Patrolman Gets Chief's Job

WAYNESBURG — Patrolman Timothy Hawfield was promoted to Waynesburg Borough police chief at an adjourned meeting Tuesday of Waynesburg Borough Council.

All six of the nine council members present voted for the appointment, which fills a vacancy created when Chief James Rogers, who suffered a heart attack several months ago, indicated he would not be returning to the post.

TIMOTHY HAWFIELD

Hawfield was one of nine persons to submit applications, with six of them coming from members of the eight-man force. He was appointed on a six-month probationary basis with his annual salary set at $15,500, which is $2,000 above what he has been making as a patrolman.

Council President Glenn Richards made the motion to appoint Hawfield after explaining that council had met Saturday as a "committee of the whole" to interview the six local applicants. After Jim Eichenlaub had seconded the motion, Council members Frank VanCleve, Dave Godisart, Beverly Krill and Charles Berryhill voted in the affirmative. Joseph Stewart, Raymond Murdock and Thomas Brown were unable to attend.

Hawfield has been a member of the local force for almost two years, and prior to that was on the Point Marion police force for six months. He is 32 and a native of Bethesda, Md., where his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Hawfield, still reside.

He earned a Bachelor of Arts degree with a history major from Waynesburg College in 1971, and a Bachelor of Science degree with a major in business management from the University of Maryland in 1978. He was in service from 1971 to 1974, serving as a Chinese linguist with the Army Security Agency, and had three years of management experience at the Washington (D.C.) Hospital Center.

The new chief attended the State Police Training Academy at Greensburg.

The appointment is effective immediately and Hawfield will be working under Borough Manager James Ealy, who is responsible for overall administration of the police department.

Prior to the appointment of Hawfield, Lt. Kyle Eddy, senior member of the force with almost 15 years of seniority, had been acting as senior officer, although he was never officially appointed acting chief. Eddy was one of the six local members to submit applications, with others coming from Patrolmen Mike Fuller, James Gregan, Terry Livingston and Glenn Bates.

President Richards said council found the choice "a very difficult one to make" and stressed that bypassing of seniority should not be interpreted as a reflection on any member of the department.

Local Offices Stir Interest

WAYNESBURG — Greene County voters will be going to the polls Tuesday, May 19, to vote in a primary election in which virtually all of the interest will be concentrated on local offices.

At the state level there are contests only for the Supreme Court, Superior Court and Commonwealth Court. On the county level, candidate have no opposition for the three offices to be filled this year — those of sheriff, coroner and jury commissioners.

But there are a number of contests throughout the county for township and borough offices, and for school director seats.

The county's 51 polling places will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m., with 13,025 registered Democrats and 3,736 registered Republicans being eligible to vote.

In the Democratic primary, Sheriff Remo E. Bertugli of Rices Landing has no opposition for a second term. There is no Republican candidate.

Coroner Frank J. Behm of Jefferson, who is running for a fifth term, has no opposition in the Democratic primary, with David Szarell of Morris Township being the Republican candidate.

Both incumbent jury commissioners are also running without opposition — Bernice Kuharek of Mather in the Democratic primary and Margaret A. Perrin of Waynesburg in the Republican primary.

In addition to the local contests, there is a regional race for the post of district justice in Magisterial District 1, which comprises Waynesburg Borough and nine townships in western Greene County. In that race, incumbent John C. Watson of Holbrook R.D.1 is being challenged by John W. Keenan of Richhill Township and by Richard P. Krill of Waynesburg.

Court Upholds Scanlon Decision

Principal Must Be Reinstated

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Commonwealth Court has upheld a decision by the State Secretary of Education that William Harr of Carmichaels R.D.1 must be reinstated as principal of Carmichaels Area Junior-Senior High School.

Harr was suspended by the school board in January, 1978, after he was charged with using money from the student activity fund to buy a clock, a stereo and a tray for his personal use.

In reviewing the case on appeal by Harr, the Secretary of Education found that there were no written or oral directions from the board on whom the activities account should be used. He also sustained Harr's contention that the items had been purchased for school use and merely stored at his home.

The school board appealed to Commonwealth Court on the grounds that the secretary had not conducted a further hearing, and was basing his opinion on conflicting evidence. It contended the court should accept the find-

County Interviews Curry Applicants

By BOB EICHENLAUB
Greene County Editor

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County commissioners announced Thursday that they have begun to interview qualified applicants for the position of Curry Memorial Home administrator.

Five persons who are licensed to operate nursing homes in Pennsylvania were interviewed on April 30, and there is a possibility that additional applicants will also be considered, the commissioners said. They will probably act on the matter within 30 days.

The commissioners also confirmed that Thomas H. Boyd, who has been acting administrator of the nursing home since 1978, again took the examination for state licensing last week. He would be an eligible applicant if he passes the test.

The county has been told by the Department of Welfare that it must have a licensed administrator at the nursing home by Oct. 1, 1981, or face loss of state subsidies.

Sitting with County Treasurer Joseph Souders as members of the county salary board, the commissioners considered his request for one pay increase for four members of his staff.

Souders said he proposed this because they were hired as new employees after he took office in 1979 and have obtained the experience to qualify them for the eight percent pay raise.

"I feel they have done a very good job for the county and I have the money in my budget to cover the raises," Souders said.

No formal motion to grant the request was made. Instead, the commissioners asked for more time to study what such an action would have on the overall salary structure. It could possibly result in similar requests from other departments.

"I have no doubt that all our people desire more money, but we're in a precarious position because of the load already being carried by the taxpayers," Commissioner L.H. Santore said.

Neither was any action taken on a suggestion by Commissioner Richard Cowan that one of the employees in the commissioners' office be granted a raise because of the additional work load assumed after another employee resigned.

Wayne Rearick of Mather, chairman of the Greene County Emergency Medical Services Council, said his board would be willing to pay $250 a month in office rental out of the $5,200 in state money it receives each year to operate an office. In this way, the county would have $3,000 a year to apply toward the salary of an EMS coordinator after one is hired.

In the past, the EMS coordinator has been employed through the CETA program, but the present coordinator, Jeanine Jenkins, was laid off April 30 because the federal CETA program was cut back.

Rearick said the EMS Council will accept applications for the position of coordinator and will make a recommendation to the commissioners in the future.

Davin and Sons, Waynesburg, was awarded a contract for sandblasting and painting of the Eastern Greene swimming pool, Carmichaels, because it submitted a low bid of $7,300 with the stipulation that the work must be completed by May 22. This should allow the Department of Parks and Recreation to open the pool May 30 as scheduled.

Lloyd Richards of Carmichaels was given a contract to provide groundskeeping services at Pumpkin Run County Park, Rices Landing, this summer for a fee of $400 a month. He will provide his own equipment, gasoline and insurance.

Allen Hughes, who heads the Parks and Recreation Department, said the action was necessary because of the loss of CETA employees who normally do the work.

Kathleen Sullivan of the Community Nutrition Program of Community Action Corp. was given permission to select a tract of ground on county property near the Coallick Church, Old Route 21, for gardens. It will be used by those who want to plant gardens but do not have their own land.

A delegation of senior citizens presented the citation as chairman of the Greene County Advisory Council of the Southwestern Pennsylvania Area Agency on Aging "for its continued support and formal acknowledgment of Older Americans Month," which is being celebrated in May.

Sanner presented the citation as chairman of the Greene County Advisory Council of the Southwestern Pennsylvania Area Agency on Aging "for its continued support and formal acknowledgment of Older Americans Month," which is being celebrated in May.

The commissioners also received tokens of appreciation from the Greene County Vocational-Technical School in recognition of their support of the school program. Steve Sabo, instructor for the school's mining program, and Francis Gressley, student coordinator, handled this presentation.

The commissioners agreed to issue a proclamation supporting an open house to be held Thursday, May 21, at the vo-tech school.

Development Gripes Aired

CARMICHAELS — A group of 70 residents protesting the construction of a low income housing development to be located off Ceylon Road in Cumberland Township attended the Cumberland Township Supervisors meeting Thursday night and received support from the supervisors in their attempt to block the project.

The National Development Corp. received an exemption certificate in February, 1980, to build the 75-unit Parkview Knoll project. The supervisors explained this was not a building permit as there is no housing ordinance or zoning in the township. The only authority granted the supervisors in this situation is the issuance of a permit for construction when it is not located in a flood plain area.

The flood plain area is designated by the government and housing development would not be located in a flood prone area. The flood plain areas in the township are those properties that border the Monongehela River, the entire length of Muddy Creek and the Branch Creek by the Carmichaels Golf Course.

The protestors have retained an attorney and he pointed out that the exemption certificate was good for six months. Construction did not begin on the site until March of this year. Therefore, he said, the construction is illegal unless the certificate is re-issued or renewed.

After extensive discussion the supervisors, with the advice of their attorney John Hook, said they would notify the developers Friday of the permit expiration. They promised also "to not re-issue or renew the permit even if we go to court."

Attorney Hook said a construction can be stopped only by the courts, but the supervisors can initiate the action.

The 75-unit low income housing is located on approximately eight acres of the former Ely Baily farm. Most of that property has been developed into middle class, single family dwellings with most of those residents forming the core of the protest group.

The housing units would be rent-subsidized by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the area residents protest that the development is not needed or wanted. They plan to submit protest petitions to HUD and have 400 signatures to date.

Discussion centered on the possibility of restraining such housing because of the lack of pertinent ordinances in the township. The three supervisors said they are committed to zoning and for that reason initiated the township planning commission in 1979.

This commission of residents represents all areas of the township and has been meeting regularly. They prepared a comprehensive plan for the orderly growth of the township which was adopted by the township supervisors on Dec. 4, 1980.

The commission has now prepared a zoning ordinance. It was given to the supervisors last month and after review by them will be returned to the commission for the final draft. Public hearings will then be held and the supervisors will make a final adoption decision.

The township planning commission met following the supervisors meeting with 15 residents remaining to discuss the zoning districts which will be residential one and two, commercial, industrial and agricultural. It was pointed out that the proposed zoning ordinance does not pertain to present land use but would just permit orderly land use in the future.

Fire Won't Leave Family Alone

WAYNESBURG — A 17-year-old boy whose family has been burned out of two homes within the past few months was injured in another fire here Tuesday.

James Gaskill, 17, Waynesburg R.D.5, was taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital for treatment of a severe cut of the right thigh and lacerations of both hands.

He was in a house occupied by Irene (Patsy) Clayton, of 354 West High Street, which caught fire shortly before 9 p.m. Tuesday. Fire Chief John Gardner said the blaze apparently broke out in the closet of a second-floor bedroom.

Gardner said he was told by the family that the youth was injured when he jumped through the window of the bedroom. He said he was told that two older youths, including Gaskill, and two smaller children were in the house at the time. No one else was hurt.

The fire chief, who estimated damage at $5,000, said the property is owned by Russell Raymond of Waynesburg. The house is located below the bank along the town hill on the west end of town.

Gardner said fire damage was confined to the bedroom, but that there was some smoke and water damage throughout the frame house.

The injured youth is a son of Jack Gaskill, who was engaged to Miss Clayton.

The Gaskills lived in Oak Forest until fire destroyed their home on May 4. The preceding day, fire damaged a barn at their property, and in September, 1980, fire destroyed a house in which they were living at that time.

School Board OKs Repair Work Bid

MAPLETOWN — Work to correct the faulty sewage system at the Mapletown Junior-Senior High School is expected to start soon.

Tuesday night the Southeastern Greene School Board gave temporary approval to a $61,000 bid from Zane Excavating Inc. of North Lima, Ohio, contingent upon solicitor John Stets' review of the firm.

The company is expected to revamp the existing sand filtering system, build a powerhouse at the facility with a cyclone fence around it and grade and seed the area.

The $61,000 bid was the only one received by the board after it rejected a $89,000 bid from Commonwealth Stone and re-advertised the project.

The board also agreed to spend $2,500 to upgrade electrical wiring in two elementary schools.

Doug Kerr, an electrician, said he had located 21 light fixtures in the Penn Pitt and Glassworks schools that needed repair. The inspection was made after a small electrical fire was reported at the Penn Pitt school. The fire, due to faulty wiring, occurred May 4 but did no damage.

Guidance counselor Miller Barb submitted his request for retirement, effective June 15, and it was approved.

The board also awarded bids to Webber National Stores of Washington for $4,669 and Sportsmans of Johnstown for $5,997. The bids include uniforms, equipment and medical supplies for the wrestling and football programs.

Blue Cross medical insurance for employees of the district was approved. However, due to rising costs, the board discussed the possibility of pursuing another insurance plan in the future.

The board will hold a workshop meeting to prepare the district's tentative budget next Tuesday.

Council Will Solicit Bids On Waste Collection, Disposal

By BOB EICHENLAUB
Staff Writer

WAYNESBURG — Waynesburg Borough Council Monday opened the borough's solid waste collection and disposal franchise to the bidding process.

The decision to solicit proposals was made after the Long Trucking Co. of Waynesburg R.D.3, which holds the franchise, submitted its proposal for the increased fees it will require to establish a solid waste transfer station and purchase the equipment needed to haul garbage and rubbish to a landfill outside the county. Long's present contract will expire in June.

Long is the collector in both the borough and Franklin Township. He is currently disposing of waste at the Waynesburg landfill. It was scheduled to be shut down on May 15 under an agreement with the Department of Environmental Resources, but Borough Manager James Ealy said he has obtained a 30-day delay in the closing.

Carl Long, president of the company, presented a proposal for a new contract which calls for an increase from $4.50 to $7.50 per month in the fee charges for curbside pickups from residential customers, and from $5 to $8 a month for those whose trash is picked up at the back door. It also projects an increase from $8.76 per month to $12.67 in the fee charged commercial customers.

Long said he will require the increase because he will have to build a concrete transfer station on part of the landfill property, and then purchase a specially-built trailer and a tractor to haul the refuse to a landfill in either Fayette or Washington County. He also would be required to employ two additional people, one to staff the transfer station and the other to drive the tractor-trailer.

Long also said it would require 120 days to receive delivery on the trailer, which would be specially built, although there is a possibility that he could rent one from the company while the one he ordered was being built.

The proposal, submitted at the request of council, would be the basis of a renewed four-year contract and the proposed new fee schedule would go into effect on July 1.

Discussion on the proposal included questions from council on the number of residents, particularly in apartments, who are receiving free service because they are not listed as customers. Long agreed that the problem exists and said that he is considering several steps to make collections more efficient, including placing stickers on containers belonging to paid-up customers and changing bill collections from a quarterly to a monthly basis to eliminate the problem of short-term residents "who vanish without paying their bill."

"It seems that if you could get this on a basis where everybody pays, you could get along with a much smaller increase in fees," Councilman Charles Berryhill said.

Council stressed that it was not attempting to deprive Long of a chance to have his contract renewed, but said it feels that acceptance of proposals from others might eliminate a lot of complaints that the size of the fee increase is not justified.

The proposals are scheduled to be opened at the June meeting.

In other action, council adopted a resolution to the effect that the central business district — along High Street between Morgan and Morris Streets — is in need of supplemental funding to support the renovation program being undertaken by the Waynesburg Economic Revitalization Commission (WERC).

The resolution was adopted in support of an application by WERC for a grant of $75,000 from the State Department of Community Affairs to supplement its $463,540 federal Small Cities block grant.

The borough manager was authorized to solicit bids for gasoline to be supplied during the coming year, with Ealy esti-imating the borough will use approximately 15,000 gallons during the year. He was also authorized to obtain bids for sale of a former Nova police cruiser and a Ford pick-up truck, both of which are excess equipment.

Jim Eichenlaub of the public utilities committee announced that a study of fire hydrants is nearing completion and that all hydrants will be tested on a weekend in the near future. The date will be announced in advance since the required test will muddy water going into homes for a period of time.

President Glenn Richards announced that a recessed meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 12, to take action on a matter for which data was not available at Monday's meeting. He declined to specify the nature of the item to be acted upon.

Local Candidates For Tuesday's Primary Listed

WAYNESBURG — Contests for offices in most local municipalities will highlight the primary election in Greene County Tuesday, May 19.

Both Democrats and Republicans will nominate one or more supervisors and auditors, a tax collector and an assessor in each of the county's 20 townships.

Voters in the six boroughs will nominate members of council, a mayor, a tax collector and an auditor.

Additionally, members will be nominated for school board seats in each of the five school districts, and election board members will be elected in each of the county's 51 precincts.

College Names Valedictorians

WAYNESBURG — Mary L. Ferrari and J. Marie Webb have been chosen to be valedictorians for the class of 1981 at Waynesburg College's 130th commencement exercises Sunday, May 17.

Ferrari, a resident of Washington, has attained a perfect 4.0 grade-point average while majoring in accounting. She is a member of Alpha Kappa Psi, the business honorary, Drus, the women's honorary, and has served as president of Xi Psi Epsilon, the college-wide academic honorary.

She also participated in intramural athletics, the theater, and the Big-Little Sister program. She served as a freshmen guide and received the Paul R. Stewart Alumni Award.

Webb, a resident of Nineveh, also attained a perfect 4.0 average while majoring in English. She has served as president of the English honorary and editor of "The Green Fuse," the campus literary magazine.

She is a tutor, as well as being a recipient of the President's Honor Scholarship. She has won various departmental awards and has been a winner of the Paul R. Stewart Alumni Award.

Webb will recite the valedictory poem and Ferrari will deliver the valedictory to the college.

Baccalaureate and commencement will be held Sunday, May 17 with baccalaureate beginning at 11 a.m. and commencement at 2:30 p.m.

Dr. Jerry McAfee, chairman of the board of directors of Gulf Oil Corp., will deliver the commencement address and will be awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Dr. Ernest J. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon. He will receive an honorary doctor of humane letters degree.

This year, more than 170 students will receive baccalaureate and associate degrees.

Passes Test

JEFFERSON — The Southwestern Pennsylvania Water Authority has been notified by the Environmental Protection Agency that recent samples of the authority's water have revealed there is no significant level of volatile organic compounds in the water supply.

According to William J. Bartoletti, the survey was part of one done statewide in cooperation with the state Department of Environmental Resources.

Callaghan Wins Outstanding Service Award

CARMICHAELS — The Junior Women's Club of the Carmichaels Area has selected Thelma Callaghan to receive the 1981 Outstanding Women's Service Award.

Local organizations submitted nominations to the club based on service in the community. This marks the third year a woman from Carmichaels Borough was selected for the award. Ruth Atalski received the award in 1979 and Sara L. Ruth in 1980.

The third annual award dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. Friday, June 12 in the Carmichaels Grange Hall. Tickets will be limited and will be available from Junior Women's Club committee members Connie Morris, Betsy Bailey and Coral Brodak.

Mrs. Callaghan has been in-involved in her community for many years and much of her interest has been generated through her work, as a correspondent with the Observer-Reporter.

Mrs. Callaghan has been publicity director for the King Coal Association and the Pennsylvania Bituminous Coal Show for the past 19 years, receiving a service award in 1974. She also was a member of the queen committee for 12 years. She has been publicity chairman of the Carmichaels Chamber of Commerce for many years and received a recognition award in 1979.

She was a charter member of the Greene Academy of Art and is a member of the Carmichaels First United Methodist Church, the United Methodist Women and serves on the Council of Ministries and the administrative board. She was recently appointed to her second term on the board of trustees of Flenniken Memorial Public Library and is currently a member of the special building committee.

Mrs. Callaghan is a member of the Greene Academy Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution and is chairman of the publicity and national defense committees; the auxiliary of Cumberland Post 400, American Legion and the Greene County Community Concert Association.

In the past, she was chairman of a special committee appointed to prepare a scrapbook for the West Penn Power Community Development contest. The book won Carmichaels a $2,000 first prize.

14 Scouts Honored

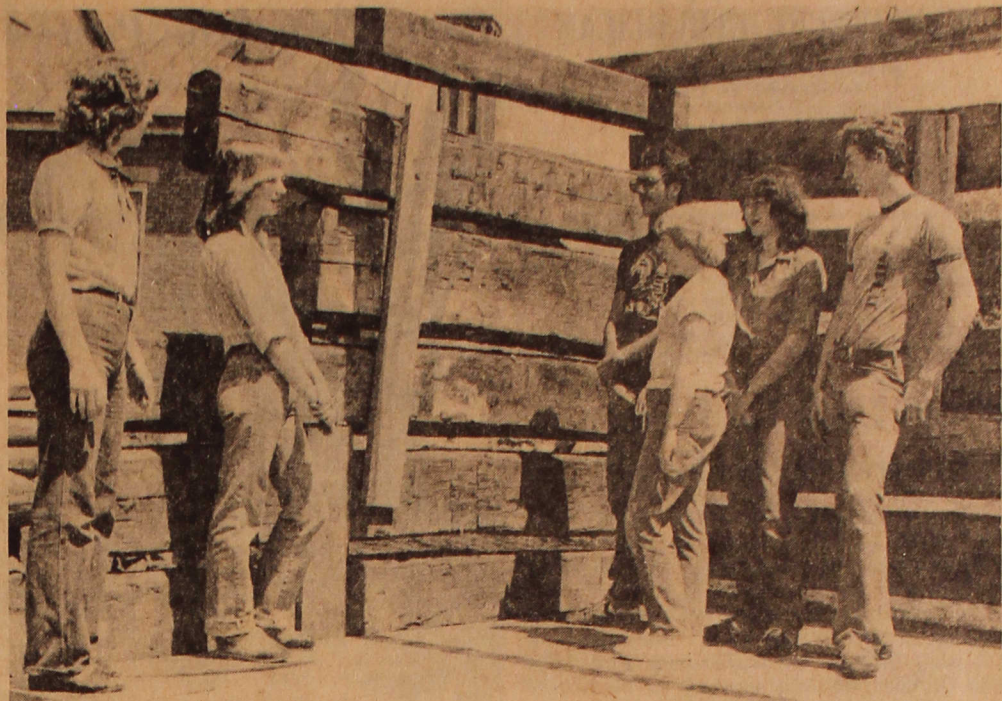

CARMICHAELS — Fourteen scouts of Cub Pack 1262, Carmichaels, received awards at the blue and gold dinner held recently at the Greene Valley Reformed Presbyterian Church hall.

Cub Master Jim Roybal presented the awards, which included wolf badges and gold and silver arrows to the boys: Jimmy Phillips, Michael Farrar, Scott Reynolds, Jason Sheldon, Kevin Stefcheck, Jackie Maskill, Brian Palone, Danny Suppock, Dwayne Shuey, William Czynowski, Jimmie Roybal, Douglas and Ronald Kerr and Tony Bigi.

Dr. Wellington Friday, Greene district chairman, spoke. He asked the scouts to stand and said, "You're pledged to serve. You'll be surprised how often you're asked to serve. Many people forget the weight that's on America's shoulders. It's important to keep your eyes on serving your family, your community, and the supreme sacrifice of serving your country."

An unusual baking contest was invented to test the skills of fathers and sons in baking cakes to be auctioned off at the banquet. Some of the winners showed such pride in their results that they tried to buy back their products. Some cakes were auctioned off for as much as $10 as the prices were inflated by proud fathers. The winners for first, second and third place were Tim Winslow, Bill Craig and Jimmie Roybal. Brian Crockard took the award for most original cake.

The parents' attendance award went to Beverly Kerr. Recognition was given to Marlene Hook for her continued assistance and to new member, Iris Farrar, den leader coach.

Orndorff, Lemley Wed In Outdoor Ceremony

Christina L. Orndorff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Clark Orndorff of Waynesburg R.D.3, and Rodney B. Lemley were married Saturday, April 25, 1981. Mr. and Mrs. REX Lemley of Waynesburg R.D.3 are parents of the groom.

The outdoor 2:30 p.m. double-ring ceremony, at the home of the bride, was performed by the Rev. William Ryan, Clarketta O. Simpson, sister of the bride, was organist and Autumn Stewart sang three songs. The porch entrance was flanked by strands of red roses and mixed flowers, and a garland of lily of the valley.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a sport suit of brown and light blue with an oatmeal blazer. She carried a brown basket with beige trim and light blue streamers filled with red roses, daisies and other mixed flowers. She wore a gold bracelet that had been worn by Bessie Litman, her maternal grandmother, at her wedding.

Charlotte O. Dinsmore, sister of the bride, of Frederick, Md., was matron of honor and wore a sport suit of brown and beige with a corsage of daisies.

Mark Lemley, brother of the groom of Waynesburg R.D.3, served as best man. Corby L. Orndorff, brother of the bride, was usher.

A reception for members of the immediate family was held at the home. Mildred McNett baked the cake and Mary Belle Orndorff served as an aide. Robert Litman, uncle of the bride, took the couple on a ride through Waynesburg in a restored horse-drawn surrey, a tradition of the bride's Amish friends.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Waynesburg Central High School. She attended Penn State University. She is self-employed as a Belgian horse breeder.

Her husband is also a 1974 graduate of Waynesburg Central High School. He is employed by the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation.

Following a weekend hiking trip to Chestnut Ridge and Coopers Rock, the couple is residing at Waynesburg R.D.3.

Dentist Talks Of Health

WAYNESBURG — Rotarian James T. Miller, a dentist, told the Waynesburg Rotary Club this week about changes in dental health, especially among children, within the past decade.

During his talk, Miller stressed the "importance of starting dental care as early in life as possible, even before school years begin," as one of the best means for combating tooth and gum decay.

"Teeth are a part of our body just as any limb or organ," he said, "and we should do everything possible to keep them as long as we can."

He credits the widened use of fluoridated water, along with more care, better hygiene and diet as some of the reasons for better dental health over the past few years.

"Parents should not teach fear but rather encourage children to visit dentists regularly so that these children will continue to visit their dentists as adults," he added.

According to Miller, about 48 percent of all Americans receive some dental care annually. This means, of course, that 52 percent do not receive any care. Twenty-eight percent receive regular care.

Vows Exchanged In Fredericktown

A trip to Florida followed the wedding of Cynthia A. Sevec and William C. Housley III. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Paul Simko in St. Michaels Church, Fredericktown, on April 25, 1981. The soloist was Lee Moorehouse.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Sevec of Clarksville and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Housley Jr. of Mt. Lebanon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin designed with a Queen Anne neckline, long tapered sleeves, bodice, sleeves and waistline enhanced with Alencon lace and pearls. The A-line skirt edged with matching lace cascaded into a cathedral train. A Camelot cap held her veil of illusion which was trimmed with Alencon lace and pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of white carnations, white spider mums and pink rose buds with white ribbon.

Rori Sevec attended as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Terri Cassin, Kiri Santucci, Barbie Moorehouse, Connie Brooks and Jane Lorence. Their gowns were in pastel shades of orchid, pink, daphna rose, blue, apricot and green respectively. The flower girl was Terri Deems.

Jim Whiting of Mt. Lebanon served as best man. The ushers Bob Housley, Andy Sevec, Keith Drummond,

MRS. HOUSELEY

Terry Moore, and Jim Lorence. The ring bearer was Mickie McCollum.

The reception for approximately 700 guests was held in the Carmichaels Fire Hall. Out of state wedding guests were from Louisiana, Chicago, Missouri, Connecticut and Toronto, Canada.

The bride is a graduate of Jefferson-Morgan High School and is employed by Victor W. Lapkovic D.M.D. The bridegroom is a graduate of Mt. Lebanon High School and is employed by his father.

Penalty Urged For Those Who Carelessly Set Fires

Township supervisors in Greene County have been urged to enact ordinances which would penalize persons who carelessly set fires which result in grass fires.

The request was made last week at the annual meeting of the Greene County Association of Township Officials by Waynesburg Fire Chief John Gardner, who was speaking for the Greene County Firemen's Association.

"Of the 72 alarms our company has answered to date this year, 34 have been field fires, and I would estimate that more than 90 percent of them were the result of just plain carelessness," he said.

Most of them, he said, spread from trash fires or were the result of burning off brush on a windy day.

Gardner proposed a model ordinance which would restrict trash burning to certain hours of the day and would require that enclosed containers be used. It would also require that a property owner obtain the approval of his local fire company before attempting to burn off a field, so that there would be some assurance that wind conditions were favorable and that an adequate number of persons would be on hand to keep it from getting out of control.

The Waynesburg fire chief said that one or two townships in the county already have such regulations, but the penalties, in his opinion, are insufficient and enforcement is non-existent.

"I feel the fine for violations should be at least $100 and that it should be levied against the property owner, not a renter," he said.

He also suggested that the township turn over all such fines collected to the fire company which serves the municipality, particularly where it is difficult for the township to provide the financial support needed by its volunteer fire company.

"You would be doing something to help your fire company financially and at the same time would cut down on the number of these unnecessary alarms," he concluded.

The suggestion is a sensible one. Firemen have enough responsibility without being forced to spend many hours of hard work in beating out brush fires which would not occur if people were more careful and less thoughtless.

AROUND TOWN

By THE STAFF

The stay-at-home Greene Countians are now starting to enjoy some of the milder weather those who went to Florida or the west coast enjoyed for most of the winter. One of the last getting into town was Bill Lemley, who has a permanent winter home in Florida but still prefers to come "back home" for the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Custer have returned to their home on South Richhill Street after visiting their son Charles who is associated with the New York State Library system and lives at Schneetady. His home is within sight of the historic Erie Canal which besides being a great tourist attraction is still used by commercial and industrial firms in transportation of heavy cargo material.

One of the oldest dwellings on Waynesburg's South Side was saved in a fire Tuesday evening. It is the two-story, frame home located beside the former "Sowers Bottom" along the old W&W narrow gauge railroad tracks. A 17-year-old boy residing there temporarily suffered severe cuts when he jumped from a second-floor window. The building is owned by Russell Raymond.

Work on the new plaza at the county courthouse is proceeding rapidly under the direction of contractor Bill Hopkins. The contract also calls for new steps to the courthouse. Some of the work will be in line with the revitalization project in the downtown area which is being funded with federal grant.

Members of all religious faiths shared the grief of the family of Mrs. Dorothy Davison of West Franklin Street which occurred last week following a long illness.

Although born and raised in Richmond, Va., all of her adult life was spent in Waynesburg where she and her husband Fred reared their family of five sons and five daughters in the finest family traditions. Their marriage was the climax of a World War I romance when Fred, a Waynesburg native, was stationed at Camp Lee, Va. where he met his future wife in church.

Because of her musical talent, particularly as a vocalist, she played a leading role in the Bethel AME Church, near which they resided in a stone house thought to be the oldest dwelling in town and which they owned for many years.

Besides her own church, Mrs. Davison was also on musical programs in other churches throughout Greene County and at many public events and social affairs.

All 10 of her children were home for the funeral. They have traveled many paths and have reared families of their own. They included Robert from Boston, formerly of the Polaroid Corp. and now a researcher and teacher with the Gillette Corp.; Norman, from New York; Frank, a retired printer from Washington; Lawrence, a barber from Washington and George, a retired postal employee from Waynesburg.

Also, Mrs. Jeannette Campbell, a school teacher in Shoreman, N.J.; Mrs. Lillian Allen, a homemaker from Bethel Park; Mrs. Carolyn Sue Patterson from Pittsburg; Lenora Latorraine from New York City and Henrietta who resided with her mother.

During her residency here Mrs. Davison was a familiar part of the Waynesburg scene and will be long-remembered for the lyrical qualities of her voice which brought solace to those in sorrow, joy to those on occasions for rejoicing and comfort when the day's work was done.

Her vocal talents and her willingness to share them with fellow townsmen and others in neighboring communities will be her most enduring monument in the days and the years that are yet to be.

Faces From The Past—Do You Recognize Them

Buchanan Mansion Recalled

This mansion, in its heyday, was the hilltop home of the founder of the Buchanan family in West Waynesburg. The late J.A.J. Buchanan was traveling through Waynesburg on foot en route from Philadelphia to Illinois when he became ill. When he recovered, he decided to remain in Waynesburg permanently and founded the law firm of Buchanna and Walton. The home is pictured in the last days of its existence in the mid 1930s. A trailer court now occupies the spot where his mansion stood. Buchanan even had his own station on the old Waynesburg-Washington narrow gauge railroad line.

Group Airs Complaints

By BOB EICHENLAUB
Greene County Editor

WAYNESBURG — A small group of Cumberland Township residents told the Greene County Planning Commission Wednesday that it doesn't want a Section 8 public housing development constructed along the Ceylon Road because it will conflict with the surrounding area, which is dedicated to one-family homes.

The group attended the commission's meeting in the hope that it could and would block further construction at the site, but received no more than a promise that the planning commission staff would monitor the project and make a report at the June meeting. National Development Corp. has already started construction on the project, which will include 75 units of garden apartments and town houses to be built on 7.5 acres of land at a cost of some $4 million.

"Most of us who reside in the area feel there were inconsistencies in the manner in which it (plan for the development) was approved and we would like to see the development stopped," Ed Commons, spokesman for the group of property owners said. "We feel it is not in the best interest of the area in which we live."

The group raised a number of questions about action of the planning commission in approving plans for the project in February of this year, centering primarily on a section of the county site development regulations which state, in part, that the planning commission should assess all developments in terms of its effect on surrounding property to make sure that it will be harmonious.

In reply, County Planner Valerie Cole said that regulation of this type, which involves land use, can be controlled only through zoning regulations, and that neither Cumberland Township nor Greene County has a zoning ordinance. She explained that the county has set up and enforces standards for housing developments, but that this does not place any limitations on where such development can occur.

Mrs. Cole also said that she and Assistant Planner Linda Kolat, accompanied by Karl Niederwerfer of the Soil Conservation Service, had visited the National Development site last week, and that the developer is conforming to the plan which was approved in doing his construction work. The residents also made the point that the developer's construction permit from Cumberland Township had expired before construction began, and has not been renewed. Planning Commission Chairman Robert Lang said that is a matter which does not involve the commission and must be dealt with among the property owners, developer and township supervisors.

In other matters, the planning commission gave clearinghouse approval to applications for public funding for three projects.

Township Board Issues Statement

CARMICHAELS — The Cumberland Township board of supervisors Wednesday issued a statement to clarify the township's position in connection with the dispute over the Parkview Knoll housing development in the township.

The statement, which is intended to counter misinformation, follows:

"In response to issues and statements made concerning the Parkview Knoll Development located in Cumberland Township, the Cumberland Township supervisors make the following clarifications: "The supervisors of Cumberland Township issued a flood plain exemption certificate to the developers of Parkview Knoll under the provision of Township Ordinance No. 1, 1975, which relates solely to construction within a flood plain as determined by the Army Corps of Engineers. Since this project is not in a flood prone area, a certificate must be issued.

"At the present time, Cumberland Township has no other ordinance providing the supervisors with regulatory powers over any development or building in Cumberland Township.

"The Cumberland Town-

Township Board Issues Statement

ship Planning Commission has submitted a comprehensive plan for the development of the township. This plan has been tentatively approved by the supervisors and will be finally approved in the near future.

"In April, 1981, the Cumberland Township Planning Commission prepared for the supervisors a zoning ordinance which is presently being reviewed and which will be considered for adoption in the near future.

"Public hearings will be held prior to the adoption of the comprehensive plan and the zoning ordinance, as mandated by law, so that township residents may have input.

"The township does not have a subdivision and land development ordinance. Such regulations have been issued by the County of Greene and are being administered by the Greene County Planning Commission. Ann developments and buildings in Greene County are subject to this ordinance adopted by the Greene County commissioners."

KEYSTONE SENIOR CITIZENS

The Keystone Senior Citizens will meet for game day at 1 p.m. Monday, May 18, at Avalon Court, Waynesburg.

Endorsed was an application by the Mt. Morris Water Authority for a grant of $32,000 from the State Department of Commerce Community Facilities program toward the $62,000 it will cost to lay a water line extension along Interstate 79.

The commission also approved an application by the Carmichaels-Cumberland Joint Sewer Authority for a $50,000 supplemental grant for its plan to eliminate flooding by constructing a pump station and settlement basin. It has also been submitted under the Community Facilities program.

The third application has been made by Cumberland Township to the Pennsylvania Bureau of Appalachian Development for a grant of $50,000 to supplement the $2.1 million federal grant it has received for storm sewers, sanitary sewers and housing redevelopment at Crucible.

Final approval was given to the inclusion of two lots in the Earl Szojka lot plan in Jefferson Township which were omitted from the original lot plan when it was approved in 1976. It did so on the basis of an opinion by its solicitor that the lack of approved roads in the lot plan, which is currently the subject of litigation between the property owners and developer, did not affect the issue.

Conditional approval was given to a six-lot Wisecarver Run lot plan in Washington Township, but turned down a request for approval of an eight-lot plan to be developed in Morgan Township by James M. Hefferen because the required filing fee of $5 per lot had not been paid.

Property "splits," involving the deeding of pieces of property to family members, were approved in four cases, under the provision of the subdivision regulations which provides that they are not subject to the procedures required in other cases in which land is subdivided.

Area Organizations Need Volunteers

The following is a weekly column organized by Linda Mack of the Washington-Greene Community Action listing organizations' needs for area volunteers. Any agency or organization that uses volunteers and would like to be listed in the column should call her at 852-2893.

A.M.I., INC. — A.M.I., Inc. of Washington and Greene County is a social rehabilitation program for people with mental and emotional problems. Volunteers are needed to socialize with these people, help with crafts and play games. Meetings are from 1 to 3 p.m. on Wednesdays at the First Methodist Church and from 1 to 3 p.m. on Fridays in the Gallatin Bank social room. If you would like to help or need more information, call Becky Stoy Wilson at 627-3654.

BOWLBY LIBRARY — Eva K. Bowlby Library needs volunteers to provide a variety of library tasks. Help is needed to do light typing, shelving books and working at the circulation desk. Contact Marjory Johnston at 627-9776.

WARRIOR TRAIL SCHOOL — Volunteers are needed one or more afternoons per week to work with three to six-year-old children. Activities will include reading stories, teaching simple lessons and playing group games. Call Nancy Ferrari at 627-8363.

TOY LENDING LIBRARY — Adult volunteers are needed at a toy lending library to entertain children or talk with the parents while the children play. Hours are from 10 a.m. to noon Tuesday and 6 to 8 p.m. Wednesday. Contact Debbie Campbell at 852-2487 or Carol DeLouis at 627-8705.

R.S.V.P. — The Retired Senior Volunteer Program needs senior citizens to help provide many volunteer services working with non-profit organizations. Some of these services involve clerical duties. Volunteers are also needed to help at the Greene County Historical Society. For more information, contact Jill Gordon at the Area Agency on Aging, 852-1510 or the local Senior Citizens Center.

COMMUNITY ACTION — The Senior Service Program needs volunteers to make daily telephone calls to elderly shut-ins as a safety check. This service can be provided from your own home. Training will be provided. Call Linda Mack at 852-2893.

HOSPICE PROGRAM — Hospice will begin two volunteer training courses in Waynesburg. The first will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 13 at St. Ann's Catholic Church and the other from 10 a.m. to noon on Wednesday, May 20 in the Hospice office at 54 West Franklin Street. To enroll or get more information call Jane Schomp at 627-8118.

TRY AGAIN HOMES — Volunteers are needed for typing, filing and light office work. Contact David Dinich at 852-2227.

Under The Dome

Bob Eichenlaub

With the exception of one magisterial contest and a few local races, there is little to attract Greene County voters in next Tuesday's primary election.

At the state level, the only thing on the ballot — both Democratic and Republican — are judicial contests for the Supreme Court, Superior Court and Commonwealth Court. And they seldom excite much interest among voters.

At the county level it's even worse. On the Democratic ballot, Sheriff Remo E. Bertugli, Coroner Frank J. Behm and Jury Commissioners Bernice Kuharek have no opposition. On the Republican side there is no candidate for sheriff; David Szarell of Morris Township is the only person running for coroner, and Jury Commissioner Margaret A. Perrin has no opponent to bar her from re-election.

That leaves the local level, and that's where the interest will be generated.

In the county's first magisterial district, for example, incumbent John Watson of Holbrook R.D.1 faces what appears to be a tough challenge from Waynesburg Attorney Richard Krill and John W. Keenan of Graysville, a former law enforcement officer.

And with incumbent supervisors in nine of the county's 20 townships having decided not to run for re-election, there is a lot of action at that level. There are, for example, 12 persons running for the seat now held by Thomas Skiles, and in Wayne Township eight people, including the three incumbents, all of whom were appointed, are tied up in red-hot race.

Some of the other races people are certain to be watching include the mayoralty battle in Carmichaels Borough, where Council President Robert Dobbins is challenging veteran Paul Connor, and in the Jefferson-Morgan School District, where 12 persons are running for three school board seats.

These contests, and others in virtually every township, borough and school district, are carrying the burden of getting voters to the polls next Tuesday.

The ballots are long and the count will be slow, with the election being one in which a 65 percent turnout would have to be considered a good one.

Fact and Folklore

John O'Hara

In this space age when America's brave astronauts are making more and more daring explorations of outer space, several Greene Countians are involved in dedicated efforts to recapture the charms and utility of the buildings which sheltered its first settlers—the log cabins of colonial days.

More and more of these people who gladly donate their time and effort to preserve and restore these picturesque structures they sheltered those who had left their homes in Europe to have freedom and hopefully discover wealth or a portion of it.

Building a home in pioneer days was generally a group effort on the part of friends and neighbors of the home builders. The "log-raising" also became festive attractions which had the dual objectives of providing a bit of social life as well as much needed help.

The restoration of one such cabin is now under way at the grounds of the Greene County Historical Society in Franklin Township on the site of the former county home just across the highway from the Curry Memorial Home.

Through the generosity of Robert Owen, a Blacksville funeral director and the interest of Terry Cole, the Historical Society has received the former Jess Rush cabin that was a part of the thousand-acre land grant farm of the Mathias Brant farm in the area which includes the village of Spraggs.

Carefully, log-by-log and stone-by-stone from its sturdy foundation the cabin is being re-assembled by Russell Headlee, former state assemblyman from Greene County and a life-long wholesale dealer in lumber. He was a sawmill owner who has much expertise in such work and above all else, a deep appreciation of the practical and romantic role that the log cabin played in the early history of the United States.

He speaks of wood, especially that which was grown in Greene County, with the same enthusiasm as a collector of rare jewels would regard a choice diamond or a sapphire or other rare stone.

Both Headlee and his son Thomas of Rogersville, who is an experienced lumberman in his own right, were surprised at the size of some of the logs which were 20 inches in diameter. Some seem to have been almost miraculous preserved but others had been exposed in such a way as to have to be replaced.

Originally the ancient cabin had a second floor, known in those days as a loft, and used exclusively for sleeping or caring for the sick but the rebuilt relic will be only one story. It will be 18 by 23 feet in overall dimensions.

Although the work is being supervised by Mr. Headlee many others have assisted in many ways, particularly Dr. Grover Phillippi, a Waynesburg physician, who provided material and labor for the foundation on which it will stand. He has also been generous in other ways, Headlee said, and without his help the project could not have been completed at this time.

Headlee said the roof will be constructed of shake shingles, a traditional roofing method used before tin became popular.

Miss Josephine Denny, one of the organizers and a past president of the historical society, has been generous in her support of the restoration project as has Rev. George Shultzabarger, the current society president and Miss Mary Childs, curator of the museum.

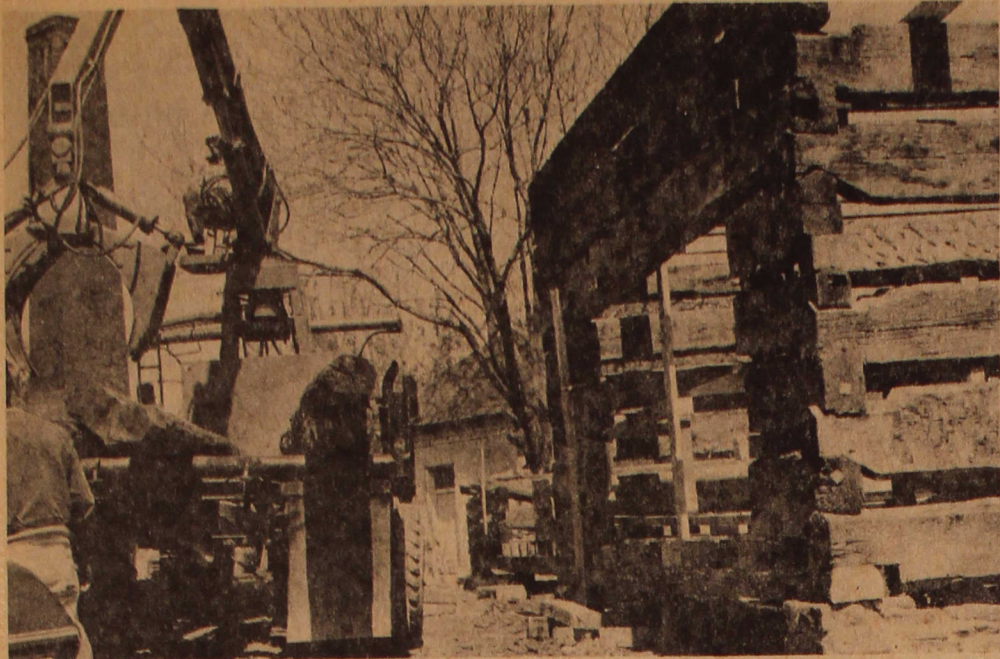

Another Greene Countian who is making a highly significant contribution to restoring the log cabin to its place in the county's contemporary life is Orval Dayton of Waynesburg R.D. 1, just a mile north of Route 88, east of Waynesburg. He built a cabin so well he moved into it and has lived there for several years.

He is currently completing another in which he has incorporated several innovated construction features too intricate to be described in non-technical terms. It is basically a method of actually "fitting" heavy logs and support timbers into a unitized structure which has much greater strength and durability than the less-gifted craftsmen of the frontiers were ever able to master. Mr. Dayton is a retired industrial arts teacher in the Central Greene School District.

Most of the first home in Waynesburg were log cabin structures including of course Fort Jackson near Ten Mile Creek near the east end of Greene Street. It was where the settlers took refuge when there were Indian attacks.

The town's first hotel and presumably bar (the Bull's Head Tavern) was also a log cabin. One of the last was on West Lincoln Street, a half block west of Richhill Street. It was destroyed by fire in 1923 while it was occupied by an elderly couple that escaped unharmed when a barking dog awakened them.

In recent years, national attention has been centered on the qualities, both practically and sentimentally of the cabins, through the publication of the well-researched book by C.A. Weslager, "The Log Cabins in America" and many have been built or restored in Greene County which will be listed in a later article in this newspaper, along with names of others involved in such restorations.

'There Aren't Many Left' Cabin Reconstructed

WAYNESBURG — A log cabin, which is typical of those built in Greene County when it was part of the frontier, is being erected by the Greene County Historical Society at its museum along old Route 21 east of Waynesburg.

Russell Headlee of Garards Fort, a member of the Historical Society board of directors, is directing the work, which involves reconstruction of a cabin which was located on the former Jesse Rush farm at Spraggs.

The cabin was the central core of a frame house and was donated to the society by Robert Owens, Blacksburg funeral home owner, who purchased the farm recently from the Rush heirs.

"As is true in so many cases, you would never have realized the log cabin existed to look at the house," Headlee said. "It had been added to and then covered with clapboard to make a farm house."

Headlee, a veteran timberman, said that the logs are hand-hewn oak and that some of them are as much as 20 inches thick. "I was amazed at their size; I couldn't believe it," he said.

There will be one difference between the reconstructed building and the original structure. Headlee will wind up with a one-story building while the original one was two stories high.

"Some of the logs were in bad condition and we felt we shouldn't try to use them.

When we're done we want a building that will stand for at least another hundred years."

But everything possible will be authentic.

The open fireplace made of huge hand-cut native stone will be incorporated into the building, and the original foundation materials have been used to create the foundation for the new cabin.

"Dr. (Grover) Phillippi (of Waynesburg) has been very generous and helpful," Headlee said. "He provided us with material and labor for the foundation and has been generous in a lot of other ways.

Josephine Denny has also been very generous in her support. Without them it would have been almost impossible to undertake the project."

Headlee is being assisted by his son Gene, who is using his machinery on the project, and by some individuals from the museum, including the Rev. George Shultzabarger, president of the historical society, and administrator Mary Childs.

Mrs. Melvin Dodge of Spraggs, a granddaughter of Jesse Rush, said that her grandfather had purchased the farm from the descendants of Caleb Spragg, who had purchased the farm many years ago from the Mathias Brant family, which had a land grant of 1,000 acres which included the farm.

Mrs. Dodge speculates that the log cabin was built in the early part of the 19th century, but said that she has no idea who erected it.

"It is a very old building," she said, adding that she had lived in the house of which it was a part about 30 years ago.

The house had been empty for more than 10 years when it was donated to the Historical Society by Owens and was in poor condition.

Headlee said the reconstructed cabin will measure 18 by 23 feet and added that he plans to floor it with oak and cherry lumber. He currently is at the stage where he is ready to put on the roof, which is to be made of shake shingles like those which were used on most of the log cabins in the county.

"We would like to get some original shingles, but so far haven't found many of them," he said. "If we can't we'll have to reproduce them."

Headlee said the society hopes to have the cabin completed and furnished with period furnishings by the time the annual Fall Festival is held at the museum in October.

"I'm amazed at the quality of workmanship which went into the original construction and the way in which the carpenter made the logs fit. It's worth preserving, particularly since there will probably be very few of them left in another 50 years."

Barbecue Lunch, Pie Eating Contest

It was something different for lunch at Waynesburg Central High School Wednesday when the school's food service, ARA Service Inc., offered an outdoor barbecue complete with hot-off-the-grill, foot-long hotdogs and hamburgers. For the competitive natured, there was also a pie eating contest and an apple bobbing contest. The pie eating contest featured blueberry pie which had to be eaten within two minutes without the use of hands. Contestants around the table from the left are: Jim Caruso, a teacher, Todd Eddy, Bill Cain, Jon Stennett, Eugene Simeral, second place; and Phillip Seybold, first place.

325 Helped Gather Litter

WAYNESBURG — Greene County responded to the Department of Transportation sponsored "Keep Pennsylvania Beautiful Day" campaign with more than 325 persons volunteering to pick up litter. This was 175 more than participated in the 1980 drive.

Carmichaels Easy Winner

CARMICHAELS — The Carmichaels Area High School girls' softball team upped its Section 15-AA record to 5-2 here Tuesday with a 21-1 rout of Fairchance-Georges. The York Runners scored their only run in the first inning and had no extra base hits.

Carmella Franco was the winning pitcher. Candy Meiter hit a homerun for Carmichaels with Franco and Diane Policz hitting doubles and Margaret Yurko a triple.

Bentworth Tops IC Girls

Bentworth scored 16 runs in the third inning on its way to a 20-8 win over Immaculate Conception in a Section 11-AA girls softball game Friday.

The win raises Bentworth to 5-1, good enough for second place in the section behind West Greene.

In other girls games, Carmichaels increased their Section 15-AA record to 6-2 Friday with a 17-6 win over Frazier.

The game was tied 4-4 until Carmichaels exploded for 11 runs in the fifth inning to secure the win.

Exchange Team Tours County

WAYNESBURG — A Rotary International Group Study Exchange Team (GSX) from Bombay, India, toured Greene County last week as part of a month-long tour of Rotary clubs in Rotary District 733 in southwestern Pennsylvania.

The visiting Rotarians from India spent several days in the county, escorted by local Rotarians to places of interest with the focus on coal and energy-related facilities.

Waynesburg Rotarian Thomas Milnovich was in charge of arrangements for the visiting Rotarians. The group reflected a wide range of professions and included the following men: Rtn. Sultan Fazalbhoy, in automobile parts distribution; Shirish Tamhane, a banker; Dr. Pramod Lele, cardiologist; Rajeev Pandia, project manager; Krishnan Chittur, lawyer; and Kolhapur Rao, corporate planner.

The men were guests at a Rotary dinner hosted by the Waynesburg club with a contingent from the Carmichaels Rotary Club. Those attending from Carmichaels included John S. Areford, Ira H. Brown, Wilbur Brown, Paul Lesako, Herbert Lunden and Ewing Miller.

Waynesburg Rotary Club President Richard S. Cowan Jr., presided at the joint meeting.

Jury Awards

In Damages

WAYNESBURG — An Aleppo Township couple was awarded $13,160 in damages Thursday to compensate them for timber which was removed from their property, and for damage done to their land when a timber operator hauled lumber across it from another lot.

A Greene County Civil Court jury returned the directed verdict in favor of Mark and Phyllis S. Young of Cameron R.D.5. Defendant was James R. Kupfer, a former resident of the Wind Ridge area now reported to be living in Cameron.

Kupfer, although notified, did not appear for the trial.

Grange

Visitation

Greene County Pomona Grange played host to a five-county visitation at Waynesburg Central High School last week.

Greene County grangers served on the welcome committee while Westmoreland County grangers presented a drill and filled the chairs. Allegheny County members presented the devotions and the Fayette County members presented the entertainment program. Members of the Washington County granges presented a program entitled "King Coal and His Servants."

Various state officers were recognized including Lloyd Craft, a member of the state executive committee; Janet Rudy, Region E Princess and Region E Prince Tom Imblum and the state grange princess Judy Paull.

County deputies taking part included Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Congenour of Westmoreland, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rudy of Allegheny; Margaret Lindley, Louise Craft and Charles Patterson from Washington County and Greene County deputies Mr. and Mrs. George Kozar.

Over 1,800 Miners Apply For Welfare

WAYNESBURG — Over 1,800 striking coal miners have applied for some type of welfare assistance at the Greene County office of the Public Welfare Department.

As of May 1, 449 miners had applied for cash assistance and 235 had been approved. Others will eventually be approved but the office staff is running three or four days behind, on necessary paper work.

The same amount of miners have filed separate applications seeking food stamps and cash assistance. About half that amount have been approved thus far. Many miners were denied these benefits because of a regulation concerning the ownership of vehicles. A miner cannot own a vehicle that is valued over a certain figure set by state regulations.

Ralph Varner, a supervisor in the local welfare office, said 844 coal miners have applied for food stamps only and 732 have been approved to date. Another 65 applications for medical assistance have been received with 37 approved thus far.

Varner said this staff is still working four nights each week in an effort to accommodate the miners.
