Frances Johnson, local AAUW branch president, looks on as Josephine Denny receives the Outstanding Woman award from Sarah Olmstead, chairwoman of the women's committee.

Outstanding Woman Of The Year Honored By Waynesburg AAUW

WAYNESBURG — Josephine Denny was named Outstanding Woman of 1981-82 by the Waynesburg branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) at its annual banquet Monday night.

In naming Miss Denny as the award recipient, her efforts in bringing the AAUW to Waynesburg and the county were acknowledged, as well as her work for the Greene County Historical Society, Waynesburg College, the Presbyterian Church and Greene County Memorial Hospital.

The presentation noted, "Her enthusiasm, tireless energy and dynamic personality, as well as her gentility and charm, have impressed people during her travels. Much of what she has done has been accomplished in her life at a time which most people would call retirement years. She is not about to retire!"

Denny Hall, a women's dormitory at Waynesburg College, was furnished through gifts by her and her two sisters.

For several years, she was a member and secretary of the Women's Auxiliary of the Greene County Memorial Hospital. She worked to establish the Cherry Door, a non-profit clothing exchange for the benefit of the hospital, and helped furnish it with light fixtures, desks, clothing racks and display cases.

She is an elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Waynesburg, a member of the Waynesburg Women's Club and numerous historical and genealogical societies, including the Order of the Crown of Charlemagne in the United States and the Order of the Three Crusades.

The Pennsylvania State Society of Colonial Dames Seventeenth Century conferred a state award on Miss Denny for her service in the development of the Greene County Historical Society Museum.

The award noted that under her leadership, the Historical Society saved a pre-Civil War mansion from demolition, sandblasted and restored it, repainted the interior and made it into a museum furnished with colonial and mid-Victorian artifacts.

In its library are the county historical archives and more than 3,000 genealogical and local historical volumes. It has been rated by the Tourist Industry Advisory Council as one of the "Top Twenty Tourist Attractions" in Pennsylvania.

She has been an active member of the Historical Society since 1967.

Miss Denny was educated in Waynesburg public schools, the National Cathedral School in Washington, D.C., and Pine Manor Junior College at Wellesley, Mass. She received her bachelor's degree from Waynesburg College in 1915 and studied at the University of Besancon in France.

She taught in private schools in Chicago and Long Island and at Waynesburg High School from 1936-42. She has traveled extensively in Europe, the Caribbean Islands, the South Seas islands and the Orient.

Miss Denny and other honorees from the 76 AAUW branches throughout Pennsylvania will receive special recognition during the AAUW convention in Lock Haven June 4-6.

Fuller Seeks New Trial

WAYNESBURG — Arguments for a new trial for Waynesburg Borough Patrolman Michael Fuller convicted of involuntary manslaughter were presented to Judge Glenn Toothman Wednesday morning. The judge will hand down a decision after he reviews the arguments.

Fuller was found guilty of the Jan. 16 death of Mrs. Celia McGilton. Fuller and Patrolman Timothy Stevenson had answered a "man with a gun" call at 340 Fourth Avenue.

The policemen said the victim's husband, Paul, leveled a shotgun at Stevenson. Fuller, acting as a backup to his fellow officer, fired two shots at McGilton from a landing on the stairs. One bullet lodged in the door frame and the other went through the thin wall and struck Mrs. McGilton in the chest, killing her almost instantly. Mrs. McGilton was standing behind her husband, out of sight of the policemen.

Defense attorney George Retos asked the court for an arrest of judgment and a new trial based on evidence discovered after the trial.

Specifically, Retos told the court jurors were aware of Fuller having been on trial previously in a police brutality case brought by Kyle Hallum. Retos said a prospective juror admitted as much during pre-trial questioning. Although the man was not selected for the jury, Retos said other prospective jurors heard the comment, "I know Fuller was on trial here."

Retos also said the jurors discussed the Hallum case during deliberations. Some of those jurors said they would testify about such discussions but only if they were subpoenaed by the court, Retos said.

Remarks by prosecutor George Stegenga about street survival tactics learned by Fuller also was cited by Retos as reason for a new trial. Retos said the jurors, while in deliberation, discussed a controversial book about street survival tactics despite the judge's order that the book not be entered as evidence.

Retos maintains the prosecutor erred in his final summation by saying the police officers violated the fourth amendment rights of the McGilton family by illegally entering their home. Retos said the police entered through an open door to the apartment building. "The door opened into a common area of the apartment building, not to the McGilton apartment," he said.

Defense attorneys also contend the court erred in not allowing them to question McGilton's "propensity" for violence. Retos said one juror was not aware he could find Fuller not guilty but only had the choice of third degree murder, voluntary manslaughter or involuntary manslaughter. It also was cited that the judge did not mention, in his charge to the jury, the sentence for involuntary manslaughter. "It now appears some of the jurors were confused by the many details of the court's charge," Retos added.

Stegenga approached the bench and told the court Retos should have asked for a change of venue or an outside panel of jurors or even a mistrial if the defense felt the prospective juror's remark tainted the case.

"It appears the defense is on a fishing expedition," Stegenga told the court. Concerning remarks made by jurors after the verdict, the prosecutor said it was bad practice for an attorney to question jurors after the trial because they (the jurors) tend to tell the lawyer something so he won't feel bad about losing the case.

Stegenga said it all boiled down to the fact that the jury believed McGilton's version of what happened and didn't believe the police officers.

"The jury believed McGilton had placed the shotgun in the corner of his apartment before opening the door to the policeman," Stegenga said.

Concerning the jury's action during deliberation, the prosecutor said only the corruption of a juror or influence by outside forces should be considered when judging their behavior.

Toothman said he would take the arguments under advisement and gave no indication when a decision would be rendered.

Waynesburg College Holds Commencement

WAYNESBURG — International Presbyterian Church leader Mary E. Pardee congratulated the graduating seniors during commencement exercises at Waynesburg College Sunday afternoon for having chosen the broad-based curriculum of a liberal arts college for their education and told of the difficulties colleges such as Waynesburg have to face now and in the future.

It was the 131st commencement exercise for Waynesburg College. Four honorary doctoral degrees, 164 bachelor's degree and 19 associate degrees were awarded.

Both the afternoon commencement and the morning baccalaureate services were held on the campus in front of Miller Hall. Herbert B. Anderson, senior pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church in New York City, delivered the baccalaureate sermon. He was awarded an honorary doctor of divinity degree.

Mrs. Pardee, ruling elder in the Fox Chapel Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh, received an honorary doctor of humane letters degree. She also has held numerous leadership posts on national and international levels, including executive committee membership in the Major Mission Fund of the United Presbyterian Church.

Others receiving honorary degrees were Dr. Charles L. Bryner, of Waynesburg, doctor of science. Dr. Bryner, a 1940 graduate of the college, has held several teaching and administrative posts during more than 35 years at Waynesburg College. Joining the faculty in 1946, he has served as an instructor in mathematics, professor of biology, dean of men, associate dean of the faculty and chairman of the science department.

An honorary doctor of laws degree was awarded to John E. Baily, a 1932 graduate of the college who has served for many years on the board of trustees. He is a member of the executive committee of the board of trustees and is secretary of the board. He received his doctor of jurisprudence degree from the University of Pittsburgh in 1935, and has been associated with the Waynesburg law firm of Thompson and Baily since 1954.

MARY E. PARDEE

Patricia S. Harvey of Fredericktown and Charles R. Guthrie of Wind Ridge each delivered "Valedictories to the College." Both finished their baccalaureate degree work with perfect 4.0 academic averages. In addition, they both were class summa cum laude graduates along with Charles Alan Helms.

In her valedictory speech, Miss Harvey said, "...each of us have before us our own set goals and visions of success. Whether these visions are centered around financial security, power or fame, several traits are necessary to achieve success."

"The experience which we have gathered at Waynesburg College and from family and friends will help us set reasonable goals of success, and to determine the most efficient way to attain these goals. "In our pursuit of success, it is important that we do not infringe upon those around us. A strong conscience will keep the pursuit of success from developing into a driving obsession which threatens to blind us to the needs and feelings of our fellow man."

Miss Harvey has accepted a teaching assistant position in journalism at Ohio University where she will enter a graduate program in the fall.

Guthrie said in his valedictory speech, "Four years ago, each one of us came to a fork in the road. There we made a decision. We did not take the easy way. Instead, we chose the harder path, the one with many pitfalls and snares. We chose the trail to a higher education...from here, the choice also is ours. We have all the tools we need to make something of ourselves. The resources are available. All we have to do is utilize them."

"By taking the harder road, we've proven many things to ourselves and those around us. We have shown we have determination, that we are able to handle responsibility and that we are worthy of the challenge to advance. Moving ahead must always be our ultimate goal."

Waynesburg College President Joseph F. Marsh congratulated the graduates as they received their diplomas from Registrar Robert Hurd. Degrees in course were conferred by G. Wayne Smith, academic dean.

"I congratulate you for having had the wisdom to choose for your undergraduate studies a liberal arts college and one which is related to the United Presbyterian Church," Mrs. Pardee told the graduating class.

"Why do I say this? Because I firmly believe in an education which combines a broadly based curriculum — on which one can build specializations and thus move into three or four different careers, something most of you may well be called to do."

She also told of the difficulties facing colleges such as Waynesburg.

"It is no secret, and doubtless you are aware after four years on the campus, that in our free society colleges such as Waynesburg are facing particular difficulties now and into the foreseeable

College Freshman Killed In Crash

BELINGTON, W.Va. — An 18-year-old college student from Mt. Morris was killed late Wednesday in an auto accident on Route 92 in Barbour County, W.Va. A passenger in her car was badly injured in the one-car crash.

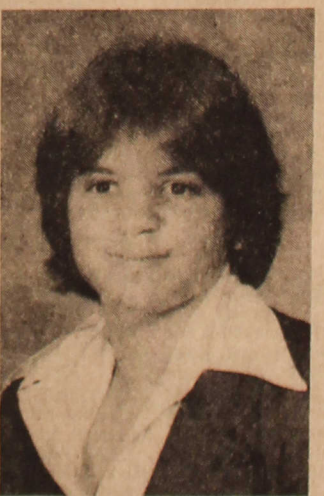

According to state police at the Phillip sub-station, Pamela K. Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Berry of Mt. Morris, was pronounced dead of multiple injuries at the scene.

Police said Miss Berry, a freshman at Davis & Elkins College, was apparently traveling too fast when she entered a curve in the highway, lost control and went through a guardrail before going over a 40-foot embankment. Both girls were thrown from the car.

Laura Marie Marcolina, 18, of North Huntington, a college classmate, was listed in satisfactory condition at Broadus Hospital in Phillipi suffering numerous lacerations.

The accident occurred shortly after 11 p.m. near Belington, which is about 25 miles north of Elkins where the college is located. A college spokesman said the girls had taken some of their belongings home in preparation for the summer break but were returning for graduation week activities before going home for the summer.

Miss Berry was a graduate of Waynesburg Central High School where she was an outstanding basketball and softball player. She was a member of her college team in Elkins and was reputedly a successful pitcher on the collegiate level as well.

An elementary education major, she also was a member of the Zeta Tau Sorority and attended the Morgantown Church of Christ.

She was born December 20, 1963, in Morgantown, W.Va.

Surviving are her parents, David and Carol Findo Berry; a brother, David A. Berry; her maternal grandmother, Rosie Findo of Cassville, W.Va.; and her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fenton Berry of Mt. Morris.

Consol Cites Hiring Plans

WAYNESBURG — Hiring will begin next year for Consolidation Coal Company's Manor mine complex in western Greene County, members of the Greater Waynesburg Area Chamber of Commerce were told Wednesday.

A report on potential employment and progress being made in construction of the first of five projected mines was given by Dave Donnelly, Consolidation manager of manpower services.

He said that while applications for both hourly and salaried employees are already being accepted at the company's eastern region office in Meadowlands, the first appreciable hiring will take place in June or July 1983. By the end of the year, there will be 161 hourly employees and 38 salaried employees. By the end of 1984, the total number will reach 470 people, by the end of 1985 it will stand at 564, and at a peak in 1986 with 601, including 513 hourly employees.

Construction of the second mine will probably begin about six months after coal starts to come out of the first mine in 1983, with hiring for that mine probably beginning in 1985, Donnelly said.

The timetable for construction of the other three mines has not been set yet and will depend on the market for coal.

Each of the mines is being designed to produce 2.3 million tons of coal per year for a period of 40 years, and each will employ about 550 men and will feature two longwalls.

The first mine is currently under construction at Enon in Richhill Township, with the second mine being planned for the same area. Coal will be transported over a railroad which is to be built to tie into the Monongahela Railroad in Waynesburg. Construction of the railroad, Donnelly said, will probably begin within the next month.

About 40 percent of the coal will be shipped overseas out of port facilities in Baltimore, Md.

Following Donnelly's report, Chamber of Commerce members discussed the membership campaign which is now under way and preliminary plans for several events, including Waynesburg Day at a Pittsburgh Pirate game in July and the Rain Day promotion at the end of July.

President Walter Christopher said he is optimistic about the future of the organization, reporting that eight new members have been enrolled within the past few weeks.

County Employees To Vote On Union Representation

WAYNESBURG — Three groups of Greene County employees will have an opportunity on Wednesday, June 30, to vote on the question of union representation.

The Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board has scheduled the election for three separate groups of employees — 45 people who work in departments which are under the jurisdiction of the county commissioners, 10 who hold court-related jobs, and 12 who hold positions under appointment by the court.

The status of a fourth bargaining unit, consisting of employees at the county jail, is still in question pending a decision on the eligibility of guard shift commanders to join a union. As a result, an election has not been scheduled as yet for these employees.

Arrangements for the election were made at a PLRB hearing held in Pittsburgh Tuesday at the request of Local 565, Service Employees International Union (AFL-CIO), which is seeking to represent the county employees.

The union was represented at the hearing by John L. Haer and the county by Jonathan L. Alder, a Pittsburgh attorney who handles the county's labor negotiations. The hearing was held primarily for the purpose of determining the makeup of bargaining units.

On June 30, the election will be held from 7 a.m. to 10 a.m. and from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the county commissioners' meeting room. While those in all three bargaining units will vote at the same place and at the same time, results will be tabulated separately.

A majority vote by employees in each of the three units will determine if that group of employees will approve, or turn down, union representation.

The PLRB ruling states that ballots are to be tabulated publicly immediately after the polling place closes at 5 p.m.

Gail M. McClure Bride Of Man From Maryland

Trinity Episcopal Church in Morgantown, W. Va., was the setting for the marriage of Gail M. McClure and Randall C. Merriken at 7:30 p.m. May 10, 1982.

The Rev. David Watkins and the Rev. Sam Tinsley were the celebrants. The Acolyte was John Elliott and the organist was Mary Kennedy. The soloist was Irene Boire.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown made by her mother. It featured a lace overdress with a high neckline, long fitted sleeves and an A-line skirt all outlined with sparkle organza ruffles. Her veil was a chiffon mantilla edged with wide lace with a crown of rosebuds and baby's breath.

She wore a diamond pendant necklace loaned by her grandmother, Faye McClure. Her cascading bouquet was of silk gardenias, roses and dogwood with lily of the valley and ivy, to be planted to grow with the marriage.

Jan Worledge attended as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Elizabeth Mangle and Irene Boire. They wore ivory and pink crepe dresses and carried silk floral bouquets.

David Garland attended his friend as best man. The ushers were Tim McClure, brother of the bride, David Herrick and Andrew Jensen.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at Strider Hall. After a wedding trip to Virginia, the couple will reside in Morgantown where the bridegroom is studying Medical Technology and the bride is employed at the University Medical Center.

Mr. and David E. McClure of Waynesburg are the parents of the bride. The father of the groom is Richard C. Merriken of Reistertown, Md.

Teresa Mae Boster And Michael N. Simms Wed

Teresa Mae Boster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben R. Boster of Star Route, Holbrook, and Michael Neal Simms of Rogersville were married Saturday, May 1, 1982, in Bethlehem Baptist Church, Ruff Creek. Mr. and Mrs. H. Richard Simms of Aleppo are the bridegroom's parents.

The double ring ceremony was performed at 5 p.m. by the Rev. Ronald Evans. Kim Preston, organist, and Ann Maher, soloist, provided nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a gown of white chiffonette over taffeta featuring an off-the-shoulder ruffle edged in lace and pale blue ribbon. The gathered skirt was bordered at the hemline with a ruffled flounce edged with lace and ribbon, extending into a chapel train. She wore a matching picture hat with turned-up brim and enhanced with illusion, and the bride carried an arrangement of daisies and rosebuds.

Donna Zinn of Carmichaels was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Donna Pryor of Washington and Patty Farabee of Canonsburg. The attendants wore blue gowns.

Rachel Briercheck was flower girl and Andy Gillogly, nephew of the bride was the ring bearer.

Serving as best man was

MRS. MICHAEL SIMMS

Dale Zinn, Carmichaels. Ushers were Steve Lemley of Oak Forest and Douglas Podany, Washington.

A reception for 75 guests was held in the church basement following the ceremony. Barbara Carasella, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

The new Mrs. Simms is a clerical aid at West Greene High School. Her husband, a graduate of Waynesburg College, works in the accounting department of Bethlehem Mines. They are both 1974 graduates of West Greene High School.

The newlyweds are residing on Star Route, Holbrook.

Jacobs-Hill Wedding In Cambridge, Ohio

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio - Joyce Susanne Jacobs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Jacobs of 1251 North 12th Street, Cambridge, former Waynesburg resident, became the bride of Jeffrey Meade Hill on April 17, 1982, in the Ninth Street United Methodist Church. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Hill Jr. of 511 North Fifth Street, Cambridge.

The Rev. Doran Garey officiated at the 4:30 p.m. double-ring ceremony. Wedding music was played by Margaret Syme, organist. The vocalist was Mary Frances Ward.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore an old-fashion style gown, designed with lace overlay on the bodice, a Victorian neckline of imported Venise lace, and bishop sleeves of gerogette chiffon with point d'esprit and Wedgewood laces on the cuffs. Tiers of lace flowed to the hooped skirt and extended to a chapel train.

Her crown of mushroom pleated chiffon, trimmed with pearls and mother of pearl sequins, worn previously by her mother for her own marriage and re-done by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Milton B.

Simpson of Los Lunas, N.M., held her veil of imported illusion, edged with lace and featuring a blusher.

Her flowers were white sweetheart roses, pink and lavender daisies and lavender tiger lilies, carried atop a large white lace fan. Bridal traditions included a gold coin in her shoe which her mother also had used and a penny given by the bridegroom's mother.

Patricia Diehl attended as maid of honor and wore a gown of pink chiffon over taffeta. The bridesmaids were Amy Hill, Patricia Hitzel, Sue Ellen Jefferis and Vicki Driggs. Their gowns were lavender. Junior bridesmaids Rita Hill and May Jacobs wore lavender lace gown and the flower girl, Shannon Whyte, wore pink lace. Jeffrey Brammer attended as best man.

The bride is a 1978 graduate of Cambridge High School and attended Miami and Ohio universities. She was employed with Cambridge Savings and Loan Association.

Her husband graduated in 1976 from Cambridge High School and Muskingum Area Joint Vocational School. He is a cabinetmaker with Grove City Cabinet Co.

CONSTANT COMPANIONS

"Those three are always together," remarked Lisa's mother. She was referring to her little daughter, who is seldom seen without her beloved collie and her well-worn rag doll. They are constant companions.

"Lisa is very sensitive about friends," her mother continued. "And this week she came home from Sunday School with a very important lesson. Her teacher told her about God's love and how He never leaves us. Lisa came skipping into the house and announced, 'Now I have three good friends and the best one of all is Jesus.'"

Little Lisa had indeed learned a wonderful truth. All of us need to discover it for our own lives. For every life needs the companionship of God. Let your church bring this hope and promise to you.

Carmichaels Lions Club Holds Annual Man-Of-The-Year Dinner

By THELMA CALLAGHAN
Staff Writer

CARMICHAELS — "What Small Town America Is All About" could have been the theme for the 19th annual Carmichaels Man-of-the-Year dinner Friday night in the Greene Valley Reformed Presbyterian Church.

Man-of-the-Year for 1981, Carl "Jum" Allison, was praised by life-long friend Stephen McCann as exemplifying life in a small town by his diligent work, providing something for community and fellow man, and setting a fine example for the youth.

He said Allison is a typical example of people in small town America. McCann noted that Allison realized a youthful dream when he became owner and operator of the service station at the corner of Market and Morgantown streets in Carmichaels, and in the process became an integral part of the community.

Carmichaels Lions Club sponsored the dinner and club president William Mundell presented the plaque to Allison in appreciation and honor for his extensive and meritorious service to the community and his outstanding leadership and ability.

Allison responded by thanking the people of the entire area for everything good that has happened to him during his lifetime.

Special music by vocalist Howard Volberg provided a humorous note to the program when he parodied popular songs to include incidents in Allison's life.

speaker main speaker Stephen McCann, and 13 of the previous Man-of-the-Year recipients. Guests in addition to Allison's family included U.S. Rep. and Mrs. Austin J. Murphy, State Rep. H. William DeWeese and various local and county officials.

Dinner chairman was Richard Forsyth who was aided by past club presidents. Invocation was asked by the Rev. Harold O. Kelley. Dinner was prepared and served to the 135 people attending by the Women's Association of the church.

Allison is well-known for his many years of varied contributions to the community.

He has been a member of the Carmichaels-Cumberland Township Volunteer Fire Co. for 35 years and served as fire chief for many years. He has been actively involved with the Greene County Fire School and firemen's association on the county, district and state levels.

He is a member of the Carmichaels Chamber of Commerce, director on the board of Greene County Industrial Development Corp., aided in the operation of the annual State Bituminous Coal Show in Carmichaels for 28 years, and supports all community and county activities from Cub Scouts to senior citizens.

Allison is proud of a Community Citizen award he received in 1979 from Carmichaels Grange 1389.

He is the son of Mrs. Isabel Allison, of Carmichaels, and the late P.W. Allison. His wife is the former Wilma Blaker. They are the parents of a daughter, Lisa, a junior at Carmichaels Area High School, and a son, Todd, a freshman at California State College.

Also attending the dinner were Allison's sister, Mrs. Edna McCann, of Alexandria, Va., and her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark and children of Fairfax, Va.

Emergency Plan Presented

WAYNESBURG — If everything goes according to plan, by this fall Greene County residents will have one telephone number to call for all emergency services — but it will be 1911 rather than the traditional 911.

Michael Mulholland, a member of the Greene County 911 Committee, presented a plan to the county commissioners Thursday which calls for installation of the new system as part of the county police communications system now functioning at state police headquarters in Waynesburg.

It will enable residents of the county, regardless of where they live, to obtain fire, police, ambulance and other emergency services by calling the one universal number rather than searching through the many numbers now listed for various parts of the county. (There is, for example, a total of 76 numbers currently listed for the county's 15 fire companies.)

According to the committee's calculations, the new system can be set in place for $5,235 and will require no additional staffing since it would be manned on a 24-hour basis by the five people who now work as police communications officers. Key to availability of the system is the new computer-driven equipment being installed by the Mid-Penn Telephone Corp. to modernize the South Penn District's central office in Waynesburg.

Gordon Curry, South Penn District manager, said the modernization program is scheduled for completion by Oct. 16. The 1911 system, if in place by that time, could go on line immediately.

The "1" in front of 911 will be necessary because the telephone company estimates it will require from 10 to 15 years to update its outlying exchanges to permit straight 911 calls from all parts of the county. The "1," in essence, represents a toll call which the telephone company will absorb.

"There are some places in the county where 911 could be used, but to avoid confusion we are going with 1911 as the single, universal number and plan to conduct a campaign to acquaint residents with the idea of using it," Mulholland said.

The new system would be tied into the radio network now maintained by fire companies at the Waynesburg fire hall for dispatching of ambulances and fire trucks. It will also provide backup for the fire company system and could, if the fire companies so desired, eventually replace it.

Of immediate benefit to the fire companies is a potential annual savings to them of $5,910 in telephone line costs. It would also give state police a monthly cost savings of $86, which could be designated as an "in kind" service in lieu of rent.

The proposal laid before the commissioners represents more than three years of work by the Greene County 911

Committee, which was established by the commissioners following passage of state legislation which required every county in Pennsylvania to prepare an emergency telephone number plan.

At that time, the state anticipated that it would absorb the cost of installing a statewide network, but it never materialized because of the cost involved.

"The plan we proposed at that time would have been much more expensive because of state requirements," Mulholland explained. "This new proposal is an adaptation of that plan but without any of the frills it would have required. Now that the state is no longer involved we have come up with a much less elaborate plan which will work just as well."

future. In large measure these difficulties stem from recent history. Originally liberal arts college were designed to achieve excellence, both intellectual and moral. Over the last 30 years, this purpose has experienced severe strains. One of these has been the tremendous growth in higher education.

"Added to the strain of coping with such growth has been the adoption of a popular philosophy that education is a means of greater productivity," she said, "and a greater guarantee that the graduate will have a larger share of the gross national product. In the 1960s education began to be seen as the principal means for escape from poverty. It was then that large amounts of federal funds began to be allocated.

"The consequences of the blurring of the senses of mission for higher education — that is, educating for excellence, both intellectual and moral — is an erosion of liberal arts ideals and academic competence as valued ends along with the decline of moral concern and development," Mrs. Pardee told the commencement audience.

FmHA Loan Is Granted

DILLINER — Financial arrangements for a $1.8 million expansion of the East Dunkard Water Association facilities were completed with the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) Thursday at the association office in Dilliner.

The association obtained a five percent, 38-year mortgage loan for $1.1 million from the FmHA, a $214,000 grant from the FmHA, a $510,000 grant from the Appalachia Regional Commission and $10,000 from its own treasury.

The project will quadruple the capacity of the water plant along Route 88 near Dilliner and will expand service to the areas of Frosty Run and Meadow Run. Another five mile of water lines, from four inch to ten inch, will be added to the 59 mile of lines already owned by the association.

Central Greene's Tentative Budget Calls For A 10-Mill Tax Increase

By CHRISTIE MOLZON
Staff Writer

MOUNT MORRIS — A tentative 1982-83 budget calling for a real estate tax increase of ten mills was approved by the Central Greene School Board at its meeting Tuesday night.

The board also approved a $88,800 low bid for stadium lighting at the high school football field and hired a new head varsity football coach. (See related stories on Page D-1)

The tentative budget of $8,209,615 calls for a real estate tax of 63 mills, a 7.13 percent increase over last year's budget. It was approved by a 6-2 vote with board member Delmont Blue absent from the meeting.

The tentative budget provides no money for food service expenditures since the board previously decided to withdraw from the National School Lunch Program at the start of this school year. Meeting in executive session, the board denied the grievance filed by the Central Greene School Service Personnel Association over the pending layoffs of food service employees. The association can either accept the board's decision or submit to binding arbitration by a state arbitrator.

Although Thomas Vent was hired as new head varsity football coach, it was his appointment as health and physical education instructor that led to heated discussion. Lyla Ayersman, who stated she had no objection to Vent being hired as a football coach but was against the salary scale he was hired under, questioned how the board could go against a policy on the hiring of a new employee.

Vent, who replaces Elizabeth Krutko as the health instructor at the Margaret Bell Miller Middle School, was hired at the sixth salary level.

"Is it just because we want this man as a football coach that we will bend the rules a little bit?" Mrs. Ayersman asked.

In response, members of the board's athletic committee said that the six years of credit given Vent accounted for two years he taught school and four years for his work in an administrative capacity.

Mrs. Ayersman also questioned hiring Vent as a temporary professional employee and not as a substitute teacher since Mrs. Krutko was granted a year's sabbatical leave. "If Mrs. Krutko comes back next year, will we have another health and physical education teacher floating around the district?" she asked. "That is a distinct possibility." Superintendent Ronald Ferrari said.

At the start of the meeting, Kelce Mosley questioned each board member if he or she favored a freeze on administrative salaries. Only board member Furman Wade said he would vote against an increase for administrators.

The district's share of the Greene County Vocational-Technical School operating budget for $234,618 and rental payment of $69,800 were approved.

The board also approved a list of prospective graduating students from Waynesburg Central High School. Graduation is set for Friday, May 28.

Concerning personnel, the board acted on the following recommendations:

- Granted a one-year sabbatical leave for Arlene Courtney, a second grade teacher at East Franklin and Elizabeth Krutko, health instructor at Margaret Bell Miller. Also granted a one-year maternity-sick leave for Barbara Hartlaub.

- Accepted the resignations of Frank Vucic as assistant band director; Melinda Little as dental hygienist; Nellie Bleakney as janitress at the high school; and Robert Keller as custodian at Margaret Bell Miller.

- Approved Becky Lemley as a substitute secretary at Perry school and the transfer of Betty Tewell to the high school as janitress. Robert Kiger was offered a custodial position at Margaret Bell Miller. Curtis Griffin was offered the physical education/health position at the high school after serving the same post in the elementary schools.

- Offered summer employment to Judy Henderson, Tim Logan, Carole Kniesley and Ron Kindervater on the paint crew and Scott Rigenbach, John Inghram, Eric DeNicola and Dan McCollum on the maintenance crew.

- Tenure was granted to Jackie Marisa, Diane Closser, Curtis Griffin, Jackie Burns and Carol Dinich after completing two years of satisfactory service in the district.

Action taken on supply bids were as follows:

- Physical education supplies and equipment bids totaling $8,384 were accepted from 11 companies; music supplies and equipment costing $18,182 were accepted from 14 firms; supplies and equipment for the home economics department costing $4,208 were purchased; science supplies and equipment for $10,379 were purchased; audiovisual equipment costing $15,149 was purchased; computer science/math supplies costing $4,138 were purchased; and $1,936 worth of medical supplies were ordered.

The board also:

- Approved the extension of a lease agreement with the Wayne Township Community Association for the use of the Brave school building.
- Approved the addition of Beatrice Hook and Robert Mihalik as substitute teachers in the elementary schools.
- Approved a new, three year contract with Central Tax Bureau as tax collector at a rate of 3 percent. Because of the longer contract, the tax bureau reduced its commission from 4 percent.
- Approved First National Bank of Carmichaels, First National Bank of Washington and Gallatin National Bank as school depositories. First National of Carmichaels was designated district treasurer.
- Approved an agreement with the Youth Development Center for use of the high school pool for sixteen sessions at a cost of $1,200.

Proposed School Budget Includes 10 Mill Tax Hike

JEFFERSON — Residents of the Jefferson-Morgan School District will face a 10 mill hike in their real estate taxes if the tentative operating budget for the 1982-83 school year was approved on an 8-1 vote of the board with Paul D'Antonio casting the only negative vote.

The contract of Athletic Director Charles Barno was renewed for the 1982-83 school year.

The proposed budget calls for total expenditures of $3,663,050, up $188,074 over the current year's budget. The increase is about 5.5 percent over the current budget.

The budget is based on an 89-mill real estate tax up 10 mills from the current real estate millage in the district. A breakdown of the tentative budget by major categories and the increase or decrease in the same category in the current budget is as follows:

The board also approved an amendment to the transportation contract which calls for the district to pay any additional amount if gasoline costs to the transportation contractor raises above $1.25 during the contract period.

A food service management contract for the 1982-83 school year was approved with the Custom Management Co. which includes the reduction of the cafeteria staff by one full time and one part-time employee.

The Jefferson-Morgan District share of the Greene County Vocational-Technical School budget for the coming school year was approved in the amount of $105,757. The total vo-tech budget for the year is $622,103 and is shared by the five participating school districts on a district real estate value basis.

Faces From The Past-Do You Recognize Them?

Two Greene County residents who played leading roles in the People's Gas Co. opening of new gas fields in northern Pennsylvania and southern New York were Edward Inghram, director of drilling at extreme left and next to him Ralph Powell, who coordinated the massive record keeping. The picture was taken in the early 1930s.

Fact and Folklore John O'Hara

From the sometime endless talk of some of the army of newcomers to the oil and gas industry one might get the impression that the first gas well in the county had only been drilled the day before.

The truth is that both fuels were discovered in the county not too many years after Drake drilled the first oil well in what is now Oil City. In fact, both oil and gas had been the meal ticket for hundreds of Greene Countians for many generations, at least back to about 1900.

Up and down the streets, in the pubs, restaurants and some private clubs, both fuels are the subject for much of the conversation by local residents and newcomers alike. The latter can be identified by the sheafs of maps tucked away in the briefcases which they carry at all times - crumpled maps of townships not only in the county but in corresponding areas of a half dozen nearby states.

What newcomers are often unaware of are the many significant roles which many countians played in the industry for many generations, particularly on the working front where hundreds of thousands of dollars have been risked on their judgement and skills by long established corporations.

For instance, there was the David Inghram family that moved to Waynesburg about 1918. Mr. Inghram was a drilling contractor in the oil and gas fields and, a few years later while still in his teens, his oldest son, Edward, started working with him.

Similar to many other youths his age, Edward shortly learned the skills from his father which was followed by a "graduate course" in the big drilling boom in Texas at that time.

A hard worker for his Dad as well as anyone else, Ed had a greater capability and confidence in himself than most adults.

When he worked he worked as hard as though his life depended on it but he was no drudge and relaxed with the same enthusiasm and zest as he worked to clean up a "fishing job" when one occurred.

Being a driller on the old time cable type or drilling equipment was no place for a man without a lot of nerve, one who made sure he knew what he was doing but with supreme confidence of what the next move should be when he sometimes got caught "somewhere between a rock and a hard place" as the saying goes.

When Peoples Gas Co., one of the first and largest of the Pennsylvania based corporations made the discovery of the energy rich Oriskany fields in southern New York state - an epoch making event in the natural gas industry - the former Waynesburg man, Ed Inghram, was playing a key roll for Peoples Gas in the development of finding unexplored underground treasurers of this valuable fuel.

Drilling the gas out of its thousands of feet deep recesses and supervising the construction of the pipelines that took the fuel to its ultimate destination all wound down to a Inghram's final decision of what would be done at specific stages. All along the way, from the first well to the final destination, scores of final decisions had to be made at scores of places and situations by Inghram and his associates.

Both he and most of the others, including local men such as Adam Shriver, who was the master pipeline builder and Ralph Powell, who coordinated the millions of items in the "paper work" of such a gigantic achievement have memories of their pipeline days which are still enjoyed by those who have followed in their steps.

A heritage, as it were, of dedication to the jobs at which they toiled so faithfully and efficiently. Their achievements can best be described as "a hard act to follow" - the highest praise of the show business world from one performer to another.

Inghram and his wife, the former Eliza Alley, also of Waynesburg, now live in Florida and are enjoying the pleasures of a well deserved retirement and pleasant memories they experienced during an earlier boom time in the oil and gas drilling industry of Greene County, Pa.

Perry Township Is Trailblazer

When the Perry Township supervisors accepted a check for $125,000 from the state Department of Transportation for assuming responsibility for maintenance of a three-mile section of Little Shannon Road, they became the first Greene County municipality to take advantage of the state's new "road turnback" program.

Through it, PennDOT hopes to eventually unburden itself of several thousand miles of the state's lowest class of roads-low traffic rural roads which are at the bottom of the list when it comes to state maintenance- and which show it.

The fact that PennDOT is having a difficult time selling the controversial program probably accounts for the fact that the $125,000 check was presented to Perry Township at the annual convention of the Greene County Association of Township Officials.

The township will use the money to gradually improve the road. Also, the additional three miles will increase the amount of state gasoline tax funds the township receives each year to assist with road maintenance.

There were special factors which persuaded Perry Township to take part. The state road had deteriorated badly and property owners had been urging the township to take it over. In addition, the township maintenance "barn" is located on the highway.

Others are fearful the state is attempting to "dump" the roads on them without putting them in good shape or providing sufficient money for the township to do so. Many township officials also feel they should be provided with a special, additional annual allocation for each mile of road they take over.

There are advantages. During the winter months, township snowplows travel the state highways to get their own roads. It would be a simple matter to drop the blade and scrape off snow as they go.

The biggest incentive, however, is that the state is not maintaining the roads properly since they are so low on their priority list because of the limited amount of traffic they carry.

Anything would be an improvement for people who live along the roads and for motorists who use them. That is the best reason for township takeover. They would surely do a better job than the state is doing.

Waynesburg Wine Wins

WAYNESBURG - A wine made from grapes grown in Waynesburg has won honors in an international wine contest, surpassing 300 other wines from several European countries.

George Yurt of Graysville and Farley Toothman of Waynesburg were notified recently that their homemade dry rose wine took third place at the International Amateur Home Wine and Beer Trade Association's contest in Charleston, S.C.

The two men call their prize-winning beverage "Denny's Delight" because it was made from Concord grapes growing on a vine covering the back of Josephine Denny's residence on High Street.

Yurt, who learned how to make wine at a young age from his father, noticed the grapevine while doing yard work at the Denny residence last year. "People think I'm in the lawn care business, but really I'm after their grapes," he joked.

With help from Toothman and Bob Brumgard of New Freeport, the grapes were picked, squeezed, fermented, raked, and then fermented a second time. They started last September and bottled the wine in January.

The grapevine, which Miss Denny said was planted by her mother in 1901, yielded over 180 pounds of grapes. This is not the first time the grapes have been picked - but in other years they were turned into Concord grape jelly.

The recipe that Yurt used calls for six pounds of grapes and over four cups of corn sugar for one gallon of wine. They made 25 gallons of wine, both the dry rose and a sweet variety. Yurt compares the sweet wine to a popular, well-advertised brand that isn't one of his favorites. But the dry wine that won the award, he said, is something special.

What is even more unique about their wine is that it was relatively unaged before it was submitted to the contest. "The judges said it was one of the most superior of the green wines they'd ever judged," Yurt said. "They suggested we send a bottle to next year's competition after it has aged a year."

Another distinguishing feature of the wine is its clarity. While most homemade wines have a cloudy appearance, "Denny's Delight" is clear.

Three hundred bottles of wine were judged at the contest and "Denny's Delight" took honors over wines submitted from France, Germany, England, Spain and Portugal.

Yurt, who hopes to someday make wine as good as his father does, has taken wine making classes from Shirley Martin at Country Wines in Pittsburgh. She took first place in the international contest for her brand of homemade wine.

Although Yurt hopes to win further awards for his wines, he admitted the most important feature of wine making is the enjoyment one gets from working hard on a project with close friends. "Even if the wine had turned out to be garbage, we still would have had that fellowship and the enjoyment of doing it," he said. "That's the most important thing."

Chamber Plans Baseball Trip

WAYNESBURG - The annual trip to Three Rivers Stadium sponsored by the Greater Waynesburg Area Chamber of Commerce has been scheduled for Sunday, July 25, when the Pirates will meet the Atlanta Braves at 1:35 p.m.

Tickets for the game can be purchased at the chamber office, Room 104, County Office Building. The price of $15 per person includes game ticket, bus transportation, a breakfast entree at McDonalds and a Pirate visor which will be distributed at the stadium.

AROUND THE TOWN

By The Staff

Now that the spring primary election is over, everyone will have a bit of spare time to concentrate on commencement at the county high schools and other seasonal activities around town.

The Waynesburg College commencement last Sunday was one of the most pleasant for several years with the sun flooded campus and perfect temperatures for such an outdoor event.

The commencement and baccalaureate speakers were all favorably impressed by the beauty of the campus and the fine Town and Gown relationship between the college and community, which they said was an ideal one of its kind.

It was a special treat for Rev. Herbert Anderson who gave the baccalaureate sermon in the beautiful outdoor setting in front of Miller Hall which is flanked by the town parks - once the town Common where needy families could pasture their cows without cost.

Rev. Anderson, who is pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church in the heart of New York City, said coming to Waynesburg was just like having a trip back to Wooster College in Ohio, where he graduated before attending theological seminary.

From commencement to horse shows in one leap, one of the next big community events is coming up sooner than many realize. It's the annual Waynesburg Horse Show at the Greene County Fairgrounds, four afternoons and evenings, from Friday to Monday, May 28-31. The last day will also be the observance of Memorial Day.

Unknown to the public generally, a group of deeply dedicated volunteers do all of the preparatory work for this non-profit event which has gradually grown to one of the biggest in Pennsylvania and has generated thousands of dollars for various charities and institutions in the county.

Through the dedicated volunteer work of its members, it has continued from the early 1930's while those shows in much larger and more affluent communities but did not have the public spirit to donate their time and their efforts to keep their shows alive.

Speaking of loyalty, how about "Smokey" Stover, a Waynesburg College graduate coming all the way from California to attend commencement ceremonies last weekend despite the heavy demands on his time and energy in operating the business service agency he has built up in California with a branch in Hawaii. And he's still as enthused and proud over Waynesburg College as he was when he was an undergraduate working his way through school and living with the other "bats" in the loft of Miller Hall during the Depression.

A long, familiar figure on Waynesburg's main street, John Burgess, passed from the local scene last week following a long illness. He was in the trucking business for many years and later was a custodian at a local bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Lauer of 281 E. Greene Street, Waynesburg, hosted a dinner at their home on the occasion of their eight-year-old daughter, Joleen, having been a member of the First Communion Class at St. Ann's Catholic Church last Sunday. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Anna Walwro and children, Antoinette and Tom of Colver, Pa.; Mrs. Elmer Lauer of Ebensburg; Julia Glista of Portage; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lauer and family of Lower Burrell; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Knopp and family of Ebensburg; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ardin of Ebensburg; Mr. and Mrs. William Wolford and family of Portage; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Walwro of Colver; Marla Geesley of Bolivar, N.Y.; Theresa Tomasell of portage; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Lauer and family of Ebensburg; Mrs. Olin Hoffman of Ebensburg; Wayne Lambie and sons of Colver; Mrs. Iris Millward and Mrs. Ruth Hamel of Waynesburg.

Mrs. Flora Boudreau of Boston is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Boudreau of Waynesburg R.D.8. They were also dinner guests of Mrs. Ruth Hamel of Waynesburg.

Peccon Takes Democrat State Committee Seat

WAYNESBURG - In the only countywide contest, Gregory F. Peccon of Carmichaels was elected Democratic state committeeman after defeating William A. Fleming of Cumberland Township 2,256-1,720 in Tuesday's primary.

Both parties were to elect two members of the county committee from each precinct but, in many cases, there were no Republican candidates listed. Results of the precinct races were as follows:

ALEPPO Dem: Steve Simms, 44, and Howard Simms, 38; Rep: Howard W. Laur, 25; no other votes.

CARMICHAELS Dem: Paul Connor, 66, and Robert Dobbins, 61; Rep: seven people received one vote each.

CENTER TWP. Dem: Joseph Main, 117, and Burdette Carpenter, 12; Rep: Robert Smith, 44, and Louis Martin, 42.

CLARKSVILLE Dem: Joseph Shulsky, 34, and Dorothy Manfredi, 27; Rep: Annabelle Hackney, 17. There were no other votes.

CUMBERLAND 1 Dem: Betty June Long, 179, and Ruth E. Smith, 103; Rep: Viola Donovan, 43, and Betty June Long, 2 on write-ins.

CUMBERLAND 2 Dem: Ronald L. Hanko, 141, and Gertrude Busti, 137; Rep: no votes cast.

CUMBER-NEMACOLIN Dem: Charles R. Plasko, 154, and Michael Simkovic, 130; Rep: no votes cast.

CUMBERLAND 4 Dem: Andrew Bystry, 167, and Betty Jean Bandish, 156; Rep: Andrew Bystry, 3, and Sarah Ruth and Marcia Biddle, each one on write-ins.

Accident Victim Sues Tractor Firm

WAYNESBURG - A Waynesburg area man who was seriously injured while operating a tractor filed suit in Greene County Court Wednesday claiming the design of a safety device on the vehicle was responsible for the accident.

The lawsuit was filed by Gary L. Corwin of Waynesburg R.D.4 against the Caterpillar Tractor Co. asking for damages "in excess of $10,000."

According to the complaint, Corwin was using a D-6 Caterpillar tractor to pull old pipe from the ground on Sept. 24, 1980, as an employee of Davis Industries, Charleroi R.D.2. The load line became caught behind the cable guard on the tractor, snapping it loose and propelling it into his face and the side of his head.

As a result, it states, he suffered multiple facial fractures which required extensive surgery, leaving him permanently disfigured.

The plaintiff contends that the cable guard was negligently designed in that it permitted the drag line to catch behind it.

HAYDEN BUCKLEY

CALIFORNIA — For now, there is a lull in the fighting. California State College and Waynesburg College, bitter football rivals who have clashed 15 times over the past 17 years, will not meet during the 1982 season due to scheduling difficulties. Both schools have expressed intentions of scheduling the game, which has no bearing on either's post-season fortunes, in 1983. "Waynesburg wants to play Cal State and Cal State wants to play Waynesburg — it's just scheduling difficulty," Vulcans' coach and athletic director Jeff Petrucci said. A Cal State scheduling commitment to Frostburg (Md.) State College — a non-conference opponent — was the major obstacle Petrucci and Hayden Buckley, Waynesburg athletic director and coach, could not overcome.

Coupled with the Vulcans' shifted 1982 Pennsylvania Conference schedule, the Frostburg commitment has left the Yellow Jackets' 1982 schedule two open dates. "Waynesburg is so ideal — the cost factor, the natural rivalry," Petrucci said. "The same people that read the papers about Cal State are going to read the papers about Waynesburg. The same people see those games. "I like to play the local people. We can drive in the morning, play the game and drive back. I don't want to go and stay overnight somewhere — it costs us a couple thousand dollars." The schools have met 18 times, the first in 1921. Since 1965, they have met in every season but 1971 and 1972. "We want things to get back together as soon as possible," Buckley said. "It's just a good ballgame. "Our kids would love to play the game — it keeps the blood circulating. You can rest assured that playing California is a little bit different than playing Grove City as far as emotions are concerned. Last year proved that." Last season, Waynesburg defeated the Vulcans, 7-3, in Waynesburg to improve its series record to 17-1. Cal State's only victory (21-13) was in 1979. "I'm going to get together with Jeff now that his spring drills are over and talk about getting it back," Buckley said. "I can jump around our schedule next year pretty easy for him." Meanwhile, Buckley is attempting to find the Yellow Jackets opponents for Sept. 25 and Oct. 9, dates when Cal State will be on the road playing conference opponents. "It's just that, on our level, schools are very concerned with who they're playing these days," Buckley said. Waynesburg's current eight-game schedule features home games against Glenville (W. Va.) State (Sept. 4); Indiana (Sept. 11); Geneva (Sept. 18); Frostburg (Oct. 16) and Grove City (Oct. 30). The Yellow Jackets are scheduled to travel to Lycoming (Oct. 2), Westminster (Oct. 23) and Salem (Nov. 6). Cal State's 10-game schedule features home dates against Mansfield (Sept. 11); Edinboro (Oct. 2); Lock Haven (Oct. 16); West Virginia Wesleyan (Oct. 30) and Slippery Rock (Nov. 6). The Vulcans will play Shepherd (W. Va.) State (Sept. 11); Indiana (Sept. 25); Clarion (Oct. 9); Shippensburg (Oct. 23) and Frostburg (Nov. 6) on the road. FLASHES: Former Cal State line-backer Bill Seidel, a 1980 graduate, signed a free-agent contract with the Baltimore Colts Friday. Seidel (6-1, 215 pounds), a four-year Vulcan starter, holds the Cal State record for career tackles (607). He is a graduate of Altoona's Bishop Guilfoyle High School.

Costly To Jeter Bayer New Jeff-Morgan Coach

By JOE TUSCANO
O-R Sports Staff
WAYNESBURG — It was a scene that would have sent any coach looking for a bridge from which to jump. And that had to be one of the possibilities running through the mind of Serra Catholic High School's head track coach Gary Czapor as he ran out to the track. Lying on the track was Dwayne Jeter, one of, if not the, fastest athletes in WPIAL track this season, in a lot of pain. Jeter had been running in the finals of the 200-meter dash and, while heading into the second turn, pulled up with what appeared to be a hamstring injury. Jeter crumpled to the ground, arms flailing in agony, as his Serra teammates rushed to his side. After applying an ice pack and having Jeter test it, Czapor looked a little more relieved that the injury may not be serious. Jeter had earlier registered an amazing 10.68 time in the 100, narrowly edging out Mon Valley Catholic's Jon Green (10.98), at the WPIAL Boys Class AA Southern Qualifier at Waynesburg Wednesday. "I was running and it just tightened up," Jeter explained. "It felt like there was a knot in the back of my leg." Czapor said only time and rest will tell how bad the injury is and whether Jeter can run the Double-A finals Wednesday, May 19 at South Park.

While Serra had its share of disappointments, other area track teams fared well at the qualifier with Chartiers-Houston advancing to the finals in six events; Waynesburg in five; McGuffey, 10; Jeff-Morgan, five; Charleroi, four; Mon Valley Catholic, two and Clairfonia and Beth-Center one apiece. Waynesburg had a few surprises, especially in the 400 relay team which finished fourth overall. "That was quite a surprise for us," said Red Raider coach Don Roddy. "We did a lot better than I thought we'd do. Our kids rose to the occasion against some tough competition." Alan Renner (300 hurdles), Bob Arbogast (long jump), John Yorio (high jump), Jay Morris (pole vault) and Bryan Popp (pole vault), along with the 3200 relay team, will move to the finals. "We figured Yorio would qualify in the high jump with our two pole vaulters," Roddy said. "Our biggest surprise had to be Alan Renner in the 300 hurdles. He ran a .43 and it's his best time." Qualifying for Jeff-Morgan were Steve Haring (100 and 200), Lincoln Robinson (400 and 200), Mike Risso (800 and the 1600 relay team. "I'm very pleased with the way things turned out," said Rocket coach Ernie Benedict. "I'm pleased with Haring after he finished third in the 100 in the heat with Jon Green and Jeter."

John Bayer, 29, was named head football coach at Jefferson-Morgan High School during a school board meeting Monday night. Bayer, chosen from more than 20 applicants, replaces Bob Antion, who resigned last November after leading the Rockets to a 5-4-1 WPIAL Class A Tri-County South Conference record. "I applied for the job back in February," Bayer, a 1970 graduate of California High School, said. "I knew it was open, and I just got in contact with (athletic director Charles) Barno. You could say I was interested in the job since it opened. "I thought if I could talk to them and tell them what I wanted to do, I'd have a shot at it." Bayer, who has spent the past four seasons as an assistant coach at Serra Catholic, developed that interest last season after scouting the Rockets. "I went over to scout them and I saw that the program had a lot of support," he said. "I think a lot of interest is important — it's the basic thing you need to win." Bayer is also impressed with the interest shown by prospective players, 53 of whom attended a preliminary meeting last week. "They seem ready to work," he said. "Basically, the desire to win has to be there. If you're not interested, you're not going to win. "But time-wise, we're behind. I'm sure that other schools have begun their off-season programs. We have to get them started with weight programs and putting in offenses and defenses. "I don't know much about the players, but I've been looking at films of them — watching for their weak points and strong points," he said. "I've got to try to match our system to their abilities." Barno, for one, believes Bayer will fit in nicely at Jefferson-Morgan. A 1975 graduate of Edinboro State College, Bayer resides in California with his wife and four children. Bayer will assume a post that in April looked to belong to Carmichaels High School coach Tom McCombs.

Vent Is New Waynesburg Coach
WAYNESBURG — The Central Greene School Board Tuesday night hired Thomas Vent, formerly an assistant coach at Potomac State Junior College in Keyser, W. Va., as Waynesburg Central High School's new football coach. And in related news, after looking into the possibility last year and delaying a decision, the lights will finally be turned on at the Waynesburg High School field. Vent replaces Don Roddy, who led the Red Raiders to a 2-5-2 overall record and a 2-4-1 mark in the WPIAL Class AA Century Conference. Roddy spent five seasons at Waynesburg, where he had an 8-38-2 career record. Vent, a native of Bedford, graduated in 1971 from Frostburg (Md.) State College and has held a variety of coaching positions since graduation. He was an assistant football and head basketball coach at North Garrett County School District near Deep Creek, Md., for three years and also was an assistant basketball coach at Allegany Community College in Maryland. A veteran of the U.S. Army, Vent was also on the Allegany faculty as a health and physical education instructor in addition to holding a position as coach of the women's tennis team. Vent resides in Ridgely, W. Va., where he is director of Mineral County Parks and Recreation. He intends to move to Waynesburg as soon as possible. In other action Tuesday, the board approved an alternate bid of $88,800 submitted by the David W. Jones Co. of Charleroi to equip the high school football field with lights. The board approved the motion, 5-3, with one member absent. The new structures will use General Electric fixtures and Skyline Structures steel poles. These items are different than those specified on the bid proposal, the architect said, but are comparable and will meet the board's requirements. Jones' was the low bid, down from the company's original base bid of $94,484. It marked the second time the board has solicited bids for the job. The high school has been playing its games on Friday afternoon (3:45 p.m.) to avoid a conflict in schedule with Waynesburg College on Saturday afternoons. The addition of lights gives the school the ability to potentially draw bigger crowds for Friday football games as opposed to the afternoon contests.

Winners Of Mother's Day Run

WAYNESBURG — Phil Goldstein and Gwen Kernahan were overall top finishers in the Mother's Day 10 Kilometer Run and two-mile Fun Run staged Sunday by the Greene County Pacers. Sixty runners, 11 women and 49 men, took part in the 10-kilometer event over a 6.2-mile course on Purman Run. Twelve people participated in the Fun Run. Mikettes Claim Section Title

Carmichaels (14-0) clinched the WPIAL Section 15-AA girls softball title Friday with a 13-3 win over German Township. Pitcher Carmella Franco (14-0) allowed the Uhlans (8-6)

Maples Complete Winning Season

The Mapletown High School girls softball team completed its first winning season ever Wednesday by defeating Jefferson-Morgan, 16-11. The victory gives the Maples a 9-7 WPIAL Section 15-AA record and a 9-8 overall mark. Nanette Gresko smashed a single, double and home run and teammate Cindy Spearen chipped in a double to pace Mapletown.

First Ronick Award

Vince Apicella, a junior from New Salem, was the recipient of the first John R. Ronick award, presented before the Waynesburg-Frostburg baseball game at Meadowlark Park. The award, made in memory of former Waynesburg College player John R. Ronick Jr. who died in an auto accident last January, is presented to a junior who has been a member of the team for three years and has a grade point average of at least 2.5. With Apicella are, from left, Coach Bill Hardisty, Mr. and Mrs. John Sedell, grandparents of John Ronick; Mary Ann Miller, coordinator of the award; and Mr. and Mrs. O'Neal Apicella.

Alternative Kindergarten Programs Being Considered

ROGERSVILLE — The West Greene School Board, which is considering the elimination of midday transportation for kindergarten students, has authorized an administrator and board member to take part in a state seminar at which the feasibility of holding kindergarten classes on a full-day, every-other-day basis, will be explored.

"If the state would amend its regulations to permit such a plan, it would give the board another option to consider in looking at the future of our kindergarten program," elementary schools Supervisor William Throckmorton said.

The West Greene District was invited to take part in the seminar, which the Department of Education will hold in Harrisburg Thursday, May 20. At a special meeting Tuesday, the school board authorized Throckmorton and board member Ann Bower to represent it at the session.

Under existing regulations, any school district offering kindergarten students the same 180 days in class as it provides for other students. Each class must be at least two and a half hours long.

As a result, virtually every school district holds its kindergarten classes on a half-day basis, with different groups of students attending the morning and afternoon classes.

The biggest problem, Throckmorton said, "has always centered around getting the boys and girls to and from their classes."

Arrangements can be made to allow those attending morning classes to ride regular buses to their school in the morning. Those in afternoon sessions can return home on the regular buses. The big problem lies in getting students from the morning classes back home at noon, and in getting students to the afternoon classes following lunch.

In many districts, this responsibility is left up to the parents. But the West Greene board several years ago entered into a special midday transportation contract for kindergarten students to relieve parents of this responsibility.

"Our district covers a lot of territory, and many parents just cannot manage to provide rides for their students at noon," Throckmorton said. "Before we provided the noon-time transportation we had 50 students enrolled in kindergarten. Now we have 105."

This year, however, the midday transportation cost the district $55,000. The estimated cost for the 1982-83 school year is $66,000.

"That figures out to just about $600 per student for transportation alone and the board, quite rightly, feels it is an excessive cost," the school administrator said.

The 105 students attend half-day classes taught by two teachers. Both morning and afternoon sessions are held at the Graysville School; a morning session is held at the Aleppo School, and an afternoon session at the Springhill-Freepport School.

Nursing Workshop Slated

WAYNESBURG — "The Nurse as an Educator for Health" is a workshop to be held June 1, 8, 15 and 22 at Waynesburg College.

There is no fee and registration is limited. Deadline for registration is May 25.

For more information, contact to the workshop's sponsoring agencies: the Visiting Nurse Association of Allegheny County, 815 Union Place, Pittsburgh, 15212, or the Health Education Center, Health and Welfare Planning Association, 200 Ross Street, Pittsburgh, 15219.

Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Odel N. Gump of Brave will celebrate their 63rd wedding anniversary on Tuesday, May 18. Mr. and Mrs. Gump were married May 18, 1919, in Fairview, W.Va. He retired in 1946 from employment with a natural gas pumping station and in 1965 as maintenance engineer for the Greene County Memorial Hospital. The couple spent most of their married life in Greene County.

'Forward Together' Falls Short

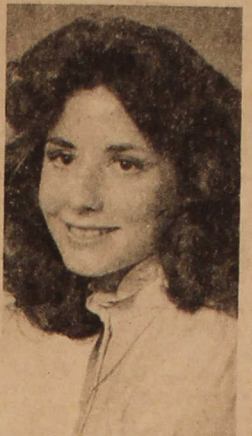

WAYNESBURG — Some 850 alumni of Waynesburg College pledged more than $85,600 in the "Forward Together" phone-a-thon effort lasting 13 days.

Although considered successful, the project fell $14,338 short of the $100,000 goal.

The "Forward Together" phone-a-thon is a special campaign among alumni to raise funds for the proposed recreation center at the college.

During the 13 nights of calling, 115 alumni, trustees, faculty and staff worked as callers, with alumni coming from across the tri-state area. For the phone-a-thon, a special campaign center was set up in Philo Hall, the classroom in Miller Hall used by the late Professor Arthur Mintier.

Dr. Victor Carlson, director of alumni affairs and coordinator of the phone-a-thon effort, is optimistic that the $100,000 goal will be met. He said, "There were many alumni who said they were planning to make a gift but had not made a decision about the specific amount. And, there were many alumni who have not yet been contacted."

AUTUMN WEDDING — Mr. and Mrs. Russell C. Boyd of New Castle announce the engagement of their daughter, Janice L. Boyd of Pittsburgh, to John S. Minor Jr. of Willowick, Ohio. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Minor of Rices Landing R.D. 1. She is a graduate of Neshannock High School and earned a bachelor of science degree in nursing at Indiana University of Pennsylvania, graduating magna cum laude. She is employed as a registered nurse in the intensive care unit of Presbyterian University Hospital. Her fiancé earned a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering and business administration at Carnegie-Mellon University. He is employed as a sales engineer by Scientific Atlanta in Cleveland. The couple plan to be married in the fall.

ENGAGED — Mrs. Sara L. McNeely of Knox and Allen B. McNeely of Waynesburg announce the engagement of their daughter, Toni Lea, to Steven Clark Lemley of Oak Forest. She is a 1978 graduate of Waynesburg Central High School and a 1979 graduate of the Greene County Vo-Tech Licensed Practical Nursing School. She is employed at the Curry Memorial Home as a licensed practical nurse. Her fiancé, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Lemley of Oak Forest, is a 1974 graduate of West Greene High School. He is employed by Midtown Auto Sales Inc. as a mechanic.

ENGAGED — Mrs. Jeanne Schaefer of 50 Imperial Gardens, Wappingers Falls, N.Y., announced the engagement of her daughter, Eileen Schaefer, to Roger L. Milliken, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Milliken of 135 West Lincoln Street, Waynesburg. Miss Schaefer is a graduate of Waynesburg College and is now residing in Pittsburgh. The wedding will take place Sept. 4, 1982.

The Electric Consumer's Corner
FEATURING THE OAMS FAMILY

ELECTRICITY CAN KILL OR MAIM WHEN NOT TREATED WITH CARE AND RESPECT.

JOE, WATCH OUT FOR THAT ELECTRIC LINE! WANT TO GET ELECTROCUTED?

WHAT ARE YOU DOING NOW? IF THAT ANTENNA FALLS INTO THOSE WIRES, YOU COULD MAKE ME AN INSTANT WIDOW!

LOOK AT THAT LADDER! IF IT TOUCHES THOSE WIRES WHILE YOU'RE TOUCHING IT, YOU COULD GET THE SHOCK OF YOUR LIFE. DO SOMETHING SAFE! DIG UP THE FLOWER BED.

THAT MAN'S SO CARELESS. I DON'T KNOW HOW HE EVER SURVIVED BEFORE I MARRIED HIM. WELL, HE SHOULDN'T GET INTO ANY TROUBLE NOW.

The booklet, "Electrical Safety Outdoors," can help protect you and your family. For a free copy, contact the West Penn Power office serving your location. Or write to West Penn Power, c/o The Electric Consumer's Corner, Cabin Hill, Greensburg, PA 15601.
