Washington Man Killed In Early Morning Crash

Carmichaels man seriously injured early Tuesday morning in a violent one-car crash in the city's Tylerdale section.

Harry Thomas (Tom) Marshman, 28, of 929 Fayette Street, died at Washington Hospital of multiple injuries suffered when the sports car in which he was a passenger skidded out of control into a utility pole at the corner of Jefferson and McAdam avenues. The accident happened at 3:28 a.m. and Marshman died 3½ hours later. The driver, Kit Douglas Watson, 27, of 301 East Greene Street, Carmichaels, suffered chest injuries in the crash. Watson is reported in guarded condition in the Intensive Care Unit at Washington

Police said the accident happened while the men, employees at the Penn Mould shop of Metro Glass Containers on Jefferson Avenue in Wolfdale, were parently headed toward an all-night resthe Brownson House — is less than a quarter mile from the plant where the men were working the midnight to 8 a.m. shift.

City patrolmen John Sweeney and Robert Dominski were in a patrol car near the corner of Jefferson and Henderson avenues, a block away from the crash site, when Watson lost control of the 1981 Chevrolet Corvette as it crossed the slightly elevated Pennsylvania Railroad bridge, apparently at a high rate of Sweeney and Dominski told Police Chief Kenneth Baker they arrived at the scene "while pieces of the car and dust were still flying.'

Watson was apparently thrown from the vehicle, but his passenger was trapped in the wreckage. City firemen worked for more than a half hour to free the victim

Before we could even start to get him out of the car we had to pull it away from the broken utility pole," Fire Chief lic tool that we use to pry cars apart in situations like that failed. . . and rather than taking the time to clear up the trouble we used some other equipment."

The problem of extricating the still-onscious man from the wreckage was further complicated by the vehicle's fiberglass construction, Brookman said.

Marshman, the first auto fatality in the city since a pedestrian was killed in September 1980 and the sixth person to die in a Washington County highway crash this year, was rushed to Washing ton Hospital. He was later placed aboard rescue helicopter for a flight to to Pittsburgh's Allegheny General Hospital, but he had to be taken back into the hospital's emergency room when his condition rapidly worsened. He died a few minutes later of head, leg and internal injuries.

Marshman was the son of Robert G. Marshman and Shirley Ann Steele, both of Washington. He has a son who lives in Mechanicsburg

Coal Mines Will Close

VOLUME CXLV

WAYNESBURG — Sagging steel sales and a slack demand by outside sources for meteorological coal has prompted the United State Steel Corp. to indefinitely suspend operations in the Robena Division of its Frick District. The announcement means the closing of three Frick District mines, including the Robena and Dilworth Mines in Greene

A spokesman for the nation's leading steel producer announced Thursday morning that approximately 1,000 min-ers from the two Greene County mines and the Mount Braddock Mine in neighboring Fayette County will be in-definitely laid off because of the clos-

"The low level of steel operations in the Pittsburgh area and the resultant lack of demand for coking purposes, and the slack demand for meteorological coal by outside sources," was blamed for the cutback in operations.

The Robena Division includes the Robena Mine and preparation plant, near Garards Fort, the Dilworth Mine in Rices Landing and the Mount Braddock Mine. Additionally, the company said that some employees at the Everson and Filbert maintenance shops will also be

The Maple Creek Mine and preparation plant in Washington County will remain open and are scheduled to oper-ate for three days the week of April 12.

The closings will have no affect on the Cumberland Mine in Kirby because the coal mined there is sold to a Canadian power company for use in the generation of electricity

The U.S. Steel spokesman gave no indication as to when operations at the three mining facilities might be re-

Curry Home Nurses Receive Salary Increases County Commissioners Thursday approved a two-step salary increase for registered nurses at the Curry Memorial Home in a attempt to keep wages in line with what other medical facilities

The commissioners, sitting as the salary board along with County Treasurer Joseph Souders, unanimously voted an 8 percent raise retroactive to April 1 and another 8 percent hike on July 1 for the eight registered nurses employed at the Curry Home.

New nurses hired at the home were being paid $6.19 an hour regardless of experience. With the new raises, nurses hired in the future may start at anywhere from $7.22 to $8.43 depending on impossible to hire new nurses at a rate far below that being paid by local hospitals. She has also been responsible for administration duties in the past two months because the home is without an administrator.

Commissioner L. R. Santore, noting the extra duties she performs, made a motion to grant two-step increments to all nurses with the first raise retroactive to April 1 and her increase retroactive to Jan. 1. However, the motion died for a Commissioner Richard Cowan made similiar motion but did not include Piatt's retroactive raise. This brought a strong objection from Santore who said it was unfair not to pay her for extra work. However, Santore voted for the motion which was passed unanimously The board agreed to look into the possibility of placing professional service employees into a negotiated wage category in the future. Frank Thomas, a member of the Curry Home Advisory Board, asked the board if any action had been taken to hire a new administrator. "It's a shame people down there have to suffer because someone's worried about their political career," Thomas told the board. Board chairman Joseph Pawlosky

Groves explained the booklets will cost $3,500 but advertising revenue is far less than previous years. The associa-tion has been able to raise only about $1,000 in advertising revenue.

A long discussion was held about the possibility of sending tax notices out earlier than June 1. It was noted the county is forced to get a tax anticipation loan each year in order to operate be-tween January and June. With tax revenues be collected earlier, a smaller loan would be necessary and consequently there would be less interest

The commissioners will meet next week with Perry Bavera, director of the tax assessment office, to further discuss the possibility.

Maintenance contracts were executive with George Yurt who will maintain Pumpkin Run Park for $500 per month this summer and Maxine Hewitt, who will receive $40 per month for maintaining the park at Graysville.

The commissioners reminded the public that all county offices will be closed on Good Friday.

Concrete Panels Baffle Noise From Mine Fans

WAYNESBURG - A completely new set of structures is being used by the Emerald Mine in Waynesburg to help control noise from ventilating fans.

The devices, consisting of concrete block structures equipped with baffles, have been installed on two of the three fans and have proven so efficient that the high-pitched whine associated with coal mine ventilation systems is virtually non-existent.

They were constructed as part of a $350,000 project which Emway Resources has invested in noise abatement during the past year.

"We're proud of the new mufflers," mine Superintendent James R. Morris "They were designed by Bob Chiocca, one of our engineers, with the help of a sound engineer and are the first to be used at any mine in the world The new devices have been installed fan just off Route 21 west of Wayneburg and on a fan south of Waynesburg in what is known as "brickyard hollow

While they appear to be no more than to the front of the fans, they contain baffles which deaden the noise and channel it in one direction. As a result, no sound can be detected at a distance of more than 100 yards.

They could not, however, be used on the pair of ventilating fans located at the main entry off Route 218, south of town. In their place, concrete baffle plates which stand 24 feet high and are nine inches thick have been built in front of the fans to lessen the amount of noise produced by those fans.

They were designed by a noise engineer shortly after the Emerald Mine was purchased by Emway, which is a subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. of Indi-

'They aren't as efficient as the other muffler buildings, but they were the best we could do in the circumstances and have cut down substantially on the amount of noise reaching Waynesburg," Morris said. He said the pair of fans will be used for only two or three more years, and will then be replaced by others which will be installed as mining

GARC Approves Building Plans

WAYNESBURG — The board of directors of the Greene County Association for Retarded Citizens (GARC) this week approved preliminary plans for the construction of a $581,000 opportunity center in West Waynesburg.

The one-story building, to include a basement, will contain 10,000 square feet and will be erected on GARC property near the old school house now being used as a center.

The present building, the West Waynesburg School, will be demolished after construction to make room for parking and a landscaped area.

The GARC plans to use the building for all its offices. It presently rents space for the executive director and Com-munity Living Arrangement offices at 58 East High Street in

The day care service now being provided for mentally retarded adults will be continued. The new facility will contain crafts rooms, a health room, a large dining area and a

Tax Collector To Be Selected

WAYNESBURG — Waynesburg Borough Council will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 19, to appoint a borough tax collector. The position has been vacant since the resignation of

A total of 17 persons applied for the position. A committee of three council members met last week to review the applications and select five "finalists," who were interviewed Tuesday night by council.

"Council felt it would be too unwieldy to attempt to interview all of the applicants," Borough Manager James Ealy said. "All members were notified of the screening process but just three of them were able to participate." He added that the applications were made available to all council

The tax collector is responsible for collecting real estate taxes and per capita taxes for the borough and the Central Greene School School District from borough residents. The annual compensation, based on a percentage of taxes collected, averages close to $20,000 per year.

training suite for life management skills. This suite will include a kitchen with two complete training units for cooking and a separate area for dishwashing and laundry.

The building, designed by the architectural firm of Tennyson and Reid Associates, meets all requirements for serving the handicapped. An elevator will supplement the stairs between the two floors. Ramps, wide corridors and special rest rooms will make for easy access by wheelchairs All fire and panic devices, light switches, door knobs and other fixtures will be adapted for the visually and hearing impaired clients.

Inside areas are designed in such a way as to make it relatively simple to adjust the space available for changes in group sizes and programs to be offered.

Long-range plans call for the addition of work activities and sheltered employment programs. As other needs for services to the handicapped citizens of Greene County are identified, the GARC will consider the use of the building for these services.

Miner Suing Over Firing

WAYNESBURG — A Carmichaels resident who was fired from his mining job for alleged absenteeism has brought suit in Greene County Court in an effort to obtain compensation from the U.S. Steel Mining Co.

The lawsuit was filed Wednesday by Christopher L. Watson of 103 East Greene Street, Carmichaels. He is asking for back wages to Feb. 16, 1981 and for other losses he incurred as a result of being deprived of his annual income of $30,000.

According to the complaint, Watson was fired from his job as a lampman at U.S. Steel's Cumberland Mine at Kirby under a clause in the UMWA contact which permits an employer to discharge a man who is absent without permission for two days for reasons other than proven illness.

Watson contends the firing was improper because he had suffered a serious ilness and had been sent home by his supervisor with instructions not to return to work until he was

Fire did an estimated $150,000 damage to Tri-State Bumper Co. plant and Bane service station.

Blaze Destroys Bumper Plant, Service Station In Clarksville

CLARKSVILLE — A fire of suspicious origin early Monday morning caused an estimated $150,000 damage to a one-story, concrete block building in the center of town which housed a service station and bumper replating plant. Volunteer firemen from Clarksville, Jefferson and Fredericktown battled the blaze for two hours. The Richeyville fire department was called to provide additional air tanks for the firemen, several of whom suffered breathing problems because of the chemical-fed fire.

The alarm was sounded at about 1:30 a.m. when Dorina Trout was awakened by a noise. She looked through ner bathroom window and saw the flames coming from the rear of bathroom window and saw the halfest coining non-tire teals the Tri-State Bumper Co. The bumper company is housed in the rear of the building and Bane's Texaco Service occupies the front portion of the large structure.

One of the alarms for the Clarksville fire department is located in the Brichetti & Trout General Store where Mrs.

Trout lives. She immediately blew the siren. The fire hall is directly across the street from the fire scene.

Fire Chief Todd Nyswaner said the state police fire marshal was notified, but because of several suspicious fires in this area over the week it was not known when an official probe of the fire would begin.

Nyswaner would not speculate on the cause of the fire but said the blaze apparently began in four separate locations.

Steve Bane, who operates the service station and owns the building, said the fire in the service station apparently started in his office and spread to the service bay which was heavily

When asked if chemicals in the bumper plant could have caused the explosions heard by the neighbors. Bane said the chemical tanks were still intact. "You can throw a lighted match next to those chemicals and not start a fire." Bane said.
"I don't know what the officials are saying but I can tell you something is awfully suspicous about this fire," he added.

Bane said his insurance would probably cover about half the damage. The gasoline pumps and one side of the station escaped damage.

Bane credited firemen and several neighbors with saving motorcycles, cars and stock inside the station.

The bumper plant is owned by Albert Santella of Fredericktown. The plant was destroyed along with a Fiatt auto store inside. The force of the explosion bowed the windows in the Tim Rice, a Clarksville fireman, suffered a lacerated hand battling the fire and an employee of the service station was bitten by a Doberman guard dog which is allowed to roam freely in the station during the night. The dog was rescued from the fire.

WINNER — Christa Cowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cowell of 355 North West Street, Waynesburg, re-cently won the top soloist prize in the regional "Festi-val of Life" at Eastern Naz-arene College, Quincy, Mass. She is a junior at Waynes-burg Central High School and is active in the chorus and girls ensemble and won district and state honors in chorus. She also is a soloist for the high school stage band.

Sunday School Campaign Set

County churches are being asked to participate in a sixweek, enlargement campaign being sponsored by the Greene County Sunday School Association in cooperation with the Pennsylvania State Sunday School Association.

The campaign will be held beginning Sunday, April 18, and will run through Sunday, May 23. Theme for the program is "Ge and Grow."

The ten Sunday schools with the highest average attendance increase will receive awards and recognition at the county banquet in June.
In connection with the campaign, there will be a poster and essay contest. Details are available by calling M.B. McMillen, evangelism super-intendent of the county as-

Flower Shop Joins Network

Neubauer's Flowers, with shops in Waynesburg, Union-town, Moundsville and Cam-eron, W.Va., is now part of Florist's Transworld Delivery's mercury network.
The network links thousands of FTD flower shops through the use of consoles and telephone lines to a central computer in Chicago.

This enables florists to send and receive floral orders with and receive noral orders with ease and added efficiency. A printed copy of both orders sent and received is printed by the console eliminating many of the problems that resulted from the previous use of the telephone. Over 5,000 florists are participating.

The noise abatement program was set in motion a year ago in response to requests from Waynesburg Borough officials, who met with Emway officials to the complaints they had been receiving from borough residents, particularly those on the north side of town.

In reporting on the project at a meeting Monday of Waynesburg Borough Council, Borough Manager James Ealy said the company has done everything possible to respond to the complaints.

Mine Owners Demonstrate Concern For Community

When Standard Oil of Indiana purchased the Emerald Mine at Waynesburg in 1980 it inherited some rather touchy situations

A lot of people were disturbed when the mine was built in 1975 because it was located so close to the borough, with the coal cleaning plant and other facilities being in plain view from many parts of the town.

They became even more disturbed when heavily-laden coal trucks began to pound borough streets and the high-pitched whine of ventilating fans began to disturb the open-window tranquility of summer nights.

The coal trucks gradually disappeared as the mine moved into full operation and began utilizing a railroad to move its coal, but the noise pollution created by the fans and a loud public address system were still a bone of contention when the mine was sold to Emway Resources, a Standard Oil Subsidiary.

One of the first thing borough officials did was meet with the new owners to see if something couldn't be done about the noise, at which time they were told the company would hire an ac-coustical consultant to see if something couldn't

In the year which has passed since that meeting, Emway has spent about $350,000 to muffle three fans, redirect speakers of the public address system so that they point away from borough, and install a metal skin on the coal breaker plant to deaden the noise it makes.

One of the fans was located in such a position that noise from it could not be completely deadened, but company engineers invented a new type of device for two others which makes them silent from as close as 100 yards.

The company is proud of the accomplishment and received a well-deserved compliment from Borough Manager James Ealy, who reported to borough council this week that he feels Emway "is doing everything they can to be corporate good

The coal mine is there to stay, but at least the owners have shown they are willing to spend their money to make its presence as inconspicuous as possible

County Municipalities In Good Financial Shape

Greene County Editor
WAYNESBURG — Greene County's local municipalities

e generally in very sound financial condition. In fact — according to 1981 audit reports — a few of them wound up last year with more money in the bank and invested than they had spent during the year, giving them financial cushions for the new fiscal year which began Jan. 1, 1982.

Audit reports for the 20 townships and all but one of the six boroughs are on file in the Clerk of Court's office at the courthouse. Waynesburg Borough's is still outstanding, but it is expected to be filed within the next few weeks.

In most cases, townships seemed to be better off than boroughs in terms of their fiscal report cards — and spectacularly so in two cases. Due in great part to the windfall in realty transfer taxes received through sale of U.S. Steel reserve coal during 1981, Franklin Township concluded the year with investments of $652,000 while Whiteley Township had investments of $776,590.

At the other extreme, Wayne Township was the only one which ended the year in trouble, having $35,000 in loans which it was unable to pay and with more than $50,000 in outstanding

The six boroughs, which provide a wider range of services than most of the rural townships, were not as affluent as most of their country cousins, but their audit reports disclosed no major fiscal problems.

Its residents took great pride in their community and transformed a part of their own ideals into it through its churches and its homes. It has been, in short, a pleasant place in which to live and to have reared families — a place where there was always a sincere concern for each other by individuals and fami-

Many of their younger gen-erations have moved to distant places in recent years, such as the two sons and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Zimmerman. In the comparatively short time it has been in existence, the lawn became a source of pride to the entire community and attracted the attention of thousands of motorists coming off Interstate 79 and Route 19 right beside the edge of the beautifully maintained Haines

During World War II, when Mr. Haines served with Greene County's own 110th Infantry in the European Theater, and afterwards during ex-tensive travels, his heart and his memories inevitably turned him back to the scenes of his youth where many of his happiest hours were spent grooming the beautiful grounds he and others enjoyed so deeply.

The second team is led by Ringgold's senior center Alan Bradstock, who averaged 16.5 points per game. The other second team members are Kevin Anderson of Washington, Tim Winters of Waynesburg, Mark Burd of McGuffey and Neil Zeigler of Peters Township.

Dugan (a six-foot guard) became the second Greene County player to lead the district in scoring since the Observer-Reporter recognized the champion in 1970. The first was Bob Clites, also of Mapletown. Dugan edged Knisley for the title by averaging 25.6 points per game while Knisley averaged 24.3 points and 10 rebounds.

Burd (6-1 guard) becomes the first McGuffey player to reach the All-Dis-

How do you run track without a track? That's not easily answered and it's certainly not much fun for Frank Hunter, West Greene High School's head track coach.

The Pioneer track team is homeless.
All of it's track meets are on the road against Section 11-AA opponents which includes Waynesburg, Chartiers-Houston, West Greene, McGuffey, Beth-Center and Jeff-Morgan, another team without a home track.

Both the Pioneer and Rocket track teams run their meets at other schools in the section or WPIAL and that, some-times, can be a disadvantage.

"We just never had a track, but we do what we can," said Hunter. "We use the football field to practice our field events and use the roads to practice the running events. West Greene has never had good track teams but we did have some qualifiers in the WPIAL's a few years are."

Hunter is in his first year as head coach at West Greene replacing Earl Finney, who resigned as both head football and track coach after the 1981 football season. Hunter, and his assistant coach Sandy Thon, are trying to turn the program around at West Greene and seem to be on the way.

Last year, West Greene had only 18 members. This years team has increased to 31 members, including six girls who Hunter calls very ambitious.

"We have a renewed interest in track re," Hunter said. "Even though we don't have a track, we do have some new don't have a track, we do have some new equipment and things are looking up for us this year. A track is something we would like to have but the budget is tight. Maybe someday when we get renovations here at the school, they'll consider a track."

Pioneers work close with Waynesburg's team, joining Jeff-Morgan in holding a few of their track meets at the Red Raiders' track. The two track-less teams met at Waynesburg last week and West Greene came up winners 77½-62½.

"I don't know if always being on the road really hurts," said Hunter. "It's nothing we can't handle or do anything about. We just take a couple sets of different spikes and go at it. One thing we have learned from being on the road is that we have to be flexible. Going to all the different tracks, you never know what to expect as far as surfaces go." Jeff-Morgan's track team is in the same situation and athletic director Charles Barno is fully aware of it.

"We haven't had a track since the early 1930's," said Barno. "We've never even had a track meet going on at the school since I graduated in 1946. The old school has a small track around the football field that we practice on but that's all we do on it.

"I guess we've just gotten used to running away meets so it hasn't become a big issue. When the new school was built they considered a new track but it never went through. No one really pressed the issue, I imagine because of

Aside from the five section meets, the Rockets look for triangular meets to fill its schedule against schools who would host them.

Frazier Simplex Rifle Club has won the championship of the Pittsburgh Suburban Rifle

The team completed its perfect season in the 10-team league by defeating Waynesburg 1,488-1,482.

LL Tryouts

WAYNESBURG — Little League tryouts for 10 year olds have been rescheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday, April 20 and 21, beginning at 5:30 p.m. each day at Meadowlark Park.

State Champions

Cary Kolat, left, and Dirk Cole won Pennsylvania Junior Wrestling titles earlier this month at Altoona. Kolat, although only eight years old, competed in the 10-11 division and extended his career record to 57-0. He was a national free-style champion last year. It was the second state title for Cole, who won a gold medal in the 1980 tournament.

Fish Commission Will Stock 5 Area Streams With Trout

WAYNESBURG - Five streams in the stocks flow through private land and the area will be stocked with trout in the next rights of the property owners are guaran-few weeks according to Gary E. Deiger, teed and protected by law. It is unlawful to waterways patrolman for the Pennsylvania

Ryerson Lake will be stocked during the weeks of April 25, May 2 and May 16; the Dunkard Fork and South Fork of Wheeling Creek, the weeks of April 25 and May 2: Whiteley Creek, the week of May 9; Templeton and Enlow Forks, the week of May 16; and the North Fork of Ten Mile Creek, the weeks of April 25 and May 9. Deiger reminds local anglers to consult the laws and regulations enclosed with their fishing license. He said that in the past, problems have arisen on opening day Most of the streams the Fish Commission dig or drive upon private property or block entrances or exits.

Littering and building of open fires is unlawful as is the cutting of trees, shrubs and fences. Deiger warns that violators will be prosecuted.

Two areas of particular concern are the North Fork of Ten Mile Creek, from Route 18 to Plumsock, and Whiteley Creek. Also the ballfield at Amity is located on private property and vehicles are prohibited. Whiteley Creek in Greene County flows through state game lands which are under the control of the Pennsylvania Game Commission. It is illegal to camp overnight in the game lands.

Ernest Benedict, center, was presented with a plaque by the Jefferson-Morgan Wrestling Boosters Club during a banquet Tuesday night at Jefferson. The plaque was in recognition of Benedict's 22 years as a wrestling coach. In addition to wrestling, Benedict has also served in the position of either an assistant or head coach of most sports during his 30 years of teaching in the Jefferson-Morgan District. He is flanked by Alan Rafail, left, assistant wrestling coach, and Tony Barbetta, head wrestling coach. Members of the boosters club also recognized and presented awards to wrestlers for their various accomplishments during the past season.
