State Offers County $29,824 Block Grant

WAYNESBURG — Greene County has been offered a supplemental adult services block grant of $29,824 to provide legal services for the poor during the coming fiscal year.

The funds would be provided by the Department of Public Welfare to fill a void created by the elimination of the recently-passed state budget of specific state funding for legal services, which will result in closing of existing legal aid offices.

Welfare Secretary Helen B. O'Bannon said that monies originally earmarked for this service in the governor's budget were added to the adult block grants which counties will receive to pick up services now being provided by the state.

In this case, however, the county has an option. If it does not choose to provide the service, the Department of Public Welfare will contract directly for legal services in the county. If the county elects to accept the grant, it must submit a plan for a program by June 28.

The proposal was submitted to the Greene County commissioners at their meeting Thursday. They deferred action on it until they determine if it would be feasible to set up a county legal aid program.

Under the state mandate, the county would have to provide a minimum of 373 hours of free legal services per year to low-income adults 18 years of age or over.

A representative of the new Governor's Veterans' Outreach and Assistance Centers program met with the commissioners to request office space for establishing the program in Greene County.

John Standard, who would be in charge of the program in Greene and Washington counties, said that his function would be to serve as a field representative for the Greene County Veterans' Bureau office in an effort to make sure that veterans in outlying areas of the county are receiving all of the benefits to which they are entitled.

County Commissioner L.R. Santore asked that the commissioners defer action until he can receive assurance that the new state program is not the first step toward eliminating county veterans' aid offices.

"Veterans in Greene County are being well served through our county office, and before I would approve this program I want to be sure that it will continue to be authorized in the county code," he said.

Standard denied that there is any move to eliminate the county offices.

"Many of the county directors are locked into their offices and don't have a chance to get out in the field," he said. "It will be our function to fill this void and to assist the county directors in any way we can."

Jeffrey W. Hughes, a Waynesburg insurance agent, met with the commissioners to present a proposal for furnishing the life insurance coverage which the county provides to its 250 employees. Department heads have $5,000 of coverage and other employees have $4,000 coverage.

Under Hughes' proposal, the Trans-America Occidental Life Insurance Co. would provide the coverage at 49 cents per month per thousand dollars, which would require a monthly premium of $542. This would be less than the county is now paying under a policy with the Aetna Life Insurance Co., which is charging 77 cents per month per thousand.

No action was taken on the proposal.

A resolution was adopted officially naming Diane Piatt as acting director of the Curry Memorial Home. The Graysville resident, who is director of nursing services at the nursing home, has been serving unofficially in that capacity since the resignation several months ago of director Thomas H. Boyd.

At Santore's request, a meeting of the county salary board was scheduled for next Thursday to establish a new salary range for the nursing home director as a move toward speeding up the selection of a replacement for Boyd.

"We've been fooling with this thing for months and I want to get something going," he said.

It was brought out that the commissioners recently interviewed nine candidates for the position, but have not made any decision about hiring anyone.

Commissioner Richard Cowan said he felt the meeting to set a salary should be held after the board has reached agreement on a candidate, not before, but Santore said he feels the salary board action would be one way of getting the matter off dead center.

Authority Loses Money Because Developer Ignores Agreement

WAYNESBURG — The Franklin Township Sewer Authority learned this week that owners of a housing complex are continuing to ignore an agreement signed between the authority, the developer, Waynesburg Borough and Franklin Township.

Failure by the owners of Mountainview Gardens to use the Franklin Township sewer system, as called for in the contract, has cost the authority thousands of dollars in revenue.

The four-party agreement, signed in May 1981, called for the developers to construct a "cross-over" line from the borough sewer to the township sewer. There has been no move by the developer to construct the cross-over.

The change was made necessary when the state Department of Environmental Resources informed Waynesburg Borough that no additional sewer hook-ups would be allowed because the sewage treatment plant was over capacity.

Although the housing complex is in the township, the sewer connection was made into the borough lines. The DER approved a plan whereby the volume of sewage created by the housing complex would be diverted from the borough line into the township line for treatment at the new township treatment plant.

The cross over could be constructed at a point along Ten Mile Creek where the two lines are within a few feet of each other.

The original sewage plan by the complex was denied by the DER on Dec. 27, 1979, but the alternate plan using the cross-over was approved. However, the developers have not submitted the new plan to the DER for review.

DER officials said the alternate plan was the basis for the agency not bringing legal action against the developer. There was no indication by the DER as to when legal action, if any, would be instituted.

Only Criminal Case This Term

McGilton Trial Is Non-Jury

WAYNESBURG — The trial of Paul McGilton of Waynesburg on charges of aggravated assault and recklessly endangering will apparently be the only criminal case heard during this term of Greene County Court — and it will be tried without a jury.

"With the number of cases listed by the district attorney for pleas, it appears that no cases will be tried," the panel of criminal court jurors was told by Judge Glenn Toothman upon reporting to court Tuesday.

The jurist added, however, that he was not completely ruling out the possibility that something might happen which would mean that a trial would have to be held, and for that reason he asked the jurors to report to court on June 10.

The McGilton trial has been scheduled for Monday, June 7. At the request of defense attorney John Stets, it will be held before Judge Toothman as a non-jury trial.

Charges against the Waynesburg resident stem from the Jan. 17 fatal shooting of McGilton's wife, Celia McGilton, by Waynesburg Borough Patrolman Michael J. Fuller. The shooting occurred when Fuller and Patrolman Timothy Stephenson went to the McGilton apartment in response to a complaint from a neighbor that McGilton had threatened another man with a gun.

The charges are based on the contention that McGilton came to the door with a shotgun in his hand, creating a situation in which Fuller thought McGilton was about to shoot his fellow officer. Fuller fired two shots from his service revolver. One of the bullets went through a wall and struck Mrs. McGilton.

Stets said that his request for a non-jury trial was based on two factors — his continuing belief that it would be impossible to select an impartial jury to hear the case and his contention that mere possession of a gun cannot be the basis of a charge of aggravated assault or recklessly endangering.

"Our defense will be based primarily on questions of law requiring judicial decisions," he said.

In another development concerning the case, Judge Toothman Tuesday signed an order designed to assure the appearance of George Sturgeon as a commonwealth witness.

Sturgeon, who at the time of the shooting was a neighbor of McGilton's, is the man he was alleged to have threatened with a gun prior to the fatal shooting. District Attorney Charles Morris told the court that Sturgeon is now residing at Fairmont, W. Va., having left the state to avoid testifying.

The order empowers West Virginia authorities to turn Sturgeon over to Pennsylvania authorities as a material witness.

Students Travel To Mexico

JEFFERSON — Eight members of the Spanish Club at Jefferson-Morgan High School will leave today for a nine-day tour of Mexico.

They will be accompanied by Miss Carol Janine Skirchak, of Scenery Hill, club sponsor and Spanish teacher at the school. Also to make the trip will be Lindsay Barchiesi and Wanda Jones, both of Waynesburg.

The tour of Mexico will include visits to the Shrine of Guadalupe, the Indian market of Toluca, the Sun and Moon Pyramids and sailing on the waters of the Xochimilco Gardens. The students and other members of the group will travel to Cuernavaca, Taxco and Acapulco.

Students making the trip are Anna Barchiesi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Santino Barchiesi of Waynesburg; Rebecca Deter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Deter of Jefferson; Frank Gilmer, son of Mrs. Antoinette Gilmer of Jefferson; Malvine Jacobs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Jacobs of Waynesburg; Lisa Magda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Magda of Jefferson; Deborah Novak, daughter of William Novak of Rices Landing; Bonita Stetler, daughter of Mrs. Billie Stetler of Rices Landing; and Amy Vucic, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vucic also of Rices Landing.

County Man Sentenced

WAYNESBURG — A Waynesburg area man who was charged with nine burglaries over a two-month period was sentenced in Greene County Court Tuesday to serve from one to three years in the county jail.

Judge Glenn Toothman imposed the sentence on Ronald E. Snyder, 20, Waynesburg R.D.6, in accord with a plea bargain accepted by District Attorney Charles Morris.

He and defense attorney John Stets pointed out that while a large number of burglaries were involved, they occurred over a relatively brief period of time with Snyder having no record of any prior offenses. "I would estimate that he got less than $100 total from all of the burglaries," Stets said.

He also pointed out that after being released on bail, Snyder returned to high school and completed the requirements for graduation this spring.

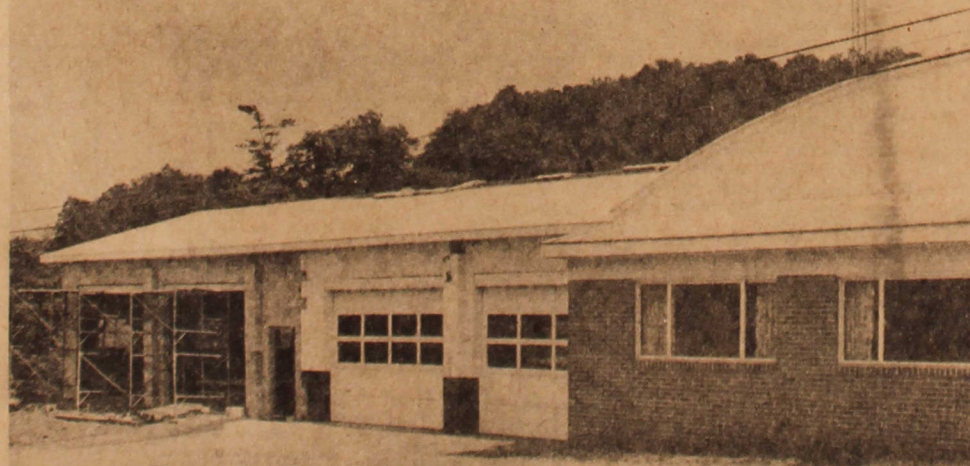

Because of his age and possibilities of rehabilitation, Morris recommended that the court permit him to serve the sentence in the county jail rather than in a state penitentiary.

Fredericktown Man Injured

A former Waynesburg College football player, Barry Stotka, of Fredericktown, was listed in guarded condition in Washington Hospital Wednesday night with a serious leg injury received in a farm accident.

It was reported he caught his leg in a power takeoff on a tractor while working on a farm near Deemston-Borough.

His mother, Mrs. Vaughn Brunazzi, is a secretary at Waynesburg College. Barry was a defensive halfback on the 1981 Waynesburg College team.

Carmichaels Woman Dies After Accident

A 36-year-old Carmichaels woman died last night from injuries suffered in a three-vehicle crash at Mapletown Crossroads Tuesday afternoon.

Geraldine Wozny, of 305 East Greene Street, died in University Hospital, Morgantown, where she was taken after her car hit a coal truck in Monongahela Township. Dr. James L. Frost, county medical examiner for Monongalia County in West Virginia, pronounced Mrs. Wozny dead at 8:25 p.m. from head and facial injuries. The accident occurred at 2:30 p.m.

Mrs. Wozny's nine-year-old daughter,

Jonella, who was riding in the car at the time of the accident, was released from the hospital. State police said the child received a cut on her head.

State police said Mrs. Wozny was stopped at the intersection of TR-451 at the Mapletown Crossroads and, as she attempted to pull onto PA 88, she struck the right side of a coal truck being driven north on PA 88 by Dwane D. Franzaglio of Monongahela R.D.2.

Troopers said the Wozny vehicle then spun around and struck a vehicle operated by Cheryl R. Palone of 19 Biddle Acres, Carmichaels. Police reported no other injuries.

J&L Unloads Coal Property

Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. has sold three of its coal properties, including a mine in Washington County and a preparation plant in Fayette County, it was learned Friday.

The sale to A.T. Massey Coal Co. Inc., included the Vesta No. 5 mine about a mile southeast of Fredericktown, and the preparation plant at LaBelle across the Monongahela River.

Massey also purchased the Dehue mine and preparation plant in Logan County, West Virginia.

The actual purchase of Vesta No. 5 and the LaBelle preparation plant was made by newly formed Massey subsidiaries, Vesta Mining Co. and LaBelle Processing Co., respectively. The two facilities will become part of Massey's Pennsylvania Mine Services Coal Group.

George L. Pizoli, who managed the properties for J&L, has been named president of the subsidiaries.

Wynston D. Holbrook, vice president of sales for Massey, said coal from both mines will match the requirements of Massey's domestic and export customers in both the steam and metallurgical markets.

The Dehue mine will produce high-quality metallurgical coal, while the area properties will be readapted to provide high-quality steam coal from what has been a traditional source of metallurgical coal only.

Mask of the Soul

The face is the mask of the soul. It can convey a peace we do not feel, a strength we do not possess, a courage we hope for but haven't gained. With apparent concern for the dignity and privacy of the individual God permits us to shield our inner self from the prodding eyes of others.

But a calm face doesn't still the soul's turmoil or satisfy its need. Spiritual peace, spiritual nourishment must come from God.

The millions who come to church each week to worship do not look any different from their neighbors. But they are seeking earnestly to fill an emptiness which we all feel, yet hide from one another.

Why not be one of them... one of us who worship regularly each week?

Closing Local DER Office Cost-Cutting Measure

WAYNESBURG — The Department of Environmental Resources (DER) closed its office in Waynesburg this week, claiming it was a cost-saving measure, yet the state agency has never paid a cent of rent since moving to its present location in 1976.

Back in 1976, the DER representative shared office space with the state nurses in the Democrat Messenger Building on Church Street.

The nurses were moved to new quarters in the Fort Jackson Building but no arrangements were made for the DER employee to move also.

It so happened the Bureau of Forestry, a division of the DER, had an office at 195 East High Street. Donald E. Patterson owned the building at 195 East High Street and had a contract to provide an office and one parking space for the state forester.

When Patterson came to work one morning, the DER representative Ed Maher and his desk were on the sidewalk waiting to ask permission to move in with the state forester.

Patterson approved and began negotiations with the state to sign a new lease agreement. State officials told Patterson the forestry office was just a part of the DER organization and could see no reason to have a new lease. Patterson said at times there were three DER employees working out of the office and occupying spaces in the parking lot. "I never received a cent of rent from 1976 until I sold the building last year," Patterson said this week.

Apparently the state forester will retain an office here.

Closing of the Waynesburg office by the DER is part of a reorganization aimed at saving money and efficiently operate DER services according to Terry Fabian, the regional director of DER.

Offices will also be closed in Greensburg, Indiana, McMurray and Somerset. Services for Greene County will be handled out of the Uniontown office.

Most of the local services consist of checking eating and drinking establishments and checking public water supply systems.

The Greene County Commissioners, on hearing the local DER office would be closed, protested the move, saying Greene County services would most likely suffer because of the move. DER officials answered the commissioners and again said the quality of service to Greene County would not be affected.

Intermediate Unit I Approves Budgets

CALIFORNIA — The Intermediate Unit I board of directors has approved the use of $33,145 from the Western Area Vocational-Technical School's handicapped allocations to continue special educational program for handicapped secondary students.

A budget of $541,000 prepared for the regular program of the Youth Development Center in Waynesburg will be filed with the Department of Education. Additionally, a vocational education proposal for $34,000 and a budget for $69,788 in the ESEA Title I program was submitted. The amounts of these budgets are determined by the state Education Department with no local funds involved.

The YDC conducts an academic and recreation summer program for adjudicated students. This year's program will be held in the mornings in three 10-day sessions between June 14 and Aug. 13. Academic offerings include remedial reading, remedial math, photography, music, vocational training, ecology and archaeology.

The programs are paid for directly by the Division of Correction through the YDC General Operations Budget, Title I ESEA money and Vocational Educational funds.

Staff members at the YDC are offered employment during the summer months based on their regular assignment and certification.

The Intermediate Unit is also providing an eight-week summer program for 38 students who have been identified as requiring an extended school year beyond 180 days. The students are severely handicapped and staff members selected to work in the program will be familiar with the special needs of these students.

The board will hire college students part-time for the summer at a rate of $3.50 per hour for maintenance and clerical duties. They include Kellie Bakewell, Sydney Coleman, Marcy Gregg, Charlene Hillman, Colette Marchesini, Jean Novak, Kenneth Coffman, Eugene D'Antonio, Chris Gennaula, William Johnson, Gerald Marcinak Jr., Mark Brozik, Joseph Merendino, Michael Pawelec, Joseph McKenna and Bradley Kline. Supervising the program will be Robert Shimshock at a rate of $4.50 per hour.

Resignations were accepted from Karen Waddell, a part-time teacher in the preschool program, and two teacher-aides, Lou Ellen Rankin and Charlene Feniello.

In other business, the board approved the rate adjustment for Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage for 1982-83.

Firms Seek Construction Jobs On Two Major Local Highways

HARRISBURG — Bids were received in Harrisburg Thursday for two major highway improvements in Greene County.

Conn Construction Company of New Castle was the apparent low bidder for a project on LR 30050 and LR 30051 in Clarksville and Morgan and Jefferson townships.

Conn bid $608,819 for the job which will include the rehabilitation of two bridges and resurfacing of 1,500 feet of highway. Bridge rehabilitation includes new decks, approach slabs, steel railings and back walls.

Conn's bid was the lowest of seven submitted to PennDOT. The second lowest bid was submitted by GAL Construction Co. Inc. of Belle Vernon. Their bid was $680,124. The Conn firm is headquartered in New Castle.

A major renovation of Greene Street in Waynesburg, which is also Route 21, was also bid. The project covers a nine-block area from Richhill Street to a point near the Nazarene Church where a present improvement project begins.

Apparent low bidder was Blacktop Paving Co. of Washington with a bid of $462,083. Only three bids were received, including the second lowest from Marsolino Construction Co. of Uniontown, which submitted a bid of $482,824.

The Greene Street project will entail a new surface over 4,307 feet of highway, updating traffic signals, improving drainage and application of plastic pavement markers.

PennDOT officials said all bids will be reviewed and if found satisfactory the contracts will be awarded in four to six weeks.

It would require a three-mill increase in the property tax, boosting it from 47 mills to 50 mills.

There will be no change in other tax levies. They include a $5 per capita tax, a one-half percent earned income tax, and a one-half percent realty transfer tax.

The budget represents an increase of 7.7 percent over the 1981-82 budget.

The budget breakdown, by categories:

Archaeological Survey Important to Railroad

American Indians, at least those in popular lore and in movies, are noted for their reluctance to say much.

Perhaps it is this fabled taciturnity which has influenced the Consolidation Coal Company in its fielding of inquiries about an archaeological survey being conducted in a field adjoining Ten Mile Creek in West Waynesburg.

The dig is being done by professionals under contract with the coal company as part of the preliminary work it must carry out before a coal-hauling railroad can be built across the land. Since the work area is next to Route 21, it naturally aroused a lot of curiosity.

After considerable prodding, the company finally issued a statement that the survey was being made, but declined to give any additional details. And the archaeologist said that his contract prohibited him from making any statement as to what was being found or what his people hoped to find. He did say a complete report would be made public after the job was done.

The site has been known to local amateur archaeologists as a place where arrow heads and other artifacts of the early Woodland Indians could be found, and undoubtedly was the site of some type of pre-historic settlement. But they doubt that any significant find will be made, primarily because the land has been subject to regular flooding for many years.

Both the coal company and the archaeologist expressed concern that premature publicity might result in vandalism at the site, destroying the carefully-planned excavations and resulting in loss of important information. And that information is important to the coal company because the site must be accurately documented and any available artifacts recovered before the ground can be torn up for construction of the railroad.

It's all a part of new regulations which require that possibly important archaeological sites be fully investigated before any public facilities can be built on the land. And in that respect, negative data is just as important as positive information.

Between The Bookends

Marcia McKenna Biddle

"Inside Sports" magazine has an advice column, aimed at those sports fans who have nothing to write to Ann Landers about, but who have more esoteric problems. (Such as prolonged adolescence.) But, unlike Ann Landers, the column makes no pretense of either authenticity or sense.

Titled "The Good Doctor," the column invites letters from "the sportlorn." "Don't be ashamed," says the Good Doctor to the sportlorn. "Help is now available. The Good Doctor knows all, tells some," and tells it strictly for laughs. More or less.

Well, somebody from Glendora, New Jersey supposedly wrote in to ask "What exactly is a fighting gamecock? Why did the University of South Carolina choose such an unusual mascot?" Answer: "Sounds better than chicken."

That is one of the better ones. K.S., also from New Jersey, asked "What's the Mizuno Corporation's latest fabulous invention?" Answer: "The video glove looks like the biggie. It lets the ballplayer make a play and watch it on TV. Reggie Jackson has ordered a dozen."

In the always hot issue of honesty in sports, R.G., of Olean, New York wondered "Is trout fishing fixed?" My father says it is. He says trout wouldn't bite unless they were being paid off 'cause they're too smart. I am eight years old so please answer my question. Answer: "Only pro trout fishing is fixed. On the college level the spot is clean is a whistler."

personate "astrzemski." Thus he is capable of signing upwards of 6,000 autographs in an hour, if necessary.

Another sports fan was concerned about the well being of a basketball player: "After losing 98-80 to DePaul, Gene Sullivan, the coach of Loyola of Chicago said that DePaul star Terry Cummings is probably the hungriest player in the country right now. Is that true?" Answer: "Yes, Cummings had not eaten for three days before the Loyola game. DePaul coach Ray Meyer starves him before each game and then only feeds Cummings if he scores more than 30 points. I admit it's unorthodox," says Meyer. "But it seems to work."

The Good Doctor's advice on matters of health is always of such caliber. O.H. of California asked "I've been running marathons for three years with no problems. But in the last two weeks, I've developed excruciating pain in my instep just as I hit the five-mile mark. What should I do to prevent it?" Answer: "Run four miles."

And "Desperate" in Oakland, California wrote in to say that he is an executive with a well known pro football team which cannot find a city to play in. The Good Doctor advised him to use some imagination. "Why be so old-fashioned as to think you need a hometown? Play only away games. Think how your overhead will shrink. Dare to be great. Make the existential leap into the future. Become the Raiders of the Lost Park."

Ann Landers doesn't lose any sleep over this competition. Her puns are a lot better than the Good Doctor's.

Letterbox

To The Editor:

This is an open letter to citizens of Rices Landing.

May 30 was again set aside as the day to honor the servicemen of your community who had fought and had given their lives for their country — for you.

As per tradition, there was a parade. This "parade" consisted of members of Brooks-Crago American Legion post, its auxiliary, Boy Scouts from Troop 168, and representatives from fire companies in Carmichaels, Jefferson, Crucible and Rices Landing.

The Jefferson-Morgan High School band did not show. How did we find out they were not marching? I overheard one member telling another band member that the bus did not come to transport the band. Several band members had found their own transportation and were already at the starting point.

I do have to give credit to the band director who brought two buglers to the ceremonies so taps could be played. The national anthem was sung with enthusiasm by parade participants and spectators.

Where was Cub Scout Pack 1186 of Rices Landing, who recently acknowledged the support of the Legion for use of the post home for the Cub Scout Pinewood Derby?

Where was the Little League team which used the Legion field for its games?

Even the number of spectators was below normal. It was a rainy day, but I'm sure the veterans we were honoring did not say "I'm not going to fight today. It's rainy."

I remember as a child being so proud to be able to participate in the Memorial Day parade — marching with my Sunday School class and carrying a small American flag and a bouquet of flowers. After the parade we placed our flowers on graves in Hewitt's Cemetery.

Where is your pride in your community, your love of your country, your sense of responsibility to the future, and your respect of the past?

One day a year — is it too much to ask?

Memorial Day Services Held

WAYNESBURG — "While Memorial Day is a time for family picnics and baseball games, it is still primarily a time when each of us, in mind and in spirit, stand by the graves of those who have fallen in the continuing battle to keep alive the fires of freedom."

"It is not a day when we honor war, but one on which we pause to reflect on the meaning of liberty and the manner in which each succeeding generation has responded to challenges it has faced, for Democracy must be a force that has the will of its citizenry to safeguard its purposes.

"There would be no greater tragedy than for us to be without the control of our national destiny and for our citizens to have no choice of their way of life. We pay tribute here today to those who have been willing to protect that way of life."

In these words, Judge Glenn Toothman sounded a keynote for Memorial Day services and programs held throughout Greene County Sunday and Monday by various veteran organizations.

He was the featured speaker at a brief service held Sunday morning in Monument Park in Waynesburg by the Waynesburg Veterans of Foreign Wars post.

Similar services, with the echos of gun salutes and taps in some cases accompanied by parades, were held at Jefferson, Rices Landing, Mt. Morris, Garards Fort, Carmichaels and Greensboro, with some of them attracting large audiences.

Fact and Folklore
 John O'Hara

Another Waynesburg Horse Show passed into history Monday as the final sessions of the four-day cavalcade of well-trained animals and their skilled riders went through their fascinating routines with the traditional pomp and ceremony which gives the horse show world its particular identity.

Though its beginning in the early 1930s was more or less casual and informal, it has grown through the years. Although suspended during World War II, it has since revived and is now on a much larger and permanent base.

The horse shows are America's only public sport in which competitors range all the way from grade school age youngsters who can compete against one another on their small ponies to the veterans (ladies as well as men) of the high-spirited jumping classes, the marvelous precision of the gaited divisions and the contented gaits of the walking and pleasure horses.

There are also the fancy "fine harness" classes which has its emphasis on the elegance of the victorian era as the sure-footed steeds whirl their drivers around the ring in a hurried trot, slow walk, etc., as the judges keep a keen eye on every part of the show ring.

The Waynesburg Horse Show is now the only one in the tri-state area which still has the prestige to attract the top competitors from a four state area of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio and parts of New York and Illinois.

It came into existence at the heart of the depression years of the 1930s in a very informal manner at an open air "meeting" in the southeastern corner of the fairgrounds infield.

Its unofficial chairman was the late Dr. W.A. Titus, a dentist by profession and horseman by avocation; the Rhoades brothers, Tom and Pet who were professional teamsters and expert riders in local parades, Sylva Minor, then living in Greene Township and later at Dunns Station and his son and daughter, William and Jane, who also became skilled in the show ring; Harry McVay, George Allison, one of the township's largest land owners and his three sons and many others.

At that time Waynesburg was one of the smallest shows in the district but took off and grew rapidly up to the interruption during the war. Its growth was slow but steady and now it is the only show that has a long record of uninterrupted exhibitions each year and is an accredited member of the American Horse Show Association and West Virginia Horse Show Association and in the only one still increasing in prestige.

Scores of Greene County youngsters have become professional horsemen in various capacities, particularly as riding instructors and professional riders and trainers.

The club has worked closely with the Greene County 4-H horse and pony clubs in giving youngsters interested in horsemanship the proper training for caring for their animals and competing in local and out of town shows.

Greene County's rich legacy of fine horsemanship and its related activities is one which cannot be covered in a brief account such as this one.

For instance, the story of the Long family reaches from their homestead farm along Muddy Creek in Cumberland Township to the high prestige Dixiana Farm owned by Fischer Bodies Corp. at Lexington, Ky. It was managed by the late Ross Long from Greene County.

Another product of the Waynesburg and Greene County horse shows is the former Susan Parkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Parkinson of Waynesburg who has competed in prestige horse shows in that area for several years and is affiliated with one of the big hunt clubs in New Jersey.

There are scores of others who have played important roles in horse show activities locally for many years who will be reviewed in a later article to explain that even though the automobile is naturally here to stay that pleasure horses of all types and the people who train them and work endlessly in presenting the annual horse show in Waynesburg that in many ways have contributed substantially in the work for greater enrichment of life in all parts of Greene County.

Which, on second thought, indicates the horse show horses in particular are also here to stay in the southwestern corner of the keystone state regardless of how many new coal mines or super-highways are built.

AROUND TOWN
 By THE STAFF

Now that another Waynesburg Horse Show is over the next date ahead for horse lovers of Greene County will be the harness races and the thoroughbred events at the Greene County Fairground in the second week of August. Preparations are already well advanced for that event.

Despite two or three days of heavy rain the Waynesburg Horse Show attracted its usual good crowd of local enthusiasts and many people from Washington and Fayette counties where horse shows are no longer held.

Mrs. Harold Tracy of Greene Street, who was associated with her husband, the late Harold Tracy in the former Tracy Grocery Store in Waynesburg, was honored by several friends on her 90th birthday anniversary Wednesday of this week.

Older residents of Mather, Greene County's oldest mining town, are reported upset over a recent decision of the supervisors to raze the old grade school building which was erected when the town was first built in the early 1920s by the Picklands Mather Corporation of Cleveland when the mine was first opened. Several of those objecting had a strong sentimental attachment to the structure because of having learned the traditional three "Rs" of reading, writing and arithmetic there. It was also used as a school for adults preparing to take tests for citizenship papers after arriving here from Europe.

Several farm owners in the Sycamore section of Morris Township have recently given leases for drilling for gas and oil on their farms to a Pittsburgh based affiliate of one of the natural gas companies based in Pittsburgh. The area was one of Greene County's most productive sections in the early oil and gas drilling booms back in the early 1920s. The land owners are hopeful that some new strikes will be made. Most of the contracts are for short term duration. The lease agreements were recorded at the courthouse in Waynesburg earlier this week.

Funeral services were held this week at Waynesburg for James (Jimmy) Johnston of Nineveh, a long time resident of the Nineveh section of Morris Township. He was a long time employee of West Penn Power Company after he was graduated from the former Nineveh High School where he played on the school's first football team. The team won the county championship in the 1920s with a squad of less than 20 players. They played their games in pasture field at the edge of town after chasing the stock animals to another section.

It was nice seeing Sam Miller back at the horse show in Waynesburg again this year. A native of Kentucky in the heart of the Blue Grass Country, he came north prior to World War II and found Washington and Greene counties so much like his home state that he has remained in the area ever since. Although he no longer rides in competitive events he still has a busy training stable at Arden Downs in Washington County.

Realignmen Shake-Ups In Sectional Makeups

Waynesburg-WHS Rivalry Diminished

By JOE TUSCANO
O-R Sports Staff

With one sweeping motion, the PIAA Board of Control has radically reshuffled wrestling alignments, bolstering Class AAA while dealing a deathblow to the competitiveness of Double-A.

Because of new guidelines recently set by the PIAA, which puts Triple-A enrollment qualification at 318 males, 10 wrestling teams previously in Double-A classification have been relegated to Triple-A competition.

Locally, Waynesburg, McGuffey, and Charleroi all moved up in classification while Ringgold, already a Triple-A school, switched sections. The move establishes a seventh section in Triple-A while Double-A drops from four to three.

Under the new format, Section 7 will have Waynesburg, McGuffey and Ringgold joining defending PIAA team champion Chartiers-Houston, Canon-McMillan, Trinity, Peters Township and Upper St. Clair.

"I don't like it one bit," said Ringgold head coach Jack Pavella. "We're going to be lucky to get out of there alive. This puts our program three years behind."

Charleroi, which was over the Double-A enrollment limit by one student, was put in Section 3 with Belle Vernon, Brownsville, Connelville, Laurel Highlands, Mt. Pleasant and Southmoreland and Uniontown.

"The figure we sent in (to the PIAA) was probably not completely accurate but we'll be in Triple-A this year," said Charleroi head coach Lee Hall. "Next year, with our graduating class so high, we're going to drop down. We've struggled for years and years to get where we were in Double-A and now we're here (in Triple-A)."

"I'm just glad we're not with Trinity, Canon-McMillan and Chartiers-Houston. I wouldn't want to be in Ringgold's shoes."

JOE AYERSMAN

Yet the action should aid Washington, which has an enrollment of 249 boys, since three of last year's teams in the Double-A team tournament (Waynesburg, Kittanning and Charleroi) are now in Triple-A.

"I sure hate to lose the rivalry we have with Waynesburg," said Wash High coach Bill Solominski. "I really thought Double-A would have four sections. We're just going to have to try to pick up some exhibition matches."

With arch-rival Waynesburg out of the way, the Little Presidents should have a relatively easy route to a third straight Double-A team title.

"I want to keep Mt. Lebanon, McGuffey, Waynesburg and our other rivals on the schedule," Solominski said. "I especially want to make sure we get Waynesburg on the schedule."

The Red Raiders have finished second to Wash High in the team tournament the past two seasons and the two schools have built up a fierce rivalry.

"I'm disappointed, of course, and I don't know how they (the PIAA) came to this decision," said Joe Ayersman, Waynesburg's head coach. "We've wrestled the teams in this section (7) before but it will be different now."

"I still want to wrestle Washington but it will be difficult with scheduling. I enjoy wrestling good teams because you're only as good as your competition. If you're cut out to win, you'll win."

Yet a team such as McGuffey, which finished 6-3 in Section 9-AA last season and 11-10 overall, are outnumbered nearly 2-1 by some schools in the section.

"You have to do something in the future, in a situation where there are only two classes, because there is a spread in enrollment from 300-1,500," said McGuffey athletic director Dick Kohl. "We're not ready to compete on that level. We're Triple-A in everything except basketball and cross country."

Chartiers-Houston, which won the PIAA team title as well as taking the WPIAL team tournament two consecutive years, is the only Double-A team in Triple-A competition.

"I knew Waynesburg was moving up to our section," said C-H coach Tim Mousietis. "I was surprised Ringgold and McGuffey are there, though. The section was tough as it was and this makes it a little tougher. We were under the guideline but you have to have a limit."

And only time will tell if the new alignment has pushed the teams, as well as their coaches, that far.

County Retains Dual Classification Section

By TOM ROSE
O-R Sports Editor

GREEN TREE — Some are happy, some are upset.

But everyone is relieved to finally have an end to the rumors and conjecture.

The WPIAL released its winter sports schedules Thursday, a bit later than usual thanks to a PIAA Board of Control decision that altered the classification procedure in Pennsylvania.

But in the Washington-Greene County district, the decision to classify schools by the numbers of boys (or girls) in the case of female sports) in the school as opposed to the total enrollment, had little effect on the basketball alignments.

For most schools, only the titles have changed.

The lone dual classification section in the WPIAL remains in Washington County, with two notable defections and one addition. Section 10-AA-A will include Burgettstown, Chartiers-Houston, Fort Cherry, McGuffey and Washington in the Double A division and Avella, Bentworth and Immaculate Conception in Class A.

Last year's section winner South Park has been moved to Section 11-AA while Waynesburg has been transferred to Section 12-AA.

"I'm sorry to see South Park go but I'm glad we didn't move," Washington head basketball coach Ron Faust said. "South Park was a big rivalry for us and we enjoyed playing them. This takes one of the bigger games of the season away from us."

While Faust expressed some regret over South Park's transfer, his colleagues in 10-AA-A weren't so sympathetic.

"That's great, good luck to them," Immaculate Conception coach Tom

CHUCK HEBERLING

Drakeley said. "With South Park out of there it helps everybody." Avella head coach Jack Conn said.

"They must have friends from Washington on the WPIAL committee," Beth-Center's Nat Cecchini said with a chuckle.

The local dual classification section also applies for the girls, with the exception of Fort Cherry, which will compete for a Class A playoff berth.

Other district teams weren't affected by the realignment, as four Greene County schools (Carmichaels, Jeff-Morgan, Mapletown and West Greene) will join California, Mon Valley Catholic and others in 16-A.

Ringgold will be a member of Section 4-AAA while Canon-McMillan, Peters Township and Trinity will be located in 9-AAA with familiar opponents and one significant addition in last year's Class AA champ Seton LaSalle.

The remaining district schools (Beth-Center, Charleroi and Waynesburg) will be members of Section 12-AA.

While the relative late release has caused some scheduling problems for high school athletic directors, it has caused migraine headaches for the WPIAL and its executive secretary Chuck Heberling.

"We have no problem with what they're (the PIAA) doing," Heberling said. "The only thing we're questioning is the timing. Ordinarily when the WPIAL does something we try to tell the member schools a year ahead of time. Our representatives there voted against the reclassification for that very reason."

"I believe when you're operating with a league of this size that you can't decide today to do something tomorrow. I've learned in my six years here that by telling people well ahead of time you can remove the criticism and comments that might arise."

The criticism and comments may come from a few private schools, who have been classified higher, and from the three Class A schools in Section 10-AA-A. But even the coaches' complaints were relatively mild.

"Ideally you'd like to compete against all Class A teams but we don't mind the section we're in," Bentworth head coach Vince Quattro said. "The kids would like to try and win it one more time."

"I'm not too disappointed," Drakeley said. "I just hope the press doesn't come down on us if IC and Avella have to fight it out again at the end of year. We didn't ask for this."

The complete WPIAL boys and girls basketball alignments can be found below.

Graysville Streetlight Meeting Set
GRAYSVILLE — Residents of Graysville are being asked to attend a public meeting at which decisions will be made regarding the town's streetlights.

It will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, June 7, at the Graysville fire hall.

"We would like to get input from everyone who is subject to the street lighting tax," Martha Bissett, secretary to the Gray Township board of supervisors, said.

Two issues, the present street lighting assessment and the need for brighter lights, will be discussed.

Bissett said that at the present time residents are paying 27 cents for each 75 feet of property frontage, an amount which is insufficient to meet the cost of providing the lighting.

"A lot of people also feel that the present lights aren't bright enough so we have obtained a quotation from West Penn Power on what it would cost to replace them with mercury vapor lights."

Scholarships Are Awarded

William Lee Faddis and Helen Nanette Lewis have been named recipients of $100 scholarships which Filer-Sadlek Post 954, American Legion, presents each year to an outstanding boy and girl in the graduating class at Jefferson-Morgan High School.

Faddis is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Faddis of Rices Landing R.D.1.

Miss Lewis is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Lewis of Clarksville R.D.1.

Racing To Cop $15,000

MT. MORRIS — Close to 9,000 people made their way to a remote hilltop near Mt. Morris during the Memorial Day weekend to compete in and watch three full days of dirt-trail motorcycle racing.

The occasion was the fourth annual 250/500 Motocross Nationals, staged at the High Point Raceway by Dave Coombs of Morgantown and Jack Holbert of Mt. Morris.

"It was a very good weekend. We had a lot of riders from all parts of the country, a big crowd, and no problems," Holbert said following the concluding session Monday evening.

He added that the rain on Sunday presented no problems for the Professional National Championship MX, an American Motorcycle Association sanctioned race which offered a $15,000 purse.

"Rain makes our job easier," Holbert said. "It lays the dust and keeps the track soft."

The 250cc race was won by a Team Honda rider.

While the major feature was the professional race, a lot of attention was also focused on the 40 events run both Saturday and Monday for amateur riders in all levels of competition, from the expert through intermediate to the novice class. An estimated 500 bikers competed, with cash prizes being offered in the expert classes and trophies in the others.

The course, covering more than a mile around and over the top of the hill, was in good shape with challenging jumps and turns, Holbert said. There were no serious accidents. In addition to local spectators who came for the day, the grounds were crowded with campers who came from as far away as North Carolina to spend the weekend and join in the competition.

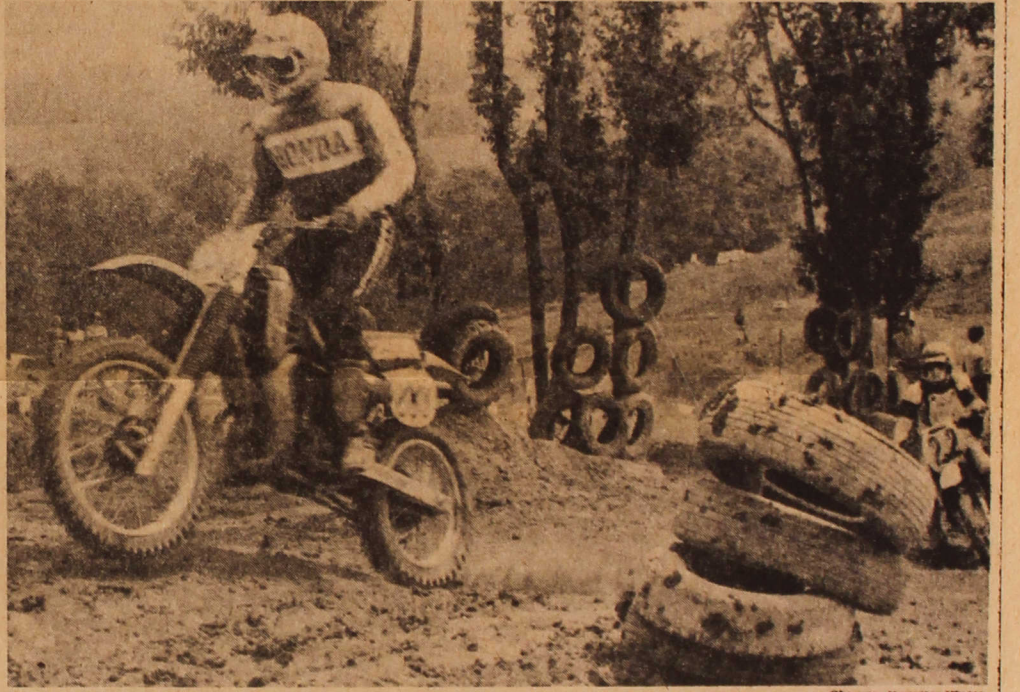

Ross' Team Takes Tourney

WAYNESBURG — The team of Bucky Ross, Merle Williams, John Kniha and Ken Milliken survived a sudden-death playoff among four other teams to win the Captain's Choice Golf Tournament at the Greene County Country Club Sunday.

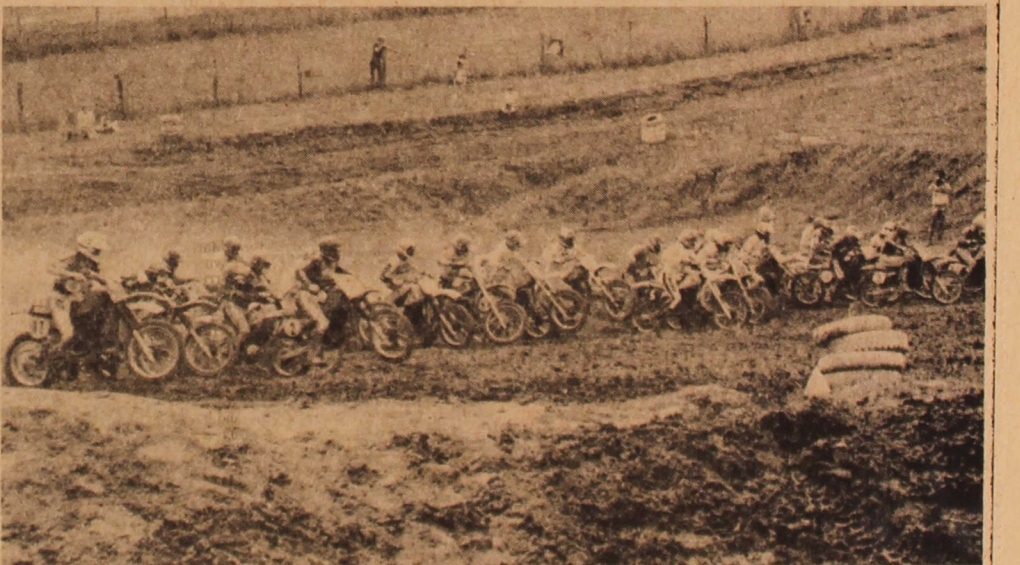

Five of the 18 teams were tied at seven-under at the end of regulation play.

After the first hole in sudden death, three teams were eliminated.

Bucky Ross' team and Jerry Ankey's team, however, both birdied the first hole to remain alive.

Horse Show Hailed As A Huge Success

WAYNESBURG — While the 1982 Greene County Charity Horse Show was still in progress late Monday night, it was already being hailed as a success despite the rain which turned the show ring into a quagmire Sunday.

"The rain on Sunday was a nuisance, but we didn't let it stop us and otherwise the weather was fine," General Chairman Walter Christopher said.

The show, sponsored by the Greene County Horsemen's Association, opened Friday and featured seven sessions running through Monday night. It attracted several hundred horsemen from the eastern United States.

Proceeds from the show are distributed each year among various charitable and service organizations in the Waynesburg area.
