Plans For Municipal Building Hit Roadblock

CARMICHAELS — Carmichaels Borough's plan to erect a new municipal building ran into a roadblock Thursday when the Carmichaels Area School Board voted unanimously against the adoption of a resolution which the borough needs to obtain funding for the project.

The borough has told of its intention to build the borough building on property that was deeded to it in 1967 by the school district, with the restriction that it be used solely for municipal purposes. The property was transferred at that time so that the borough could convert the former Carmichaels elementary school for its purposes, but that building burned down three years ago and the borough wants to replace it.

Carmichaels First National Bank agreed to provide the necessary building loan if resolutions were passed by the council and the school board to reconfirm the original property transfer and its intent and thus clear any possible cloud on the title. Council passed the required resolution Wednesday by a vote of 5-2, stating it would abide with restrictions in the deed, but the school board refused at its meeting to adopt the companion resolution requested by the bank.

The board gave no reason for its action and no individual board member commented on the issue, which has been a controversial one both among borough council members and in the community. Board Solicitor James Hook reported that the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board has notified him that the Carmichaels Area Education Association has withdrawn two unfair labor practice actions and also a grievance which had been filed.

Hook declined to comment on what the actions involved, stating they were of a confidential nature and had never been aired at an open meeting because they involved personnel matters.

On recommendation of the finance committee, the board granted salary increases to members of the administration. The elementary principal, assistant elementary principal, secondary principal and business manager were granted annual raises of $1,750 each, and the superintendent a raise of $2,000. Members of the secretarial staff will receive increases of $700 each.

Adjustments in fringe benefits for the administrative, secretarial and maintenance staffs include an increase in sick leave days from 10 to 13 and personal days from three to four per year.

Pat Gibson was employed as assistant girls' basketball coach and Nancy Cornish as part-time cafeteria worker.

The board agreed to purchase coal for the district from the J&L Nemacon mine at $50 per ton and to pay Edward Cormack $8 a ton for hauling it. The fuel oil contract was awarded to Greenwood Oil Co., Waynesburg, on a bid of $1 per gallon. Dr. Dolores Zoldos, district superintendent, reported she and a group of administrators have been invited by the U.S. Marine Corps to Parris Island Nov. 17-19. They will review a Corps education program and provide an evaluation. The board authorized her to participate in the program.

The board approved a request to investigate the possibility of purchasing or leasing a new or second-hand truck for use in the school district.

It also applied for a grant of $8,740 for the Title 4 program. This is the last year of a three-year program designed to strengthen library services, and to provide map and globe studies and a health and science program.

Claude Strickler, well-known figure caller, has volunteered his services to teach square dancing to students. The board accepted the offer.

Richard Black, a district resident, made a formal request for an investigation of the practices of collection of taxes. He said he had lived in the district for three years before he was aware there was a one percent wage tax in the district. This year he was assessed for the current year and for the two previous years. He said he was willing to pay them, but felt the district had an obligation to collect them every year.

In response, David Antonelli, chairman of the finance committee, said the board is aware of the problem and is seeking a solution. He said it centers on identifying new residents who move into the district and in getting them on the tax rolls in a timely manner.

Waiting For Winter

The slightly rippled waters of Ten Mile Creek as seen from Crawford Bridge near Waynesburg provide this placid scene. Bright fall leaves overhanging the creek are reflected in the stream when heavy leaf cover keeps all but the most persistent light from penetrating. Soon only the bare branches of winter will remain to stretch over a frozen creek and its snowcovered banks.

Central Greene Defines Goals

WAYNESBURG — An administrative program which defines goals and objectives to be met during the 1981-82 school year was adopted by the Central Greene School Board during its meeting Tuesday.

It sets forth the responsibilities of each member of the administrative staff in carrying out specific tasks in the areas of business operations, school building operations, curriculum and evaluation processes, pupil services and communications.

Dr. Ronald Ferrari said the Central Greene School District is one of a few in Pennsylvania which utilizes the "Management by Objectives" program. He established the system two years ago and feels it has proven its worth.

"The only way a district can move in a particular direction is to set goals and get a commitment from everyone in the organization to work toward the goals," he said. "This is an accountability system for the administration."

Five goals are set up for this year in the area of business operations, including the preparation of a study on whether it would cost less for the school district to buy and operate its own school buses as compared with contracting for the service, as is now done.

In the area of building operations, cost studies are to be made on a number of suggested capital improvements. These include:

- Leveling an area behind the high school for an auxiliary athletic field.
- Expanding the industrial and vocational agriculture shop area at the high school.
- Adding new classrooms at the East Franklin School to eliminate the need for trailers.
- Installing an elevator at the high school.
- Replacing of the boiler at the Whiteley School, and various other improvements at the high school, East Franklin School and middle school.

Under the program of studies category, goals include carrying out new educational programs initiated this year, studying the kindergarten curriculum, establishing a new honor roll program at the middle school, studying the effect of an expected reduction in Title I funds, and many others.

The program also calls for expansion of various student testing programs.

In all, 34 goals have been set up for 1981-82, with responsibility for each being assigned to specific members of the administrative team, including the superintendent, assistant superintendent, business manager, elementary principals and secondary principal and assistant principal.

Dr. Ferrari said that all segments of the professional staff are involved in selecting the short-range objectives.

As a first step, all administrators meet during the summer to identify priority needs and prepare job descriptions and performance standards for carrying them out. Once this has been done, the proposed goals are submitted to the board of education, which adds, deletes and refines them prior to formally adopting them.

During the year, administrators met monthly to evaluate progress being made toward accomplishments of the goals. At the end of the year, a report was prepared for the board of education on the status of each of the assignments. "It gives the board an opportunity to gauge how well each of the administrators is carrying out his or her responsibilities," the superintendent said.

Dr. Ferrari said teachers indirectly have a say into establishing the goals. Many suggestions, he said, came out of meetings held during the year by the district curriculum council, which is made up of the administrators and 14 teachers.

In addition, recommendations made by the principals often reflect suggestions from the teachers on their staffs.

Central Greene May Put Transfer Tax In Escrow

By BOB EICHENLAUB, Greene County Editor

WAYNESBURG — News on the Central Greene School District's financial position in light of major revenues from sale of coal properties was given to the district school board at its meeting Tuesday by Solicitor Robert McCall.

McCall reported that it is conceivable that the district could exceed its one-year limit of approximately $2.25 million in Act 511 taxes during the present school year because of sale by U.S. Steel to Standard Oil of Ohio of its Cumberland mine properties in Whiteley Township.

The district has already received $916,858 in revenues from real estate transfer taxes as the result of sale of reserve coal which is part of the sale, and could exceed its legal limit if the mine itself is not sold until after Jan. 1, 1982.

Should that happen, the solicitor said, any money received in excess of the legal limit would have to be placed in a reserve fund and could not be spent during the current school year, but would be available for use during the 1982-83 school year. Since no such windfall could again be expected in 1982-83, he said, the district could continue to levy Act 511 taxes in that year. They include the real estate transfer tax and the earned income tax.

In other action at the meeting, the board approved taking lunches to the Whiteley School, a move which will save the district some $13,000 a year.

In future, the 35 to 40 lunches needed at the Whiteley School will be prepared at East Franklin and delivered to Whiteley. Equipment to keep the food warm was purchased when the middle school was built and has been in storage, and the district delivery man will be able to take the food to Whiteley as part of his daily route.

It is estimated the new system will save the district some $13,000 a year, reducing by that amount the operating deficit being incurred by the cafeteria program.

The board also received a report on test results which indicates progress in student achievement at the elementary grade level over the past three years.

Assistant Superintendent Nancy Davis presented a report on the results of Metropolitan Achievement Tests administered during the past three years to students in grades two, four, six and eight. The tests cover reading, math and language use.

In general, they show an upward trend to the point where students are now achieving their expected levels or higher.

"It shows us we're going in the right direction but the data would be better if we tested every grade every year," she said.

Dr. Ronald Ferrari, district superintendent, said that plans are being made to expand the testing program to all elementary and middle school grade levels, and to add student aptitude tests to the achievement tests.

"This will give us a much better yardstick by which to evaluate our program," he said. "When a group of students does not work up to its potential we can look for weaknesses in our curriculum and teaching."

The board approved the appointment of Bill Winters, a teacher at Waynesburg Central High School, as junior high head basketball coach. Winters, a former junior high coach, will replace Mark Reichlin, who held the post last year.

Justen's American Yearbook Co. was again awarded a contract to print the 1981-82 high school yearbook, based on its bid of $9,250 for 600 copies. The board questioned the fact that the 1980-81 yearbooks will not be delivered until December of this year, but Dr. Ferrari said that was not the fault of the publishing company and indicated that the delay will not occur again this year.

Business Manager Walter Stout said after the meeting that specifications are being prepared for the installation of lights at the high school athletic field. The action is being taken on the strength of a motion adopted last May in which the board agreed to consider the erection of lights if and when tax revenues were received from sale of the Cumberland coal properties.

The proposed intake structure would supply water to the mining operations. It would consist of a low concrete weir placed across the stream to divert water over a side channel weir and into a sump.

The weir is designed with a low flow notch so that water cannot be withdrawn until the streamflow exceeds 1.4 cubic feet per second and would also be provided with a fish ladder as requested by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission.

Commissioners Approve Day Care Center

WAYNESBURG — Establishment of a senior citizen day care center in the basement floor of the new county office building was assured Thursday when the Greene County commissioners executed a contract with Southwestern Pennsylvania Area Agency on Aging.

Under provisions of the agreement, the agency will pay up to $120,000 of the cost of remodeling the basement, which will also provide a new location for the agency's Waynesburg office. In return, AAA will receive six years of free rent, although it will be responsible for paying utility bills and maintenance.

Architect Gary Dickson estimated it will cost about $138,000 to carry out the project, which will include installation of an elevator in the building. With the elevator, the county will be able to use the presently-unused third floor.

"We think it's an arrangement which will benefit both the AAA and the county," said Commission Chairman Joseph Pawlosky.

He pointed out that the money will come from private contributions to the agency and will not involve either state or federal monies. The county will provide its portion from revenue sharing monies.

Dickson suggested the job be done by county maintenance workers wherever possible. The timetable calls for completion of the project by May of 1982.

Coal Co. Wants Bids To Build Mine Slopes

WAYNESBURG — Consolidation Coal Co. officials Tuesday confirmed bids will be accepted within two weeks for the construction of slopes at one of their new mines planned in Richhill Township.

According to a spokesman for the coal firm, the contract will probably be let sometime in the middle of December.

In this method of mining, a gradually descending tunnel will be bored to the coal seam. Most mines in Greene County have a vertical shaft which is constructed straight down to the coal seam.

Conoco purchased U.S. Steel's Manor coal property in April 1981. Conoco is the parent company of Consolidation Coal Co.

Included in the transaction was the sale of the former Charmor Ranch. The 3,500-acre property is located primarily in Richhill Township with a small portion in Morris and Gray townships in Greene County and East Finley and West Finley townships in Washington County.

The land was sold to Conoco for $2.9 million.

Also involved was the transfer to Conoco of a lease which U.S. Steel obtained in 1977 from Manor Real Estate Co. The lease covers 26,000 acres of Pittsburgh seam coal, mostly located in Richhill Township. It abuts Consolidation Coal Co.'s untapped Nineveh reserve of Pittsburgh coal in Morris Township.

Two mines are planned in the Manor reserve and one in the Nineveh reserve. The mine in the Nineveh reserve is not expected to be constructed for several years.

In connection with the development, surveyors have been busy for the past several months mapping plans for a new railroad spur to the mine. The rail line will generally follow the right-of-way of the old W&W Railroad to Sycamore. There, the line will branch to the new mine near Deer Lick and the other line will go northwest to the Manor property.

Weathervane

Even with a weathervane and with the help of the latest report from the weather bureau, it's certainly presumptuous to make predictions about the weather. The forces which govern nature are so complex and changeable that we can never be sure.

The forces which govern our life are even more complicated and variable. How can we know what the next day may bring — happiness... sorrow... good luck... love... fear? No one knows — until the time comes.

Despite uncertainty, we must prepare for whatever we may have to face. We must learn to take in good stride the uncertainties that life will bring. In other words, we must have FAITH.

Where do we get this faith? We can't buy it, nor can we have it simply for the wanting. We have to earn it — by study, by perseverance, by understanding. Your church stands ready and anxious to help you. Here toward the House of God we must turn for those truths which will lend stability to lives that are as uncertain as the changing wind.

WAYNESBURG FLORAL

Lisa Ann Jackson And John A. Macleod Wed

WAYNESBURG — Lisa Ann Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Jackson of 806 Race Street, Waynesburg, was united in marriage to John Andrew Macleod, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Macleod of 7618 Lisle Avenue, Falls Church, Va., in a double ring ceremony held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 3, in St. Ann Church, Waynesburg.

The Rev. John Corbett, pastor of St. Ann Church, performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was attired in a fitted bodice of ivory chiffon appliqued with Alencon lace and spaghetti straps of pearl. Her floor-length skirt of ivory chiffon over coupe de ville was edged in appliqued Alencon lace ending in a chapel train.

She wore a long-sleeved jacket of ivory chiffon with neckline and sleeves bound in ivory satin and an ivory satin belt tied at the waist. The ensemble was crowned by an ivory hat trimmed with matching Alencon lace and the mid-back length veil of silk illusion fastened to the back of the hat.

The bride wore a gold lavalier which belonged to her maternal grandmother and a gold necklace which belonged to her paternal grandmother. She carried a cascade of orchids, white button poms, blue statice and white baby's breath. The bridal gown and hat were made by the bride's mother.

Serving as maid of honor was Kathy Rosenthal of New York City who wore a silk gown of autumn red background with a scattered feather design in teal blue and ivory. The bridesmaids, who wore gowns identical to the maid of honor, were Deborah J. Kahn of Danbury, Conn., and Linda Jackson of Waynesburg, sisters of the bride; Alice Marie Robertson of Pittsburgh; and Mara Brown of Johnstown.

Best man was Mike Wickes of Falls Church, Va., and serving as ushers were Mike Hardesty of Falls Church, Va., Tom Muniz of Lynchburg, Va., Mark Carpets of Waynesburg and Don Jacobs of Beckley, W.Va.

The bridegroom graduated from Waynesburg College in 1979 with a degree in political science and sociology. He is employed at the Northern Virginia Training Center for the Mentally Retarded.

A reception for 190 guests was held at the Holiday Inn in Morgantown, W.Va. Out-of-town guests were from New York, Connecticut, Michigan, Virginia, and West Virginia.

Following a wedding trip to New England and Canada, the newlyweds will be at home at 14906 Ritchie Road, Centerville, Va.

Jefferson Class Reunion Held

The 1933 class of Jefferson High School held its first reunion last month at Packrall's Bay near Fredericktown. From Germany To Waynesburg College

WAYNESBURG — Angela Klemmer, a student at Waynesburg College, realizes that it will be quite a while before she and her brother, Joe, will be able to go home for a visit — their home is Kaiserslauter, West Germany.

Angela and Joe, both American citizens, are freshmen at Waynesburg. Their father, Joseph, graduated from Waynesburg College in 1955, and is a military teacher, stationed at Ramstein Air Base in West Germany.

They expect to return to West Germany at Christmas time.

Both Angela and Joe have found it relatively easy to adjust to Waynesburg College and the community, since they went to school on the American air base. "I really like Waynesburg," Angela says,

"but, of course, I still miss my home."

Joe remarked, "There are a few differences between the two societies, but basically the people are the same. Everyone here at Waynesburg is really friendly and helpful."

Joe, a mathematics and computer science major, hopes to go into computer programming, while Angela, a communications arts-media studies major, plans a career in sportscasting. She has been working with the college's television equipment and WCYJ-FM.

Joe is a member of the Waynesburg College football team and Angela sings in the college's touring choir, the Lamplighters.

And The Band Plays On

A rare scene except, perhaps, for the opposing team, is the Waynesburg Central High School Band viewed from behind during their halftime performance Friday. Out in front, assisted by a hundred instruments, large billowing flags, colorful uniforms and smiling majorettes, a school band is perceived as a cohesive disciplined unit. From behind, one can better appreciate how it is made up of individual young musicians. Here is the place to stand to see a knee shaking slightly or a nervous smile before the order to march is barked and the band forms one melodious body.

Early Blood Donor

Among the earliest blood donors in Carmichaels long before donating blood became as casual as getting a shave or haircut, two Carmichaels men, Bernard Mundell, left, and Charles Goldstrom were cited for their donations of 80 pints of blood which inspired many others to follow. Both received citations from the American Red Cross for their example which helped significantly in future drives. Goldstrom was employed for many years at a drug store in Carmichaels.

Elimination of Coal Tax
Big Flaw In Reform Bills

Officials in Greene County are understandably wary of the multitude of tax reform bills being considered in Harrisburg as a means of relieving the pressure on hard-pressed home owners.

Standing in the forefront is a proposal by State Senator John Stauffer of Phoenixville (Senate Bill 1085) which would permit school districts to replace their property tax and most of their Act 511 taxes (wage, per capita, occupation, etc.) with an income tax of up to 3.5 percent.

Others which are being considered would also change the tax structures of counties and boroughs, providing them with the power to enact income taxes or sales taxes to replace at least part of their property taxes and their Act 511 taxes.

The Stauffer proposal and some of the others would also include provision for a "business use or occupancy" tax which could be levied against the occupants of non-residential taxable real estate, with the objective being to exclude business and industrial properties from the ban on property taxes.

On the surface this might seem a logical solution to the problem faced by retired persons and others on fixed incomes who are finding it increasingly difficult to cope with rising property taxes. In the case of school districts, it would shift more of the burden to people who are at the height of their earning capacity and are more likely to have children in school.

It could, however, push income taxes in Pennsylvania to one of the highest levels in the country. It would also pose a problem for the state in establishing a formula for the distribution of subsidy monies, now based largely on need as determined by the market value of taxable real estate in the district.

In Greene County, though, the big drawback lies in the fact that 47 percent of county real estate taxes are paid by coal companies. So far as school districts are concerned, the tax burden on coal ranges from a high of 73 percent in the West Greene District to a low of 15 percent in the Southeastern Greene School District.

If this tax on coal was eliminated, and it would be under all of the bills currently being considered, close to two million dollars would be lost each year. It would have to be made up through revenues from the proposed personal income taxes.

Virtually all county and school officials in the county agree that the property tax is regressive and that something should be done. But they suspect that under the present proposals most home owners would find themselves faced with an even heavier load than they are currently paying in the form of property taxes.

AROUND TOWN

By THE STAFF

October's traditional "Bright Blue Weather" was a bit late in Greene County but it was all over the region Tuesday and spread its traditional cheer despite an early morning drop in temperature to the mid 20s and a brisk breeze which lowered the wind-chill factor considerably.

Hundreds of Greene County people ranging from pre-teens to married couples with teenagers of their own were saddened by the unexpected death of Mrs. Viola Walker, who during her four score and eight years in Waynesburg had taught them the correct swimming methods. A native of Altoona, she was a talented violinist and played with the Altoona Symphony Orchestra before she and her husband moved to Waynesburg shortly after World War II. She continued to teach swimming until major surgery forced her retirement.

Chalk up another plus for the Greene County Historical Society for another highly successful fall festival at the group's museum and outdoor displays and entertainments last weekend. They were from all over the tri-state area who came to enjoy the displays, pioneer music and to see the re-conditioned engine from the old W&W railroad. An added treat this year was restoration of two ancient log cabins. One was from near Brave in Whiteley Township and the other from Ruff Creek at the Dividing Ridge Hill.

Besides being an entertaining event for many out of towners, the annual festival last weekend marked a family get-together for Mrs. George (Margaret) Zimmerman and her two sons and daughter, District Judge George L. Zimmerman Jr. of Almagordo, N.M.; James Zimmerman of Waynesburg, a state highway employee and Mrs. Alma Z. Jarett of Huntingdon Beach, Calif. where she is a credentials technician with the California State Department of Public Education. Both Judge Zimmerman and Mrs. Jarett especially enjoy the spectacular, multi-hued displays of the forest covered hills at this time of year which was a part of their cultural heritage from their youthful years in Greene County. Their father owned most of the farm land on which the Waynesburg Shopping Plaza is now located. The late Mr. Zimmerman raised thoroughbred race horses. Judge Zimmerman also attended his high school reunion.

Dr. and Mrs. George H Baumgardner, who have lived for several years at Orbisoni in Huntingdon County, will move next spring to Chambersburg where they recently purchased a new home. Mrs. Baumgardner is the former Sarah Davis, a native of Waynesburg.

Band Fans Angry About Halftime

WAYNESBURG — When ABC elected to switch to the Missouri-Mississippi State football game during halftime of the Pitt-South Carolina confrontation two weeks ago, it received 1,600 angry calls and letters from Pitt fans. Something similar happened locally Tuesday night, but this time it was the supporters of the Waynesburg Central High School Band who were mad — not football fans.

Bill Molzon, director of audio visual services at Waynesburg College, discovered just how much support for the high school band there is while cablecasting a delayed videotape of Saturday's Westminster-Waynesburg College football game. He was switching tapes from the first half of the game to the second half when suddenly the phones began ringing — supporters of the Red Raider Band wanted to know what had happened to the band's halftime performance. Molzon, who had been up until 3:30 a.m. the night before editing the tape for public service announcements, was genuinely surprised at the hostility of the band supporters and even the band members themselves.

Molzon and his television crew had never intended to tape the band's halftime performance or the crowning of the college's Homecoming Queen for playback since the crew, which begins setting up for the game at 9 a.m., uses the 15 minutes at halftime for a break. But because Waynesburg had lost the game 0-14, all of the callers felt the most important action on the field that day had been the band and had assumed they'd get to see it on television.

Although a portion of the halftime show had been taped, it was done as a favor for band director Gene Cappellini who week attesting to his contributions to the Southwestern Pennsylvania Area Agency on Aging during the five years he served as chairman of the Greene County Sub-Area Advisory Council.

While Sanner has declined a sixth term as chairman, he will continue to serve on the council.

The certificate of appreciation was presented by Mary Elizabeth Zook of Waynesburg, council vice chairman.

"During his tenure, his earnest efforts and untiring devotion to the concerns of Greene County senior citizens have led, in large measure, to the advancements and accomplishments of the AAA Sub-Area Advisory Council," she said.

Sanner, 68, was recently elected treasurer of the AAA Advisory Council, which encompasses Fayette, Greene and Washington Counties and the Mon Valley portion of Westmoreland County. He is also an active member of the Retired Seniors Volunteer Program, the Carmichaels Lions Club and the First United Methodist Church of Carmichaels.

The Carmichaels Lions Club selected Sanner as their "Man of the Year" in 1979.

Art Work Will Be Displayed

Fact and Folklore
John O'Hara

WAYNESBURG — The 10th annual Historical Festival of the Greene County Historical Society held this past weekend again highlighted the fact that Greene County has one of the richest stores of historical lore of any region west of the Allegheny Mountains.

Patrons at this year's event came from throughout the tri-state area, southeastern Ohio and northern West Virginia and all expressed delight with all divisions of the event. They ranged from the restoration of two authentic log cabin homes, demonstrations of one of Waynesburg's old narrow gauge railroad locomotives to the hand-crafted clothing and the plentitude of pioneer music.

Visitors included at least two separate groups that came from Washington, D.C. and the nearby section of Virginia—the birthplace of historical pagentry—and all were much impressed by the quality of the exhibits and the cordial atmosphere that prevailed.

Growing interest in the festival suggests that in some future day, a pageant to re-enact events of various family groups or the early schools of the county. Also, some of the historical phases of agriculture which could include a modified re-enactment of the manner in which cattle droves were moved on foot from this section to Pittsburgh and Baltimore. Also the vast herds of turkey that were moved on foot over dusty, country roads to distant marketing places.

There are also many fascinating stories from various families which were among the first settlers in this particular part of southwestern Pennsylvania.

One of the best documented of these is that of the Orndoff family which has been thoroughly researched back to the Rhine River Valley in Dusseldorf, Germany.

Through the courtesy of Mrs. Michael (Virginia) Miller Baker of Waynesburg, who received the information from her mother, the late Mrs. Elizabeth Orndoff Miller, the following information of the family has been made available to this column.

The original German spelling of the name was Orndorff, which was used among the early generations but which was dropped in later years by those who came to Greene County from Virginia.

The family origin was in the Rhine River Valley around Dusseldorf.

In their native land, as well as in America, their dominating characteristic was demonstrated in their love for the professions and adaptability to mechanical science.

Continuing, the account says, in the Archives of Pennsylvania at Harrisburg the log of the good ship Edinburg, commanded by James Lyon, which left Germany in 1853 and that landed in Philadelphia on Oct. 2, 1853 had 104

German immigrants aboard. Among them was a 19-year-old man by the name of John Orndorff. After registering, according to the English law which governed the colony of Pennsylvania, he accepted a position with one of the largest steel magnates of the time—Zane Calso, who was also a Philadelphia banker.

Shortly after being employed by Calso, the young German was sent to manage Calso's ore fields in Mallboro, Va., located along the banks of Cedar Creek in Frederick County.

Records show the young man quickly became one of Calso's most trusted lieutenants. He was put in charge of a large furnace now known as "Old Taylor Furnace" on Furnace Run, Frederick County, Va. It was here that Orndorff married Elizabeth Metz. They had two sons, Jesse and Joshua. Later, Orndorff married Hannah McAkivee, to whom he had 15 sons and daughters: John, Phillip, Jonathan, William, Elizabeth, Samuel, Benjamin, Israel, Anne, Levi, Phineas, Eleanor and Isaac.

Jesse Orndorff, the second son by his marriage to Elizabeth Metz, came by horse and a small wagon from Winchester, Va. to Greene County in about 1800 and became the forebearer of what is known as the Smith Creek branch of the family.

Jesse and his wife, Catherine Strossider, built their log cabin along side a dirt road now known as Red Crossing in Franklin Township just off Route 218 south of Waynesburg.

On their long trip over the Allegheny Mountains, Mrs. Orndorff somehow or other managed to preserve an "old fashioned" type of rose as a sentimental link to the comfortable home and many kin folk they left behind. Although fragile in appearance, that lone sentimental tie to the Old Dominion has proved as sturdy as its owners.

It was saved from extinction by a descendant of the hardy couple, the late Mrs. Floyd Miller and when replanted at the Miller home on East High Street some 20 years ago. It still flourishes today in other locations in the county.

Some years ago it was established as the trophy in a ladies saddle class at the annual Waynesburg Horse Show. Jesse Orndorff served in the War of 1812 and died in 1816 from malaria contracted while in service. His wife later married John Gordon, whose wife Nancy Rinehart had died.

In a later column, the genealogy of other branches of the Orndoff, Gordon, Smith, Higgins and other early families of the Smith Creek, Oak Forest, Rogersville and other sections of Greene County and their impact on farming and other facets of Greene County life will be concluded.

Students Help Each Other

WAYNESBURG — Students at Waynesburg College who want specific information on job opportunities and prospects in a particular career field can now get help through a new career assistance program at the college.

Ten career assistants, all upperclassmen selected by the college, are participating in the new program. Each of the 10 represents a different career field and others will be added in the future.

Career assistants have already done a great deal of research on placement opportunities in each of their career fields and will be able to help fellow students locate the type of job that best fits individual capabilities and goals. They also will gather information on new career fields and the background and training these new jobs will require.

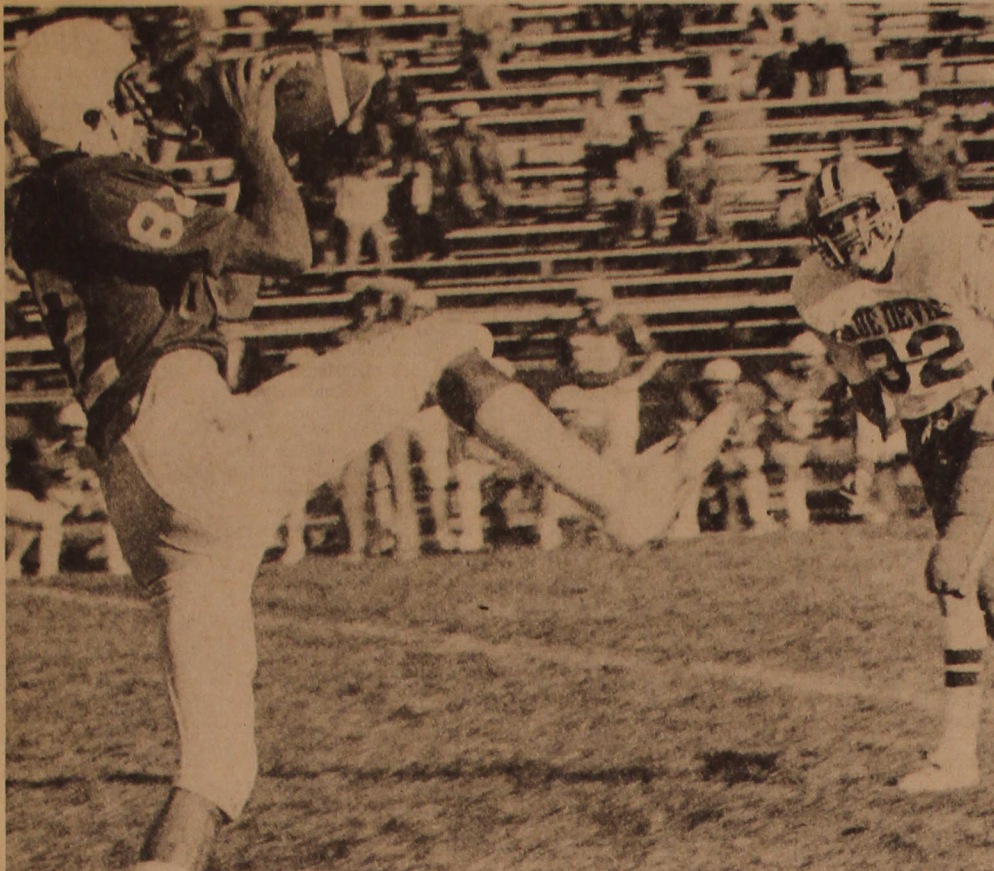

Leslie Cahn, a senior psychology major, has spent an entire semester compiling information on various career opportunities in her field of study. She wrote to nearly 50 organizations asking what they look for in a job applicant. She also wrote to several graduate schools for information on their programs and did research in the library and the placement office.

Miss Cahn noted that self-assessment is a major part of the program. She explained, "A lot of kids come to college majoring in something, then they find they have no actual interest or aptitude in that field."

As a part of an independent study course, Miss Cahn will attempt to guide each of the 40 psychology majors enrolled at Waynesburg through a series of tests designed to aid in self-assessment, goal lists and career planning.

The career assistance program is made available to students through a grant from the National Endowment of Humanities. Closely linked with the college's values educational program, the career assistants are directed by William Pool and Carolyn Lamm, counselors at the college.

Jackets Begin Title Defense

By TOM ROSE
O-R Sports Editor

The time to savor a championship has ended at Waynesburg College.

That's because the task of defending the NAIA District 18's basketball championship has officially begun.

After ending the season in the spacious Kemper Arena in Kansas City, Mo., in a controversial 22-21 loss to Wisconsin Eau Claire in the quarter-finals of the NAIA Basketball Tournament last March, the Yellow Jackets returned to their humble College Gym Thursday to start fresh.

And it will certainly be a challenge. Only five members of last year's record-setting team which finished with a 24-6 record are returning. But then again only nine players made the trip for Waynesburg to Kansas City.

Juniors Tim Walker and Tim Tyler join sophomores Ray Natili, Mark Doppelheuer and Pete Gause as the nucleus for Waynesburg's title defense. Walker (6-3 forward), Tyler (6-3 guard), and Natili (6-0 point guard) were starters last year while Doppelheuer (6-5 forward) played the hero's role in Waynesburg's opening round victory over Cedarville, Ohio, in the NAIA tournament.

And that's where head coach Rudy Marisa's work begins, filling out the remainder of the Waynesburg basketball team.

"We've got 15 freshmen. I think we did pretty good job of recruiting but others are going to say that we brought too many people in," Marisa said in a telephone interview. "Fifteen sounds like a lot but when you eliminate the guys who fold under the college pressure — and I see some on the verge of doing that — and those who can't cut it academically, and others who may not personally make the commitment necessary for the program, through the process of elimination we may not end up with many."

Waynesburg's needs are to replace last year's co-captains, guard Mike Taylor (the team's leading scorer) and center Paul Epps. Marisa expressed confidence that the returning players and the freshmen may be able to fill those voids.

"I think both Taylor and Epps were excellent players so it hardly seems right to expect people to fill those positions immediately," Marisa said. "But I think we did find some people who can play those positions for us. We looked for someone to take Taylor's spot on the wing and right now I think there are three or four people who are in that battle. We need a big man to help Walker and Doppelheuer and we recruited hard for help there. And we needed help for Ray (Natili) to give him a break at the point so really we recruited at all positions, not just one area."

While there promises to be a spirited battle among the recruits and Gause for the backup positions, Waynesburg's hopes appear lie with Walker, Tyler, Natili and Doppelheuer to lend stability and maturity to the program. And it's certainly a young program at that. There are no seniors on the team.

"I think the guys came back poised from the experience they had last year," Marisa said. "But we're going to be aimed at, that's quite clear. Larry (assistant coach Larry Marshall) went to a rules interpretation meeting and the comment there was all about Waynesburg."

The Yellow Jackets open their 1981-82 season Nov. 28 at Wheeling College.

Raiders Turn To Pass

WAYNESBURG — You've heard of Air Coryell, the potent air attack of the San Diego Chargers.

Meet Air Roddy, the Waynesburg High School football team.

The Waynesburg Red Raiders defeated Burgettstown Friday afternoon 14-13 behind a strong passing attack led by sophomore quarterback Jim Eckerd.

"Eckerd did a great job for us," said an ecstatic Waynesburg head coach Don Roddy. "He's been progressing since the beginning of the season and now he's really coming on. He made a few sophomore mistakes but overall he played an exceptional game."

Eckerd led the Raiders to both of their touchdowns with his strong passing arm which hit on nine of 19 passes for 120 yards.

One of Eckerd's few mistakes led to Burgettstown's first score. A weak pass was intercepted by Burgettstown defensive back Adrian Turner who raced 35-yards for a touchdown and a 7-0 lead.

Waynesburg came right back in the beginning of the second quarter though when Rod Jones tackled the Blue Devils quarterback Bob Alvarez for a safety.

"Our defense has to be complimented. They played a great game and rose to the occasion," Roddy said.

That tough Waynesburg defense let up for just a moment after scoring the safety.

The Blue Devils took only one play to score following the ensuing kickoff return. Fullback Pete Gianfrancesco took a perfectly executed option pitch from Alvarez and ran 36 yards for the Devils' 13-2 lead.

The smaller Red Raiders came back however behind Eckerd's passing and marched 55 yards on 11 plays capped with a one-yard touchdown run by John Kuntz, cutting Burgettstown's lead at halftime to 13-8.

"We went into the locker room knowing that we had a shot if we didn't make mistakes," said Roddy after the game.

Neither team came out in the third quarter with momentum but Waynesburg eventually took control with its strong passing game.

Eckerd led the Raiders down the field late in the third quarter from their own 32-yard line on a drive that was saved when Eckerd's brother John, made an acrobatic catch for a first down.

Waynesburg capped the drive when

Jim Eckerd ran the ball in from a yard out.

Burgettstown made several unsuccessful attempts to come back as time worked against it but the strong Waynesburg defense held it's own.

The Blue Devils last drive was halted with close to two minutes left in the game as Raider linebacker Ron Hostutler intercepted Alvarez's desperation pass to secure Waynesburg's second win of the season. The Raiders are now 2-3-1 overall and 2-2 in the Class AA Century Conference.

"That's a good win for us," said Roddy. "It's the first time we've beaten them since I've been coaching here and it feels great. They're a good football team but we came out on top this time."

Burgettstown head coach Rege Onderick was visibly disappointed.

"We were flat, playing on a Friday afternoon instead of Friday night really hurt," Onderick said.

"Not taking anything away from Waynesburg though... they came at us and we were just dead."

"We can't afford any losses now, it's going to be tough," added Onderick.

The Blue Devils are 2-3-1 overall and 1-2-1 in the Century Conference.

Trojans Run To Upset

JEFFERSON — Brian Schaum scored two touchdowns to give California a 15-6 Class A Tri County South Conference victory over Jeff-Morgan Friday night.

Schaum put the Trojans on top with a 91-yard run midway through the first quarter.

He capped a 59-yard drive and increased California's lead in the second quarter when he went in for the score on a fourth-and-goal inside the one-yard line.

Jeff-Morgan finally got some offense early in the fourth quarter, but it wasn't enough.

The Rockets started at their own 13 and marched down to the Trojans' five-yard line. Brian Virgin then threw a five-yard pass to Barry Thistlewaite for the score.

Jeff-Morgan and California are both now 4-2 in conference play.

Bearcats, 28-0

ELLSWORTH — Tom Lapevic was the main threat for the Bentworth High School football team as the Bearcats defeated Mapletown 28-0 in Friday night action.

Lapevic scored all four Bearcat touchdowns and picked up 124 yards on 16 carries.

Lapevic scored his first touchdown of the night in the third quarter on a 20-yard run. His second touchdown came in the third on a two-yard run. Both extra point tries missed.

The Bearcats scored in the fourth on a 17-yard fumble recovery by Lapevic. Mark Lohr caught a pass from Jerry Maley for the two-point conversion. The final touchdown came when Lapevic returned a punt for 40 yards. Marice Mattieu ran the ball in for the two-point conversion.

The win raises Bentworth's record to 3-4, while Mapletown falls to 0-7.

F-G, 30-15

YORK RUN — West Greene High School scored first and last, but Fairhance-Georges took over in between as the York Runners scored a 30-15 victory over West Greene in a Class A Tri-County South Conference football game here Friday night.

West Greene took an 8-0 lead on a two-yard quarterback sneak by Scott Yurt in the first quarter but the Runners, 2-5 overall and 2-4 in conference play, tied the game on an unusual play.

F-G's Pat McDonough and Larry Chapman teamed up for a 70-yard pass and run play but Chapman stumbled and fumbled the ball. The Runners' Keith Martin was following the play however, picked up the ball and ran the remaining seven yards for a touchdown.

From there McDonough dominated the game, scoring on runs of four and 20-yards, kicking two extra points and running for a double conversion.

West Greene, now 0-7 overall and 0-6 in the league, scored on a 10-yard pass from Rik Walters to Scott Hartzell.

Spartans Beat Mikes

By BOB GROVE
O-R Sports Staff

CARMICHAELS — For one fleeting moment, things looked very good for the Carmichaels High School football team.

Senior Mike Rumanick scampered 85 yards with the opening kickoff of Friday night's game against undefeated Mon Valley Catholic to give the Mikes a 6-0 lead after just 13 seconds of play.

Carmichaels, however, failed to cross its own 45-yard line again during the game.

The Mon Valley Catholic defense, which had allowed just six points in six games prior to Friday's contest, completely overwhelmed the Mikes to lead the Spartans to a 21-6 victory.

"The defense won it for us," said MVC coach Tony Barchetti. "I just can't say enough about our defense."

Carmichaels coach Tom McCombs didn't say much about the Spartan defense, either.

"They were too big," McCombs said. "They were just too big for us — we couldn't move them. I knew we were going to have a lot of problems offensively coming into the game. And we did."

"We knew it (a close game) was coming," he said. "They were coming off a couple wins and playing at home on Homecoming night. But overall, after the initial kickoff, we didn't lose our cool. Our kids knew what they had to do."

Mon Valley Catholic's defense scored the game's third touchdown with just under six minutes to play in the first half when Krause fumbled in the Mike endzone after being sacked and Cantini fell on the ball.

The Spartans began the second half by going 68 yards in 12 plays to record the game's final score. A piling on penalty against Carmichaels and a 17-yard pass from MVC quarterback Scott Phillips to split end Brian Sento were the key plays in the drive, which ate up more than eight minutes.

On first and 10 at the Mike 11-yard line, Barchetti called for Green to throw a halfback option pass. Green looked downfield, but finding no receivers open, ran to his right and into the endzone.

"The play was stopped," McCombs said. "If it would have been anybody else throwing that ball, that play was a zero. But Green turns it into a score."

Despite the loss, McCombs was happy with his team's play.

"My kids were up to play them," he said.

"And at least they came out of this game realizing they aren't just going to walk through every game."

Jackets Patient

WAYNESBURG — It's been said that all good things come to those who wait.

Well, Waynesburg College's football team has discovered there is a lot of truth in that statement.

For in the first five games of the season, the Yellow Jackets had virtually no passing attack, depending primarily on halfback Bob Astleford and tailback Otto Birkhead to carry the offense.

But the Jackets were patient and didn't surrender, working harder each week to improve their mediocre passing game.

The Jackets finally received their dividends last Saturday as quarterback Mike Forbes had, without a doubt, his most successful game of the season in guiding the Yellow Jackets to a 30-8 demolition of Frostburg College.

The 6-1, 187-pound junior completed 14 of 17 attempts, a 82.4 percentage, for 229 yards, including three and 52-yard touchdown tosses to tight end Dom DeCicco.

Prior to Saturday's game, Forbes' best passing percentage came against Westminster when he recorded a 421, connecting on eight of 19 attempts, while his best yardage output was 157 yards against Indiana University of Pennsylvania in the season opener.

"That was the best I've felt all year. I felt more confident," Forbes said. "We didn't actually pass more, we were just more accurate with the passes."

"This is the first game we hit anything long. I was hitting a couple short ones, and after I hit a long one I felt good. You try and try and when you're not doing it, it seems nothing's going right for you."

The first five games were frustrating for head coach Hayden Buckley, too, because he couldn't seem to figure out the reasons for the Jackets' passing problems. So last week he decided to spend some extra time with his passing corps, and today he is a much happier coach.

"We worked hard like always, but a little bit more than usual," Buckley said. "We just threw more accurately. When things are not going right, it's very difficult not to doubt yourself."

Forbes shared offensive Jacket of the Week honors with DeCicco, who was on the other end of five of Forbes' completions. His five catches totalled 90 yards, a feat he didn't have much of an opportunity to achieve earlier this season.

"The line blocked excellent and Forbes threw good," DeCicco said. "It feels good to make those catches, but sometimes the game plan calls for something else. If you can't accept that then you're not a team player."

Joining Forbes and DeCicco as Jackets of the Week were Doug Shaffer on defense and Mike Zeglen on specialty teams.

As usual, Buckley was impressed with the defense's play, with the exception of Frostburg's 80-yard touchdown drive on its initial possession.

"They were up and we were down on that first series," Shaffer said. "But our offense came right back and scored and that helped a lot. It was a good team effort."

Yellow Jackets Put Passing Act Together In Easy 30-8 Victory

Waynesburg College's football team went through a passing fancy at Frostburg Saturday afternoon.

The Yellow Jackets, whose passing game was practically non-existent in their first five games, exploded for 229 yards in the air en route to an easy 30-8 victory over Frostburg.

Quarterback Mike Forbes completed 14 of 17 passes, by far his best out of the season, including two touchdown tosses.

Bouncing back from a 14-0 loss to Westminster last Saturday, the Yellow Jackets are now 3-2-1 going into next Saturday's home contest against Mercyhurst.

Frostburg got on the scoreboard first, taking an 8-0 lead in the first quarter, with a 17-yard pass capping an 80-yard drive.

But as it turned out it was also Frostburg's last score as the Yellow Jacket defense returned to form and tightened up. Frostburg never crossed midfield for the remainder of the game.

Waynesburg struck back in the first quarter on Forbes' first touchdown pass, a three-yarder to tight end Dom DeCicco to pull the Yellow Jackets within two, 8-6.

The Yellow Jackets broke loose in the second quarter, however, scoring 17 points.

Otto Birkhead, the Yellow Jackets' speedy tailback, started the scoring surge by scampering 39 yards for the touchdown. Birkhead recorded his third 100-yard rushing day, despite playing just one half, running for 110 yards in 21 carries.

Mike Zeglen padded the Jackets' 12-8 lead with a 29-yard field goal in the second quarter.

The Jackets' final second quarter score came on a two-yard run by halfback Bob Astleford to give Waynesburg a 23-8 halftime lead.

The only second half score came in the third quarter with Forbes hitting DeCicco again, this time on a 52-yard pass.

The Electric Consumer's Corner

What can I do to hold down my electric bill?

The key is to manage your use of electricity so you don't waste it. We suggest you read your electric meter and record the reading every day. That way, you can determine your household's daily use.

Read your meter at about the same time each day. Then, subtract the previous day's reading to see how many kilowatt-hours (kwh) of electricity you've used over the past 24 hours. Also each day, jot down the reasons that seemed to cause your use to increase or decrease. Keep this record for a few weeks.

How will such a record help me hold down my electric bill?

It should pinpoint which family activities use the most electricity. Then, you can decide what to do about these or other activities to conserve electricity which, of course, will help hold down your bill.

Can you give me an example?

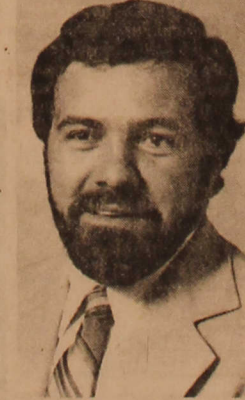

Yes. Suppose water heating is your big user of electricity. Here are several ways to conserve:

Install flow restrictors in showerheads and faucets... wrap R-19 insulation around your electric water heater... and turn down the water heater thermostat to 120 degrees (140 degrees if you have a dishwasher).

Our folder, "100 ways to help control your electric bill," contains more energy-saving ideas. You also may like a copy of "How to use your electric meter to help manage your electric bill."
