County Revenue To Rise

By BOB EICHENLAUB
Greene County Editor

WAYNESBURG — Greene County's allocation of federal revenue sharing funds will be increased by $26,125 during the 1981-82 fiscal year which begins Nov. 1.

The increase to $392,125 is primarily the result of new population figures injected into the allocation formula with completion of the 1980 census count. The county is now credited with a population of 40,355 as compared with the 1970 census count of 36,090 which had been used in calculating previous allocations.

Other factors used in the formula are county per capita income ($4,340), adjusted county tax revenues ($1,461,924) and intergovernmental transfers ($2,860,279).

Chief Clerk Herbert Cox, who reported on the increase at Thursday's meeting of the Greene County commissioners, said the additional revenue will not be realized until January 1982, when the first quarterly payment of the 1981-82 allocation is received. The 1980-81 allocation totaled $366,000.

In action at their meeting, the commissioners agreed to employ Maxine Hewitt of Graysville as groundskeeper for the small roadside county park at Graysville. She will receive $40 a month.

Allen Hughes, director of the Department of Parks and Recreation, said the park is less than a half acre in size and has a picnic table and grill.

Mrs. Penny Morris Orndoff of Waynesburg R.D. 4 was appointed to the advisory board of Greene County Children and Youth Services to fill a vacancy on the 14-member board. Her appointment was recommended by Rupert Eder, executive director.

On recommendation of Hughes, Carol McVay of Holbrook, Erschel Yoders of Rices Landing and Gary Cole of Bobtown were re-appointed to the advisory board of the Department of Parks and Recreation.

A resolution was adopted proclaiming June as "United Way Thanks for Giving Month." During the month, United Way of Southwestern Pennsylvania, which encompasses Allegheny, Greene and Washington Counties, will conduct programs to express its appreciation to the thousands of individuals and companies who contributed to the $27 million the agency raised last year to help finance 100 agencies which provide nearly 200 varied human services.

County Commissioner Richard Cowan, who is a member of the board of United Way of Greene County, noted that Greene County residents and companies have contributed $150,000 since the local agency was founded two years ago, with the money being distributed to 18 social service agencies which operate in the county.

Votes To Be Recounted In Jefferson Township

WAYNESBURG — Ballot boxes in three of the four precincts in Jefferson Township will be opened for a recount of votes cast for the office of township tax collector.

Registered voters in precincts 1, 2 and 3 filed a petition for the recount in Greene County Court Tuesday on behalf of John R. Mosier, who lost the Democratic nomination to William D. Virgin by one vote, 322-321.

The court set Monday, June 22, as the date for opening the boxes and appointed Henry A. Young and George Albert of Waynesburg to assist Prothonotary Charles Hogue

Franklin Twp. Sewer Authority Approves 5-Year Agreement

WAYNESBURG — The Franklin Township Sewer Authority Tuesday night re-considered a proposed long-term sewage agreement with Waynesburg Borough, Franklin Township and Mountainview Gardens and, instead of a 40-year agreement, voted to offer all three parties a 5-year contract with options to renew on a year-to-year basis after five years.

The complicated issue came about when the borough was ordered by the Department of Environmental Resources (DER) not to accept any further sewer taps because the borough facility was over capacity.

Mountainview, a $4 million housing project, appeared to be stalled because of the order.

However, a plan was advanced whereby the housing developer would be permitted to construct a cross-over valve between the borough sewer line and the township sewer line and a volume of sewage comparable to the Mountainview output would be diverted into the township line for treatment at the township plant.

Although the Franklin Township supervisors approved the proposed 40-year agreement last month, Waynesburg Borough and Mountainview refused to sign saying the term was too long.

Also, after reviewing the proposed agreement, the DER suggested a shorter term, possibly one of five years. The DER, under terms of the new agreement, would have the right to approve the disconnection of the cross-over arrangement in the future.

In other action, the authority voted to pay W.L. Stewart $4,448.93 to settle a long-standing dispute over alleged damages caused during sewer construction near his car agency in Morrisville.

A discussion was held about a damage claim from another Morrisville resident who maintains he should be paid $6,000 for the alleged destruction of three maple trees on his property. The authority's construction committee and manager were directed to inspect the property and report at the next meeting.

The authority solicitor was directed to begin legal action against seven property owners who have failed to tap into the new sewer. Charges of violating a township ordinance will be brought before a magistrate.

Carmichaels Retains Police

CARMICHAELS — Carmichaels Borough Council met in a lengthy session Monday night including two executive sessions to discuss the police force and borough building plans.

The first executive session was held prior to the police committee report. After discussion on a suggestion that a full-time police officer be laid off, and a meter person be employed instead to conserve funds, council agreed to retain its full-time police force. The police committee is to meet and make cuts in police department expenses where possible to meet the budget and still retain the entire force.

Chief Robert Arameish reported after the meeting that the accident rate in the borough has decreased significantly with the implementation of the Excessive Speed Prevention Device. He said the device will be used more extensively during the summer months. Youths are also reminded that the 10 p.m. curfew for those under 18 is being enforced.

At the May meeting council had voted to remove the police portable radio unit from the home of Mayor Paul Connor. It was noted that the county police communications board has that power and it will discuss the situation at its meeting June 11 in Waynesburg.

Building committee chairman Chris Watson displayed a plan for a new borough building which would cost approximately $60,000. The proposed plan is for a building 54 by 36 feet and would use gas hot water heat. Restrictions on the deed to the old borough building property were discussed in executive session and then council authorized its solicitor Robert Berryman to proceed with action to acquire a "quiet" title to the property.

Anniversary Celebration

GRAYSVILLE — This community will observe the 50th anniversary of the founding of the volunteer fire company with several activities including a parade on Saturday, June 27.

The fire department was formed in 1931. Two charter members Frank Ealy and Oakie Stagers remain active with the department and will be recognized.

Festivities will begin at noon and the parade will start at 2 p.m. Units are still welcome to participate and should call 428-4332 or 428-3628.

A dance will be held in the firehall Saturday evening.

Mail Theft Charges Made

WAYNESBURG — A 13-year-old Waynesburg boy has been charged with stealing mail from the loading dock at the Waynesburg post office.

Postal Inspector G. C. Smith said approximately 400 pieces of first class mail were taken between May 20 and May 23. As far as can be determined most of the mail has been recovered and either has been or will be delivered to addressees.

A petition charging the youth with mail theft was filed Wednesday with Greene County juvenile authorities, Smith said.

The suspect was apprehended at 5:25 a.m. Saturday, May 23, by Waynesburg Borough Patrolmen Terry Livingston and James Grogan, who staked out the postal dock at the request of officials at the post office.

They said they saw the youth, who had a newspaper delivery route, rummage through one of the mail bags and then run toward the south side. When they picked him up he had 55 pieces of mail in his newspaper bag.

The balance of the stolen mail, which had been taken the previous two mornings, was subsequently found hidden in the entrance to the vacant South Ward school building.

Waynesburg Postmaster Robert Renko said virtually all of the mail was for destinations outside Waynesburg, with most of it addressed to people served through the Greensboro post office. He said approximately 75 or 80 of the letters had been opened.

Renko said the mail came from sacks delivered to the post office about 4 a.m. which were left on the dock for transfer to another truck which delivers the mail to other post offices. He said people were working in the post office and were on and off the dock during the time the boy got into the bags.

Livingston said borough police were asked to conduct the stake out by Howard Widdup, who is superintendent of postal operations at the post office.

"He had noticed the boy hanging around the dock early in the morning and had seen him checking mail boxes at homes where he did not deliver a newspaper, and suspected that mail have been taken from the bags on the dock," he said.

Smith said he could give no motive for the boy's actions and said he is still checking into the report that the youth may have stolen mail from front porch mailboxes. "The investigation is continuing," he said.

Tentative Budget Is Approved

By THELMA CALLAGHAN
Staff Writer

CARMICHAELS — A tentative operating budget for the 1981-82 school year in the amount of $3,301,532 was adopted by the Carmichaels Area School Board Thursday night by a vote of eight to one. The negative vote was cast by Joseph Baker.

The real estate tax millage will be set at the board's June meeting when the budget is scheduled for final adoption.

David Antonelli, chairman of the finance committee, reported following the meeting that additional workshops are scheduled with the hope of making additional cuts prior to final adoption.

The tentative budget is $393,454 higher than the current budget. The budget breakdown by major categories is as follows:

Administration, legal services and tax collection, $131,025; instruction, supplies and teachers' salaries, $1,630,300; pupil personnel service, guidance and attendance; $27,542; health services, supplies and nurses salary, $22,150; pupil transportation services, $233,000; operations, plant maintenance, utilities, salaries, $430,890; fixed charges, $350,050; student activities, coaches salaries, athletic supplies and equipment, $70,835; capital outlay, salaries and building equipment, $22,600; debt services, $113,640; intersystem payments, $149,500; and budgetary reserve, $120,000.

Business manager Louis Pasuzzo announced the tentative budget is available for inspection in the senior high school office.

In other action the board approved the employment of four part time janitors as needed during the summer months at the Nemaquin Elementary School and the junior-senior high school. Their pay will be $3.45 per hour. Those hired were Rob Cole, Mike Long, Stewart McCaw, and Jerry Sadlek.

Sentences Guilty Pleadings

WAYNESBURG — Defendants in two criminal cases who entered guilty pleas were sentenced in Greene County Court Monday.

Charles Patrick Wright Jr., 20, Canton, Ohio, was fined $100 and sentenced to serve from three months to 12 months in the Greene County jail, with the jail sentence to run concurrently with a sentence imposed in Washington County.

Wright was one of three men charged with burglarizing a house in Richhill Township on Feb. 19, 1981.

Leroy Leonard, 36, Waynesburg R.D. 6, who was charged with driving while intoxicated, was fined $400 and sentenced to serve from four months to 12 months in the county jail. He will serve the sentence on weekends.

In other court action Monday, Larry Paugh and Gary L. Roy were brought to trial on charges of aggravated assault, with the charge stemming from a fight at the Carmichaels Moose Lodge on Nov. 23, 1980.

Paugh has been charged with assaulting Anthony Lingis and Clarence Rankin, while Roy is charged with attacking Peter Devecka with a pool cue.

WAYNESBURG — A Greene County Criminal Court jury Thursday found Daniel Mansberry, 27, Nemaquin, guilty of burglarizing the state liquor store in Carmichaels.

Mansberry was arrested in Carmichaels an hour after the store was broken into on May 8, 1980, because his clothing and build matched descriptions given to police by witnesses who saw the burglar leaving the store. A case of whiskey and five loose fifths of whiskey were found in an alley near the store.

Mansberry denied committing the burglary, contending that his father had "dropped him off in front of the bank" in Carmichaels just minutes before he was picked up by police.

Storm Causes

Power Outages

WAYNESBURG — Residents of several sections of Greene County were without electrical power for varying periods of time as the result of a severe storm which hit the county about 6 p.m. Saturday.

Frank Bogan, superintendent of the Jefferson District, West Penn Power Co., said outages affected the Crucible, Ruff Creek, West Waynesburg and Deer Lick areas of the county. Approximately 915 customers had no electricity at the height of the trouble.

Almost all of the problems were the result of lightning hitting line insulators, he said. Repair crews had cleaned up the trouble by 9 p.m. and were starting to go home when another storm caused additional problems which kept them on the job most of the night. Only a few customers were affected the second time, however, as those problems primarily involved 25,000-volt transmission lines.

Former Resident's Son Killed Accidentally

NEW WILMINGTON — The son of a former Waynesburg resident died of electrical shock last week when he jumped into a farm pond to rescue his dog, not realizing that the water had been charged by a faulty under-water pump.

Victim of the accident on Sunday, May 24, was James E. Morris, 19, New Wilmington, a self-employed blacksmith.

He was a son of C. Arnold and Elizabeth Newton Morris of New Wilmington, and a grandson of Mr. and Mrs.

Eldred Morris of 225½ East Greene Street, Waynesburg.

A member of the family said Morris was throwing a frisbee into a neighbor's pond so that his dog could swim out and retrieve it. On the last throw he saw the dog was in trouble and went in after it. He was killed instantly.

Surviving in addition to his parents and grandparents are a sister, Cindy; four brothers, Steven, William, Robert and John Morris; three uncles, and five aunts.

Services were held May 28 in New Castle.

For some it is!
But for others it can be a searing summer... an early fall... a chilling winter.

All depends on the two people who leave the church... and the road Donna and David Daugherty choose for their journey together.

For, when love comes to the altar, it is full of hope... and faith... and promise.

And, if love will return to the altar — week after week — it can discover God's unceasing renewal of those blessings which first endowed its sacred vows with eternal meaning.

But it isn't quite so simple as praying together and staying together.

It is a boy and girl's unending quest for every spiritual insight that will enable them to understand... to appreciate... to cherish... each other! And God!

Miss Parry, Knisely United In Marriage

The Cross Lanes United Methodist Church in Charleston, W.Va., was the setting for the double ring ceremony on May 23, 1981, uniting in marriage Susan Diane Parry and Homer Edward Knisely of Huntington, W. Va.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Roger Parry of 5329 Pamela Circle, Charleston, formerly of Waynesburg. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Homer Knisely of Waynesburg R.D.2.

The Rev. Thomas Dunlap officiated and Karen Gilreath was the organist and Mark McVey the soloist.

Given in marriage by her father and mother, the bride appeared in a gown of white polyester organza lavished with Venise lace. The bodice of sheer polyester was enhanced with seed pearls and exquisite re-embroidered scalloped lace which also edged the neckline and stand-up collar. It featured a hi-rise waist and Bishop sleeves with deep cuffs with tiny self covered buttons. The back featured tiny self covered buttons to the waist. Venise lace appliques were used on the skirt and hem of the sweeping chapel train.

Arts Council Logo Chosen

JEFFERSON — A county-wide student competition to design an official logo for the Greene County Council on the Arts has been won by a Jefferson-Morgan High School senior.

A design by Scot Lippencott of Dry Tavern was selected the winning logo from over 100 designs entered by students from Carmichaels Area High, West Greene High and Jefferson-Morgan. He received $100 for having the winning entry.

In February 1980, the Greene County Commissioners designated the Greene County Council on the Arts as the official arts organization for the county. Purpose of the council is to promote the arts in the county and to technically assist local art groups.

Last summer, the arts council brought the American Wind Symphony to Greene County for a three day tour which included a concert from the wind symphony barge moored on the Monongahela River at Rices Landing. Currently, the council is writing several grant proposals to continue its operation and to provide county residents with quality arts programs.

The logo will be used for the council's letterhead, newsletter, and other printed materials.

Faces From The Past—Do You Recognize Them

Way Back When

West High Street in Waynesburg in the early 1920s is shown on an old postcard owned by Henry Rodney, a native of Uniontown and a Waynesburg College graduate, and now an executive with Sears, Roebuck in suburban Philadelphia. Note the horse and buggy parked in front of the Opera House Building. The sign says Electric Shoe Repair at the shop owned by the late K. Scope, a native of Greece. The building in the right foreground has since been cut down to one story. It originally housed the Hoover & Minor drygoods store. The George E. Hoge clothing store entrance is at left. The four-story Growsman Building in the center was destroyed by fire on Dec. 23, 1925. The fire also destroyed the Downey House Hotel on the extreme right.

Fact and Folklore

John O'Hara

Thousands of eager high school graduates in this year of 1981 are eagerly looking forward to entering colleges or universities this coming autumn for a four-year experience which hopefully will be an important factor in shaping the rest of their lives. Many will be opting for the larger colleges and universities, while others, by personal preference, will head for schools of smaller enrollment such as Waynesburg College where it is possible to have more personal identification and a greater number of close friends and companions which in many cases will remain enjoyable for the remainder of their lives. No such group at any college in the land could have more truly enjoyable and enriching campus experiences than those that flourished at Waynesburg College during the Depression of the 1920's and 30's up to the start of World War II. The enrollments then never exceeded 400 and virtually everyone on campus knew all other students and faculty and administrative staff members. These memories were rekindled a few days ago in a letter from Mr. and Mrs. Frank (Pete) Ulom who now live at 371 N.E. First Avenue, Miami Beach, Fla. The letter was written a few days after they had hosted a group of fellow former students from the pre-World War II era who more or less by chance have wound up near each other and periodically gather together to renew the happy memories of their undergraduate days. There are many others in other states or regions who are part of the rapidly growing alumni organizations of the college from coast to coast. Both Frank and his wife, the former Ellen Hoskinson, were hometown "Waynesburgers" and his uncle, the late Dr. Jesse Hazlett, scored the first touchdown in Waynesburg College history when he stole the football from a West Virginia University halfback and ran across the goal line back in 1895 in a game which West Virginia later refused to recognize as a varsity game. Other former Waynesburg students who were guests at the Ulom home at the reunion party during the Memorial Day weekend included his cousin, Dr. Frank Hazlett, a retired physician who practiced in Waynesburg and his wife, Ruth, who now live in Dania, Fla.; Oakley and Rosena Shaw of Largo, Fla.; Robert and Cora Marie Carroll, Maurice (Mo) and Elizabeth Sears Scarry; Bill and Ruth Ann (Hoskinson) Penn, and Harry and Jeanette Penn, all of Miami. "The main topics of conversation," Pete writes, "were reminiscent talks of Waynesburg College days." The two scrapbooks he had compiled of names and places from the past and the many happenings in the beautiful "town and gown" relationship which has always existed between the campus and the community were looked at again and again. The Penn brothers were also hometown "Waynesburgers" who played both football and basketball at Waynesburg and then became teachers. Scarry, a native of Duquesne, came to Waynesburg on a basketball scholarship but also played football. Later he played professional ball at Cleveland after World War II after which he coached at several colleges including Waynesburg and is now a line coach with the Miami Dolphins.

Another entertaining feature of the reunion of the transplanted Pennsylvanians in Florida was reading the massive scrapbooks on sports in this area by Earl Zook, a star athlete at Bethany College in the mid-1920's. Later he coached at Redstone High School in Fayette County and at Waynesburg before locating in the Washington, D.C. area. Zook became a legend in Bethany College sports history for his versatility as a baseball, football and track athlete and as a coach in later years. He now is associated with a large country club as a starter on the golf course and is active every day even though now in his mid-80's. And, as former Waynesburger, Frank Ulom often remarks, "there's nothing nicer than the friends and companions you can get to know in a small college. The enrollments may be smaller, but the friendships are deeper and more lasting than most that are made elsewhere during those four years of a person's undergraduate days—a time for enjoying the present and dreaming of the future that is yet to come."

AROUND TOWN

By THE STAFF

From the moist way May ended and June began, many Greene Countians would be glad to trade what the poets describe as "October's bright blue weather" to have a little of that sunshine delivered now in place of the hot, steamy weather being experienced here the past fortnight.

Members of the Waynesburg Central High School Band, their instructors and others who were on the recent trip to the Orange Blossom festival at Orlando, Fla. were all complimented by the festival committee not only for the band's fine performance in the festival parade and other events but also for their deportment throughout their visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Moore of Avalon Court are spending a few days visiting their daughter, Mrs. Ann Hale of Clinton, Md. Their son-in-law, Roy Hale, a retired Navy officer, was recently appointed a deputy treasurer of the United States.

Thomas Greenlee, son of Dr. and Mrs. D. Paul Greenlee of Waynesburg, has been appointed mayor of Tionesta Borough in Forest County. Mr. Greenlee, a former Waynesburg resident, is owner of a large hunting and fishing supply store in Clinton County, which is in the heart of the northern Pennsylvania deer hunting section.

Mrs. Beverly Rinehart Rutherford of Joffe, Md. visited her mother, Mrs. Russell Rinehart of Waynesburg, recently and renewed friendships with former Waynesburg High School classmates of the class of 1952.

Two long-time former residents of Wind Ridge who are sisters celebrated their birthday anniversaries recently at the Bonar Apartments in East Waynesburg. They were Mrs. Goldie Wright, who was 91 on May 4, and Mrs. Jennie Kuhn, who was 94 on May 28. For many years Mrs. Wright was the telephone operator at Wind Ridge. She recalls that the job reached its peak during the week of the annual Jacktown Fair, where it became almost a 24-hour a day job because of the many fair exhibitors and concessionaires who were in the community at that time.

Mrs. Clara Kay Lettingham of Florida, a former Waynesburg resident, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Blair of Waynesburg R.D.2.

Among those who turned out to honor Glenn Arnold at the county's first "roast" Saturday were a number of people from adjoining counties and more distant places. They included Werton Mankin from Roscoe in Washington County; Bill Blount of Smyae, Ga.; Julian Fine of Washington; Mr. and Mrs. James Reed of Addison, and J. T. Kurmasey of Duquesne. And best of all, of course, was the visit by his son-in-law and daughter, Carmen and Judy Mancuso, who live in the Los Angeles area of California and who will be spending the remainder of this month in Waynesburg. The turnout of more than 300 friends and acquaintances of Arnold reflected a broad cross section of the county. Many interesting facets of Arnold's interesting career were recalled by the roasters who followed one another to the rostrum. One, for instance, recalled the first money Arnold ever earned by selling the Brownsville newspaper at Clarksville for two cents per copy. Another recalled that Arnold, the politician, had an early initiation into that profession when, at the age of 21, he was the youngest mayor in the United States after being elected to the office at Clarksville during the early 1930's.

Another interesting facet of his early career came during his first venture into real estate when he hired road wagon pulled by a team of mules and sold all of the lots he had laid out on a farm near Carmichaels while he stood on the wagon. The sale took only 30 minutes to complete, as though it was an omen of the growth which the Carmichaels area continues to enjoy to this day a half century later.

Housing Development Fight Stresses Need For Zoning

Residents of Cumberland Township in Greene County are fighting an uphill battle in seeking to block construction of 75 units of garden apartments and town houses near Carmichaels.

The $4 million Parkview Knoll project is being built by the National Development Corp. under a Section 8 agreement with the Department of Housing and Urban Development as subsidized housing for low and moderate income families. It will sit on seven acres of ground adjoining a lot plan which was developed for standard, single-family housing.

People who are fighting the project, and there are about 70 of them, are concerned primarily because they feel the housing project will conflict with the rest of the area. "We aren't opposed to public housing as such, but we feel it is not in the best interest of the area in which we live," one of the spokesmen for the property owners explained at a recent meeting of the Greene County Planning Commission.

They are also carrying their fight to the Cumberland Township supervisors and have contacted their state legislators in an effort to see if anything can't be done to halt construction, but as of now the developer is proceeding with the job of erecting the units.

A number of arguments have been raised, one of them being that National Development failed to begin construction within the required six months after obtaining a township permit under its flood control ordinance. The residents have also threatened to pursue the matter in court.

Essentially, however, the problem lies with the fact, as was explained at the planning commission meeting, that neither the county nor Cumberland Township has a zoning ordinance, although the township is currently considering such an ordinance.

Without such land use controls, it is virtually impossible to prevent the owner of property from developing it as he sees fit, even if that development clashes with the general character of a neighborhood.

Greene County municipalities have long fought the idea of zoning, but in developing areas it is the only real method of assuring that new growth won't conflict with existing land uses.

A few more fights of this type might drive that fact home.

Between The Bookends

Marcia McKenna Biddle

Here is some good light reading for the summer. Well, not everybody thinks of a murder mystery as light reading but, for those who do, these are good for taking to the beach or napping with on the porch.

The craziest is "The Mind Murders," by Janwillem Van De Wetering (Houghton Mifflin, $9.95.) Set in the city of Amsterdam, it features two very unusual detectives with the unpronounceable names of Grijpstra and de Gier, who discuss philosophy as they observe that two of their policemen, Ketchup and Karate, have thrown a man into the canal. Karate has now jumped in to save the man from drowning, but he doesn't want to be saved. As a crowd cheers, the victim pounds the policeman on the head with the crutch he had previously used only for walking. It is a weird scene, and since much of the action takes place on the canal bridge, it is reminiscent of Camus' "The Fall," but carried on to the extremes of comedy.

At another extreme is "Murder in the White House," by Margaret Truman (Arbor House, $9.95.) It could have been called "Margaret's Revenge," too. Well, the Secretary of State is murdered while sitting alone in the White House. The President appoints a young lawyer to be special investigator into this rather embarrassing event. The lawyer starts to unravel the past life of the respected Secretary of State, which turns out to be extremely scandalous, and not even the President can be eliminated as a suspect.

The book is written with no humor and little style, but of course we have to assume that the author knows what she is talking about when she writes of the inner secrets of Washington. With her automatic credibility, it is tempting to try to figure out which parts of which characters are based on real people. The White House details are interesting, and the plot complicated enough to hold your attention.

Another new mystery writer is showing some promise, too. Her name is Lucille Kallen, and her first book, "Introducing C.B. Greenfield," was nominated for an American Book Award in 1979. Greenfield is the irascible editor of a small-town weekly newspaper. His star reporter narrates the book, and she is not exactly Brenda Starr. She is forty-five years old, with an engineer husband who is mostly away on business trips, and two sons who are away at college. Very Normal. Almost as though Erma Bombeck turned detective. The banter between editor and reporter as he sends her out on strange and often embarrassing assignments makes the book amusing.

In the second book of the series "The Tanglewood Murder," (Wyndham Books, $9.95.) editor and reporter are visiting Tanglewood, Mass., the summer home of the Boston Symphony. Someone poisons a violinist, and it is up to the amateur detective to find the culprit. Actually, all C.B. Greenfield wanted was to spend his vacation listening to the symphony rehearsals, which is another endearing characteristic of the principals in the story. They are literate, play classical music themselves, but they can still get into the weirdest situations.

Veteran Educator Retires After 27 Years Of Teaching

By JIM MOORE
 Staff Writer

GRAYSVILLE — A special, educational experience that dates back to 1935 and concerns two sisters came to an end Tuesday at the Graysville Elementary School. Gladys A. Day, a veteran of over 27 years in the teaching profession, said a tearful farewell to a career that started with a one-room school in West Finley Township in 1935 but was interrupted for 18 years while she raised two children.

Her retirement Tuesday was also a sad occasion for her sister, Madlyn A. Day, who once was her sister's pupil and later a teacher's aide when both came to the Graysville Elementary School when it opened in 1970.

They are the daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Archer and were born and raised in Washington County. Gladys was born in Majorville and Madlyn in West Finley. Not only are they sisters, they also are sisters-in-law, having married brothers in 1948.

Gladys was married to Ralph Day on May 29 and a week later, Madlyn wed Paul Day and many of the flowers from the first wedding were used. Ralph Day, who was employed by Columbia Gas Co., died in 1973. Paul is a Richhill Township supervisor. Gladys attended California State College for two years and then received her teaching certificate and a position at Maple Glenn school in West Finley. She also attended Waynesburg College and West Liberty College.

One of the students in the eight grades she taught at Maple Glenn was sister Madlyn, who received "orders" from home that sister or no sister, Gladys was the boss. The warning apparently worked because Madlyn was determined to have an 11th grade aptitude on the basis of her eighth grade achievement test. Gladys went on to teach at Knob School, Rocky School in West Finley Township, Sparta School in Morris Township and then West Alexander High School, where Madlyn was again in her sister's class.

At this point, Gladys quit teaching to raise her children, Marsha McKelvey, a physical education teacher in the Commodore Perry School District in Mercer County, and Mark, who graduated from Carnegie-Mellon University last month with a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering.

After an eighteen-year absence from the classroom, Gladys returned to teaching in 1970 when the Graysville school was opened. One of the teachers' aides was a familiar figure — her sister Madlyn.

Madlyn, like her sister, had been raising children. She and her husband had three children, Robert P., deceased; Charles R., manager of the Shop-N-Save market in Waynesburg; and Jerry W., employed by Wheeling Machine in Elm Grove, W. Va.

Both attend the Nebo Methodist Church and each have a child celebrating a birthday on December 30. However, Jerry was born in 1956 and Mark in 1958. They live side-by-side and even their phone numbers are side-by-side — one is 428-4114 and the other's is 428-4112.

Gladys, who was honored at a retirement dinner at the Greene County Country Club last week, reflected on her career and noted the many changes, not the least of which was the $800 annual salary in 1935.

"There was more togetherness years ago," she said. "The teacher knew all the parents and there were many social events at which we got to know each other," she added.

"Discipline was also better in the earlier years. When a child got a smacking at school, he could expect another one when he got home," Gladys said. "Nowadays, you can expect the parents to come with a lawyer if their child gets a spanking," she lamented.

There were no big, yellow buses when she first started teaching. Students walked or came by horseback or wagon. "Many times we didn't eat all of our sack lunch in the winter because there was always a possibility we would get snow-bound and need to eat supper at school."

Gladys recalled the bitter winter of 1936 when the snow began to fall early in the day. Five worried parents came to the school early and led a single-file march through the drifting snow toward home. "We looked like a line of ducks going over the fields," Gladys said.

Gladys hopes to do some traveling during her retirement including a long visit with her daughter.

Mona Lea Palone And Frank W. Wilson Wed

CARMICHAELS — Mona Lea Palone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Palone of Dry Tavern, and Frank W. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lutton of Vestaburg, were married Saturday, May 2, 1981, in the Carmichaels Christian Church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dominick Sgro, with Mrs. Mable Fletcher as organist and Mrs. Martha Litten as soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white quana over taffeta gown fashioned with a Queen Ann neckline, empire waist, full, sheer sleeves, and a skirt embroidered with appliques of Venice lace and pearls, with the lace-trimmed hemline extending into a chapel train. Her matching Juliet cap held a double tiered veil of illusion edged in matching lace and she carried a bouquet of white daisies and blue carnations.

Cheryl Palone served as matron of honor for her sister-in-law and Debra Burkette was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Regina Palone, Dorothy Adamson and Renbie Komula. Christy Adamson served as flower girl and Bradles Miles Palone as ring bearer.

The bridegroom was attended by David Summerfield as best man. Ushers were David Lee Ward, Johnny Wilson, Chip Lutton and Sam Palone.

A reception at the Dry Tavern Inn followed the wedding, after which the newlyweds left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls.

The bride is a graduate of Jefferson-Morgan High School. The bridegroom, a graduate of Beth-Center High School, is serving with the U.S. Army in Germany.
