A GOOD HOME NEWSPAPER

International Deal May Create 5 More Mines

PITTSBURGH - A major international coal agreement has been announced by Consolidation Coal Co. (Consol), a subsidiary of Conoco Inc

Conoco said it has formed a joint venture and entered into long-term sales agreement with Rheinische Braunkohlenwerke AG (Rheinbraun), one of West Germany's largest mining companies, for the development of up to five large underground coal mines in Southwestern Pennsylvania.

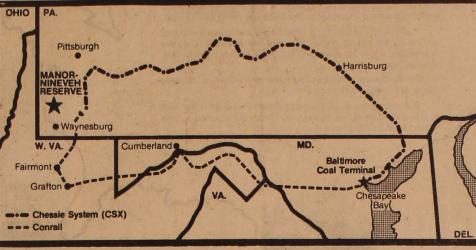

Conoco purchased the former Charmar Ranch property from U.S. Steel for $2.9 million earlier this year. At the same time, U.S. Steel transferred to Conoco 26,000 acres of Pittsburgh coal which it had earlier leased from Manor Real Estate Company.

Plans for one of the proposed mines became more evident Monday when Conoco petitioned the Greene County Court for permission to remove the remains from three small family cemeteries near Enon in Richhill Township. A hearing on the request will be held July 28.

Consol chairman and chief executive officer R.E. Samples said the project, when fully developed, could produce 12.5 million tons of coal annually — equivalent to 36 percent of Consol's total 1980 tonnage. That level of production could generate revenues of approximately $500 million a year at current market prices.

Production will come from Consol's Manor/Nineveh reserve, which is estimated to contain approximately 360 million tons of recoverable coal. Consol said the reserve, located in Washington and Greene Counties, could support the max-imum production level for approximately 28 years.

The coal will be transported by rail and exported through the company's terminal planned for development in the Port of Baltimore

Consol will have a 76 percent interest in the joint venture and Rheinbraun will have 24 percent equity participation. At closing, Rheinbraun will pay a cash amount for its equity. Consol will be the operator of the mines. Rheinbraun will take its 24 percent equity share of the first mine's production and an additional 24 percent under the sales agreement. In subsequent mines, the agreement also provides that under certain conditions Rheinbraun may increase its equity interest. Under the terms of the sales agreement, Rheinbraun will purchase from Consol an amount of coal equal to Rheinbraun's equity participation in each of the joint venture's mines.

Rheinbraun said it will grind part of its coal to coal dust in Germany to sell to industrial clients to replace heavy fuel oil. Consol, the nation's second largest coal producer, said the principal agreements with Rheinbraun were signed Tuesday and that the deal would be closed no later than Oct. 31.

Rheinbraun has been advised by Brown Brothers Harriman & Co. of New York.

Preliminary development work for the first mine already s under way. It is scheduled to be producing coal by 1984 with full production expected in 1987.

Consol said the coal would be processed at a new preparation plant near the mine and shipped by rail to Baltimore, where another Conoco subsidiary, Consolidation Coal Sales Co., has acquired a terminal site which it plans to develop by 1983. At the terminal, the coal will be transloaded from rail cars directly to ships or stockpiled for eventual export.

Samples said the production from the joint venture is the first major volume of coal targeted for shipment through the company's new terminal.

"Obviously, we are very pleased to be partners with Rheinbraun in this venture," Samples said. "Our Baltimore terminal facilities played a vital role in reaching agreement with Rheinbraun. Development of the terminal and the first mine will proceed concurrently.

Samples said that coal production from the joint venture ultimately could use a major portion of the annual capacity of the Baltimore terminal. This terminal will be served by both the Conrail and Chessie railroad systems.

Consol operates coal mines in nine states and in Alberta Canada. Exports of Consol coal, including Canadian shipments, totaled 11.1 million tons in 1980. Consol's major market is domestic electric utilities, which consumed almost 65 percent of its 1980 production.

Rheinbraun produces about 120 million tons of brown coal per year, 87 percent of which is burned in utilities to produce electricity

Graysville Fire Co. Celebrates 50 Years Of Service

GRAYSVILLE - The always neatly-kept village of Graysville was at its best Saturday. White-painted houses glistened under a June sun and the smell of freshly-cut grass competed with the aroma from a charcoal pit where chicken halves gradually turned a golden brown. Virtually every resident of the small Greene County town had turned out to welcome visitors.

The occasion was a celebration to mark the 50th an-niversary of the Graysville Volunteer Fire Company, which not only provides the community with protection but also provides residents with much of their social activities.

Awards were given, a lot of food was served, some games were played, and a parade was held.

Three charter members who are still active in the fire company received plaques. Ted Kimmell, who has been a driving force in the company for 47 years, presented them to Frank Ealy, Harry Coffield and Oakle Staggers. Kimmel, in turn, was given an award by Laura Neubauer, one of the three company, which was chartered on Jan. 7, 1931. The other two, Forney Fordyce of Claysville and Kenneth Morris of Washington, resigned when they moved from the town, but Morris returned Saturday to present to members the company hat that he purchased in 1931.

Margaret Carpenter, a member of the auxiliary and company historian, recalled that her husband, the late Bentley Carpenter, was among the 37 men who formed the organization after fires "of uncertain origin" had destroyed two homes, and for several years the Graysville company provided the only fire protection in that part of Greene County.

Graysville, now part of Gray Township, was a borough back then, and the first fire hall was in the old Knights of Pythias building. The first truck was a used Chevrolet. J. B. Orndorff was the first president and D. E. Mitchell the first fire chief.

The Ladies Auxiliary was organized with 40 members on March 17, 1960, with Laura Bruce as the first president. It has been active in fund-raising efforts of all sorts ever since — so successfully that the company was able to erect its present building and dedicate it on Oct. 7, 1961. That building is now used primarily as a meeting hall and social building, since the company erected a truck garage in 1966 and added to it in 1979.

"There have been 181 persons in the company since it was organized 50 years ago, and it is due to their hard work and the wonderful cooperation of the community that we are here today," she said.

The Rev. Robert Borland, fire company chaplain and pastor of the Unity Presbyterian Church which sits next to the fire hall, was featured speaker at the brief program. He recalled the contributions of those who have been in the company during the past half-century.

"What they have given to the community challenges us to also serve," he said, adding that the scope of services by the company is always being broadened.

Laura Neubauer was admitted as the first woman fireman in February 1980. She and Debbie Inman are qualified as emergency medical technicians, and the third woman member is Mary Lou Hughes. Clyde Bedillion is currently serving as fire chief

In addition to serving as headquarters for the fire com-pany, the social hall provides Graysville with a community building and is used for most functions in the town.

And since most of the families have been involved closely with it, the celebration on Saturday was as much a community celebration as it was a fire company celebration.

Court Okays Budget Strike Ends

JEFFERSON — A 44-day strike at the Weyerhaeuser Co. plant on Route 188, west of Jefferson, came to an end Thursday when agreement was reached on a new contract for 34 members of Local 14744, Steelworkers of America.

Plant manager Archie Trader confirmed that the new three-year pact calls for pay raises of 50 cents an hour in the first year and 46 cents an hour in both the second and third years. It also provides for shift differentials of 17 cents and 18 cents, as well as improved hospital benefits, vacations, sick leave and holidays

WAYNESBURG . The WayNESBURG - The West Greene School District budget for 1980-81, based on a property tax levy of 44 mills, was approved Friday by the of Education Greene County Court.

The matter came before the court because the budget, pro-jecting expenditures of $4.2 million, is 25 percent higher than the 1980-81 budget. It thus exceeds the 10 percent budget district.' increase limitation placed on a school district in the year following a general property reassessment

Today it is a rhapsody of green oaks and chestnuts almost dominating the historic shrine. The forts and redoubts of old are mounds and ridges blanketed with lush grass as they defend forestcrowned hills

Rightly, there's a statue of "the Father of his Country" at Valley Forge. And, rightly, he's praying!

Law On Filling Vacancy Leaves Lot To Be Desired

Until the past year or so, Pennsylvania's election law permitted anyone who wanted to run for office in a fall election to have his name placed on the ballot even if he wasn't nominated in the primary

A person could wait until after the primary was held and then, even though he was registered as a Democrat or a Republican, could file a petition to run under any label he wanted to select.

As might be expected, it led to political maneuvering

In Greene County, for example, a concerned citizen's organization used the device on two occasions to elect elect individuals to a school board after candidates they had backed in the primary were defeated. They merely recruit-edanother member and ran him in the general election under the Concerned Citizen label.

When the same thing began happening through-out the state, the Legislature moved to correct what was obviously an unfair situation. But in so doing they created something that seems equally inequitable when there is a vacancy in office.

A situation which has arisen in the Central Greene School District brings it into focus.

When a member of the school board resigned recently the school board was empowered to appoint a successer to serve only until the end of this year. The individual who will serve out the balance of the term must be elected in November.

But to get on the ballot, interested persons must obtain the endorsement of either the Democrat or Republican party. By law, each is entitled to select one candidate, and no one else can run except by mounting a write-in or sticker campaign

And since it is a school director post which is vacant, it is conceivable that both parties could endorse the same individual, since school director candidates are entitled to cross file and run as candidates of both parties.

The chairmen of both parties in Greene County realized the inherent inequity of the situation and are doing all they can to make the selection process as fair as possible under the law. They will ask precinct committeemen in the district involved to review the qualifications of those who seek the endorsement and then make a recommendation on who they feel should be certified as the party candidate.

But even at that they are in the position where a political party will have chosen the school board member

In attempting to correct a situation which was open to abuse the Legislature seems to have created another one.

Faces From The Past—Do You Recognize Them

Ezekial (Grandpappy) Chedister, now deceased, expressed the vigor of an earlier era of residents in Richhill Township area of western Greene County when he demonstrated his ability to still do an oldfashioned "hoedown step at the age of 92 at an entertainment many years ago. In his long career as a teacher at Waynesburg, Dr. Mintier turned the subject of history from a dreary drudge for many undergraduates to give it a new image of the day to day life of the past as it followed the same basic paths in the present but modified to meet contemporary situations as cultures of the various races and nations were changed by new inventions.

As a speaker at commencement ceremonies and other public events he could be profound on some matters and switch in an instant, like a fast change artist shifting coins from one hand to another. He could turn the discussion to the vital role the village played in the life of a rural community before Henry Ford started merchandising his first Model T automobile which everyone from teenaged hot rodders to teenaged hot rodders to buxom grandmothers could drive to town on Saturday night or to Golden Oaks Park at Rogersville on Sunday afternoon.

REPORT FROM HARRISBURG BY

Rep. H. William DeWeese

ELECTORAL DALLIANCE louse Democrats woke up on the morning of June 24 and found a disquieting item in the Harrisburg newspapers. How-ard Fargo of Greenville had won the special election to fill the seat made vacant by Roy Wilt's election in March to the State Senate.

The contest was a reason able horse race, with the winner receiving 4,622 votes while the loser, William Wardle, mayor of Mercer Borough, received 3,358.

Once the new member is sworn in (probably in early July after the results are certified by the Board of Elections) the House will contain 102 Republicans and 100 Democrats. One seat is still vacant following the unexpected death on June 9 of Arthur Early of Delaware County and House Speaker Matthew J. Ryan will probably call the special election for this seat for late August or early September. (Sixty days is the le-gal minimum before such a higher than those sad numbers from our northern ontest can be held when a seat become vacant through death, incapacity, removal from office, etc.) The vote total in Mercer County, however, was a shocker. I find it hard to realize that not even 9,000 men and women took the trouble to cast their ballots. There are 25,000 registered to vote in this district, so only a little more than one-third of those entitled to vote did so.

There are many so-called unforgiveable sins — ex-cessive pride, vanity, superi-ority to others, betrayal of one's friends or country for money, a refusal to recognize that one is indeed lesethem What could be their excuse? How can I hold down my electric bills this summer?

The most effective way is to control the appliances that use the most electricity. And in summer, they're generally the electric water heater, air conditioner; and refrigerator-freezer.

Installing water-saving devices in your showerheads and faucets will reduce electric water heating costs. A family of four, for example, can trim as much as $3 a month off its electric bill.

Wrapping insulation around your electric water heater can save about $2 a month, too.

And lowering the thermostat setting from 150 degrees to 120 degrees on an electric water heater without added insulation can save about $1.50 a month -60c/month if you add insulation.

How can I reduce my cooling costs?

Arg .

Alto. T Shading sunny windows with awnings, blinds, or draperies helps considerably in holding down costs. So does a well-insulated house with properly ventilated attic.

Set air conditioning thermostat no lower than 78 degrees. And clean or replace air conditioner filters at least once a month during the cooling season.

tory claimed by William D. Virgin for the precinct two where all three ballots were Democratic nomination for tax collector in Jefferson Township is not yet official. Virgin's narrow win over John R. Mosier was confirmed in a recount held earlier this week. The recount was ordered when voters in three of the four Jefferson Township precincts petitioned the court for a recount and desposited $50 for each ballot box to be opened. Unofficial returns following the primary election listed Virgin as a 322 to 321 winner over Mosier. Following the court-ordered recount, Virgin was confirmed the winner by a 321-319 count.
