Waynesburg Council Receives 3 Proposals For Cable TV System

By ROBIN ROBERTS
Staff Writer
WAYNESBURG — Waynesburg Borough Council Monday night received bid proposals from three different firms for the operation of a cable television system within the borough.

Proposals were received from Tele-Media Corp. of Bellefonte; Commonwealth Cable Co. of High Street, Waynesburg; and Central Video Cable Television, also of High Street, Waynesburg.

Tele-Media is the company which is purchasing the Kleer Kable Co. which has had the cable service in Waynesburg and surrounding areas of Franklin Township and in the Mt. Morris and Perry Township areas for several years.

None of the proposals was read during the meeting. They were forwarded to the public utilities committee of council for consideration.

A group of five citizens, Bob Thomas, P.J. McAndrew, Bob Through, Mike Mulholland and Faye Clayton, was assigned to assist the committee in reviewing the proposals and returning to council with a recommendation.

Council authorized the purchase of a Smith and Wesson breathalyzer for use by the borough police department. The machine, used to determine a person's degree of intoxication, was purchased for $2,774.00 from the Markl Supply Co. of Sharpsburg with funds made available through the borough's third-year highway safety funds.

Thomas C. Brown of North Maiden Street, Ward III, was named as a new councilman from East Waynesburg. He fills a vacancy created by the resignation of Kenneth Broad.

Council granted permission for the construction of a 60 by 100 foot blacktop basketball court at the Central Playground. Rich Relich, basketball coach at Waynesburg Central High School, had approached council concerning the construction of the court. At Monday's meeting, he said he would take an active part in raising funds for the construction of the basketball court. Estimated cost of construction is between $3,500 and $4,000.

Relich stressed that — after checking with members of the Waynesburg Borough Recreation Board — it had been determined that the court may be constructed without taking away from available "open space" play areas. Relich's efforts will be coordinated through the Recreation Board.

Council received a petition from Waynesburg College requesting that approximately 90 feet of Fruit Alley, in the vicinity of College Gym, be abandoned. Council approved the request, pending approval of its solicitor.

Council also decided not to retain the services of patrolman Sam Watson after he completes his year's probationary period Aug. 27. Watson has served a year's probation with the force.

Stolen Items Recovered

Waynesburg Borough Detective Dave Clark displays the many stolen items recovered when police raided an apartment on West High Street Monday afternoon. The items, all stolen from local homes in the past few weeks, included plants, containers, furniture and glassware. Also recovered were marijuana plants and a pipe with marijuana residue. Charges will be filed at a later date when arrest warrants are issued.

Franklin Twp. Supervisors Reject Arts Program Offer

By JIM MOORE
Staff Writer

WAYNESBURG — The Franklin Township Supervisors, meeting for the first time in their recently purchased municipal building, Monday night rejected an offer for a matching grant to support local, non-profit arts organizations and tabled again a request for a room to house the toy-lending library.

The Pennsylvania Council on the Arts has offered a program of grants up to a maximum of $5,000 to assist municipalities in supporting local groups. However, the offer was rejected by the supervisors.

Pam Marcavitch, representing the toy-lending library, again approached the supervisors seeking a basement room in the municipal building. The library would be open for only a few hours each week and the organization would pay the necessary insurance coverage.

However, the supervisors said they are still considering other requests for space in the building, including a senior

Two Water Authorities Receive State Grants

WAYNESBURG — Two Greene County water authorities have received state Community Facilities grants of $50,000 each to assist them with the cost of proposed improvements to their systems.

State Senator Barry Stout and Rep. H. William DeWeese announced Wednesday that the grants will go to the Carmichaels Municipal Authority and the Southwestern Pennsylvania Water Authority. Both are contingent on construction beginning on or before April 1, 1981.

The Carmichaels project involves the installation of an additional 300,000 gallon storage tank at a point just off the Brown's Ferry Road, between the water plant on the river and the distribution system for Carmichaels and Cumberland Township. It would supplement the existing two 325,000 gallon storage tanks.

Estimated cost of the project is close to $329,000. A member of the authority said applications have also been filed for federal grants to reduce the authority cost, and until they are approved work cannot begin. They include applications to the Farmers Home Administration for two grants, one of $33,535 and $122,688, and for a loan of $122,688, which would constitute the authority's share of the cost.

The grant to the Southwestern Pennsylvania Water Authority, with headquarters at Jefferson, will be applied to the cost of installing a new pump at the authority's plant at Ronco. Ben Parker, chairman of the authority, said work will begin next week, with the total cost estimated at $200,000.

The project involves the installation of a new 2,800 gallons-per-minute high pressure pump and other improvements at the plant which will increase its capacity by about a million gallons of water per day. Two existing pumps will be used to supplement the new pump, with Parker stating that the result will be a more economical and efficient operation.

"This will give us the capacity to expand our water service areas in Greene County, and at the same time will improve service to existing customers," he said.

Chemical control is seldom necessary. However, to protect highly valuable ornamentals, spray the foliage from mid-May to early June. Consult the service forester in Waynesburg or the county agent for recommended insecticides.

What's happening to the locust trees? This question has been asked on numerous occasions during the past month. Maybe you noticed the many locust trees that have turned brown in the eastern parts of Greene County and in Washington and Fayette Counties. Some areas are so badly affected that it looks as though they've been swept by fire.

Now some people refer to this condition as a blight. Actually, the browning of the leaves is caused by an insect called the locust leaf miner, a serious pest of the black locust tree.

As with most insects, part of leaf miner's life cycle is spent as a larva, or caterpillar. The larvae are very small and during May and June feed (or mine) between the two layers of the leaves. This feeding results in dead brown areas, many times including the entire leaf.

The adult phase of the insect is a small brown and black beetle which can be seen in very early spring as the new leaves are emerging; or during winter in bark crevices or under debris on the ground.

Although the insect frequently causes severe "browning off" of black locust by mid-summer, the trees do not seem to suffer permanent damage unless defoliation continues for three or more years in a row; or unless the defoliation occurs during poor growing seasons.

Here in western Pennsylvania, we've had excellent growing conditions during the recent wet summers, so the trees have thus far been able to recover.

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following article was prepared for publication in the Observer-Reporter by William C. Wentzel, Service Forester for Greene County with the Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry.

What's happening to the locust trees?

This question has been asked on numerous occasions during the past month. Maybe you noticed the many locust trees that have turned brown in the eastern parts of Greene County and in Washington and Fayette Counties. Some areas are so badly affected that it looks as though they've been swept by fire.

Now some people refer to this condition as a blight. Actually, the browning of the leaves is caused by an insect called the locust leaf miner, a serious pest of the black locust tree.

As with most insects, part of leaf miner's life cycle is spent as a larva, or caterpillar. The larvae are very small and during May and June feed (or mine) between the two layers of the leaves. This feeding results in dead brown areas, many times including the entire leaf.

The adult phase of the insect is a small brown and black beetle which can be seen in very early spring as the new leaves are emerging; or during winter in bark crevices or under debris on the ground.

Although the insect frequently causes severe "browning off" of black locust by mid-summer, the trees do not seem to suffer permanent damage unless defoliation continues for three or more years in a row; or unless the defoliation occurs during poor growing seasons.

Here in western Pennsylvania, we've had excellent growing conditions during the recent wet summers, so the trees have thus far been able to recover.

Presently, the locust leaf miners are very numerous and at a high point in their natural cycle of occurrence. However, their numbers should decrease in the years ahead as natural forces — weather, biological enemies and disease — work to keep the insect in balance.

Chemical control is seldom necessary. However, to protect highly valuable ornamentals, spray the foliage from mid-May to early June. Consult the service forester in Waynesburg or the county agent for recommended insecticides.

Board Settles Payment

A contested bill from the architectural firm for the district's new central elementary school was approved for payment and a teacher was hired during a special meeting of the Jefferson-Morgan School Board Friday morning.

The board approved payment of a $2,500 bill from the firm of L. Robert Kimball and Associates of Ebensburg, architects for the district $4.2 million central elementary school, which will open at the beginning of this school year.

Payment of the bill had been withheld because some board members were dissatisfied with items concerning the firm.

In the only other action, the board hired Mary Ann Bury of LaBelle as a teacher. She is certified in both French and Spanish and will also teach some English under an emergency certificate. She is a graduate of California State College and has some substitute teaching experience. Her starting salary was set at $9,935.

First day of classes for the 1980-81 school year in the Jefferson-Morgan District will be Tuesday, Aug. 26. An in-service day for teachers will be held on Monday, Aug. 25.

The fire, which was contained to a wall in a basement bedroom, caused little damage and no injuries were reported.

Subdivision Ordinance Revised By Planners

WAYNESBURG — A proposed subdivision and land development ordinance was presented to the Greene County Commissioners Friday by county planner Valerie Cole.

The ordinance, together with three supplemental ordinances, has been prepared to supersede the 1973 subdivision and land development regulations which, Mrs. Cole said, have become outdated.

They were prepared by the planning commission with the assistance of Candeb, Fleissig and Associates, a consulting firm. The project was paid for through the State Department of Community Affairs.

Subdivision Ordinance Revised By Planners

WAYNESBURG — A proposed subdivision and land development ordinance was presented to the Greene County Commissioners Friday by county planner Valerie Cole.

The ordinance, together with three supplemental ordinances, has been prepared to supersede the 1973 subdivision and land development regulations which, Mrs. Cole said, have become outdated.

They were prepared by the planning commission with the assistance of Candeb, Fleissig and Associates, a consulting firm. The project was paid for through the State Department of Community Affairs.

The subdivision ordinance establishes standards which a developer must meet in laying out a residential lot plan in terms of lot sizes, roads, public facilities, etc. The new regulations incorporate changes which experience has shown are needed, simplifies administration, and incorporates suggestions from developers.

One of the changes is to exclude from the ordinance cases in which owners of farm land deed a part of their farm to family members for the construction of a house. The new ordinance would permit one of these "property splits" each year without the owner coming under provisions of the ordinance.

Another change allows the construction of tar and chip roads in certain smaller subdivisions rather than blacktop roads. But at the same time, it requires that bonds must have been posted for the construction of roads, sewers, water lines and other public facilities before final approval is given to a plan. In this way those who purchase lots are assured that the facilities will be provided according to the standard required by the ordinance.

In addition, three new ordinances have been prepared as companions to the subdivision regulations.

A Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Control Ordinance, which would be administered in conjunction with the Soil Conservation District, is designed to avoid erosion problems during the construction period.

A Site Plan Review Ordinance would cover large developments where land is not being subdivided, such as shopping centers, a complex of apartments and industrial parks. These are not covered by the 1973 ordinance.

A Planned Residential Development Ordinance would cover such things as planned towns.

W. Finley Girl Shows Grand Champion Steer

Robin Amos, showing a 1,008 pound steer, won the grand champion ribbon for the second consecutive year Wednesday night during the 4-H Baby Beef Show at the Greene County Fair. Her steer was the champion in the middle weight division.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Amos of West Finley R.D.2. In addition to her grand champion steer Wednesday night, she won the reserve champion in 4-H Market Lambs Tuesday night.

The reserve champion Wednesday night was a 1,194 pound steer shown by Matt Belding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Belding of Waynesburg R.D.2. The steer was shown as the champion in the heavyweight division.

In the lightweight judging, the champion ribbon was won by Jamie Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Henry of Sycamore, with his 972 pound steer. Reserve champion was received by Judy Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henderson of Waynesburg R.D.2, with her 962 pound steer.

Reserve champion in the middle weight division was Jamie Thistlethwaite, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thistlethwaite of Jefferson R.D.1, with his 1,022 pound steer.

Jeff Mooney, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mooney of Sycamore R.D.1, won the reserve champion ribbon in the heavyweight division with his 1,130 pound steer.

Judge for the 4-H Baby Beef Show Wednesday night was Ron Bolze, of Loysville in Perry County.

The 28 4-H baby beef and 50 market lambs at this year's fair will be auctioned beginning at 6:30 tonight during the popular 4-H Baby Beef and 4-H Market Lamb sale.

Reign As 1979 Coal Queen Draws To Close

CARMICHAELS — In less than two weeks, Miss Lore Makusenka's reign as the 1979 Pennsylvania Bituminous Coal Queen will come to an end.

Queen Lore, as an ambassador for the King Coal Association, has appeared many times this past year on behalf of the association. She won her title last August with a sparkling baton twirling performance.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Makusenka of Richeyville, she graduated from Beth Center Senior High School in June. She was head majorette, member of the Concert Band, Grapplerette, ski club and the yearbook staff. She was voted best dressed in the class of 1980 and performed in the Variety Show and Sports Night at her school.

Miss Makusenka presently attends Wheeler School of Modeling in Pittsburgh and plans to attend equestrian school next year at Meredith Manor, Waverly, W.Va., to specialize in training and instruction. She hopes to own a stable and initiate a riding therapy program for the physically handicapped. Her training has also included horseback riding and jumping lessons at Kettlebrick Stables as well as fox hunting courses.

Honors she has received include Miss Jaycee 1980 at Brownsville Jaycee Ball; participation in Miss Pennsylvania Pageant at Westmoreland Mall; second runner-up in Miss International Sunshine Pageant in Washington; and semi-finalist in Miss Mon Valley Pageant. She also judged the Belle Vernon High School majorette tryouts.

She toured Harrisburg and met Gov. Dick Thornburgh, was presented before the House and Senate and received a special citation.

As 1979 Coal Queen she participated in the ribbon-cutting ceremony for the Carmichaels Branch, First Federal Savings and Loan of Carnegie; tossed out the first ball for the Clarence Christopher Memorial Little League game; attended the September Tea of the Carmichaels Area Women's Civic Club; performed for the Pittsburgh Coal Mining Institute of America program; and presented award ribbons at the Greene County Horse Show. She had competed in those shows 1976-78.

She appeared in the United Mine Workers Parade in Maestown; Nemaacolin Carnival parade; Pike Days parade at Beallsville; firemen's parade at Richeyville; and the Beth Center festival parade at Fredericktown.

Her busy schedule included a performance for the Waynesburg Rain Day festivities; attendance of the Carmichaels Chamber of Commerce dinner dance and appearance as a "round" girl for the Carmichaels fire company boxing matches.

The finale to her reign as Coal Queen will be a farewell appearance during the Coal Queen pageant Aug. 24 in the Carmichaels Area High School auditorium.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN GRIM

Grims Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Harriet and John N. Grim, of 1138 Spruce Street, Greensburg, formerly of Sycamore, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on August 12.

They were married August 12, 1930, in the summer home of the bride's parents in Selbyport, Md., by the father of the bride.

Mrs. Grim is the daughter of the late Rev. Paul Brown and Minnie D. Brown and Mr. Grim is the son of the late Garfield and Icie Kuhn Grim. They are the parents of two daughters, Mrs. William (Jacqueline) Blaker, of Greensburg and Mrs. Charles (Dortha) DeStefano, of Jacksonville, Fla. There are also five grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Mr. Grim was Greene County circulation manager of the Washington Observer-Reporter for 44 years before his retirement in 1975 and Mrs. Grim was owner of Harriet's Stork Styles in Washington and was also employed by the Waynesburg Chamber of Commerce for several years.

Mrs. Blaker will host a family dinner on Tuesday evening in observance of the anniversary.

A BOY'S WORLD

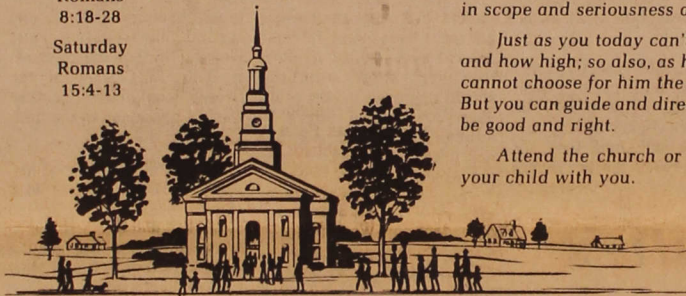

Today your boy's world is a wonderful place of trees and blue sky, puppy dogs and best friends. Perhaps his greatest decision is which tree to climb and how high to go.

But it won't always be so. As he grows, his choices must grow in scope and seriousness also.

Just as you today can't choose for him which tree to climb and how high; so also, as he grows in wisdom and stature, you cannot choose for him the proper values and goals for his life. But you can guide and direct him in the ways you have found to be good and right.

Attend the church or synagogue of your choice and take your child with you.

Community Events

FAMILY REUNITED

Helen Ward, a resident of the Curry Memorial Home, was recently reunited with her four sons for the first time in nine years, at a family gathering held in the home of her son, Carl Ward and son of Waynesburg R.D.4.

The other sons present were Mrs. and Mrs. David Ward, of Kearneyville, W.Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ward, of McKeesport; and Glenn (Don) Ward, of Orange County, Calif.

HENNEN-BLUE REUNION

The fourth annual Hennen-Blue reunion will be held Sunday, Aug. 17, at the South Franklin Community Park, Route 18-South, Washington. Lunch will be served at 1 p.m. with coffee being furnished.

Those attending are to take a picnic lunch, table service, and a white elephant item. Friends and relatives are invited.

KIGER REUNION

The fifth annual Kiger Reunion will be held Sunday, Aug. 17, at the Greene County Fairgrounds. Lunch will be served at 1 p.m. Following lunch, a business meeting will be held.

CLASS OF 1970

Reservations for a reunion dinner of the class of 1970 at Waynesburg Central High School are still being accepted. The dinner will be held at Albert's Restaurant on Saturday, August 23. Information is available by calling Becky Stoy Wilson at 852-2862 or Janet Harris Cree at 627-8957 before August 13.

FOOTBALL TEAM PICTURE DAY

The Jefferson-Morgan High School football team will hold its annual press and picture day at 1 p.m. this Friday, Aug. 15, at the high school football field behind the Central Elementary building in Jefferson. All parents and relatives of players are invited to attend the session.

KING COAL GOLF TOURNAY

The sixth annual King Coal Open Golf Tournament will be held Saturday, Aug. 23, at the Broken Tee Golf Course at Carmichaels.

The event will be a two-ball, best ball, and the entry fee will be per two-man team. Prizes will be $400 for first place; $250 for second; and $150 for third. The number of entries in the tournament will determine if additional prizes are awarded.

To reserve a starting time call Joe Dell, 852-1992, or John Curtis, 852-1171.

TIME CHANGED

Golfers planning to play in the American Cancer Society's Walter Hagen Golf Tournament at Rohanna's Saturday, Aug. 16, are asked to note a change in tee-off times.

Instead of starting in rotation, the tournament will begin with a shotgun start at 10:30 a.m. Golfers and scorers are to register between 9 and 10 a.m. and there will be a short meeting of scorers at 10 a.m. Teams are reminded they are to bring a scorer in order to participate this year.

A buffet luncheon will be served following the tournament.

JUNIOR GOLF TOURNAMENT

The K.A. Rohanna Memorial Junior Golf Tournament, for the benefit of the Greene County Unit of the American Cancer Society, will be held at Rohanna's Golf Course, Monday, Aug. 18 beginning at 10 a.m.

The tournament is open to all golfers 14-17 years of age, who may or may not participate in high school or junior league play. There will be two divisions, players with under two years and players over two years, or members of a high school golf team.

Trophies and prizes will be awarded in both divisions. Entry fees include green fees. Entry blanks are available at Rohanna's, the Broken Tee Golf Course, the Greene County Country Club or the Greene County Unit office, 90 East High Street, Waynesburg.

QUILT DONATED

David Haines, of Mt. Morris, is the new owner of a flower garden quilt made by Rosa Lemley, mother of the late Greene County Commissioner Ernest Lemley, and donated by the Greene County unit of the American Cancer Society.

WAYNESBURG — For decades, Tom Grable and gambling have been synonymous in these parts. In neighborhood poker games, the anxious card player who raises without apparent reason is immediately greeted with, "Who the hell you think you are, Tommy Grable?"

Now 84, and living in a modest home on East Franklin Street, Tommy has no regrets about the estimated $2 million that went through his hands over the years. "If I had it to do again, I would do it the same way," he said.

Perhaps many residents do not know him by name but he has been a familiar figure in the community for years. There aren't many one-arm pool players and poker players around, especially of his ability.

Tommy lost his right arm just below the elbow in a train accident in East Pittsburgh in 1917. "I was walking along the tracks going to my sister's house and the next thing I knew I was in South Side Hospital with my arm missing," he said. Although he lost an arm, Tommy was just thankful he wasn't killed under the wheels of the freight train.

He was working for J&L Steel as a production manager at the time. The company told him to go home and recuperate for a year and then come back. He was offered a lifetime job but he never returned.

He was married to Mildred R. Hutter, a Pittsburgh girl, at the time. During his recovery period, he got the gambling bug. "I kept track of my winnings and losses during that time and felt I could make more money by playing poker," Tommy said.

Eventually, Tommy met the professionals and learned quickly. Soon he was traveling all over the eastern United States. He found horse racing was fast action and "dropped a bundle" on the horses. He also bought two race horses, one of which won the West Virginia Derby. "I bet $1,000 on my horse and also picked up another $3,000 in that race," Tommy said. "I lost most of my money on the horses."

Born in Center Township to Joseph and Sena Grable, Tommy did most of his gambling in Wheeling, W. Va., but would go anywhere the action was taking place. He left Monessen one night with $35,000 and drove straight to the Waynesburg police station and placed the money in the borough safe.

He used that money to buy a restaurant on High Street and later added a bar. "It was the most money I ever won in a single game," he said.

He lost about $7,000 on a few occasions but said he thought little of it because a gambler just worries about a new stake and a new game.

Tommy lost interest in poker when the "funny games" came into vogue after the war. "The only poker games are five-card stud and draw," he said. "This high-low business and seven-card stud are not poker," he said.

He did come out of retirement a few years ago when his grandson in Virginia called and said his boss was taking everyone to the cleaners. "He is just too good for us and we are tired of it, Grandpa," his grandson said. With a promise of a $1,000 stake when he got off the plane, Tommy flew to Virginia and joined his grandson in the next friendly game with the boss. Tommy walked away with $3,000 and a chuckle.

Strangely, to this reporter anyway, Tommy never had the urge to head for Las Vegas. "There are too many professionals in those games. You have to have two or three suckers in the game," Tommy said.

His betting was not limited to horses and cards. Tommy was generally regarded as the best pool shooter in Greene County despite having only one arm. He placed many $50 and $100 bets at the pool table and usually won. He has run as many as 28 balls in a string of call pool.

Many times he would take in the dice games along the banks of Ten Mile Creek in West Waynesburg but would quickly line up a poker game. "There are no gamblers left in the area these days," he said.

When asked if he had any tips or secrets which made him successful, Tommy said he was always a pretty good judge of facial expressions and knew when an opponent held a good hand.

One of his toughest opponents was George Greek, of Pittsburgh, who once won $1 million in Las Vegas.

Despite the many games in back rooms of hotels and taverns, Tommy was never arrested. The police in Elkins, W. Va., raided a game once and locked up five or six players but for some reason, Tommy was told to get out and head back for Waynesburg.

Never once was there any violence in a game in which he was participating. "I never saw anyone draw a gun or a knife," he said. Most of the players were always professionals or well-heeled businessmen.

During the pleasant interview, the question of superstition was never brought up because of an oversight. However, when this reporter started to leave by way of the back door, Tommy said, "Go out the front door. That could have caused you, me and everyone else bad luck."

Being a Friday night poker player, I went out the front door.

TV Set Destroyed

Waynesburg volunteer firemen were called out at 6:30 p.m. Thursday when a television set in the apartment of Margaret Brown caught fire. The basement apartment is located in Bonar Apartments on Bonar Avenue. The fire was confined to the television set which was destroyed.

Rooms Will Stay Same

JEFFERSON — The new elementary school in the Jefferson-Morgan School District will open its doors for classes for the first time when school begins Tuesday, Aug. 26.

With a very few exceptions, Superintendent Kenneth Macek said, room assignments given to children at the close of the 1979-80 school year will be in effect.

All kindergarten children from Burson Plan, Clarksville, Teagarden Homes, Chartiers, Pitt Gas, Braden, Lippincott area, Route 188 west of Jefferson, Castile Run, Pokeberry Ridge, Homeville Road, Y-Coff Trailer Park, Kurtz Trailer Park, Gordon Loop, Grimes Run Road, Funks Road, Browns Run, Route 221, Loves Hill, Khedive, Route 21 and Scotts Run Road will attend the afternoon session.

Those from Mather, Jefferson, Fairgrounds, Delancy Heights, Havers Hill, Rices Landing, Szyoka Plan, Dry Tavern, Fern Cliff Road, Clarksville-Dry Tavern Road and Route 188 east of Jefferson will attend the morning session.

Children who have not yet been registered for kindergarten, and those who will be attending Jefferson-Morgan Elementary School for the first time, are asked to register at the elementary school office between the hours of 9 a.m. and noon and 1 p.m. and 3 p.m.

Parents are urged to complete the registration at their earliest convenience and to bring a record of birth and shot records to the registration.

Bus schedules will be announced in the near future.

Heavy Storm Knocks Out Electricity

WAYNESBURG — About 3,000 customers of West Penn Power were without electrical service Sunday when a heavy thunderstorm hit the county.

Dave Sumrall, operating superintendent for West Penn, said his office had received about 400 calls by 9:30 p.m., meaning between 2,500 to 3,000 customers had lost electrical service.

"We hope to have the bulk of those picked up by 9 or 10 a.m. Monday," Sumrall said, though he added that was being optimistic.

Power outages in the county were reported in the western end, the Marianna and Clarksville areas, Mather and isolated cases throughout.

Obituaries

Fair

Word was received in Waynesburg Wednesday of the death of a former resident, Mrs. Esther Meade Fair, at 2:55 p.m. Wednesday, August 13, 1980, in a Cambridge, Mass., nursing home.

Mrs. Fair was a daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. J. Calvin Mead and had resided in Waynesburg when her father was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church from 1907 to 1912.

A talented musician, she had gone with her mother to Berlin in 1912 to study violin but had to return when World War I broke out. While in Berlin, she met Gordon Fair, a son of German and English parents who was born in Africa. They were married in Cambridge, Mass. in 1914 and he later became dean of the college of engineering at Harvard.

She was preceded in death by her husband. She is survived by two sons, C. Lansing Fair, of Cambridge, Mass. and Gordon Fair Jr., of New Jersey and five grandchildren.

Services will be held in Cambridge.

Wright

Jack R. Wright, 76, of Deep Valley, was dead on arrival at Greene County Memorial Hospital at 9 a.m. Thursday, August 7, 1980, of a heart attack.

He was born September 25, 1903, in Deep Valley, a son of George Booher and Matilda Shull Wright.

Mr. Wright retired as an employee of the Peoples Natural Gas Co. in 1968 after 44 years of service. He spent all of his life in Deep Valley and was affiliated with the Laurel Run United Methodist Church.

Mr. Wright was a member of Waynesburg A.F. and A.M. Lodge No. 153, the Valley Rite of Couderport, Syria Temple, Pittsburgh, and a life member of the Peony Masonic.

On August 30, 1920, he married Ethel Moore, who survives along with one daughter: Mrs. H.W. (Grace) Woodruff, of Claysville; four grandchildren, Susan Marling Debolt of Newton Fall, Ohio, Marcia O'Connor Stein and Debra Woodruff Hewitt, both of Claysville, and Harry David Marling of Waynesburg; two great-granddaughters and eight step children.

Deceased are a daughter, Dorothy Marling, a son, George B. Wright Jr., a grandson, Patrick O'Connor, a brother, George B. Wright and three sisters, Lucy White, Cressie McNeely and Nettie Stull.

Long

Floyd B. Long Jr., 75, of Aliquippa, formerly of Waynesburg, died at 4 a.m. Saturday, August 9, 1980, in Aliquippa Hospital following a long illness.

He was born December 31, 1905, in Sistersville, W. Va., a son of F.B. and Stella Parker Long.

His early life was spent in the Waynesburg community. He graduated from Waynesburg High School, where he was active in football and basketball. Mr. Long was also a member of football squads while attending Washington and Jefferson and Waynesburg colleges.

Mr. Long resided for several years at Aliquippa where he was employed by Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. At the time of his retirement in 1970, he was chief inspector of the rolling mills department.

His first wife, Rea McVain Long, is deceased. His second wife, Mary Cassidy Long, whom he married February 17, 1972, survives.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Samuel (Erba) Long of Waynesburg and Mrs. Frank (Alice Mae) Butler of Cocoa, Fla.; and one brother, Raymond of New Paltz, N.Y. Services and burial will be in Aliquippa.

Scott

Ralford C. Scott, 69, of Holbrook R.D.1, died at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, August 7, 1980, in his home. Although not in the best of health, his death was unexpected.

He was born May 14, 1911, in Center Township to Charles F. and Edna Moore Scott. His entire life was spent in Center Township and he was a member of the Rogersville United Methodist Church.

He was married March 21, 1933, to Icie Welling, who survives. Also surviving is a brother, Kenneth Scott, of Fearless Hills. A sister Lois Scott and a brother Eugene are deceased.

Ross

Mary L. Ross, 72, of Waynesburg R.D.3, died Friday, August 8, 1980 at 5 p.m. in the West Penn Hospital, Pittsburgh. She had been hospitalized since April 10 after being badly burned in an accident at her home.

She was born November 30, 1907, in Waynesburg, a daughter of Heath Johns and Martha Call Ross.

Miss Ross worked as a secretary for several Waynesburg businesses. She was last employed at the Waynesburg office of the American Automobile Association. She was a lifetime resident of Waynesburg and was a veteran of World War II, having served with the U.S. Marines.

Miss Ross was a member of the First Baptist Church of Waynesburg, where she served as church historian, secretary of the Sunday School and was a member of the Tracy Sunday School class.

She was a member of the Xi Lambda chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, a sorority for businesswomen, the Polly Wayne Garden Club and several Bible study and prayer groups in the Waynesburg community.

She is survived by one niece, Mrs. Martha Anne Fulton of Wilmington, Delaware; two great-nephews and one great-niece.

Three brothers, James B., Frank C. and John, are deceased.

Hull

Floyd J. Hull, 70, of Waynesburg R.D.3, died Friday, August 8, 1980, at 6 p.m. in Washington Hospital following a long illness.

Born March 26, 1910, in New Freeport, he was a son of Winfield H. and Basha Belle Flaherty Hull.

Mr. Hull had resided most of his life in the Lippincott area and was a member of the Calvary Baptist Church there.

He was a farmer and worked in road construction. For several years he served as road superintendent in Morgan Township.

Two sons, Charles Floyd Amos and Stanley Leroy Amos; two grandsons; one great-grandson; three sisters and two brothers are deceased.

Supervisors Reject Arts Program Offer

(Continued From Page 1) Claiming the board has not had time to fully consider the request, Ralph Porter, board chairman, said an answer would be given at the meeting on August 25.

Robert Morris, board secretary, said he is opposed to the plan and cited possible problems with parking and heating. "We don't want to become baby sitters," Morris said.

Mrs. Marcavitch promised the board that any child interested in using the library would be accompanied by their mother.

"You might as well try to convince the other two," Morris said in reference to his opposition.

The board took under consideration the possibility of increasing the sewer connection fee to $750. The fee is now $500.

The proposed increase would cover all three sewer districts in the township including West Waynesburg, Bonar Addition and Franklin Township Sewer Districts.

The board also adopted a state-mandated resolution which spells out the township's intention to spend 25 percent of the liquid fuel tax money for road maintenance instead of new construction. Some of the funds will be used for repair of storm damage under guidelines recently enacted.

The board agreed to enter into a contract with the Franklin Township Sewer Authority, which will take over the inspection and maintenance of the lift station in the West Waynesburg Sewer District.

In past years, the inspection and maintenance was handled under a contract with an individual.

Ladies Golf Tournament

WAYNESBURG — The ladies golf title of the Greene County Country Club for 1980 will be contested this weekend in a 36-hole, medal play competition.

The five finalists in the championship division are defending champion Patty Holupka of Nemaacolin; Dorothy Bernaducci of Carmichaels and Peggy Milliken, Tammy Watrus and Jane Brewer, all of Waynesburg.

Mrs. Milliken is a triple winner of the ladies crown.

First flight finalists are Louise Cafferty, Sally Stennett and Peggy Murdock, all of Waynesburg, and Marie Nagy of Masontown.

Six others are competing for the second flight honors including Marilyn Buckley, Betty Hart, Nancy Harry and Diane Hughes, all of Waynesburg; Sara Palone of Carmichaels and Mildred Vignally of Uniontown.

Picnic Table Taken

State police are investigating the theft of a PennDOT picnic table from a roadside picnic area at Nineveh. The theft occurred sometime between July 27 and Aug. 6.

Faces From The Past—Do Your Recognize Them?

The first enclosed porch on any house in Waynesburg was that on the former Hoskinson mansion on South Morris Street. It was the third house north of Greene Street and next to the former Lippencott Store and dwelling that ran along Cherry Alley. The house has since been razed and the property is being used as a parking lot for employees of the Mid-Penn Telephone Co., successor firm to the South Penn Telephone Co. The deluxe enclosed porch was also unusual in that it was steam heated and had electric lights. The property was then occupied by the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoskinson and their son, Hugh, and daughters Nella and Clair, all now deceased. Another exquisite touch to the sturdy built three-story brick structure was its bricked-in front porch. The house was later purchased by James Farrell Post 330, American Legion, and was used as the post home for many years. Mr. Hoskinson was one of Greene County's early and most successful oil and gas well owners. Miss Peggy Baily, a granddaughter of the Hoskinsons, is the only family member still living in Waynesburg.

For hunters and fishermen in Greene County, word that the State Game Commission is about to acquire the Lone Star Farm, between Kirby and Garards Fort, has to be good news.

The farm is one of the largest and nicest in the county. It contains about 1,200 acres, much of it choice land, which will be ideal for hunting. There are also six ponds on the farm which will be available for public fishing.

The purchase will actually be made by the Western Pennsylvania Conservancy, which, in turn, has agreed to sell most of the property to the Game Commission as an addition to Game Lands No. 233, which adjoins it on one side.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McCoy, who have owned the farm for the past 25 years, will retain a life interest in the manor house, but all of the other buildings on the farm (which at one time was five separate farms) are to be included in the transaction. Mr. McCoy, who ran a dairy farm, recently retired. Eventually, the large manor house will also go to the Conservancy.

With acquisition of the property, the possibility for a number of innovative conservation measures exist.

Unlike much of the property which makes up public hunting grounds, the Lone Star property is not marginal land or steep wilderness. It is readily accessible and is a real asset in terms of its potential.

Greene County has become one of the prime hunting areas of the Commonwealth. Addition of the McCoy property should make it even more so.

Subdivision Ordinance Would Protect Public

It comes as a coincidence that the Greene County Commissioners are considering adoption of a revised Land Development and Subdivision ordinance at the same time as a group of people are considering court action in an effort to get the road they were promised at the time they purchased lots and built houses in a lot plan near Rices Landing.

The irate residents are disturbed because neither the Greene County Planning Commission nor the Jefferson Township board of supervisors seems to be able to help them, although both approved plans for the subdivision at the time it was laid out.

Since the township had its own road ordinance, it took precedence over requirements of the county ordinance. The township says it gave its approval with the understanding the developer would build a road to PennDOT specifications, but that he has not done so. They refuse to accept the road because it is built with reddog. Unfortunately, the township apparently has nothing in writing concerning its understanding with the developer.

It may be small comfort to the property owners involved in this case, but the new county ordinance would correct such situations in the future.

It is designed to correct shortcomings in the present ordinance, and one of its requirements is that a developer be required to post a bond either with the county or the township to assure that all public facilities, including roads, will be built to specifications.

In some cases, requirements of the ordinance may seem harsh in terms of the burden placed on developers. But they are intended to assure that development will be done properly, and that people who buy lots in subdivisions will get what they pay for.

Fact and Folklore

Another Greene County Fair has come and gone and if anyone thinks that a county fair such as staged at Waynesburg last week is a dying institution they should take in any of the well regulated exhibitions of this sort which can be found in most rural or semi-rural counties in the state.

Fears among some persons that opening of the many new coal mines within or bordering near the county would be the death knell for the fairs apparently hasn't attended many of the exhibitions at Waynesburg or at Wind Ridge — home of the Jacktown Fair — in recent years.

Dominated, originally of course, by farm folks since that's all there was to draw from years ago, the crowds in the grandstand, strolling along the big double midway, or playing the games of skill and riding the thrill rides of the midway there were about an even number of patrons from both of the main segments of the county's population.

And all of them, practically, were enjoying themselves and sharing the same attractions the same attractions that were for fun, education or competitive skills in approximate even numbers.

Out of the livestock barns the same trends were reflected on the name tags attached to the pen doors reflected a real duke's mixture of racial origins and with symbolic blue ribbons (for first places) also being shared in approximate even portions.

Greene County is now being populated by the third generations of the families who came here to work the county's first deep mines at Nemaquin, Crucible and Mather. Besides their desire for greater opportunities to progress they brought with them the muscle and aptitudes it took to advance in the coal fields in the days before coal mining had any of the push button trappings it is getting in these days of automation.

Their progress from the row houses of the first foal towns in the county wasn't delayed, however, until the back buckling work of loading coal by hand was eliminated to the extent it has been in 1980.

For, just as they left the security of their homes in central and southern Europe on the promise of better opportunities in the United States, they also had the good judgement to invest their hard earned money in whatever small or large acreage they were able to acquire while rearing a family at the same time.

Compared to mining coal in the early days of the industry, farming was a cinch in the amount of effort required, in addition to the greater pleasure from working in the pleasant sunshine and fresh air of the harvest season.

Also, those who located in Greene County were fortunate to have had good financial advice from bankers such as Richard Baily at Carmichaels, Kenneth Baily and Morgan Henderson at Waynesburg, George Moredock at Jefferson, Isaac Moredock at Rices Landing and others in various parts of the county and nearby parts of Washington and Fayette Counties.

Time Is Money To Eva K. Bowlby Library

By ROBIN ROBERTS
 Staff Writer

WAYNESBURG — In this day of ever-increasing inflation, it's not too often that one can find an opportunity to double one's money. But the Eva K. Bowlby Public Library in Waynesburg has been offered that opportunity.

According to Frank VanCleve, head of the library's building expansion committee, a donation of a dollar from an individual means that the library will be awarded an additional dollar through a "challenge" grant which has been offered the library by the National Endowment on the Humanities.

There's only one problem, however. The library board can receive $100,000 of the three-part grant if managers to raise an equal amount by Friday, Aug. 15. But, because of a problem with getting a zoning variance from the Waynesburg Borough Zoning Hearing Board, the board and the expansion committee have had to hold up on sending out pledge forms and an informational pamphlet on the proposed addition.

VanCleve said earlier this week he anticipates approval of a new building plan by the library board at its meeting Monday evening. VanCleve also said he anticipates permission from the board to release the bulk mailing to Greene County residents. He noted, however, the $100,000 must be raised by Friday and with board approval likely to come Monday, the mailing couldn't be handled until Tuesday, severely cutting into the board and committee's already precious short time limit.

"What I'm asking people to do, to help save time, is to send in pledges or call the library to make their pledges now. If they want to, they can stop in and the staff will be more than pleased to assist them in filling out the pledge cards," VanCleve said.

The new building design, according to VanCleve and librarian Jean Wilt, should experience no difficulty in passing zoning board requirements when presented, probably in September.

"We realize that we're not going to raise $1 million in Greene County alone, but people have to realize that when foundations and companies which donations of this sort seek the amount of public support a project has, it has a great deal of bearing on their decision to pitch in their support."

"Any donation or pledge, no matter how small, will be greatly appreciated by the committee and the board and will mean a lot to us when we make our presentation to some of the foundations we hope will support our project," VanCleve said.

The board and committee have already raised in the neighborhood of $20,000 and hope to be at or near the $100,000 matching limit by next Friday. Any donation to the library is tax deductible.

Mrs. Wilt pointed out that failure to reach the matching funds figure could destroy the entire county library system.

"If Bowlby loses its state subsidy, Flenmiken loses its subsidy and that will kill the library system," she said.

Both libraries face a space problem. If space mandates of the state are not met, and they are currently far behind requirements, the state will shut off the flow of funds to the libraries.

Regional Mine Rescue Contest Scheduled

CARMICHAELS — The Southwestern Pennsylvania Safety Association will sponsor a regional mine rescue contest Saturday, Aug. 16, at the Carmichaels Area High School football field.

This contest is a prelude to the King Coal State Mine Rescue contest scheduled for the following Saturday, Aug. 23, also at Carmichaels.

Albert J. Monkewicz is president of the Southwestern Pennsylvania Safety Association and John Chambers Sr., of the regional contest.

Currently, 17 mine rescue teams have signed up for the competition. They will be judged on mine rescue procedures and will also take written exams to test their knowledge of mine gases, mine fires, and detection instruments used in rescue operations.

Entrants are Bethlehem Steel Corp., three teams; Duquesne Light, Florence Mining and U.S. Steel Cumberland Coal, each two teams; and Helen Mining Co., Consolidation Coal Co.'s Mathies Mine, Montour No. 4, Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. Nemaquin Mine, Republic Steel Corp. Clyde Mine, Newfield Mine, United States Steel Corp. Frick District and G.M.W., each one team.

The public is welcome to attend and watch the competition. The regional contest will start on the field at 8:30 a.m. with team registration starting at 7 a.m. at the high school.

Commissioners Are Informed Service Cutbacks Necessary

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County Commissioners were informed at their regular meeting Tuesday that because of state budget cuts in the 1980-81 fiscal year, services in the Children and Youth Department will have to be cut back.

Rupert Eder, department director, said budget cuts will take away about $80,000 during the coming fiscal year. He is hopeful the deficit can be made up by placing fewer youngsters in various institutions, including the Youth Development Center where the cost per day is $82.

Rupert says it will cost the county about $700,000 annually to provide current services. "Judge Toothman said he would carefully screen possible placements at YDC," Rupert said.

Rupert said an effort will be made to reduce costs in three areas during the current fiscal year. In addition to careful screening, shorter placement periods will be suggested and less placements will be made during the year.

Commissioner L.R. Santore told the board that if services are cut back, then administrative costs should also be reduced. However, Rupert informed the board that salary costs are received from a different fund than that which provides cost of services.

The department is currently offering services to 271 children in the county and employed five caseworkers. Rupert added that his department will attempt to make more use of foster homes instead of institutional care and perhaps that will save money.

The commissioners received a letter from the Brave Civic Association asking for $1,500 in aid to refurbish the athletic field. The request was tabled for action when the 1981 budget is being prepared.

It was also learned the state Department of Labor and Industry will inspect the new jail facilities on Tuesday, August 19.

A decision was made to have a telephone line from the jail to the county switchboard installed and also a private line in the sheriff's office.

Property Sale Is Invalidated

HARRISBURG — A 1978 tax sale of five parcels in Greene County was invalidated by Commonwealth Court Monday on the grounds that one of the owners had not received notification of the sale.

The unanimous ruling by a three-judge panel stated the county had violated the rights of Doris W. Kasuba Stephens of McKeesport in addressing all tax notices to her former husband, Albert Kasuba of Rices Landing.

"The (Tax Claim) Bureau is under a duty to give notice to each property owner of a pending sale," Judge John A. MacPhail wrote in the opinion. "This was not done here."

Most of us are inclined to do good, but most of us keep putting it off until tomorrow.

AROUND TOWN
 By THE STAFF

Don't look now but there is only two more weeks before Labor Day which is the unofficial end of summer, even though fall doesn't start officially until a couple of weeks later.

Outdoor enthusiasts feel that Mother Nature owes them a "late fall" because of all the rain which has hit this area for the past month or so but how they will ever be able to "collect" it, no one knows.

Unless, that is, it can be pulled out of a computer of some kind or another.

Two former Waynesburgers from back in the 1920s renewed many old friendships on a brief visit "back home" last Tuesday. They were Leon Scanlon, now living in Roswell, N.M. and his brother, Hugh (Bus) Jr., who now lives in Fairless Hills in suburban Philadelphia. Both followed their father, the late Hugh Scanlon, into the steel industry. He was superintendent of the former tin mill in West Waynesburg and after leaving Waynesburg was superintendent of the Weirton Steel mill in Weirton, W.Va.

John Hughes of Franklin Township and a prominent figure in Greene County Democratic political circles for several years, underwent heart surgery at Greene County Memorial Hospital Wednesday. He is the husband of Mrs. Ruth Hughes, district magistrate in the Central Greene County magisterial district.

Mrs. Herbert Grandon of South Richhill Street, who is active in national organizations of needlepoint art, presented a beautiful multi-colored reproduction of the courthouse which has been hung in the meeting room of the commissioners.

The many Waynesburg friends of Floyd Long, former Waynesburg resident who was active in sports in Waynesburg High School in the 1920s and later played football at Waynesburg College and West Virginia University, were saddened by his death last Saturday at Aliquippa, where he had been employed at a steel mill until his retirement a few years ago.

Lt. Col. Paul Campbell, a retired U.S. Army officer who was born and reared in Waynesburg, is a patient in the Walter Reed Hospital in Maryland, where he is recovering from a severe circulatory condition which he suffered last winter. After his retirement from active service, he became the Waynesburg College football team's one-man version of Notre Dame's subway alumni and attended practically all of their home games and most of those on the road as a gesture of appreciation for the inspiration he had received from watching their games as a youth in Waynesburg. Friends may address cards or letters to him by writing: Lt. Col. (Ret) Paul Campbell, 547-D, Tranquil, Odenton, Md. 21113. Col Campbell is a brother of Mrs. Herbert Grandon of S. Richhill Street, Waynesburg.

Glenn DePoe, former resident of Waynesburg, who has been living in Honolulu for the past several years, is visiting his cousin, Miss Kathryn Dryer, of S. Richhill Street. — Miss Madge Waychoff, former gift shop operator on Main Street and one of the last surviving employees of the former Harvey Call Grocery Store was a recent patient in Greene County Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. John Grim, former residents of Sycamore who now live in Greensburg, visited friends in Greene County during the past week. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary this month. Mr. Grim was circulation manager of the Observer-Reporter in Greene County for 44 years.

An electrical fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes on the Rogersville Road in Franklin Township, caused an estimated $1,000 damage this past Wednesday.

Thousands of tons of hay will go unharvested in Greene County this year, many farmers say, because of the late summer rains making it impossible to "cure" the hay sufficiently to store it in barns. Spontaneous combustion is considered too much risk, they say.

Carmichaels 'Dresses' For Fete

CARMICHAELS — The town of Carmichaels will be putting its best foot forward Monday and Tuesday nights when it is decorated for the annual State Bituminous Coal Show.

Directors and volunteers are to meet at 6 p.m. each night on the fire hall carnival grounds. If enough manpower turns out the job will be relatively easy.

The King Coal Association met Thursday night and reported several tickets are still available for King Coal Night Aug. 16 at Three Rivers. Tickets cover transportation, seating in the reserved section at the game and refreshments on the buses. The six buses will leave CAHS underpass at 2:25 p.m. sharp Aug. 16. Tickets are available from Thelma Callaghan or Viola Donovan.

Positions will be drawn at the Aug. 14 meeting for the Greene County firemen water barrel battle to be held Aug. 24-26.

Color portraits of the 16 coal queens candidates are on display in the Carmichaels First National Bank and will be presented to the girls courtesy of the bank.

Parade entries to date are Homeville Tornadoes drum and baton corps; Derry Twirlerettes junior drum and baton corps; Red, White and Blue senior drum and baton corps; Washington Township Martinettes senior drums and baton corps; Forest Hill Rangerettes drill team; H.H.C. 429th Engineering Bn., USAR Center drill team; Aimee Blasinsky, Miss Sunshine Cameo Girl; Koal Krackin' Klowns; float by Carmichaels Area Jayettes; Uniontown VFW Post 45 championship band.

Fire equipment entries are Uniontown, Kingwood, Tridelfia, McClellandtown, Elrama, Roscoe, Smithton, South Brownsville, East Beth Township, South Connellsville, Richeyville, Jefferson, Washington Township, Markleysburg, Connellsville, Oakdale, Brownsville No. 1, East Carnegie, Keating, Waynesburg, Bridgeville, Fayette City, Elrama, Neville Island, Masontown, South Strabane, and Monongahela.

High school band entries to date are Frazier Memorial, Jefferson-Morgan, Waynesburg Central, Carmichaels Area and Albert Gallatin.

Theme for the parade and floats is "Coal-Why Not?" and float prizes will be $200, first; $125, second; and $75, third and guarantee of $50 to float non-winners. Floats will be judged at the Skyview Drive-In at 3 p.m., Saturday, Aug. 30, prior to the parade, and will be parked at the fire hall parking lot afterwards.

Cyclists Plan Benefit Ride

The Greene County Chapter of Abate of Pennsylvania will hold a benefit ride Saturday, Aug. 23 to help the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Abate of Pennsylvania is an association of motorcycle owners.

The ride will leave from Hecks parking lot just east of Waynesburg at noon and go for about 100 miles to a point near Marianna. A party planned at the destination will include music by Red Rum. The public is invited.

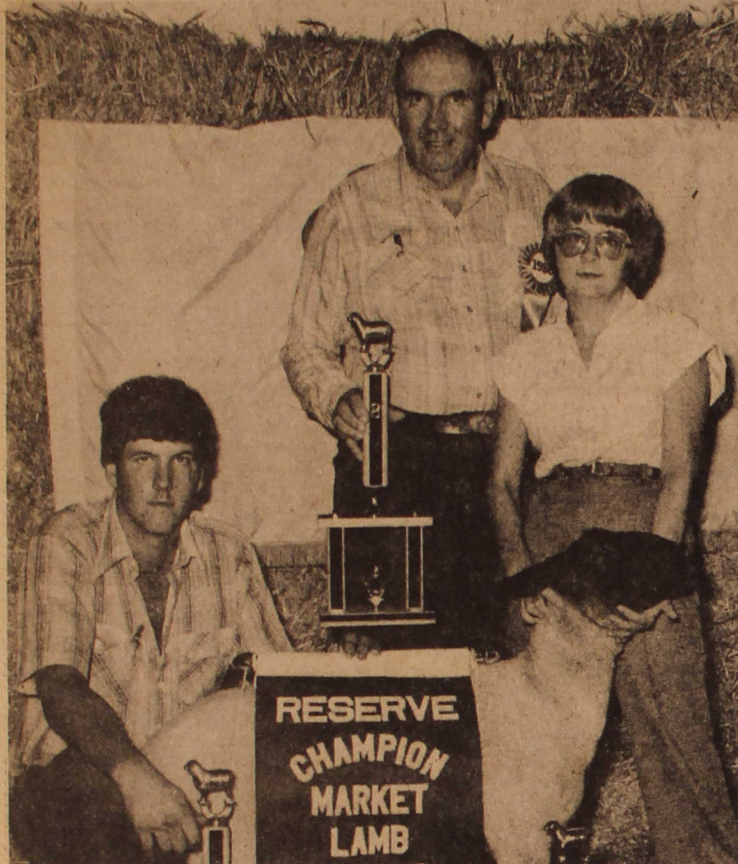

The ride is part of a nationwide "Bikes of America Fight MD" program and is open to all motorcycleists.

Sign-up and sponsor pledge sheets are available at local bike shops or by calling 966-2285.

Bus Was Loaned

A school bus reported missing from McNelly Bus Company in Waynesburg this past week was not stolen after all. It had been loaned to a man in Jefferson at the end of the school year.

The man read about the "stolen bus" in the newspaper and reminded the owners the bus had been loaned not stolen.

Champion Lamb

Robin Amos, who had the reserve champion lamb at the Greene County fair, is shown with Charles VanDruff and his son, Roger, of VanDruff Tractor Sales, Waynesburg, who purchased the lamb for $3.50 per pound and donated the animal to Greene County Memorial Hospital. VanDruff accepted the grand champion lamb owned by Murray Hoy for its purchaser, the Waynesburg Branch of the First National Bank of Carmichaels, which paid $6.50 per pound for the animal.

Grand Champion Steer

Reserve Champion Steer

Matt Belding holds his reserve champion steer at the Greene County Fair. The animal was purchased by Jay Dessler, manager of McDonald's Restaurant, Waynesburg, for $2,626.80 or $2.20 per pound. The steer was donated to be resold for the 4-H Scholarship Fund.

Carmichaels Board To Apply For Loan

CARMICHAELS — Carmichaels Borough Council will apply for a $50,000 loan from the Carmichaels First National Bank to be used for construction of a new municipal building. The loan will be for 15 years at six percent interest and may be paid off earlier with no penalty.

The action was taken Wednesday night during a special meeting of council.

Council had earlier approved plans for the new municipal building. All banks in the area were contacted concerning a construction loan but the First National Bank made the best proposal. This will enable council to eliminate seeking a loan from the Farmers Home Administration (FHA). Interest from that source would have been at five percent, but council members noted that an FHA loan would also entail many restrictions.

Engineer consultant Terry McMillen reported the plans for the new municipal building are ready to be submitted to the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry. He was given permission by council to advertise for bids which will be opened at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 15. The bids will be reviewed and a construction contract awarded on Thursday, Sept. 18.

Mayor Paul Connor asked council to consider making space available in the plans for the new 1,500 square foot building for a magistrate's office in the future. This was discussed but no action was taken to change the plans for the building.

A request was heard from Herbert Lunden on behalf of the Carmichaels Rotary Club to decorate the town square. Lunden offered to plant 50 yellow mums around the flag pole on the grass mound in the center of the town square. He said he would transplant them from his flower garden at no expense to council. Council President Robert Dobbins and councilman Chris Watson will check the area Thursday to decide if such a project would impair the view of motorists.

Library's 'Operation Outreach' Needs More Volunteer Workers

WAYNESBURG — If you happened to be on High Street in Waynesburg shortly after noon Monday, you might have noticed a rather tall, thin fellow walking around in front of the Greene County Courthouse.

He was hard to miss since he was wearing a paper bag over his head and a placard around his neck which read, "Operation Outreach — the unknown library."

It was a takeoff on the "Gong Show's" unknown comedian. It also was a sort of publicity stunt by Operation Outreach librarian, Tom Chockla, to draw attention to his organization's efforts in the Greene County area.

Chockla, who is not from this area and has only had the librarian's job for a few months, has decided Outreach needs more volunteer workers, specifically in two areas.

He took to Main Street in his strange getup — including sunglasses over the eye holes in the bag which covered his head — in an attempt to raise some eyebrows and make area residents aware of the fact that Operation Outreach is alive and well at 54 Church Street.

The two programs Chockla is really interested in promoting are the Books to People and Oral History programs offered by the Outreach library.

Books to People is designed to help persons who are shut-ins get reading materials which are delivered by volunteers. "We want to expand this and the oral history program, but we simply need more volunteers," Chockla said. "There are currently only two of us here (the other worker is clerk/typist Diane Swinchock) and we simply need a few people to volunteer a few hours a week.

"To help deliver books to people in the Books to People program or even to help us find people who might be interested in participating in the program.

The Oral History program is another for which the library, which is part of the Greene County Library System, is searching for volunteers.

The program is the recording of local history — as told by area residents — to be played back to anybody who cares to listen to the recordings. The recordings are being indexed by subject and will be available at the Bowly and Flenniken Memorial Libraries, too.

Persons who are willing to volunteer for either of the programs should contact the Outreach office at 852-1900.

DCA Will Explain State's Weatherization Program

WAYNESBURG — Representatives of the Department of Community Affairs (DCA) weatherization program will be at the Greene Shopping Plaza all this week to explain the program to local residents.

The program was started in Pennsylvania in the mid 1970s and is designed to help low-income, elderly, and handicapped people reduce their fuel bills through energy conservation.

The program also provides jobs and job training for workers who normally have difficulty finding and holding jobs due to a lack of skills.

Gov. Dick Thornburgh has declared the week of August 11 "Weatherization Week" in Pennsylvania.

"This administration is committed to reaching and serving the many remaining Pennsylvanians who are in need of and eligible for weatherization," said Gov. Thornburgh in his proclamation, "and as a demonstration of that commitment we have set a goal of weatherizing at least 20,000 additional homes before the winter."

Since the beginning of the statewide program four years ago, over 60,000 homes in the state have been weatherized.

Financial Aid Officer Picked

WAYNESBURG — Richard B. Leffe, a counselor in the West Virginia awareness talent search for the past four years, has been named assistant director of financial aid at Waynesburg College.

The appointment was announced today by Ronald Shunk, director of admissions and financial aid at the college. Leffe has assumed his duties at the college.

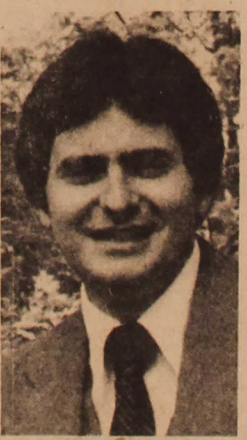

Shunk said that Leffe will handle day-to-day operations in financial aid, including evaluating financial need for each student and each prospective student.

"I am pleased that we have found an individual with a broad range of administrative experiences to work in our financial aid program," Shunk said. "Dick's background will be helpful in our efforts to help every student meet the cost of higher education."

Shunk noted Waynesburg College has a financial aid program which exceeds $2.5 million annually in scholarships, grants, loans and campus work. More than 80 percent of Waynesburg students receive some form of financial assistance.

"Obviously, the opportunities for financial aid depend on each individual case," Shunk said. "But, if there was such a thing as an 'average student,' that student would pay approximately half of the published costs at the college.

"The difference would be financial aid," Shunk said.

"And, many students qualify for a much higher aid award."

Any student or parent of a prospective student who still hasn't made a final decision about attending a college this fall should contact Leffe at the Financial Aid Office. He will be happy to discuss various aid programs and help compute financial aid eligibility.

Leffe, a native of Wheeling, W. Va., earned his bachelor's and master's degrees at West Virginia University. Before working in the Talent Search program, he was a social service supervisor in the West Virginia Department of Welfare, and was also an employment counselor with the West Virginia Department of Employment Security.

He and his wife, Sherree, live in Waynesburg near the college campus.

Reserves Guarding Refugees

FT. INDIANTOWN GAP — Members of the local National Guard unit now taking summer training at Ft. Indiantown Gap have been pulled from field exercises and are now guarding Cuban refugees at the main base.

The 65 enlisted men and four officers are in their second week of training. They were to be on bivouac this week but they were called from the field Tuesday afternoon when rioting broke out among the refugees.

Company C, an infantry unit, will bolster federal troops and other National Guard units in keeping the peace. The company is scheduled to leave the encampment Saturday.

Lt. James Cowie, executive officer of the unit, told the Observer-Reporter Wednesday morning that the area was quiet Tuesday night and early Wednesday. "We haven't had any trouble and all the men are well," Lt. Cowie, of Carmichaels, said Wednesday morning.

The unit is commanded by Capt. Dan Bailey of Carmichaels.

Bible-Reading Marathon Set

CARMICHAELS — A bible-reading marathon will be held in the Carmichaels town square beginning at 7 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 4 and continue through Saturday, Sept. 6.

All churches in the surrounding area are invited to become involved in reading. Eight churches have already volunteered.

The marathon will precede the Carmichaels Area Evangelistic Crusade being held at the high school stadium at 7:30 each evening Sept. 7-14.

Volunteers should call Mrs. Dorothy Cumberledge at 966-2093 by August 19.

Public Notices

NOTICE OF 1980 PUBLIC DELINQUENT TAX SALE To the owners of properties described in this notice, and to all persons or taxing authorities having such liens, tax judgments or municipal claims against such properties.

In accordance with the provisions of the Act of 1947, P.L. 1368 and its amendments, known as the Real Estate Tax Sale Law, the following described properties will be offered by public sale, Bureau of Greene County, Pennsylvania, on the 8th day of SEPTEMBER, 1980, at 10:00 A.M. Daylight Savings Time, and continuing thereafter with adjournments and re-adjournments to such other days and times as may be announced at the sale or subsequently advertised.

The purpose of said sale is to dispose of properties against which delinquent taxes are unpaid, the tax claims having become absolute, and the legal period of redemption expiring on July 1, 1980. The terms of said sale shall be as follows: The property to be sold shall be under a bid equal to the final upset price is made. The approximate upset price is hereinafter set out after the description of each property.

The purchaser of any property shall, as soon as the property is struck down, pay the entire purchase money to the Bureau. In case said money is not paid, the sale shall be voided and the property put up again for sale.

Any taxing districts having municipal claims against any property herein advertised, shall certify the amount thereof to the Tax Claim Bureau before sale in order to include the same in the final upset price.

The sale of any property herein advertised may, at the option of the Tax Claim Bureau, be stayed if the owner thereof, or any lien creditor of the owner, or any agreement to sell, enters into an agreement with the Tax Claim Bureau to pay the taxes in installments in the manner provided by the Act of assembly, and the agreement entered into.

The Real Estate Tax Sale Law provides: "There shall be no period of redemption after such sale and the sale shall be deemed to pass a good and valid title to the purchaser, free from any liens and encumbrances whatsoever, except such liens as are hereafter specifically saved, and in all respects as valid and effective as if acquired by Sheriff's deed. Every such sale shall discharge the lien of every obligation, claim, lien or estate with which the property may have or shall become charged or for which it may become liable, except no such sale shall discharge the lien of any ground rent or mortgage which shall have been recorded before such taxes become liens, and which is or shall be prior to all other liens except other mortgages and ground rents."

It is strongly recommended that prospective purchasers have examinations made of the title to any tracts in which they may be interested. Every reasonable effort has been made to keep the proceedings free from error. However, in every case, the property is offered for sale by the Tax Claim Bureau without any guarantee or warranty whatsoever, either as to existence, correctness of ownership, size, boundaries, locations, structures or lack of structures upon the lands, title or other matters or things whatever. No adjustment will be made after the property is struck down.

The properties offered for sale are hereinafter set out by Township or taxing districts and the name first appearing in each item is that of the owner or reputed owner in whose name the property was assessed for tax. If the returned delinquent to the Tax Claim Bureau.

The 1980 Accrued Taxes will be included in the upset price on the day of the sale. The property tax is furnished to the Bureau by the Tax Collectors.
