

Salary Scale System Fairness Challenged

WAYNESBURG — Greene County Commissioner L.R. Santore Thursday challenged the fairness of the county's long-standing salary scale system, asking that it be studied for possible revisions before adopting the 1982 county budget.

He raised the issue during a salary board session held during the commissioners' weekly meeting. He also protested the granting of pay raises "to some employees in the middle of the year when others aren't given similar consideration."

Speaking of the job classification and wage scale, Santore said he feels the custom of granting annual eight percent pay raises Jan. 1 of each year is not equitable "because a person hired in November gets the same raise after working for only two months that a person hired in February gets after working for 11 months."

He suggested that it would be more fair to set up an anniversary date system under which an employee would receive a raise each year on the date that he or she was hired.

Commissioners Joseph Pawlosky and Richard Cowan agreed to consider the possibility of making revisions, but pointed out that the anniversary dates would require constant monitoring because 250 people are involved and could be difficult to begin without substantial increased cost to the county.

George K. Stennett, Greene County Industrial Developments executive director who doubles as county development director, will be asked to review the present system in light of Santore's recommendation. Stennett prepared the original job classification and wage scale plan which was adopted by the county, and which has undergone a number of revisions since that time.

The salary board meeting was called by County Treasurer Joseph Souders to request that Sharon Thomas, an employee in his office, be promoted from clerk to secretary, with an accompanying increase in salary from $508 to $549 a month.

He explained that Mrs. Thomas has been given additional duties in connection with implementing the state's new legalized bingo law, which requires that the treasurer's office in each county take applications and issue permits to non-profit groups which want to hold bingo games.

Santore asked that the motion be amended to include similar eight percent increments for three guards at the county jail who have been designated as shift commanders and for two employees in the office of Clerk of Court Al Darney.

"We promised this spring to consider these requests and nothing has been done about it," he said. "It isn't right to pick out some people and not others. It causes hard feelings among the employees."

Souders and the other two commissioners, however, rejected his counter motion and granted the increase to Mrs. Thomas.

With Santore abstaining, they also voted to increase from $640 to $691 a month the salary of John Reagan, executive director of the Greene County Conservation District. In this case, they noted, the state has provided the county with more than enough money to cover the raise through a grant to assist the county with the cost of providing conservation services.

During their regular meeting, the commissioners adopted a resolution which is required before the Greene County Association for Retarded Citizens (GARC) can obtain a $514,000 loan from the Farmers Home Administration to finance construction of a new building to house its Opportunity Center in West Waynesburg.

The loan, carrying interest of five percent, is subject to repayment over a period of 30 years. Annual payment will be approximately $30,000. Funds for the repayment will come out of the allocation GARC receives each year from the Washington-Greene Mental Health and Mental Retardation agency. Greene County, each year, contributes about $35,000 to MH-MR.

The resolution stipulates that if at any time during the life of the loan GARC is not able to make the annual payment, the county will withdraw its appropriation to MH-MR and make the payment directly to Farmers Home.

The commissioners accepted, with regret, the resignation of Thomas Zook of Mather as a caseworker for Greene County Children and Youth Services.

It was announced that the state Juvenile Court Judges' Commission has approved continuation of its grant-in-aid program designed to improve court probation services. Greene County's 1982 allocation under the program is $4,254.

Still No Progress In Teachers' Strike

CARMICHAELS — The holiday will continue today for some 1,600 students in the Carmichaels Area School District following a walkout by teachers last Thursday over a fringe benefit they thought was included in a tentative three-year contract ratified a week earlier.

Dr. Dolores Zoldos, district superintendent, said Monday night that no movement or meetings on the strike had been made over the long weekend but that she would be in contact with the state mediator (William Hershberger) today and expected a negotiation meeting to be set.

Friday night the school board voted unanimously to permit all extra-curricular activities, including football, to continue during the strike.

Peccon Resigns From Council

By THELMA CALLAGHAN
Staff Writer

CARMICHAELS — Carmichaels Borough Councilwoman Joyce Peccon said she plans to resign from her post because of what she believes is unfair newspaper coverage.

At the beginning of the special session of council Wednesday night, Mrs. Peccon gave an emotional statement and said she would not reconsider her decision.

She said she will submit an official letter for action at the next regular meeting.

Mrs. Peccon cited a number of newspaper articles and said she and other council members are afraid to make comments during a meeting because the statements are taken out of context and

"blown out of proportion."

These articles appear, she noted, when many in the community give freely of their time to activities that promote the town and specifically mentioned the King Coal Association, the Chamber of Commerce and the fire company.

She cited one newspaper article, appearing in a Uniontown paper, which she said ridiculed council and blew up a police problem. She said she was especially incensed that the Democrat-Messenger newspaper ridiculed a statement made by Stephen McCann at the coal mining institute program during the Coal Show.

While she agreed that she was embarrassed by the borough police not volunteering their services during the Coal Show, she said she is afraid to make statements and is resigning.

Also discussed at the meeting were plans for a new borough building.

By a 4-1 vote, council passed a motion to have Bell Construction Co. representing Nationwide Homes, proceed with building plans for bidding purposes for construction of a new borough building.

Voting yes were Chris Watson, Steve Yarish, Jean Abinader, and Ted Blasinsky. The negative vote was cast by Bob Dobbins.

Resident Dorothy Helmick questioned where council will get the money for a building, noting council had to borrow

Traffic Snarled

Traffic was tied up for more than three hours Monday afternoon when a piece of heavy construction equipment fell from a truck the intersection of route 21 and 19 just east of Waynesburg.

No injuries were reported in the accident which happened at approximately 4:30 p.m.

Efforts to remove the piece of equipment from the highway were slow because of its size and configuration.

money to keep up with the regular bills related to operating the local government. She agreed the borough needs a municipal building, but not if it can't afford it.

Mayor Paul Connor answered, and council concurred, that there would be no increase in taxes. Connor said the building would amortize itself and cited, as an example, that the magistrate's office would be located in the new building as it was in the past.

The building fund contains approximately $35,000 and the remainder would be borrowed from the Carmichaels First National Bank on a long-term loan.

Connor said tax revenues have increased this year because of the stable tax base created through reassessment and noted that the maintenance of a new building had been included in the new budget.

Council said this year, as in the past, a tax anticipation loan was made until tax revenue is received.

Mt. Morris Man Held On Kidnap Charge

WAYNESBURG — Carl Hayes, 51, of Mt. Morris, was bound over to court Tuesday on charges of kidnapping, aggravated assault and making terrorist threats. The hearing was held before Magistrate Ruth Hughes.

Hayes, a deputy constable in Perry Township, was arrested by state police on Aug. 7.

He is accused of stopping Barbara Garber of Waynesburg while she was driving near Kirby. Hayes, who was wearing his constable's uniform, allegedly told the woman she was being charged with speeding and told her to get into his car.

Garber testified Hayes threatened her with sexual assault and repeatedly struck her with a pistol. She said Hayes drove to Waynesburg and then south on Route 218 through Blacksville, W.Va., where she grabbed the wheel of the car and forced it into a bridge.

Another witness at the hearing Tuesday was Glenn Underwood, a coal miner who lives in Blacksville. Underwood testified he spotted the car in a bridge near Clay Battelle High School and after he stopped, he could hear a girl screaming.

"I looked in the window and the suspect pointed a gun at me," Underwood told the court. "He said I was in trouble, but after noticing the constable's insignia on the uniform I informed him he had no authority in West Virginia," Underwood said on the stand.

Underwood said he identified the subject's picture from a group of eight photographs presented later by the state police. The woman also said she selected the suspect's picture from a group of other photos on three separate occasions.

Also taking the stand was Trooper Kenneth Morosky who arrested Hayes on Porter Street extension near Waynesburg several hours after the alleged incident. Morosky told the court that the front of Hayes' car was scratched.

A neighbor of Hayes, Mrs. Sharon Sponough of Mt. Morris, testified she saw Hayes come home at 3:40 a.m. on the day of the incident and he was wearing his uniform.

The alleged incident occurred at about 1:30 a.m. according to state police.

Hayes will remain free on $10,000 bond.

I-79 Detour Starts Tuesday

WAYNESBURG — Motorists driving on Interstate 79 between Waynesburg and Washington this weekend will not have to contend with a detour over Route 19.

The Pennsylvania Department of Transportation said Thursday it has deferred the start of a reconstruction project north of the Ruff Creek interchange until Tuesday, Sept. 8.

The department indicated that weather and heavier traffic during the Labor Day weekend were factors leading to the decision.

Work had been scheduled to begin on Wednesday, Sept. 2, when southbound traffic was to detour over Route 19 between the Lone Pine and Ruff Creek exits.

Members Of County's World War I Unit Reunited At Waynesburg Armory

WAYNESBURG — Eight of the 14 remaining members of Company K, the Greene County World War I unit of the 28th Keystone Division of the Pennsylvania National Guard, attended the unit's annual reunion here Saturday.

Those attending were Harley Swart, Frank Orndorff and C. Austin Dillie, all of Waynesburg, Dewey Lemley of Mt. Morris, Herman Baker of Santa Anna, Calif., Walter "Buck" McKerrihan of Ithaca, N.Y., Norman Guthrie of Grove City, and William Hague of Deland, Fla. Baker and Guthrie were originally from Waynesburg.

Three members of the company died since the last reunion. They were Charles Bosworth, of Waynesburg, Walter McVay, of Mt. Lebanon, and Ralph "Roundy" Durbin, of Greensburg. McVay was a native of Waynesburg and Durbin lived at Wind Ridge until he went into the service.

The other six surviving members of the original group of 153 enlisted men and three officers of the company who left Waynesburg in September 1917, for initial training at Camp Hancock, Ga., are William Gray, Asa McMasters, John Barnhart, all of Waynesburg, Ross Minor of New Orleans, La., John Shaffer of Pittsburgh, and George Wood of Cleveland, Ohio.

Although the survivors attending the reunion are all retired, most of them enjoy fairly good health. The usual flow of reminiscence palavar about the hardships as well as the humor which highlighted their war time experiences flowed back and forth at a steady pace during their afternoon gathering at the National Guard Armory on Waynesburg's North Washington Street. Wives and friends of some of the members joined the reunion members for a banquet later that evening.

During the brief business meeting which followed the informal get together at the armory, it was decided to again hold a reunion in 1982.

The Waynesburg based group is now thought to be the only company unit of their regiment which still holds an annual reunion.

Mess call for the reunion banquet was sounded by Tom Hill, owner of the Waynesburg Restaurant, a son of one of their members, the late Allen Hill, who served in both the company's Mexican border duty and throughout the campaign in France.

Members of Company K attending their annual reunion held Saturday at Waynesburg from the left included: Dewey Lemley, Frank Orndorff, William H. Baker, Bill Hague, Walter McKerrihan and C. Austin Dillie.

FARM AND HOME NOTES

Now that school is back in session, many teenagers are likely to do without breakfast because, as they say, they don't have time for it.

It is important they realize that a good breakfast — supplying from one-fourth to one-third of recommended daily nutrient intake — will control hunger during the day and contribute to physical as well as mental alertness.

The weight-conscious teenager should know that studies indicate that to control weight, spreading total food intake into several small meals is more desirable than consuming one's total dietary intake in one or two meals. Food and activity patterns developed during this stage in life can help to determine their physical well-being in later years.

Studies show inactivity may be a more likely cause of overweight and obesity in adolescents than overeating. In fact, studies comparing obese and non-obese adolescents show that more obese adolescents actually eat less than their non-obese peers of the same sex. Of course eating nutritious, well-balanced meals that are low in calories is important, but inactivity is of greater importance than excessive food intake in the development of overweight and obesity in teenagers.

The value of exercise in controlling weight has been underestimated for a number of reasons. There has been such an overwhelming emphasis on how many calories are eaten that we tend to not even consider how many we burn up in activity.

Grange Elects Officers

WAYNESBURG — Officers for the coming year were elected at a meeting of East Franklin Grange.

They are Albert Lahew, master; Tom Houston, overseer; Lucy Willis, lecturer; Iva Rush, steward; Earl Whipkey, assistant steward; Irene Phillips, lady assistant steward; Waverlyn Andrews, chaplain; Delmont Rose, treasurer; Ethel Lahew, secretary; Joe Willis, gatekeeper; Hilda Rose, Ceres; Gladys Rose, Pomona; Mary Strawn, Flora; John Rose, executive committee member; Thelma Hoge, finance committee member, and Maxine Anderson, pianist.

Plans were completed for a meeting Saturday, Sept. 5, when the East Franklin Grange will host Pomona Grange. The business meeting will be held at 4 p.m., followed by a covered dish dinner at 6 p.m. The fifth degree will be conferred at 7:30 p.m. All grange members who have not as yet received the degree are encouraged to attend.

Pine Bank Long Way From Osaka

PINE BANK — Sachiko Kometani, 16, of Osaka, Japan, will be spending a year as a junior student at West Greene High School but eventually hopes to find her way to Hollywood before becoming a movie director in her native land.

The petite Miss Kometani is the daughter of a steel company owner and the representative of the International Fellowship program based in Buffalo, N.Y. She will be making her home with the Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Guthrie family of Pine Bank during her stay here.

A top student in Japan, she will be concentrating on typing and English courses while at West Greene. She also hopes to see as many movies as possible because she is a movie "nut," especially if Robert Redford is involved.

Wearing a Marilyn Monroe T-shirt, Miss Kometani said in an interview this week that she hopes to eventually direct movies. She enjoys volleyball and singing and is very good on the koto which looks like a long-handled guitar.

Her American host family includes Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie and their four children: Linda, a recent graduate of West Greene High School; Brenda, who will be a junior at West Greene; Lawson Jr., a freshman and John, a sixth grade student at Graysville Elementary School.

Linda is currently visiting her grandparents in Panama. Mrs. Guthrie is a native of Panama and met her husband during a tour of duty with the U.S. Army. Mr. Guthrie, now employed at a coal mine near Blacksburg, W. Va., retired from the U.S. Army after a 20-year career.

Mr. Guthrie feels the biggest adjustment for his new "daughter" will be living in the country. "She comes from a big city and it was just a matter of jumping on a bus to get to many activities. It's a lot different from Pine Bank where we occasionally go to town."

Miss Kometani, whose father is the owner of Yonenaga Steel Company, has a 12-year-old brother at home. She has been studying English since junior high school and thus far has little trouble with her new language.

She instantly recognized her American sister Brenda when she got off the plane in Pittsburgh this week.

Miss Kometani is looking forward to many spaghetti dinners in America, but her first menu selection was a huge pizza on a stopover in Waynesburg en route to her new "country" home.

Bartolovich of Waynesburg R.D.4 announce the engagement of their, Tammy Lynn, to Kevin Michael Whipkey, son of Madalyn Clutter of West Finley R.D.2 and Bob Whipkey of Cameron Star Route. Miss Bartolovich is a 1980 graduate of West Greene High School and is employed by the Flushing Shirt Factory in Waynesburg. Her fiancé is a senior at West Greene High School. No wedding date has been set.

According to the want-ads, experience is invaluable. Yet on this park bench 280 years of experience add up to boredom.

Religion got involved early in the problems of our senior-citizens. Our churches have made us aware of the worth of the individual. And this emphasis on every one of us as equally important before God inspired modern society to look seriously at the concerns and the potential of the aging.

Recently a youth remarked that his Church is the one institution in the community in which young and old command equal respect. "It's where everyone appreciates you if you do whatever you can!"

Strengthen your place of worship as it serves God and our community by doing all you can!

Nurses Take Hospital To The Homebound

WAYNESBURG — To many of the homebound area residents who depend upon their services, they are known as "nurses in blue" because of the color of their uniforms. They are home health nurses, part of the team of professionals at Greene County Memorial Hospital who treat patients who need medical assistance but cannot leave their homes.

The four registered nurses who make up the staff average 550 patient visits each month, with each of them seeing about six patients a day. They are supported by two aides, a secretary and a program coordinator and can call on other specialists when needed. The program not only provides skilled nursing, but also physical, speech, respiratory and enterostomal therapy when necessary, social service, dietary instruction, and medical supplies and laboratory tests. Each visit requires special preparation. A recent trip to New Freeport by Norma Temple to see one of her clients, Bessie Bell, is typical. Mrs. Temple, a registered nurse, is one of the "nurses in blue." Prior to going into the field to make her scheduled calls for that day, she checked the file of each patient, including that of Mrs. Bell, to determine the equipment and supplies she would need. In Mrs. Bell's case, she stopped at the hospital laboratory to discuss appropriate equipment for drawing blood; checked with Nathan Kerr, director of the hospital pharmacy, to make sure there would be no side effects from prescribed medication, and met briefly with Dr. Shin S. Wu, Mrs. Bell's physician, to clarify a treatment order. Upon arrival at the house she was met by Carolyn Martin, a nurse's aide, who not only assisted her but also gave attention to personal care which the patient required. On arrival back at the hospital at the end of the day, Mrs. Temple updated the records on each patient, recording vital information about the visits she had made. Greene County Memorial Hospital's Home Health Care program was established in 1979 and has grown steadily since that time. It gives the hospital a method of providing out-patient care for people who cannot visit the hospital.

Road Detour In Effect

Work on the Ruff Creek interchange of Interstate 79 began Tuesday while motorists traveling southbound were detoured over Route 19 between the Lone Pine and Ruff Creek exits. Motorists get back on I-79 at Ruff Creek while crews work on the southbound lane. The northbound lane, pictured at extreme right, was open to normal traffic.

Real Estate Office Allowed In Rt. 21 Residential Area

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County Court has ruled that a Waynesburg real estate dealer has a legal right to establish an office on Route 21 east of Waynesburg, even though it would be the only commercial development in the immediate area.

The ruling handed down Tuesday holds that 3.4 acres of land purchased by Donald E. and Carol J. Patterson is not subject to commercial restrictions merely because such restrictions were included in deeds for adjoining properties. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson purchased the property in December 1980 from Dr. and Mrs. Grover C. Powell, original owners of an 84-acre tract of land from which two residential lot plans, property for the Lions Club Park and property for a church were taken. Lots in the two lot plans, some of which adjoin the Patterson property, all contained restrictions barring their use for commercial purposes.

Patterson filed his lawsuit in February of this year after he was unable to obtain financing for the construction of his office because of possible legal entanglements involving deed restrictions and possible protests from other property owners. Named as defendants were all 23 property owners whose titles stem from Dr. and Mrs. Powell, but only four of them — Mr. and Mrs. James S. Conrad Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald G. Hoge and Willene S. Hook Carlson — defended the equity action.

Their attorneys claimed that deed restrictions in both lot plans were binding on the Patterson property because his 3.4 acres came from the same original tract as did the residential plans. In ruling on this point, Judge Glenn Toothman said that because restrictions were placed on part of the tract, purchasers of those portions had no right to assume the same restrictions would be applied to the rest of the tract.

"The owners of the original tract (Dr. and Mrs. Powell) intended that the business restriction apply only to lots sold with its inclusion, and conversely intended that the parcel sold to the plaintiffs be for a commercial or professional use," he said in his opinion.

Judge Toothman also noted that the property which Patterson purchased was recognized as commercial property in the model zoning ordinance which the Greene County Planning Commission prepared for possible adoption several years ago.

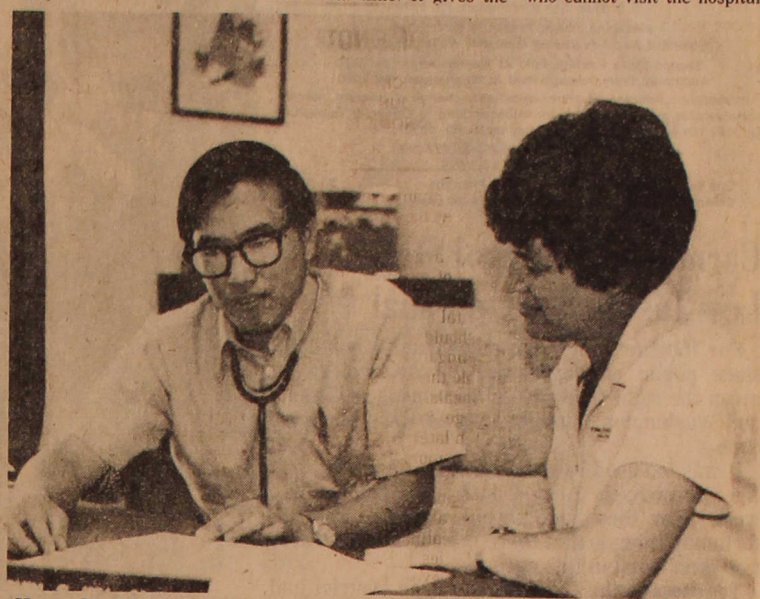

"The land in dispute is located on a busy highway and is not agreeable to residential usage, but very much so to commercial usage," he commented, adding that a real estate office and adjoining parking lot would be a "fairly innocuous" use of the land and would not diminish the value of nearby residential property.

The court ruling will become final in 30 days unless exceptions are filed.

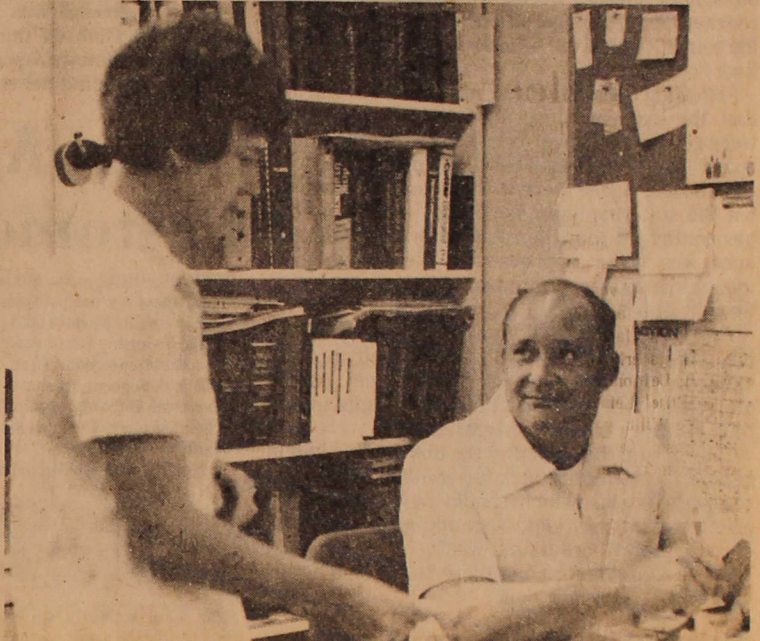

Money Stolen

WAYNESBURG — Someone broke into the home of Vicky Bedillion located along Route 543, three miles south of Waynesburg, in Jefferson Township and took $797 in cash from a desk drawer in the living room.

The theft occurred sometime between 7:30 a.m. and 4:15 p.m. Thursday, according to state police.

Judge Hears Case Against Development's Roads

WAYNESBURG — Testimony began Thursday in a suit over roads brought by 12 property owners against the Jefferson Township Board of Supervisors and Earl and Audrey Szyoka, developers of the plan of lots in which the homeowners live.

The home owners have been battling for years to have the roads in the development constructed. Homeowners filed suit in November 1980 asking the developer or township, or a combination of both, to upgrade Oak Drive, Susan Drive and Beverly Drive, all located within the lot plan.

The case is being heard by visiting Judge Fred C. Adams of Fayette County after Greene County Judge Glenn Toothman withdrew because Mrs. Szyoka is employed as a tipstaff by the local court.

According to the complaint, the township approved the housing plan without requiring any bond to guarantee the construction of roads. The homeowners also cited the fact the township did not require bond for the installation of storm drains.

Szyoka has claimed the township is responsible for building the roads and the township claims the roads have to be constructed by the developer to township specifications if the supervisors are to eventually accept the roads.

First on the stand was Theresa Wilson, one of the homeowners, who described the condition of the roads as muddy, beaten-down red dog or dusty in the summer months from the time she said her husband purchased their home until the present.

She said it is impossible to tell where the road ends and private property begins. Mrs. Wilson said that Szyoka told her to pressure the supervisors to build the road. "Mr. Szyoka called me in November 1979 and said he and the township had reached agreement on the road construction and the road would be built in the spring or summer of 1980," Mrs. Wilson said.

Mrs. Wilson said her husband ice skated the length of the street one winter and said the school bus driver refuses to come into the plan to pick up children.

Joseph R. Magda, another homeowner, told the court he overheard one of the supervisors remark about a bond from the developer. "We screwed up and didn't require a bond," Magda said he asked Szyoka about the road at one point and threatened to go to the supervisors. Magda said Szyoka told him, "I wish you wouldn't do that. They will make me put it in."

Magda testified the homeowners held a meeting with Szyoka and told the developer they hoped for a solution before going to court. Szyoka then allegedly told the homeowners he would not spend that kind of money to construct roads.

Bruce E. Grandel, who purchased a lot in April 1976 testified next, told of the township rough grading the road that summer. He identified the equipment operator as William White, a township supervisor.

Joe Zammerille, who bought a home in the plan in March 1980, testified that he appealed his tax assessment because of the bad roads and was successful in having the assessment lowered. He claimed the poor condition of the roads has caused his home to lose value.

Richard Faddis, a township supervisor since 1970, was on the stand for most of the afternoon. He said the lot plan was approved with stipulations the roads would be built to township specifications before the township considered accepting them into the township system.

Faddis told the court he personally plowed snow in the development but only because he feared for the safety of the residents in case of an emergency. He said he received complaints about plowing a road not in the township system and then obtained signatures from the developer and residents on a document that said they understood that plowing would not constitute the township taking over the roads.

Faddis, in explaining the lack of bond from the developer, said he was sure Szyoka would complete the road. Faddis said there have been several meetings between the parties in an attempt to reach a solution. He also testified the township had never demanded Szyoka complete the road improvements nor had the township filed suit against Szyoka.

Other plaintiffs in the action include Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Day, Mr. and Mrs. David Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Harn and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bodnar.

Ewing Pollock, attorney for the township, has maintained the township has worked within the framework of their ordinance and have always reminded Szyoka the the roads were his responsibility.

Attorney James Hook, who is presenting the Szyokas, asked each homeowner if any title search revealed regulations concerning road construction of if their sale agreements contained any mention of road construction. Each homeowner answered no.

Testimony will resume Friday.

Faces From The Past-Do You Recognize Them?

"Yippee", old friends of the late Bill Taylor can hear him saying as he waves his hand above his head when ground was finally broken for excavation for the fishing pond at the Waynesburg Sportsman's Club on the Carmichaels road in the early 1940's. Taylor, recognized as one of the county's best-known sportsmen, was one of the charter members of the club as was Edward VanCleve, standing nearby. The identity of the third man in the picture is not known.

Fact and Folklore John O'Hara

If there are any lingering doubts about the immediate need of an east-west bypass around Waynesburg, it's unfortunate that those having such doubts didn't happen to be in the viallure of Morrisville Monday evening as the Labor Day traffic was peaking toward its climax at 5 p.m. The rate of traffic could roughly be described in the familiar way of bumper-to-bumper and crawling. Then as suddenly as a bolt of lightning streaking out of a clear sky, a huge lowboy truck freighted with a "cherry picker" type crane was carefully steered off Route 19 at its intersection with Route 21 to start the last phase of its short journey from the Emerald mine just west of Waynesburg to the U.S. Steel Robena mine in Monongahela Township. Before it had progressed a scant hundred yards a bolt in the chain which with it had been securely lashed snapped in one of those things that sometimes do happen in spite of the skills and competence of those who transport such ponderous loads and proceed without mishaps of any sort. Monday evening's mishap couldn't have occurred at a better — or worse — time, depending on the various viewpoints of those involved, and their relationship to the incident. Looking back on it it may finally prove a blessing in disguise to prove the point which is clearly seen by truckers, the men who staff the highway maintenance system in the county, the parents of children who are bussed through the area, and state police that there is an urgent need for a bypass. The spot where the accident happened couldn't have been chosen more carefully to underline this need.

The truck was less than 100 yards from the juncture point of Routes 19 and 21, each of which had the usual heavy holiday traffic load, augmented by traffic from Interstate 79. Fortunately for home-bound visitors returning to Greene County, and for those who had been visiting here and were leaving for their homes, the state police barracks is only a couple of furlongs south of the scene. In a lot less time than it takes to type this out, troopers were on top of the situation and "doing their thing" with much more smoothness and with a getter game plan than was being displayed by some of their favorite football teams at the same time. In the maze of little short stretches of roads that were once the back streets and alleys of the village of Morrisville, the troopers had the big invasion of drivers reeling around the aborted streets as smoothly as a set of eight experienced hodowners dancing the Virginia Reel at a square dance, and without so much as a dented fender. Hundreds of people from "uptown" in Waynesburg walked two or three hundred yards to watch the show from the figurative 50-yard line of Charles (Duke) Haines' velvet-like blue grass lawn. After two solid hours of intensive work the big rig was ready to be loaded again to the applause of the crowd just as the last rays of light fell upon the scene so that all of the sidewalk superintendents could get home in time for the opening kickoff of the nighttime football game — all of them firmly convinced that a bypass around the county seat is what Waynesburg needs most for Christmas — or as soon thereafter as possible.

Carmichaels School Strike Less Justified Than Usual

For the first time in many years — virtually since public employees in Pennsylvania were given the right to strike — all schools in Greene and Washington Counties opened their doors on time. It was too good to last, however, as teachers in the Carmichaels Area District walked out one week after they had started working. The unfortunate thing is that there is even less justification than usual in this case. Teachers in the Carmichaels Area District had agreed to start school without a contract in the hope that a walkout could be averted. And a few days after classes began the bargaining teams reached apparent agreement on a new three-year agreement which the teachers subsequently ratified.

Following the ratification vote, teachers learned that the eye care insurance they thought they were getting had never been offered by the school board. They then voted to withhold services. Both sides agree there was a misunderstanding, but the state mediator handling the negotiations has confirmed that the request for optical insurance was never approved by the board, even though the teacher organization's representative thought that it had. This raises the question of why teachers would not agree to continue working under their contract extension until the issue was thrashed out, particularly since the amount at stake amounts to less than $1.50 per month per teacher. Considering the difficulty the district has had in getting the mediator back for another bargaining session, a strike which should never have happened has already kept boys and girls out of the classroom for more than a week. We've said it before, but there has to be a better way of getting things done.

Sewer Authority's Delinquent Customers Face Water Shut-Off

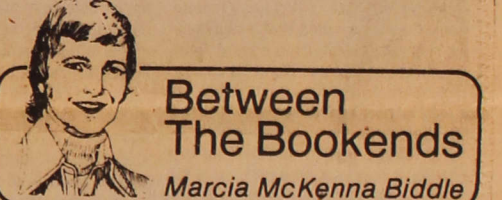

WAYNESBURG — More than 20 customers who have not paid their sewer bills may find their water shut off as the Franklin Township Sewer Authority this week starts procedures to recover $15,000 in delinquent accounts. The sewer authority, working through the Southwestern Pennsylvania Water Authority, will ask the water company to shut off the water to delinquent households. Procedures dictated by the water company require each household be notified by letter and that the property be posted before actual shut-off takes place. The sewer authority will be required to reimburse the water company for lost revenue as the result of the shut-off. Milinovich & Co. Inc. presented the 1980 audit of the authority to the board and revealed the financial structure was sound. Jim Milinovich said the audit was late because of the authority's unusual financial arrangements. He also cited the fact the authority went from its construction phase to an operating phase during the audit year as another reason for auditing problems. Art Hall, the authority's engineer, reported the Department of Environmental Resources had approved another $146,000 grant toward construction of the new sewer project. Hall said, however, this represents only about a third of what the authority was expecting. According to Hall, DER has already approved change orders which increased the cost of the project, but until an inspection of the project is completed by DER and the Corps of Engineers the additional money will not be forwarded. The delay is especially significant because the authority has a $500,000 payment due within a few months. Hall said he has been trying for six months to get officials to inspect the $7 million project. In other action, the authority: Approved a procedure for granting wage increases in the future. The board will grant a seven percent hike to employees Oct. 1 of each year based on the number of months worked during the previous year. Hired Milinovich & Co. Inc. to audit the 1981 operations at a cost not to exceed $1,800 and approved paying Milinovich $2,200 for the 1980 audit. Agreed to continue reading the water meters for Southeastern Franklin Water Authority but reaffirmed the decision not to provide billing or maintenance service. Voted to advertise for bids on the authority's insurance package. Bids will probably be accepted at the Oct. 6 meeting.

AROUND TOWN By THE STAFF

After weeks of the pleasant kind of weather southern reports brag about all winter, Mother Nature shook Greene Countians out of their dream Wednesday morning with a stinging drop in the temperature which did not start to elevate until midday. Miss Kathryn Dryer of South Richhill Street has returned home after visiting for several days at the home of her brother William in Brooklyn, where he has lived since returning to the United States from the European Theater in World War II. Mr. and Mrs. William E. Meighen and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reed of Waynesburg attended the funeral of Samuel R. Reed of Mechanicsburg. He was the brother of Mrs. Meighen and Mr. Reed and a son of the late William and Jane Ross Reed. Mr. Reed was an engineering graduate of Notre Dame University and spent his professional career in the Pennsylvania environmental department. Herman Baker, a resident of the former East Waynesburg Borough who now lives in California, is vacationing at the home of his sister, Mrs. Norma McCullough of Washington. While in the area he attended the reunion of World War I members of Company K, 110th Pennsylvania Infantry, held last Saturday at Waynesburg. Attorney and Mrs. Barnes Wisecarver of Evanston, Ill. have returned to their home after vacationing for several weeks at their summer home in northern Canada. Mr. Wisecarver is a native of Waynesburg and a descendant of the Wisecarver family which owned a homestead of several thousand acres in Franklin Township. Dr. Mildred M. Maguire, a professor of chemistry at Waynesburg College, has returned to the United States from England, where she spent the past year in research work with an English industrial firm. She resumed her faculty post with the opening of the fall semester. James Stafford of Carnegie,

Prison Board Discusses Work Release Program

WAYNESBURG — During a meeting of the prison board Thursday afternoon, Greene County Jail Warden Andy Bystry reported four men have been participating in a work release program since June 22. The board voted to increase to seven dollars a day the amount participants in the work release program pay for their room and board at the jail. The amount had been five dollars. There are three ways an inmate can get into the work release program: through the courts, the Adult Probation Office or by Bystry's recommendation. Inmates are released for an eight-hour work day but come back to the jail at night. They are responsible for finding their own transportation, but

Between The Bookends Marcia McKenna Biddle

"The Great Railway Bazaar," by Paul Theroux. Houghton Mifflin. This was Paul Theroux's first travel book. Published in 1975, it records his impressions and experiences while traveling by train from London to Singapore, then back through Siberia. Having spent a week reading his two travel books, I was interested to find that Theroux has an article in the September issue of Harper's Magazine. It's billed on the magazine's cover as, "Patronage Doesn't Make You Talented. It Just Makes You Richer." In the article, he objects to writers who think they can't write a book unless they have a grant. He goes so far as to accuse American writers of being "spoiled, neurotic, defensive, and even somewhat lazy pensioners, who won't lift a finger unless provoked by the promise of a foundation's tax-deductible grant." "Money to writers will not give us any masterpieces," he concludes. "That thought should fill us with joy, for the imagination has no price; here at last is something that cannot be bought. But money is not useless. It matters to the performing arts, and to some painting and sculpture. It is essential to literature, but in a way that is seldom seen—in the old Carnegie way of funding libraries." He's not trying to win any popularity contest among fellow writers, and doesn't say whether he has ever received any grants or fellowships. I doubt that he has. He is a person who's not afraid to take risks, and shows that clearly in his books. He did, however, help support himself in such places as India and Japan by lecturing on the American novel. Even with the lectures, his Asian trip involved risks. "It was my intention to board every train that chugged into view from Victoria Station in London to Tokyo Central; to take the branch line to Simla, the spur through the Khyber Pass, and the chord line that links Indian Railways with those in Ceylon; the Mandalay Express, the Malaysian Golden Arrow, the locals in Vietnam, and the trains with bewitching names, the Orient Express, the North Star, the Trans-Siberian." He chose to travel alone, leaving his wife and children in London for four months (another risk), because he wanted to receive his impressions of his travels without diluting them by mixing them with anyone else's. "I was under the impression this train went to Dhanushkodi— that's what my map says," Theroux said to a conductor. "Indo-Ceylon Express formerly went to Dhanushkodi," he was told. "Why doesn't it go there now?" "No Indo-Ceylon Express," he said. "And Dhanushkodi blew away." Theroux is self-effacing about his own work and accomplishments. In Ceylon, "It struck me as practically insane in a country that was starving to death that thirty people should choose to attend a three-day seminar on American literature at which I would be the principal speaker. American literature is fine, but I feel it to be an irrelevance in a disaster area. I had not counted on the resourcefulness of the American embassy — the seminar included three huge meals, high tea, a free room in the New Orient Hotel, and all the whisky you could drink." And at the end of a fascinating journey, Theroux had his book written. He took many kinds of risks, but one good gamble — his book became a best-seller.

Refuse Contractor Will Sue Township

WAYNESBURG — Another legal battle between an area municipality and a refuse contractor appears headed for court. A spokesman for Southern Alleghenies of Hofsopple, a firm which recently brought suit against Waynesburg Borough for not accepting its apparent low bid, said Tuesday Southern Alleghenies will file a damage suit against Franklin Township if the supervisors continue to recognize only Long Trucking Co. as the legal refuse collector.

Race Planned During Festival

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County Department of Parks and Recreation will hold a 10-mile bicycle race at Carmichaels Saturday, Sept. 19, as part of the annual Covered Bridge Festival. Registration will be held at the covered bridge at Carmichaels between 9 and 10 a.m. The race will begin there at 10 a.m. and wind up at the White covered bridge at Garards Fort. Competition will be in two divisions, junior (17 and under) and adult (18 and over). There will be three categories of bicycles in each division — one speed, three and five speed, and six speed and over. Prizes will be given to the first-place finisher in each category, making a total of six prizes. Entry fee for the race is $2.

Woman Sues For Damages

A Carmichaels woman has filed a lawsuit in Greene County Court against a man she claims did extensive damage to her house "during a fit of rage." The trespass action was filed Thursday by Evelyn Rulong of 7 Single Street, Carmichaels. Ralph Petrucci of Dilliner is named as defendant. The plaintiff is seeking $420 in damages for a broken television set and other damaged household items, and $420 additional for the cost of repairs to a door and other parts of the house. Police received the complaint at 10:15 a.m. Sunday.

Water Rates Increase

CARMICHAELS — Consumers of the municipal authority of the Borough of Carmichaels have received notices that water rates have been increased as of Sept. 1. The new rates are $4 for the first 1,000 gallons, which is the minimum; $2 for the next 5,000 gallons; $1.85 for the next 45,000 gallons and $1.65 for the next 50,000 gallons. The rate for water over that amount will be $1.55 per 1,000 gallons.

Money Taken

Joe Bruno, of 91 South Morgan Street, Waynesburg, reported to Waynesburg Borough police that someone entered his apartment sometime Saturday and took $175 in cash. Police received the complaint at 10:15 a.m. Sunday.

There were 120 relatives and friends who helped him celebrate.

The Fantastic Scrubs: Overaged And Overweight

By JIM MOORE
Staff Writer

KIRBY — Despite their lack of headlines on the sports pages, a unique softball team in the Kirby area has drawn attention from corporate headquarters in Pittsburgh to the governor's mansion in Harrisburg.

Comprised of a rare mixture of union and management, "The Fantastic Scrubs" have been in existence for the past three years. Despite their lighthearted approach to athletics, the team has its serious side.

On Sunday, September 13, the team will be playing the KDKA All-Stars in a benefit game at Frick Park in Pittsburgh. On this occasion they will present a check for $2,500 to Children's Hospital, Central Cab and Wade's Body Shop, both in Waynesburg, joined in the spirit of giving and will donate the bus transportation to Pittsburgh.

A large portion of the donation came from proceeds at a recent tournament at which Greene County Judge Glenn Toothman offered a few remarks and presented the winning trophy. Gov. Dick Thornburgh could not attend but he did send an official letter praising the efforts of "The Fantastic Scrubs."

Eight teams from the Cumberland Mine entered in addition to the Waynesburg Nazarene Church team which the Scrubs had promised to play. The Ealy EasyOuts won the tourney but lost the special exhibition game to the Nazarenes.

The team, by its own admission, is made up of overaged, overweight and poorly trained players who originally banded together to play in the now-defunct Cumberland C Mine league. They lost only two games in 1979 according to their manager who later admitted they only played two games.

There is no departmentalization on the team which is made up of nine foremen, two security guards, a clerk and a former federal mine inspector. They attribute the purchase of official softball caps and shirts to their successful season in 1980 but refused to reveal their record for the season.

This past season, they got more serious and ended the year with a 27-7 record. They also kept intact their three-year record of never having an argument during a game. It's a record made even more enviable by the fact the team prefers not to use the services of an umpire. According to one team member, "We just ask the pitcher to throw underhand and slow. We play because we enjoy it and most of the guys just want to get away from their wives for awhile."

Despite their cavalier attitude toward "organized" sports, the team members recently came to the aid of a fellow employee who had the misfortune to contract a rare blood disease.

Richard Sagosky, a security guard at the U.S. Steel facility, contracted aplastic anemia last December and has been fighting the disease ever since. Despite the efforts of doctors in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, the U.S. Army veteran of Vietnam still suffers severe headaches, deep depression and fever every day.

Sagosky, a resident of Footedale, believes the disease is the result of being exposed to Agent Orange, a chemical defoliant used extensively in Vietnam. He requires frequent blood transfusions to keep the disease in check and the cost of blood alone has soared over $7,000 thus far. Total medical costs to date have reached over $60,000. Although U.S. Steel benefits have paid insurance costs and given him a disability allowance, a great amount of expense has not been covered by benefits.

Fellow employees have donated money including the "Fantastic Scrubs" who recently handed over $1,300 collected through various events connected with their games.

Tennis Player Travels Far For Competition

By CHRISTIE MOLZON
Staff Writer

WAYNESBURG — Tilman Veltjens came to this country to learn some tennis, but what he's learned is just how good a tennis player he is.

The 15-year-old German youth recently won the Kelly-Mike's Open Tennis Tournament near Moundsville, upsetting first seeded John Reppard, a player several years older.

Tilman has been staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCall of West College Street. McCall and Tilman's father are business associates and Tilman arrived here seven weeks ago, principally because his father wanted him to improve his English, but also to give him a chance to play tennis against Americans his father thought might be better players.

The visit is part of an exchange program for the two families — the McCalls hope their 15-year-old son, John, will be able to spend three or four weeks in Germany next summer.

The easy-going, polite youth has fit in well with the McCall family, has made friends easily and attended school with John. One problem the McCalls have had, however, is finding suitable competition for the visiting tennis champ. It seems that Tilman has played all the local tennis enthusiasts and beaten them — including both McCall and son.

A friend of the McCall's entered Tilman in the Moundsville tournament where he was seeded fourth. In his first match he beat the second ranked player in the state 6-2 and 6-2 and went on to win the tournament. Tilman also spent two weeks at the Fritz Schunk Tennis Camp at Bethany College.

Tilman has been playing tennis for seven years and, by his own admission, he's a pretty good player. He has been winning tournaments since he was ten-years-old and spends two hours a day practicing.

Tennis is a big sport in Germany — according to Tilman ten million people play. "There's a lot of money in tennis in Germany today," he said. His tennis teacher has over 1,000 students.

Unlike this country, tennis is not a subject learned at school. A typical school day for Tilman lasts from 8 a.m. to one in the afternoon. School consists only of academic subjects — the afternoons are free for students to pursue sports and other hobbies through local private clubs.

After high school, German boys are expected to spend a year and a half in the army before being eligible for college.

Does he plan a career in tennis? "No, that would be crazy!" he said. Tennis professionals in his country practice for five to eight hours a day — he is content with keeping tennis just a hobby.

But, believe it or not, there is yet another sport he excels in. "I ski even better than I play tennis," he said and, since he only gets to ski three weeks out of the year, actually prefers it.

A resident of Dusseldorf, Tilman is six hours away from Austria where he skis. The hills around Greene County are pretty tame compared to those he normally skis down and he doubts they'd present much of a challenge. Fortunately for local skiers it's not winter — so he can't prove it.

Shoot Scheduled

WAYNESBURG — The second annual Greene County Sporting Rifle Shoot will be held Saturday, Sept. 26, at the Garards Fort shooting range.

The event will be sponsored by the Greene County Department of Parks and Recreation, which will award a trophy for the best overall score as well as trophies for first and second places in each division.

Registration will be held from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m.

Competition will be in two divisions, junior (12-16) and adult (17 and over).

Raiders Knot Rockets

JEFFERSON — Everyone knows you can't win a football game that ends in a tie.

Everyone, that is, except Waynesburg High School.

For although the scoreboard showed Jeff-Morgan and Waynesburg had played to a 6-6 tie Friday night, it was a jubilant head coach Don Roddy that emerged from an energetic Red Raider

"We made some mental mistakes but these kids never gave up," Roddy said. "It was a moral victory for these kids."

Waynesburg could have rolled over and surrendered numerous times Friday night but when the situation looked worst, the Raiders didn't quit.

Jeff-Morgan took a 6-0 lead on a one-yard plunge by quarterback Brian Virgin. But it could've very easily been 21-0 if it wasn't for a tough Raider defense.

Three times the Rockets marched inside Waynesburg's 10-yard line but could only come away with six points. The Rockets took the opening kickoff and marched through the Raider defense before Virgin fumbled the ball and Waynesburg's John Wion recovered at the Raider nine-yard line.

The Rockets put together another long drive near the end of the third quarter. But five plays into the fourth quarter, with the ball on Waynesburg's one-yard line, fullback Al Starostanko was stopped short of the goal line on a fourth-down play and the Raiders took over.

Jeff-Morgan finally scored on its next series with a 26-yard, three-play drive, the big play coming on a 24-yard pass from Virgin to Starostanko. One play later, Virgin dove over for the score.

The Rockets' ensuing kickoff traveled only 10 yards and Waynesburg took over at midfield. But the drive stalled and John Kuntz punted to the Rockets' nine-yard line. One play later halfback Mike Knight, who rushed for 98 yards on 21 carries, fumbled and Waynesburg's Keith Gressly recovered at the Rocket 15.

Six plays later, quarterback Rich Nuebauer bulled over from one yard out and suddenly Waynesburg was in position to pull off an upset. But the extra-point try by sophomore Jim Eckerd fell off to the left.

"Late in the game when a team scores on you, it's easy to lay down but these kids didn't," Roddy said. "Our big problem was the lack of experience. We made mental mistakes from first-game jitters. I found something tonight though, that I haven't before: 11 kids playing together. I feel good about it."

The Rockets totaled 112 yards — 28 passing and 112 rushing — while holding Waynesburg to 74 yards — 37 each passing and rushing.

Maples Drop Opener, 20-6

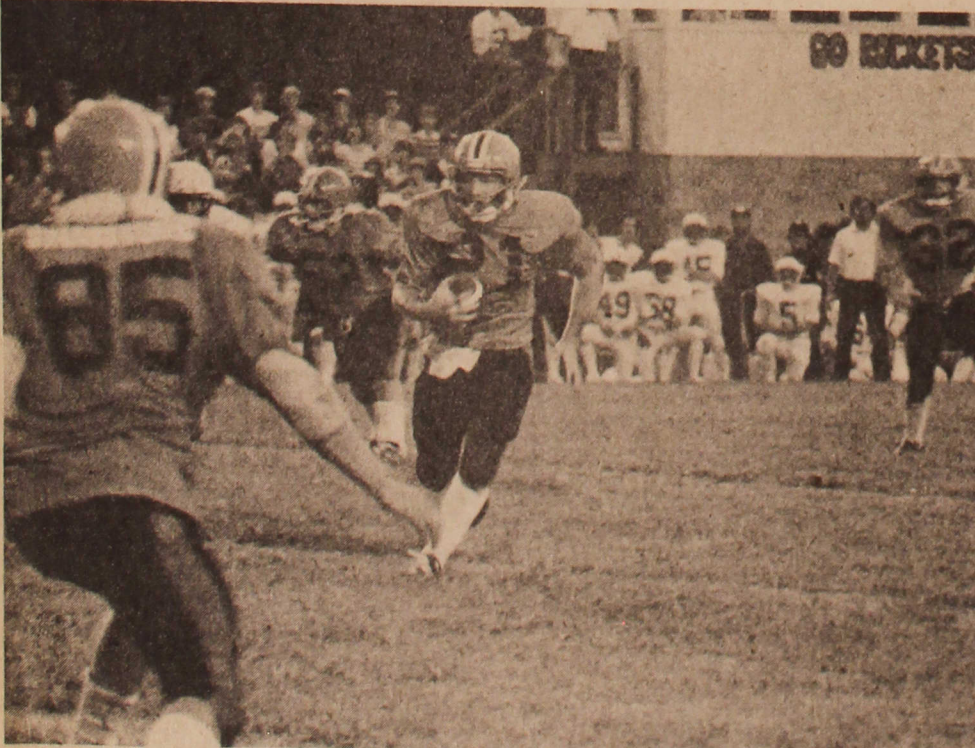

PITTSBURGH — Lawrenceville Catholic scored two third quarter touchdowns to break a 6-6 halftime tie and hand Mapletown a 20-6 defeat in the Maples' opening football game Friday night.

Mapletown's Dave Kelly combined with receiver Brian Graham for an 82-yard scoring play in the second quarter after Lawrenceville's Fred Banach went eight yards for a touchdown after recovering a fumble.

In the third quarter, Ken Smith of Lawrenceville threw touchdown passes of eight and 22 yards to Jim Kravkoski.

Score by Quarters
Mapletown 0 6 0 0-6
Lawrenceville 0 6 14 0-20

Scoring Summary

Carmichaels Approves Activities During Strike

CARMICHAELS — The Carmichaels Area School Board voted unanimously Friday to permit all extra-curricular activities, including football, during the teacher's strike which began Thursday.

The action was taken in light of assurance from the Carmichaels Area Education Association that its members, at the present time, will not interfere in any way with the holding of games or any other extra-curricular event, and will also permit its members who are involved in such activities to carry out their normal duties.

The board indicated that if any interference does develop, approval will be withdrawn.

At the beginning of the emergency meeting, board President Henry Bacon read a prepared statement in which he said that the CAEA had notified the board on Wednesday that it would be on strike as of midnight that day, forcing the board to cancel classes and all activities. He then added that the board subsequently "received verbal confirmation from the CAEA that for the present time it will not interfere with extra-curricular activities, including football."

While the strike forced cancellation of the opening game against Beth-Center Friday, the board action paves the way for the team to play in its first league game next Friday at Fairchance-Georges, removing the threat to its chances of competing for the WPIAL Class AA championship. Last year the team made it to the second round of the playoffs.

In the event the strike has not ended by the time the next home game is scheduled (on Friday, Sept. 18), the administrative staff will handle functions such as ticket sales. Dr. Dolores Zoldos, district superintendent, said that many parents have volunteered their services for activities. In other action relating to the strike, the board appointed Dr. Zoldos as strike force coordinator to act as liaison between the board and the State Department of Education, which must be kept informed of developments each day during a strike.

Business manager Louis Pascuzzo said state mediator William Heshberger has been busy in other school districts and has not as yet contacted the board to schedule a negotiating session.

The walkout came as a surprise after more than a week of classes had been held and after the teachers had ratified a tentative contract agreement.

However, teachers had erroneously been told that a vision care package would be provided in second and third years of the contract. When the board said that it had not approved vision care, a majority of the teachers voted to withhold services until an acceptable agreement could be reached.

Developer, Township Officials Argue About Road Conditions

WAYNESBURG — Testimony was completed Friday before visiting judge Fred C. Adams of Fayette County in an action brought by 12 property owners against the Jefferson Township Board of Supervisors and Earl Szoyka, the owner of the development in which the plaintiffs live.

At issue is the lack of improved roads within the development. The plaintiffs are asking that the developer or the township, or a combination of the two, be ordered to make the improvements.

Szoyka maintains the supervisors only requested that he (Szoyka) rough-out the three roads inside the development and then apply red dog. Szoyka further testified the supervisors promised to eventually tar and chip the roads.

Attorneys for the supervisors countered that they gave Szoyka a copy of a township ordinance which gives the specifications of new roads in a development. These regulations call for a thick stone base topped by a bituminous surface. The supervisors further contend they failed to request a bond from the developer in light of the current economic pressures and also because it would have been senseless to build a road, haul materials over it and then rebuild it.

The attorney for the homeowners in his closing arguments told the court the Municipalities Planning Code adopted by the state, the Greene County Sub-Division Ordinance adopted in 1974 and the township's ordinance number 2 adopted in 1970, all require roads with a thick, stone base and a bituminous top surface. He told the court the developer should have done this or the township should have stepped in and demanded it.

Attorney James Hook, representing Szoyka, said in his final argument that legal personnel should share some of the blame in this case because they failed to notify home buyers of development regulations. Hook also pointed out that Szoyka had not signed a formal agreement with the supervisors that he was bound by the regulations.

As for the state planning code, Hook said it has never been adopted in Greene County as required by law. Hook also pointed out that the county's subdivision ordinance has never been enforced and in fact there is no enforcement officer as required by the ordinance.

Jefferson Township supervisors William White and Carl Bane took the stand briefly and denied they signed the lot plan approval at their homes as Szoyka had testified earlier. Each supervisors said they signed the approval at the township barn in the presence of other supervisors and the township secretary.

Judge Adams, near the end of the proceedings, raised the question of whether the township had the right to standby and not take action against the developer when it became apparent he was not going to build the roads. Judge Adams also questioned why the township did not revoke its approval of the development at some point.

Judge Adams asked for legal briefs to be filed within 15 days and said he would reach a decision on the case within a 30-day period.

Accuses Council Of Stall Tactics

By BOB EICHENLAUB
Greene County Editor

CARMICHAELS — Despite a protest from Mayor Paul Connor that it was no more than a delaying tactic, members of Carmichaels Borough Council decided Tuesday to defer action on a new borough building until it makes sure the Carmichaels Area School Board will not challenge the town's title to the property on which it would be erected.

The question was raised after a motion was made to pay $1,000 to National Homes for the preparation of plans for the building, which would include obtaining all required approvals from state agencies. The money would be credited toward the cost of the building if the structure were purchased through National Home's Carmichaels agent, Robert Bell.

Proposed site is land on which the former borough building was located. That building, which was destroyed by fire, was the old Carmichaels elementary school which was decided to the borough with the stipulation that it be used only for municipal purposes.

When the motion to pay the $1,000 to National Homes was made, Councilman Jean Abinader said that he had received a call from a school board member who told him that some members are questioning the right of the borough to rebuild so long after the fire. Other councilmen said they had heard the same question being raised.

"We've dragged our heels too long already," Mayor Connor said, adding that he felt there is no question about the borough's right to proceed. "We got $93,500 in insurance from the fire and earned another $13,000 in interest, but we've squandered most of the money and only have $31,000 of it left. We need that borough building."

Council members took exception to his use of the word squandered, pointing out that the money which was spent was used to pave streets, to pay bills, borough expenses.

"We'd be in much worse shape than we are financially if we hadn't been able to draw on that money to do things that needed to be done," Council President Robert Dobbins said.

The outcome was that council passed the motion to pay National Homes the $1,000 only if concrete assurance can be obtained from the school board about title to the property.

Restored house in Greensboro

Renovated House Offered For Sale Through FmHA

GREENSBORO — Some Greene County family which qualifies — in terms of need and income — is being given an opportunity to buy a good home at a bargain price, without any down payment and with Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) financing.

The three-bedroom house, located on Third Street in Greensboro, will be open for public inspection from 1 to 8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 11, and from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 12. It contains one and one-half bathrooms, is carpeted throughout, and is covered with aluminum siding.

The dwelling, with an appraised value of from $22,000 to $25,000 is being offered for sale through the Housing Rehabilitation program operated by the Washington-Greene Community Action Corp. (CAC).

People employed under the program have been working for months to completely renovate the house, which at one time was badly damaged by fire. Calvin Clark, director of the Housing Rehabilitation program, said that 12 people have been engaged in the project.

Joan Owens, CAC assistant director, said that qualified persons interested in purchasing the house should contact Pat Smoggie at the Community Action office at Waynesburg. She is FmHA consultant for the project.

The house is the second in Greene County to be completed under the Housing Rehabilitation program, which restores abandoned, run-down or decrepit houses and provides one-to-one training in building trades for people who qualify for CETA manpower training.

The first house was restored in Crucible last year. Money acquired from the sale of that property was used to purchase the house in Greensboro and the materials needed for its renovation.

"There are many benefits from this program," Mrs. Owens said. "Not only are families with low to moderate income provided with an opportunity to purchase a good home at a reasonable price and with advantageous financing, but people who do the renovation work are given a chance to develop a marketable skill."

Does West Penn Power present programs for club groups?

Yes, we have a Speaker Service that provides timely, informative programs free of charge to service clubs, women's groups, and other community organizations as a public service.

Experienced West Penn Power employees present these programs which include a variety of subjects. "Saving Energy at Home," "The Insulation Story," and "Alternate Sources of Energy" are just a few of the titles.

But our folder, "Movies, Slide Talks, and Speaker Service," lists all the presentations we offer on energy conservation, electrical safety, and other subjects. We encourage schools to borrow our films, too.

How can I schedule a program?

First, send for a copy of our folder. Then you can schedule a speaker or film by calling the West Penn Power office that serves your location. Try to contact us at least two weeks in advance of your meeting date.

What else are you doing to inform customers?

This column is one example. Our radio messages are another. And "Consumer Topics," enclosed with your monthly electric bill, is still another way we keep customers informed.

Also, we have numerous free folders and booklets of interest to customers which you can writer for or pick up from literature racks in our division offices and collection agencies.

For a free copy of "Movies, Slide Talks, and Speaker Service," contact the West Penn Power office serving your location. Or write West Penn Power, c/o The Electric Consumer's Corner, Cabin Hill, Greensboro, PA 15601.
