Collision On I-79 Kills Five

A Marianna man, his parents and his 3-year-old daughter died Saturday night and his wife was critically injured when their compact car collided head-on with a pickup truck on Interstate 79 in Amwell Township.

State police said the driver of the pickup, Kenneth L. Courie, 36, of Carmichaels R.D.1, also died in the collision with a car driven by Kevin Koss, 30, of Marianna one-fourth mile north of the Lone Pine exit. The pickup was northbound in the southbound lanes while Koss' car was southbound when the collision occurred. Police said they are still unsure why Courie was driving in the wrong direction.

Courie was ejected from his truck and thrown 87 feet into the medial strip, police said, while Koss was also ejected and found on the ground beside his car. Both men were pronounced dead at the scene by county Coroner Farrell Jackson.

Also pronounced dead at the scene were Koss' parents, Andrew J. Koss, 66, and Eldora Koss, 66, of Marianna R.D.1, who were passengers in his car.

Kevin Koss' daughter, Marielena, 3, was transported to Washington Hospital by ambulance but died there a short time later. His wife, Susan Kinal Koss, was taken to Allegheny General Hospital by Life Flight helicopter, where she was listed in critical condition Sunday night.

Courie is survived by his wife, Carol Jackman Courie, his father, Fred F. Courie, three children and a grandchild. He was employed as a welder by National Annealing Box Co. of Washington.

Andrew J. (Jumbo) Koss was employed as an inside shop foreman at Bethlehem Steel's Mine 58 in Marianna. He and his wife are survived by a son, William Koss of Utah.

Kevin Koss was self-employed as an attorney specializing in personal injury and product liability with a practice at 63 South Main Street, Washington. He was a graduate of Beth-Center High School and West Virginia University and received his law degree in 1975 from Duquesne University.

He was a member of the Washington County, Pennsylvania and American bar associations and of the American Trial Lawyers Association. The family attended the First Christian Church of Marianna.

Police were assisted at the scene by Washington Ambulance and Chair Service and the Washington and Lone Pine fire departments. Anyone with information concerning the accident is requested to aid the state police Troop S investigation by calling 225-2000.

Candidates Seek School Board Seats

WAYNESBURG — Contests for school board seats in three of Greene County's five school districts will be a part of the general election Tuesday.

In the Carmichaels Area District, three candidates are running for two positions. Edward W. Chess won both Democrat and Republican nominations in the spring primary, with Henry Kowalewski being a Democrat candidate and Joseph Baker a Republican candidate. The seats are now held by Erma Jean Thomas, who was defeated in the primary, and by Baker, who won the Republican nomination on write-in votes.

Four directors will be elected in the Central Greene District, three of them for four-year terms and one for a two-year term. Incumbents Lila S. Ayersman (Franklin and Washington Townships) and Joanne L. Brookover (Perry, Wayne and Whiteley Townships) have no opposition, having won nomination by both parties. Gary W. White is unopposed for the four year term in Waynesburg Borough, having defeated incumbent Carolyn D. McClure in the primary. Also in Waynesburg, Republican Ralph W. Brownfield and Democrat Gerald Matthews are competing for the two-year term, with Brownfield currently holding the seat through a board appointment.

In the Jefferson-Morgan District, there are five candidates for three positions, with Stanley E.L. Falor being the only candidate on both the Republican and Democrat tickets. Others who were nominated are Karen E. Sabo and Charles Ferencak, both Democrats, and James Reed Long and Donna L. Brown, who won Republican nominations. Ferencak is the only incumbent, with Robert E. McCarty having been defeated in the primary. The third incumbent, Charles Murray, did not seek re-election.

Three candidates in the Southeastern Greene District have no opposition, with three seats to be filled. Nominees are Gary P. Moser, Adam Novak and Mark D. Brozik. Novak is the only incumbent. Gary Yoskovich and Robert Headlee did not run for re-election.

There are just two candidates in the West Greene District, and neither has opposition.

Judge Delays Decision On Coal Sale

WAYNESBURG — Judge Glenn Toothman wants to be sure Greene County is getting the best possible deal before he will approve sale of 149 acres of Pittsburgh seam coal under the former County Home farm.

As a result, he withheld his sanction until he has had an opportunity to evaluate testimony and exhibits presented during a court hearing Friday — including that of a Dry Tavern resident who, as a citizen, feels the time is not ripe for making the transaction.

The commissioners have agreed to sell the coal to the Henderson Coal Co., a subsidiary of Emway Resources, for $600 an acre, or a total of $89,500. As required by law, the sale agreement was negotiated subject to approval of the Greene County Court.

Joseph C. Pawlosky, chairman of the board of commissioners, testified that a number of options were considered before the board agreed to sell the coal at the $600 per acre figure, which is $50 higher than the $550 per acre market value placed on coal for tax purposes. He also said that one of the prime considerations was that the coal would be placed on the tax rolls to generate revenues not only for the county but for the school district and township.

Others who testified on details of the transaction were James R. Morris, Emway manager of engineering; Michael Mishra, chief mining engineer, and J. K. Willison Jr., a local realtor who negotiated the sale.

They brought out that the county tract is completely surrounded by Emway-owned coal so that Emway is the only company which could mine it. The coal would be assigned to the Emerald No. 2 mine, which, while it is being planned, will be built only when the company has a market for the coal.

"After the mine has been built, it would probably be 10 or 15 years before this particular coal would be mined," Morris said.

He also testified that because of public buildings on the property — the Curry Memorial Home, county jail and county Historical Society museum — as well as other homes and buildings, it would be necessary to leave much of the coal in place for surface support. In addition, the company would have to utilize the "room and pillar" rather than the longwall method of mining.

"We estimate we will be able to recover about 53 percent of the coal," he said.

Willison, who has negotiated a large number of coal purchases for several companies, testified that $600 per acre is the top amount which has been paid for Pittsburgh coal since 1975.

He also said the county was offered several options, including one under which it would have receive $125 an acre immediately and a royalty of 28 cents a ton when the coal is mined.

Based on the estimate that the last of the coal would not be mined until the year 2009, and gauging the value of the royalties on a constant annual inflation rate of 12 percent, it was estimated that this option would have given the county some $65,000 in terms of today's dollars, he said.

Many Groups Are Seeking Aid

WAYNESBURG — A number of non-county agencies and organizations presented requests for county financial assistance to the Greene County commissioners during their meeting Friday. Ewing B. Pollock, Charles Moore and Marcia Biddle, representing the Greene County Library Program, requested the same county allocation of $30,000 in the 1982 budget as was provided this year.

The money is used for operation of the Bowlby Public Library in Waynesburg and the Flenniken Public Library in Carmichaels, as well as the bookmobile and Operation Outreach programs. They are required if the system is to receive supplemental money from the State Library Association.

A library budget for 1982 was presented to the commissioners which shows anticipated expenditures of $172,520. It includes an increase in payroll costs of $20,000 to a total of $93,053, reflecting the need for the library to provide the salaries for the Operation Outreach librarian and staff, which in the past has been paid through the CETA Manpower program.

The budget also reflects a request for $28,000 in support from United Way which, if received, would be a substantial increase over the $6,000 received this year.

Even with this support, the representatives said, the library is projecting a $3,027 budget deficit for 1982.

A representative of the Mt. Morris Water and Sewer Authority requested an allocation of $20,000 toward the estimated $62,000 it will cost to extend a six-inch water line under Interstate 79 to service a growing commercial and residential area east of the highway.

Ewing B. Pollock, solicitor for the authority, said the service is needed for both an adequate water supply and fire protection if the area is to realize its potential for new development. He added that the authority has already determined that no money is available from the state Community Facilities Act, Appalachian Program, or other state and federal funding sources.

"If the county does not help it is unlikely that the authority will be able to find alternate sources of financing and will not be able to carry out the project," Pollock said.

With the $20,000, he added, the authority would be in a position to borrow the balance of the money needed for the job. Other requests came from:

➤ Greene Academy of Art, which is asking for $1,100 to seal the brick walls and make roof repairs to the academy building in Carmichaels.

➤ Greene County Council on the Arts, which is requesting $5,000 to match an allocation of that amount from the State Council on the Arts.

➤ Monon Center, which requested $3,000 for operating costs as well as support from the County Department of Parks and Recreation for the construction of a tennis court.

And from Monon Recreation Federation, which is asking for $3,000 toward the $6,000 it will cost for work on the swimming pool at Mon View Park.

The commissioners indicated that all of the requests would be considered in connection with preparation of the 1982 county budget.

Greene County Children and Youth Agency was given permission to advertise for the purchase of an automobile for its use. It will be acquired with a state grant of $8,000 the agency has received, with 75 percent of operating and maintenance costs being reimbursed by the state.

The resignation of Linda R. Jones of Pine Bank, a Children and Youth secretary, was accepted effective Oct. 30. She has accepted a position as a secretary at the Graysville Elementary School.

Mine Accident Kills Worker

CARMICHAELS — A U.S. Steel mining company employee from Fayette County was killed Thursday afternoon in an accident at the Bowlby Shaft of the Robena Mine near Carmichaels.

A company spokesman identified the man as Ewing R. Huffein, 40, of Lake Lynn R.D.1, who has worked for the company for almost 11 years.

Huffein was a brakeman on a main line haulage locomotive. At approximately 12:30 p.m. the locomotive in which he was riding derailed and Huffein tried to jump clear.

Greene County Coroner Frank Behm said he was apparently killed instantly, suffering massive injuries when crushed between the locomotive and the mine rib. The engineer escaped injury.

U.S. Steel mining company, appropriate state and federal agencies and United Mine Workers of America representatives are conducting a formal investigation into the cause of the accident.

As a result of the fatality, the Robena Mine was closed until the 8 a.m. shift Friday.

State Wants To Recover Profits

HARRISBURG — The state Department of Transportation is preparing to sue three owners of the defunct Cummins Construction Company to recover over $800,000 in "illegal" profits.

State officials confirmed Monday that documentation is being gathered for a civil suit.

The company was owned by Edward Cummins of Mt. Morris, former Greene County Sheriff Mark G. Shultz and former highway superintendent Harold Mitchell, both of Waynesburg. The firm leased heavy equipment to PennDOT between Nov. 4, 1970 and Oct. 19, 1978.

The action is separate from earlier action taken by the U.S. Attorney's office against Mitchell in an attempt to recover funds. The Justice Department suit is still in litigation.

"We are not concerned with a time schedule and the preliminary work is being completed in the case," a spokeswoman in Harrisburg said Monday. "This is an on-going thing and we are not concerned with any statute of limitations."

Shultz and Mitchell were indicted by a federal grand jury on Oct. 19, 1978, and charged with 21 counts of mail fraud and conspiracy. The indictment charged the three men devised a scheme to defraud PennDOT by hiding the ownership of Shultz and Mitchell in Cummins Construction Co.

The indictment further charged Shultz, as chairman of the Greene County Democratic Committee, caused Mitchell to become superintendent of PennDOT in Greene County.

Mail fraud was charged because Cummins Construction falsely reported on PennDOT forms that Shultz and Mitchell had no personal interest in the firm. These forms were mailed to Harrisburg and in return, checks were mailed to the firm by PennDOT. It is a federal crime to devise a scheme to defraud and use the United States mails to execute the fraud.

Cummins turned state's evidence when Mitchell and Shultz were brought to trial in Pittsburgh in March, 1979. However, the jury failed to reach a verdict and before a second trial got underway both defendants pleaded guilty to one count of mail fraud.

Shultz and Mitchell were sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $1,000. In addition, they were placed on three-year probation.

Developers Ordered To Improve Roads In Jefferson Township

WAYNESBURG — Ten Jefferson Township residents who own homes in the Szyoka lot plan have apparently won their battle for improved streets and a road drainage system.

The Greene County Court handed down an order Monday directing Earl and Audrey Szyoka to make the improvements according to standards set forth in the Greene County Subdivision and Land Development Ordinance.

Fayette County Judge Fred C. Adams, who adjudicated the case, ruled that the order will become final in 10 days unless it is appealed. It gives the developers 15 days in which to submit a road construction plan to the Greene County Planning Commission, as administrator of the subdivision ordinance.

Adams ruled, in effect, that the developer is bound by road standards included in the subdivision regulations even if the planning commission and/or township do not enforce the regulations. The ordinance calls for paved roads and adequate storm drainage. The roads in the lot plan are reddog.

Plaintiffs in the case claimed that when they purchased their houses from Mr. and Mrs. Szyoka they were told that the township would construct the improved roads. When the township disclaimed any responsibility for doing so, they brought their equity action against the Szyokas and against the three township supervisors, Richard Faddis, Carl Bane and William White.

Plaintiffs are William E. and Theresa M. Wilson, Gerald and Carol A. Day, Joseph R. and Carolyn A. Magda, Joseph and Dorothy Zammerilli, David W. and Carole A. Miller, Robert N. and Bonnie S. Davis, Bruce and Stephanie Grandel, Howard R. and Jeanne Bell, Wayne A. and Darlene Harn, and Frank and Suzanne Bodzer.

The opinion points out that both the township and the county planning commission approved plans for the lot plan in 1976, with township approval being contingent upon compliance with the township road ordinance. It notes that the planning commission did not require the defendants to post bond to insure compliance with its regulations, and that neither it nor the township took any action to enforce compliance with their respective ordinances.

The county ordinance "imposes an absolute duty on the developer to construct lots to the standards set forth in the subdivision and land use ordinance," Adams stated. "This duty is not affected by any failure of the township or of the Greene County Planning Commission to enforce their ordinances."

The action against the township supervisors was dismissed because in the judge's opinion the township ordinance pertains solely to the requirements which roads and streets must meet to be accepted as township streets.

It imposed no duty on Jefferson Township to enforce the road construction standards set out therein, or to construct roadways to those standards, he said, but merely sets standards which must be met before the supervisors can accept them as part of the township road system.

He concludes:

"A review of the facts and law of this case makes plain that Earl Szyoka and Audrey Szyoka must bear the sole liability for the construction of the streets and drainage for the Szyoka Plan of Lots. Their duty is clear under the 1974 Greene County Ordinance. Whether the Greene County Planning Commission, as the body responsible for enforcement of this ordinance, might have been liable as well is a question we need not consider since neither the County nor the Greene County Planning Commission is a party to this action."

Election Interest Centers On Local Contests

WAYNESBURG — Greene County voters will go to the polls Tuesday to cast their ballots in an election in which almost all interest is centered on scattered local contests.

The only statewide races are for appellate judgeships and the only county contest is for coroner.

What campaign talk there is has centered on such things as a mayoralty race in Carmichaels, a tax collector contest in Whiteley Township, and supervisor races throughout the county.

At the county level, Sheriff Remo Bertugli has no opposition in running for a second-four year term.

Voters will be directed to vote for just one of the two jury commissioner candidates, but both Democrat Bernice Kuharcik and Republican Margaret Perrin are automatically elected. By law, the county must have one Republican and one Democratic jury commissioner.

Democrat Frank Behm of Jefferson, in running for a sixth term as Greene County coroner, faces opposition from David Szarell of Nineveh, a dentist who won the Republican nomination in the spring primary.

Two incumbent district magistrates are running without opposition. They are John Watson, District I magistrate (Waynesburg and western Greene County) and Ruth Hughes, District II magistrate (central Greene County).

Township offices at stake this year include supervisor, tax collector, assessor and auditor. Borough residents will be electing mayors, members of council, tax collectors and auditors.

In Carmichaels, the only candidate for mayor on the ballot is Robert A. Dobbins, who now holds the post of council president. Dobbins defeated incumbent mayor Paul Connor in the spring primary, but Connor has mounted a write-in campaign in an attempt to retain his office. A major issue is construction of a new borough building. Connor advocates construction of the building and Dobbins opposes it.

On the precinct level, a judge of election and two inspectors of election are to be selected. Where there are two candidates for inspector of election, the person receiving the most votes will be designated majority inspector and the person receiving less votes will become minority inspector.

Here is a list of candidates for local offices in the county's six boroughs and 20 townships.

BOROUGHES

Carmichaels — Robert A. Dobbins is the candidate of both parties for mayor. John Yurick, David J. Klimek, Theodore M. Blasinsky and Christopher L. Watson are candidates for four seats on council. All are Democrats. Democrats Betty L. Morris and Luella A. Galatic are unopposed for two two-year terms on council, and Marion Smith has no opposition for tax collector. There is no candidate for auditor.

Clarksville — Bernard M. Ciota is unopposed for mayor. Three persons, Albert Kingan Jr., Robert J. Parker Jr. and Joseph Shulsky are running for four regular council terms and there is no candidate for a two-year term. James E. McManus has no opposition for tax collector and Ida M. Haftmann is the only candidate for borough auditor, with three to be elected.

Greensboro — Running unopposed are Harry E. Drew for mayor; John Lako Jr., Keith R. Drew, Angelo Furia and Louie Ralph Brown for four seats on council. Dolores Brown for tax collector and Neila Vernon for auditor. All are Democrats. There is no candidate for a two-year term on council.

Jefferson — Democrat Bill Lemley has no opposition for mayor and there are just three candidates for four council seats — Democrats Lonny R. Walters, Edward E. Tarr and Hazel M. Bedosky. Democrat Martha Gwynn is the only candidate for tax collector and Republican Sara McKinney has no opposition for auditor.

Rices Landing — David J. Severini, Ronald L. Teegarden, Arnold O'Daniel and Thomas F. Hixon II are unopposed in running for four council positions, as are Marilyn S. Morgan as candidate for tax collector and Nancy H. Buckingham for a six-year term as auditor. There are no candidates for mayor or for two others seats on the board of auditors.

Waynesburg — There are two contests in Waynesburg, one for tax collector and the other for two Ward III seats on borough council. Republican Marjorie P. Strobe is opposing incumbent Democrat James W. Clark for tax collector. Three candidates are running for the two council seats from Ward III, Republican Thomas C. Brown and Democrats Mark W. Fischer and David R. Godisart. Brown and Fischer are incumbents. Beverly R. Krill has no opposition for the Ward I council seat, and Frank VanCleve and Glenn Richards are unopposed for the two Ward II seats. Roy L. Huffman is unopposed for the office of mayor.

West Greene District Adopts New System

By CHRISTIE R. MOLZON

NEW FREEPORT — A new grading scale for the junior-senior high school was adopted by the West Greene School Board at a meeting Wednesday night at the Springhill-Freeport Elementary School. The scale goes into effect immediately.

According to High School Principal Paul Polink, the previous scale was the highest in the area and penalized students applying for post-high school education.

According to the new grading system, an "A" grade is 90 to 100 percent; "B" is 80 to 89; "C" is 70 to 79 and "D" is 60 to 69.

On the previous scale, an "A" was 95 to 100 percent; a "B" was 85 to 94; "C" was 70 to 84, and "D" was 60 to 69.

In presenting the proposal, Polink noted that the majority of district teachers were in favor of the change. He recommended the changeover take place next semester or in September. The board, however, opted for the immediate switchover.

"A lot of this has to do with image," Dan Morris said. "A student comes from West Greene with a B average and sees himself as a B student." Morris, who is on the Waynesburg College faculty, said that he and other teachers use a grading system similar to the new one adopted for West Greene.

The new system will show up on report cards which are to be issued Nov. 2. Parent conferences have been scheduled for Nov. 4 through 6.

The board approved an expenditure of $425 for a television antenna and line at the Springhill-Freeport School and directed Elementary Principal William Throckmorton to purchase three black and white television sets at a cost not to exceed $750. The sets will be used for receiving educational programming.

The board awarded a contract to Cameron Lumber Co. for $7,140 to replace the outside canopy at the same school building.

Maintenance Superintendent Frank Farley reported that construction work at the junior-senior high school is right on schedule.

James Romanus was appointed as head coach of the boys' basketball team. William Devore is the temporary assistant boys' basketball coach. The assistant's position will be posted before making a permanent appointment.

James Milinovich presented the 1980-81 audit. The board approved a motion to hire Milinovich and Co. to maintain the general and contractor ledgers and keep a monthly financial statement on construction work at the high school. The firm was also appointed at a cost of $3,800 to prepare the 1981-82 audit.

Supervisors Will Hold Public Hearing

WIND RIDGE — The Richhill Township board of supervisors, at its meeting Wednesday, Nov. 4, will hold a public hearing on proposed abandonment of a 2.4 mile section of former Legislative Route 30031.

Consolidation Coal Co. has asked that the road be abandoned in connection with its proposed construction of a new mine in the township.

Consolidation owns the property on both sides of the road, which would be closed from its intersection with Richhill Township Route 611 on the south and the point where the highway dead-ends at Legislative Route 62020 on the Washington-Greene County line.

Tractor Stolen

WAYNESBURG — State police are investigating the theft of a Ford Model 4100 tractor and attached five-foot rotary mower from the home of Melvin Dulaney, Aleppo R.D.1.

The theft occurred between 6:30 p.m. Sunday and 6 p.m. Tuesday at the home located on TR 332 in Aleppo Township. Value of the equipment was placed at $14,000.

Statewide Referendum Gets Local Support

WAYNESBURG — Greene County voters will be asked to approve or reject a statewide referendum question on a $300 million bond issue when they go to the polls next Tuesday.

The bond issue would support a low-cost loan program from which water suppliers could borrow money to upgrade their systems.

There are an estimated 208 unsafe dams in the state and 95 of the unsafe structures are water supply dams according to the Department of Environmental Resources. Many of the water supply dams are the sole source of drinking water for communities and in some cases, the only supply of water for fire protection.

The Wisecarver Dam in Franklin Township, owned by Southwestern Pennsylvania Water Authority, was among those cited a few years ago by the Army Corps of Engineers and the DER. Both agencies suggested extensive renovations to the spillway of the dam located on Legislative Route 30095, two miles northwest of Waynesburg.

Because of the high cost of renovation, neither agency has been pushing the local water company to complete the work. The water authority's engineer has studied the renovation project but no immediate plans have been made to complete the work.

Cost of renovating the spillway at Wisecarver Dam has been estimated at $200,000. The engineering firm maintains there is no danger and the dam is considered in "good shape" despite being 50 years old.

Joseph Ellam, director of dam safety for the DER, said recently, "The primary deficiency in most unsafe dams is that their spillways are seriously inadequate."

Ellam said the state would like to breach or empty some of the unsafe dams.

Passage of the bond issue is supported by the governor and DER and by a coalition of 30 interest groups formed last July as the "The Vote Yes For water Committee" which has launched a modest get-out-the-vote campaign.

Southwestern is participating through a monetary donation to the group according to Bill Bartoletti, authority manager.

Warren County Agent Speaker At Annual Extension Dinner

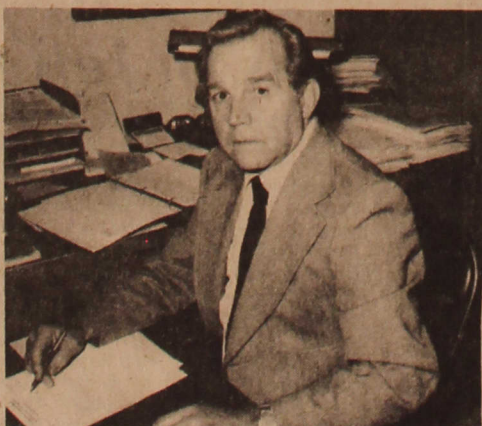

WAYNESBURG — Bernard Wingert, county agent from Warren County, will be guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Greene County Cooperative Extension Service.

It will be held at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 12, at the Greene County Country Club. Everyone interested in extension programs is invited. Tickets are available from executive board members or at the Extension Service office in Room 102, Old County Office Building, Waynesburg.

Wingert has been in the Penn State Extension Service since 1954 and has been director of extension in Warren County since 1958. He is known for his humor and his ability to express himself, with his column in the Warren Times Observer, "Conversational Counseling and Compost," having won national recognition in Extension competition.

His subject at the dinner will be "A Little Leaven Leaventh the Whole Lump."

Wingert has served as chairman of the Warren County Chapter of the American Red Cross; is a member of the Board of Watson Memorial Home; is director of the Warren YMCA, and is an advisor to the Warren County Development Association. He is an elder and member of the session of the First Presbyterian Church and is a member of the Scottish Rite Valley of Coudersport Consistory.

Janet Lea Edgar Is Bride Of Juan Alfredo Montoya

St. Michael's Church in Annandale, Va., was the setting for the Oct. 10, 1981, wedding of Janet Lea Edgar and Juan Alfredo (Fred) Montoya. The 2:30 p.m. double ring nuptial mass was heard by the Rev. Jerome Fasano. William Manico was the organist and Mrs. Therese Byrne the soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Juan J. Edgar of 1144 Ninth Street, Waynesburg. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Juan S. Montoya of 8504 Shaver Drive, El Paso, Texas.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a white satin gown of imported re-embroidered Alencon lace. Sequins and seed pearls adorned the bodice and outlined the English net yoke and wedding band neckline. The long fitted sleeves were finished with scalloped Shiffler embroidered lace. The full A-line skirt was bordered with matching Shiffler embroidery which extended into a chapel length train.

Her fingertip length Mantilla of silk illusion was encircled with scalloped Shiffler lace and was caught to a lace headdress studded with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses, gardenias and stephanotis. She carried the Bible her mother carried on her wedding day, wore a diamond ring which belonged to her paternal grandmother, the late Aldine Brown Edgar, and diamond earrings, a gift from the bridegroom. All tradition was observed in her attire.

Donna J. Edgar of Paden City, W.Va., attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a burgundy colored gown. The bridesmaids were Phyllis A. Patrick of Annandale, Va., and Devon L. Frey of Whitehall, both friends of the bride. They wore rose colored gowns.

The best man was Ray Turner of Silver Spring, Md., a friend of the bridegroom. Serving as ushers were Hector Montoya of El Paso, Texas, brother of the bridegroom and Ed Ortiz of Centerville, Va., a friend of the bridegroom.

The reception was held at the home of the bride in Annandale. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Larry Holman and Mrs. Margo Essertier. Guests were from California, New Mexico, Texas, Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Waynesburg Central High School and a 1978 graduate of Indiana University of Pennsylvania with a BA degree in sociology. She has been employed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington, D.C.

The bridegroom is a 1973 graduate of W.H. Burges High School in El Paso, a 1977 graduate with a BA degree in criminal justice from the University of Texas at El Paso, where he received his masters in 1979 in sociology. He is employed with the federal government as an investigator in Los Angeles, Calif.

The newlyweds will reside in Anaheim, Calif.

Edward Chaney of New Freeport attended his brother as best man. The ushers were Edward Kiger, brother-in-law of the couple, James Rizor and Michael Rizor, brothers of the bride. Bryan Rizor, nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer.

One hundred guests from Ohio, Maryland, West Virginia, Texas and the area attended the reception held in the Hundred Sportsmens Club.

The bride is a 1978 graduate of West Greene High School and is employed with E-Z Way Incorporated. The bridegroom is a 1974 graduate of the same high school and is a coal miner.

After a wedding trip through the West Virginia mountains the newlyweds are at home at New Freeport Star Route.

Concert Series Opens With Pianist, Composer

WAYNESBURG — Earl Rose, noted pianist, composer and conductor, will present the first concert in the 1981-82 series of Greene County Community Concert Association presentations.

His piano recital is scheduled for 8:15 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 1, in the Waynesburg Central High School auditorium.

In recent years, Rose has fit a concert career of solo recitals and symphony appearances into his activities, which have included serving as assistant musical conductor on many occasions for Johnny Carson's "Tonight Show." He has also composed, arranged and co-produced featured songs for the Emmy Award-winning "Captain Kangaroo" television series. He has had many of his compositions recorded and performed by artists and orchestras in both the United States and England and has recorded several albums.

Equally at home in any musical idiom, Rose offers varied and inventive arrangements which incorporate music from the classics to the most current trend in popular music.

Born and reared in New York, he began his piano studies at the age of seven. He graduated from the Mannes College of Music in New York and has also studied at U.C.L.A., the Vienna Academy of Music, and the Juilliard School, where he studied conducting.

Game Land Buffer Zone Irresponsible Proposal

The Greene County commissioners several months ago adopted a resolution opposing any additional purchases of county land by the Pennsylvania Game Commission until the state increases the amount which it pays in lieu of taxes.

The annual payment is set by law at 39 cents an acre, which is shared by the county, school district and municipality in which the land is located. It falls far short of the tax revenues such land produces when owned privately.

The resolution reflected the concern which local officials feel over the increasing amount of land being acquired by the state, and the state's apparent insensitivity to those concerns.

It was not surprising, therefore, that the county planning commission adopted an "I can't believe it" attitude toward the latest suggestion by Glenn L. Bowers, Game Commission executive director. It came in the form of a reaction to a proposal by a land owner to develop a mobile home court on five acres of land adjoining a section of game land in Greene Township.

Bowers advanced the idea that the county should, as a safety measure and to protect open land, amend its subdivision regulations to prohibit the construction of any dwelling or commercial building within 150 yards of the boundary of state game lands.

County Planner Valerie Cole pointed out that in the case under question, such a buffer zone would bar development of the tract in question, since it is only 400 feet deep and adjoins game lands for its entire width of more than 550 feet.

As one commission member remarked, Bowers was proposing the confiscation of private property and in effect asking that county taxpayers give the state an additional 450 feet strip around all of its properties.

The planning commission's obvious response was that the state could get its buffer zone by restricting use of a 150-yard strip inside its property line, perhaps by the construction of fences.

Coming as it did from the state agency's top executive, the idea is certain to enforce the opinion of county officials that the Pennsylvania Game Commission could use some new direction.

AROUND TOWN

By THE STAFF

A county-wide election is coming up next Tuesday but so far as any pre-election hoopla is concerned it will be just another Tuesday except for the two-man race for corner. The candidates are incumbent Frank Behm, a Democrat and Dr. David Szarell who won the Republican nomination in the primary. He is a dentist.

In the other two offices being contested, incumbent Sheriff Remo Bertugli is unopposed as are Mrs. Margaret Perrin of Waynesburg and Bernice Kuharcik of Mather for jury commissioner.

Many politicians of earlier generations regret the lack of excitement over local offices in politics but explain it by the fact that the state of the general economy with inflation and high wages makes the effort to get elected not worth the time and trouble to compete.

The grandson of a well known Waynesburg couple, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kridle of Morning Side, was the subject of a recent feature article in a California newspaper. He was recognized for having completed a 2,400-mile hike through the Pacific Crest National Scenic Trail, which extends from the Mexican border through California, Oregon, Washington and for several additional miles into Canada.

The young man is Mike Petrocci son of the former Roberta Kridle of Waynesburg, who like many local youngsters, felt climbing Duvall's Hill was big thing. Mike worked for a year to finance the hike. He told reporters after the trip was completed that he felt like Grizzly Adams, the television character. He plans to enter Prescott Center College for outdoor education.

Speaking of the outdoors, the oncoming surge of the coal industry in the western part of Greene County, especially that close to Waynesburg, was reflected in two land sales made recently in which two houses and adjoining land that had been the Jack Huffman family possession at Reese's Mill for generations, was sold to a coal company as was the former Campbell farm also fronting on Route 18 which was later owned for many years by the James Hartzell family.

Another aspect of the changing picture and urbanization of Greene County is also reflected in the many sod covered football game and practice fields that now exist in Greene County.

Two or three generations back, none existed in the rural areas until the 1930s and in Waynesburg the only place where pre-high school youths could play was the West Park, informally known as the Baptist Church Park because of its proximity to that building.

The informal "after school" games were played by grade school kids on a do it yourself basis. Never-the-less John Crago, who's father was a congressman, was a varsity lineman for Princeton in the Ivy League. He was a friend of Stan Keck, former Waynesburg College coach. Keck was talked into coming to Waynesburg by another Princeton student, Judge John Hook who captained the Princeton golf team.

Another Waynesburg northsider who first played football in the Baptist field was James (Mickey) Farrell, a halfback who was headed for the University of Pittsburgh but was the first local casualty in the first World War and for whom the local legion post is named.

Faces From The Past-Do You Recognize Them?

From Speller To Space

The champion speller in an old-fashioned spelling bee sponsored by Waynesburg College in 1938 won a scholarship to the local school and took the first step in a career that led to outer space. Sol Levine, a resident of Crucible at the time, went on to play a vital role in space flights and the first submarine mission under the polar ice cap. Now the chief systems engineer for the U.S. Navy, Levine graduated from Cumberland Township High School and Waynesburg College. He also holds a graduate degree from New York University. This photo was taken shortly after he won the spelling bee.

Oppose Change In Coal Tax

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County commissioners are calling on the county's state representatives to oppose tax reform bills currently pending in the State Assembly unless some provision is made to continue taxing of coal resources in any shift from reliance on property taxes.

A letter written by County Commissioner Richard Cowan and directed to State Sen. J. Barry Stout and Rep. William DeWeese proposes that all tax reform bills pending in the House or Senate be amended to include the local option of a severance tax on coal and other minerals "as a way to gain real estate tax relief for property owners."

It points out that Greene County has about 400,000 acres of reserve coal and that property taxes generated by both reserve and active coal account for 46 percent of real estate tax revenues collected by the county.

It also points out that coal tax revenues are an important part of school district income, accounting for as much as 75 percent of property taxes collected in the West Greene School District and in some townships.

"I generally support current attempts by the Senate and House to reform our real estate tax law by shifting toward a tax on personal income or sales," Cowan said. "It is a well-known fact that the property tax is the most regressive in the burden it places on Pennsylvanians. . . . However, in counties with large mineral deposits, the enactment of such legislation would create serious economic problems."

He pointed out that under all of the tax reform bills currently pending in the legislature, including the Stauffer bill approved Wednesday by the state Senate, elimination of property taxes would wipe out the county's revenues from the tax on coal.

They therefore place local governmental bodies in the position of continuing the property tax, despite its drawbacks, or placing an added burden on local taxpayers through collection of an income or sale tax at a level which would be required to make up for the lost coal tax revenues.

The commissioners, who have long advocated a severance tax on coal, are proposing that if the real estate tax on coal is eliminated that it be replaced with a tax on coal levied on a per-ton basis at the time it is mined. They want to give local governments the option of enacting this severance tax at the local level if they give up property taxes.

Injunction Remains In Force

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County Court refused Monday to lift a temporary injunction it handed down Friday to bar a Waynesburg couple from interfering with the drilling of coal mine ventilation holes on a Whiteley Township farm they own.

At the same time, Judge Glenn Toothman noted that the question involved could have far-reaching effects on the rights of owners of surface land in light of the increasing frequency of the use of the longwall method of mining coal.

Cattlemen's Group To Organize

WAYNESBURG — A Greene County Cattlemen's Association will be formally organized at a meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 5, in the block building at the county fairgrounds, Waynesburg.

Suggested-by-laws which were mailed to potential members in September will be voted on at the meeting.

Featured speaker will be Douglas Cooper, extension agent from Fauquier County, Va., based at Warrenton, who will attend with the president of that county's cattlemen's group.

The Virginia association has been working on a pre-conditioned sale of feeder calves, with the second such sale having been held this year. Cooper will evaluate the sale procedure and the association president will evaluate it from a producer's standpoint.

"This is an opportunity to look at another marketing technique and to hear about it from people who have tried it," Greene County Agent William Brown said. "It's also an opportunity to share ideas and discuss the livestock industry with producers from another area."

U.S. Steel Corp. filed its equity action on Friday against Charles W. and Anna

Between The Bookends

Marcia McKenna Biddle

VanDruff of Waynesburg who, it contends, were seeking to bar the company from drilling ventilation holes to Pittsburgh seam coal being mined at the company's Cumberland C mine near Kirby.

It claimed that drilling of the holes are necessary to prevent a hazardous buildup of methane gas and that if the ventilated holes cannot be drilled it could become necessary to shut down the mine.

The court on Friday granted the temporary injunction pending a full hearing to be held Wednesday, Oct. 28.

Monday morning, H. Terry Grimes, attorney for the VanDruffs, appeared in court to request that the temporary injunction be quashed, contending that U.S. Steel entered on VanDruff property without notice on Oct. 6 and contending that they had no legal right to do so.

He stated the company drilled one hole to a depth of 600 feet, some 300 feet short of the Pittsburgh coal, but struck a pocket of natural gas which prevented their going any deeper. A second hole was drilled which has been filled with concrete. A third hole is currently being drilled.

He also contended that the U.S. Steel attorney sought the injunction without giving any notice to either the VanDruffs or their attorney, despite the fact that negotiations had been underway in an effort to resolve the problem.

Grimes claims the company not only has no legal right to arbitrarily enter on his client's property, but that it has created a situation in which natural gas owned by his clients is being expelled into the atmosphere with the company refusing to meter the amount of gas being lost.

Stella continues to send me birthday messages.

Stella is the Observer-Reporter's astrologer, appearing daily with a character analysis for anyone born on that particular day. While dreaming up these ponderous critiques, Stella sits in her cave somewhere along Muddy Creek, mumbling strange incantations which are understood only by the bats which fly around her head.

On most days, Stella's messages are kind, complimentary, even adulatory. On one birthday, mine, she goes on the attack. One September 29th she told me, in her suzerain way, "You have great difficulty expressing yourself in such a way that others understand you. Develop a stronger sense of articulation."

To that, I replied with the strong suggestion that Stella should stumble out of her cave and call her lawyer, who would have a legal communication from mine. She didn't do it.

Instead, she waited a year, then sent me a warning: "You often do not know when to stop," she said, or muttered, "or when you've had enough of a good thing. LEARN WHEN TO QUIT!"

I chose to ignore that advice, and the feud continued. Seeing that I refused to quit writing, Stella intoned a year later, "You have the determination to succeed, but it is determination that often borders on stubbornness and causes you to cling to a project unreasonably long, even when its failure is obvious to all."

Now, obviously, Stella and I were at war. I started asking questions of hunters and fishermen in an effort to find the location of her cave. I thought of spray-painting messages on its walls. I watched her column carefully as my birthday approached.

For those born on September 19th, Stella predicted "fame and fortune as a novelist or journalist." September 19th people also "have by nature excellent taste in clothes, food, jewelry, and home furnishings," as well as being "generally outgoing, generous, and sympathetic." If you were born on September 25th, Stella said you "appear to be equally suited to life as an artist or scientist."

Reading these kind sentiments, I began to hope that Stella might be mellowing. I was wrong. She let me know that she'd heard I was looking for her. "Make your inquiries with discretion," she warned on September 29th. "Otherwise, you may alert the enemy to protect present activities."

"Take the time to reorder your goals," ordered the enemy. "You may be working too hard for little gain because of initial error. You are one of those highly emotional individuals who has a difficult time balancing feeling with reason. You are inclined to overreact. I'd like to know who tipped her off about the spray paint. She must know about that, since she quickly recommended "self-control."

"You thrive on excitement and have been known to create it simply to enliven your hours. Such activity, however, may be as harmful as it is helpful and must, therefore, be approached with greater caution than is your custom." According to Stella, I'm just lucky I'm not in jail. Fact and Folklore

John O'Hara

Few, if any, "newcomers" to Waynesburg have ever made as much of an impact on the day-to-day life of the community and so many of its residents as that made by Mrs. Viola Walker, who died last Wednesday morning at the age of 89.

Mrs. Walker was a native of Altoona, the bustling city in the central part of the state which is famous for its railroad shops and a key point in the vast Pennsylvania Railroad system.

Mrs. Walker came to Waynesburg as a visitor when her two daughters, Jeanne and Elizabeth, first came to this community. Jeanne was a newspaper reporter and Elizabeth (Betty) a swimming instructor at the Waynesburg Central pool. For the past several years Betty has been manager and county director of the Red Cross swimming and water safety programs.

Mrs. Walker herself was also initially interested in swimming for recreation which started during middle age while still living in Altoona. In this she was joined by Miss Mary Collins, also originally from Altoona and subsequently a registered nurse at Greene County Memorial Hospital and later at a physician's office.

Both worked hard to master the techniques that generally are learned during teenage and continued in the program through two generations of swimming instruction instilled into courses given by Miss Walker.

Visitors from neighboring Red Cross centers and others interested in swimming were amazed by the way in which a gray-haired lady could relate to pre-teen age boys and girls. Also the very basics of swimming to the little, sometimes timorous, "puddle jumpers" and making them repeat strokes they didn't get on to at first until they did it up to a reasonable standard of perfection.

To most of the very young aspirants in the swimming classes, Mrs. Walker became their link to the security of home through her patience and good humor. She made it a rule to know them all as individuals, proving it by calling them by their first names.

Red Cross instructors all teach for free but older persons such as Mrs. Walker had the intangible reward of having their respect and affection but not only just while the youngsters were in class. Many of her early pupils have since brought their own children "back home" to have the same chance as they did to get the benefit of the many fine instructors who have been trained at the pool.

The most notable incident of this kind was when Bill George, who was born and reared in Waynesburg and later became an all-pro linebacker with the Chicago Bears, brought his children back to Waynesburg so they could get the benefit of the fine quality of instruction that still prevails at the local pool.

As a mother's image to her pupils it came to Mrs. Walker as she walked along the streets and entire groups of youngsters would wave and shout cheerfully, "Hello Mrs. Walker." At Christmas time there would always be lots and lots of cards with the message scrawled in a childish hand. And others years later beamed with pride when they brought their own children to the pool "to be taught by Mrs. Walker."

Swimming, of course, was only one phase of her busy and eventful life. In music she chose the most soulful and most expressive of all "the strings" in musical argot — the violin in her particular case. She was "first chair" in the Altoona Symphony before coming to Waynesburg. Her musical training was classical, but she also found occasional bits of "hoe down" fiddling a pleasant form of relaxation.

Both she and her husband William, who preceded her in death, liked nature in its appropriate centers such as the mountains, mountain streams and other outdoor places. As participants their favorite outdoor sport was archery and both attained more than average skill. They competed in state and regional tournaments in central Pennsylvania before moving to Waynesburg.

Both were fond of hiking, oftentimes in family groups, and up until the last years of her life Mrs. Walker was a familiar figure walking downtown from the family home on Ross Street on the North Side.

Being the lone daughter in her family, she became an old-fashioned sort of baseball fan long, long before the sport caught on more generally in later years. Hans Wagner was her top favorite over the years.

As a girl she attended a convent school and was a devoted member of the Catholic faith. She also had an excellent relationship with members of various other faiths long before the ecumenical movement came into being. For several years she supervised the nursery at the First Presbyterian Church, attending early morning Sunday mass at St. Ann's Church so that she could be on time at the Presbyterian Church.

At her funeral mass last Friday it was a most appropriate and most appreciated gesture when eulogies were offered by her own pastor, the Rev. John Corbett, and by the Rev. David Barrett of the First Presbyterian Church. Each extolled Mrs. Walker's good deeds on earth for the children who the Lord himself once said "For whatever you have done for each of these little ones you have done also for Me."

Congregation Opposes Councils

HOLBROOK — The 25-member congregation of the Valley Chapel United Methodist Church in Holbrook has voted unanimously to request that the United Methodist Church drop its membership in the National Council of Churches and the World Council of Churches.

In a resolution released this week, the congregation said it does not believe the two council organizations limit their activities to "works that are compatible with the scriptures of the Bible."

Valley Chapel members are hoping the other churches in the Rogersville circuit will sign the resolution. Both the Rogersville United Methodist Church and the Bethany United Methodist Church will be polled at a circuit conference meeting in two weeks, Mrs. Vernell said.

"We have been trying for years to get a list of disbursements from the world council and the national council but we have never received it," Mrs. Vernell said in a telephone interview Tuesday.

The action by the church, according to Mrs. Vernell, was taken without consulting the pastor, the Rev. Richard Hartman. "Rev. Hartman is not a part of this. We adopted the resolution on our own," Mrs. Vernell said.

The resolution also stated in part, "it being our sincere desire that our church and denomination serve God and not succumb to the misguided deeds and activities of these councils."

In a letter apparently being sent to other churches in the area, the congregational statement read as follows:

"It is time that individuals, and small churches, as well as the larger churches should make every effort to make their voices heard rather than to become intimidated due to the size of our various denominations as well as the councils in question. We feel that it will take an unified effort to make the necessary progress within the system to return our churches and their various agencies to once again become responsive to the scriptures as delivered by the Bible."

MVC's Green Cracks 4,000-Yard Barrier

By TOM ROSE
O-R Sports Editor

ROGERSVILLE — Jon Green knew what he had to do.

And he wasted very little time in doing it. Green crossed into the no-man's land of WPIAL football, the virgin 4,000-yard barrier, here Friday night with his usual flair and a performance that was in a word, spectacular.

Green, who needed just 117 yards to become the first runner in WPIAL history to pass the 4,000-yard mark in a career, instead rambled for a school record 328 yards on just 13, that's right, 13 carries as Mon Valley Catholic High School soared past West Greene 41-0.

Not only is Green's career total of 4,211 the best ever in the WPIAL, he also broke his own Washington-Greene County scoring record with five touchdowns against the game but out-manned Pioneers. Green has now scored 162 points this season (last year he won the scoring title with 156) and has two regular season games and possibly three appearances in the upcoming Class A WPIAL playoffs ahead of him.

But on this chilly night in one of the farthest outposts of the WPIAL, it was a performance for Green and his MVC teammates to savor.

"I didn't know I had broken it until they announced it," Green said after the game outside the Spartans' locker room. "I was just glad to get it over with (the pressure of reaching 4,000 yards) and I just wanted to get on with the game." Green picked up 69 of the required 117 yards on the first play of the game from scrimmage, taking a pitch to his right side and streaking 69 yards for a touchdown, giving Mon Valley Catholic a 7-0 lead and all the points it would need.

After a holding penalty nullified a 33-yard gain on his second carry in the Spartans' second possession, Green ran 19 yards to advance his total to 88.

His goal came quickly and appropriately as he took a handoff on a sweep right, slipped a tackle and ran 34 yards into WPIAL football history.

"If he's not the best then he's certainly in the top five," said a smiling MVC head coach Tony Barchetti. "Jon's the finest I've ever seen."

Whatever doubt remained in the game was removed by halftime as Jim McGinley scored on a 24-yard run and Green exploded again, this time for a 68-yard touchdown midway through the second quarter to give the first place Spartans, now 8-0 overall and 7-0 in the Tri-County South Conference, a 27-0 halftime lead.

But there were still goals left for Mon Valley Catholic and Green in the second half, as the senior halfback had carried the ball just six times in the first half for 196 yards. He didn't touch the football in the third quarter, but was turned loose in the fourth.

Green singlehandedly drove the Spartans 69 yards in five plays, the final run an eight-yard TD carry to raise his game total to 265 yards. But it was the single-game school record of former teammate Andre Smith (319) that was now within reach, and he on this night, "His night" as Barchetti called it, Green wasn't to be denied.

He tied Smith's record and broke the district scoring mark on a thrilling 54-yard TD run, early in the fourth quarter, and then on his final carry of the game, ran nine yards to inscribe his own total of 328.

West Greene head coach Earl Finney needs little convincing about Green's abilities.

"That's the best team we've seen this year and we've already played Serra," Finney, who watched the 18-man Pioneer team drop to 0-8 overall, said.

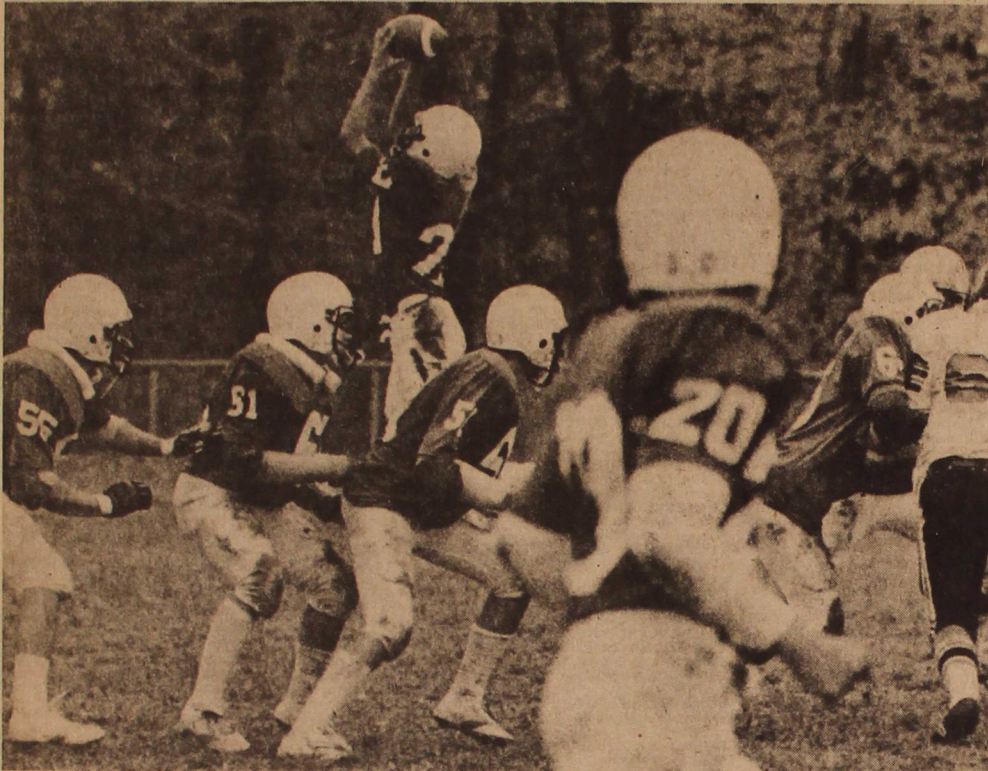

"The only advantage Serra has is a 6-4 quarterback (Rich Bowen). But they don't have a Jon Green.

"I think the way to stop Mon Valley is to stop Green, but I don't think you can stop Green. Even against the best team in the state he'll break away at least twice."

With the 4,000-yard barrier safely passed and the state rushing record (4,874 by Mike Tracy of Marian Catholic still a difficult total to surpass), Green says his thinking will be limited to the upcoming playoffs. Mon Valley Catholic needs to win just one of its two remaining games to clinch a berth.

"We want to prove we can play with the best," Green said.

The best, indeed, was certainly on display here.

Waynesburg Takes Off

By JOHN BARKER

WAYNESBURG — It's been an up and down season for the Waynesburg College football team, but Saturday's game ended on a definite up note.

The Yellow Jackets stung the Mercyhurst Lakers at College Field 43-20 and improved their season record to 4-2-1.

"I was very pleased with the team's performance today," said a smiling Waynesburg head coach Hayden Buckley. "I'm not the least bit surprised about the outcome. We scouted them and knew what to expect."

Birkhead, a 5-9 170-pound freshman, has been nothing short of sensational for the Jackets all year, providing the Jackets with plenty of offense.

The Jackets opened their first offensive series on the Lakers' 47-yard line following a fumble recovery and moved down to the 38-yard line where they were faced with a fourth-and-one.

Quarterback Mike Forbes pitched the ball to Birkhead, who hesitated for just a second, and then slashed through the left side of the line and outraced the Mercyhurst defenders into the end zone. Mike Zeglen threw a pass to Dom DeCicco for the two-point conversion, giving the Jackets an 8-0 lead.

"Our first team offense did a heck of a job and Birkhead made a great run on that first drive," said Buckley. "We were ready."

The Jackets continued to move the ball with ease on their second drive, going 67 yards in 14 plays with Kirk Neal plunging the final two yards for the touchdown to take a 15-0 lead.

Mercyhurst threatened only once when it scored in the beginning of the second quarter on a one-yard run by John Moore to close the gap to 15-6.

Waynesburg proved to be too much, however, as it piled up 21 unanswered points — on a 30-yard pass from Forbes to Cline Hunt and four- and one-yard runs by Astleford — to go into the locker room at halftime with a 36-6 lead.

Waynesburg came out in the second half playing a lot of its second string and Mercyhurst provided them with a small scare by scoring 14 points in the third quarter. Buckley quickly inserted his first team to hold back the Lakers.

With the first team offense back in the game, the Jackets added an insurance score in the beginning of the fourth quarter.

"I would have to say our first team defense played very well, they dominated the game," Buckley said. "The only thing I'm not too pleased about is the second team defense. They had a letdown, but they're young."

West Greene Names Coach

James Romanus was hired as the West Greene High School's boys head basketball coach at a meeting of the West Greene school board Wednesday night.

Romanus, who was West Greene's assistant basketball coach last season, will replace Bill Devore, who resigned the head coaching position at the last board meeting. Devore will be the temporary assistant coach until the board is able to hire a new one.

West Greene had a 2-18 overall record last year and finished 1-17 in Section 16-A.

Charleroi Over Raiders

By JOHN BARKER
O-R Sports Staff

WAYNESBURG — It was an impressive victory to say the least for Charleroi High School, a win that left Waynesburg head football coach Don Roddy in awe.

"I don't know how any team can beat them," Roddy said after the Red Raiders were handed easily Friday afternoon by the powerful Cougars, 54-12, in a Century Conference game.

Charleroi improved its record to 7-1 and kept a seven-game winning streak alive with the victory after losing its opening game of the season to South Park, 10-6.

"We just took a thumping, both score-wise and physically. But it wasn't a letdown following last week's big win over Burgettstown. They did the best they could," Roddy said.

Charleroi used a powerful running game, led by the dynamic duo of Jim Edwards and Willie Davis, to dominate the Red Raiders from the opening drive.

"The whole team did a good job and as far as Edwards is concerned, he's an all-around great back," said Charleroi head coach Bob Hodgson.

Waynesburg started the game dramatically on its opening series, driving from its own 29-yard line to Charleroi's 36 behind a strong passing attack. But on a first-and-10 play, sophomore quarterback Jim Eckerd threw a weak pass that Charleroi's Willie Davis intercepted.

"That interception took something out of us; we came out on the field all fired up and when we started moving the ball... well, I thought we may do alright," said Roddy.

Following Davis' interception, it was all Charleroi.

The Cougars roared down the field on eight plays and scored when Edwards ran in from four yards out. Charleroi continued the offensive show throughout the first half, mostly on the efforts of Edwards, who rolled up 165 yards on 20 carries.

The Cougars' second and third scores of the game were the result of Edwards' running, as he scored from one yard out and then returned a punt 63 yards for a touchdown. "We did a lot of good things today," said Hodgson. "The running game was there today, and I think we're coming around."

Charleroi showed no mercy to the Red Raiders, scoring on its next possession when senior quarterback John Buzinski threw a 14-yard touchdown pass to Ray Mosco. The pass was the Cougars' first of the game and completely fooled Waynesburg.

Waynesburg scored late in the third quarter when it put together a 65-yard drive highlighted by the passing of backup quarterback Rich Neubauer. Neubauer threw for 49 yards on the drive, including a 30-yard touchdown strike to John Eckerd. Neubauer filled in for Jim Eckerd, who was injured midway through the second quarter with a hand injury.

"Eckerd got his finger jammed on a sack. I'm pretty sure he'll be back next week, though. It's probably just a sprain," said Roddy.

The Red Raiders scored their last touchdown on a spectacular 26-yard pass play from Neubauer to John Eckerd, who made a diving and juggling catch in the end zone.

"I hope we're not too beat up mentally as well as physically because we would like to end up the season with a couple of wins," Roddy said. "One thing we got going for us is that these guys have a good attitude. We'll be back, and we'll be throwing the ball next week against Beth-Center."

Buzinski hit only one of two passes for 14 yards while Neubauer connected on four of seven passes for 75 yards and two touchdowns while throwing two interceptions.

The Cougars entertain Burgettstown, 17-15 losers to Albert Gallatin Friday night, next week while Waynesburg travels to Beth-Center.

"That will be a big game," Roddy said. "It's a good rivalry. You can throw the record books out because we'll be banging heads."

Waynesburg's Steve Raber was ejected from the game in the third quarter for fighting.

Waynesburg Is Volley Winner

WAYNESBURG — Chris Cashmere scored 18 points, 13 aces and five kills to lead Waynesburg College women to a victory over Robert Morris in Penn Woods Conference volleyball action here Wednesday.

Waynesburg won the first game 15-12, lost the second 15-9, won the third 15-4 and bowed 15-7 before winning the deciding match 15-7.

The victory increased Waynesburg's record to 13-1.

Mikes, 12-8

MCCLELLANDTOWN — Carmichaels High School quarterback Dick Krause plunged one yard for a touchdown with more than eight minutes remaining in the game Friday night to power the Mikes past German Township, 12-8.

Krause's run erased an 8-6 lead the Uhlans held on the strength of a 43-yard pass from quarterback Mike Lewis to Jeff Dupont with just under eight minutes left in the third quarter.

Four minutes after Dupont's touchdown — the first score of the game — Carmichaels struck back. Quarterback Mike Rumancik hit Damon Nichols with a pass good for 32 yards and a touchdown, but the Mikes' two-point conversion failed.

The victory gives Carmichaels a 4-3 WPIAL Class A Tri-County Conference record while dropping German Township to 5-2.

Rockets, 18-12

MAPLETOWN — Jefferson-Morgan High School scored 12 third-quarter points Friday night to defeat Mapletown, 18-12, in a WPIAL Class A Tri-County Conference game.

An 11-yard run by Rocket Mike Knight with 2:51 remaining in the third quarter broke a 12-12 tie and gave Jefferson-Morgan the victory, its fifth in seven conference games this season.

Knight, who finished the game with 87 yards on 15 carries, had tied the game earlier in the quarter on a 53-yard scamper.

The Maples, now 0-8 overall, used their passing game to take a 12-6 lead just four minutes into the second half. The go-ahead score came on a seven-yard pass from quarterback Ed Pekar to Bill Watson.

Pekar finished the game 15-for-23 for 186 yards. Maple tight end John Gaynor was Pekar's favorite target, pulling in 10 passes for 126 yards.

Watson had evened the game at 6-6 on a one-yard plunge with just 24 seconds left in the first half.

The Rockets opened the scoring with just over three minutes left in the half when Gary Basinger and quarterback Brian Virgin connected on a 71-yard pass.

Don't pull that trigger until you know your bull's-eye won't hurt anyone.

Shooting at the insulators on a power transmission pole could leave hundreds of customers without electricity. Even worse, it could cut off power to a helpless person on life-support equipment. But that's not all. Damaged insulators cause unnecessary and costly repairs that add to the cost of electric service. And if you're pulling the trigger, you, too, might find it expensive because West Penn Power will provide law enforcement officials with information needed to prosecute anyone who intentionally damages insulators or other West Penn Power equipment.

So, remember, the wrong kind of target practice could hurt someone miles away. And it could hurt you, too.

Pension Recipients Must State Income

WAYNESBURG — Recipients of Veterans Administration pensions are reminded that "it's income questionnaire time again."

Wilma Moninger, Greene County director of veterans affairs, said that veterans, widows and DIC parents, as well as children covered under the new VA law, will receive an income questionnaire with their Nov. 1 check. The income questionnaire cards must be returned to the Veterans Administration before Jan. 1, 1982 or benefits will be suspended.

"Normally, pension recipients under the old law who have attained age 72 and have received VA pensions for two consecutive years, and children under the age of 23 receiving pensions under the old law, are not provided with a questionnaire," Miss Moninger said. "However, because of borderline cases where income may be excessive and for other reasons a certain number in this category may receive income questionnaire cards this year."

It is suggested that all recipients complete and submit their cards promptly to avoid suspension of benefits.

Miss Moninger noted that the questionnaire does not apply to service-connected compensa-
