Waynesburg To Seek More State Funds For Project

By BOB EICHENLAUB
Greene County Editor

WAYNESBURG — Waynesburg Borough will seek a $75,000 state grant to supplement the $463,540 federal Small Cities grant it has received for a downtown rehabilitation program.

Fran Tompkins, executive director of the Waynesburg Economic Revitalization Corp. (WERC), reported at a meeting of borough council Monday that the grant is available to help offset the effects of inflation on the budget set up to utilize the federal grant.

"The line item budget we submitted to obtain the Small Cities grant was prepared about two years ago and additional funds will be needed if all of our projects are to be fully carried out," she said. "The Department of Community Affairs has told us that we can probably obtain the $75,000 supplemental grant for that purpose if we apply by March 31."

The extra money would be applied to all phases of the rehabilitation project, Mrs. Tompkins said, including establishment of housing, store front renovation, utility line relocation, historical registry, sidewalk improvements and landscaping.

As was done when the Small Cities grant application was submitted, the application for the state grant will be submitted on behalf of Waynesburg Borough by the Greene County commissioners, with WERC being designated to administer the renovation program. Council authorized submission of the application.

In other action at its meeting, council directed Borough Manager James Ealy to seek an explanation from District Magistrate John Watson concerning a major decline in revenues from fines in February of this year as compared with a year earlier.

Mayor Jack Cassidy's report showed the borough received $75 in motor vehicle violation fines in February 1981 as compared with $1,173 in February 1980. Fines from violations of borough ordinances fell from $1,435 in 1980 to $331 in 1981.

Neither Mayor Cassidy or Ealy could explain the great difference in revenues, with Ealy stating that so far as he knew there was no significant difference in the number of citations which were issued by police.

"I will write to Magistrate Watson and seek an explanation," the borough manager said.

Three automobile dealers submitted bids for the used four-wheel-drive truck the borough plans to purchase. The bids, ranging from $3,500 to $4,400, were referred to Ealy for a recommendation to be made at the next meeting.

At Mayor Cassidy's suggestion, council proclaimed Tuesday as "Yellow Jacket Day" in the borough in recognition of the accomplishment of the Waynesburg College basketball team in winning the NAIA District 18 championship. Tuesday was selected because the team will meet Cedarville (Ohio) College at 6 p.m. in the first playoff game for the national championship at Kansas City.

On recommendation of Planning Commission Chairman Peter Jabour, council appointed Dan Scott of South Morgan Street to a position on the commission to complete the term of William Baily. His term will expire May 31, 1981.

Council will recommend to the county commissioners the appointment of two borough assessors to fill existing vacancies. Edward Marotta of 305 Park Avenue will be recommended for the post in Ward I, while Gary L. Gernert of 223 South Washington Street will be recommended for the position in Ward II.

Merit increases of $750 were approved for David A. Bedilion, an operator at the borough sewage treatment plant, and for Patrolman M. Terry Livingston.

Pandemonium Reigns

Taxes May Become Delinquent One Month Earlier This Year

WAYNESBURG — If House Bill 417 isn't passed by the State Legislature by the end of this month, property owners who have not paid their 1980 real estate taxes could be in for a nasty surprise.

They'll have lost one month's grace for payment of the taxes before they are remitted to the county Tax Claim Bureau, with all of the extra cost which that entails.

Betty Morris, director of the Tax Claim Bureau, and tax collectors throughout Greene County are concerned about the situation but don't know what to do about it.

"People have always had until the end of April to pay their previous year's taxes before they are certified as delinquent to the Tax Claim Bureau," Miss Morris said. "This year, as things now stand, tax collectors must make their certifications by the first Monday of April (April 6), which means that all payments have to be in by the end of March."

To make the situation worse, many local tax collectors have already notified delinquent property owners that they have until the end of April to make the payment.

According to County Solicitor A. J. Marion, it all happened because of a confused situation in Harrisburg, and only the state legislature can straighten it out.

During 1980, he said, Senate Bill 316 became law to change the traditional delinquent tax filing date from the first Monday of May to the first Monday of April. When tax collectors got up in arms about the change, the legislature passed House Bill 763 which returned the date to the first Monday of May, and officials throughout the state were informed they could stop worrying about the change.

Not so, however, because Governor Thornburgh vetoed House Bill 763 and the word never got back that the April deadline was again in effect.

"House Bill 417 is currently pending which would reinstate the May deadline, and I was informed Tuesday that the legislature is preparing to act on it," Marion said. "It looks to me as though we are going to have to rely on State Sen.

Marion said he has been in contact with some tax collectors who have told him it would be impossible for them to meet the April deadline. "If the legislature doesn't act by the end of this month, it could be a problem."

(William Stout and Rep. (H. William) DeWeese to push for its passage."

Cancer Office Taking Orders For Daffodils

WAYNESBURG — Daffodil Days is just around the corner and freshly cut flowers will be available throughout the county on March 18-21.

The daffodil has been selected because it is the first flower of spring, and to many, represents the hope of a new season and hope for the world free of cancer.

Daffodils will be available in bouquets of 10 and may be purchased for $3 per bouquet. Donations received for the flowers will be used by the Greene County unit of the American Cancer Society to fund programs of research, education and service to cancer patients.

To order daffodils, interested persons may call the Greene County Unit office at 627-5259 or stop in at the borough building at 90 East High Street.

Tools Removed

WAYNESBURG — Tools valued at $467 were stolen from a parked truck owned by the Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation District, according to Waynesburg Borough Police.

The truck was parked in the borough parking lot No. 1.

Development's Lack Of Sewer Is Considered Again By Board

WAYNESBURG — The Franklin Township Sewer Authority Tuesday night again discussed the lack of a sewer at Mountainview Gardens housing development and completed all contract obligations with Ben Construction Co., one of the prime contractors on the new sewer system.

Although no formal action has been taken, the authority and the developer of Mountainview Gardens have reached tentative agreement on the costs and type of construction necessary for a gate valve between Waynesburg Borough and Franklin Township sewer lines.

Because the borough is under a Department of Environmental Resources consent order which prohibits any further sewer taps, Mountainview has not been allowed to tap into the system. Under the township plan, Mountainview will finance the construction of a pneumatic valve between the two lines which will divert the amount of sewage generated by the housing development into the township lines for treatment at the township's new treatment plant.

The development is expected to generate between 27,000 and 30,000 gallons of sewage each day. Once the meter is installed at the gate valve, the township will know the exact amount being treated at the plant. When all details are worked out, a three-party agreement will be signed between Waynesburg Borough, Franklin Township and Mountainview.

The authority voted to pay Ben Construction the remaining $23,000 being held on their contract after damage claims had been settled. One claim remains unsettled but owners of Ben Construction said they would contact their insurance carrier to expedite the matter.

In another matter, the authority agreed to accept a $2,000 payment from McDonalds Restaurant for sewage treatment during the last nine months of 1980. McDonald's had received a bill of some $6,000 but protested because much of their water is allegedly not going into the sewer system.

The authority approved a second meter for water being used outside the establishment. Readings will be monitored for the rest of the year and adjustments made on the 1980 bill.

$5.2 Million Bond Issue Is Approved By Local Board

ROGERSVILLE — The West Greene School Board, at special meeting Wednesday night, approved a $5.2 million bond issue to finance additions and renovations to West Greene High School.

The vote was 7-2 with members Roger Stalaker and Rick Barnhart voting against the bond issue.

Prior to the board vote, Superintendent Elliott LeFaiver made an hour-long slide presentation and address to the 50 or more taxpayers in the audience. He showed many slides depicting the overcrowded classrooms and lack of storage space which recently brought a citation from the Department of Environmental Resources.

LeFaiver also pointed out that over $400,000 has already been spent on the project in attorney fees, architect fees, surveys and core drilling. "We have already spent 7 percent of the total cost of the project and to let it die now would be a total waste," LeFaiver told the board and the large audience which included many teachers.

He also presented two proposed budgets for the next school term. One took in consideration the district would lose $172,000 in state funds as the result of losing its "hold harmless" status. Although the current state administration has said it would drop the status, there is a possibility legislative pressure will restore the aid.

Citing the budget which contains the state aid, LeFaiver estimated the millage rate at 33.8 and without the state aid, a millage rate of 37. Both rates are well below the rates which have been rumored in the district during the past few months.

LeFaiver cited the growth possibilities in the school district because of coal and gas reserves and said the board should plan now for increased attendance in the area.

Liza Amos, a student representative, addressed the board following the vote and took board member Rick Barnhart to task for writing a letter to the editor which students felt was detrimental to the school. The letter from the students suggested Barnhart was not qualified to serve on the board.

Firemen battle the fire that gutted this home in Live Easy.

Frame House Guttled By Fire; Family's Belongings Destroyed

CARMICHAELS — A family of six lost all its possessions in a fire Thursday morning that gutted the home they occupied in the small community of Live Easy located along Route 88 south of here.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Arthur and their four children were all at home when the fire broke out shortly after 8 a.m. but were able to escape safely. The children were still asleep when the fire broke out.

Carmichaels-Cumberland Township Fire Chief William Groves said Arthur thought the fire may have started when something fell onto a gas stove being used to heat the home.

"Flames and smoke were coming out of all the downstairs windows when we arrived," Groves said. "I knew we would have a problem with not having enough water so I immediately called the Nema-colin Fire Co. for assistance." The flames spread quickly through the old two-story, five-room frame house. The house is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Claude Linninger who live out of state. Firemen estimated damage at $20,000.

Household items and clothing are being collected for the family. Arthur's clothes sizes are 34 waist trousers, 15 shirt and size nine shoe. His wife wears size 38 blouse, 20 slacks and size eight shoes. One boy wears size three clothes and size five shoes. Two boys and one girl all wear size five clothes and shoe sizes of 12, 10-and-a-half, and 12.

Persons wishing to donate any items or to have items picked up may call either Carmichaels Mayor Paul Connor or Ann Barnhart at Waynesburg.

Magistrate Seeks Re-Election

WAYNESBURG — John C. Watson of Holbrook R.D.1 announced Monday that he is a candidate for re-election as district justice for Magisterial District I, made up of Aleppo, Center, Freeport, Gilmore, Gray, Jackson, Morris, Richhill, Springhill and Wayne Townships and Waynesburg Borough.

"I have attempted to operate my office in a manner which promotes public confidence in the integrity and impartiality of the Minor Judiciary, and if elected I promise to apply my six years of experience and will continue to approach each case with an open mind as I have in the past," he said.

Watson, a native of Greene County, is a graduate of West Greene High School and was employed by the A&P Tea Co. for 20 years, serving the last 13 years in a management position. He also served in the armed forces and is a former member of the West Greene School Board. Until recently he was scoutmaster of Rogers-ville Troop 825 and now serves as a troop committee member. He is a member and trustee of the Rogersville United Methodist Church and a member of Graysville Lodge 165, Knights of Pythias.

He is married to the former Sarah Martin. They have a son, Brett, a freshman at West Virginia Wesleyan College at Buckhannon.

Watson has completed all the required courses of training and instruction in connection with operating his office and is current in the continuing education requirements mandated by the Minor Judiciary Education Board.

"I have attempted over the years to serve the citizens of my district in such a way that their case is efficiently processed and hopefully the legal remedy received is that which they feel they are entitled to," he said.

"Unfortunately, since my office staff was reduced from two to one secretary during 1980 my office capabilities have been hampered, but we will strive to assist all who depend on the district magistrate for their legal remedies.

"In the event I am re-elected, I intend to continue to afford the public ready access to the legal system according to their entitlements."

Parent Advisory Council Meets

JEFFERSON — The district-wide ESEA Title I Parent Advisory Council of the Jefferson-Morgan School District met in the district's new consolidated elementary school. Various committee reports were given.

Mrs. Bonnie Pitcock, co-chairman, reported on the Parent Training Conference held last fall at Seven Springs. Vicki L. Monas, Title I coordinator for the district, gave an update on the current Title I reading and math programs. The district provides remedial reading services to eligible students in grades one through seven and remedial math to eligible students in second through sixth grade. Janice Connors and Toni Hoak are Title I reading specialists and Michelle Chesney, Lee Melega and Shirley Parker are the Title I math teachers.

The report also included the recent state evaluation completed by Paul C. Rafensperger, regional reviewer from the Pennsylvania Department of Education, which stated that all aspects of the program are in compliance with state and federal Title I guidelines and that all Title I personnel are very knowledgeable of their roles and functions in the program.

Mrs. Marilyn Murphy presented to the council the concept of a school-wide book exchange to be coordinated by the Parent Council. Members expressed interest in the project to be put into operation during the 1981-82 school term.

Council members made plans for the upcoming federally mandated Parent Advisory Council elections. A public notice of the election will be advertised and all students will take home a notice announcing the election meeting to be held in late April.

*Persons wanting more information on the Parent Advisory Council may contact Vicki Monas at the school by calling 883-2310, extension 212 any weekday between 8 a.m. and 8:30 a.m.

Current Parent Advisory Council members are Shirley Elkins, chairman; Bonnie Pitcock, co-chairman; Vicki L. Monas, secretary; Vicki Antill, Joyce Faddis, Theresa Knight, Barbara Millward, Sandy Murray and Marilyn Murphy.

Working with the council are Kenneth E. Macek, district superintendent; George L. Misher, elementary principal; Joseph A. Davis, secondary principal, and Forrest V. Cottle, district business manager.

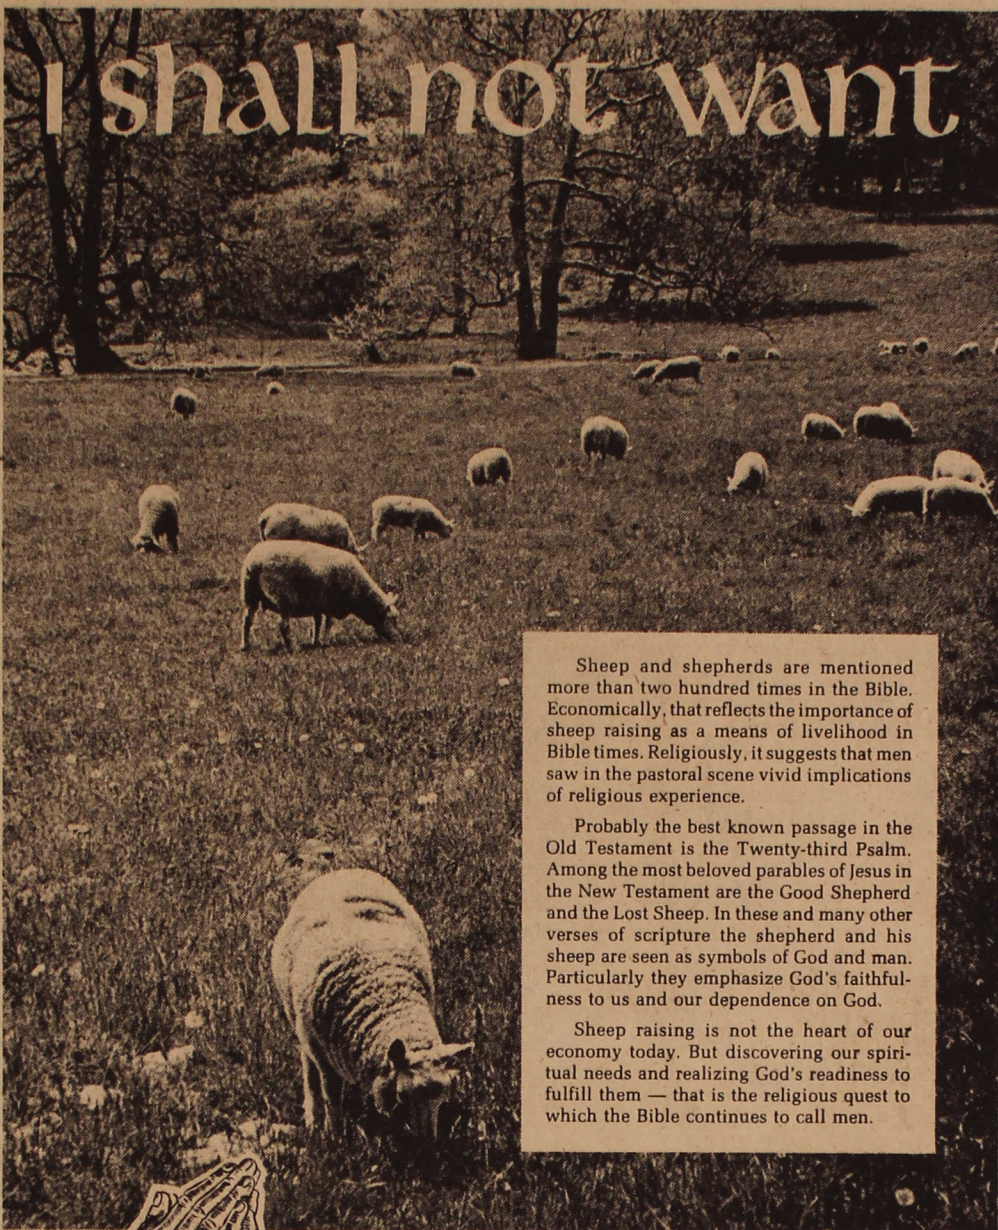

Will Conduct VBS Clinic

WAYNESBURG — A Vacation Bible School (VBS) preview and clinic will be held from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday, March 15, in the First Baptist Church, Waynesburg.

Dick and Jan Cagno, Christian Education Ministries staff members of the Pennsylvania State Sunday School Association, will conduct the preview clinic.

Catalogs, crafts and promotional materials from 16 major VBS publishers will be displayed. There will also be free idea sheets on relevant VBS topics for leaders and workers. The workshop does not endorse any publisher but seeks only to present workable techniques in the use of any VBS material churches may choose.

The preview is sponsored by the Greene County Sunday School Association.

Sheep and shepherds are mentioned more than two hundred times in the Bible. Economically, that reflects the importance of sheep raising as a means of livelihood in Bible times. Religiously, it suggests that men saw in the pastoral scene vivid implications of religious experience.

Probably the best known passage in the Old Testament is the Twenty-third Psalm. Among the most beloved parables of Jesus in the New Testament are the Good Shepherd and the Lost Sheep. In these and many other verses of scripture the shepherd and his sheep are seen as symbols of God and man. Particularly they emphasize God's faithfulness to us and our dependence on God.

Sheep raising is not the heart of our economy today. But discovering our spiritual needs and realizing God's readiness to fulfill them — that is the religious quest to which the Bible continues to call men.

Lions Honor Central Seniors

Debbie Long and Ernie Throckmorton, seniors at Waynesburg Central High School, were recently honored by the Waynesburg Lions Club as students of the month.

Debbie, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Long of Mt. Morris, has a 3.5 grade point average and is active with the Spanish Club, National Honor Society and Alpha.

She received the Spanish 113 award, was a teen talent winner at the state level for two years and competed in the national contest. Her hobbies include reading, music and swimming. She was a member of the county band.

A member of the Mt. Morris Assembly of God Church, she plans to attend college and become a stewardess.

Ernie, the 185-pound wrestler for the Red Raiders, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Throckmorton of Waynesburg. He also participated in football and is a member of the National Honor Society.

His hobbies include racing, pool and swimming. A member of the Baptist Church, he hopes to attend West Virginia University and study mechanical engineering.

Tree Orders Filled

WAYNESBURG — John Reagan, executive assistant for the Greene County Conservation District, has announced that all orders for trees under the Spring Tree Package Program have been filled and orders can no longer be taken.

For those who have ordered trees, the packages can be picked up in building No. 1 at the Greene County Fairgrounds between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. Friday, April 3, or between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Saturday, April 4.

Payment must be made when packages are picked up.

GED Test Scheduled At College Saturday

WAYNESBURG — Waynesburg College will administer the General Education Development (GED) test Saturday, March 14, in Hanna Hall. The testing will begin promptly at 8 a.m.

All persons desiring to take these examinations will complete a General Education Development application form at the college testing center in Hanna Hall on the testing day. Questions on the test should be directed to the college at 627-4191, extension 252.

Health Center Officials Ask For County's Support

WAYNESBURG — Representatives of the Southeastern Greene Community Health Center Thursday asked the Greene County Commissioners to lend county support in getting another physician to locate in the area.

Lydia Aston, administrator of the center, requested only a letter from the commissioners spelling out the conditions of the area which would make the center eligible for an additional physician.

The physician would serve residents of the Southeastern Greene District of Greene County and the Albert Gallatin District of Fayette County. The physician would replace a nurse practitioner who was assigned the center by the National Health Services Corps in November 1978.

To be eligible for the medical assignment, the community must be experiencing significant needs in a medically underserved area and a high priority health manpower shortage area. Such needs are determined by the government with cooperation from the Regional Health Systems Agency.

In addition, the local application for health personnel must include letters from local government authorities as well as the HSA certifying to the documented need on which the designations are based.

Mrs. Aston told the commissioners the center has been trying for three years to get another doctor. "We have had good support from Michael Flinn at Greene County Memorial Hospital but... conditions stipulated would have been too cumbersome to assure convenient access to primary health care to the people of our service area."

Keith Drew, president of the local health agency, also appealed to the commissioners for support and cited the success of the centers located in Bobtown and Greensboro. Drew said the center at Greensboro has already filed records for 2,000 patients and the dentist has been so busy appointments are filled three months in advance.

County Planner Valerie Cole reported on her investigation of road complaints in Morgan Township caused by coal haulers. She said PennDOT officials and coal strip owners will be meeting next week to discuss the situation and the bonds to be posted by the strippers.

Charles Baily Jr., of Baily Insurance Agency, offered an alternate plan for county employees in the pension plan. However, the commissioners voted to continue with the old plan which realizes 12 percent interest.

Dentist Opens Practice Near South Hills Village

PITTSBURGH — Dr. Rodney W. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Don Wilson of 141 North East Street, Waynesburg, is now associated with Dr. Stephen J. Todorovich in the practice of dentistry. The offices are located at 86 Fort Couch Road, Upper St. Clair, adjacent to the South Hills Village Shopping Center.

The dentists will limit their practice to prosthodontics, which is the specialty of dentistry dealing with the reconstruction and replacement of teeth, the correction of occlusion and treatment of diseases of the jaw joints and the fitting of crowns, bridges, partial dentures and full dentures.

Dr. Wilson is a 1970 graduate of Waynesburg Central High School and in 1974 earned a bachelor of science degree from Waynesburg College. In January, 1978, he received a doctor of dental surgery degree from Temple University School of Dentistry and was recognized for his scholastic achievements in ranking first among a group of early graduates who completed requirements in less than the usual four years and also in placing second among tistry and Fixed Prosthodontics; the Gage Cash Award for highest examination grades, the American Society of Dentistry for Children Certificate of Merit for outstanding achievement in the treatment of children; the American College of Stomatologic Surgeons Award for outstanding achievement in the combined surgical areas of endodontics, periodontis and oral surgery and was awarded a fellowship of the American Fund for Dental Health for continued study.

In the fall of 1979, Dr. Wilson completed a two-year program of advanced education in the specialty of prosthodontics at Temple and joined the full-time faculty of the University of Pittsburgh School of Dental Medicine as an assistant professor of restorative dentistry.

He is currently serving as a part-time member of that faculty while engaging in private practice.

Health Specialists Offer Evaluations

WAYNESBURG — Health care professionals from Greene County Memorial Hospital and the Rehabilitation Institute of Pittsburgh, formerly The Home for Crippled Children, will offer joint developmental evaluation services for the second time from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., Tuesday, March 17, in the hospital.

An appointment must be made for the evaluation services for area children and young adults with special needs. The professionals plan to offer the services approximately one day each month and have scheduled the next one for April 7.

The health care specialists, designated the Rehabilitation Institute Outreach Evaluation Team, intend to offer evaluation services in the areas of physical, speech and language, and occupational therapy, as well as behavioral psychology and pediatric medicine.

A physical therapist, occupational therapist, speech and language pathologist, behavioral consultant, and pediatrician will staff the team.

The group will direct its efforts for those individuals 21 years old and under with physical ical and perceptual disabilities, communication and language disorders, behavioral problems, traumatic injury and developmental delay, as well as other problems which interfere with normal development and functioning.

The specialists are trained to use current evaluation procedures delivered promptly, with written recommendations submitted by the referring agency.

Agencies, schools, physicians, or parents may submit referrals for consideration. Insurance carriers, appropriate government agencies, or families will be billed for services rendered. No one will be denied these services because of lack of funds.

Persons wanting additional information or to make referrals may contact Karen Hollis in the social service department at the hospital by calling 627-3101 extension 436, or Mata Jaffe at the Rehabilitation Institute of Pittsburgh at 521-9000 extension 325.

Area Creeks To Be Filled With Trout

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. Daniel L. Murphy of 108 North Vine Street, Carmichaels announce the engagement of their daughter, Judy Ann Murphy to Kenneth Swauger, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Swauger of Rices Landing. The bride-elect is a 1980 graduate of Carmichaels Area High School and will graduate from June from the West Virginia Career College, where she is enrolled in the Medical Assistants Course. Her fiancé, a 1979 graduate of Jefferson-Morgan High School, is employed by Jefferson Helms, Inc. No wedding date has been set.

WAYNESBURG — The Pennsylvania Fish Commission has announced it will be stocking trout at seven locations in the county prior to the opening of trout season on April 18, according to Gary E. Deiger, waterways patrolman.

On March 18, the commission will place 700 brown trout and 450 rainbow trout in Dunkard Fork of Wheeling Creek, 400 brown trout and 500 rainbow trout in the North Fork of Wheeling Creek and 200 brown and 850 rainbow in the South Fork of Wheeling Creek.

Ryersen Lake will be receiving 4,200 rainbows on March 20.

Officials will place 250 browns and 500 rainbows in Templeton Fork and 500 browns and 1,000 rainbows in Enlow Fork on March 24. On March 25, they will place 1,000 browns and 1,000 rainbows in Ten Mile Creek.

Hearing Scheduled On Plan To Vacate Franklin Twp. Road

WAYNESBURG — The Franklin Township Supervisors Monday finally heard news about a road they are attempting to vacate, approved aid to the Waynesburg Volunteer Fire Company and received bids for a new dump truck.

Over two years ago, the township passed an ordinance vacating Township Road 568, known locally as Seven Rivers Road, but residents in Morgan Township who use the road as a short cut to Route 21 protested. Franklin Township filed objections saying the protest came after the deadline and maintained the Morgan Township residents had no authority in protesting Franklin Township actions.

A board of view was appointed by the court but no decision was ever handed down. William Hook, township solicitor, told the supervisors Monday a hearing has been scheduled for the near future to hear arguments in the case.

Franklin Township supervisors felt that because no homes are located along the road, it would be ludicrous to spend thousands of dollars in repairing it. The road, located just east of the airport, was badly damaged by spring floods several years ago and ruts are three feet deep in some places.

In other action, the supervisors approved a $5,000 first-quarter payment to the Waynesburg Volunteer Fire Company as their share of local support. Robert Elliott was reappointed the township representative to the fire department for a one-year term.

Bids for a new dump truck were received from three dealers. The township sought bids for either a gasoline or diesel engine. Fox Auto Sales of Waynesburg offered a gasoline model for $22,478 and a diesel model for $33,240; Bortz Chevrolet offered a gasoline model for $24,000 and a diesel for $32,200 and Washington International Truck Sales offered a gasoline model for $23,158 and a diesel for $33,675.

All bids were tabled for further consideration.

The board also approved the attendance of all three supervisors at the state convention of township supervisors to be held in the Hilton Hotel in Pittsburgh April 5-8.

Public Hearing Is Set For Grant

Citizens of the Crucible area are encouraged to attend a public hearing on March 18 on the $2.1 million HUD Community Development block grant awarded to Cumberland Township.

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the Crucible Union Hall.

The hearing is being held to give citizens an opportunity to provide input on the activities planned for the grant.

Housing For Handicapped Wins Planners' Approval

WAYNESBURG — The concept of constructing an apartment-type building at Waynesburg to accommodate elderly handicapped individuals who can function with less than nursing home level care was approved Wednesday by the Greene County Planning Commission.

The clearing house approval was requested by the Greene County Housing Authority, which is preparing an application for funding to be submitted to the Farmers Home Administration.

Robert Trauth, a member of the planning commission staff who is assisting the housing authority with preparation of the application, said the idea was developed after consultation with officials at the Curry Memorial Home, which currently has a waiting list of some 160 people seeking admission.

"There are quite a few of those people who could get along with less service than skilled nursing care, and many who could function with custodial care," Trauth said. "The housing authority project would meet the needs of these people."

He said that funding will be sought for the construction of a building containing 50 efficiency apartments, with a community room where at least one meal a day would be served and other necessary ancillary facilities, including provision for having a nurse on call 24 hours a day. At least 20 percent of the units would be constructed for persons with physical handicaps.

Preliminary estimates are that the facility would cost $2.25 million to build. It would be operated by the county housing authority on the same basis as it operates its other public housing units.

Trauth said that the building would have perhaps as many as five floors. He declined to pinpoint any location beyond saying that a Waynesburg site is under consideration.

In other action at its meeting, the planning commission decided to reject a request for clearinghouse approval from the Centerville Clinics, Inc., which is applying for a planning grant to explore the feasibility of establishing a health maintenance organization to serve Greene, Fayette and Washington counties.

The action was taken after County Commissioner Joseph Pawlosky said the county had decided against committing itself to the program because it felt that the traditional health insurance providers were adequately meeting the needs of the county.

The legal status of two lots in the Earl Szyoka Plan in Jefferson Township was again before the planning commission on the basis of his request for after-the-fact approval of the lots, which were developed in 1977.

Several persons who reside in the Szyoka Plan, where lack of an improved interior road has become the subject of a court case, were at the meeting to protest approval, with one resident stating that he felt that a fine should be imposed on the developer for failing to meet the planning commission requirement for presentation of a lot plan before any construction is undertaken.

The planning commission pointed out that the two lots are not in the lot plan as such, but were built on before Szyoka knew the subdivision ordinance requirements. It indicated that it will defer action on approving the lot plan until Jefferson Township has had an opportunity to act on it.

Dennis Osborne, who with his father owns three mobile home lots in Cumberland Township, presented the planning commission with a survey of the lots and asked for a variance because one of the mobile homes is located on the property line between two of the lots. He said it was placed there a number of years ago so it would fit between trees located on the property.

Frank Walters, whose property adjoins one of the mobile home lots, protested granting of the variance contending that he did not believe the survey.

The planning commission voted conditional approval of the variance, dependent upon submission of Osborne's survey of additional lot measurements, and signing and sealing of the survey.

A resolution was adopted endorsing an application by Greene County for $75,000 in supplemental funds from the Department of Community Affairs for the Wayneburg Economic Revitalization Corp., to be used to augment the $463,540 federal Small Cities grant received last year for rehabilitation of the downtown business district.

'Rosemaling' Art Will Be Taught

The Greene County Council on the Arts will hold a one-day workshop on rosemaling to be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, March 28, in the Greene Academy, Carmichaels.

Rosemaling, flower painting, is a form of Norwegian folk art which dates back to early 1700s. The workshop will be taught by Karen Rudy of Midway, a painter who specializes in tole and decorative painting. She is one of the few artists in this area practicing the art of rosemaling.

There is a fee for the class and another for materials, including a 12-inch round basswood plate already prepared for painting, oil paints and color mixing instructions and patterns.

Painters will need to bring their own pallet, turpentine and number two and number four flat brushes, number one round brush and a liner. Brushes may be ordered in advance. Painters should also bring a lunch.

Registration must be completed no later than Saturday, March 14, by calling 966-2731 or 883-2815 or by writing to the Greene County Council on the Arts, Box 309, Carmichaels, Pa., 15320.

Karen Rudy will be teaching Vi Thode's method of rosemaling. There will be a display of rosemaling and books on the subject.

JUNE BRIDE — Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moredock of Jefferson announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon Ann, to Gary R. Sitter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sitter of Erie. The bride-elect is a graduate of Jefferson-Morgan High School and has a bachelor's degree in education from Indiana University of Pennsylvania. She is employed as a teacher for Union City High School and as a dance instructor at Arthur Murray School of Dance in Erie. Her fiancé graduated from Baker High School in Syracuse, N.Y., and is a self-employed insurance agent working in association with the Erie Insurance Group. The couple plan an open church wedding on Saturday, June 27, in the Greene Valley Reformed Presbyterian Church in Carmichaels.

Man Arrested

WAYNESBURG — Borough police have arrested Steven D. Dunlop, 27, of 190 East High Street, and charged him with burglary and receiving stolen property.

Dunlop is accused of taking two carpets from an apartment at 193 South Washington Street last week. Following arraignment before a magistrate, he was lodged in Greene County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Sewer Authority Lists Rates and Billing Plans

WAYNESBURG — George A. Scott, manager of the Franklin Township Sewer Authority, has announced rate schedules and billing procedures to be used by the authority in 1981.

Water line users will pay $6 for the first thousand gallons of water and $4 for each additional thousand gallons. This represents a decrease from the 1980 rate schedule.

When it comes to billing, the authority will send an estimated bill for the first two months of each quarter and on the third month an actual reading will be taken and the bill adjusted. Water meter readings are purchased from the water authority which supplies water to the customer.

For customers using a well, a flat rate of $16 per month will be charged. Minimum rates will be billed for both water line and well users. Water line customers will pay $6 and well users $16.

Also in 1981, a 10 percent penalty will be in effect for all payments made after the predetermined due date which will appear on the customer's monthly bill.

All checks should be made payable to the Franklin Township Sewer Authority and paid at the authority office in the township building adjacent to Haney's garage or by mailing to Box 270B, R.D. 2, Waynesburg, Pa. 15370.

Predicts Bright Future

Regardless of what the Reagan administration finally decides to do about scuttling several federally-backed synthetic fuel plants which are presently on the drawing boards, there seems little doubt that coal has a bright future in terms of its conversion into other fuels.

In the short run, such projects as the $1.4 billion coal liquefaction plant which Gulf Oil Corp and the Energy Department have been planning to build near Point Marion may be in trouble. But if so, it is probably due primarily to the charges of cost overruns and poor management which have been leveled against it.

The National Coal Association, for example, sees a great potential for such plants.

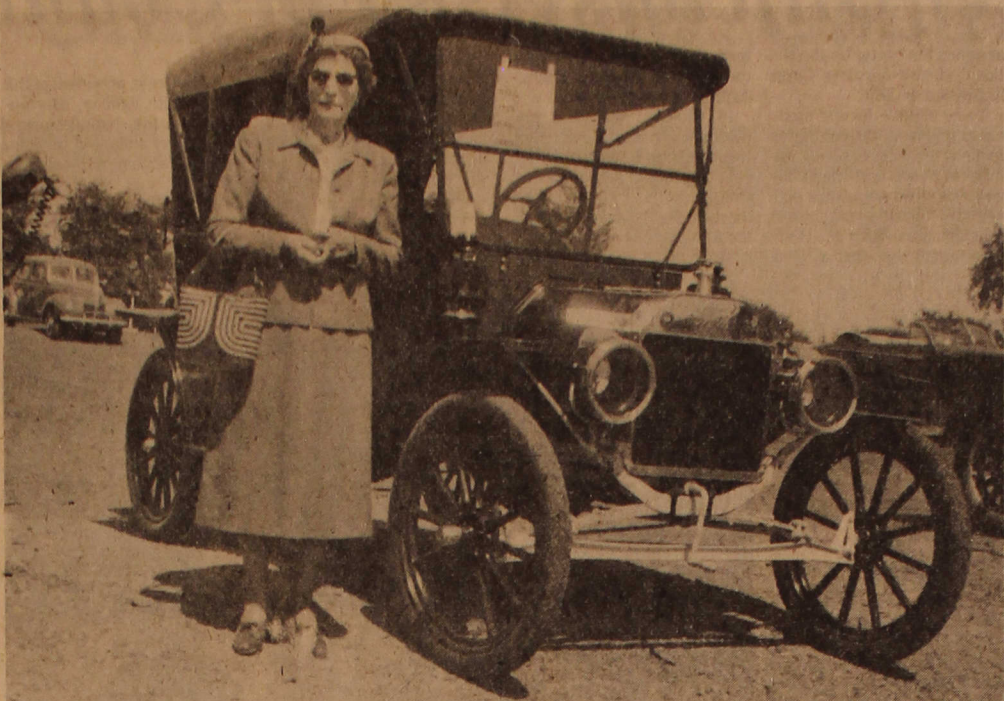

In a 10-year forecast, the association predicts that coal production in the United States will increase to 1.35 billion by 1990, as compared with 1979 production of 776 million tons. Of this total, it forecasts, 75 million tons will be required daily to provide coal for synfuel plants which will be in operation by the end of the decade. On top of this, the coal association expects electric utilities to remain the largest domestic users of coal, and predicts a marked increase in the amount of electricity generated from coal.

The report also projects a 49 percent increase in the production of coal in the eastern part of the nation, with new mines in the Greene-Washington County area being expected to provide a substantial part of that growth.

The federal government is committed to a policy of developing coal as the best method of meeting this nation's energy needs in the years ahead without dependence on foreign oil.

The speed with which it will happen will undoubtedly depend on overall economic conditions, but all barometers indicate that it's merely a matter of time.

Faces From The Past—Do You Recognize Them

Who Was That Lady?

There was no one around the office who could identify the lady driver in this week's "Faces From The Past" photograph. There is absolutely no doubt about the vehicle being a bonafide Model-T Ford which go more people out of the mud than all the Jeeps and four-wheel drive vehicles combined. Any reader recognizing the driver please contact the Republican office in Waynesburg.

Fact and Folklore

John O'Hara

Last Monday, March 9, was a fairly mild day for this time of year with just enough sting in the air to let a person realize that winter has not given up its grip entirely but warm enough to promise more pleasant weather to follow.

The day caused some older residents of the community to wonder what ever happened to the old-fashioned game of marbles.

In a jet age of instant transmission of news by voice, television, and sophisticated electronic games, having fun by playing marbles doubtless has little, if any, appeal to modern juveniles.

Of course there are some highly organized so-called "tournaments" sponsored by recreation bureaus which are still being held in some metropolitan areas, but few of these are ever heard of in small communities.

It was in the small towns, such as Waynesburg, that the impromptu games on street corners, open to all, would sometimes go on all day from morning to night. There were always new players available to replace those who were losers or who didn't want to go home to get money to replenish their supply at the old W.T. Hayes Bookstore on South Washington Street.

Replenishing the lost marbles wasn't always just the trouble of going home to get the money to pay for them. Few youngsters were so fortunate as to have spending money just for the asking, and most of those who did lived in those mansions in what then seemed like the far-away distance of the north side.

Others, from the south side, east Waynesburg (then still a separate borough) and the "Main Street Gang," had to mow lawns if the weather was warm or resort to selling a few used floor sacks down at the Waynesburg Milling Co. or to some of the feed stores for the magnificent sum of one cent each.

The marbles had a value system all to themselves. The lowest grade were the "commies" and counted as only one marble. Next on the scale were the "glassies" which were made of glass and, if I remember right, counted as five commies. Next came the "shooters" which were the smooth balls of solid glass that were shot with thumb and fin-

AROUND TOWN

By THE STAFF

Where ever you go, or whatever you do today, be sure to be careful. It's that old, double-jinx Friday the 13th again, you know.

Now that it is March some of the first arrivals are back in town from below the Mason-Dixon line. The first so far as we know at this time—on March 10—are Mr. and Mrs. Paul McNay who spent the past month in Florida and renewed old friendships with a slew of former and present Greene Countians at the annual Greene County reunion last Saturday in Largo, Fla. Marshal Lemley will be sending a full account of all those attending in time for next week's paper.

How Time Flies Department: It seems like only three or four years ago that "Young Dave" Rohanna, the son of Andy Rohanna Jr., was running down news and sports items in this office and now—presto—he's become a mining engineer with degrees from West Virginia University. With an associate about his own age, he is running two deep coal mines in the southern part of West Virginia. He was in town to attend the funeral of his grandmother Mrs. Gemelia Rohanna.

Rick and Connie Patterson Calvert of Waynesburg are announcing the birth of their first child, a son Jason Ryan last Sunday, March 8 at Monongalia Hospital in Morgantown. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Patterson of Waynesburg R.D. 3 and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Haven E. Calvert of Waynesburg R.D. 3.

Few, if any, fellows playing college or high school basketball these days, know that when the game was invented by a physical culture teacher in Kansas that the court was enclosed by chicken wire. The sport was played at Waynesburg College soon after it was invented. One of the school's first players Worthy K. Scott of West High Street, a loyal Jacket supporter these days, is a letterman from those cage days. He also starred in football and baseball for the college and local independent teams.

It looked like old times down at the narrow gauge railroad line in the South Side recently. Special equipment was rushed from the Monongahela RR yards in Brownsville to jack an engine back on the tracks along First Street.

Among Waynesburg's rapidly increasing ski enthusiasts add the name of Randy Loveday, a mail clerk at the Waynesburg Post Office and those of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Volmer of East End. They have made several trips to Seven Springs and Snowshoe in West Virginia, one of the best slopes in the area. Volmer is a clerk-carrier at the post office.

Add former Waynesburger Henry Denbo to the list of ever loyal Waynesburg sports fans. He made a long distance call from his home in Washington, D.C. to get the latest information on the Yellow Jacket basketball team going to the NAIA tourney and relayed the information to another Waynesburg grad, Frank Nivert who played her during the Frank Wolf era and later became a government attorney in the U.S. Bureau of Archives. He lives in Falls Church, Va.

Here's a better omen of spring than the traditional first robin: It is from Harry Rhodes, a former Waynesburg resident now living in Deep Valley, who found a blackberry briar just on the verge of going into full bloom and with several green leaves. He discovered it while mowing briars along the Pennsylvania-West Virginia state line at Deep Valley.

Between The Bookends

Marcia McKenna Biddle

My friend Agnes the Cynic has just moved into a high-class suburban development in another state. I'm afraid she is having problems fitting in. To show me the conditions she is trying vainly to cope with, she has just sent me a newsletter put out by her community club. I will not divulge the name of the place in order to protect Agnes and keep her from being run out of town, but I am not inventing any of the following items.

First, it seems that life in Agnes' development, which is called a "Park," is much too regimented for Agnes to be a success there. For somebody who always refused to cheer at football games, exhortations about team spirit are bound to produce the opposite result. Naturally, the newsletter is filled with "team spirit." As soon as I saw those words, I knew Agnes was in trouble.

Part of the newsletter consists of complaints about neighborhood behavior, written by the "action chairman" of the community, a title which has rather sinister connotations to Agnes. An action chairman is obviously somebody who is going to try to tell her what to do.

The action chairman begins his letter by saying, "Once again it's time to hear from your old friend, Bob. I have seen one unlikeable sight in the yard of our homes: 1. Cars jacked up (if no wheels on them they are considered junk and can be hauled away.) 2. Toilet tissue in trees, also blowing in everyone's yard. 3. Trash piled up, knee deep in some places. 4. I have had more calls about dogs. I sure wish each dog would use his or her own yard. 5. I have had a call about a school bus which they say is parked too close to the street. You know this sounds like Peyton Place—not our Park! Where is the old team spirit?"

In Bob's next paragraph, there was news of more depredation: "More mailboxes have been taken in for surgery," he says. "Some can't stand any more punishment. Hey, what you say, let's let up. It sure would help me out. Do you know that we have a mailbox on our street that is only 2 feet high. It's because the owners have to keep putting it deeper in the ground. It won't be long before the mailman will have to crawl on his hands and knees to deliver the mail. Ain't that a shame? Let's all pull for each other—one for all and all for one."

I read that and rushed to the phone to call Agnes. "You'd better get out of there, quick!" I shouted. "I don't like to think of your living in a place where you are expected to be out in the streets, fighting crime!" "Don't worry," Agnes said. "The errand school bus is not mine, I didn't throw the paper into the trees, and the last time I looked, my car still had wheels."

"I don't care about that," I said. "I know you, Agnes. Sooner or later, you are going to do something which is going to bring you to Bob's attention. You will then be listed in the newsletter as an unlikeable sight."

"No, no, I'm getting the old team spirit," Agnes insisted. I heard that statement with dread. Worse was coming, I was sure. "I am perfectly willing," Agnes went on. "To keep my dog in his or her yard. But of course if Bob tries to push me too far I'm thinking of building a little coop and raising a few chickens in the yard. I'll plant crabgrass to feed them. I may even decide to go out and shrink a few mailboxes."

"I was afraid of something like that," I said. "But don't let one newsletter push you off the deep end. Maybe it was written by Erna Bombbeck, not Bob."

Agnes made an impolite noise. "Erna probably lived here once. That could be how she got her start, just observing suburban behavior."

"I think you're right, Agnes. But will you do me a favor and stay off the streets? I'm afraid non-conformists like yourself are an endangered species in the Park."

Letterbox

Dear Editor,

During the days of Lent, people all over the world are abstaining from one type of food or another. Some are giving up cake, some cheese, others sugar altogether.

I often wonder how this practice would edify us or bring glory to God. Will we be better people by cutting out sweets? Does this show God how much we love Him and are willing to sacrifice for Him? Let's examine ourselves. Are we really just trying to lose weight or cut down on cavities?

Granted, we should take care of the bodies God gave us, but does this glorify God or instead lean toward vanity? I Corinthians 8:8 tells us that "Food commendeth us not to God; for neither, if we eat, are we the better; neither, if we eat not, are we the worse."

In Mark 7:15 our Lord Jesus teaches that "There is nothing from outside of a man, that entering into him, can defile him; but the things which come out of him, those are they that defile the man." Continuing in verse 7:21, "For from within, out of the heart of men, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, wickedness, deceit, pride." So we should concern ourselves with what comes out of our mouths than the food that enters in.

But, you may say, I want to show God how much I love Him by sacrificing some things. Well, in I Samuel 15:22, we are told that it is better to obey God's word than to sacrifice. In Proverbs 21:3, God is telling us that "To do righteousness and justice is more acceptable to the Lord than sacrifice." And finally, in Proverbs 17:1, we read, "Better is a dry morsel, and quietness therewith, than a house full of sacrifices with strife."

The sacrifice necessary was Jesus Christ. He is the sacrifice for us all. He died for us and let us live for Him. If you want to sacrifice, present yourself as a living sacrifice showing the virtues of Jesus. Think of others not yourselves; be patient with offenders; love your enemies; be gentle, kind, patient and have self control. Do you still want to give up something for Lent? Okay, give up anger, or bitterness, or try not complaining for 40 days or even the rest of your life.

Today's Lenten practice is not in accordance with the Bible. Nowhere does the Bible mention giving up one food during a certain time of the year. Instead God impressed Christians in the early church to fast at times needed (to answer prayers for serious missions, problems in the church body, casting out certain demons and for direction). Fasting in the early church was abstaining from food altogether for a day or many days. That time was spent in deep fervent prayer, reading the scriptures, seeking God's will, concentrating on our Lord and forgetting about self. This was not a whim or church tradition but a serious encounter with God.

I urge everyone to read the scriptures daily, and check to be sure church doctrines and worship services line up with scripture. If they don't, guess who is wrong. Ask yourself this question, what is happening in our churches that man can't do? Is God present in your service? Can you function as usual without Him?

Let us examine ourselves, our lives, our motives, our witness. Do people see Jesus in us, the way we live? Do we feel the power of the Holy Spirit leading us daily? Will our thoughts, intents and actions bring glory to God?

Resident Is Upset By Prices

Dear Editor,

Why deal in Waynesburg when one can save hundreds of dollars buying elsewhere?

I would rather buy locally if prices are competitive and the service satisfactory, but when they are not I will go to Washington, Pittsburgh, or wherever I can do better.

The following examples will illustrate why I go elsewhere: Sometime ago, I was in the market to buy a lawn tractor mower. One in Waynesburg was priced at $850. I purchased the identical mower in Washington for $700, a saving of $150.

Last year I decided to trade in my 1975 model car. I went to four different dealers in Waynesburg. They all quoted me $2,000 for my car towards the price of a new 1980 model. The new cars were all within the mid-car price range. I drove over to Washington. A dealer gave me $3,000 for my car; I saved $1,000. The following week a man from Waynesburg purchased my 1975 model car for $2,750. I can and will drive to Washington to save $1,000.

I purchased a name brand refrigerator in Waynesburg. Five months later the automatic ice maker quit working. It will be two years this coming June and it is not repaired yet. The service man said he couldn't get the repair parts. But last October he told me that he had received the new parts and assured me it would be repaired within a few days. It still is not repaired.

My wife's dishwasher sprung a leak. We decided it was time to purchase a new one. I priced three different "name brands" of automatic dishwashers. The prices ranged from $500-600. I purchased one in Washington for $219. My wife is well satisfied with it, and I know it will be repaired if something goes wrong.

T-Bone and porterhouse steaks are priced at $4.49 and $4.59 per lb. in Waynesburg. I drive to Dry Tavern and purchase beautiful steak for $3.19 per lb.

And now for the so-called automobile safety inspections which are useless and just a rip-off. Many states do not require any state inspections at all, and their accident rate is no greater than Pennsylvania and their patrol cars are not hiding in the bushes and side roads waiting to arrest some law abiding motorist for not having his car inspected. Their patrol cars are out patrolling the highways where they should be.

The fee for this useless rip-off inspection is $14 in Waynesburg while it is only $9 in Washington and $3.99 in Pittsburgh.

In closing, these examples do not apply to all merchants and dealers in Waynesburg and Greene County but, "if the shoe fits, wear it."

Yours truly,
Orville Dayton

Jackets Miss A Giant Upset By 22-21

By TOM ROSE
Assistant Sports Editor

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — They did everything they were supposed to do. Except win the basketball game.

While the Waynesburg College basketball team had to use its fastbreak offense to get to this year's NAIA tournament, the Yellow Jackets relied on their old nemesis — the stall — to come within a point of pulling off the upset of the tournament.

Second-seeded Wisconsin-Eau Claire, with just two field goals in the second half, edged Waynesburg 22-21 here Wednesday night at Kemper Arena in an NAIA second round game.

Two free throws by the BluGolds' Jim Behnke with 25 seconds remaining in regulation provided the winning margin.

But the Jackets, ending their season with the best record in the school's history at 24-6, used their motion offense against taller but slower Eau Claire and earned the wrath of the offense-happy fans here as well as the Eau Claire players.

"How could I slow the ball down in a national tournament?" Waynesburg head coach Rudy Marisa was asked. "I didn't know there were two sets of rules, one for the regular season and one for the national tournament."

"We've prepared for this moment since October when the season first got underway. In the district tournament, we showed a little more patience against Point Park (an 81-60 victory) and St. Vincent (a 47-45 District 18 title-clinching win).

"But we had never proved that we could reach the ultimate in control. We almost passed the test tonight."

Waynesburg never masked its intentions. The Jackets started their motion (five-man-eight) offense right from the opening tipoff, spotting Eau Claire an early 4-0 lead.

The Jackets scored their first points of the game on a six-foot jumper by sophomore forward Tim Walker and then took a 6-4 lead when Walker sank a pair of free throws and Mike Taylor converted two technical foul shots that were called against Eau Claire head coach Ken Anderson.

It was just the beginning of the frustration for the BluGolds, now 27-4 and headed for a quarterfinal game today against Huron, S.D. Two more technical fouls would be called against Eau Claire and the Waynesburg game plan appeared to be taking hold.

"We had their heads, especially in the first half," Taylor, who became Waynesburg's all-time third-leading scorer with a total of 1,702 points, said. "They started arguing among themselves and they started getting vulgar with us. They kept saying 'Hey, where are you guys from?' and 'Play ball, don't play chicken.' We had them right where we wanted them."

Eau Claire managed a 10-9 halftime lead but sank only four of 10 shots in the first 20 minutes. Waynesburg could only make two of seven field goal attempts, but according to Marisa, the Jackets' patience was effective.

"You play basketball to win. We're usually a run and shoot ballclub but tonight we thought it would better serve us to slow things down. I'm proud of my players for changing their style. It was a team decision to do it. We wouldn't have done it unless it was a team vote."

According to Anderson, Eau Claire made several adjustments in the second half against the Jackets. But the biggest change was in the players' mental attitude.

"This game was much harder for us mentally than physically," he said. "In the first half we didn't show the patience offensively that we had defensively and some of our guys were losing their cool."

"But I'm not mad that Waynesburg held the ball. If that's the only way they felt they could win the game, then so be it. You're here to win, there's no question about that. If slowing the game down was the only way they thought they could do it, I can't question that."

Waynesburg took its biggest lead of the game (13-10) when Taylor sank a technical foul with 16:05 left to play. The Jackets would lead again by three at 15-12 when sophomore guard Tim Tyler hit an 18-footer with 13:16 left but two critical turnovers by Waynesburg gave Eau Claire a chance to gain the lead it would never relinquish.

Tyler first lost control of his dribble and then an apparent basket by senior center Paul Epps was disallowed when the Jackets were called for a three-second lane violation.

The BluGolds scored six unanswered points and then went into a stall of their own, forcing Waynesburg to foul in an attempt to steal the ball.

"We got tired of watching them hold the ball," Anderson said. "I wanted to watch us hold it for a while."

Eau Claire managed three-point leads twice in the final minute but baskets by Tyler and Walker gave Waynesburg a faint hope of pulling off a major upset.

Epps intercepted an Eau Claire pass deep in the BluGolds zone with three seconds left in the game, but following a Waynesburg time out, freshman point guard Ray Natili had his dribble interrupted by Eau Claire's Mike Morgan, ending the game in a swirl of controversy.

"If there was a foul the game was over anyway because we only had one team foul against us. They wouldn't have been shooting," Anderson said.

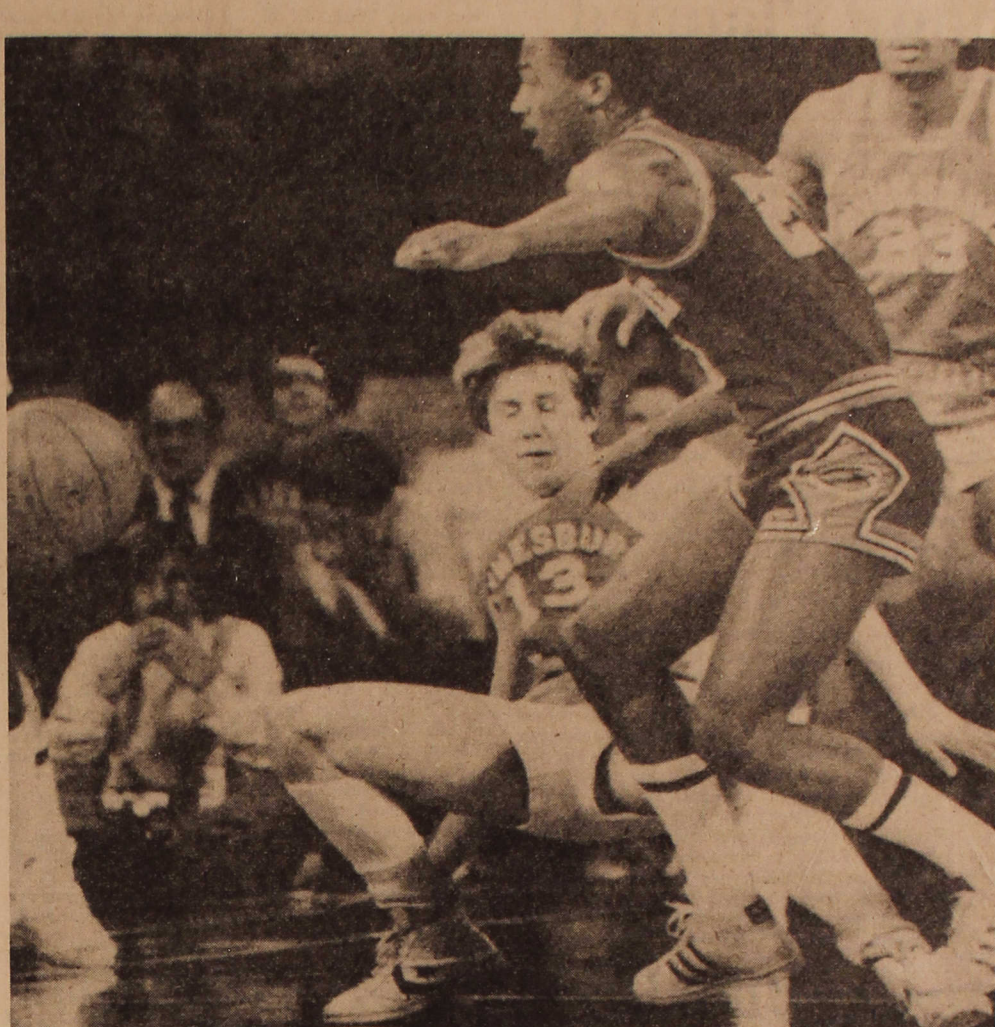

The Jackets claim to a man that referee Ken Greene blew his whistle with one second remaining, but then reversed his decision and quickly left the arena.

"We would have had the ball in our court and we could have gotten a last shot," Natili said. "St. Vincent got off a good shot against us in the last second. We might have done it, too."

But Greene's decision that the foul was incorrectly called stood, thereby ending Waynesburg's season and prolonging Eau Claire's.

There were no players in double figures for the game, with Tyler scoring eight, Taylor seven and Walker six for Waynesburg. Jim Behnke led Eau Claire with eight.

Wisconsin-Eau Claire was perfect at the foul line, sinking 10 of 10, and made six of 17 field goal tries. Waynesburg was seven of 14 from the field.

Waynesburg's Ray Natili falls away because Eau Claire's Tony Carr has stepped on his foot chasing a first-half rebound.

Waynesburg Opened With A 60-57 Upset

By TOM ROSE
Assistant Sports Editor

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The Yellow Jackets won.

The Waynesburg College Yellow Jackets, that is. Thanks to an heroic effort by physically ill Mark Doppelheuer, Waynesburg upset 15th-seeded Cedarville (Ohio) College 60-57 Tuesday night in the first round of the NAIA Basketball Tournament.

The triumph gives Waynesburg another highly-rated team to tackle in today's (6 p.m. EST) second round, powerful No. 2-seeded Wisconsin Eau Claire.

But it was the victory over Cedarville — also known as the Yellow Jackets — and the inspired effort of Doppelheuer which made Tuesday's effort special.

Doppelheuer, a freshman reserve forward from Connellsville, sank a driving six-foot jumper with four seconds left in the game to break a 57-57 tie. He was fouled on the play by Cedarville's Davie Carr and, after taking time out to relieve his upset stomach by going to the sideline and ... well, throwing up, Doppelheuer calmly sank the victory-clinching free throw.

"I'm not feeling too good right now," Doppelheuer said outside the trainer's room at the Kemper Arena. "I think I'm coming down with something."

While he may be coming down with the flu or indigestion or a recurring allergy, he was coming up with some key points (12) and rebounds (10) when his team needed them the most.

And his biggest points were the final three.

"This game reminded me in some ways of our (District 18) final against St. Vincent," said head coach Rudy Marisa. "We had to hold the ball against them, too, in the final minutes and the pressure was very similar."

The difference between Tuesday's game and the win over St. Vincent was in the hero. Against SVC it was Tim Tyler's 12-foot jumper and this time it was the freshman's power move.

Neither were planned endings.

"That's what makes our motion offense so unpredictable," Marisa said. "It's our toughest offense to defense but it's too tough to predict who will get the last shot. We were hoping it would be Mike (Taylor), but we just told the guys whoever is open to take the shot."

Doppelheuer would have been an unlikely hero just a few weeks ago as he was a little used member of the nine-man Jacket unit that is making its first visit to the national tournament since 1949.

Doppelheuer was not the only member of his team suffering some physical difficulties as center Paul Epps had to leave the game on several occasions to catch his breath which was restricted somewhat by a chest cold.

It was a combination of Waynesburg's infirmities and Cedarville's impatience that prompted Marisa to deviate from the normal fastbreak offense to a more deliberate style.

"This wasn't the kind of ballgame I expected at all," said Cedarville coach Don Callan. "They sat on the ball a lot more than I thought they ever would."

While Waynesburg did implement its motion (five man-eight) offense with unusual regularity, its defense succeeded in holding the NAIA's fifth-leading scorer, Eric Mounts, to 20 points, eight below his average.

"Mounts didn't have a very good night," Callan said. "He was only seven for 20 and he's a much better shooter than that. We weren't scoring well inside and that affected Eric as well. If we would have been able to get our inside game going they would have been forced to collapse their zone tighter inside and that would have given him room to shoot outside."

"Instead, he was forcing 25-footers." Waynesburg (24-5) was plagued by early turnovers but recovered to wipe out Cedarville's 15-7 lead with eight unanswered points late in the first half. The teams exchanged the lead before a nifty pass from freshman point guard Ray Natili to Tyler resulted in a fastbreak layup at the buzzer for a 31-28 halftime lead.

That margin was erased quickly in the second half and, in the final 18 minutes of play, the teams traded leads and momentum. The game was tied six times but the lead changed hands 21 times.

A jumper by Cedarville's Mark Womack tied the game at 57-all with 2:52 remaining and after Carr missed a one-and-one opportunity with 2:39 left, Waynesburg called for time and then went into its stall.

It was a long time to hold the basketball but Waynesburg managed to fight off a swarming man-to-man defense and allowed Doppelheuer his moment of glory.

Taylor led Waynesburg with 17 points while Doppelheuer added 12 and Epps 10. Natili scored seven and played an outstanding all-around game.

Cedarville's Yellow Jackets finished at 25-4 while Waynesburg's Jackets live on.

NATIONAL NOTES — "If (Wisconsin) Eau Claire is second in the nation (NAIA) obviously they're a tremendous challenge for us," said Marisa, whose own team was ranked 31st entering this week-long, single-elimination marathon.

"The Eau-Clair team is difficult to categorize. I've never seen such bulky people. I would guess a couple of their starters pack 230 pounds on 6-7 frames. They're not the quickest or the most talented team here, but they play well together and they are big."

Wisconsin-Eau Claire had quite a bit of trouble in advancing to today's game against Waynesburg, nipping St. Mary's (Texas) 61-59 in overtime Monday. Eau Claire is second-seeded in the tournament and the smallest member of its starting lineup is 6-3 point guard Tony Carr. Bob Coenon (6-9, 232-pounds) is the center, while the forwards are Mike Morgan (6-8, 230) and Joe Morton (6-7, 195). Jim Behnke (6-3, 180) is the other guard. Carr is the team's leading scorer with a 16.4 average. Carr and Coenon are juniors while the rest of the starters are seniors.

Referee's Whistle A Blow To Jackets

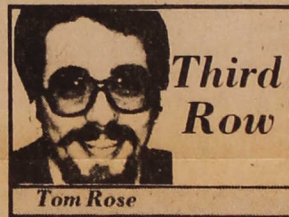

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — It was the whistle that nobody heard. Nobody that is, but the entire Waynesburg College basketball team.

While the Wisconsin-Eau Claire players rushed to the center of the Kemper Arena court celebrating a 22-21 victory over Waynesburg College in the second round of the NAIA Tournament here Wednesday night, the scorers' table was awash in a sea of controversy.

What caused the confusion was an apparent whistle by referee Ken Greene before or at the buzzer. Waynesburg point guard Ray Natili was dribbling downcourt in an effort to find an open teammate for a possible game-winning shot when the ball was knocked out of his hands by Eau Claire's Mike Morgan.

If Greene was calling a foul, Waynesburg would not have been shooting, since the Jackets were not in the one-and-one penalty situation. But the question which remains unanswered is: Did Greene call a foul with time still remaining in the game?

Waynesburg head coach Rudy Marisa and his players say, "Yes."

Third Row

Eau Claire head coach Ken Anderson says "No."

Greene wasn't saying anything. He wasn't available for comment.

"All of our kids say the man blew the whistle before the buzzer went off," Marisa said. "He just reacted to the fans and left the scene in a rush."

Marisa based his claim on two factors in the tournament. Eau Claire had a large and vocal contingent of fans here and was second-seeded in the tournament.

"Damn right I think they got special treatment," Marisa said. "Their coach called the official by his name, Ken, trying to get an explanation after the game. Who is the guy going to listen to, me? He doesn't know me from Adam."

Red Raiders Own 8-AA

By JIM MOORE
Staff Writer

WAYNESBURG — As expected, Waynesburg Central High School — with nine individual champions — ran away with the Section 8-AA Wrestling Tournament here Saturday night.

Unexpected was the defeat of previously unbeaten Tom Lapevic, defending WPIAL champion from Bentworth.

It was billed as the Section 8-AA tourney but it was really the "March Massacre" as only two of the 12 top-seeded wrestlers won titles.

"I was real pleased with our efforts," said Waynesburg coach Joe Ayersman, making the biggest understatement of the year.

And he should be well pleased because the Red Raiders took nine wrestlers into the finals and finished with nine champions.

Three of the four returning champions retained their section crowns and all three were from Waynesburg including 98-pound Marty Stewart, Toddy Eddy (119) and Doug Haines (155). Lapevic was a 3-2 loser to Waynesburg's John Kuntz in the bloody 132-pound finals.

Lapevic, who went into the tourney with a 24-0 record, pinned three straight opponents in the preliminary rounds to reach the finals and another confrontation with Kuntz, whom he had defeated 2-1 in last year's section final.

The first period was scoreless but Lapevic gained a quick reversal in the second period only to have Kuntz reverse and tie the bout at 2-2 going into the final two minutes. Lapevic controlled Kuntz for 1:45 but, with only 15 seconds remaining, Kuntz managed to escape. The noise inside the packed gym was deafening the instant the referee's hand signaled the point as Lapevic's 27-bout victory string came to an end. Nine of the 12 bouts ended with convincing wins with six falls and three superior decisions registered. During one stretch from 132 to 155, it appeared to be a bloodfield considering the amount of blood.

"I thought we were going to have to start blood transfusions," Ayersman said after the final bout.

On several occasions during the four bouts, the action had to be halted to treat bloody noses.

Stewart retained his title by pinning top-seeded Dan Basinger of Jefferson Morgan in the second period after holding a 12-2 lead. Gary Basinger, top-seeded in the 105-pound class, fared little better when he was defeated by sophomore John Throckmorton 17-1.

Marc Bartolomucci, also top-seeded and a freshman 112-pounder, lost to Howad Hornick of Bentworth on a three-point near fall in the final period. Waynesburg's Todd Eddy (119) had little trouble retaining his crown with a lopsided 13-1 victory over Rikk Walters, son of West Greene coach, Buzz Walters.

Barry Thistlethwaite of Jefferson Morgan, top-seeded in the 126-pound class, lost a 6-1 decision to Waynesburg's Ed Henderson who broke open a close bout with a third period reversal and two-point near fall.

After Kuntz became the unexpected fifth Waynesburg champion, Kevin Durkin joined the winner's circle with a second period fall over Terry Orlandi of Beth-Center. Orlandi held a 4-0 lead in the second period but Durkin took only 46 seconds to flip the lanky senior onto his back.

Bruce Bartholomew, who joined the Raider team late in the season, captured the 145-pound title with a fall over Beth-Center's Dave Trout after 44 seconds had elapsed in the second period. Bartholomew, now with a 10-1 record, held a 6-0 lead at the time of the fall.

Natili was the first to reach the official, then he fell in tears into the arms of teammate Mark Doppelheuer. Tim Tyler attempted to follow the officials out of the playing area to plead the case, but was restrained.

"Losing the way we did is hard to accept," Natili said later. "The referee made the call and then the buzzer went off and he took off. He blew that whistle and put his arms up. I know he did."

"I wouldn't mind it so much if he didn't make a call at all. But he blew the whistle and then he ran off."

If the Jackets would have been awarded a last shot by the foul call, Marisa said a lob to the rim with the hope of a tip by center Paul Epps was planned. But according to Eau Claire head coach Ken Anderson, Waynesburg's game clock had expired.

"I told our guys to go ahead and foul, just don't make it an intentional one," he said. "But the game was over. It doesn't matter."

That Eau Claire survived Waynesburg's slowdown tactics was enough solace for Anderson. And the Jackets' near-miss took some of the confusion and pain out of the bizarre ending to their otherwise extraordinary season.

"We gave it our best shot," said senior guard Mike Taylor.

"We went out in style as seniors. A few things here, a few things there and we're still playing. But I think as a team we rose to the occasion. We won the district and we won a game here. We have a lot of reasons to be proud."

Taylor joins Epps and Crowley as the graduating class of the Jackets. For Taylor and Epps, it's been a four-year dream finally realized. And they may never really know how close they came to advancing to the quarterfinals here tonight, but instead the Waynesburg contingent will be landing at 7 p.m. at Pittsburgh International Airport. The players will be coming home with memories and questions and doubts.

"We don't deserve to be going home," Natili said with his reddened eyes welling up again with tears.

"We're as good as anybody out here. I think we proved it against Eau Claire."

Jackets Score Two NAIA Second Places

EDMUND, Okla. — Phil Gifford (190) and Rick Diemert (167) both lost in the finals of the NAIA National Wrestling Tournament Saturday night at Central State College.

Gifford, a runnerup at 190 pounds for the second consecutive year, had registered four straight falls to gain a berth in the finals but lost an 8-2 decision to a wrestler he had defeated last year, Jim Meyer of the University of Wisconsin-River Falls, by an 8-1 margin.

Diemert won four decisions to gain the finals before losing 8-3 to Benny Coleman of Central St. The only other Jacket wrestler in the tournament, Richard Scheuermann, lost his first two bouts.

Waynesburg's three-man team finished eighth in the tournament which was won by the host Central State team which had six individual champs.

Central State, wrestling on its home mat as NAIA host, sent six wrestlers to the final round and all won national championships.

The Broncos won the team championship with a record 155 1/2 points. The previous high was 107 points by Lock Haven (Pa.) College in 1966.

Defending champion Adams State College, Colo., finished second with 69 1/2 points, 85 1/2 behind Central State.

The win was Central State's second national NAIA mat title in three years. The Broncos also won the national championship in 1979.

Youth Missing

WAYNESBURG — George W. Berry, 17, of Waynesburg R.D. 1, has been reported missing and state police are seeking information.

In Carmichaels

Dance, Talent Show Planned

CARMICHAELS — The Carmichaels Chamber of Commerce met Wednesday night in the Greene Academy and made plans for the annual dinner dance.

They also voted to sponsor a talent show and a sidewalk sale.

The 36th annual dinner-dance will be held Friday, April 24, in the Carmichaels Fire hall. Michael J. Lucas is chairman for the affair and Betty Long is in charge of ticket sales.

The speaker will be Sheriff Joseph Cavanaugh of Cambria County. Cocktail hour will begin at 6 p.m. with dinner at 7 p.m. Dancing will be 9 p.m. until midnight to the music of "Walter and Beaus."

March 30 is the deadline for payment of chamber dues for inclusion in the dinner program book. Dues are $10 for 1981.

The chamber will sponsor a talent show at the Carmichaels Area Senior Citizens' Center for the benefit of the center. It will be held Saturday, May 9. Tickets at $2 each will be limited. Acts for the talent show will be limited to 15 and must register by calling chamber president Joyce Peccon at 966-5897. Chamber members will be contacted to donate trophies and food and purchase program book ads and newspaper advertising.

Future plans call for a sidewalk sale on the town square Friday and Saturday, June 19 and 20. Community organizations will be allocated space and merchants will be urged to have display tables in front of their stores.

A donation of $50 was made to the Roger Williams Medical Fund which has been established at the Carmichaels First National Bank for the seven-year-old son of a former Carmichaels resident, Mrs. Frances May Williams. Roger will soon undergo a second kidney transplant. The kidney donated by his father was rejected.

Chamber president Joyce Peccon named Stephen McCann, Sara Ruth, and Betty Long to select a candidate for the Outstanding Womens Service Award sponsored by the Carmichaels Area Junior Womens Club.

Hospice of Geene County thanked the chamber for underwriting rental costs at the Greene Academy for Hospice training.

Announcement was made of the mud wrestling schedule for the Carmichaels fire hall Friday, March 27 to benefit the fire company building fund. A spring dance to be held Saturday, March 28 at the Carmichaels Area Senior Citizens' Center by the Cumberland Township Parks and Recreation Authority for the benefit of Wana B. Park.
