accessories and a cymbidium corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Guyan Country Club.

Mrs. Wilmlink graduated from Huntington High School and is a senior in vocational home economics at Marshall University. She has been historian and social chairman of Alpha Xi Delta social sorority, and is a member of Kappa Omicron Phi home economics honorary and the home Economics Club.

Mr. Wilmlink graduated from Huntington High School and is a chemical engineering senior at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, where he is active in several college organizations.

Those attending the wedding from Greene County were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Simmons, of East View; Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Simmons and children, Thomas and Joyce, of Sixth Street; Mrs. L. E. McClelland of North Morris street; Mrs. E. L. Hollibaugh of West High street; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Simmons and daughter, Carol Ann, of Waynesburg R. D. 1; and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Martin of Waynesburg, R. D. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Trip of Clairton, and Mrs. Eileen Cathers of Bethel Park, were also attendants from this vicinity.

German Township Defeated 28 to 6 By Carmichaels Mikes Friday Night

German Township eleven was defeated by the Mikes of Carmichaels Friday evening in Carmichaels 28 to 6.

Once again Boggio and Ellsworth did all the scoring as the Mikes completely outplayed the visitors. After three games, the Mikes have tallied 88 points and these two halfbacks are responsible for every point.

Carmichaels jumped off to a quick 14-0 lead at the end of the first quarter with Boggio and Ellsworth alternating the ball-carrying chores. The shifty Ellsworth capped the first drive with a two-yard plunge over left guard. Boggio added the first of his four points after touchdown.

After an exchange of punts, the Greene Countians began their second goalward march with Tom McCombs mixing up the plays beautifully. With the ball resting on the Uhlans' 36, Boggio scampered around left end for the score. The point after touchdown made it 14-0.

German scored the only touchdown in the second quarter after taking the opening kickoff on their own 20. Fullback Tom Kattaron capped the 80-yard drive with a 6-yard run up the middle.

The Mikes didn't play dead in the third quarter either as Fred Stuvek's squad controlled the plpgsql throughout the period. Again it was the running of Ellsworth and Boggio that paved the way.

Boggio added his second six-pointer of the evening on a one-yard drive into the endzone. Young Jim ran over his third extra-point of the night making the score 21-6.

Despite the fact that the Mikes' defense was rather erratic and guilty of many penalties, the Uhlans were not able to score in the second half.

The final touchdown of the evening came on Ellsworth's 21 yard gallop around his left end. Boggio's extra-point made the final score read 28-6.

'Red Raiders' Again Lose 20-6 To North Union

The powerful North Union Rams remained in contention for the Class A playoffs Friday evening with a convincing 20-6 victory over the Waynesburg Red Raiders.

The game was played before a huge throng at College Field but the visiting Rams provided the fans with most of the thrills.

The first part of the initial period was played around the mid-field stripe with each team running a series of plays. With a fourth down situation and the ball resting on their own 40-yard line, the visitors were forced to punt.

Raider halfback Rick Husk fumbled the pigskin and North Union's Tom Landman picked up the elusive ball on the 22 and scampered untouched into the endzone. The kick was wide and the score remained 6-0.

After an exchange of punts, the Fayette Countians had the ball on their own 35. Quarterback Don Paull handed off to halfback Gene Painley, who ran a few yards and then heaved a long pass downfield to quarterback Paull.

The lanky signal-caller caught the ball on the Raiders 35 and ran to the Waynesburg four-yard line before he was forced out of bounds. Two plays later, Gerald Waltz crashed over from the two.

Neither team scored in the third quarter but the Rams added their third touchdown early in the last quarter on a one-foot plunge by Ken Chenger. The point was good and the score was 20-0.

Waynesburg's Bill Phillips set up the locals' touchdown when he recovered a fumble on the Raiders' 40-yard line. After being penalized back to the 25, Bob Teagarden threw a long pass to Jeff Criss, who carried the ball to the Rams' 35.

After several fine runs by Kenny Clark, the Raiders scored on a 15-yard jaunt by fullback Wendell Butcher. Ray Stockdale's kick was wide and the final score was 20-6.

Clark and Husk made several nice runs throughout the evening, but the bigger visitors were too much to handle.

Avella Outplays Mapletown Hi Friday Night

Mapletown suffered their third straight loss of the season Friday night as they bowed to a strong Avella entry, 26-6.

Neither team could break into the scoring column in the first period although Avella controlled the ball for the majority of the quarter.

However, early in the second quarter, the Washington Countians began their first scoring march from their own 20-yard line. George DePaoli capped the drive with a one-yard burst up the middle.

Several moments later, Avella's Tom Suzarelli intercepted Andy Przychock's pass on the Mapletown 30. Four plays later, DePaoli tallied his second six-pointer of the game on a 7-yard run off left tackle making the score 12-0.

The winless Maples began their scoring march after running the second-half kickoff back to their own 35-yard line. Avella was then penalized 15 yards three different times, moving the ball deep into Avella's territory.

Mapletown's leading scorer, Ron Brumley, scored his third touchdown of the season on a one-yard plunge. Art Jones' kick was wide and the score remained 12-6.

However, it was all Avella in the fourth quarter as the visitors recorded two more six-pointers. Mike Dana bulled his way over for the first tally and Roger Campbell added the extra-point.

The final touchdown of the evening came on a 10-yard pass from quarterback Sam Pittman to reserve end Oscar Aertesz. Pittman scored the point after touchdown, making the final score 26-6.

Waynesburg College Yellow Jackets Bests Geneva In Season's Opener

BEAVER FALLS — The new coaching regime at Waynesburg College got off to a flying start here Saturday night with a 12-6 win over Geneva College.

Coach Mike (Moe) Scarry indicated Sunday he was "happy" to win his first game as a coach at Waynesburg, where he played as an undergraduate in the early 1940s.

Assisting Scarry are new line coach Clay Ketterling and backfield mentor Bill Hardisty.

Yellow Jacket touchdowns were scored by senior halfback Wayne Fullerton and freshman fullback Tim McNeil. Freshman halfback John Raddish tallied the lone Geneva TD.

The initial Orange and Black tally came in the first period after the Jackets had moved to the midfield stripe only to surrender the ball on downs.

Two plays later, quarterback Harry Theofilides intercepted a Covie pass on the Geneva 35-yard line to set up the Jacket touchdown.

On the second play from scrimmage, Theofilides and Fullerton teamed up for a 52-yard pass and run play and the first Jacket marker.

Both teams threatened in the second quarter.

The Jackets moved the ball to the Covies' five yard line only to lose it on downs. Late in the quarter Theofilides broke up a Geneva scoring threat with his interception of a pass on the goal line.

The Orange and Black scored first in the third quarter when McNeil moved across the goal line from the one-yard line.

The drive started when freshman end Jerry Phillips snagged the second kickoff on the goal line and ran it through the Geneva line 11 plays later.

Geneva tallied late in the third quarter as halfback John Raddish went into the end zone from the three.

Raddish had taken the punt on the goal line and carried it to the Covies' 37-yard marker before being stopped.

Both teams failed to threaten seriously in the final quarter. Geneva moved closest to the goal line only to have Jacket's Theofilides break up a pass on the Waynesburg 11-yard line.

Waynesburg's Fullerton was the biggest ground gainer of the game with his 5.8 yards per carry. McNeil and Larry Phillips were close behind with 4.2 and 4.8, respectively.

Statistics favored the Jackets teamwise. They moved the ball 174-109.5 yards by rushing, 133-125 by passing, for a total of 307-234.5 yards and 15 to 10 first downs.

Theofilides completed 61 percent of his passes as compared with Geneva's Larry Matrazzo's 43 percent.

Theofilides also intercepted twice.

None of the Waynesburg passes were caught by Geneva.

Television Staff To Be Honored At Waterford Park

One of the more important dates at Waterford Park during September is Television Station WTRF Day on Wednesday, September 25. The entire staff, their wives, husbands and friends will be in attendance for the day's festivities, and every race on the card is being named for a show on the station.

The feature race, an allowance affair, will be named the WTRF-TV Purse and is for four-year-olds and upward going one mile on the main course. Mr. James Knight, promotion director for Channel 7, has arranged for a handsome monogrammed blanket that will be presented to the owner of the winning horse in the feature race.

Upwards of 100 members of the staff and their guests will be on hand to witness the presentation ceremonies in the winners' circle immediately following the running of the WTRF-TV Purse.

British Getting New 'Cup' Yacht

LONDON — A new 12-meter yacht for the right to represent Britain in the America's Cup challenge next September, the Royal Thames Yacht Club has announced.

It said the new yacht would sail against recently commissioned "Sovereign" in an elimination series to decide the challenger. The trials will be held in British and American waters.

The new yacht will be named "Kurrewa V" and is now under construction at Sandsbank, on the Clyde in Scotland.

It was designed by David Boyd, who designed "Sovereign" and the previous British challenger, "Sceptre."

Frank and John Livingston, two Australian brothers well known in international yachting circles, are having the craft built. They will lend it to Owen Aisher of the Royal Thames Yacht Club, who will race it with his own sails and other gear.

IS THIS PROGRESS?

WICHITA, Kansas—The wheels of justice appear to be slowing down at Wichita. A recent spot check of civil jury cases pending in county courts shows that an average of 22 months elapses from the time suits filed until they come to trial. In 1959 the average time was 15.6 months.

Your Health

Pennsylvania Medical Society

The physician looked into the patient's eye and the patient's eye looked right back at him—and told him things.

Eye examination is a quick and valuable method of determining the general condition of a person's arterial system.

Nowhere else in the body are blood vessels and changes in the vascular system seen to better advantage than in the eye.

Observation of the blood vessels in the retina of the eye furnish information said to be better than any offered by other physical or laboratory data.

Such examination of the eye is done with an ophthalmoscope.

An ophthalmoscope is a perforated mirror designed to throw light into the interior of the eye and allow some of the light returning from the patient's eye to enter the eye of the doctor.

This instrument makes it possible for physicians to study the inner surface of a patient's eye and note changes in the optic nerve and the blood vessels within the eye.

Not only are the earliest signs of hardening of the arteries detectable by ophthalmoscopy, retinal changes also can be observed that indicate high blood pressure, diabetes, brain tumor and tuberculosis meningitis.

The ancient Greek, Arabian and Roman surgeons operated on cataracts of the eye, and it was only about 100 years ago the ophthalmoscope was devised.

Hermann von Helmholtz, at the age of 26, designed the ophthalmoscope.

Many physicians use this instrument routinely in examinations.

Volunteer Stumbles Over Project Detail

SPRINGFIELD Mo. — After paving a parking lot for a new apartment building, owner Bob Withers decided he would be doing everyone a favor if he used the excess asphalt to pave an access alley owned by the city. The volunteer project cost him $500.

City officials were unimpressed. Because Mr. Withers' paving didn't meet all specifications for city streets, the apartment owner was ordered to tear up his asphalt and restore the alley to dirt and gravel.

many activities, and soon became a prominent citizen who was frequently called upon for leadership. He has been a member of the Board of Trustees of Waynesburg College since June, 1931, and president of the Board since 1960.

He received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Waynesburg College at the fall convocation, October 27, 1958.

The Rays have been outstanding lawyers and have unstintingly used their talents for the good of the county, state and nation. No family has been more loyal to Waynesburg College than the Ray family.

We are not only today honoring a great Western Pennsylvania name, but we should be proud that this building is being erected without one cent in aid from government sources. It has been done on the plan followed by our fathers.

Waynesburg College has gone through many difficult periods, but faith in American ideals, has given victory to an institution which has been felt in all parts of the world.

On an occasion like this, let us for a moment consider the foundation stones of this nation, on which this institution is built.

The beginning is a thrilling story of men and women of deep religious conviction, from many countries of the old world, wanting freedom and opportunity more than life itself, leaving their homes, landing in an uncharted wilderness in order that they might establish a society where the people would rule. Always remember there was no government or foundation to guarantee housing, defense or food.

There were three fundamental principles in the minds of those early settlers.

First, they believed in God and served God.

Second, they believed in work and lived with the injunction, "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread."

Third, they believed in and loved liberty and were willing to give their lives for it.

The three fundamental principles underlying our founding fathers' way of life—serving God, work and freedom—have turned an uncharted continent into the greatest field of industry, agriculture, mining and transportation in the world.

Our products pace the globe. Our cultural and spiritual attainments are equally impressive.

We have more churches and colleges than any other country of the world.

Our missionaries are found on every continent spreading the teachings of Christ.

These great accomplishments—material, cultural and spiritual—are the result of a flood of human energy which was released because the individual was able to choose his action and compete and receive the award of the sweat and work of his brain and muscle.

These accomplishments should make all of us proud that we are Americans.

We must retain the "faith of our fathers."

This great industrial "know how" from the American plan of free enterprise has given more people more of the good things of life than has ever been enjoyed by any civilization. Our great corporations, powerful endowments and public spirited individuals have given us so many things which we frequently forget to appreciate.

As an example, in our Commonwealth just a few days ago, when a mine disaster occurred and three men were trapped, more than 300 feet below the earth's surface, state and United States government efforts, mine workers and corporations started to render aid. Expenses were not considered. Corporations from long distances, one from Texas, sent men with engineering knowledge and equipment to aid in the rescue. Equipment valued at thousands of dollars and cost in maintaining the same was not given any consideration. Nobody talked about cost or hours of service. It was carrying out the old American idea of helping each other.

Waynesburg College is based on this ideal. Every generation has given dedicated men and women who have served the institution.

I will only name some of those when I came to this college: Miller, Scott, Rhinehart, Waychoff, Acklin, Stewart, Ray, Evans, Walton, and so many more stand out in their faith in the college. They have not only contributed abundantly to the college, but the men and women produced by the institution by their deeds have aided in laying the foundation upon which the glorious history of our country has been built.

Among the great names, nor stand higher than Joseph Warren Ray and his son, Joseph W. Ray, Jr.

Local Geologist In Peace Corps

A Waynesburg College graduate is one of ten Peace Corps Volunteers who arrived in Ghana in May to spend two years in the rain forest as geologists on the Ghana Geological Survey. He is William Luxner, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Luxner of Carmichaels. Mr. Luxner received his B. S. in Geology in 1962.

The geologists are investigating beryl and spodumene-bearing pegmatites, lateritic bauxite deposits, the presence of nickel in ultrabasic rocks, and the distribution of diamonds and columbite in alluvial gravels. They are living in villages or in tents in the jungle.

Geological techniques used in tropical Ghana are a combination of the traditional and the modern. Each geologist works as head of a crew of 30-40 men who cut trails through the jungle, dig pits where the lateritic soils are deep and outcrops scarce, and sample stream beds and gravels.

When a greatly expanded mineral exploration program resulted in a parallel shortage of geologists, the government of Ghana requested the Peace Corps to supply volunteer geologists to fill the gap during training of Ghanaian geologists.

Before arriving in Ghana early in May, Mr. Luxner trained for 10 weeks at the University of Oklahoma and at the Experiment in International Living, Putney, Vermont.

U. S. Accused By Cuban Groups

HAVANA — Two Cuban legal groups have accused the United States Government of instigating and organizing counterrevolutionary activities by Cuban exiles.

The Cuban Association of Democratic Jurists and the Havana College of Lawyers said the alleged American activity was part of its "eagerness to subvert the socialist regime in Cuba."

A joint declaration issued here said an air raid on the town of Santa Clara early this month was "part of a series which they (the Americans) are carrying out against our country almost daily."

State Bar Board Issues Statement On Amendments

damental law will offer a valuable guide to all delegates. In fact, your recommendations in Project Constitution will, in my opinion, stand a much better chance of enactment in a constitutional convention than as a package of proposed amendments. Through a convention, much or most of Project Constitution could be incorporated into fundamental law. I hope that you, in your meeting today, will endorse a favorable vote on the referendum for a constitutional convention."

As Governor Scranton knows, in March, 1963, the Pennsylvania Bar Association invited all of its members to participate in a referendum regarding constitutional revision and the method of achieving it.

The association submitted to its members 12 proposed amendments to the Constitution which, if proposed by two successive Legislatures and approved by the voters, would provide the State with a new Constitution. This plan came to be known as the article-by-article method of revision.

The members of the Association who participated in the referendum voted almost unanimously (2250 to 112) in favor of constitutional revision; but there was a substantial difference of opinion as to the method which should be employed, as 1,614 members voted that they preferred to have the Legislature propose the amendments (the article-by-article method), and 713 members voted that they preferred a constitutional convention.

When the referendum vote was taken our members did not have the benefit of Governor Scranton's opinion as to our proposals contained in "Project Constitution", or of his belief that "much or most of 'Project Constitution' could be incorporated into fundamental law" through the convention method.

We are sure that every member of our Association who favors constitutional revision agrees with Governor Scranton that the important thing is the result, not the method by which it is achieved.

Canadian Wheat Deal Shows How U. S. Export Policy Hurts Business

bulldip, the same policy bans such United States transactions as the Canadian.

Yet they could help far more to reverse the adverse balance of payments than any gains (the President's figure was 10 per cent) in receipts from exports that private American businessmen could possibly attain at the prevailing high-cost production schedules in this country. On Sept. 6 of this year the total value of surplus foodstuffs owned by the government was officially estimated as $3,883,127,000. When to this sum are added the costs of storage and the dollar loss in deterioration, a couple of billions more can be added to the estimated price-tag of this contradictory policy.

In a speech to the Senate, for which the Canadian wheat transaction with the U. S. S. R. provided a perfect occasion, Senator Humphrey of Minnesota put this policy in its illogical and expensive perspective. Noting that "wheat and other grains are moving in tremendous quantities from the West to the East," but that "we despite our tremendous productive capacity and our big reserves... are being bypassed," he added this penetrating comment:

"The reason we are being bypassed is our export policy—a policy that is antiquated, a policy that is not in the best interests of the country. A policy which if pursued will deny us an opportunity to use our productive capacity either for the good of anybody else... It must be changed if we are to share properly in world markets."

In urging that both Congress and the Executive re-examine an official United States restraint on food sales to the Communist bloc which, nevertheless, imposes no objection to Canada's acceptance of the Soviet condition in the half billion dollar purchase that the worth of $33 millions of wheat and flour be delivered to Cuba "because they are food-stuffs," Humphrey made plain he was not talking about barter transactions. "The Soviet Union and its satellites," he stressed, "are willing to pay... with hard currency at a time when we have a shortage in our gold reserves... a deficit in our balance of payments... and when severe economic problems face our wheat farmers in the coming year."

Next day, with his characteristic tenacity, Humphrey laid before the President this case, which is so much closer to the root of the problem than Kennedy reached in his remarks to the exporters. But, though the same arguments—especially the Administration's negative reaction to Cuba's share in the Canadian purchase "because only food-stuffs were involved"—apply to the sales of wheat and flour to Communist China, Humphrey specified the U. S. S. R. and its "satellites."

However, Senator Pell of Rhode Island, from whom bold, constructive and fresh ideas frequently issue, expressed the opinion today that—so long as the sales are of wheat and other grains, and for hard currency—a sound and logical new policy would include Communist China, too.

But some Republicans and Democrats were denouncing Canada's sale. Which merely demonstrated anew how deeply embedded isms and ideologies become in policy, though the policy may be as two-faced and obsolete, and as contributory to a prime economic weakness, as this one.

Two Events Scheduled For State Longrifle Shoot and Harvest Days

Banging away with old flintlock rifles, weaving and spinning on old looms and wheels, and pulling reins of six horses hitched to a century-old Conestoga Wagon are colorful new ways to enjoy Pennsylvania history.

These activities, and dozens more like them, are going on at historic properties all over the Commonwealth. The performances are designed for the enjoyment and education of both volunteer participants and spectators.

Two upcoming week end events which show promise of exceptional note are a Longrifle match, Saturday, September 28, between Pennsylvania and Kentucky, at the birthplace of Daniel Boone, located near Reading, and the annual fall Harvest Days, Saturday and Sunday, October 5-6, at the Pennsylvania Farm Museum of Landis Valley, Lancaster.

The flintlock rifle match will reproduce a typical rifle contest of Pennsylvania's frontier days—for real. Teams from both states will be in earnest competition to see which can best handle the famous frontier firearm. Governor Scranton plans to load and fire off a few rounds between match segments.

More than 15 oldtime fall harvest demonstrations will take place at the Harvest Days event. The range runs from apple butter boiling over an outdoor fire to cutting straw for mattresses.

A true Pennsylvania Dutchman, Elmer Lapp of Knizer, will be at both events on Saturdays to show his skill at handling a six-horse team and a Conestoga Wagon. Lucky youngsters will have an opportunity for a free ride.

Admission for either event is 50 cents. The money goes to a special Historical Preservation Fund administered for the state by the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission. No charge is made for children 12 years of age or under.

The direct sponsors of both events are volunteer citizens who have joined organizations chartered to aid in development of the properties. Their purpose is to recreate Pennsylvania's rich history with real life demonstrations.

For many of the volunteers, the direct participation has led to a serious and rewarding study of history.

Similar associate groups also are busy at other state-owned properties, among them Ephrata Cloister at Ephrata, and Old Economy at Ambidge, where dramatic pageants dealing with the historical characters of the places have been written and produced.

The activities supplement regular guided tours at the properties.

Surgeons' Skills Hailed by Pope

VATICAN CITY—Pope Paul VI told a group of surgeons Friday they are mankind's benefactors as long as they use their medical skills "in conformity with the lofty and compelling moral law."

The Pontiff received 2,000 surgeons who had been meeting in Rome at a Congress of the International Society of Surgery.
