King Prepares For Show

CARMICHAELS — Only one week remains until the 28th Pennsylvania Bituminous Coal Show and the King Coal Association has just about finished preparations for the annual event.

Rich Trumka, member of the International Executive Board of the United Mine Workers of America, thanked the association Thursday night for accepting the UMW as a fifth member of the association. He said District 4 hopes to make a significant contribution to the success of the coal show. District 4 plans a manual coal loading contest for next year's coal show.

A drawing was held for the Greene County firemen's water barrel battles to be held Aug. 23-25 on West Greene Street. Pairings for the preliminaries to begin at 2 p.m., Sunday, Aug. 23, will be: first battle, Clarksville and Carmichaels; second, Nemaacolin and Crucible; third, Waynesburg and Jefferson; fourth, Greensboro and Rices Landing.

The coal association is asking for donated pies, cakes or cash for the concession stand to be operated Saturday at the high school stadium during the state mine rescue contest. Anyone interested in making a donation may call Mrs. Russell Morris, Mrs. James Diamond, Mrs. Merv Wilson or Mrs. William Groves.

Directors working at all events during the coal show will wear straw hats with red, white and blue bands so they can be easily identified. Directors are to report to the Carmichaels fire hall at 6 p.m., Wednesday to clean the carnival stands. Approval was given to the Carmichaels cheerleaders' boosters to operate a stand parade day on Ed Zalar corner and to the Nemaacolin fire company for a barbecue chicken stand at Ross Meat market parking lot. The association stresses that organizations operating food or beverage stands in town and along the parade route are responsible for cleaning their area afterwards.

Bicycle parade for all ages will assemble at 5:30 p.m., Friday, Aug. 28, at Central School for judging and move at 6 p.m. to the coal show grounds where prizes will be awarded.

Children's pet parade will move at 6 p.m., Aug. 27, from Central School to the town square for judging.

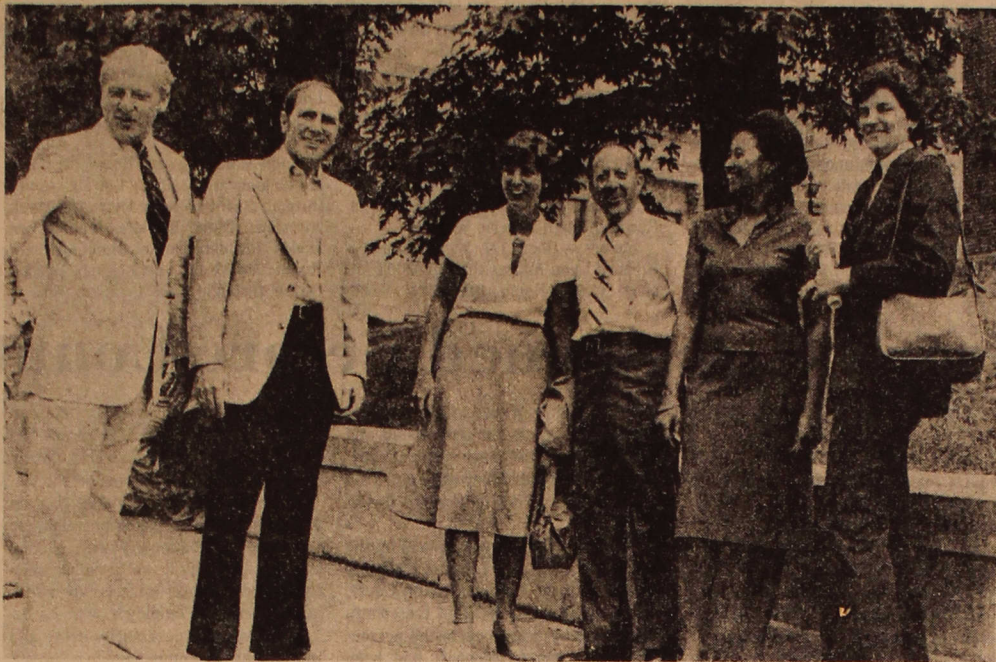

Antique car parade will assemble at Joyland Park and move out at 4 p.m., Saturday, Aug. 29.

Police Searching For Rape Suspect

State police are looking for a white male, between the ages of 28 and 30, believed to be responsible for the rape of a teen-aged Greensboro girl Saturday morning.

Police said the 16-year-old girl accepted a ride from the suspect who then drove her to a spot two and a half miles west of Dilliner along Township Road 343 where he forced her to have sexual intercourse with him at 3 a.m.

Police said they expect to make an arrest soon.

Shirley M. Dennis, second from right, Pennsylvania Department of Community Affairs secretary, tours Waynesburg downtown revitalization project area with WERC and county officials.

State Official Tours Area Targeted For Renovation

WAYNESBURG — Shirley M. Dennis, secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Community Affairs, toured a two-block area of Waynesburg Friday and her hosts are hopeful the visit will result in a $75,000 grant from her office.

Ms. Dennis, who earlier in the day visited the LeMoyné Center in Washington, was briefed by members of the Waynesburg Economic Revitalization Committee (WERC) on plans to renovate store fronts and apartments along High Street between Morgan and Morris Streets.

WERC has already received $463,540 through the federal Small Cities Program which allows businessmen about $2,000 toward renovation of store fronts and $7,000 toward renovation of apartments.

Additional financial help is needed for other items such as benches, trees, trash containers and a clock to be erected in front of the First Federal Savings and Loan Building.

A. Richard Glance, project architect, reviewed the plans for Ms. Dennis and her staff. Glance also presented a booklet which will be made available to property owners who wish to participate in the project. The booklet contains illustrations of various styles of windows, doors and flower boxes and hints for private contractors.

Another booklet, provided by a paint manufacturer, offers various color schemes which would blend into the scheme of the overall renovation.

Glance also revealed the style of benches which will be placed in the downtown area, the selected trash containers and the colonial-style, four-face clock.

Following the briefing, Ms. Dennis declared it a "wonderful plan." She was impressed with the amount of cooperation received by WERC and promised a decision on the grant application in the near future.

Chrystal D. Twyman, deputy press secretary for the Department of Community Affairs, said after the tour that the local officials were more united in this project than of any project she has been associated with since joining the department. "This community seems more alive than any other I have visited," she added. Involved in the local project are 35 store fronts and 23 apartments.

It was also revealed during the tour that the Greene County Commissioners have not made a final decision on the fate of two county-owned buildings within the renovation area.

Because they no longer need the office space, the commissioners are considering the possibility of selling or razing the old county office building and a smaller building between their new building and the old office building.

Emway Vice President Will Crown Coal Queen

CARMICHAELS — A man with ties to eastern Greene County has accepted an invitation from the King Coal Association to crown the 1981 Pennsylvania Bituminous Coal Queen at the pageant Sunday, Aug. 23, in the Carmichaels High School auditorium.

George C. Trevorrow Jr., vice president and general manager of Emway Resources, Inc. of Washington, crown the queen selected from candidates representing 17 high schools.

He was born in Greensboro, the son of the late George and Mary Trevorrow. His father was superintendent of Duquesne Light's Warwick Mine in Greensboro from 1930 to 1934.

He was raised in Pittsburgh, attended schools there, and graduated from Penn State University with a degree in mining engineering.

His wife is the former Helen Kamenos, daughter of Mrs. Bessie Kamenos of Carmichaels and the late James Kamenos. They have a son, Thomas, a student at Ohio State University. Edward Kamenos, Mrs. Trevorrow's brother, also resides in Carmichaels.

Trevorrow worked for nine years at the Buckeye Coal Co. mine in Nemaacolin in various engineering and maintenance positions before becoming chief electrician for the company. He and his wife resided in Nemaacolin from 1957-66.

He worked for 14 years in central Pennsylvania, in various management positions and was vice president of operations in eastern Ohio before moving back to Washington in December 1980.

He is a registered professional engineer, certified mine foreman and chief electrician in the state.

State Rejects Application For 'Job Factory'

WAYNESBURG — The state Office of Employment and Training has rejected Greene County's application for a "job factory" program due to a lack of available funds under the Comprehensive Employment Training Administration (CETA) program.

The county commissioners said Thursday that the state planning council has elected to continue supporting four programs presently operating in the county rather than reducing them in scope to permit establishment of the new program.

The "job factory" concept, which was proposed by Greene County Industrial Developments, Inc., would have set up a program to train groups of unemployed persons in a series of four-weeks of concentrated instruction periods in the techniques of seeking out and applying for jobs.

George K. Stennett, GCID executive director and county CETA program supervisor, estimated that it would cost $79,550 to operate the program for one year. Since the county's total allocation of Title II-B funds for the 1981-82 fiscal year is $268,429, it could not be fitted into the budget unless existing training programs were cut back.

The state council's decision means that three other program sponsors will receive the full amounts they requested.

The Washington-Greene Community Action Corp. has been allocated $99,319 for its home improvement training program; the Greene County Vocational-Technical School will receive $18,790 for its health training program, and Pittsburgh Catholic Educational Programs will receive $55,216 for its in-school job training program and $85,334 for its adult job training program. This leaves an unallocated balance of $9,770.

"We believe the 'job factory' proposal has merit, and would recommend that the board of commissioners consider it if and when additional funds are available," Raymond C. Ramirez Jr., acting executive director of the state planning council wrote.

Following the meeting, Stennett said that the decision means that two people who are on his staff for the administration of CETA programs will have their jobs phased out on Aug. 31. Had the

Route 18 Bridge Will Be Closed

UNIONTOWN — The bridge on Route 18 over a branch of Brown's Creek near Nineveh in Morris Township will be repaired, and motorists will have to detour.

Beginning Wednesday, Aug. 19, Department of Transportation crews will remove the wooden bridge deck and replace it with concrete slabs. The work is expected to take approximately three weeks to finish.

Since a detour will be required while repairs are made, traffic will be directed around the work by the Nineveh-Graysville road and Stringtown road near the Beulah church and school.

program been approved they would have operated it.

In another development at their meeting, the commissioners announced that they had met privately prior to the meeting with a group of small plane owners who rent hangars at the county airport to consider complaints they have raised.

At last week's meeting, the aircraft owners, who have organized a Greene County Airmen's Association, objected principally to a directive from airport manager William Shultz placing restrictions on the extent of aircraft maintenance work which can be done in a hangar.

Pole Snaps; Lineman Survives

WAYNESBURG — A West Virginia lineman escaped serious injury when the utility pole on which he was working near Waynesburg Tuesday snapped at the base, carrying him with it to the ground.

"He was probably saved by the fact that it was a corner pole with a double cross arm which absorbed the impact and prevented the pole from crushing him," Fred Shea, a Mid-Penn Telephone Co. engineer said.

The lineman, Terry Reynolds, 33, New Martinsville, W.Va., was treated at Greene County Memorial Hospital for a minor head injury and other cuts and bruises.

He was employed by Henkels and McCoy, a York contracting firm employed by Mid-Penn. The accident happened along Route 188 at the entrance to the Flushing Shirt Co. plant, adjoining Department of Transportation headquarters. The company was installing a telephone cable to provide service to the new Grandview Housing Project east of Waynesburg.

The pole was a West Penn Power Co. pole which is also used to carry telephone lines. When the pole broke about 9:30 a.m., electric lines were torn down, leaving a section of the county as far east as the country club road without power for several hours. There was no interruption of telephone service.

Shea said Reynolds was strapped to the pole about 25 feet above the ground when a guy wire tore loose from the ground, creating tension which snapped the pole off at the base.

"It bounced once and then twisted sideways and came down again," Shea said. "Reynolds' head hit the ground but he was wearing his hard hat and only got a forehead laceration, as well as being pretty badly scraped and bruised."

The engineer said that the lineman was lacing cable to a messenger line which had been put up last week when the accident happened.

Central Greene Votes To Keep Superintendent

By BOB EICHENLAUB
Greene County Editor

WAYNESBURG — Dr. Ronald J. Ferrari received a new four-year contract as superintendent of the Central Greene School District at a board meeting Tuesday, but not without a protest from two members that the board was being asked to vote without having an opportunity to give the matter sufficient consideration.

"This is one of the most important decisions the board has to make, and yet the personnel committee had no idea it was being brought up and the only chance the board had to think about it was when it was brought up at the committee meeting last week," Board President Lila Ayersman said.

She also made the point that Dr. Ferrari's present three-year contract does not expire until June 30, 1982, and that the board was under no obligation to take any action until December.

For that reason, she voted against the motion and Furman Wade, who is chairman of the personnel committee, abstained.

A similar protest was raised over a motion to give members of the administrative staff $2,000 across-the-board annual pay increases, with Mrs. Ayersman pointing out that the personnel committee had never met to discuss the raises. "In fact, we are being asked to rubber stamp a recommendation by the administration," she said.

The raises were approved, however, by votes varying from 6-3 to 8-1.

With them, salaries for the upcoming year will be set at $36,100 for Dr. Ferrari; $27,080 for assistant superintendent Nancy Davis and at the following levels for building principals and assistant principals — Craig Younken, $24,302; James Zollars, $25,903; Linda McCracken, $21,500; William Evansky, $17,000; David Lemley, $23,000; John Barbero $26,000, and business manager Walter Stout $20,070.

Mrs. Davis, who has been serving as director of curriculum and instruction, was named assistant superintendent. David Lemley was named assistant principal at the high school and William Evansky principal of the East Ward, Whiteley, Spraggs and Perry Elementary schools. They have been serving as administrative assistants. In all three cases, the job titles were changed because the three individuals have completed graduate work necessary for certification to the positions to which they were named.

The salary for beginning teachers and long-term substitutes was set for the upcoming school year at $300 less than the Step 2 salary on the scale negotiated with the Central Greene Professional Association. The lowest salary now stands at $10,875 per year for a beginning teacher with only a bachelor's degree.

A new transportation contract for the district's four major contractors was approved. It calls for a daily rate of $95 for buses (up $19.55) and a daily rate of $71 for vans. It also provides for a gasoline adjustment should the wholesale price of gasoline rise above $1.25 per gallon.

Construction Will Begin August 31

UNIONTOWN — Repair work on Interstate 79 from the Ruff Creek interchange north to the Greene County line is now scheduled to begin Aug. 31.

A spokesman for the Department of Transportation District 12 office in Uniontown said the job was originally slated to start on Aug. 3 but that legal delays forced postponement. "We now look for the contractor to receive his order to proceed on Aug. 31," said Richard Lively, a District 12 engineer.

Burrell Construction and Supply Co., New Kensington, has been awarded a $1.5 mil-

The new contract is expected to increase the cost of bus transportation to $788,000 during the coming school year, an increase of approximately $122,000.

The board approved an agreement worked out with the teachers' association which stipulates that long-term substitutes will not be considered members of the bargaining unit until expiration of the current contract on Aug. 24, 1983. The agreement was reached in light of a current appellate court review of the status of long-term substitutes, with both sides having agreed to abide by the court's ruling.

Much of the meeting dealt with personnel matters in preparation for the start of classes Tuesday, Aug. 24.

The board accepted the resignations of three middle school teachers — James H. Porter, social studies, who has accepted a position with a trucking firm; Lorraine Brocco, math, who is moving from the area; and Mrs. Leslie C. Thayer, music.

The board also approved a one-year sick leave for Raymond Murdock, high school guidance counselor, and a leave of absence for the first semester for Janet McDougal, a middle school math teacher.

Permanent positions were offered to Mary Zollars, teacher at the Whiteley School; James Caruso, high school social studies teacher; Patricia Kazee, teacher of the handicapped at Perry School; Kathy Lynn Jeffries, music instructor at the East Franklin school and middle school, and Marleen Salisbury, high school math instructor.

Lisa Swartz was again hired as half-time art instructor at the East Ward school and middle school and Nancy Fox as half-time kindergarten teacher at the Church of God.

A number of vacancies were filled through the appointment of long-term substitutes. Those hired in this capacity were:

Jodi Lynn Miller, East Franklin elementary, substitute for Diana Knight; Gloria Bishop, substitute beginning Jan. 4 for Diane Brendel at Whiteley School; Nancy C. Edelman, substitute at Spraggs School for Mary Jane McNelly; Lori Butt Aldhizer, substitute at Perry School for Diana Lemley; Marion Corey, kindergarten teacher at the East Franklin School to replace Joy Gensler, who was transferred to the first grade in that school.

Central Greene Announces Details Of School Opening

WAYNESBURG — The Central Greene School District has announced class hours, transportation plans, school lunch prices, and high school home room assignments. Classes start Tuesday, Aug. 25.

A teacher in-service day will be Monday, Aug. 24.

A child must be five years of age before Oct. 1 to enroll in kindergarten, and six years of age before Oct. 1 to enter the first grade.

Birth certificates and immunization records required by the Department of Health must be presented at the time of registration for those entering school for the first time. They are three or more doses of DPT or DT toxoid, three or more doses of trivalent oral polio vaccine, one dose of regular measles vaccine (or medical verification of the disease), one dose of rubella (German measles) vaccine and one dose of mumps vaccine.

Parents of new elementary enrollees are asked to register their child at the elementary school serving the parent's residence area. Information about the attendance areas and transportation arrangements can be obtained by calling Walter Stout at 627-8151.

Ex-Nursing Supervisor's Case Argued Before County Court

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County Court is being asked to decide if Lucille DeFrank was improperly fired from her job as nursing supervisor at the Curry Memorial Nursing Home three years ago. It will decide whether she should be reinstated with full back pay and benefits; if she abandoned the job; or at most is entitled to the hearing the Commonwealth Court has ruled she should have been given before being dismissed three years ago.

These were the issues framed before Judge Glenn Toothman Wednesday by attorney John Stets, who represents Mrs. DeFrank, and county solicitor A. J. Marion, arguing on behalf of the county. The case has been in litigation since July 1978, when Mrs. DeFrank, a resident of Carmichaels R.D.1, brought suit against the county and the three county commissioners in office at that time — Richard Cowan, the late Ernest Lemley and Joseph Pawlosky.

Mrs. DeFrank was first fired by Thomas H. Boyd Jr. on May 31, 1978, shortly after he was named acting administrator of the county nursing home. On June 2 she and Boyd met with the county commissioners to discuss the issue, and the commissioners agreed to rescind the dismissal.

They met again on June 6. Stets contends that at this meeting Mrs. DeFrank requested a formal hearing but was told none was necessary and to continue on pay for a 30-day cooling-off period. Marion, on the other hand, claims that Mrs. DeFrank was told to take a two-week vacation with pay, and was to return to her job after that time.

Marion further argues that a formal request for a hearing made on June 16 had no validity since she was still an employee at that time.

On June 30 Mrs. DeFrank received another notice of dismissal, and two weeks later she filed her lawsuit.

A key element in the case is a personnel policy manual which a former Curry Home administrator had set up in compliance with state mandate. It set forth 10 reasons for which an employee could be disciplined or dismissed, and also provided for a hearing before the county commissioners if an employee who was being fired requested one.

During early litigation, the county commissioners argued they had no knowledge such a manual existed and had never adopted it as county policy. They also contended they were given the absolute right in law to hire and fire as they saw fit.

When this position was upheld by the Greene County Court, Mrs. DeFrank appealed to the Commonwealth Court, which eventually ruled that the county was bound by provisions of the personnel policy manual since it had been represented to Curry Home employees as a binding policy.

In his argument Wednesday, Stets claimed that not only did the county fail to give her the hearing she requested, but that it never set forth any justifiable reason for her dismissal. He claims she is entitled to reinstatement to her position and should be awarded all pay she would normally have received during the three years she has been off the job.

"Throughout the accumulated state and federal court decisions pertaining to employee termination the award of back pay is fundamental, as to refuse such restitution would create a situation where the employer with its resources would unnecessarily delay and litigate until the employee gives up out of personal and financial frustration without a chieving a decision on the merits," he stated.

He also asks that should the county choose to proceed with a hearing after reinstatement, that an impartial hearing examiner be appointed since the commissioners could not provide a fair hearing.

Marion, on the other hand, contends that Mrs. DeFrank's failure to report back for work after the two-week "vacation" waived any right she may have had to a hearing and also justified her dismissal on the grounds of absenteeism.

In the alternative, he contends that if the Court rules she must be given a hearing, that the order should go no further than that, leaving the question of back pay dependent upon the outcome of the hearing.

Each of the attorneys presented written briefs in support of their oral argument, which Judge Toothman indicated he will consider before handing down a ruling.

Lees is a graduate of Indiana University of Pennsylvania and has taught for the past 15 years at the Schenley High School in Pittsburgh.

The high school will continue its participation in the CARES Program under the direction of Jean Roach of Intermediate Unit I. Polink said there will be a continued effort in improving reading in the content area and to promote a variety of effective teaching techniques. Special efforts will be made to get parents involved in the CARES Project and to promote reading at home.

Secondary classes will begin at 8 a.m. and will end at 2:46 p.m. while the elementary classes will begin at 8:30 a.m. and continue until 3:20

Jeff-Morgan Changes Clarksville Bus Route

JEFFERSON — Officials in the Jefferson-Morgan School District have announced bus schedules including a change in Clarksville requested by borough council as the result of a safety issue.

Students who live on the north side of Main Street in Clarksville will board buses at the old Beglin Feed Store while students on the south side of Main Street will be picked up at the borough building. This will prevent students from having to cross a street which has been termed "dangerous" by council members.

Kindergarten students attending the morning session will be brought to school on the regular school buses and will be returned at 11:10 a.m. by a scheduled bus. Afternoon kindergarten students will be taken to school on a scheduled bus and will return home on the regular buses.

Students in the Chartiers

Hill section are reminded they will be picked up at the road near the Pozum residence instead of Joe's Grocery.

School officials request students do not drive cars to school the first three days so that bus loads can be established and room made for rides at other times when they do not drive.

All elementary students walking from the Jefferson area are asked to use the sidewalk that has been constructed leading to the high school and elementary building.

Any adjustments or changes in the bus schedules, if necessary, will be made during the first two or three days after those involved have been notified.

Classes Start Aug. 25

MAPLETOWN — Students in the Southeastern Greene School District will return to classes Tuesday, Aug. 25, for a full day of instruction.

Superintendent Gerald E. Marcinak said that bus routes and schedules are basically the same as last year. Students are to board the bus at the stops nearest to their homes.

Marcinak said cafeterias at all schools will operate the first day. Lunch prices will be 60 cents for elementary students and 65 cents for secondary students.

Residents Slam Hiring Methods

By JIM MOORE
Staff Writer

MAPLETOWN — The Southeastern Greene School Board Tuesday night approved the purchase of two school buses and during a two-and-a-half-hour stormy session hired five professional employees.

From four submitted bids, the board voted to purchase two 1981 buses from Laurel Ford of Connellsville for $28,765 each. The buses will be used for activities, vo-tech transportation and on occasion, for regular bus routes.

Welsh Equipment Co. of Coraopolis submitted a slightly lower bid of $28,590 but the majority of the board preferred the Laurel Ford specifications. Other bids were received from Blue Bird Bus Sales, Inc. of Pittsburgh for $31,350 per bus and Wolfington Body Co. of Exton at $30,000 per bus.

During the stormy phase of hiring teachers, Valerie Burchianti was hired at $12,850 as district guidance counselor; Betty Amos as special education teacher at a salary of $12,450 and Diane Labin as learning disability teacher at a salary of $12,450. The latter two are new positions.

On almost each occasion, board members and members of the audience questioned if each teacher was certified for the position being sought. At one point, the board went into executive session to discuss "personnel matters" and to discuss with their solicitor the school law concerning the hiring of non-certified teachers.

During the height of the various discussions, board member Robert Headlee chastised fellow board members for allowing politics to enter into their decisions about hiring teachers. During one argument over hiring a teacher, the board at first failed to elect a teacher because of a 4 "yes", two "no" and one abstaining vote. Following a long discussion, the motion was made again and the teacher was hired by a 6-1 margin.

Juanita DeMichele, who has previously taught in the district, was offered employment as a substitute remedial reading teacher and Amy Gingrich was offered employment as senior high school English teacher subject to her presenting a certification reportedly en route from Harrisburg.

It was during the discussion about an English teacher that Leonard Santore, a Greene County Commissioner, questioned the board about hiring practices and after accusing the board of purposely passing over his daughter, a substitute in the district for the past four years, threatened to file a taxpayers suit against the board.

Santore accused the board of hiring an uncertified teacher in the past who has less experience than his daughter.

In other action, the board appointed Kim Tencer as head teacher at Glassworks Elementary School and approved some changes in the renovation plans for Penn Pitt and Bobtown schools.

Coal Show Sport Events Scheduled

CARMICHAELS — Two completely different but very popular sports are being held again this year as part of the state Bituminous Coal Show at Carmichaels.

The 7th annual King Coal Open Golf Tournament will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 22, the first day of the coal show. On Thursday, Aug. 20 is the deadline for registration for the two-man, best-ball event. Fee is $50 per team and this will include a luncheon.

Golfers may register by calling Tony Pascuzzo at 966-2227 or the Broken Tee Golf Course at 966-5502.

Elks' Individual Donations Help In A Big Way

By JIM MOORE
Staff Writer

WAYNESBURG — It's amazing how the indifference created over the years by countless charity raffle tickets and can-shakers can evaporate when you look into the eyes of an eight-year-old cerebral palsy victim.

This is especially true when the victim is Tresa Hewitt of Nemaocolin who has made great progress in the past five years since becoming a client of the Pennsylvania Elks Cerebral Palsy Home Service Program.

Since the program was started in 1963, members of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks in several states have quietly, without fanfare, donated $3.2 million to finance a special project. No outside donations are solicited and members at various lodges give freely from their own pockets.

Those who casually offer a coin or a bill and go on about their business seldom give it another thought. If only those people could visit the modest home of Tresa Hewitt, they would take time to reflect on just how much their small donation means.

That donation means an opportunity for some family with an afflicted child or adult to obtain many services free of charge from a highly professional group of individuals. Because of those small donations from BPOE members, a family can obtain special equipment, receive advice from a special nurse on feeding, bathing and other home care assistance, counseling on practical matters such as Social Security benefits, institutional placements, procedures, and a nurse who is familiar with the general and specialized services available throughout the state.

One such nurse is Mrs. Christine Humphreys of Eighty Four, one of 20 nurses employed throughout the state by the Pennsylvania Elks Major Projects, Inc. Mrs. Humphreys and the other BPOE nurses in the program serve specific areas and usually work through the local chapters of the United Cerebral Palsy agency.

Mrs. Humphreys, a 1978 graduate of the Washington Hospital School of Nursing, is responsible for 292 clients in Washington, Greene and Fayette counties. Formerly a staff nurse at Canonsburg Hospital and Kane Hospital, Mrs. Humphreys became an Elks home service nurse in January, 1980. She is now a welcome visitor to 209 homes in Washington County, 52 homes in Fayette County and another 34 in Greene County.

Donations from BPOE members pay the salary of the home service nurse and for her vehicle. In addition, the Elks pay for and provide "in-service" training seminars in order that each nurse is continually apprised of any new developments in her field. The program in Pennsylvania is expected to cost $407,000 this year.

This program, available free of charge to anyone regardless of circumstances, began as a pilot project in Spring Church in 1963 and has now expanded to all 67 counties in Pennsylvania. Elks lodges in other states had pet charities and the 93,000 Elks in Pennsylvania decided it was time they embarked on a major project.

James P. Ebersberger, then president of the Pennsylvania Elks State Association, suggested a home service project to aid victims of Cerebral Palsy. Members would be asked to support the program and the state association would underwrite all office and promotional expenses. Two other communities were added in 1964 and one in Harrisburg was added in 1965.

At the state convention in 1965, a fund-raising committee was appointed for the first time with a delegate from each of the 10 districts across the state. A special corporation was formed in 1966.

Although the Elks' home service program works closely with United Cerebral Palsy of Southwestern Pennsylvania and other chapters throughout the state, the home service program is made available to those with other developmental disabilities.

An estimated 10,000 infants are born each year with cerebral palsy. Add to this the thousands of children and adults who suffer substantial functional limitations in self care, receptive and expressive language, learning, mobility, self-direction, capacity for independent living and economic self sufficiency and it's easy to understand why home service nurses have such a heavy workload.

For those who have three or more of the above mentioned limitations, the Elks Home Service Program is available free of charge simply by contacting the closest Elks lodge or cerebral palsy agency.

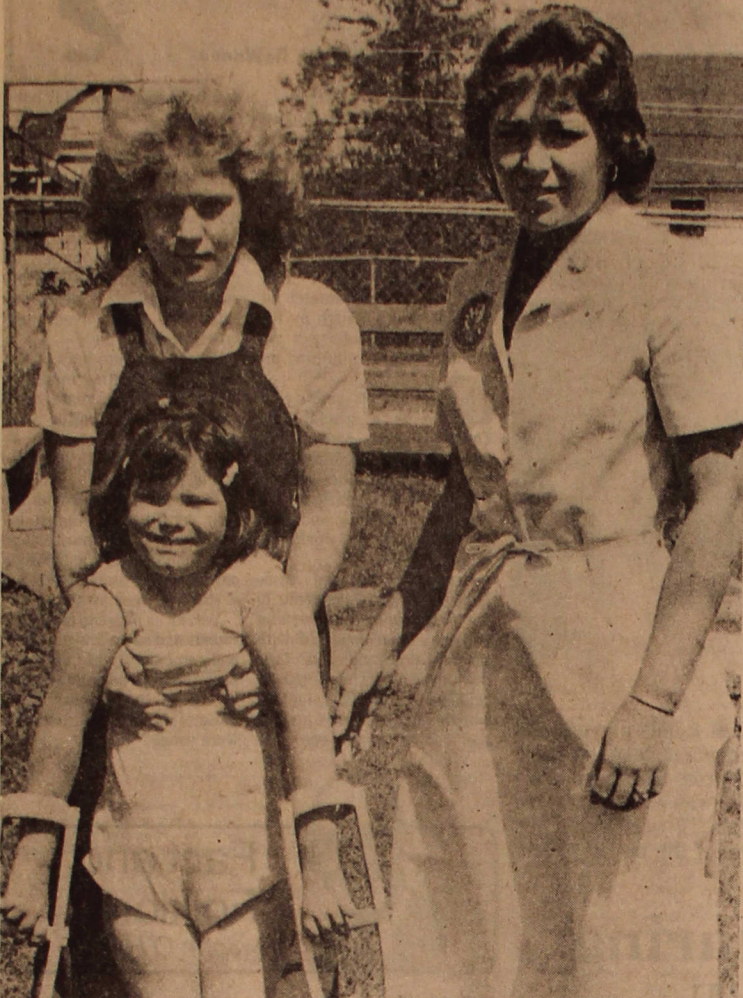

To the Paul Hewitt family in Nemaocolin, this fraternal charity is a personal thing. Their daughter Tresa has been a client of the program for the past five years and thanks to the guidance of Mrs. Humphreys and the nurses before her, Tresa's speech has improved 80 percent and she can now use crutches.

Tresa was born with cerebral palsy eight years ago. Not too many years ago, she would have been confined to a wheelchair and her home. Thanks to programs such as the Elks Home Service Program, Tresa and others like her are more mobile, more educated and more a part of the home activities.

Tresa attends Margaret Bell Miller Elementary School in Waynesburg and enjoys every minute of her attendance. Sadly however, she and her family will soon be moving to Philadelphia where Mr. Hewitt has found a new job.

What Tresa will not miss is the services provided by the Elks because their help is statewide. She will be able to continue special treatment through the efforts of another Elks lodge in the eastern part of the state.

Angela Hewitt of Nemaocolin offers a helping hand to her eight-year-old sister Tresa, who suffers from cerebral palsy, while Mrs. Christine Humphreys, a home service nurse for the Pennsylvania Elks, makes her weekly visit to the Hewitt home.

Faces From The Past-Do You Recognize Them?

Predicted Miller's Future

Bill McKay, a Waynesburg College graduate who was one of the town's best tennis players and captain of the Yellow Jacket team in the 1930s, was one of a small group of students to keep the game alive here. He became one of the top-rated amateurs in the Greater Pittsburgh area. He inherited his love of sports from his father Rex McKay, a Waynesburg insurance man who was an authority on harness racing and for several years directed harness racing at the county fair. He was among the first to predict that Delvin Miller, then only 15 years old, would become one of the nation's most successful drivers.

REPORT FROM

HARRISBURG

BY
 Rep. H. William DeWoe

REMEMBER WHEN
 For most of us, August passes in a gentle progression of warm days and humid nights, broken only by trips away from home and by the recollection that the commencement of another academic year is but a few weeks away. Labor Day marks the end of summer for most people, although by the calendar two weeks will yet remain before autumn arrives.

August 14 of year year ought to be a special day. Thirty-six years ago on that day the empire of Japan surrendered to the allies and after nearly six years of the world's most titanic and most devastating war the world was at last at peace.

President Truman summoned the correspondents to the White House that evening and they soon departed with the most arresting news of the month. Everywhere people rejoiced — flags flew, factory whistles tooted, horns honked and Federal employees were granted a special two-day holiday by a grateful Chief Executive.

Some paused in their merrymaking to recall the fallen commander in chief, Franklin Roosevelt, whose death that April was mourned, and mourned sincerely, by untold millions of human beings all over the globe. Indeed, he ought to have lived and proclaimed this day!

We are the inheritors of the world those fighting men and women helped create and safeguard for us. I often wonder what we have made of their sacrifices, both of blood and of treasure.

This will be a brief column, dear constituents. August is, traditionally, the most sluggish month in the legislative calendar. The start of session is still five week away. Yet, let us pause in our daily rounds and say a few prayers, and remember what came to pass this day so many years ago when my parents (and those of many of my readers) were young.

County Treasurer Case Clouds Auditing System

The Greene County Court touched on a troubling aspect of the financial accountability of county officials in his ruling last week in the case of former county treasurer T. William Barnes.

Judge Glenn Toothman ruled that Barnes owes the county $2,832 for firearm registration fees collected during his 12 years in office — money which he used to provide a change-making fund for his office and for which he made no accounting until he turned over $665 upon leaving office in December 1979.

The court properly ruled that the money was the property of the county and was subject to the same law which dictates that all money collected by the treasurer be accounted for, and turned over to the county, on a regular basis. In dismissing Barnes' defense that a large portion of the funds were stolen when the office was burglarized in 1977, he noted that the money would not have been taken if it had been handled properly.

Judge Toothman expressed particular concern over the fact that the county auditors, who filed the surcharge against the former official, were not aware that the fund existed until Barnes turned over what was left in it when his term expired. Furthermore, Barnes testified that the practice of using gun registration fees as a "slush fund" was one which was practiced by treasurers who preceded him in office.

The jurist feels the case cast a cloud on the reliability of the annual county audit and raises the question of whether some future board of auditors might turn up a similar case "to cloud the fiscal integrity of the tenure of a county official."

In urging that all county offices make all records of every account available to the auditors as a means of avoiding any repetition of the Barnes case, Judge Toothman is probably doing all that can be done under the present system.

As he notes, there was no allegation that Barnes had misappropriated any money. He was merely charged with mismanagement.

But if such mismanagement can go unnoticed for 12 years, what guarantee is there that an unscrupulous official could not get away with outright fraud? It's unlikely that it will, but we wonder just how susceptible the present auditing system is to such an occurrence.

Between The Bookends

Marcia McKenna Biddle

"The Great Railway Bazaar," by Paul Theroux. Houghton Mifflin.

This was Paul Theroux's first travel book. Published in 1975, it records his impressions and experiences while traveling by train from London to Singapore, then back through Siberia.

Having spent a week reading his two travel books, I was interested to find that Theroux has an article in the September issue of Harper's Magazine. It's billed on the magazine's cover as, "Patronage Doesn't Make You Talented, It Just Makes You Richer." In the article, he objects to writers who think they can't write a book unless they have a grant. He goes so far as to accuse American writers of being "spoiled, neurotic, defensive, and even somewhat lazy pensioners, who won't lift a finger unless provoked by the promise of a foundation's tax-deductible grant."

"Money to writers will not give us any masterpieces," he concludes. "That thought should fill us with joy, for the imagination has no price; here at last is something that cannot be bought. But money is not useless. It matters to the performing arts, and to some painting and sculpture. It is essential to literature, but in a way that is seldom seen—in the old Carnegie way of funding libraries."

He's not trying to win any popularity contest among fellow writers, and doesn't say whether he has ever received any grants or fellowships. I doubt that he has. He is a person who's not afraid to take risks, and shows that clearly in his books. He did, however, help support himself in such places as India and Japan by lecturing on the American novel.

Even with the lectures, his Asian trip involved risks. "It was my intention to board every train that chugged into view from Victoria Station in London to Tokyo Central; to take the branch line to Simla, the spur through the Khyber Pass, and the chord line that links Indian Railways with those in Ceylon; the Mandalay Express, the Malaysian Golden Arrow, the locals in Vietnam, and the trains with bewitching names, the Orient Express, the North Star, the Trans-Siberian."

He chose to travel alone, leaving his wife and children in London for four months (another risk), because he wanted to receive his impressions of his travels without diluting them by mixing them with anyone else's. There were always other people, though, whose lively, weird conversations Theroux recorded faithfully.

"I was under the impression this train went to Dhanushkodi—that's what my map says," Theroux said to a conductor.

"Indo-Ceylon Express formerly went to Dhanushkodi," he was told.

"Why doesn't it go there now?"

"No Indo-Ceylon Express," he said. "And Dhanushkodi blew away."

Theroux is self-effacing about his own work and accomplishments. In Ceylon, "It struck me as practically insane in a country that was starving to death that thirty people should choose to attend a three-day seminar on American literature at which I would be the principal speaker. American literature is fine, but I feel it to be an irrelevance in a disaster area. I had not counted on the resourcefulness of the American embassy — the seminar included three huge meals, high tea, a free room in the New Orient Hotel, and all the whisky you could drink."

And at the end of a fascinating journey, Theroux had his book written. He took many kinds of risks, but one good gamble — his book became a best-seller.

AROUND TOWN

By THE STAFF

It's later than you think when it comes to the summer of 1981 in Greene County.

Both the Greene County and Jacktown Fairs are over and the state Bituminous Coal Show at Carmichaels begins this week. Now it's time for the Greene County Historical Society's museum celebration.

Both of the county's fairs were enjoyable events and attracted some of the largest crowds in their history. In contrast to some of the brawling that used to be associated with such events both of the fairs were highly enjoyable events and thoroughly enjoyed by their own patrons and the hundreds of visitors they attracted to the county.

Russell Pettit, well known Swarts area farmer and former worker in the oil and gas industry in the former Wright oil field in the 1920s, has returned home after having been a patient in Greene County Memorial Hospital for several days.

Mrs. Ethel Hill, long-time resident of the Morning Side area of Franklin Township and who is now residing at the Methodist Home in Pittsburgh, visited Waynesburg friends and relatives for several days last week.

Cycles Found

WAYNESBURG — Police have recovered two motorcycles recently stolen from Harry and Jeffrey Patton of 326 East High Street. Two juveniles have been charged with stolen property.

The cycles were taken Friday, Aug. 14, and were found Monday in the possession of two juveniles who told police they had purchased them from two other youngsters. Value of the motorcycles was placed at $3,100.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wiley of Hinton Head, S.C., have returned to their home after visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. Morris Burns of Wind Ridge. Mr. and Mrs. Wiley were also former residents of Pittsburgh.

Albert Dunn Jr. of Rogersville, a 1981 graduate of West Greene High School, has been admitted to West Virginia Wesleyan College at Buckhannon, W.Va. He was an honor graduate of West Greene High and was a player on the high school basketball and football teams.

A former Waynesburg resident David Skinner, an electronic engineer with the IBM Federal Systems Division in Owego, N.Y., has been named senior engineer of System Test Engineering. He has been associated with IBM for several years and has held a number of positions of high responsibility in the firm. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Skinner of Waynesburg. His father was associated with the former South Penn Telephone Co. prior to his retirement some years ago.

Charles George, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. George of Waynesburg and Kevin Smouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smouse of Waynesburg R.D. 4, have returned home from the Boy Scout Jamboree held at Fort A.P. Hill in Virginia. It was the 10th such event they have attended since joining the scouts while still in grade school in Waynesburg.

Mrs. Goldie Wright, for many years a telephone operator at Wind Ridge who now lives in the Bonar Apartments in Waynesburg, is a patient in Greene County Memorial Hospital. She was among the last of the operators before dial phones replaced the original manually operated equipment.

Carmichaels Chamber Backs Community Cleanup Campaign

CARMICHAELS — The Carmichaels Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting held this week, voted to support a community cleanup campaign in preparation for the annual Pennsylvania Bituminous Coal Show to be held August 22-29.

In anticipation of several thousand visitors to the community, the chamber is asking all residents to improve their property by painting, mowing, raking and generally cleaning up around their homes.

The chamber-sponsored street dance will be held from 8:30 to midnight, Saturday, Aug. 22 in the town square. Music will be provided by

"Free Spirits." A cake walk will be featured and area bakers are asked to contribute home-made pies to be sold or awarded as prizes. They should be taken to the dance or can be picked up by calling Mrs. Peccan at 966-5897.

A side walk sale will be held Wednesday through Friday, Aug. 26-28 and the annual pet and bicycle parades will be held Thursday and Friday.

Fact and Folklore

John O'Hara

Because of the rapid acceleration of the coal mining industry in Greene County, it is inevitable that more and more of the county's leadership in public life, as well as in the sectors of private business and community affairs, will be coming from those involved in mining itself and its related support industries.

For many generations the county's economy was, to a great extent, hinged almost entirely to land ownership and farming, either by individuals, inter-related rural family groups or involvement in production of oil and gas either on a local scale or through the corporate groups based in Pittsburgh or other cities.

Now, however, as the vast treasure of unmined coal veins suitable for fueling the mammoth steel making plants in Pittsburgh, Ohio and mid-western states, the opening of new mines west of Waynesburg to the West Virginia panhandle is already becoming visible on the doorstep of the county seat.

Future leaders that will come from the coal industry in Greene County can be put into focus by the accomplishments of those who were among the first to apply the heritage of hard work, intensity of purpose and the ability to apply their talents to achievements which have been outstanding.

It was back in the late 1920s when a high school student at the former Jefferson school district attracted the attention of his teachers in all of his courses by his permanent place on the scholastic honor roll.

His name was John O'Brochta. When he reached the legal working age, he continued to be an honor student even while working night shift at the former Mather Mine in Jefferson Township. He was a student by day and a coal miner at night.

Through a faculty member, W. Walter Montgomery who was also the football coach, John was awarded an academic scholarship to Waynesburg College. His excellence in classes, especially in the science courses, enabled him to qualify for a full scholarship at the college.

His undergraduate record was so impressive that he was accepted as a graduate student at the University of Pittsburgh. There his classroom and laboratory record was so impressive he was offered a position on the staff of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, one of the leading such institutions of its kind in the world.

The work was extremely intensive and in many ways a benefit to mankind in medical research as well as improving the products and the methods of making them in industries of all sorts.

Now retired and enjoying a well-earned respite from his lifetime of intense effort, he has turned from the objectivity of science to a more subjective experience by writing poetry on a great variety of subjects and enjoying other pleasures for which he could spare only a minimum of time during his highly productive professional career.

While O'Brochta was preparing for college at Jefferson High School, another Greene County youth from Rices Landing, Sol Levine was attending the former Cumberland Twp. High School in Carmichaels.

In his senior year, he won a countywide spelling bee and was awarded a four-year scholarship to Waynesburg College. He learned under such teachers as Dr. Paul R. Stewart and C.O. Riggs and then proceeded to do post graduate work in New York City.

From there his path led to the Bendix Corporation for three years and then became chief engineer of Edo Corp. in New York for ten years. He played a major role in designing equipment for the first submarine cruise under the Arctic ice cap and was one of the few civilians allowed on the first trip.

These, however, were only preludes to his later association for Project Gemini and Project Apollo.

These assignments led directly to Mr. Levine's late association with the Martin Corp. of Baltimore where he had varied technical assignments on the early missile and space projects such as Vanguard, Bull Pup and Titan.

He remained with the program through the entire series of early lunar landings and worked on a first-name basis with all the initial lunar flight crews from fellow engineers to the list of initial moon landing pilots.

Following the completion of the first space program, Mr. Levine capped his long and busy career by being appointed chief engineer of the United States Navy and is stationed permanently in Washington, D.C.

He is the author of the first popular book for youths on space exploration. It is entitled "Your Place in Space" and has been an inspiration to thousands of youngsters. He also authored the book "Appointment in the Sky" which is the story of Project Gemini.

Both Mr. Levine and Mr. O'Brochta are deeply grateful for the inspiration they received as youths in Greene County when the coal industry was on its first phase of its current expansion. They are looking forward to what the industry and its leaders will offer the county in the years that are yet to be.

Fan Shorts Out

Firemen from Jefferson were called to a fire at a bathroom trailer at Gateway Mine Wednesday night but little damage was reported.

Jefferson Fire Chief John Bedosky said an exhaust fan apparently shorted out and caught the ceiling on fire. He estimated there was $500 damage.

NOTICE OF 1981 PUBLIC DELINQUENT TAX SALE
To the owners of properties described in this notice, and to all persons or taxing authorities having such liens, tax judgments or municipal claims against such properties.

In accordance with the provisions of the Act of 1947, P.L. 1368 and its amendments, known as the Real Estate Tax Sale Law, the following described properties will be offered by the Tax Claim Bureau of Greene County, Pennsylvania, at public sale for delinquent taxes in front of the Court House in Waynesburg, Greene County, Pennsylvania, on MONDAY, the 14th day of SEPTEMBER, 1981, at 10:00 A.M. Daylight Savings Time, and continuing thereafter with adjournments and re-adjudgments to such other days and times as may be announced at the sale or subsequently advertised.

The purpose of said sale is to dispose of properties against which delinquent taxes remain unpaid, the tax claims having become absolute and the right of redemption expiring on July 1, 1981. The terms of said sale shall be as follows: No sale of any property shall be made unless a bid equal to the full amount of taxes made. The approximate upset price is hereinafter set out after the description of each property and includes all taxes, penalties, carrying fees, interest and costs as recorded in the Tax Claim Bureau and the approximate cost of this sale pro-rated. The final upset price will be announced at the time of sale.

The purchaser of any property shall, as soon as the property is struck down, pay the entire purchase money to the Bureau. In said amount and continuing the sale shall be voided and the property put up again for sale.

Any taxing districts having municipal claims against any property herein advertised shall certify the amount thereof to the Tax Claim Bureau before sale in order to include the same in the final upset price.

The sale of any property herein advertised may, at the option of the owner thereof, or any lien creditor of the owner, before the date of sale, enter into an agreement with the Tax Claim Bureau to pay the taxes in installments in the manner provided by the Act of Assembly, and the Agreement entered into.

The Real Estate Tax Sale Law provides: "There shall be no period of redemption after such sale and the sale shall be deemed to pass a good and valid title to the purchaser, free from any liens and encumbrances whatsoever, except such liens as are hereafter specifically saved, and in all respects as valid and effectual as if conveyed by Sheriff's deed. Every such sale shall discharge the lien of every obligation, claim, lien or estate with which said property may have or shall become charged or for which it may become liable, except no such sale shall discharge the lien of any ground rent or mortgage which shall have been recorded before the date of sale, and which is or shall be prior to all other liens except other mortgages and ground rents."

It is strongly urged that prospective bidders examine the examinations made of the title to any tracts in which they may be interested. Every reasonable effort has been made to keep these proceedings free from error. However, in every case, the property is offered for sale by the Tax Claim Bureau without any guarantee or warranty whatever, either as to existence, correctness of ownership, size, boundaries, locations, structures or lack of structures upon the land, liens, title or any other matter or thing whatever. No adjustment will be made after the property is struck down.

The properties offered for sale are hereinafter set out by Township or taxing districts and the name first appearing in each item is that of the owner or reputed owner in whose name the property was assessed for the taxes returned delinquent to the Tax Claim Bureau.

The 1981 Accrued Taxes will be included in the upset price on the day of the sale, if a record of such tax is furnished to the Bureau by the Tax Collectors.
